Our Swan Song.

With this issue the present CYNIC board completes its work and retires; hence our little swan song. It has been on the whole a pleasant and satisfactory year. We leave our work with more loyalty to the University and greater expectations for her future than ever before. We know that she will grow, and we believe that her students and alumni will come more fully to appreciate her worth and more deeply to feel what she requires of them.

The retiring board has kept several objects in view throughout their work. The first of these was to reach the alumni. We have cooperated with certain live alumni and have tried very hard to maintain a large and interesting alumni column. At the same time we have tried to bring this work to the attention of the alumni, to get more alumni subscribers, and to help the alumni through the CYNIC to become more thoroughly interested in the college and in each other. The results have not been highly encouraging, but we think that we have made a good beginning and we are confident that the new board will carry on the good work.

During the year we have tried to make the CYNIC a thorough and live newspaper, as newsy as a weekly paper can be. This has been our constant aim. Ultimately we believe that the CYNIC will become a semi-weekly paper with four pages larger than the present sheet. It has been impossible to make much of the literary side of the paper. The chief reason has been our weak financial condition. It has been a year of financial retrenchment, and we have not had the money for literary numbers. The expensive literary sections in the past have not added to our circulation. As the result of economical management and several subscription campaigns the paper is in better financial shape than it has been for over three years. It is not yet out of debt, but another year of capable management should put the paper firmly on its feet.

Our third object has been to conduct a stimulating, thoughtful, and constructive editorial column. We have attempted to keep an unbiased attitude and to present the right as we saw it, freely and frankly. Our policy has been to advance objects which were fairly easily within the power of the student body, rather than to attempt to start a movement for a new Commons Hall, a new chapel, a swimming pool, or a grandstand. It may be that we aimed too low in advancing less weighty causes; but we have pointed out and tried to solve several minor problems, and have militated against undergraduate lethargy, which is no slight problem.

This column has striven for a greater college spirit; for better inter-fraternity relations; for wider participation in all college activities, especially track, debating and all non-athletic activities; for more inter-class sports; for an alumni university day as at Yale; for an active employment bureau for students; for abolition of "rattling"; for a strengthening of present activities rather than a scattering of energies; for interest in civic affairs, and voting; for more entertainment of sub-freshmen; for a development of winter sports; for a utilization of all our facilities for physical development; for a graduate manager of athletics; for a hockey rink at Centennial Field. We think that there has been a little progress in nearly all these matters.

Constructive suggestions have been given for a rushing agreement, for adjustment of conflicts in dates, for reforming class finances, for bulletin board restrictions, for the revival of college vaudeville, and for more familiarity with the songs. We now have a rushing agreement nearly completed; the student council has regulated some of the date conflicts, has set in motion an extensive program for class finance reform, and has improved the condition of the bulletin boards. The vaudeville was revived for the first time since 1909. The singing contest and the weekly sings will work wonders in our college singing.

Thus far all agitation for hockey has borne no fruit. Not even an inter-class schedule has been carried through. Neither has the request for early examination reports produced any appreciable results. Requests for improvement in the condition and management of the tennis courts have produced little effect, but the students have become so used to the present state of the courts that most of them believe that any display of indignation is wasted. We leave these three topics for treatment by future editors together with such aims as a proper attitude to the Y. M. C. A. and all the spiritual side of college, "No-deal agreements" which so many colleges have worked, and the honor system and other idealistic proposals. These can all come only when great impulses seize large numbers of students, but the CYNIC can lead.

Perhaps the students and the CYNIC will feel like tackling larger propositions next year—some that look impossible at first. Harvard undergraduates this year started a movement for a new gymnasium and carried it forward for some weeks without the support of President Lowell, who at first believed it impossible to obtain the money. We can consider four great needs of this University: a new Commons Hall, a new chapel, a swimming pool, and a grandstand. If the students and the CYNIC could decide which was the most needed addition and would work faithfully for it all next year, perhaps one of these could be secured.

We thank all who have cooperated to make this year a successful one for the paper. We owe more to Mr. A. B. Gilbert, '89, of New York City, than to all the other alumni put together. His helpful and timely advice and his practical assistance in several business matters are much appreciated. We leave behind a board well fitted to publish a first-rate paper next year and we wish them all success.

The Singing Contest.

The inter-class singing contest struck the right sort of note at the close of Founder's Day exercises. It was a new and very desirable form of class rivalry, it was an excellent demonstration of college spirit, and it has probably started a movement which will make it impossible for any future class after 1914 to be graduated with many members who are only slightly acquainted with the college songs. It is to be hoped that frequent sings will follow during the spring. We can also reasonably expect that the contest will inspire several original college songs each year.

"The Old Sis Boom."

Within three years we have grown rusty on "The Old Sis Boom" and our execution of the yell at present is painful to the younger graduates who knew it and yelled it and loved it above all other yells. It should be practiced more often.

Permanent Organization.

It is to be hoped that the seniors will form a good permanent organization. Many classes have gone out without permanent officers or permanent treasury; they have lost some college spirit, much class spirit, and all means of having good reunions upon anniversary occasions.

It is also to be hoped that the class will start the custom of making small but regular annual gifts to the college. Yale gets about $60,000 yearly, we believe, from hundreds of small contributions. Harvard gets about $100,000 each year in this way. Our University needs it certainly as much as they, but few classes have thus contributed. The custom must be started some time soon. It would be a great credit to 1914 to start it. It is a small but effective way of paying back an inextinguishable debt to our alma mater.

Student Government.

Someone has said, and we are of the opinion that it was President Garfield of Williams, that the essence of student self-government was that the governing body should be free from faculty influence. No one has ever claimed that the present faculty-student council is the final form of student government here at Vermont. It seems undoubtedly to be the safest and most conservative method of starting a movement for an effective student council. The present council offers a good opportunity for educating up to self-government a student body which is usually apathetic and occasionally radical. It is also supposed to give sympathetic members of the faculty a chance to catch the student view-point, where there was no opportunity before. It is the opinion of many, however, that our short experience with the present form of council has revealed more faculty influence and less student influence than was hoped for. This does not seem to have come at all from any aggressiveness on the part of the faculty members, but because certain of the student members have shown more anxiety to catch and follow the faculty view than to discern and express the student opinion. They have rather assumed the attitude of conservative judges far removed from the influence of popular opinion than that of student representatives.

We would suggest a change which will make the students more interested in the council and the council more attentive to student opinion. It is that each student representative should be elected not once for a year, but should be required to stand for reelection again in January and April, at the opening of each new term. This change is one which would not make the representative entirely subservient to passing popular whim but would make him heed student sentiment more often or stand in danger of removal. This would be a movement toward direct government much more conservative than any of the new popular institutions on the Pacific coast, the success of which even the "New York Post" feels called upon to praise. College life is short. If a student has a voice in his own government only three times during his college course, his capacity in this direction is not likely to advance by leaps and bounds. Imagine a state where a voter could register his opinions only three times during his lifetime! The advance of student government needs enlightenment and discussion in which all students take part. This would come through the more frequent elections.

A second change would also be progressive. The freshmen should have some voice in the council. We see no reason why they should not meet early in January and elect their three representatives. This would give them time to absorb a little of the spirit of the college before they participate in its government; it would also make them interested in the student government at an earlier period in college. Such early training would be helpful.

A third point which should be considered and settled if possible is the status of the young women's council in general college affairs. It is unfortunate if the young women are to be forced into a position of prominence in the governing body such as they never wished or asked for. And again, if the present women's council of seven is to meet and vote with the faculty-student council (which we hope and trust will never happen again), the women will have a disproportionately large representation. The methods of the strong student councils of the Western colleges should be studied before a final policy is decided upon in this regard. At Wisconsin and California and other Western colleges where they have real student government and a greater equality in the numbers of both sexes, we can find a field for profitable study.

We ask the faculty-student council to consider these three suggestions. If there is any doubt as to their wisdom or expediency, we ask that they be referred to the several classes.

CYNIC BOARD ELECTIONS.

News Editors Elected and Six New Men.

At a meeting of the CYNIC board, held Tuesday, Robert N. Pease, '16, of Burlington; Paul L. Ransom, '16, of Woodstock; and E. Fairman Crane, '16, of Hardwick, were elected news editors for the coming year. The following new members were elected to the board: E. L. Chatterton, '17, of Pittsford; C. R. Carlton, '16, of East Poultney; E. F. Walbridge, '17, of Enosburg Falls; P. J. Morey, '17, of Oak Park, Ill.; B. A. Shippey, '17, of Rutland; and R. G. Hawley, '17, of Jericho. Chandler S. Gates, '16, of Burlington, was elected assistant business manager. The new board will take up its duties at once, and great things are expected for the coming year.

R. M. Olzendam, '15, A. N. Willis, '16, and A. G. Levy, '16, have resigned from the board. The resignations of these three men will probably mean that three extra men will be taken on at the close of this college year. Any sophomores or freshmen who have any ambitions in this direction should get busy at once and try out for these openings.

It is also desired that any sophomores who wish to try out for assistant manager of the Cynic report at once and be assigned work. There is an assistant managership open at the present time, and there ought to be several live sophomores trying out for such a position.

Editor-in-chief Dean spoke to the board, going over some of the points which need to be emphasized during the coming year, and urging every member to put his best efforts to keep the CYNIC up to a high grade.

INSPECTION NEXT WEEK.

The Two Days' Program

The annual inspection of the University battalion will be held May 13th and 14th. Captain S. G. Bayard Schindel, General Staff, U. S. A., will be the inspecting officer.

The following program of events will be carried out:

Battalion review, followed by inspection, the battalion commanded by Major St. John.

Battalion parade with ceremony of escort of color.

Guard mounting and posting and relieving sentries by Company A.

Butt's Manual by entire battalion. Bayonet exercises by entire battalion.

Battalion drill, the battalion commanded first by Major St. John and in turn by the captains of the companies.

Company drill in close and extended order.

Inspection of Hospital detachment. Inspection of Signal Corps detachment.

Problem in attack and defense, Companies D, C, and one platoon of Company B will form the attack; Company A and one platoon of Company B will constitute the defense. Captain Grandy will remain with the defense, four men of the Signal Corps detachment will be detached from Company A to report to Major St. John. The Hospital Corps detachment will be divided between the attack and defense.

J. P. TAYLOR ON "LONG TRAIL."

Secretary of Greater Vermont Association Tells of Mountain Climbing Possibilities.

On the evening of May 6, Mr. Taylor, Secretary of the Greater Vermont Association, spoke upon "The Long Trail" in the last of the series of Y. M. C. A.

lectures. In a forceful and interesting way he showed the circumstances of the foundation of the Green Mountain Club, outlined the work done and pointed out what is yet to be done. He spoke also of the connection which the University has and should have in larger degree with the interests of the Mountain Club.

The Green Mountain Club was formed in 1910. The club comprises ten sections distributed over the state. The object of the club, Mr. Taylor said in brief, is to make Vermont a "paradise for pedestrians." Already the club in coöperation with the state forest service has completed a trail along the backbone of the mountain range from Johnson, in the north, to Killington Peak, in the south. The problem now confronting the club is to complete the trail south to Massachusetts and north to Canada and to interlace the state from east to west with a network of subordinate trails leading to points of special interest and natural beauty.

Mr. Taylor gave a few suggestions for the newly formed Out-o'-Doors Club here at the university and spoke with considerable emphasis of the value of featuring the out of door activities as a successful and unique method of college advertising.

The benefits of mountain climbing to the individual were pointed out. "Pedestrianism," said the speaker, "is a part of a man's cultural education." Athletic teams are fine, but athletic solitaire is the game one has to play out of college and now is the time to acquire a taste for it.

The University should consider the whole region about the college as an extension of her campus. Let it be called the "grand campus." Let it play its part in teaching the student to see and admire beautiful things and inspire him, perhaps, to write well of what he sees.

PROF. AIKEN REVIEWS KIPLING.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday evening, Professor Aiken spoke on "The Blind Alley in Kipling." The talk was a very interesting review of Kipling's works, with the idea of bringing out the keynote which inspired his writings. He idealizes work, concentrated energy which is always on fire, never lagging. He makes a hero out of the man who does things, whether he be saint or sinner. He seems to care little in what direction energy is expended, so long as the effort really is put forth. Thus he is working in a "blind alley" and fails to catch a glimpse of the larger field. Professor Aiken brought out his points by reading several of Kipling's poems, with a great deal of feeling and spirit. This part of the talk was also much appreciated by those present.

A Correction.

The article in last week's CYNIC, stating that the members of the debating team are to join the national society of Delta Sigma Rho, should have read the Tau Kappa Alpha.

Sigma Nu's Shut Out Alpha Kappa Kappa.

In a somewhat one-sided, but none the less interesting game last week Thursday, the Sigma Nu's beat Alpha Kappa Kappa 13-0. Five innings and a half were played, the A. K. K's not desiring to take their bats in the last of the sixth. The features of the game were the hitting of "Bill" Knight and Jones, '17, and the pitching of Ellis for Sigma Nu. The line-up:

Sigma Nu. A. K. K.

Owls Defeat Phi Chi Nine.

On Tuesday, May 5, Lambda Iota proved superior to Phi Chi in a five inning game, which was full of exciting plays. The final score was 6-3, Smith and Shaw being the battery for the winning team. Some fancy box work was displayed on both sides, while the fielding was spectacular, especially one play at first. The hitting of Hicks and Rich was sensational. Nenno played a good game at short and Hicks did consistent work at first.

The line up:
Lambda Iota. Phi Chi.

Three-base hits: Rich. Two-base hits: Batchelder, Smith, Hicks, Murnane. Stolen bases: Hicks, Murnane. Base on balls: off Smith 2; off Howe 3. Hit by pitcher: Bishop. Struck out: by Smith 2; by Howe 6. Hits: off Smith 4 (with total of 7); off Howe 6 (with total of 9). Umpire: Fitzpatrick.

In the inter-fraternity series, the game between Delta Psi and Delta Sigma, to play off a tie, and the Sigma Phi and Kappa Sigma game, both of which were played May 7, will be reported in next week's CYNIC. The semi-finals will be played off on May 11 and May 12, and the finals on May 14.

Delts Win.

Delta Psi won from Delta Sigma Thursday, 8-7, when the teams played off the former tie.

Commons Club Seniors

Wallop Sophomores.

The Senior baseball team of the Commons Club, consisting of a miscellaneous collection of Seniors and Freshmen, with the latter in the majority, trimmed the Sophomore aggregation of the same club, last Wednesday night, by a score of 13-7. The battery for the winning team was Adams and De Cicco. Laity twirled for the Sophomores, while Armstrong did exceptionally good work on the receiving end, capturing several high fouls. The "smashing" of Houston, who secured two three-base hits and a home run out of three times at bat, was the feature of the game. Buchanan also furnished some excellent base running on his strike out. The Seniors will now play the Commons Club Juniors.

The line up:

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

Professor Samuel F. Emerson Addresses Debating Society.

Professor Samuel F. Emerson analyzed the Mexican situation at a meeting of the Debating Association on Monday evening, and ventured a solution.

He considered Mexican history. Civilization is a long process. Little has been gained in Mexico in three hundred years. The country is very rich in soil and minerals. Mexico has a great land problem. A few hold the land, but their relations with the peons have been slight, have not been as beneficial as the English land-holders upon their tenants, and have not been as sympathetic as southerners toward negro slaves. The peons have been brutalized by the landed classes and de-humanized by work in mines. Still, if the land is disturbed, the primitive laziness of the peons will be in evidence, where the discipline of hours of a well-ordered day is needed. Property is the realizing influence of life. If there is no opportunity for acquirement of money, aspirations gradually die out and life becomes simply a matter of existing from hand to mouth. This is the condition of 13 million peons in Mexico. They have no idea of the meaning of the term, "liberty." Who are the Mexican people? It is hard to say whether they are represented by these illiterate slaves or their gluttonous masters.

Professor Emerson suggested that the problem be solved as in Egypt. A capable executive can be found. A strong man representing the A-B-C powers and the United States could be ever at his elbow, like Lord Cromer in Egypt. Agents of the central government with strong authority could be the nerves of control and could put down local disaffection like the uniformed royal agents in Italy. This should provide a stable government.

1916 WINS SINGING CUP.

First Annual Inter-Class Competition Goes to Sophomores.

The Class of 1916 will be the first to have its numerals engraved upon the Lyman Singing Cup as the result of the first inter-class singing contest on Founder's day. The contest was creditable in every way in spite of the fact that there were not quite two weeks of preparation.

The men of the classes gathered about the Lafayette statue on the college green immediately after the Founder's day exercises. Each class sang two songs in turn, the seniors first. The seniors sang "Hail to Vermont" and "Grand Old Vermont." The juniors sang "Our Colors" and "Old Vermont is E'er Victorious." The sophomores showed up well in "The Old Mill Song" and a new class song by A. D. Seaver, '16. The freshmen rendered "Old Vermont is E'er Victorious" and "Our Colors." At the close of the contest all joined in "Champlain" and cheers.

The judges, President Benton, Professor S. E. Bassett and Mr. Guy N.

Hull decided that the sophomores sang the best, and that the juniors were the closest competitors.

The cup is being engraved and will be placed in the trophy room this week. It was kindly donated by Hon. Elias Lyman, '70 and will be the object of annual contest each Founder's day. The idea of the cup originated in the mind of J. W. Baker, '15, who asked Mr. Lyman to give it. The Boulder Society will be in charge of the management of the contest each year. It is likely that the songs will have to be wholly or partly original in future years, and the worth of the songs as well as the manner in which they are sung will be considered in the award.

Second Out of Doors Club Event.

The Out-o'-Doors Club hike last week was on Saturday afternoon, to Brigham Hill. Eleven men left the Science Hall at 1.45, going by way of Winoski and Fort Ethan Allen to what a congenial farmer called the "skin pinnacle," arriving there at 4.20. The day was ideal and the view was well worth the hike. Miles and miles of the Green Mountains, the Adirondacks and Lake Champlain were spread out before the eye. After giving the "Old Vermont," the party set out cross-country for the fort. By means of a car to Winoski and a vigorous exertion, Commons Hall was reached at seven bells, in time for beans. The distance covered was approximately fifteen miles.

Those who are planning to take either the Camel's Hump or Mansfield trips should avail themselves of these short weekly jaunts, for in so doing they will get toughened for the big events. Incidentally, those of you who have not paid your dues should see the treasurer before he sees you.

MILITARY NOTES.

Indoor Rifle Match and Out Door Range Practice Start.

Captain Oliver Edwards of the 5th Infantry will inspect the site of the student camp sometime this week. Captain Edwards will be in command of the encampment this summer.

On May 6th, 7th and 8th an indoor individual rifle match will be held. Inter-collegiate rules and regulation targets will be used. Total score out of a possible six hundred will be counted. This match is open to anyone in the University.

At some time before inspection an outdoor individual and inter-company shoot will be run off. The National Rifle Association rules will govern the matches. The company teams will be composed of six men, all of whose scores will count. The place of the shoot has not yet been chosen.

Unofficial announcement has been made by Captain Reeves that shooting on the outdoor range will begin next Thursday.

Rifle, ammunition, and instruction will be furnished to any student who wishes to go over to the range on afternoons when rifle shooting is held.

COMMONS HALL To the Men of "Old Vermont"

Commons Hall is now under University management and it is the desire of the authorities to make the Hall serve the student body in the largest way possible. In order to do this, it is necessary to have every table full, for then only can the best food and service be given the patrons.

Those who can are asked to board at this institutional table and those who find that impossible are requested, for the sake of the University, to do what they can for the betterment of

TRACK TEAM OVER- WHELMS MIDDLEBURY

MUCH IMPROVEMENT SHOWN

Vermont Christens Opponent's Track, Taking 10 Firsts, 6 Seconds and 7 Thirds.

After a talk by Captain Hayden, the tone of which was not to be readily misunderstood, the Vermont track team walked out of the Middlebury locker rooms last Thursday afternoon fully determined to return with the bacon if such a thing were in their power. And the way in which they went at Middlebury, excelling themselves in almost every event, was superior to anything seen at Vermont in the track line for some time. Taking 10 out of a possible fourteen firsts, 6 seconds, and 7 thirds, they administered a seventy-five to fifty defeat and very satisfactorily christened the new Middlebury oval. The weather was ideal.

Things started with a rush when Bresnahan of Middlebury jumped the pistol in the hundred and covered the whole course with Bolster of Vermont hot upon his heels. Both had failed to hear the recall. The next time down, Patterson finished first, Bolster second, and Bresnahan third.

In the two-twenty, Bolster got a whirlwind start, took the pole, and came around the turn well in the lead. Patterson finished second and Woodbury third, all points going to Vermont.

One of the surprises of the day was when Hackett took the second place in the high hurdles away from Bresnahan of Middlebury, winning chiefly on form. Lee of Middlebury got first, also first in the broad jump when he defeated Cintron by one inch, second in the pole vault, and third in the running high. Although a first class pole vaulter, he seemed to lose his nerve and fluked out, Burrage of Vermont capturing first. Wilcox showed up the same in the high jump as against Colgate, jumping hard with but little form, and taking second. With proper coaching he should by this time have developed into a powerful high jumper. The Middlebury team did its best work in the jumps.

Squire of Vermont starred in the weights, getting away with three firsts and coming within three inches of Middlebury's hammer record. He also took third in the pole vault. Schoff won second place in the shot, and Day of Middlebury took two seconds and a third.

To speak of the mile and two mile would be superfluous. Hayden wasn't

TENNIS TEAM AN EASY WINNER.

M. A. C. Succumbs in Singles and Doubles.

The tennis team won their first match of the season last Friday afternoon, defeating the train-weary Massachusetts Aggies on the Ethan Allen courts by a score of 5 to 1.

Dow and McFarland won from Archibald and Draper, 6-4, 10-8; Salisbury and Roberts lost to Hall and Whitney, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4; in singles, Dow won from Archibald, 6-3, 6-2; McFarland won from Draper, 6-1, 6-2; Salisbury won from Hall, 6-0, 6-2; Roberts won from Whitney, 8-6, 9-7.

The members of the visiting team were entertained at the various fraternities during their stay here.

VERMONT TO-DAY.

Tufts At Burlington—New Hampshire
State at Durham—Union at Schenectady.

The baseball team meets Tufts to-day on the home grounds, the only one of three events to take place here. Indications show that the latter has her usual strong team, and witnesses of the excitement which prevailed at last year's game know what that will mean. For several years the rivalry between these two teams has been increasing. Comparative scores follow, Vermont's in each case being stated first: '01 (two games) 6-22, 3-13; '02 (four games) 0-6, 2-7, 7-2, 2-12; '03 (three games) 7-21, 7-0, 3-6; '05 (two games) 7-6 0-5; '06 (two games) 5-3, 5-2; '07 (two games) 11-1, 6-7; '08 (one game) 4-1; '09 (two games) 8-6, 3-5; '10 (two games) 6-5, 5-6; '11 (two games) 1-1, 9-5; '12 (one game) 0-4; '13 (two games) 13-1, 2-2.

Track Team.

The track team runs New Hampshire State College at Durham, N. H., and comprises practically the same list that took the Middlebury trip. For the following "advance" we are indebted to the "New Hampshire":

Coach Powers states that he is very confident that New Hampshire will have things pretty much her way in the coming meet with Vermont University. He says that the men are all in fine condition and are all surprising themselves in their various events. In the high jump, he has three men who are doing five-four and better, and one man who is doing five feet eight and one-half inches every day. Two men have been making the mile right around 4:45 or better, and the two-milers and the half-milers have been doing as good, if not better, accordingly.

The men in the pole vault are going over the bar at ten feet and more and have over-exerted themselves but little; and twenty-one feet is not

JUNIOR WEEK PLANS RUSH TO COMPLETION

FLAG RAISING 4:15 WED.

Banquet Monday Night at Hotel Vermont—Peerade and Boatride Plans.

Junior week begins at 4 p. m. Wednesday, May 20, and extends to midnight of Saturday, May 23. All juniors and seniors are excused from classes for that period. The general program is as follows: Wednesday afternoon, flag raising; Wednesday evening, fraternity dances; Thursday afternoon, St. Lawrence University baseball game; Thursday evening, junior prom; Friday noon, peerade; Friday evening, play, "Just Out of College," at the Strong; Saturday afternoon, Massachusetts Aggies baseball game; Saturday evening, boatride.

The preparations for all the events are being rapidly pushed. Everything indicates that this junior prom will be the most brilliant in years. Much planning has gone into the decorations. They will be in the Grecian style, and there will be several novel features, including a Fountain of Youth, a Maiden Lane, and a Castle Walk. Weather permitting, the course banquet during the intermission will be served outside under the elms, Lucinda Smith catering.

Barton's 13-piece orchestra, including several special soloists, will give a half hour's concert preceding the dancing, which will start promptly at 8:45. The number of tickets is limited to two hundred, and the sale has been very rapid. The prom committee wishes to ask those expecting to attend not to complete their dance orders too early, as a number of alumni are expected, who will be unable to fill their dance orders until the evening itself. The chaperons will be President Benton, Governor Fletcher, ex-Mayor Roberts, Captain Reeves, Dr. Beecher, Dr. Eastman and Dr. Burns and their wives.

Plans for the peerade are being as vigorously pushed. It will form at eleven o'clock Friday in front of the Old Mill on University Place, and start shortly before noon along the route printed in last week's CYNIC. It will be headed by five mounted buglers, followed by President Dean of the junior class and two members of the junior week committee as marshals; President Benton and the deans in a car; the baseball team; the cast of "Just Out of College"; and then the fraternity floats, with floats put on by the Commons Club, Agricultural Club, and the Aero Club. Interspersed with these will be the individual peeraders, rivals for the small cup now on exhibition at Mansur's. This is donated by the Wig and Buskin Society, as are

CRIMSON WINS FROM VERMONT BY MIDDLEBURY SCORE.

Harvard administered Vermont's fourth successive defeat Thursday by a 3-2 score. A pinch hit by Frye in the seventh brought in the run by which Harvard defeated the University. It was a pitcher's battle throughout, Harvard having the advantage in batting. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Vermont,	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	—2—3—1

Batteries: Mahan and Waterman, Osborn; Malcolm and Mayforth.

GAME GOES TO MIDDLEBURY IN NINTH

Reckless Base Running and 9th Inning Squall—Two Hits, a Pass, and Two Errors Rob Vermont of Victory.

For the third time in the history of baseball relations between Middlebury and Vermont—since 1889—Middlebury won from Vermont last Saturday by the score of 3-2, in a ninth inning rally.

Except for the ninth inning Denning pitched gilt edged ball. The Vermont infield worked like clock work while Gallagher's hitting was a feature of the game, hitting two two-baggers and a single.

For the first eight innings Vermont outclassed Middlebury in every phase of the game, hitting Vail freely while Middlebury got one hit and only two men reached bases, both of them being left on second base. Only 26 men faced Denning up to the ninth and at all times the Middlebury batters were at the mercy of the big freshman from Boston.

Vermont, although hitting Vail at will, was able to score but two runs owing to poor base running, three men being caught at third. Vail allowed Vermont eight hits for a total of 11 bases while Denning held the Middlebury boys to three hits.

In the first inning Vermont started off with a hit by Maiden into right field and on a passed ball by Weafer Maiden got to second. Berry sacrificed sending Maiden to third. Mayforth took a base on balls. When Mayforth stole second, Weafer attempted to catch Maiden at third but as the peg was bad, Maiden scored and Mayforth was caught at home plate. Fitzpatrick fled out to left field, making three out.

In the fifth inning Vermont should have scored. Gallagher poled out a two bagger but was thrown out at third by Linnehan's grounder to the short stop. Denning drew a pass, forcing Linnehan to second and on an error by Bresnahan, Maiden reached first advancing Linnehan and Denning to third and

DEBATING CLUB MEETING.

President of Intercollegiate Prohibition League Addresses Members.

On Monday evening, May 11, after the presentation of current events by Mudgett, '17, Mr. Colvin, president of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Society, gave a strong practical talk on the liquor question. He showed the causes of the formation of the Intercollegiate Prohibition League, and briefly sketched the history of the movement. He showed how live college men of to-day are interesting themselves in the question, how courses in the subject are already admitted to the curricula of forty colleges, how the largest intercollegiate oratorical contest is under the auspices of this league, and how the work might be developed here by deputation speakers, by classes, or in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Colvin also spoke in chapel and conducted private interviews in the Y. M. C. A. offices.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

At the annual open meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association, May 12, in Howard Gymnasium, the following officers were elected: president, Bernardine Kimball; vice-president, Almira Watts; treasurer, Jennie Maxfield; recording secretary, Lessie Cobb; financial secretary, Helen Nichols.

It was decided to hold the annual field day in the fall instead of in the spring as heretofore.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Stone one tennis court has been put into shape for immediate use, and it is expected that the other will be ready for use in the fall.

Charles Butler of Proctor has been elected captain of the freshman baseball team.

HENRY S. LEIPER DOES

EFFICIENT WORK IN UNIVERSITY.

On Tuesday evening, May 12, Henry S. Leiper of the Student Volunteer Movement, addressed a joint meeting of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. He outlined the rise and progress of the movement, showed its status at the present time, and told in a strong, sane way why college men are going out to other countries as physicians, agriculturists, ministers and teachers. Four Vermont men are now planning to go to foreign fields. As another result of his work here several more men are to take in the Northfield conference trip at the close of college, and it looks as though Vermont's delegation this year was to be the largest "within the memory of man."

DELTA MU BANQUET.

The Delta Mu Fraternity held their annual dinner Tuesday evening, May 12, at the New Sherwood. There were 56 present, among whom were the following alumni: Drs. McSweeney, Sears, Sabin, Brown, Marvin, Hunter, Huntington, Forbes, Buttles and Allen.

Dr. McSweeney was toastmaster and there were numerous toasts; Berry, the president, responding for the undergraduates.

COMMONS CLUB.

The Commons Club held a short meeting Friday evening at which there was a rather poor attendance. The baseball situation was discussed, and plans for the "peerade" stunt, which is to be put on Junior Week.

IMPROVEMENTS IN YE CRABBE.

The baseball number of Ye Crabbe appeared last week. Many improvements have been made in the quality and arrangement of material. It has an attractive cover in two colors, is printed on a better quality of paper, and has been enlarged to 24 pages.

The management is still receiving complaints from subscribers that their copies fail to arrive. To avoid this it is requested that the manager, A. N. Willis, '15, be promptly notified of any change of a subscriber's address. It will also assist the management if subscribers who can conveniently do so will notify them to send their copies home or to a fraternity house or dormitory.

President Benton spent a few days of the past week in Michigan on business for the university.

1916 Class Meeting.

At a meeting of the sophomore class Wednesday morning, May 13, nominations for the Ariel board were made. These will be voted on next week. Class finances were discussed and it was voted to post the names of those who have not paid their taxes. It was also voted that the president should appoint a class banquet committee.

COMMONS' CLUB GAMES.

In the Commons Club series, the Seniors have forfeited two games, and the Juniors won from the Sophomores last Saturday, 17-6. This brings the schedule down to date.

1917 Class Pipes.

The Freshman Class Pipe Committee consisting of R. M. Anderson, A. A. Marr and R. C. Sanders has obtained samples which are now on exhibition at the college store. It is desired that every man in the class sign up for the one he prefers. The style which is most popular will be adopted by the class.

MEN WANTED.

Expenses Partially Paid.

The Northfield Intercollegiate Conference is not a Sunday school picnic, and the men who go down from Vermont this year are expecting to have a snappy time. More athletes are wanted to sign up for the trip so that Vermont can make a good showing in the intercollegiate events. To win the annual field event would mean considerable advertisement among the prep school fellows present. The Y. M. C. A. will pay part of a man's expenses, and in addition, waiterships can be obtained.

The site of the conference is on the Northfield Seminary grounds, Northfield, Mass., in the Connecticut river valley. Northfield is a popular Massachusetts summer resort. Baseball, swimming, boating, tennis, tramping, etc., are to be had in abundance. The association with the men from other colleges is alone well worth the trip. Large delegations will be present from Yale, Harvard, McGill, Princeton, and smaller delegations from other eastern colleges reaching as far south as Johns Hopkins and Annapolis and well out toward the middle west. Vermont wants ten or a dozen men present, enough so we can enter some of the competitions. Remember it's not a revival meeting, but from first to last a clean good time among college men who are doing things in the colleges from which they come. About 15 men are already planning to attend. The time is from June 19 to June 28.

TRACK TEAM OVERWHELMS MIDDLEBURY.

even winded. It must be handed to Lamere, however, that he ran a good race in both events, finishing second. Shippy of Vermont took third both in the mile and the half mile. In the latter, Wilbur easily cleaned up first.

One of the prettiest events was the four-forty. For about two-thirds of the way Cintron of Vermont was running strong and leading the field. Then he began to tire, dropping back, and the crowd bunched. Swinging around the last turn, they came down the home stretch together. A few yards from the finish, Patterson shot to the fore and broke the tape a winner. Patterson has often run in hard luck, but was in good condition Thursday, and did what the college has been expecting of him for the last two years. Patterson, Burrage and Wilbur won their V.

Vermont did her poorest in the low hurdles, where Burrage was the only man to place, securing third. More candidates should be out for both hurdles.

The score follows:

100 yd. dash—Patterson, 1st; Bolster, 2nd; Bresnahan, 3rd; time 10:2.
1 mile—Hayden, 1st; Lamere, 2nd; Shippy, 3rd; time, 5:1.
220 yd. dash—Bolster, 1st; Patterson, 2nd; Woodbury, 3rd; time 25:3.
120 yd. hurdles—Lee, 1st; Hackett, 2nd; 3rd, Bresnahan (disqualified); time 17:3.
440 yd. dash—Patterson, 1st; Hollister, 2nd; Ferguson, 3rd; time 35:1.
High jump—Kron, 1st; Wilcox, 2nd; Lee, 3rd; height, 5:4.

second respectively. Thus the bases were full with only one out. Linnehan was caught asleep at third and was thrown out at home while Denning reached third with Maiden on second. Berry walked again, filling the bases with only two out. But Mayforth, the next man up, popped a fly out to the second baseman, making three men out.

Vermont scored again in the third inning. Gallagher started off again with his second two-bagger and came home on a sacrifice hit by Linnehan. The next two men up fanned out, finishing the inning.

In the eighth inning Vermont should have scored again. With one out Mayforth hit to left field. Fitzpatrick duplicated Mayforth, but into left field, advancing him to third base, but here again Vermont showed her weakness when Mayforth was caught napping on third and was thrown out at home plate. Fraser was out on a grounder at the pitcher.

The ninth inning was Vermont's Waterloo. Up till then Middlebury had only two men who reached first base and both of these were left on second base, but the ninth started off well for the home team. Aylward batting for Loder, popped a Texas leaguer back of second base. Triggs took a base on balls, forcing Aylward to second. Lamere, the next man, bunted and gained first on Denning's error. None out and the bases full. Bresnahan, the next man up, made a handle hit back of first base which brought in Aylward and Triggs. A rather bad peg of Berry's which Linnehan ought to have caught brought in the third run which gave a victory to Middlebury.

The score:

DARTMOUTH ADMINISTERS VERMONT'S SECOND DEFEAT

Mayforth's Three-Bagger in Eighth Saves Team From Shut-Out—Wanamaker Pulls Feature Play.

In an exhibition of baseball, interesting chiefly because of the long rivalry between the two teams, Vermont lost to Dartmouth Thursday on Alumni Oval, Hanover, by a score of 5-2. Dartmouth scored all her runs before the eighth, and it was not until that inning that a Vermont man crossed home plate when she gained both her runs, Mayforth's three-bagger saving the Vermonters from a shut-out. Dartmouth scored in the second and fifth, but it was in the seventh when three men scored, that she finally clinched the game. Both Malcolm and Willard pitched good ball, but the Hanoverians had the better of the argument, the Vermonters being unable to hit in a pinch, and asleep in the field.

It looked, however, as though something might possibly happen in the sixth, when, with two men out, Mayforth hit one good for first, reaching third on Fitzpatrick's single. But, the latter was caught trying to steal second and Vermont again failed to score. Vermont scored twice in the eighth. With one man out, Berry walked; Mayforth, the next at bat pounded out a long fly to left field which was good for three bases, bringing Berry home. Mayforth came home on a passed ball.

Dartmouth's first run came in the second when Wanamaker singled to right, advanced on Sullivan's sacrifice and came home when Cook lined the ball over second. Again, in the fifth, the home team scored, when Sullivan drove a single to right field, stole second and, after Cook had fanned, added another tally to Dartmouth's score by Kimball's single.

The seventh was a lucky inning for the New Hampshire team. Cook, who reached first on Maiden's fumble, went to second when Kimball knocked a slow one to Linnehan, beating out the ball to first. Willard filled the bases by a nice bunt down the third base line. Roland flew out on a long drive to center, scoring Cook. Mendall flew out to Billy Maiden, and it was up to Captain Loudon to rescue the men on bases which he did, hitting a long two-bagger into center field, scoring Willard and Kimball. Low fanned.

The catch by Wanamaker, the Dartmouth backstop, in the sixth was a feature of the game. A high foul was knocked in the direction of the bleachers, which the Dartmouth catcher got only after a long run, turning a complete somersault in his career and catching the ball while stretched on the ground. Loudon, Kimball and Cook also played well for Dartmouth, and Mayforth and Lyons for Vermont, the latter getting three hits out of four times at the bat.

'VARSITY BATTING AVERAGES.

Despite Washington Game 'Varsity Outbats Opponents.

The team batting averages for the first twelve games, or up to the Dartmouth game, show that the team has outbatted its opponents. This is no small feat, especially when we consider the Washington game in which Washington batted for nearly .500, while Vermont did not get a hit.

The New Staff.

It is with good determination but not a few misgivings that the new board takes possession of the CYNIC office—a determination to make the paper better, more representative of, and more effective in our college life; misgivings because we are only too well aware of the efficiency of the old staff and especially of Chief Howe. Perhaps it is not inappropriate for us to here testify that for the past two years we have witnessed a steady development in the CYNIC until, at the present, there are very few exchanges which come to this office that surpass, if equal, it. The fundamental policy of the old board we hope to maintain—the policy of progress, and shall we say, reform. We even agree that “seventh-inning” cheering is disastrous to our reputation as a sportsmanlike college.

But the CYNIC has also another end in view, a policy new and hitherto quite untried at Vermont—the policy of “the god of things as they are.” We do not intend to crab—another publication has that function to perform—but we do believe, and firmly, that a college paper, like any other paper, should ordinarily give the facts as they stand. Poor attendances should be reported as poor attendances, poor playing should be reported as poor playing, conditions deserving of criticism should be criticised, and those deserving of praise should be praised. We are not here to smooth things over. If our views cross with those of any individual, or group of individuals, we stand ready to print your complaints—please do not make them unreadably scurrilous—in fact, we heartily solicit communications and contributions at all times, for the paper belongs to the interests of Vermont. There will be a few changes in the organization of the board that we trust will strengthen it, make it more efficient, and provide more interesting material for our readers—both alumni and undergraduates. Letters, etc., from alumni will be more than welcomed. And with this we bid you a pleasant, “Good morning.”

Gate Receipts.

What we are about to say may be shocking, but it won't hurt your morals any to read it. The athletic association is financially embarrassed, decidedly so. Last week Thursday at the Vermont-Middlebury track meet at Middlebury the gate receipts amounted to sixty dollars. Does this suggest any comparisons—or contrasts? Ours would have been good at ten—were even less than that at the Colgate meet. A large proportion of the receipts at Middlebury came from the girls. Did any one ever hear of more than a dozen or two Vermont girls attending an inter-collegiate contest? Why? Is it because they lack interest or loyalty? We should say that it is because the fifty cent price is too much to expect them to pay. We have a publicity committee that is doing good work down town, but nevertheless the attendance still remains small. Meanwhile, part of our own student body has been almost entirely overlooked. At some of the big games soon to come off—such as the M. A. C. game Junior Week—why not offer the girls half rate prices, and give them a fair chance to show how much interest and loyalty and enthusiasm they've really got for the college?

A Communication.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Why doesn't the band learn a few Vermont college songs to play at the games? They would certainly be more appropriate and perhaps they would help along that singing spirit the college is trying to stir up.

(Signed) '15.

The Band.

It seems to us that the short communication printed in this issue of the CYNIC concerning the band strikes a note quite in harmony with the general opinion of the student body. Two years ago when Vermont was putting out a winning team the band was an important factor at all the big games. Now, when the military department has supposedly increased this band's efficiency several per cent., we hear remarks such as this: “It sounds like a clarinet solo.” An occasional boom, boom and a half hearted moaning away at pieces patiently harkened to for the past three years is not what the fellows want, especially when they know that the proper goods can be delivered. Last year the Middlebury contingent shovelled noise all over us. Such a state of affairs doesn't inspire the fellows, it looks bad before visiting teams, and impresses the crowd in inverse ratio to what it should. Some real spirit and enthusiasm, the cocked hat and big baton, would make a strong bid for popularity at some of the games soon to be pulled off.

The Front Campus.

We feel like congratulating everyone concerned, which means all of us, that there has been so little ball playing on the front campus this spring. The shortest - distance - between - two-points pathways mar the appearance of the green quite sufficiently. However, we do not think that the ball-tossing privilege should be handed over to a bunch of neighboring youngsters, and, if such continues to be the case, we would mildly suggest that the authorities take the matter in hand. If the hive has got to swarm let it be on the baseball field where it can be a decided nuisance without doing much harm.

OUT O' DOORS CLUB TAKES FIRST LONG HIKE.

Nebraska Notch the Destination.

The first long hike of the Out o' Doors' Club was taken on Saturday, May 9th. The party of eight boarded the 7:25 train from Winooski, arriving in Underhill at 8:15. The distance from Underhill through the Center and to the Nebraska Notch trail was covered in a short time. When the notch was reached the going was good, but because of uphill work the speed was slackened. The trail through the entire notch to Lake Mansfield was in excellent condition save for a few swampy places. As the party reached the water shed on the long trail, just before the descent to the lake, a waterfall down a rock cliff from the summit of Mt. Admiral Clark attracted much attention. At this time of year the brooks are very high and this fall, some 500 feet in height, was a reminder of the falls of the great National Park. The lake was made at 11:15. Before dinner one of the party took a swim in the lake, a very short swim, for the ice had not been out many days. At noon the party left for Bolton over the Long Trail. Climbing higher and higher it noticed that the snow was becoming deeper and deeper. Long before the summit was reached the snow was from four to six feet deep and at every other step or so the members of the party would find themselves in up to their waists with all the accruing B. V. D. sensations. Many of the blazes were under the snow and for this reason the trail was lost at several points. After two hours had been spent in this Arctic region the downward trail looked pretty welcome, and just as the descent began into little grey-roofed Bolton, the view of Camel's Hump rising abruptly from the village was enough to pay for all the trouble and discomfort. The party ate their fill at the Combination store at Bolton and took the train for home, arriving in Burlington at 8:15. The distance covered was about thirty miles.

POST GRADUATE WORK.

The post-graduate course for physicians, which is conducted annually at the medical college, opened Friday, May 8. Usually this course is given in a two weeks' session but this year it will be held during May, the latter part of each week, and during one full week in July. The following is the program for May:

Friday, May 8.

10:30 a. m.—Clinic, Dr. Beecher.

8:00 p. m.—Paper on "Cause of Cancer," Dr. King.

Saturday, May 9.

10:30 a. m.—Surgical clinic, Dr. Wheeler.

Friday, May 15.

2:00 p. m.—Pediatric clinic, Dr. Pisek.

4:00 p. m.—Ophthalmological clinic, Dr. Twitchell.

8:00 p. m.—Symposium—Borderline cases, Drs. Tinkham, Allen, Shea and Beecher.

Medical College, Saturday, May 16.

10:30 a. m.—Gynecological clinic, Dr. McSweeney.

Friday, May 22.

2:00 p. m.—Pediatric clinic, Dr. Johnson.

4:00 p. m.—G. U. clinic, Dr. Townsend.

8:00 p. m.—Lantern slide illustrations, Orthopedics, Dr. Albee.

Medical College, Saturday, May 23.

10:30 a. m.—Orthopedic clinic, Dr. Albee.

Friday, May 29.

8:00 p. m.—Address, Dr. Sears.

Medical College, Saturday, May 30.

10:30 a. m.—Surgical clinic, Dr. Tinkham.

All clinics will be held in the Mary Fletcher hospital.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Elizabeth Dodge of the National Board was the guest of the local Y. W. C. A. on Friday and Saturday, May 15 and 16. On Friday afternoon Miss Dodge spoke to the young ladies of the Y. W. C. A., and in the evening an informal reception was given in her honor at Grassmount.

Bi-Weekly Tea.

The bi-weekly teas given by the young ladies of Grassmount and Howard hall in the Grassmount sun parlor have been very well attended. On Monday, May 11, the Misses Watts, '15, and Miss Jackson, '15, were the hostesses. Miss Sparrow, '14, Miss Chapin, '17, and Miss Baker, '17, presided on Thursday, May 14.

AGGIE CLUB MEETING.

The Aggie Club held an entertaining and well attended meeting last Thursday evening, May 7, at Morrill Hall. The principal feature was a practical and extremely interesting talk by Professor Thomson on "The History of Electric Lighting," showing the progress from the beginning to the present time. The "Vermont Chronicle" was read, after which there was adjournment. Refreshments were enjoyed.

DEATH OF DR. WILLIAM

GEORGE CHURCH, '78.

Dr. William George Church, who graduated from the University of Vermont College of Medicine in the class of 1878, died at Los Angeles, Cal., March 23rd, 1914. His death was the result of an injury which he received in a passenger elevator about a month before he died. The funeral, which was in charge of the Masons, was held at the Pierce Brothers' undertaking parlors with burial in Rosedale Cemetery. The chapel was filled with friends from Vermont who had known Dr. Church in the East. The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful. Among them was a large spray of white carnations from the Vermont Association at Los Angeles.

Dr. Church was born in Jericho, Vt., October 1st, 1854. He attended the public schools of his native town and also the Essex Classical Institute. After graduation he entered the Medical College of the University of Vermont, and graduated in the class of 1878. He was a member of the Baptist Church in West Bolton, also a member of Burlington Lodge, No. 100, A. F. and A. M.; Tucker Chapter, No. 15; Vermont Consistory S. P. R. S., 32nd degree; Cairo Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. and Temple Chapter, No. 75, O. E. S. of Burlington. The deceased married Fannie M. Hackett of Westford, April 2nd, 1875, who survives him.

VERMONT'S FIRST DEPUTATION.

Attendance of Over 50 Listen to Hymns and College Songs.

The most promising event that has occurred within the Y. M. C. A. for a long time took place last Sunday evening when a deputation of eighteen college men hit the trail for South Burlington and conducted a service at the Eldridge district school house. The Sunday previous, four men had gone out and advertised.

A contingent of singers including Gallagher, Mayforth, Hayden and Stetson went along. College songs and favorite hymns were sung both inside and out-of-doors. The room was lighted by two lamps, oil and globes for which had been toted along by the delegation. Including the college men, there was an attendance of between fifty and fifty-five. Mr. E. P. Howe of Burlington was the speaker.

The community is in great need of just this kind of work, and cooperation was promised. From now until the end of the year men will meet at the Y. M. C. A. office at 6.30 to go out. This work is one of the most important and interesting that the Y. M. C. A. is taking up.

JUNIOR WEEK DANCES GRANTED.

At the meeting of the faculty-student council on the afternoon of May 9th, it was decided to allow the one-step and hesitation waltz at all dances subsequent to that date. Permission for dances during Junior Week was given to Sigma Phi, Lambda Iota, Sigma Nu, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma and the Cotillion Club. May 15 is the date assigned to Delta Delta Delta, and June 2 to Theta Nu Epsilon.

the large cup given for the most elaborate float and the small cup for the most original float. The cups will be awarded at the play in the evening. Individuals should respond loyally in making this a big advertising event for Vermont.

Following the custom set last year by "The College Widow," the last year's junior play, this year's play, "Just Out of College," will be presented at Enosburg Falls, Tuesday evening, May 19. It will be given under the auspices of the Alumni Association of the "medicine town." The members of the cast who visited Enosburg Falls with "The College Widow" last year are assured of as cordial a welcome this year. This preliminary trial will assure a finished performance here.

The annual banquet will occur Monday night, 8:30 o'clock, at the Hotel Vermont. The committee in charge have arranged for the following toasts under the direction of I. D. Everett, master of ceremonies; the president's address, junior week, the junior prom, impromptu, the peerade, college life, 1915, and good night.

The boatribe will start at 8:30 Saturday evening. The Ticonderoga will be used, charges fifty cents per ticket. More detailed information will be published next week. The committee has had considerable difficulty and extra expense in securing the boat so early in the season, as it is before the regular excursion run, so it is hoped the enterprise will be well supported.

An innovation this year will be the flag raising on the front campus, which is to take place at 4:15 Wednesday, officially ushering in the week. Captain Reeves has provided a new flag for the occasion. As it rises to the masthead the band will play The Star Spangled Banner, after which the junior flag will be raised to the accompaniment of a college song. Junior week will then be announced.

VERMONT TO-DAY.

up to the broad jump that the fellows are doing. Coach Powers is working the men every day, giving all the most careful attention, and is ready to bank everything on them as they are all in best of condition. The discus has been thrown one hundred and fifteen feet without any trouble, and the coach thinks that it will sail farther than that; he says the same for the hammer which has been thrown one hundred and ten feet or better.

The college records in the high and low hurdles have been broken by a good margin in the try outs, and the new records are being steadily improved on.

This is New Hampshire's first dual meet of the season. Comparisons may be made by the Vermont-Middlebury records in this issue.

Tennis Team.

The tennis team which so soundly defeated M. A. C. last week play Union in singles and doubles on the Schenectady courts. This is the second tournament on the schedule.

EXTENSION OF ALUMNI ACTIVITIES.

Committee Reports Its Recommendations for More Union and Effectiveness.

A committee on extension of alumni activities, appointed at the annual meeting of the New England Alumni Association of the University of Vermont, held in Boston last February, has prepared a report. In order to avoid a conflict of interests and waste of time and effort on account of the numerous projects which different alumni associations have in hand, the committee believes that a single recommendation should be presented, to embody the joint views of all the alumni associations. Accordingly the committeemen suggest that representatives of the several associations meet at the Billings Library at ten o'clock on Monday morning of commencement week for the preparation of a single joint resolution to be presented at the annual meeting of the Associate Alumni on the following day. The committee also suggests a resolution to be presented at that time, which in essentials is as follows:

Be it resolved, that the alumni organization is hereby amplified by the addition of an alumni organization committee and an alumni commencement committee, as hereafter provided.

Alumni organization committee: The field secretary of the university shall be the chairman and secretary of this committee, which shall also consist of two representatives of the Associate Alumni, annually elected, and of one representative from each alumni association.

It shall be the duty of this committee to consider plans for the establishment of new alumni associations, especially within the State of Vermont; for inter-communication between alumni associations; also, if practicable, for a graduate day early in each college year, to be observed simultaneously at Burlington and by the various alumni associations, or as may seem best; and to formulate plans for aiding new graduates in business and social ways. The result of the deliberations of this committee shall be communicated from time to time by the chairman to the various alumni associations and prior to or at their annual meetings, and a report shall be made at the annual meeting of the Associate Alumni.

Alumni commencement committee: This committee shall consist of a chairman, who shall be a resident of Burlington, a secretary, who shall be a resident of Burlington, both to be elected annually by the Associate Alumni, one representative of the faculty, whom the president of the university is requested to designate annually for announcement at the meeting of the Associate Alumni, and one representative of each alumni association.

This committee shall have full power, subject to consultation with and to confirmation by the university authorities, to arrange the program for commencement alumni day, and to this end the committee shall confer with such other alumni or class committees as have individual events in charge.

It shall be the duty of the secretary of this committee to maintain a record of the names and addresses of the permanent officers of all classes who graduate from the academic and medical departments.

It shall be the duty of this committee, also, through its secretary, to communicate with the permanent officers of classes whose 3rd, 5th, 10th, 15th, etc., anniversaries are approaching, with reference to plans entertained by these classes for commencement reunions, to encourage such reunions, and in its consideration of the program for alumni day, to set apart such time as may seem best for observance of the class anniversaries.

It shall be the duty of the secretary of this committee, after the commencement program has been approved, to make public announcement of the arrangements for alumni day, through the newspapers, the CYNIC, etc., and direct to the various alumni associations.

C. W. Doten is the chairman of the New England Alumni Association committee, which makes the recommendations, and G. P. Auld, whose address is the Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., is the secretary.

ALUMNI NOTES.

The Boston Alumni Association held its annual spring dinner, Thursday evening, May 14, at Hotel Westminster, entertaining the U. V. M. Baseball on its Harvard trip.

1912. Ray L. Schoppe is now in southeastern Alaska with the coast and geodetic survey, Department of Commerce and Labor.

1892. The following is from an article in the Springfield Union on the M. A. C. military battalion in charge of Captain George C. Martin:

Capt. George C. Martin succeeded Maj. John Anderson as professor of military science in 1905, and has already served in this position three times as long as the usual term. His work has been remarkably successful. The equipment of the department has been greatly improved and the rifle team has repeatedly won the inter-collegiate indoor championship and also the outdoor contest. He was born in 1869 in Vermont, and was graduated with the degree of C. E. from the University of Vermont in 1892. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Fraternity. From 1895 to 1897 he was connected with The Engineering News. He was appointed second lieutenant in the 21st Inf., U. S. A., July 9, 1898, promoted first lieutenant, 2d Inf., March 2, 1899, and captain, 18th Inf., Aug. 26, 1903. He served during the Spanish War in the Philippines. He was retired in 1909 on account of rheumatism resulting from exposure in the service. He desired to be relieved from his college work last year, but was persuaded to continue until his successor, Lieut. Henry Fleet, 19th Inf., stationed in Texas, could be relieved from duty at the front. He was expected to assume his duties at the college in January, but now since his regiment has been sent to Mexico, the time of his detail to Amherst is altogether uncertain.

PEERADES OF YORE.

"In the old times when militia trainings were in fashion, the authorities of Burlington decided that, whereas the students of the University of Vermont claimed and were allowed the right of suffrage, they were to be considered citizens, and consequently subject to military duty. The students having refused to appear on parade were threatened with prosecution; and at last they determined to make their appearance. This they did on a certain 'training day,' to the full satisfaction of the authorities, who did not expect such a parade, and had no desire to see it repeated. But the students, being unwilling to expose themselves to 'the rigor of law,' paraded annually; and when at last the statute was repealed, and militia musters abolished, they continued the practice for the sake of old association.

Thus it passed into a custom, and the first Wednesday of June came to be eagerly anticipated by the citizens of Burlington and the youth of the surrounding country. The faculty always smiled propitiously and in the afternoon the performance commenced. The army, or more euphoniously, 'the University Invincibles,' took up their line of march from the college campus, and proceeded through all the principal streets to the great square, where, in the presence of a great audience, a speech was delivered by the Commander-in-Chief, a sermon read by the chaplain, the roll called, and the annual health report read by the surgeon. These productions were noted for patriotism and fervid eloquence rather than high military merit.

At first, the music to which they marched consisted solely of the good old-fashioned fife and drum; but as time went on the Invincibles added to these a brass band, composed of as many obsolete instruments as could be procured, in the hands of inexperienced performers. None who had ever handled a musical instrument before were allowed to become members of the band, lest the music should be too sweet and regular to comport with the general order of the parade. The uniform (or rather the multifarious), varied from year to year, owing to the regulation that each soldier should consult his own taste—provided that no two should have the same taste in their equipments. The artillery consisted of divers joints of rusty stove-pipe, in each of which was inserted a toy cannon of about one-eighth of an inch calibre, mounted on an old dray, and drawn by as many horse-apologies as could be conveniently attached to it. When these guns were discharged, the effect—as might be expected—was terrific. The banners built of cotton sheeting and mounted on a rake handle, although they did not always exhibit great artistic genius, often displayed vast originality of design.

The surgeon's equipment was an ox-cart containing jars of drugs, boxes of homeopathic pills (about the size of a child's head), immense saws and knives, skeletons of animals, etc.; over which presided the surgeon and his assistant in appropriate dresses, with tin spectacles. The surgeon was generally the chief feature of the parade, and his reports were astonishing additions to the surgical lore of the country. He was the wit of the college. The cavalcade was preceded by the 'pioneers,' who cleared the way for the advancing troops; which was generally effected by a panic among the boys, occasioned by the savage aspect of the pioneers—their faces being hideously painted, and their dress consisting of gleanings from every costume, Christian, Pagan, and Turkish, known among men. As the body passed through the different streets, the martial men received sundry testimonials of regard and approval in the shape of bouquets and wreaths from the fair 'Peruvians,' who of course, bestowed them on those who, in their opinion, had best succeeded in the object of the day—uncouth appearance. After the ceremonies the students quietly congregated in some room in college to count these favors and to ascertain who was to be considered the hero of the day, as having rendered himself preeminently ridiculous. This honor generally fell to the lot of the surgeon. As the sun sank behind the Adirondacks over the lake, the parade ended.

From the "Free Press" of June 8th, 1855, one finds an account of June training in that year, in which it says that "the annual parade of the principal military body in Vermont is a matter of importance. The first Wednesday in June, the day assigned to it, is becoming the great day of the year in Burlington. Already it rivals, if it does not exceed, Commencement day in glory and honor. The people crowd in from the adjoining towns, the steamboats bring numbers from across the lake and the inhabitants of the town turn out in full force. The yearly recurrence of such scenes shows the fondness of the people for a hearty laugh, and the general acceptableness of the entertainment provided."

Such was the June training of 50 years ago which has long been discontinued. The "peerades" of the last half dozen years, however, have furnished an equally good outlet for student fun and ingenuity.

OBITUARY.

1912. John Byron Raymore.

John B. Raymore died at his home in Cambridge Jct., April 30.

Mr. Raymore was born in Cambridge, Vt., to Willis and Louise (Wood) Raymore, Nov. 16th, 1888. He fitted at People's Academy and graduated there in 1908. The following fall he entered the University of Vermont, taking the civil engineering course and graduated in 1912. He was a member of the Delta Psi Fraternity. The following July he went to Marble, Colorado, and worked in the Engineering Dept. of the Yule Marble Co. for six months. Then he secured a position with the Utah Power and Light Co. and remained with them until a month before his death, when he was obliged to give up work on account of failing health. His funeral was held Sat., May 2nd, at his home in Cambridge Jct., Vt.

TUFTS GET TO FRESHMEN PITCHERS 5TH SUCCESSIVE DEFEAT

Outfield Maintains Strong Defense—Spectacular Catch by Wescott in the Eighth.

Vermont lost her fifth straight game Saturday when she was defeated by Tufts, on Centennial field, by a score of 8-3. Although late in getting on the field, because of delayed trains, and tired from their trip, the Medford men outplayed the Vermonters in almost every department of the game. Denning started the game for Vermont, was hit freely, and in the fourth had to be replaced by Spear, who finished the game after considerable difficulty. Krepps pitched his usual article of ball for the visitors and receiving good backing from his team allowed Vermont but six scattered hits. Wescott's spectacular catch of Linnehan's long drive in the eighth, Volk's double play unassisted in the second, and Proctor's work at short were features of Tufts' game. For Vermont Maiden played an improved game, accepting eight chances and making no errors. Linnehan was weak. Lyons' catch of Lee's long drive, and his throw home from right field, preventing Stafford from scoring, was a feature. Mayforth was slower than usual but his pegging was superb, shutting off every attempt at second. Praise is again due outfielders Gallagher and Fitzpatrick.

Each team scored in the first. Stafford, the first Tufts man up, walked and went to second and third respectively on wild pitches. Lee knocked a long one to Lyons who fielded it neatly, and threw home from right field preventing Stafford from scoring. Wescott fouled out to Mayforth, and Stafford came home on Volk's single. Volk then tried to steal second, but failed. Vermont likewise scored in that inning. Maiden went to first on Lee's error, but was caught out between bases by Krepps' quick throw. Berry was good for a two-bagger, stole third and scored on Mayforth's single. Fitzpatrick flied out to Armstrong, and Fraser to Wescott.

In the third, the Tufts pitcher made a two-base hit, went to third on Stafford's single, and came home on a passed ball. Lee fanned and Wescott made first on Linnehan's error, advancing Stafford. Stafford scored when Volk flew out to Fitzpatrick. Wescott was caught trying to steal second.

In the fourth, Tufts scored three more runs. Angel singled, went to second on a sacrifice, and to third when

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE" IN ENOSBURG FALLS.

Slivers and Prof. Make a Hit. The college play, "Just Out of College," was presented at Enosburg Falls by the Wig and Buskin Society on Tuesday evening, May 19th. Although the house was not packed, the audience was of fair size and very appreciative. B. W. McFarland, '14, in the part of Swinger, around whom the play centers, showed a touch of professionalism in his acting and succeeded in bringing forth much applause. W. P. Leutze, '16, did excellent work as Septimus Pickering, gaining the approval of the audience from the very outset and keeping up their interest until the end. F. H. Isham, '16, was undoubtedly the star of the evening. In the role of Professor Bliss, a believer in the gospel of self repose, he played a most difficult part to perfection. His frequent exhortations "not to worry" brought the house down. H. H. Powers, '17, as Bradford, a bookkeeper, and W. M. Hawkins, '17, the office boy, both did splendid work. C. B. Stetson, '15, was well up to the standard in his part, as "Slivers," a college chum of Swinger's and received a laugh whenever he appeared.

In the role of Caroline Pickering, daughter of Septimus Pickering, G. L. Bean, '16, did some remarkable work. But very few people realize the extreme difficulty of playing a lady's part, especially when it is of a serious vein and not light comedy. W. S. Weeks, '16, was a "perfect scream" in the person of Aunt Julia Swinger of Duluth. He had scarcely spoken a word on his appearance when the audience's approval was manifested by a loud burst of applause. H. A. Durfee, '17, as Mrs. Pickering; F. E. Griffin, '16, as Miss Chizzle; and E. L. Chatterton, '17, as N. W. Jones, a female business woman, all did good work. On the whole, the play was a success. After the performance, dancing was enjoyed until 1 o'clock. Finances broke about even.

VERMONT SURPRISES NEW HAMPSHIRE TAKES MEET 67 TO 59

100-yds. Decision Fires Team to Action—Outcome in Suspense Until the Last—High Jump Feited While Men Race for Train.

In the most closely contested track meet of the season, Vermont defeated New Hampshire State at Durham last Saturday 67 to 59. The New Hampshire coach had predicted a 2 to 1 victory for his team. The track was unquestionably the fastest the team has been on this year.

The hundred yard dash was the first event. A poor send off by the New Hampshire starter shot the Durham men off the mark in the lead of Vermont. Bolster overtook and passed them on the side of the course opposite the judges, breaking the tape a winner. The decision went to Smart of New Hampshire, Sellers of New Hampshire and Riford of New Hampshire. Argument could not remedy the sad blunder and such a spirit of fight went through the entire team as was not equalled even at the Middlebury meet.

Vermont was forced to cede nine points in the high jump in order to catch the train; some of the men dressing in the baggage car. She took nine firsts, five seconds, and four thirds.

Hayden, Squire, Wilber, Burrage, Bolster, Hackett and Patterson showed up well for Vermont. The New Hampshire winners were scattered. Hayden's fine form was shown by the ease with which he won the two mile race from Captain Paulson of the New Hampshire team, after having previously taken the mile. As he came down the home stretch he gave a bit of exhibition work that brought the grand stand to its feet in a body, and afterwards he was as generously congratulated by the president of the institution. Squire was a surprise to the New Hampshire men, and a nine point winner for Vermont, in the weights. Wilber broke the local record for the half mile in two minutes eight and three-fifths seconds, racing his man neck and neck on the stretch. Burrage tied for first in the pole vault, took second in both hurdles, and third in the hammer throw. Hackett did his best work to date on the high sticks and earned his V.

This has been a successful spring for track athletics as the team has won two out of three events and scored six more points than its opponents, 180½ to 174½.

ANNUAL INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET TO-DAY.

The annual interscholastic track meet will be held today at Centennial Field during the game with M. A. C. The entries are Burlington, Brattleboro, Rutland, Montpelier and Cabot High Schools, St. Johnsbury Academy, Vermont Academy, T. C. A., and Bringham Academy. Brattleboro High, the stars of last year, has the largest number entered.

VERMONT'S HEAVY FIRE TOO MUCH FOR ARMY

Old Mill Bell Proclaims First Victory in 7 Games—Vermont Breaks Into Winning Column.

Vermont broke in among the winners Wednesday, May 20, when she did up the Army men at West Point, 8-3. For the first time in seven games the Old Mill Bell rang out a victory. Malcolm, Butts and Neyland were all hit freely, but after the third inning Malcolm steadied down, keeping his hits well scattered. The West Point twirlers, however, were unable to solve the swing of the Green Mountain bats and the scoring went on. Neyland relieved Butts in the seventh.

Vermont still kept her lead in the error list, making three to the Army's two, but retrieved herself with the stick. Two of the errors were Gallagher's, breaking the outfield record. The feature of the game was the hitting of Fitzpatrick of Vermont and Merillet of West Point, both hammering out the horsehide for 1000, including a three-bagger for the former, and a two-bagger for the latter. Lyons also hit for a 1000. For his first game, Merrill played well at first, getting eleven put-outs and no errors. Lyons was badly hurt in the third inning in sliding to third base.

Vermont started off with two runs in the first, West Point followed with two, Vermont came back with another in the second, West Point tied up again, Malcolm tightened and that ended it.

The long and generous cheering of the West Pointers for the Vermont men in the big mess house that night sent the team home with a new idea of what real college spirit might be.

VERMONT A CLOSE CALL FOR HARVARD

Boston Alumni Hold Record Breaking Banquet After the Game—Ver- mont Team the Guests.

Vermont lost to Harvard Thursday at Cambridge in one of the fastest games of the season by a score of 3 to 2. From the first man up it was a pitchers' battle between Malcolm and Mahan, and, though each was a trifle wild at times, the former had a little the better of the argument, Mahan walking seven men to Malcolm's four, and each striking out an equal number of men. The fielding of each team was excellent, three double plays being made, two by Vermont and one by Harvard. Linnehan played a strong game at third, and at bat, and it was by his hit that Vermont's two runs were scored. Waterman and Mayforth each played well behind the bat. Ayres' fielding of Mayforth's bunt in the seventh was the spectacular fielding feature of the game, and the all-around playing of Clark is deserving of mention.

Vermont scored both her runs in the fourth. Mayforth, the first man up, singled to left field, and was forced to second when Mahan walked Fitzpatrick. Fraser flied out to third and Lyons to second. It was up to Linnehan to come across with the goods. A neat little single scored Mayforth and Fitzpatrick.

But for the snappy work of the Vermont infield the Crimson would have scored in the first inning. Mahan and Wingate walked, but Mayforth threw the latter out at second. Clark hit to Maiden who threw to Fraser, and Fraser to Berry, which made three out.

Harvard scored two of her runs in the second. Nash singled and went to second on Ayres' sacrifice. Gannett knocked out a two-bagger, scoring Nash. Milholland hit a hard one to Maiden who threw wild to first. Milholland then stole second and Gannett scored.

The score was a tie until the seventh inning. Gannett walked, and went to second on Milholland's sacrifice. Hardwick flied out to Mayforth and Frye, who went in as a pinch hitter, singled, scoring Gannett. Harvard 3, Vermont 2.

Many alumni witnessed the game.

THE BANQUET.

Following the Vermont-Harvard game on Soldiers' field the afternoon of May 14th, the members of the team were guests of the Boston Alumni Association at a dinner given at the Hotel Westminster in Copley Square. This organization includes only the alumni living in Boston and its immediate vicinity, and was attended by forty-nine men, the largest number that have as yet attended a dinner of the local association.

The alumni met first in the rooms of the Vermont Association, courteously tendered by the officers of that organization, and later went to the smaller dining hall for the banquet. The speakers' table flanked the side of the room, and from it three long tables extended down the middle. Not a chair was vacant. Over the speakers' table were suspended a large American flag and a wide-spreading Vermont pennant.

The toastmaster was George H. Randall, '91, the retiring president of the association. Frank Stinson, '80, had charge of the music, a small orchestra of four pieces. Edward H. Lawton, '09, was cheer leader. The guests assembled at seven o'clock, and from the moment when the assemblage was rapped to order until it broke up at nearly eleven o'clock, there were mirth, reminiscences, college songs and also speeches of the practical and serious sort. Those who spoke were George L. Winter, athletic coach; James H. Moore, '14, manager; S. F. Berry, 14, captain; Irving L. Rich, '02, endowment fund secretary; Thomas C. Cheney, '91; George P. Auld, U. S. N., '02; Ralph A. Stewart, '93; Frank Stinson, '80. Among others present were the following: Chester Hartley, William T. Maiden, Jason M. Malcolm, W. F. Gallagher, Harold A. Mayforth, James W. Linnehan, Harold E. Spear, Jerome Fitzpatrick, Herbert C. Merrill, Harry H. Denning, Chick Fraser, Frank E. Lyons, R. D. Stiles, A. D. W. Prescott, Harry W. Smith, L. H. Harrington, R. P. Johnson, A. J. A. Hamilton U. F. Des Rivières, I. B. Safford, John C. Orcutt, T. T. Appleton, F. F. Kendall, Edward W. Powers, W. W. Woods, Joseph Newton, Charles R. Wilder, D. Bradford, D. G. Babbitt, P. E. Holmes, William H. Peet, A. E. Lewis, A. B. Sallan, A. E. Austin, H. C. Beebe, T. C. Hill, James D. Brennan, S. S. Dennis.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, James D. Brennan, '03; vice-president, Dr. Walter J. Dodd, '08; secretary and treasurer, Edward H. Lawton, '09; dinner committee, Frank Stinson, '80, G. H. Randall, '91, S. S. Dennis, Jr., '01, C. Parker Holt, '01, Irving L. Rich, '02, George P. Auld, '02, F. F. Kendall, '09.

The last speech was made by James D. Brennan, the newly elected president, and the diners closed the evening by singing "Auld Lang Syne." The large attendance, the deep underlying loyalty and enthusiasm and the thoughtful character of the impromptu program, not to mention the inspiration of having present the men who had in the afternoon put up so valiant a fight against Harvard, all conspired to make this one of the record dinners held by the alumni.

VERMONT FIRST COLLEGE "HUM."*Speakers Advocate More Real College Spirit and a Get-together Feeling for "Grand Old Vermont."

The first college "hum" of the year was held on the campus in front of the gymnasium on Tuesday evening, May 19th. The event was scheduled for seven o'clock, but was delayed a half hour by the slowness with which the fellows got together.

The university band was placed on a raised platform. In spite of depleted numbers, they played in a snappy way, deserving of praise.

Adrian St. John, president of the senior class, had charge. He spoke briefly of the purpose of the "hum," how the spirit of the men of the university had not been all that it should be, and how, by constructive methods we must revive this spirit. The cheering at the Tufts game, he said, was very poor, and the front campus "hum" should help to make the cheering much better at the junior week games.

Captain Reeves was introduced, speaking in the place of President Benton, who was unable to be present. The captain said that we should distinguish between the right and the wrong sort of criticism, that unfortunately we have a few students here at Vermont of the "knocking" kind, who can find many a flaw in things as they are, but who never take off their coats and go to work to help right things. The kind of criticism we want is honest and thoughtful and the kind of spirit we want is the constructive and willing kind. The captain spoke of the work of the band, saying that as far as its work in the military department was concerned, it had done very well under the handicaps of limited funds and limited experience. Captain Schindel, inspecting officer of military colleges throughout the United States, remarked to Captain Reeves that our band played well, and the captain in turn prophesied that our band would be something to boast of within a few years.

Hon. Elias Lyman was next introduced, and was greeted with a rousing cheer. He spoke about his love for the university, of how the university had grown from the time just after the Civil War to the present day. He commended any means such as the campus "hum" for bringing the students into a closer feeling for "Grand Old Vermont."

Adrian St. John made several announcements, emphasizing the necessity of having every man in the college peerade on Friday. After several songs had been sung the band struck up a lively air, and everyone joined in a long line for the Serpentine dance. Champlain was then sung and the first of the front campus "hums" was disbanded.

News comes from Middlebury College that gifts of $10,000 from Ex-Governor John G. McCullough and $60,000 from Ex-Governor John A. Mead have been received. The $10,000 gift is for the endowment fund for the up-keep of the gymnasium, the $60,000 gift for a new chapel.

BIG GAME HUNTING IN ALASKA.*Stereopticon Lecture by Mr. Charles Sheldon.

Mr. Charles Sheldon of Woodstock and New York City gave a very interesting talk on "Big Game Hunting in Alaska," Friday evening, May 15th, at the Williams Science hall. Stereopticon views, obtained from pictures taken by a kodak, illustrated the talk. Two trips to Alaska have been made by Mr. Sheldon; one in the season of 1905-6 and the other the following summer. The object of both was the study of the life of the mountain sheep. In carrying out this object close observation of other game was made possible. Mr. Sheldon's main cabin was situated among the eastern foothills of Mt. McKinley.

Theodore Roosevelt, friend of Mr. Sheldon's, has said that this man of the woods is better able to care for himself in the great out-of-doors than any other man in the country, and Mr. Sheldon's interested audience judged that the statement might well be true at the close of his profitable lecture.

FOUR HUNDRED DOLLAR N. Y. SCHOLARSHIP ASSURED.

The raising of the New York City Alumni Scholarship fund is practically completed and the selection of the man who is to hold it for the year 1914-15 is in order. The scholarship is worth $400 a year and is therefore well worth the winning. Information in regard to the scholarship may be obtained from the secretary, Mr. Meriton C. Robbins, 239 W. 39th St., New York City. Prospective applicants should obtain application blanks from Mr. Robbins and send them to him before June 1st, 1914, together with a full record of their preparatory school work. The board of trustees of the scholarship will select from the applicants the likely candidates. Entrance examinations will be held in New York on the same days as at the university, June 17th, 18th and 19th. The papers will be sent to Burlington and the beneficiary of the scholarship will be selected from those who can enter without conditions. The chairman of the board of trustees of the scholarship is Professor Charles E. Lamb, Woodmere, Long Island. A copy of the application is on file at the president's office and anyone interested may see it there.

The New York Alumni Association will have headquarters in Burlington during Commencement. The exact place will be given later.

1916 BANQUET COMMITTEE*APPOINTED.

President Berry of the sophomore class has appointed the following committee to have charge of the class banquet: W. R. Conroy, G. W. Foster, C. R. Bloomer, Norman Williams and E. E. Olsson (medical). The committee will meet and elect its own chairman.

Extensive repairs are being made at Commons Hall this week. The entire building is to be painted in the near future.

JUNIOR WEEK OPENS*WITH BANQUET.

mick; College Life, "Spudy" Fiske; Debating, "Al" Bailey; Good-night Toast, "Pat" Sturgis. The banquet was held at the Vermont. The committee in charge was R. B. Smith, chairman, H. C. Fiske, H. A. Mayforth, J. B. Johnson, D. R. Grandy, R. K. Edgerton, J. W. Bunce, and H. H. Leffler. This committee was also in charge of the general work of the week and the boat ride tonight.

On Tuesday night came the college play at Enosburg Falls and the first campus sing, both reported elsewhere in this issue.

THE FLAG RAISING.

The official opening of the week occurred at the flag raising Wednesday, 4:15. About the flag staff on the front campus college and class songs were sung, the new flag presented by Captain Reeves for the occasion was then raised, accompanied by "To the Color" played by Daniels, '15. President Dean gave a short address, saying in part that the class colors had a right to fly at the mast head of the campus only by merit of those things which the class had done for her alma mater, and that future classes would have a right to fly their flags there only by virtue of the deeds that they, too, had done for Vermont.

FRATERNITY DANCES.

In the evening came the majority of the fraternity dances. Sigma Nu held hers earlier at their chapter house on the evening of May 18th. The house was tastefully decorated with the fraternity colors, gold, black and white. Luncheon was served on the spacious lawn behind the house.

Professor and Mrs. Messenger, Mr. and Mrs. Isham and Professor Aiken were the chaperones.

The Alpha Tau Fraternity held a dance Wednesday evening at the Hotel Vermont roof garden. The hall was prettily decorated with pines and cut flowers. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Page and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Johnson.

The Lambda Iota Fraternity also held an informal dance at the chapter house Wednesday evening. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wright and Clayton Wright and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook.

The Sigma Phi Fraternity have been conducting a house party during the week, entertaining the Misses Martha Patridge, Katherine Dow, Anna Ward and Dorothy Gates of this city, Miss Bernadine Kimball of New York, Miss Betty Osgood of Nashua, N. H., Miss Katherine Kidder of Woodstock, Miss Dorothy Chase of New Rochelle, N. Y. The chaperones are Mrs. A. E. Chase of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Mrs. W. B. Gates of this city. A dance was held at the chapter house Wednesday evening. Taplin furnished music.

The boat ride will be tonight, the "good ship" Ticonderoga leaving the King street dock at 8:30. Tickets are fifty cents apiece and may be obtained from the committee in charge or at the boat.

The Bring One Association.

Perhaps the idea of the Bring One Association is not clear to all of the undergraduates. In the endeavor to raise a thousand students for the University of Vermont the Send One Association was formed, also the Bring One Association. The Send One Association is for the alumni, the Bring One, for the students. The college administration has worked its part to the limit. Last fourth of July letters went out from the offices to every graduate of the University who could be located, urging him, or her, to send a student back to Vermont. As a result, two hundred freshmen were enrolled, the largest entering class on record. Petitions are now going out to put this number up to three hundred for the class next fall. The administration has worked all its schemes, has done what it could, now it's up to the "Bring One" men, the undergraduates. Vermont wants three hundred men and women next fall. We can make it four hundred if we get together. To bring one person back to Vermont is a pretty small thing for each to do, it's a pretty big thing when taken in the aggregate. To leave it to the next fellow will never do the business; it might take nerve and it might take effort, but nerve and effort would fill Vermont. Now is the time of year to write the prep. school men, to talk with friends, to send a copy of the CYNIC, a catalogue, an Ariel, a Military Supplement, anything that might by any chance interest a new man or a new woman in the University. May we say again, it's up to the "Bring One" men.

The Trophy Room.

For the past year we have been watching with interest that palace of desolation commonly known as the trophy room, and at present writing are quite unable, with any degree of plausibility, to state what possible service it may be rendering the community. In the first place, its purposes are quite incompatible. If it is to satisfactorily serve its purpose as a smoking room, then we must expect the old time congregation of fellows; and the old time congregation of fellows is scarcely in harmony with glass cases, silk pennants (unfortunately lacking) and the clean, fresh appearance of an attractive trophy room.

As a "community center" it has proved a dismal failure. Men frequent it so often that it has an uninhabited feeling. Even the mail rack no more than half fulfills its mission, and as for the bulletin board it might as well be hung in the shooting gallery. As a trophy room the trophies should rightly be endowed with accident policies, and supplied with an attendant to keep them clean. Moreover, we imagine some of the home coming grads. at Commencement clapping their hands in high glee on seeing how up-to-date all of them are! Someone might accidentally surmise we had been doing something in the athletic world of late!

So far as Vermont is concerned, with her present outlay of buildings, does it not seem that the only proper place for the trophies is back in the gymnasium? We might make bold to suggest that the "managers' room" appears to be idle pretty much of the time. That would leave the present room free to be used more advantageously.

Weekly Sings.

It is with a sigh of relief that we apply our pen to this editorial. With only two or three weeks to examinations we had begun to fear that the college sings were to be delayed for another year; but suddenly they have become a reality—that is to say, we have had a college sing, which is such an improvement on having no college sings that we are encouraged to believe that we are going to have another college sing. One more effort this coming week and we shall be able to exalt the town to "weekly" sings—weekly sings which we trust will prove much more effective than the present "weakly" sings. Although such an enterprise can be continued into the fall, practically the only time to start it is in the spring, and those in charge, will doubtless spare no opportunity to push the movement so well commenced. Gradually it will grow in numbers and in enthusiasm, and Vermont will sing.

It would be scarcely fair to the donor of the Founder's Day Cup for us not to all promote the undertaking to the best of our ability. We do not clamor possibly to make Vermont a mighty singing college, but we think we should know our college songs and be able to sing them well when occasion demands—in the spirit with which they should be sung. And next fall when the freshmen arrive the work can still go on, and the spirit be imparted to them.

A Freshman Committee.

In some colleges a system has been adopted whereby each freshman at the beginning of the year, as soon as he has had an opportunity to settle down, is interviewed by a committee, requested to state what college activity he intends to enter and advised how to go about it, or is urged to enter one if he is disinclined or has no choice. Some such plan might be worked effectively at Vermont. A committee could be appointed, each freshman interviewed, persuaded to enter some activity—athletics, dramatics, debate or literary work—and his subsequent actions supervised to see that he maintains his pledge, or its equivalent. Many able men now take no part in college activities; some of these come to their junior or sophomore year, regretting that they had not begun to get into things. Many of our activities need the recruits, and many of our non-active men need the activities. A man who because of selfishness or laziness takes no part in the progress of his college should expect but little from his college, he injures himself and his institution. Were a freshman to be interviewed by a wide-awake committee of this kind he would at once realize Vermont expected something of every man, his loyalty would be aroused, and he would be started on the right way for his own good and the good of his college.

NOTICE.

Thinking that it may be of interest to our readers to be kept in touch with the progress of the CYNIC through a knowledge of our plans, from time to time a notice such as this may appear. Hereafter, save in the case of emergency, no verbatim newspaper duplicates of baseball games, track meets, etc. will be published. So far as we are able to make them, our news stories will be fresh and original. To avoid complications all CYNIC writers are especially requested to bear this in mind.

A Communication.

The Editor of the CYNIC:

Dear Sir:—

After what seems an unseasonably long delay, two of the college tennis courts have been put into shape. Last year two courts were kept up. The large number of devotees of the game who were lined upon the bank last year waiting for a chance to play seemed to indicate that more courts were needed. There is a third court which could be fixed with little expenditure of labor and money. Why not have three courts this year?

(Signed) A Student.

Note:—The above suggestion that interest in the sport of tennis may wane because of no or little playing on our own courts where many can take part or look on is of no small importance.

Class Meeting—1916.

FRESHMEN OPEN CLASS SERIES WITH VICTORY.

The Freshman baseball team won the first game of the inter-class series on Wednesday, when they defeated the Sophomore aggregation in a six inning game by the score of 11 to 9. '16 fielded all around the Freshmen, but the latter excelled at the stick, getting ten hits to their credit to the Sophomores' six. Each pitcher threw fairly good ball, though Freshman Burleson was a little steadier than Wood. In the sixth, however, Burleson weakened a little and that, combined with the loose playing of the Freshman infield, gave the Sophomores five more runs, not enough, however, to tie the score. For the Sophomores, Holmes, Ransom and Sargent played good ball, while Butler and Lott starred for the Freshmen.

Each class, although the "rooters" were less in number than they should have been, exhibited a good amount of "pep" in their cheers and if only each might get out a larger crowd things would be a great deal more lively in the cheering section of the bleachers.

UNION TOO STRONG FOR RACKET MEN.

The tennis team lost to Union on the Schenectady courts last Saturday by a 4-2 score. It was what is known as "moving up" day at Union and the victory was welcomed. She won in all but one of the singles and broke even on the doubles. In the doubles Manager Roberts and Salisbury showed lack of practice. McFarland took his singles. The weather conditions were ideal. Vermont's next match is May 30th on the home courts with McGill. The Vermont-Union score follows:

Captain Wadworth (U) won from Captain Dow (V), 4-6, 6-1, 6-2; McFarland (V), won from Howell (U), 6-4, 2-6, 6-2; Leclair (U), won from Roberts (V), 7-5, 2-6, 6-3; Jones (U), defeated Salisbury (V), 6-4, 6-4.

In doubles McFarland and Dow won from Wadsworth and Howell, 6-1, 8-6; Roberts and Salisbury lost to Leclair and Jones, 6-3, 6-2.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF SIGMA PHI.

The Sigma Phi National Convention will be held here on June 26 and 27. All the regular sessions of the convention will meet in Billings Library. The university buildings will be at the disposal of the convention.

SENIOR PROGRAMS AND INVITATIONS.

The senior class has settled on the design for their commencement programs. These are to be much more elaborate than any which have been used in the past. The program of events for commencement week is practically complete except for Tuesday night. Nothing definite has as yet been decided upon for that date.

The commencement invitations have come and are ready for distribution. They may be obtained at Billings Library at any time. The price is four cents.

STUDENTS GO COON HUNTING.

On the evening of May 15th a raccoon was captured on the front campus by several students who had just come from hearing Mr. Sheldon's lecture on big game hunting. The "brute" had been treed by the night watchman, who was far too true a sport to disturb his lordship's leisure. Not so the students. Up the tree went one—down the tree came Mr. Coon, broke through the ranks of U. V. M. veterans, and assayed another trunk. Blankets, clothes baskets, ropes and many another implement of capture dead or alive were gathered. More excitement than a couple on the campus! Shaken out of refuge number two, he headed for refuge number three. A blanket nailed him in mid-flight, and a fine specimen of coon has been on exhibition in the basement of Science Hall for the past week.

FRESHMAN SMOKER.

The freshmen held a smoker after the college hum Tuesday night at the Medical building. Plans for the class banquet, the peerade, and the class baseball series were discussed. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to take charge of class peerade activities. Cheers were given and songs sung, making it on the whole the best and most profitable gathering of the year.

The preliminaries for the freshmen and the sophomores in the Kingsley prize speaking contest will be held Monday, May 25, at 4:00 p. m.

TUFTS GETS TO

the next two men were walked and hit by a pitched ball, respectively. A wild pitch allowed Angel and Armstrong to score. Spear then replaced Denning in the box. Proctor scored on Krepps' sacrifice. Stafford singled, but was caught trying to steal second.

Vermont scored in the fifth. Linnehan singled, stole second and reached third on Spear's sacrifice, scoring when Maiden fled out at first. Berry singled, and Mayforth went out at first.

In the seventh Stafford doubled. Lee went to first, hit by a pitched ball. Westcott singled, advancing the other two men, Lee to third and Stafford home. Volk sacrificed, bringing home Lee. Angel struck out, and Bennett went out at first.

With two men gone, Vermont's last score came in the seventh. Maiden hit for two bases. Berry walked, and Mayforth was hit by a pitched ball, thus filling the bases. Fitzpatrick hit to Stafford, who fumbled the ball, scoring Maiden. Fraser flew out at first.

MILITARY NOTES.

Co. C. Passes High Inspection in National Guard—Military Hikes in Prospect.

The third competition for the Richold and Reeves medals which was to have taken place at 1:30 Friday was postponed for one week on account of the junior week peerade which was held at that time.

C Company of the Vermont National Guard, which has now been organized as a student company, had its first formation at the Armory last Friday evening. This was the occasion of the annual National Guard inspection and much credit is due the members of the company for the excellent work which they did on this occasion, considering that it was their first appearance as an organization and considering the poor condition of the equipment. The company is much too small to work to the best advantage at the present and the promoters of the new organization were disappointed to find that so few of the freshmen have taken advantage of this opportunity. However, the prospects for the coming college year are good, for the new organization offers the entering class an opportunity too obvious to be ignored. Captain Mygatt said it was the best drilled company in the state national guard, and would have passed the best inspection but for equipment.

A novel feature has been added to the military department this year. Every member of the cadet battalion is to take part in an "over-night" hike. These hikes take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the parties march out to some suitable place where they camp for the night and return in time the college exercises the following day. Each member is expected to take his own provisions and to do his own cooking. The first of these hikes will take place on Monday when the hospital corps goes to Fort Ethan Allen. Company C, Vermont National Guard will take its hike on Wednesday. It is hoped that a large number of the other members of the battalion will join with Company C at this time. Other hikes will take place whenever proper arrangements can be made.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A deputation of seven conducted the weekly service at South Burlington last Sunday evening. A. L. Pillsbury of the medical department was the principal speaker. H. E. Crane and J. V. Piper also spoke.

A new class of Italians has been formed at the Fletcher Free Library under L. L. Conner, '17.

Professor Thomas led the Tuesday night meeting. His subject was "The 'I Will' of the Soul." These meetings are from 7 until 8 o'clock, and are now all conducted in lecture form.

RIFLE TEAM WINS DISTINCTION.

Under Serious Difficulties Maintains Head of Class B, and Shoots 34 Points Better Than Last Year's.

The University Rifle Team made a splendid record last winter, according to a report just published by the secretary of the National Rifle Association. The team made the highest score of any State institution of equal size and defeated many larger State universities. It made the highest score of any institution of the size of Vermont with one exception. Out of 34 colleges entered, most of them large colleges, Vermont is thirteenth. Among the colleges defeated are Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard, Dartmouth, Columbia and Penn. State.

The University of Vermont now stands at the head of class B. The secretary of the association notes that the Vermont Rifle Team is among those who showed the highest improvement during the year.

The average of the team during the winter rifle shoots was 924 out of a possible 1,000. This is a gain of 34 points since last year's average was 890. One point more and the team would have landed in class A where a score of 925 is required. This excellent record has been made in the second year of the team's existence, and it takes years to build up a top notch team. It has been made with meagre equipment, and no financial support from the athletic treasury. It has been made in an unheated gallery during an unusually cold winter.

CAMP LEADERS.

Several college fellows are wanted as camp leaders at Camp Abnaki this summer. The camp is in charge of the City Y. M. C. A., and Byron N. Clark, State secretary, Y. M. C. A. building has the matter in charge.

1916 ELECTIONS.

ANNUAL INSPECTION AGAIN SUCCESSFUL.

Thrilling Fight on Williston Road in Afternoon.

The annual inspection of the University Battalion and Military Department took place Thursday, May 14, under Captain S. G. Bayard Schindel, General Staff, U. S. A., as inspecting officer. The inspection was very successful. In the morning the following program was executed:

(a) Battalion review, followed by inspection, the battalion commanded by Major St. John.

(b) Battalion parade with ceremony of escort of color.

(c) Guard mounting and posting and relieving sentries by Company A.

(d) Butt's manual by entire battalion.

(e) Bayonet exercises by entire battalion.

(f) Battalion drill, the battalion commanded first by Major St. John and in turn by the captains of the companies.

(g) Company drill in close and extended order.

(h) Squad drill.

(i) Inspection of hospital detachment.

(j) Inspection of signal corps detachment.

In the afternoon an outpost problem was worked out by two detachments of the battalion in the vicinity of the hospital farm on the Williston Road. Capt. Robert W. Daniel defended the High Bridge near Winooski with an outpost of a company and a half representing the Blues. Major Adrian St. John attempted to take the bridge with a force of two and a half companies. Hospital and signal corps men were with both detachments.

When the battle opened the defense had the ground between the Williston and Sandy Roads well posted, and a man in the cupola of the Hospital Farm. The attack of the enemy developed in two directions, from the south near the stone-crusher, and from the west along East Avenue. Soon the battle began in earnest and after some sanguinary fighting the attacking party captured the ravine in rear of the farm and forced back the defense. Sharp attacks developed on both flanks, and gradually the defense was forced to retire, fighting stubbornly. The overwhelming forces of the attack drove back the defense from redoubt, intrenchment, and ravine by a continuous frontal and flank attack, and at the end of two hours and a half the whole body of the defense was gathered for a last stand on the summit of a hill near Sandy Road. At this point a truce was declared and fighting ceased.

Following this, the men returned to the gymnasium and Captain Schindel talked over the battle with the officers. He considered the problem planned and executed very well considering the circumstances. Captain Schindel expressed himself as very well satisfied with the inspection as a whole.

The battalion officers were invited by the Grassmount girls to a tea, following the battle in the afternoon, which proved very refreshing after the smoke and roar of war. In the evening, Captain Reeves gave a dinner to the battalion officers at the New Sherwood.

Company C, commanded by Captain C. C. Buchanan, has been declared by the judges to be the best drilled company of the battalion this year, which entitles its members to bronze stars.

DEBATING CLUB PUSHES TAU

KAPPA ALPHA PLANS.

The Vermont de facto organization of the Tau Kappa Alpha fraternity has applied to the national headquarters for a national charter. If accepted in accordance with the regulations the new organization will be formally launched during commencement week.

T. K. A. is an honorary fraternity fostering intercollegiate debating. Only men who have competed as speakers in intercollegiate debates are eligible for membership. Honorary members may be admitted at the discretion of the local chapter. The charter members of the new fraternity are Bailey, '15; Chatterton, '17; Dean, '15; Hunt, '15; Powers, '15 and Prindle, '15.

The T. K. A. of Vermont will advocate and foster debating in Vermont, will foster the continuation of the triangular league, and will endeavor in accordance with college interests to increase the U. V. M.'s debating relations with other colleges. The fraternity will be independent of, yet supplementary to, the Debating Association.

Such an organization ought to promote and inspire interest in debating. The handsome key is a worthy sign of recognition.

The following institutions now have chapters: University of Washington, University of Utah, University of Montana, Denver University, Lawrence College, Wabash College, Butler College, De Pauw University, Miami University, Muskingum College, University of Cincinnati, Harvard, University of New York, Randolph-Macon, Richmond College, University of North Carolina, Vanderbilt University, Kentucky State University, University of Arkansas and University of Louisiana. Columbia is applying.

INFORMAL PARTY.

The freshman girls held an informal party Thursday evening, May 14th, at Mrs. G. F. Loudon's, the home of their vice-president, Margaret Murphy. A very pleasant evening of games was ended by light refreshments. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Gladys Flint, Miss Ruth Stuart, Miss Lessie Cobb, Miss Helen Chapin, Miss Laura Parker and Miss Lizzie Stevens.

BATTALION OFFICERS

THE GUESTS.

Tea was served in the sun parlor at Grassmount, Thursday afternoon, May 14th, by Miss Sparrow, Miss Almira Watts and Miss Baker. Captain Reeves, the inspecting officer Captain Schindel and Dr. Clark, with the university battalion officers, were guests.

TO-DAY'S GAME WITH

M. A. C. TO BE FAST.

For the following advance write-up on today's game we are indebted to the courtesy of the editors of the M. A. C. "College Signal."

"The Massachusetts Agricultural College baseball team is now in the best of shape. The poor start and the lack of material in the early part of the season was very discouraging. In the past week, however, the team has improved wonderfully, defeating Norwich and Springfield Y. M. C. A. College by large scores. Coach Fitzmaurice has been working the boys at a fast clip all the week, and if the weather conditions do not interrupt the practice, M. A. C. will be in fine form Saturday.

The team seems to have gotten back to its old time form and we feel sure of a victory. Besides hitting the ball hard, the pitching staff, consisting of Capt. Sherman, Davies, and Johnson are in fine working condition at present, and should prove a stumbling-block to the Vermont nine.

The line up will probably be as follows: King, 2b.; Hutchinson, 1b.; Davies, p. (or l. f.); Brewer, s. s.; Sherman, p. or l. f.; Johnson, r. f.; Brooks, c.; Plaisted, c. f.; Fernald, 3b.

The record to date of games—won 4, lost 4."

In 1911 Vermont defeated M. A. C. 4 to 2, and in 1912, 2 to 1.

KAPPA SIGMA TRIMS SIGMA PHI.

In a five inning game last Monday, the Kappa Sigs won from Sigma Phi with a score of 9-4. Leonard's hitting and base running was perhaps the chief feature of the game. A three bagger was also obtained by Glidden. The line up: For Kappa Sigma: Murnan, c.; Douglas, r. f.; Johnson, l. f.; Glidden, c. f.; Stewart, s. s.; Leonard, 2b.; Hurley, p.; Durfee, 3b.; Hayden, 1b. For Sigma Phi: McCloud, 3b.; Dow, 2b.; Grandy, 3b.; Ballard, p.; Howe, c.; Smith, r. f.; Montague, s. s. and l. f.; Weeks, c. f.; and Kellog, l. f. and s. s.

PREVIOUS VERMONT-COLGATE, CORNELL, AND FORDHAM GAMES.

Vermont this coming week plays Colgate at Hamilton on Tuesday, Cornell at Ithaca on Wednesday, and Fordham at New York on Thursday. The only previous Colgate records available are (1904) Vermont 11, Colgate 2; and (1912) Vermont 5 (10 innings), Colgate 4. Since 1901, Cornell has been on the Vermont schedule four times—(1906) Vermont 4, Cornell 6; (1910) Vermont 2, Cornell 1; (1912) Vermont 2, Cornell 1; (1913) Vermont 3, Cornell 1. Fordham has been on five times—(1902) Vermont 3, Fordham 19; (1908) Vermont 1, Fordham 6; (1909) Vermont 4, Fordham 6; (1910) Vermont 5, Fordham 13; (1913) Vermont 17, Fordham 6.

SPEAR PITCHES WONDERFUL GAME

THREE MEN SEE FIRST

No Hits, No Runs for Colgate—Good Support by Both Teams—Fitzpatrick Whallops Ball with Men on Bases.

Vermont made a good beginning of the New York trip, when she defeated Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y., on Tuesday last. Spear, the freshmen left-winger, was in the box for Vermont, and pitched a no-hit, no-run game, striking out seven, giving but one base on balls, and allowing only three Colgate men to reach first. In fact, during the first seven innings of the game, only twenty-one men faced Spear. Both teams played exceptionally good baseball, Vermont having two errors against her, while Colgate had only one. The Vermont batters were too much for Hicks of Colgate, however, and twelve safeties, with two sacrifices tells the story of the Vermont victory. The feature of the game was Johnson's stop of Merrill's line drive. With a man on first, Johnson made a nice stop and touched second on the run, then, by a quick throw, caught Merrill at first, making a very clever double play. Johnson's seven assists, with no errors, bring him the reputation of a remarkable short stop. The hitting of the whole Vermont team was of the whirlwind variety.

Vermont scored twice in the first, when Maiden drew a pass, but was caught trying to steal second. Then Captain Berry hit safely over third. Mayforth followed suit with a two-bagger. Fitzpatrick singled to left, scoring Berry and Mayforth. Every inning saw Vermont men on bases, but not until the ninth was she able to score again. In that inning, Spear singled, Maiden beat out a bunt, Berry also bunted and reached first during an unsuccessful attempt to catch Spear at third. Then, with the bases full, Mayforth drove one at Johnson, who caught Spear at home. The bases still being full, and only one out, Fitzpatrick drove a long one over the center fielder's head, scoring Maiden, Berry, and Mayforth, and landing him on third. He scored a moment later on Fraser's single. After stealing second Fraser was safe at home on a wonderful slide, when Gallagher flied out to center field. Linnehan singled, and Merrill was out at first.

By previous arrangement, the game was called in the last half of the ninth, with only one man out, so that the Vermont team could catch the train for Utica. On this account, the score reverted to that of the eighth inning.

1916 ARIEL BOARD ELECTED.

Ransom Editor-in-Chief and Williams Business Manager.

The sophomores held a meeting during the chapel hour Wednesday, May 27. The chief business of the meeting was the Ariel elections. The following were elected to the board: Editor-in chief, Paul L. Ransom, of Woodstock; business manager, Norman Williams, of Woodstock; assistant manager, Robert R. Bogle, Saranac Lake, N. Y.; associate editors, Jos. Levy, M. R. Wilcox, E. F. Crane, C. M. Pike, A. D. Seaver, R. N. Pease, Agnes Miller, Charlotte Sinclair, Gladys Fauley, N. J. Lord (Medic); photographers, Losgate, Salls, and Buchanan; and artists, Bean, Berry, Washburn, Smith, Miss Votey and Miss Stiles.

NINTH INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET

Brattleboro High Retains Cup—T. C. A. Second with 30 Points—V. A. Third—Holsapple High Point Winner.

Last Saturday, the ninth interscholastic track meet was held on Centennial Field. Trial heats were run in the morning, finals in the afternoon. The officials were from this year's track team with Dr. Stone as starter.

Four places counted for placement, the first three men in each event receiving medals. These were gold, silver and bronze. A cup was awarded the winning team.

Brattleboro, the winners of last year, scored 50 points, T. C. A. was second with 30, and Vermont Academy third with 24.

Holsapple of T. C. A. was easily the star, securing 18 of the 30 points taken by his team. His best performance was in the pole vault, crossing the bar at ten feet, one and three-quarters inches.

The weight men did good work. Burlington High had an unusually strong man in Taggart. The relative merits of such men as Richmond, Haskell, Devereaux and Angier can be observed only by glancing down the following list:

110 yd. dash.—Miner (V. A.), Holsapple (T. C. A.), Leahy (Brat. H.), Harris (Brat. H.). Time, 10½ sec.

220 yd. dash.—Miner (V. A.), Holsapple (T. C. A.), Leahy (Brat. H.), Devereaux (V. A.). Time, 24 sec.

440 yd. dash.—Richmond (Brat. H.), O'Ligney (Mont. H.), Harlow (Brat. H.), Devereaux (V. A.). Time, 59¼ sec.

880 yd. run.—Richmond (Brat. H.), Bent (V. A.), Harlow (Brat. H.), Streeter (T. C. A.). Time, 2 min. 17½ sec.

RECORD JUNIOR WEEK COMES TO CLOSE

PROM THE WINNING EVENT

Peerade Surpasses All Expectations and Introduces Night of Laughter at College Play—Boatride Ends the Scoring.

The most brilliant social function that the university has seen in years was the Junior Promenade, at the gymnasium, on Thursday evening, the twenty-first of May. A hundred couples danced from 9.30 P. M. to 2 A. M., and many were the compliments which were heard regarding the decorations, the quality of the music, and the general tone of the whole affair. It was, undoubtedly, the big event of Junior Week, and the class of 1915 is to be congratulated on its remarkable success.

In the receiving line were E. S. Hayden, chairman of the Prom. Committee, L. W. Dean, president of the Junior class; Miss Mabel Watts, vice-president of the class; President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton; Captain and Mrs. I. L. Reeves; Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Eastman; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Beecher; Prof. and Mrs. G. P. Burns. The grand march was led by Captain and Mrs. Reeves.

Too much cannot be said for the excellent music furnished by Barton's Orchestra of thirteen pieces. Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the dancing began, and to the long order of twenty-four numbers, it was impossible to play many encores, but Mr. Barton responded as often as time would permit.

During intermission, refreshments were served in front of the gymnasium, where chairs had been placed under the elms. Miss Lucinda Smith did the catering.

Some very original ideas were carried out in the decoration scheme, which was of the Greek type. A roof of purple and gold crepe paper, gracefully draped in waving folds, overhung the whole of the dancing space, while streamers of the same material hung down to form regular arches above white pillars, which were also draped with ribbons of colored paper. These pillars placed under the edge of the balcony, set off the space underneath as a promenade and resting place between dances. The two smaller doors at the west end of the hall were used instead of the main entrance, that being closed by a raised platform placed on the inside. Here the orchestra, surrounded by palms and evergreens, had its position. Directly opposite, at the east end of

EIGHT TRACK MEN RECEIVE V.

Only One Man from Team to be Lost by Graduation.

At a meeting of the athletic committee, Monday night, the following men were awarded their V in track: Manager Thomas, '14; Squire, '14; Captain Hayden, '15; Patterson, '16; Burrage, '17; Cintron, '17; Hackett, '17; and Wilber, '17. Only one man will be lost to the team by graduation. A photograph of the team was taken Wednesday at Burnham's studio.

BOTH JUNIOR WEEK GAMES GO TO VERMONT

St. Lawrence Game Slow and Shake-up in Team Means Several Errors, but Steadies Men for M. A. C.

10-Inning Victory.

Vermont won her first Junior Week baseball game, Thursday, May 21, when she defeated St. Lawrence in a slow game of seven innings. Owing to the inability of Lyons to play, on account of his injury in the West Point game, and to give the men a change, Vermont presented a new line-up in the field. Captain Berry was behind the bat; Mayforth on third, and Linnehan in right field. Merrill played first, and held down the position well, making no errors, and drawing two bases on balls and two hits out of four times at bat. Spear pitched a heady game but received poor support, there being seven errors chalked up for the infield. Behind the bat, Berry played well, but showed little of Mayforth's skill in throwing to bases. Roundy, who caught for St. Lawrence played an excellent game. Features of the contest were the two-base hit of Mayforth's with the bases full, and Fitzpatrick's two three-baggers.

Spear started off the game in big league style by striking out the first three men to face him. Vermont scored in the first inning when Maiden hit safely, went second on an error, and came home when Fitzpatrick hit out a high sacrifice fly. Vermont scored again in the second when Linnehan, Merrill, and Spear hit safely in succession, Linnehan scoring when Maiden hit. In the third, St. Lawrence got four runs on two singles, a base on balls, and four errors.

Vermont, however, put the game on ice in the fourth, securing six runs. Merrill, who was the second man up, hit safely, as did Spear, who followed him. Maiden then reached first on an error, filling the bases. Berry walked, forcing Merrill home. Mayforth hit for two bases, scoring the three runners and reached home himself on a bad throw. Fitzpatrick connected with the hall, were the patrons and patronesses, in a bower of plants and evergreens filled with imitations of yellow butterflies. Just above was an electric sign—a large V and the class numerals, in lights of purple and gold (the class colors). The most brilliant effect, however, was the Fountain of Youth dancing gaily in the middle of the hall, surrounded by a profusion of foliage, palms, natural earth, and red and blue lights. This was a rare, artistic touch, showing the originality of the committee in charge.

In fact, the entire affair spoke for itself as the result of much thought and hard work. The committee was Earl S. Hayden, chairman; Jason M. Malcolm, Roderic M. Olzendam, Louis F. Dow, J. Wheeler Baker, Thomas A. McCormick, Charles Rich, Marie A. McMahon, Hazel R. Spinney, Alma B. Holten.

The Peerade.

Our old time-honored institution the "College Peerade," came to life again on Friday the 22nd at high noon, giving vent to all the pent-up energy of two dormant years. Everything was represented, the ridiculous, the sublime, the unheard-of, the antiquated, and the Medics. Not a little time and thought went into the preparations and the result was highly pleasing.

The "peerade" started promptly at eleven-thirty from the university campus, going down Pearl and Church Streets to College, down College to Saint Paul, up Saint Paul to Pearl, up Pearl to Church, down Church once more, and up College to the hill again. It was headed by the 1915 colors and the bugle corps from Fort Ethan Allen, followed by automobiles containing President Benton, Deans Tinkham and Perkins, other members of the faculty, and the baseball team. The college band had a place in the parade and then came a line several blocks long presenting various floats and much originality.

The winning float, "Roosevelt on His Way to the College Play," was put on by the Sigma Nu fraternity. The grand old man was surrounded by howling Indians with war paint (and not much else) on, the indispensable Kermit was there with his camera, and the grizzly bear was shot time and again in true South American style. The float was neatly decorated with green foliage and the whole effect was such as to make it a sure winner.

The Commons Club stunt, like unto it, showed much careful work and well deserved honorable mention. The benign hunter bowing to right and left, followed by his many new species of wild animals, made a fine appearance. The species would be hard to describe.

The medics were represented by the "Ake" society. Each man in line was afflicted with some ache known to science, some unknown. The bandages and the groans fully carried out the effect intended, and the stunt was well received.

"The Evolution of the 1916 Aggie, From Poverty to Prosperity via U. V. M.," was represented by four stages, the boy on the farm, the boy entering college in 1912, his appearance in 1916, and the "Country Gentleman" in 1926. The costumes were striking and the actions unique.

One float represented a meeting of the Vermont Medical Association in 1970, if the medical college is abolished. Six decrepit doctors nodding around a table furnished the cue for a good bit of humor.

Delta Psi portrayed "College Life as it is and as Father thinks it is." Father thought it was cards, pipes, and laziness, but in reality it was a dirty grind all day long.

The freshmen showed much cleverness and originality by pretending to bear away the remains of their worthy predecessors. 1917 is to be congratulated for its enthusiasm.

The "Stone Age," by Alpha Tau Omega, was a good takeoff on the head of the physical department. His famous billiard-table exploit, the throwing of the bull, and other daring feats were well exemplified.

The cup for the most original stunt went to the police patrol. Many did not notice this in particular, but the principal feature of it was the rounding-up of stray freshmen who chanced to be on the side-lines and putting them in a cage. The idea was well carried out and they found freshmen enough to keep them busy.

Four stalwart men in black carried a casket bearing the word "Cribbing" and a bunch of flowers with a card "From Prexy." This was a take-off on the many-times-threatened honor system. The haying squad was there with the mowing-machine and cider; there were also four charming (?) girls from "Boyde's Musical Comedy Company"; Adam and Eve; Mut and Jeff; "Sorepaw and Smell Brother's Circus"; a wild man; Mrs. Pankhurst lecturing on woman suffrage (who, by the way, won the cup for the best individual stunt); an aeroplane made by S. P. Mills, '15, and A. G. Dix, '16; and a float containing some of the cast of the college play, to advertise which the peerade was given.

In the peerade the college again demonstrated its ability to do things and do them well, and much credit attaches itself to the Chairman Knight of the Peerade Committee, which had the affair in charge. The award of the cups was made during an intermission of "Just Out of College," Captain Ira L. Reeves making the presentations. The judges for the awarding of the float cups were Professor Tupper, John L. Southwick, T. B. Wright, and Dr. F. E. Clark. The judges for the best individual stunt were Lieutenant Howard R. Smalley, U. S. A., the Reverend Charles C. Wilson, and Captain Reeves.

The Play.

On Friday evening, May 22, the Wig and Buskin Club of the University scored a decided hit when "Just out of College" was presented at the Strong Theatre. A good sized audience witnessed the performance and showed its appreciation of the clever work of the college boys and the witticisms which followed each other in quick succession throughout the play. The Wig and Buskin Club will come out financially safe on the production.

"Just out of College" is one of George Ade's most successful comedies, ranking with "The College Widow," which is probably his best known work. The plot is not heavy, but bases its strength upon dashing comedy, full of fire and originality. It consists of three acts, the places of action being: I. Septimus Pickering's private office. II. Pure Food Exposition. III. Union Station. The principal figure in this laughable piece is Edward Worthington Swinger, just out of college, played by B. W. McFarland, '14, who furnished an excellent portrayal of the conceited young college graduate who lived on his nerve. Swinger falls in love with the daughter of a rich, matter-of-fact, business man, and finds trouble in convincing "papa" that a college graduate, who is a tennis player, is good for something. However, "papa" and "Slinger" (as the old fellow calls him) finally transact a little business deal, which gets Swinger into all kinds of trouble in his attempt to carry out his side of the agreement. Of course, he finally proves his worth and wins the girl, but not before he has bucked "papa" on the pickle market, and several complications have brought roars of laughter from the audience.

W. P. Leutze, '16, in the part of Septimus Pickering, who is in the pickle business, and also the obstinate father, was exceptionally good. He looked and acted the part to the letter, getting a great deal of spirit into his lines. H. A. Durfee, '17, and G. W. Bean, '16, as the wife and daughter of Pickering, were delightful. In fact, Mr. Bean was a heroine of whom the fair sex themselves might well be jealous. F. H. Isham, '16, made a decided hit in the character of Professor Bliss, Apostle of Repose. His acting was true to the part in every respect. E. L. Chatterton, '17, was the ideal type in the part of N. W. Jones, a female business man. Genevieve Chizzle, one of those candid friends, was both dashing and beautiful, as played by Frank Griffen, '16. G. E. Foster, '16, did good work in the part of Bernice McCormick, stenographer, as did W. S. Weeks, '16, as Aunt Julia Swinger. Sheldon, '15, would have been taken for a fresh newsstand girl by anyone on the street. "Slivers" Mason and his three supporters, Jack Lindsay, Tom Catlin, and Harvey Hughes were comedy artists of high rank as played by C. B. Stetson, '15, C. S. Ferrin, '15, I. D. Everitt, '15, and W. E. Remby, '15. The office boy and the bookkeeper were parts well taken care of in the hands of W. M. Hawkins, '17, and H. H. Powers, '17. L. W. Dean, '15, put the right touch into his lines as the ticket seller, J. M. Shedd, '15, called trains to the satisfaction of everybody, while W. R. Conroy, '16, Z. H.

BOOK BY CAPTAIN IRA L. REEVES

"Military Education in the United States"—Attractive and Entertaining It Covers a New Field in Military Investigation.

Captain Ira L. Reeves, Commandant at the University, has just published a book entitled, "Military Education in the United States," which is original in its field, and gathers into compact form the material which would require much time and labor to obtain separately from the various scattered sources from which it is collected. The volume is very interesting to a student of the military, and is of inestimable value to one who is looking for information concerning military education. For a "non-combatant" it is also surprisingly attractive and entertaining. The book covers the whole field, from West Point to the organized militia, and discovers to the reader the existence of an entire system of schools of which the ordinary man is completely ignorant. In addition to the material strictly covered by the title there is appended some useful material in the shape of sample sets of examination questions for entrance to West Point, and for appointment to the Army Medical Corps, congressional enactments relating to land grant colleges, etc. There are four hundred and thirty-one pages in the book and many excellent illustrations. This opportune volume should be well received by Vermont men both because of subject and author. The importance of the subject matter is well expressed by Professor Messenger, who speaks as follows in the Introduction: "As individuals we are not so directly dependent on the army, at least in time of peace, but as a nation we are greatly dependent upon it, and military education is a matter of great public concern." Contents by chapters follow:

An idea of the contents may be gathered from the chapter headings:

COMMONS CLUB BANQUET

POSTPONED.

On account of the Wig and Buskin and freshman banquets, the Commons Club banquet has been postponed until Friday, June 5th. The annual election will be held before the banquet at the Commons Club rooms. For tickets to the banquet, see Seiple, '14, McDowell, '15, Buchanan, '16 or Hawkins, '17.

Ellis, '17, W. E. Remby, '15, and B. A. Shippey, '17, carried through minor parts of collector of souvenirs, subscription book agent, solicitor of insurance, and delegate from the union, in a snappy, spirited way. H. B. Wallace, '17, and B. C. Downing, '14, as lady travelers, as well as R. G. Hawley, '17, B. R. Buchanan, '16, and R. C. Downing, '14, as Bingo girls, were all that could be desired in their respective parts.

In short the whole cast entered into the spirit of the piece with zeal and showed such results of thorough preparation and excellent coaching as might be expected from a five months' (rehearsal) stand. Prof. M. W. Andrews deserves much credit.

The scenery was simple but well chosen, making every scene effective. The costumes were original and good.

The staff consisted of Prof. M. W. Andrews, stage director; C. S. Ferrin, '15, manager; C. B. Stetson, '15, assistant manager, and W. R. Conroy, '16, master of properties.

The Boatride.

The last festivity of a most successful Junior Week took place in the form of the annual boatride given by the class of 1915. Despite the fact that the evening was windy and cool, over two hundred, mostly college students enjoyed the ride. Shortly after eight-thirty o'clock the Ticonderoga sailed south, up the lake. At Thompson's Point a landing was made to take on the Sigma Phi party who had spent the day at Cedar Beach. The ride continued well towards the northern part of the lake, and the return was made shortly after eleven thirty o'clock. The boatride always makes a very appropriate and unique ending for Junior Week, and this one was no exception. Few colleges have a like opportunity.

Commencement Comes Wednesday,
JUNE 24.

Junior Week.

We would scarcely feel justified in letting such an event as Junior Week breeze through our midst without somewhat of comment. We cannot say that it was the best Junior Week Vermont has ever had, for we do not know, and have no way of knowing, but we certainly feel justified in saying that it might very well have been. For some years now all Vermont activities have been of the crescendo nature, yet we believe that we will not be disputed when we assert that no undergraduate has witnessed the equal of the present Junior Week. Judging from comments gleaned on every hand, we are safe in assuming that the prom. at least has never been touched by anything of its kind heretofore. Of the Peerade and College Play it is much the same, nothing is to be heard but praise, and those who know the least about the former are the men of the hill for they all took part and kept out of sight. Even through the boatride did the god of success stand at attention. We know that such a week could not have been staged without the best of planning and the hardest of labor, and much credit must be given the men and women in charge. If such an event counts for anything as an advertising medium Vermont was advertised.

An Appreciation.

The CYNIC office gratefully acknowledges the receipt of a copy of Captain Reeves' new book, Military Education in the United States. During the years since '83 when the first issue of the CYNIC went to press, volumes of various kinds have been gradually accumulating on the shelves of the CYNIC office. Many of them are uninteresting, most of them useless to us.

Recently they have been overhauled and some presented to the university library. Captain Reeves' book is of a different stamp. We have found it attractive and entertaining, and judging from its contents we are going to find it useful. With a kindly appreciation of the captain's thoughtfulness and good will, we add it to our list, firm in the conviction that it will remain, and thankful for those things which the captain is daily doing in the welfare of Vermont.

The Ariel.

With the following commendation the CYNIC wishes also to extend its congratulations to Vermont's best Ariel.

To the Editor of the "Cynic":

I want to compliment the class of 1915 upon the splendid number of the "Ariel" recently received. The subject matter is most interesting and the arrangement and workmanship are superb.

It is a book of which the class and the college may well be proud, and one which will create a favorable impression wherever it may go both for the college and for the publishers.

Very truly yours,

JOHN J. MURPHY, '89.

Water Sports.

Hotter than "Apple Blossom Time in Normandy," almost too hot for hiking, and, if it wasn't for the effective work that the out-o'-doors water sports committee is doing, student activities would die of the heat! We know that "Lovely Lake Champlain" is oft reputed dangerous, but, strange as it may seem, it never seriously occurred to us that this was the reason why students didn't frequent it more. Of course we wouldn't urge any well matriculated student in good standing on the books to suddenly ram his body into peril against the superior judgment of his mind, but—to return to our tale—it's almost too hot for hiking. We've got a lake famous in song and story, and we've got a committee—or its equivalent—not yet famous. We trust that some day they'll be acquainted. Then we can take off our hats and coats, and shoes and stockings, and other impediments and go in wading; construct some rafts, floats and water polo teams; take Saturday-Sunday trips to the tune of a dripping paddle, pitch our tent in a pine tree grove, and watch the sun beat its little red heart out on the breast of the Adirondacks—have lots of other nice things, too, such as races and a regatta that would attract attention the length of the lake, but meanwhile we must wait patiently until the committee scratches up that acquaintanceship!

Team Morale.

This editorial is not dedicated to the baseball team of 1914, so if the idea happens to apply, said team need not consider that the obligation of mobbing the editor's office belongs to them alone. We generously include all the teams that wear the Green and Gold and carry the Vermont V on to victory, or defeat. More often than necessary, we are inclined to believe, it is the latter. Visiting football teams and baseball teams we have noticed play hard and play to win from the moment the game is on until its close. Furthermore, we have noticed that it is in just this same vim and dash that Vermont teams are lacking, this everlasting savage aggressiveness which carries the ball over for a touchdown in the face of any opposition, that keeps the team working and scoring even when far in the lead. We sometimes hear members of the various teams complaining because of no training table. A training table isn't the whole push in putting a man into shape, and when the college sees the entire team breaking training as it pleases in every other way there is a strong suspicion that digging down and producing the coin for beefsteak would do mighty little good beyond tickling the appetites of a chosen few. Vermont teams defeat poorer teams than themselves, they don't defeat better. They lack that spirit which sets them to training week after week, which makes them think it more than a personal humiliation if they are defeated, and they lack that team morale which pulls them together, always fighting, winning when expected to lose. We do not relish saying it, yet no one can avoid realizing that if a Vermont football team had the dash of a Norwich team it would be at the top among the teams of the East. It is seldom the Vermont man who gets "time out" and "time out" is often synonymous with fierce playing.

Here we pause in consternation. The football team is a part of our student body—nothing else—likewise the baseball team. There is no reason to suppose them radically different from the rest of us; what they do, it must be, we would do were we in their places. The spirit, then, that we see lacking in them must be lacking also in ourselves. And it is true that previous to a game, et cetera, we rarely hear the campus declaring we are going to win when it knows that we stand well to lose. Blind hopefulness and confidence in her teams is what a college must have, and in order to warrant these the teams must play with the honor and tradition of their college at heart, self laid aside, with no thought but to take the aggressive and win.

MEDICAL SMOKER.

Optimism the Keynote of Speeches.

The Medical College held a very enthusiastic smoker in the Medical building last Tuesday night and plans were talked up concerning the welfare of the Medical Department. Considerable attention was given the report of the Carnegie Foundation by the different speakers, but the speeches were characterized by absence of gloom and an abundance of optimism. Among the speakers were Major Clark, Dr. Tinkham, President Benton and Dr. T. S. Brown, the latter being entertained at the Delta Mu rooms after the smoker. Dr. C. E. Wells was also among those present.

1904 REUNION.

Commencement Headquarters in Old Mill.

The class of 1904 will hold a reunion this commencement and will probably have their headquarters in the "Old Mill." Inquiries should be addressed to the chairman of the committee in charge: R. D. H. Emerson, 24 Milk St., Boston, Mass. The other members of the committee are, as far as appointed: Elmer E. Gove, Arthur E. Pope, Alfred H. Gilbert, Harry E. Cunningham, Harry Barker, Erwin Spear and Chauncey S. Brownell.

BASEBALL AND TRACK BANQUET.

Surplus Money to Go Toward Football Blankets.

The Key and Serpent Society is making arrangements to hold a baseball and track banquet on the evening of June 2nd. The banquet will cost $1.00 a plate. In order to meet all expenses everyone is asked to subscribe 25 cents. Any surplus that there may be of the money subscribed will be used towards purchasing five football blankets for next year's football team. Show your loyalty to Vermont through your generosity. All students should make it a point to go to the banquet.

CYNIC NOTICE.

The next issue of the Cynic will appear Wednesday, June 10, and will be the last before Commencement number, Saturday, June 27. This arrangement will furnish readers with all news in the next issue up to the opening day of examinations.

BOTH JUNIOR WEEK GAMES GO TO VERMONT.

a three bagger and scored on Fraser's hit, making six runs for the inning.

In the fifth, Early replaced Gardner in the box, but he was no more effective.

Four runs for Vermont were added in the sixth. Mayforth was hit by a pitched ball, and scored when Fitzpatrick secured his second triple. Fraser walked, and went third, while Fitzpatrick scored when the pitcher threw wild to second. Gallagher hit safely, scoring Fraser, stole second, and scored when Spear went out at first.

St. Lawrence secured three runs in the seventh when Roundy, Palmer and McDonald hit safely, Kramer walked, and Vermont added two more errors. Berry failed to catch a high pop fly and Fraser made his first error of the game. The game was called after the first half of the seventh in order to allow St. Lawrence to catch the train, the score being 12-7 in favor of Vermont.

The line-up follows.

VERMONT-M. A. C. GAME

Both Pitchers Strong with Gilt Edge

Support—Malcolm Establishes

His Own Game—Davis of

M. A. C. Draws Applause.

The Junior Week guests, students, and friends of Vermont were treated to a real article of baseball on Saturday afternoon, May 23, at Centennial Field. It was the closing game of Junior Week and the most closely contested of any played here this season, with the exception of the Georgetown game. The fast nine from Massachusetts Agricultural College was the proposition which Vermont had to tackle, and, as foretold, proved a hard nut to crack.

From the moment the "umpire" cried "Play Ball," it was a case of something doing. The plays went off with a snap, the rival pitchers, Malcolm and Sherman, being the centers of attraction. Both pitched a gilt-edged quality of baseball and grew stronger with every inning. Sherman held the heavy hitting Vermont team to four singles, while Malcolm was hit more freely, nine safeties being credited to the Massachusetts boys. They were kept well scattered, however, no two coming in the same inning, except in the sixth. Malcolm had the better of his opponent on strike-outs, retiring nine men by the wind route, while Sherman duped only four of the Vermont batsmen. Both teams furnished excellent support to their pitchers, and the game was full of feature plays. Davies of M. A. C. furnished the thrills both in fielding and at bat. His home run into deep right center brought hearty cheers from the crowd, and saved his team from a shut-out. When he captured Fitzpatrick's long hit to center, which was labeled for a three-bagger, and of which he made a beautiful flying catch, the crowd was on its feet with cheers of admiration.

Every man on the home team was playing ball, but special mention is due Maiden, who prevented a run in the sixth by some clever head work.

Malcolm was easily the hero of the game. Besides his splendid box work, he accepted six chances without an error, and played a sensational game, for him, with the stick, bringing in both of Vermont's runs, and actually establishing a batting average.

The game started off with a rush. Both teams placed men in the first, but were unable to score. Vermont got her first run in the second, when Fraser hit safely, was advanced to second and third on sacrifices by Gallagher and Linnehan, and scored when Malcolm singled to right, after Sherman had walked Spear.

The Massachusetts boys scored their single run in the fourth when Davies, the first man up, slammed the ball to deep right, making the circuit of the bases before the ball could be returned.

From the second until the tenth Vermont was unable to do anything with Sherman's delivery, and hardly saw first base. The bay-state boys did little better, although they had an opportunity to score in the sixth, when Sherman hit safely, was advanced to second and third by Davies' sacrifice, and Brewer's hit, but was caught between third and home, Mayforth plugging second when Brewer attempted to steal, and Maiden returning the throw there after working Sherman off third.

It was not until the tenth that Vermont was able to check Sherman's devastating curves with any success. In this extra inning, Fraser flied out to short, Gallagher walked, but was caught off first. Linnehan reached first on Hadfield's error, was advanced to third on Spear's single, and came home when Brewer fumbled Malcolm's hard-hit grounder.

We cannot close without mentioning the gentlemanly conduct of the whole Mass. team.

LECTURE BEFORE DEBATING CLUB.

Prof. Jackman Gives Excellent Survey of Social Conditions in England.

At the regular meeting of the Debating Society on Monday evening, May 25, Professor Jackman addressed the meeting on "Social Conditions in England at the Present Time." His talk was characterized by that impartiality and clear insight into the question which carries with it a deep conviction of truth. He gave a vivid picture of England at the present day in all its social aspects.

Professor Jackman began by the statement that we, as Americans, are deluded to a great extent in our prejudices against England, and that she has aided us more than she ever harmed us.

In regard to English character, the Englishman, unlike the American, hates publicity. He has a great regard for freedom and independence in every condition of life, even more than the American. He carries this freedom into both virtue and vice. There is a fearful struggle for existence in England, the population is intense, the food supply small, and thus the health of the people is not what it should be. The children especially are physically weak.

We have come to think of the Englishman as domineering. The lower class is so, but not the upper class. There are three classes in England, the upper, the middle, and the lower. All the money is in the hands of the upper and middle classes, while the lower class has trouble in making a living.

The English look down upon the Americans as a class. They hate their get-rich-quick schemes and abhor the freedom with which they air their private affairs. The Englishman does not like a boarding-house or hotel. He loves his home, and, wherever you meet him, he is always going home, while the American is always going to business. England is the land of the man. In the home, in business, everywhere it is only the man who is considered. The woman is subordinated and everything tends to save the energies of the man for the hard battle which he must fight. The Englishwoman knows how to economize much better than the American woman, for she is obliged to do it. The English, from the nobility down, will take tips, though not all in the same way. The lower classes demand tips, but will accept small ones. Young and old associate closely together there, which brings the father closer to his children. The oldest son, of course, inherits the estate, the younger children getting a mere pittance. Servants are a self-respecting class, and take up service as a life work. Education is for the masses, not for the masses, but night schools have recently been established, giving more opportunity to the masses, and their condition is, therefore, improving.

Elections will be held at next Monday night's meeting.

A COMMUNICATION OF INTEREST.

To the Editor of the Cynic:—

In talking with graduates of several years back and from other sources I have found that only a very few years ago there was a universal interest among the students of the University in the great mountain and lake country so near at hand. More than half the college made frequent week-end trips with gun or with fish-pole into the out-of-doors. Down to the mouth of the Winooski they went, or over to the foot-hills of the Green Mountains or higher still to the rugged rock crowned heights of Mansfield and Camel's Hump to build their beacon campfires as signals to the surrounding countryside that U. V. M. was conquering the heights of nature as well as the heights of musty bookishness.

To revive this interest in the great open country the Out-o'-Doors Club has come into being. To stimulate an interest in those sports which can build up the body and mind of the ordinary everyday man, he who cannot play varsity baseball or football or is not a track man or a tennis shark. To make Mansfield's heart beat in unison with the heart of every red-blooded U. V. M. man, to draw men away into the free out of doors and to bind faculties and students into a closer and more harmonious relationship, these are the aims and objects of the U. V. M. Out-o'-Doors Club.

The challenge for conquest which Nature has set at our very doors in lake and mountain, valley and stream cannot be excelled in beauty or in variety by any other New England college setting.

When the trips of the Out-o'-Doors Club are posted think for a moment before you say you cannot go. Realize that beyond the city limits lies a region which is ready for your exploration, a region which is calling you and which is worthy of your best attention.

MILITARY INSTRUCTIONS.

National Guard Encampment to be at Newburyport, Mass.

1. The rifle range for the week ending May 31 will be open every afternoon from two to six o'clock. Members of the battalion who are taking the civil engineer course must fire their required scores this week; all members of the battalion must finish their target practice by Wednesday, June 3rd. A passing grade in the military department will not be given to any member of the battalion who has failed to fire at least forty full service charge cartridges on the outdoor range, unless excused by surgeon's certificate.

2. The entire battalion will turn out for participation in the Memorial day parade to-day at 1:15 p. m. This participation will count for three formations, and will complete the year's work, excepting final inspection Monday. No excuse will be given except for illness. Those holding earned absences (pink slips) may use them on this occasion if they have no "cuts."

3. The proposed practice march heretofore announced will be abandoned and a final inspection substituted. This inspection will take place next Monday at 1:30 p. m. Rifles and equipment should be well cleaned, and for this inspection, left well oiled, for preservation during vacation period. Those having no "cuts" and remaining "pink slips" on hand, may use them, provided their equipment in the armory is well cleaned.

4. It is planned to give the members of the sophomore class their honorable discharges from the department by June 5th. It is also planned to make partial selection of freshmen for noncommissioned officers for next year by this date. Discharges will not be given those who have failed to complete the course.

The joint encampment of the National Guards of the States in the eastern division will be held at Newburyport, Mass. Provision has been made for any students, of colleges where a captain of the regular army is stationed, to enlist up to the day before the camp begins. This gives students an opportunity which is not given to others. Equipment of all kinds will be furnished, and all necessary expenses will be paid. Capt. M. W. Andrews would like to make arrangements with any students who wish to attend this camp.

THE RACCOON RETURNS.

May 26, 1914.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Some comment has been aroused by the item which appeared in your last issue describing the capture of a raccoon. As it is contrary to law to hunt or take captive an animal of this species and as no one would wish to inflict suffering by keeping one in captivity without some good reason the statement in the paragraph mentioned requires correction. As a matter of fact the reporter for the CYNIC took a little too much for granted in his effort to make the story as spicy as possible. The little raccoon was gently removed to the woods and set free within twenty-four hours of his capture. He promptly took to tall timber with a much better chance for a long and happy life than he would have had if he had been encouraged in his plan to stay around on the campus all summer.

ELECTIONS TO WIG AND BUSKIN.

Large Number Make Society—Ferrin Next Year's President—Annual Banquet at the Vermont.

The Wig and Buskin Society elected to membership last Monday the ten following men, a somewhat larger number than usual: Ramon Clarence Downing, '14; John Marshall Shedd, '15; William Russell Conroy, '16; Franklin Horace Isham, '16; Frank E. Griffin, '16; George Wallace Foster, '16; Edward Llewellyn Chatterton, '17; Herbert Ashley Durfee, '17; Wales Monroe Hawkins, '17; Horace Henry Powers, '17.

The following men were elected to office for the ensuing year: Charles Sabin Ferrin, president; Carlton Beecher Stetson, manager; William Russell Conroy, assistant manager; R. C. Saunders, property manager.

The annual banquet of the society was held at the Hotel Vermont on Wednesday evening, May 26th. Following out the custom of last year, the entire cast of the junior week play were invited. Thirty men were present. "Ike" Everitt, '15, presided as toastmaster. Remby, '15; Ferrin, '15; Carr, (medic), '15; Stetson, '15; Isham, '16, were among those who responded to toasts.

WEEKLY Y. M. C. A. LECTURE.

Address by Prof. Jackman.

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Tuesday night Prof. Jackman was the speaker. His topic was "The Individual." The worth of individual character, he said, is what makes a man go into any service. In olden times it was the tribe, not the individual, which was to be contended with. If an individual were insulted, the tribe resented the insult, but that was changed, and the individual became the more important. Now the individual is being submerged and joins in the stream of life and advancement. Nothing is permanent in social life. It is constantly changing and so no definite position can be given to social life. Stability will never be attained until the individual is predominant. Elements such as faith, hope and love never change and are all found in the individual, not in the society. If the ultimatum is to be reached in social service, the point of view must be changed, for if mere social getting together is all there is to it, the church and the saloon are on the same basis in regard to social service. The individual must be strengthened before he begins work. One must not follow the crowd but the individual must follow the path which his conscience says is right. The purpose of life is: first, to know God; second, to have fellowship with God; third, to cooperate with God.

JUNIOR CLASS LUNCHEON.

Pleasant Function at Van Ness House.

Last Saturday, the Junior Class girls gave a luncheon in the main dining room of the Van Ness House. Twenty-four members were present with chaperones, Mrs. Stetson and Miss Smith. The class colors were carried out in the dark blue pansies and gold tulips in the table decorations. After the singing of college songs, the party attended the baseball game.

If everybody could do just what everybody else could, there would be nothing doing in the Stadium!

College fellows will remember the first appearance of Fatima Cigarettes in the college towns a few years back—you spontaneously realized that here was a smoke some better than the others. And today, the biggest selling cigarette in America! The pure, good, choice tobacco in the plain Fatima package surely carries weight with the smokers of America. (omit the college yell).

POOREST PLAYING IN YEARS THE REASON SOUGHT

Vermont Caps Climax by Going Down Before M. A. C. 5-2, and Before Yale by the Worst Northern Defeat in 5 Seasons.

Before the southern trip Coach Winters declared that a second team could be picked this year superior to last year's first. The university has never seen that team. She is fast slating the blackest record in baseball she has had for years. Since May 1, she has played 14 games—won 4, tied 1, and lost 9. Thirty-eight errors have been made in them, and the only men to hit the ball with anything resembling a good healthy swing are Captain Berry and Fitzpatrick. Were the team incapable of doing better, it would be another matter, but unfortunately they have all demonstrated their ability before. Where are Mayforth's steals of his freshman year? Where are Maiden's line drives. Every man in college knows that the team can play, but isn't. If the coaching system is to blame then Vermont needs a new coach. If the men are laying down on the job, then they need to be benched. The men on the sidelines help support the team, the team travels around the country having a good time. The sidelines have a right to demand they play their best. It's better to have a poor team with good college spirit than to have a good team with rotten spirit. A team playing for Vermont as it should play for Vermont would have every man behind it, grad. and under grad., from the crack of the bat. What kind of a system is it when all the team are crabbing each other, what kind of a system when a runner gets on first and the next man up wastes two strikes trying to get him second, only to find him still hugging like a bear to the bag? At present the team is doing Vermont more harm than good, both outside and in college spirit. The opinion of everybody is that they should get just about the worst raking over any team ever received. Public opinion will be sending a second team to Williams, one it can trust to play its head off for the college.

M. A. C. GAME.

Rain cancelled the Holy Cross game on Thursday, but Vermont lost to Massachusetts Aggies Friday, June 5, at Amherst by the score of 5 to 2. It was during a pitching slump in the second inning when all the Aggies' runs were brought in. The visitors scored their first run in the first inning when Stan Berry made a three

CANADIAN CHAMPIONS TRIM VERMONT.

McFarland Still Undefeated.

On Saturday, May 30, the tennis team lost to the strong McGill aggregation, intercollegiate champions of Canada, by a score of 4 to 2, McFarland again being the only man to win in the singles, and the teams breaking even in doubles. McFarland's opponent estimated him as the hardest man he had ever played. The score: McFarland won from Hudson, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4; Ellis lost to Strang, 7-5, 6-1; Roberts lost to Reynard, 6-4, 10-8; Captain Dow lost to Cleveland, 6-3, 7-5. In doubles Dow and McFarland won from Strang and Hudson, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4; Ellis and Roberts lost to Reynard and Cleveland, 6-4, 9-7.

ADDITION BEGUN ON GYMNASIUM

Will be Completed Sept. 1—Well Under Way for Commencement—Detailed Plans Given by Architect.

Work has been begun by the contractors upon the addition to the gymnasium, specifications for which were made by A. Lawrence, architect. The specifications call for a concrete foundation with a brick superstructure. The roof will be of slate upon steel trusses and all steel sashes will be used in the windows making the building practically fire-proof. The entire interior will be clear space with an earth floor about two feet lower than the basement of the gymnasium. The fire-escape and basement door will furnish access from the gymnasium and there will be four exits, two on either side of the building.

The building will be lighted on three sides and practically one half of the wall space will be occupied by large windows similar in design to those of the gymnasium. The large number of windows will serve to make the building sufficiently light to be used as a baseball cage and should prove of immense advantage in rounding the team into shape for the games scheduled early in the season.

The contract calls for completion by Sept. 1st and as all orders for material have been completed the construction work may be finished before this date. It is planned to move the present baseball cage over to the experiment farm where it will be used as a store house for farm machinery.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS FAST MATURING OPENS JUNE TWENTIETH

University 123 Years Old—Record Week Desired—'84 to Celebrate 30th Anniversary.

The commencement exercises will open on Saturday evening, June 20th, with the Kingsley Prize Speaking at the College Street Congregational Church.

The Baccalaureate Sermon will be given at 4.30 Sunday afternoon on the college green, following the custom established two years previous. Weather preventing, the sermon will be given in the First Congregational Church. Monday, June 22, class day, will be observed by the seniors with the usual exercises in charge of Class Marshal Harold Batchelder. The selections for the orations have been given in a previous issue. The semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees will also be held on this day. Tuesday, June 23rd, alumni day, will be observed with the annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the President's reception and the fraternity reunions. It is expected that a large number of alumni will be present, especially those representing the New York Alumni Association. The class of '84 is endeavoring to celebrate their 30th anniversary with a large reunion. As yet plans have not been made for the bonfire and hum on the back campus. No baseball game between the alumni and the University team has been arranged since the team is already scheduled for two games that week. The Sigma Phi convention of the national fraternity will be held in Burlington at the end of the week, and it is expected that a large number of the alumni of the local chapter will be present for commencement. Wednesday, June 24, the close of the 123rd year of the University will be observed with the academic procession and the usual exercises of Commencement. These will vary slightly from the customary form of previous years.

The general arrangement is similar to that of previous years with the exception of the omission of the college play by the girls.

The Program.

Saturday, June 20.—Baseball, Vermont vs. Dartmouth, Centennial Field, 3 o'clock; Kingsley Prize speaking, College St. Church, 8 p. m.

June 21.—Baccalaureate Sunday. Sermon, College Green, 4 p. m., President Guy Potter Benton.

HAYDEN AGAIN TO CAPTAIN TRACK.

General Elections To-day.

At a meeting of the track team on Thursday, June 4, Earle S. Hayden, '15, of St. Albans, was again elected captain of track. General elections in baseball, track and tennis will take place in the trophy room and Medical College today, 9.30-12.00 and 1.30-5.00 o'clock.

The baseball candidates are: manager, H. A. Gardyne, '15; assistant managers, G. W. Foster, '16, F. N. Raymond, '16, F. P. Corley, '16, and J. R. Berry, '16. Track candidates: manager, J. B. Johnson, '15, L. W. Dean, '15; assistant manager, A. G. Levy, '16. Tennis: manager, D. G. Roberts (Medic.) '16; W. E. Remby, '15, M. H. Davis, '15; assistant managers, R. L. Grismer, '16, C. S. Gates, '16.

VARSITY AGAIN LOSES HEADWAY

Fordham Outplayed, Wins by Timely Hitting—Gallagher Holds Down Box, and Berry Drives the Ball Far Afield.

Wednesday's game with Cornell was cancelled because of rain. On Thursday, May 28, Vermont dropped back again, losing a close game to Fordham by a score of 3 to 2. It was, from the first, a pitchers' battle between Gallagher and Martin, the former allowing only three hits to the latter's five. It was Gallagher's first game in the box this season owing to the condition of his arm. Captain Berry's home run was the feature of the game and it is said to be the longest and cleanest hit that has ever been made on Fordham field. Fitzpatrick was also there with the stick with a percentage of 500. For Fordham, Martin and Flanagan played good games.

Vermont scored first in the third inning. After Linnehan and Gallagher had gone out at first, Maiden knocked out a single and started for second. The catcher threw wild to McEileen, who tried to stop the ball by throwing up his glove and as this naturally offered no effectual resistance Maiden went to third. Berry walked, stole second, and Maiden stole home.

In the eighth Vermont again scored, when, with two men out Berry lined his home run way beyond center field, bringing the Vermont score up to 2 runs.

Fordham secured her first run in the fifth. Kane struck out and Viviano flied out to Spear in left field. Then McEileen came along with a three-base hit and scored on Flanagan's single. Flanagan was caught at third and Mayforth caught Martin napping at first.

Yale "whitewashed" Vermont, Saturday in a dull, uninteresting game by the score of 8 to 0. This is the worst Northern defeat U. V. ## 1917 WINS BY DEFAULT.

Freshmen Capture Series.

By leaving Centennial Field without agreement at the end of the seventh the Sophomores forfeited the second interclass game to the Freshmen, 9-0. The score at the end of the game stood 8-6 for the Sophomores with the Freshmen steadily gaining.

Neither side scored in the first two innings, but during the third the Sophomores began hitting and with the aid of several errors scored four runs. The Freshmen with two out started the ball rolling and drove out two singles and two doubles, making three runs. The fourth and fifth innings were disposed of quickly, neither side scoring. During the ninth, the Sophomores started the merry-go-round, knocking out two singles, a two, and a three bagger. Four men scored. The last half of the ninth secured for the Freshmen two more runs. With the start of the seventh Batchelder took the box, the Frosh tightened up, and the Sophs went down in one, two, three order—two of them strikeouts. With the last half the Freshmen started batting again and pushed another run over the plate. By this time the Sophomores had apparently had enough and hastened supperwards, leaving the field to the Freshmen.

The playing was good on each side and few errors were chalked up. Wood made the best pitchers record, striking out seven, and allowing only one base on balls. Both the pitchers had good support and the infield plays were neatly executed. Ransom played the best fielding game for the Sophomores, while Kelly did the star work for the Freshmen.

The cheering section was not particularly large or especially noisy, but a lively rooting was kept up at all times. The few girls interested enough in the classes to attend the game are to be congratulated.

Line-up (1916): Butler, s. s.; Stuart, r. f.; Kelly, 3b.; Houston, lb.; Lott, c.; Manderville, 2b.; Shuttleworth, l. f.; Wilder, c. f.; Burke, p. (1917). Ransom, 3b.; Holmes, l. f.; Abell, c.; Murnane, s. s.; Wood, p.; Sargent, lb.; Palmer 2b.; Clark, c. f.; Salls, r. f.

Leutze and Weeks substituted for Holmes and Clark in the sixth. The Freshmen substituted Davis for Wilder, and Batchelder for Burke the first of the seventh. Greenwood batted for Burke in the sixth.

DR. APPELMANN TO RETURN TO GERMANY.

Chair Will be Filled by Dr. Kaidel of Ohio State During Summer School.

Dr. A. H. Appelmann announces his intentions of sailing for his native land on the 16th of June. Dr. Heinrich Kaidel will occupy the German chair during the summer school.

Dr. Appelmann has been with us for nearly two years, succeeding the late Professor Carlton B. Stetson to the German chair of the University. During his stay here, Dr. Appelmann has made many warm friends who will join with his pupils and colleagues of the faculty in regretting his departure.

Dr. Kaidel, who succeeds Professor Appelmann to the German chair during the summer school, comes to us very highly recommended. He is a native-born German and has studied in Berlin, Munich, and Münster. He came to this country to teach German at the University of Wisconsin at Madison. A short time later, he was called to the Ohio State University at Columbus, where he still fills the chair of German Language and Literature. Dr. Kaidel is an author of no little note, and has a wonderful command of both the German and English languages. He will undoubtedly be a great addition to the faculty of the summer school. He returns to his duties at Columbus in the fall.

THE PRESIDENT'S ITINERARY.

University and Preparatory School Addresses.

President Benton has been absent from college for some time, giving commencement addresses at various colleges and high schools. Tuesday, June 2, he delivered an address at the University of Mississippi at Oxford in that state, and the following Sunday the Baccalaureate Sermon at the University of Maine, in Orono. On the 29th of May he was present at the dedication of a new school building at Wilder, Vt.

During this week he is the Commencement speaker at Johnson, on the 11th, Canaan the 12th, St. Albans the 18th, and Rutland the 19th. He will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon at North Bennington, Sunday the 14th.

While on his way to the South he spent a short time in Boston, on business connected with the filling next year of two vacancies in the faculty.

SENIORS FORM PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

More Adequate Cataloging and Financing Policy Adopted.

A plan of permanent organization was the business at the senior class meeting, Thursday morning, June 4. It was voted to have a permanent president, 3 vice-presidents, a secretary and assistant, and treasurer and assistant, with specified duties, to publish a directory of the class every year for the first five years, and every other year thereafter, to publish a catalog of the class before the 5th, 10th, 20th and 25th anniversaries, and if 40 agree, to start a permanent class fund, each man pledging himself to give $2 for the 1st 3 years, $5 for the next 5 years, $10 the next 7 years and $20 each year thereafter. The committee in charge are H. A. Styles, E. S. Towne, D. W. Howe and A. E. Schoff.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB.

Welfare of University Discussed.

At the last meeting of the St. Paul's Club, held on Monday evening, May 25, at the Phi Delta Theta House, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. B. Sanford, '15; vice-president, J. L. Baker, '15; secretary and treasurer, S. L. French, '16.

Plans for a reception to the incoming class next fall were discussed, and the topic, "Alumni Ties" was taken up by the club. The general opinion was that, if there were some common meeting place, where all could get together every day during college life, as an eating house for the whole university, it would tend to bring the alumni back, to a larger extent. At present, it seems to be the fraternity, or some college organization, that brings the men back, rather than the college itself.

Refreshments were served, and the evening closed with a round of college songs.

ANNUAL FACULTY SCRAP.

Over 400 Paid Admissions Last Year.

The annual Medico-academico faculty scrap will take place this year on Thursday P. M., June 18—earlier than usual so that students will be enabled to witness the slaughter. Last year there were over 400 paid admissions. The charge is 25 cents, the money to go towards the support of this year's team, not on old debts. Captain Beecher announces his line-up as follows: L. Allen, 1b.; Wasson, 2b.; Brown, 3b.; Clark, s. s.; Hunter, 1. f.; Marvin, c. f.; Buttles, r. f.; Archambault, c.; Beecher, p. This article has to go to press at once, and Captain Ogle of the academics is down tinkering with his launch so we take the liberty of arranging his line-up for him on the basis of last year's: Blackburn, c.; Slocum, 1b.; Burns, 2b.; Borland, s. s.; Lindsay, 3b.; Tupper, c. f.; Perkins, 1. f.; Ogle, r. f.; Reeves, p.

NEW DEPARTMENT ADDED TO CURRICULA.

In Charge of Prof. S. G. Barnes and Open to Seniors and Juniors.

There has recently been added to the curricula of the university a new department, "The History and Philosophy of Religion," to be in charge of Professor Stephen G. Barnes. The first course in this department will be open next year as an elective for seniors and juniors, three hours a week. The subject for the first semester will be "The History of Religion in the Old Testament Times." The second semester will carry on the study through the period covered by the Gospels.

GRASSMOUNT GARDEN PARTY.

A garden party was given at Grassmount, Friday evening, June 5, by the young women of the three dormitories in honor of the girls of the senior class. A large number were present. The lawn was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. An orchestra composed of a violin, 'cello and piano furnished music, and Swett, '15, sang several selections.

ANNUAL SOPHOMORE BANQUET.

Lively Retinue of Toasts, Class and College Songs.

The sophomores held their annual banquet at Dorn's café on Wednesday night, May 27. Practically all of the academic members as well as several medics sat down to one of "Mike's" famous banquets. Joe Levy acted as toastmaster, and was all there with the oratory. John Berry gave the "Prexy's address" in which he spoke of the great change which had come over the class for the better since their freshman banquet. Other toasts responded to were "Aggie's Apology," by A. D. Seaver, "Medics" by D. J. Roberts, "Frosh" by Joseph Wood. Following these several impromptus were responded to. An enjoyable feature of the evening was the singing of the class and college songs by the quartet composed of D. J. Roberts, Norman Williams, Lindol French and W. E. Lord.

COMMONS CLUB BANQUET.

The Commons Club banquet was held Friday night, June 5, in the Commons Club rooms, Mrs. Parker catering. Between 45 and 50 men attended. Elections were held before the banquet, and are reported elsewhere. Two minute toasts were responded to as follows: M. H. Davis, '15, acting as toastmaster, and G. H. Seiple, '14, giving president's address: Our Honorary Members, Prof. Evan Thomas; Our Alumni, Jasper O. Draffin, '13; The College Plays, J. M. Shedd, '15; The Cynic, L. W. Dean, '15; Ye Crabbe, A. G. Levy, '16; 1915 Ariel, M. D. Powers, '15; 1916 Ariel, N. Williams, '16; Athletics, W. A. Tennien, '17; Kake Walk and Peerade, H. N. Bregstein, '17; The Army, C. C. Buchanan, '15; Seniors, C. W. Mickel, '14; The "Honor Ribbon," L. C. Lovell, '14; Next Year, B. R. Buchanan, '16.

Hermon Club Banquet.

The Mt. Hermon Club held its first Annual banquet Wednesday evening June 3.

Bi-Weekly Tea.

Tea was served in the Sun-Room at Grassmount, Thursday afternoon. The hostesses of the afternoon were Miss Holton, '15; Miss Gardner, '16; Miss Tenny, '17; and Miss Lewitus, '17.

The Y. M. C. A. has recently issued subscription cards which it would like filled out and sent to C. M. Pike, or left at the Y. M. C. A. office as soon as convenient.

Commencement Comes Wednesday,

Commencement.

This is an appeal to the men and women of Vermont, an appeal to pleasure and an appeal to duty, but more than these an appeal to loyalty. Commencement season is almost here again. With it will come old grads to renew the friendships of days gone by, to seek old classmates, and look once more upon campus, dorm and mill. Some have long been separated, by time and by distance, from their alma mater, but in their hearts still beats strong a love for their old Green Mountain College, the College on the Hill; and they're coming back to show their loyalty, to make commencement what it ought to be. Then what of us? Are we going to be here to greet them, or are we going to pack our cases and slink off home, leaving college and commencement to take care of themselves? We could almost call off by name those who will do the former, those who will do the latter. Vermont is striving to make her commencement the great home coming that it is in some of the other colleges. Why not help? The grads want to get a look at us and see what we are doing, we want to get a look at them and see what they are doing. Sometime we'll be grads, proud of our college, proud to come back. While we're here let's work for it, then we'll be all the prouder to come back. Loyalty isn't so much an occasioned outburst of smoker or baseball enthusiasm, it's something that keeps us everlastingly at it, doing our best. We can't all of us boot the lacing out of a football or clout the horse hide over left field fence, but we can all play the game to the best of our ability. So let's make an agreement with our room-mates to stick around and see what's doing, even if it's only for a day or two—it all helps—before we pull out and go to work.

The Dorm.

Sometimes there is a doubt expressed as to whether there is quite union enough among the undergraduates. One of the easiest and quickest ways of fostering union is for more men to room in the Old Mill and the Dorm. At present there seems to be somewhat of a spirit in the right direction. A little more talk would bring several down-town men up on the hill this next year, and from stories current of late there is sport enough to require but little other persuasion. This is a situation we would like the college to consider seriously. Some institutions go as far as to require all freshmen to room in the dormitories. The greatest obstacle to union at the present time is our scattered separation from the campus. Were we collected nearer the center of activities there is scarcely any enterprise but would feel the change.

Examinations.

We are once more in the midst of examinations. It is the appropriate time to speak of an Honor System. The CYNIC does not favor such a system. If Vermont men are of the type to carry such a system through successfully, they are of the type to eliminate cheating without the system, and vice versa. We are not unaware of the conversation now and then current at such times concerning thumb nails, cuffs, watch cases, patent leather shoes, etc.; and are frank to say that any attempt to "put one over" meets with our disapproval, just as it should meet with the disapproval of every man and woman in the institution. Cheating in exams is not a thing to be tolerated, and there should be such a student sentiment against it that it could not live. It is no personal cause for pride that we have to be herded into the gymnasium to keep our honor clean. Ever since Dr. Benton has been president of the institution he has been standing for what is right. We may as well back him up. If anyone thinks this is not a proper stand or for the best good of Vermont we would be pleased to publish his complaint with his own name signed.

The Summer Issue.

According to announcement in this week's issue the CYNIC will this year publish its first mid-summer number. Burlington will never before have been so busy. Present indications show that the summer camp here will be the largest of the four in the United States. The summer school will be by far the most extensive in its history. Many camp men have already indicated their intention of taking courses, and all available room is being utilized.

Town and Gown are uniting to make the events a success. Excursionists will throng the city. Sports, lectures, entertainments will abound. The CYNIC issue will be extra large, it will endeavor to make the news alive, to make it interesting, and to make it a complete record of the summer's life at Burlington. We trust it will help put the CYNIC out of debt.

Cynic Notice.

The CYNIC office will be open during the entire Commencement season. Graduates are invited to drop in and see us. We have plans for the CYNIC and for Vermont, and can tell you what is going on. Incidentally bring $2.00, for no graduate can leave the hill after Commencement season without expecting to keep in touch with it the coming year.

SILVER BAY DELEGATION.

Large Number Will Attend Big Y. W. C. A. Conference.

Vermont will have an unusually large delegation at Silver Bay this year. The Y. W. C. A. is planning to send about fifteen. The girls who will represent the college are Edith Gates, '15; Lou Fullington, '15; Grace Nutting, '15; Bernicia Avery, '15; Alma Holton, '15; Ida Holden, '15; Louisa Douglas, '15; Helen Rutter, '16; Clara Gardner, '16; Lucy Swift, '16; Ruth Stuart, '17; Lessie Cobb, '17; and Blanche Montgomery, '17.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN ON HONORARY BASIS.

The Deutscher Verein held its last meeting for this college year, Thursday evening, May 28, in the Y. W. C. A. Room. The most important business was to put the membership of the Verein on an honor basis. Hereafter only those students who have required standing in scholarship will be admitted to membership.

AT RUTLAND.

Second Team Loses 6-5, Ten Innings.

On Memorial day the second team went to Rutland where they played the Rutland team. The game was a ten inning one and was won by Rutland 6-5. Gilbert pitched a good game, but for costly errors the score would have been 5-1 in favor of the second team. Quigley of Rutland was hit hard. The line-up:

Rutland.—W. Hackett, 1. f.; Hinchey, c. f.; C. Hackett, 1b.; Barrett, 2b.; Tierney, r. f.; Sullivan, s. s.; Ellworth, 3b.; Morrissey, c.; Quigley, p.

Vermont Seconds.—Kelley, 3b.; Ferrin, c.; Hicks, 1b.; Willis, 2b.; Flynn, 1. f.; Butler, s. s.; Glidden, r. f.; Burke, c. f.; Gilbert, p.

WHEN GREEK MEETS TURK.

A rare exhibition of the modern game of baseball was played on the back campus, Monday afternoon, June 1, between the Old Mill Braves and the Converse Hall Giants. The features of the game were too numerous to mention. The final score was 2-4 in favor of the Giants. Real league baseball was not often exhibited. Capt. Reeves umpired.

Giants.—Hayden, p.; Burrage, c.; Little, 1b.; Leonard, 2b.; Squires, s. s.; Mould, 3b.; Douglas, 1. f.; Laity, c. f.; Whalen, r. f.

Braves.—Conner, p.; Osgood, c.; Davis, 1b.; Minkler, 2b.; Greenwood, s. s.; Washburn, 3b.; Stanley, c. f.; McDowell, r. f.; Flint, 1. f.

Holds Banquet Out of Town.

At seven o'clock, May 28, seventy-two members of the freshman class gave a few cheers at the station and boarded the special train which took them to St. Albans where their annual banquet was held at the Colonial Inn. The following speakers and their subjects were introduced by Toastmaster Kelley: C. A. Ames, chairman's address; H. C. Woodard, 1917; H. O. Wilbur, athletics; F. R. Churchill, "aggies"; L. Little, faculty; R. G. Hawley, "coeds"; F. C. Stewart, sophomores; L. P. Nodine, stump speech; H. W. Batchelder, Church St. Impromptus were made by Hinting Wong, A. S. Morgan and C. M. Beckwith. The train left St. Albans at three a. m. The committee was as follows: C. A. Ames, chairman, H. W. Batchelder, G. A. Brooks, R. F. Joyce, F. F. Kellogg, A. J. Morey, R. B. Nenno, R. C. Sanders.

FRATERNITY DANCES.

Kappa Sigma.

The Kappa Sigma Fraternity held an informal dance Friday evening, May 29, at the Hotel Vermont Roof Garden. About twenty-five couples attended. The patrons and patronesses were Mr. & Mrs. Dean Hills and Mr. & Mrs. T. E. Hopkins. Catlin furnished the music.

Cotillion Club.

On the Friday afternoon of junior week the Cotillion Club held a dance at the Hotel Vermont Roof Garden, with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goss and Prof. and Mrs. H. F. Perkins as chaperones. Three of the numbers were favor dances, and the affair was one of the prettiest of the week.

Alpha Kappa Kappa.

On Friday, May 22, Alpha Kappa Kappa Fraternity held a dance at the Van Ness roof garden, which was perhaps the most elaborate and best attended of any of the fraternity dances this season. The hall was tastefully decorated with palms and banks of flowers, Peters, the florist, having charge of the arrangement. Robinson's Orchestra of five pieces furnishing the music and after the dance, which lasted until 12 o'clock, a full course dinner was served in the dining room below. The chaperones were Ex-Gov. Woodbury, Dr. King, Dr. Beecher and wife, Dr. Eastman and wife, Dr. Fiske and wife.

Kappa Alpha Theta.

The Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity gave its annual dance at the Van Ness Roof Garden Friday evening, May 29. Thirty-five couples attended. The chaperones were Professor and Mrs. Freedman and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Gray. Miss Ruth Brownell, '13, Spirit Lake, Iowa, Mr. H. M. Larson, Jr., of Brooklyn, and Mr. Lloyd Robinson of Morrisville, Vermont, were out of town guests. The decorations consisted of baskets of pansies and white lilacs. A very pleasant feature of the evening was the cotillion consisting of four favor numbers and a may-pole dance. Supper was served in the large dining-room. Robinson's orchestra furnished the music.

Delta Mu.

The Delta Mu fraternity held a dance Friday night, May 29, at the Lake Champlain Yacht Club. The chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. P. E. McSweeney, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Beecher, Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Stone, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Pease, and Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Clark.

WINNERS OF GERMAN PRIZES ANNOUNCED.

The results of the prize examination in German are as follows: first prize, $15 and a diploma, open to students taking German V is divided between Miss Spaulding, '15, and Mr. Weeks, '16; second prize, a dictionary and a diploma, for students taking German III, Miss Sparrow, '14, Miss Fauley, '16, honorable mention and a diploma; third prize, medal and diploma, for students in German II, Mr. Yau, '17; fourth prize, a diploma, for students in German I, Miss La Rochelle, '16. The first and third prizes are given by the German-American Alliance, Burlington Branch, and the second prize by Herr Doctor Anton Appelmann, head of the German department. The prizes will be awarded at Commencement. The judges were Mrs. Edward Robinson, Mr. Griffin and Herr Appelmann.

VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD.

Camps at Ft. Ethan Allen and Lakeville, Mass.

The summer encampment of the Vermont National Guard according to orders now issued will extend from July 12 to July 29. The serial from the 12th to the 19th will be employed in target practice at Fort Ethan Allen, and the remaining time will be consumed in manoeuvres in conjunction with other national guard organizations of New England in Massachusetts. Mobilization for manoeuvres will take place at Lakeville, Mass. College men who have had drill may enlist specially for the summer encampment and draw pay for it.

CAMEL'S HUMP TRIP.

Four members of the Out-of-Doors Club took the scheduled trip to Camel's Hump on Memorial Day. The party started by train from Burlington at 7 o'clock in the morning and went to North Duxbury. From there they followed the new trail for a short distance, then cut across country up the side of the mountain. A storm spoiled the view for awhile, but the weather cleared up and the men enjoyed a wonderful sunset. In the evening, the party was joined by an Out-of-Doors man who had been up over Mt. Mansfield. Sunday noon the return trip was started and the men walked to Waterbury, whence they returned to Burlington.

H. S. COMMENCEMENT ADDRESSES.

The following professors are delivering commencement addresses about the state: Prof. M. B. Ogle: Enosburg, June 3; Jericho, June 16; Winooski, June 19; Prof. G. G. Groat, Hyde Park, June 5; Dr. S. G. Barnes, Hinesburg, June 5, and Prof. J. F. Messenger, Belows Falls, June 5.

ZOOLOGICAL PARTY

COMBATS TEMPEST.

About 40 men consisting of Professor H. F. Perkins, his Zoological class, faculty members and other interested persons set out on Thursday last, June 4, for the Four Brothers Islands in order to study the gulls and other birds which make their home there, also their nests and the geological formation of the islands. Running into Thursday's storm, however, they were forced to put about and again seek safety on the hill top.

A UNIVERSITY FLAG.

A University flag, to be presented for one year to the active class having the largest percentage in the Commencement parade, has been purchased by the University. The flag will be carried in the parade. It is of silk with alternate green and yellow stripes, and is the first University flag the college has ever had.

FROM CAPTAIN REEVES.

My dear Mr. Davis:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you and the members of your class for the high honor shown me by dedicating your class publication to me. I want you to feel that my appreciation is much greater than my ability to express it. I have already spent a number of hours reading the pages of the 1915 Ariel, and the time was most enjoyably spent. You and your associates have produced a most interesting book, and one in which your class will take great pride. The literary, artistic and mechanical get-up is fine, and future classes will experience great difficulty in keeping up to the high standard of excellence you have established.

I want to express through you my friendship for every member of the class of '15, and the thought that I will watch the careers of each and every one with the keenest of interest. I want to impress the fact that the friendship expressed is practical as well as sentimental, and if at any time at the college or in future years I am in a position to be of any service, I am yours to command.

Very sincerely yours,
IRA L. REEVES.

THE CLASS OF '86.

The following members of the class of '86 have signified their intention of being present at Commencement: F. D. Forbush, T. L. Jeffords, and W. M. Reed of Washington, D. C., Rev. Benj. Swift of Woodstock, E. M. Wilbur of Berkeley, California, and Mrs. Abbey (Miss Isham), C. J. Wright, E. A. Brodie, F. H. Crandall, and D. L. Cady, who live in or near the city.

1904 Notice.

The class of 1904 will meet at the "Old Mill," Burlington, Tuesday, June 23, 1914, Room A North, opposite Registrar's office. The class will have an important meeting at this time and place.

1917 Notes.

At a meeting of the freshmen Thursday morning, June 4, the U. K. M. A. Society was authorized to make up the freshman rules for next year and money was voted to the junior week peerade committee. The annual initiation and banquet of the U. K. M. A. Society took place Friday, May 29, at Hotel Vermont.

DELTA PSI ENTERS FINALS.

In the inter-fraternity baseball series Delta Psi won from Kappa Sigma 5-3, in a three inning game on Thursday, May 28. Before the game it was agreed it should be called at 5:30 to allow the freshmen to catch their train for the banquet.

The line-up::

Kappa Sigma.—Hurley, p.; Murnan, c.; Abell, 1b.; Leonard, 2b.; Stewart, s. s.; Hayden, 3b.; Glidden, c. f.; Douglas, l. f.; Durfee, r. f.

CUP WON BY DELTA PSI.

The final game of the Interfraternity series for the Key and Serpent cup was played on Centennial field, Wednesday afternoon, June 3, between Delta Psi and Lambda Iota, Delta Psi winning, 15-3. The score would suggest that the game was uninteresting, but except for the fourth and ninth innings the playing was close.

The score:

Innings.....1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Delta Psi.....0 0 0 8 0 0 1 2 4—15

Juniors Take C. C. Cup.

The Commons Club Juniors have won the cup offered by the Key and Serpent Society for interclass games among the members.

Junior Finances Sound.

At the Junior class meeting Friday, June 5, reports were made by the Junior Week Committees and the Ariel, and finances were found to be in an exceedingly good condition. A tax of $1.00 was levied which will leave a surplus in the treasury for next year.

Aquatic Work Started.

The first "Canoe hike" of the Out-of-Doors Club, Sunday afternoon, June 7, was brought to a sudden stop by a rain storm. It was intended to go up the La Plotte river at the foot of Shelburne Bay, but a storm came up a mile out of Burlington, and the party made a quick return to the city. There were 4 canoes and 8 men in the party.

Second Richold Contest.

In the second contest for the Richold-Reeves medals held on Friday, May 29, Ransom, '16, won the gold medal; Hayden, '17, the silver; and Cootey, '16, the bronze. This entitles the winner to hold the medal until the final contest, June 12.

ALUMNI HEADQUARTERS.

Alumni headquarters will be established in the "Mill" in the room adjoining the Registrar's office and having a door open into College Park. This will be the place for registration and the general information bureau. It will be in charge of attendants and will afford all desired accommodations to alumni. A card catalogue of all in attendance at Commencement, containing addresses and telephone numbers and lists of classes, will be kept at headquarters. To make this feature valuable to everyone, each alumnus is urged, at once upon arrival, to report to headquarters (telephone 899) his name, class, Burlington address and telephone number, or to appear in person to register the information.

Commencement programs will be available at headquarters. The program is printed in this issue and it will appear in the daily papers published in Burlington.

HIKES OF CO C, 1st V. N. G.

Men Spend Night in Camp at Oak Ledge and Winooski River.

Wednesday evening, May 27, Co. C, V. N. G., assembled at the armory under command of Capt. St. John, and marched to Oak Ledge, where tents were pitched and the detachment camped over night. Supper and breakfast were cooked over camp fires, built on the beach. After spending an enjoyable night as the mosquitoes would permit, they broke camp at six o'clock and arrived at the gymnasium at 8.00 o'clock a. m.

Several members of Co. C. and a few others accepted the invitation of Co. M., V. N. G. and took the hike to the mouth of the Winooski river, Saturday night, June 6, returning the next day. Rations for 24 hours were carried.

There is a difference between fruit growing and forestry yet most of the directions for fruit growing are directions for producing rapid wood growth only.

This means coming into bearing late and irregular bearing on account of lack of enough available mineral plant food to raise a crop of fruit and to set strong fruit buds in the same season.

POTASH

Two years before the trees are expected to come into bearing the annual application of minerals should begin, using 50 to 100 pounds Muriate of Potash and 100 to 200 pounds of bone, acid phosphate or basic slag per acre.

Potash improves the flavor, shipping quality and keeping power as well as the yield of fruits.

Colgate Turns the Tables—Outfields and Outfits Vermont, and Scores the Fourth 3-2 Victory on Home Team.

After defeating Colgate University on her home grounds last week—and by a big score—the tables were turned Tuesday, June 2, when Vermont lost to the same team through the latter's all-round superior playing by the fatal score of 3-2. It was during a fielding touch of the home team in the first two innings that the visitors got the jump on the ball, and before the fact as realized the runs, necessary for them to win, were secured. Vermont demonstrated her inability to hit, having only three safeties to her credit while Colgate made seven tallies. McLaughlin made several very pretty catches out in center, and Abell in left field played a good game, also at the bat. Brown held Vermont down to three scattered hits, and Malcolm had fine strike-outs to his credit, but showed his lack of use. Vermont made two neat double plays—one, a liner caught by Fraser who threw a man out at first; in the other, Mayforth an forward, catching a bunt fly and ringing a base-runner out at first. Vermont scored once in the first inning. After Maiden went out at first, and after Berry flew out to Robinson, Mayforth singled and stole second. While Fraser was at the bat the opposing pitcher, Brown, made a wild pitch and Mayforth, who had started third, came home. Fraser went out at first.

Vermont scored her only other run in the third. Malcolm, the first man up, went out at first and Maiden, struck out. Berry singled, stole second, and crossed home plate when Mayforth belted the ball to the extent of a two-agger. Fraser popped a little fly to Stewart, making three out. Only once after this inning were there more than three Vermont men at bat, and the only possible chance to score came in the last inning. Mayforth, the first man up walked and stole second, but died there as the next three men went out in one-two-three order.

Colgate scored her three runs in the first two innings. Robinson flew out to Gallagher, but McLaughlin got a single and was advanced to second by Fraser's error of Glendenning's grounder. McLaughlin came home on Abell's single and Glendenning scored when Malcolm, who had run to the plate, missed Mayforth's poor throw. The next two men at bat flew out, Edgerton to Gallagher and Stewart to Linnehan.

The visitors' other score came in the second inning when Goundry went to first on Fraser's error, was advanced to third by Jackson's fielder's choice, and came home on a passed ball.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF SIGMA PHI AT BURLINGTON.

Visiting Sigs Will be Entertained by Local Chapter at Close of Commencement Week.

The eighty-seventh annual convention of the Sigma Phi Society will be held at the University of Vermont on June 26th and 27th next. All visiting Sigs will be guests of the Alpha of Vermont and will be entertained in the homes of resident Sigs, at Sigma Phi Place, and in the buildings of the university, which have been tendered to the society for its use during the convention. The sessions of the convention will be held in the Billings Library, sleeping accommodations will be provided at Converse hall and board will be procured at the gymnasium, which will be put to that use, owing to the limited space at Commons hall. On Friday the 26th, President Benton will make the address of welcome, which will be followed by the organization and session of the convention. The afternoon will be taken up with automobiling, golf, etc., and in the evening a reception will be held. On Saturday morning the principal business will be transacted, and in the afternoon some form of outdoor entertainment will take place. The convention will end with a boatripe to Bluff Point, N. Y., and a banquet at Hotel Champlain on Saturday evening.

ENGINEERS TAKE TRIP.

Hereafter to be Required of Seniors.

Dean Votey, Professors Freedman and Robinson and about fifteen men of the two upper classes in the engineering department left Monday morning, May 25, to visit manufacturing plants in southern Vermont. The trip occupied three days. The places visited on the trip were the Vermont Marble Co., at Proctor; the Patch Manufacturing Co., the Howe Scale Works and the Chittenden dam at Rutland; the bridge and paper mills at Bellows Falls; the water power at Brattleboro; and the Jones, Lamson Co., at Springfield. The trip this year was voluntary, but in the future these trips will be required of all senior engineers.

BAND BOATRIDE.*Most Successful and Best Attended.

This year the annual band boatripe was the most successful and the best attended that has ever been held. About four hundred people boarded the Ticonderoga at seven-thirty on Saturday evening May 30th. The wind was a little cold at times, but otherwise the night was ideal for the occasion. The boat headed south, stopped at Essex, held her course as far as Split Rock Lights, swung back through the islands, and home, being on the lake about four hours.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK IS GROWING IN IMPORTANCE

110th SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Pleasant Weather for Entire Week—Baccalaureate Sermon by President Benton —Class Day, Alumni Day and Commencement All Busy and Successful—112 Receive Diplomas.

In accordance with the policy of the University to make Commencement of ever increasing attractiveness and a more complete and loyal home-coming the 110th was the most successful yet held. More alumni were back, they were more enthusiastic, and more pains were taken for their reception. Many were here for the game with Dartmouth Saturday afternoon. Vermont won 10 to 4. In the evening, the annual prize speaking of sophomores and freshmen was held at the College Street Church. This is reported elsewhere. The exercises were formally ushered in by the #### Baccalaureate Service.

On the college green, Sunday afternoon, June 21st, at half past four o'clock. The sermon was delivered by President Guy Potter Benton. The day was perfect and over 1,500 people were in attendance.

The procession was led by President Benton, Grand Marshal C. E. Allen, and the senior marshals, L. W. Batchelder and G. L. Steele. In the column marched Hon. Robert Roberts, Chief Justice Powers and Hon. Elias Lyman of the board of trustees, the Rev. E. G. Guthrie, the Rev. C. J. Staples, the academic and medical faculties and the seniors. The procession formed in front of the Williams Science Hall, and marched across the green to the improvised auditorium beneath the pine grove near the north end of the campus.

On the platform were President Benton, Prof. J. E. Goodrich, Dean G. H. Perkins, Dean J. W. Votey, Dean J. L. Hills, Prof. S. F. Emerson, and Dean N. F. Merrill. Music was furnished by Barton's orchestra and a male choir of twelve in charge of Guy N. Hull. The order of exercises follows: I. Processional. II. Invocation. III. Doxology. IV. First Scripture Lesson, Deuteronomy I, 5-21, Dean G. H. Perkins. V. Gloria Patri. VI. Second Scripture Lesson, Revelation XXI, 1-10; Prof. S. F. Emerson. VII. Prayer. VIII. Hymn, "All Saints." IX. Sermon, "Marching Orders," Deuteronomy I, 6. X. Closing Prayer. XI. Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers." XII. Benediction.

The text of the President's sermon is found in Deuteronomy I, 6. "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount." The sermon may be summarized as follows:

Movement is a condition of existence and progress is the law of life. For the progress of civilization four things are necessary: first, leadership; second, activity; third, rest; and fourth, obedience.

The necessity of leadership for the progress of the many is shown by the history of the Jews. God called Abraham and Moses to be leaders of Israel and through them he spoke to his chosen people. Anarchy, which signifies "lack of leadership" is always the foe of progress. To this fact the story of Israel under the Judges bears ample witness. Without Moses the command: "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount," would have been of no avail.

The effort of the socialist to bring all men to a dead level is in direct opposition to the teaching of history in regard to leadership, and the rapid continued advance of humanity under efficient leaders is the best possible refutation of socialistic doctrine.

There can not be many leaders among men, nor is it advisable for all to aspire to leadership, although the very complexity of our civilization is ever calling for more pioneers. Not all can lead, but he who follows aright often performs a service to humanity which is as difficult and as valuable. But whether we follow or lead, let us make the most of the talents God has given us and move onward in obedience to the command given to Moses: "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount."

The second essential to progress is earnest effort on the part of those vitally concerned. The necessity of work, of activity, is so evident that little needs to be said of it, above all in America where the tension of life is so high. Activity is essential, but not a whit less essential is rest, rest of the wholesome kind that leaves body and mind fresh to resume the work of life. In the hurry to get a living, do not forget to take time enough to live, to know nature, and man, and God.

The final essential to progress is obedience. The surrender of man's will to God's will is the inevitable necessity which confronts everyone who looks

MAYFORTH TO CAPTAIN BASEBALL.

HAROLD A. MAYFORTH.

Just prior to the Middlebury game on Saturday, June 13, it was announced that Harold A. Mayforth of Springfield, Mass., had been elected captain of the team for the ensuing year. Mayforth prepared at Williston Seminary. For three years he has been the pride of Vermont behind the bat, his catching, throwing and base work have been features of all the games. Aside from being one of the headiest and most experienced players on the team, he is a player of rare popularity and a man whose personality and bearing have won him the confidence of all. The goodwill of everyone will go with him as he leads the team next year.

SUMMER CAMP OPENS JULY 6TH

Co. L Already on the Grounds—Full Equipment Arriving—Special Instruction in Horsemanship, Shooting, Signaling, Hygiene and Field Service.

The Students' Military Camp, to be held here this summer, will officially open on July 6th. As to the number who will attend, the latest estimate places it at three hundred and fifty, which makes it the largest of the four. Several activities in connection with the camp have already begun.

On June 11, Company L, 5th Infantry, with three officers, seventy-two enlisted men, and a detachment of hospital corps, reached Burlington and went into camp. More than three carloads of quartermasters' stores were

BASEBALL, TRACK AND TENNIS ELECTIONS.

Returns from the engineering camp have been received for the managerial elections with the following results in elections: Baseball: manager, Harold A. Gardyne, '15, of Orleans; assistant managers, Fred N. Raymond, '16, of Dalton, Mass.; and John R. Berry, '16, of Montpelier. Track: manager, Joseph B. Johnson, '15, of Springfield; assistant manager, Arthur G. Levy, '16, of Rutland. Tennis: manager, William E. Remby, '15, of Winthrop, Mass.; assistant manager, Raymond L. ## DARTMOUTH AT MERCY OF VERMONT

TIE GAME WITH WILLIAMS

Nine Runs in the 5th Loses Game with Chinese—Upham Stars in the Box.

On Saturday, June 20, Vermont met Dartmouth in the second annual contest of the season, retrieving her first defeat of May 7 just as a week ago she retrieved her defeat from Middlebury. The attendance was larger than that at the Middlebury game, and the excitement ran higher. Under the eyes of returning alumni the team played as it has scarcely played before this season. Hard playing was a feature of the Middlebury game, but hard playing and brilliant playing were the features of the Dartmouth game. From the moment Maiden crossed the plate in the first inning till the last Dartmouth man swung out in the last, Vermont, on the field and in the bleachers, kept at them, piling up the runs and winning. The final score was 10 to 4. Hallett, Perry and Katie, fast succeeding one another in the box, were all at the mercy of the Vermont batsmen, while Gallagher, throwing for Vermont, pitched hard and well, holding the game in his possession. Fraser and Maiden both starred on Vermont's infield, Fitzpatrick and Malcolm, in the out. Dartmouth played an errorless game, Wanamaker and Roland being particularly worthy of mention. As usual, Mayforth's throwing was strong.

Everybody hit hard and in the pinches. In the first, Maiden and Fitzpatrick both singled, the former scoring. In the merry-go-round of the fifth when five runs were made, Mayforth walked, Fitzpatrick singled again, Fraser hit to Roland and Mayforth slid home. Linnehan hit safe, Merrill lined out a two-bagger and Malcolm went him one better with a three. Fitzpatrick, Fraser, Linnehan and Merrill had all scored. Perry succeeded Hallett. In the fifth, with one toward the future, hopeful of the highest realization. Success in the truest sense is the outcome of activity directed by character and conscience, and these are the result of obedience and faith in God. There is work to do in the world and you are called to do your part. If you do it well the reward will come either in this world or the next. The possibilities of progress are infinite. See that your ears are open when God says to you: "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount."

"An epitaph in a quiet English graveyard reads: 'Here endeth the first lesson.' With the close of your college life next Wednesday you may more truly say: 'Here endeth the first lesson.' If this first lesson has been well learned, you will know that all progress in the future is to come because of ceaseless activity, of growing rest and of implicit obedience to the voice of God."

CLASS DAY.

Class day, Monday, June 22, opened at 9.00 A. M. with the senior class walk. Starting at President Benton's, the class went the rounds of about twenty of the faculty, ending up with "Nate" at the Old Mill. Everywhere they were treated to speeches, some humorous, some of farewell, some dwelling on their duties as alumni of the University. Professor Daniel's brief talk was particularly touching. This year marks the end of his teaching career. At Professor Tupper's the wanderers were treated to cigars and lemonade.

Following this, at 11.00 o'clock, were held the departmental reunions. At this hour, instructors received alumni and visitors in the various rooms and laboratories. This was the more interesting because of the improvements made the last year or two in the quarters of several of the departments.

The class day exercises were held on the college green at 2.00 P. M. Just previous to this, at 1.30, the class met and elected the following officers of the permanent class organization: President, Richard S. Farr of Lodi, N. Y.; vice-presidents, Vernon T. Dow of Hinesburg, Miss Isabel Spofford of Burlington and Percy E. Buck of Newport; secretary, William J. C. Agnew of High Falls, N. Y.; assistant secretary, David W. Howe of Burlington; treasurer, F. J. Ennis of Bridgeport, Conn.; assistant treasurer, Ramon C. Downing of Bellows Falls.

The class then formed in front of the library and led by class marshal L. W. Batchelder, carrying the class banner of green and white, marched down onto the green beneath the grove pines. President St. John and the speakers sat upon the small platform which was decorated with palms. President St. John presided over the exercises and gave the opening address. Barton's orchestra furnished the music.

President's Address.

The address reviewed in memory the past, its fortunes, good and bad, and declared the thanks of the class due to instructors and friends for many courtesies rendered. "The past had taught the class ambition, love, and loyalty to Vermont, their alma mater," said St. John, but looking ahead into the future, he expressed the wish that though "Great in the past, may the future be greater."

Class History.

David Willard Howe in calling to mind the record of the past asserted that history is a record of civilization, and that the class of 1914 is now civilized. He recalled the opening and last chapel address of the late President Buckham, and expressed the awe and reverence experienced by the class toward him. Cane rushes, proc nights, and banquets were remembered, and foremost among the latter stands the Plattsburg banquet, the last of its kind, characterized by wit, humour and spirit, but unnecessary and on the wane. The Dartmouth celebration was another of the "high spots," long remembered. In the sophomore year President Benton came, and the class has come to admire him and appreciate his sympathetic interest. Athletics, military science, class celebrities and meetings were not forgotten, and received their share of attention. The interfraternity council and the record-breaking kake walk seemed the big things of senior year. The University and the instructors have become endeared to the class, and they appreciate that they have shouldered a debt to the University which cannot be repaid.

Class Essay.

Georgia Elizabeth Gifford considered the requisites of national life and national development in "The Discovery of America." Two laws of life are self-discovery and self-realization. America is partly self-discovered and only partly. Instead of becoming overconfident as is the tendency in this commercial age, we should learn the elements of weakness and strength in our national life and discover, a love of the ideal, a love for the intangible, unseen things. A part of this is culture, but culture should be considered an end, not an incident. The result will be the attainment of the quiet life. "On every height there lies repose." We should follow a love of beauty and the good, and bend our knee not to the material but to the ideal.

Boulder Oration.

John Walden Bartlett gave the history of the Boulder. This great piece of nature's handiwork was one of two pieces taken from a pot-hole in Hartford. Ground by the swirling waters of a mountain stream it grew smaller and smaller and assumed a spherical shape. Professor Hitchcock of Dartmouth desired it for that college, but Mr. Payne of the Central Vermont Railroad, a loyal Vermonter, retained it and brought it to U. V. M., where it has had a varied history. The Boulder is a reminder of two kinds of college education, the one bought from books, instructors, etc.; the other a knowledge of life gained from communication with fellow students and the manifestations of college life. They are the education of the head and the education of the heart. We are but freshmen entering a class from which we shall never graduate, where we must become good and loyal citizens.

Campus Oration.

Karl Albert Emerson declared in the campus oration that the whole student life is associated with the campus. The mere name brings up happy memories and revered traditions, memories of unrecorded things. The campus has taught life and things that books do not. Books are artificial, life is real. We of this class are now passing to a broader and more far reaching campus and its centuries of tradition. College is really a preliminary training for social service, and we must do our part. But, whatever the future, let us never forget our alma mater and the campus which has influenced our lives so much.

Class Poem.

Ruth Marie Rogers read the class poem.

If you walk along the path of today,
And follow its every bend,
You come at length to a break in the road,
The path of today must end.

Two branches tend from this fork in the road,
Each leads to another day;
Tomorrow lies in the distance afar,
Which path shall be your way?

You may take your choice of these branches two,
And follow the one you will;
You may choose the path over mountains high,
Or the one through valleys still.

For these two ways are tomorrow's roads,
They lead to an untrod land;
Unlike are the prospects which they unfold
To head, and heart, and hand.

There are those who travel the primrose path,
Aimlessly chosen erstwhile,
And loiter along to the last milestone,
Lured on by Fortune's smile.

But a will-of-the-wisp is Fortune's face,
Her smile is too soon away;
And at night she points with a mocking glance
To a fruitless end of the day.

The mountain road is a toilsome climb,
And weary the feet will grow;
Fell danger lurks in each rocky crag,
Progress is halting and slow.

Of the few who choose the mountain road—
Steep, thorny, ascent to fame—
Those only who scale the highest cliffs
Win the rare reward of a name.

Though the primrose path be lined with ease,
And measures lightly each mile;
It's not through walks with petals strewn
That we find the things worth while.

Our every step up the mountain road
Must mean some victory won;
Then, over the mountain's craggy crest,
Will rise tomorrow's sun.

Library and soothed my tired nerves with my class pipe. Soon Edgar Allen Poe broke in on my reverie, and going deep into the Rubyat grasped old Omar by the hand, who stepped forth and said: "Come fill the pipe and in the fire of spring the blue books of examinations fling." Meditation turned upon baseball, where upon classic Cicero exclaimed "O tempora, O mores, O punk!" Virgil chimed in "I sing of the arms and the feats of the class of 1914, which came to the Vermont campus to sandpaper their intellects." The Plattsburg banquet, Hay Hill serenade, Mother Cynic and Nephew Crabbe, appear and retire. Suddenly a mild southern voice is heard giving examination questions, one of which is: "Who put the OK in smoke." Other voices are heard, Horace advising, "Seize the moment and set your faces bravely toward tomorrow's sun." Another revered voice chimes in: "Men of Vermont, you are the very elect." Let us see that the ideas of our illustrious leader become a reality and not a dream, which passes away like the smoke from our pipes.

Address to Undergraduates.

Fordyce Samson Sykes delivered the address to the undergraduates. This culmination of the four years of college is a time of meditation and reflection. Some things are to be cherished above others, what is most worth while? College includes three schools; the school of books, the school of instructors, and the school of fellow students; and the latter is of lasting and permanent value. In this happy communion between man and man in which success and failure merge alike, one or two friendships are treasured in the heart, which will remain 'til death. In this friendship there is no romance, but an inexpressible understanding and sympathy, where heart secrets are shared and the craving for companionship is satisfied. Men come to college, brush against each other, and then go out in the world upheld by an unaltering friendship and ready for life's battle.

Ivy Oration.

Joseph Edward Carrigan delivered the ivy oration. The new ivy, carefully watched and nurtured by the gardener is now set out and thrown upon the world to care for itself, but new leaves will burst out and fresh roots will force their way through the soil and reach a new life. So with the class of 1914; we are now thrown upon our own resources to fight the battle of life alone after our guarded life thus far; and, as with the ivy, we have a special duty of making the world better through our presence. Let each one of us accomplish some thing before next year's reunion, let each one of us throw out leaves of good influence—for the good of ourself, of the class, and the name of old Vermont.

Fraternity Receptions.

After the exercises, at 4.00 o'clock, fraternity receptions were held at Lambda Iota, Sigma Phi, Delta Psi and Sigma Nu at their respective chapter houses.

Lambda Iota: Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Wright, Prof. Robert D. Thomson, Miss Bertha Hills, Miss Lilla Montgomery, Humphrey Styles and L. W. Batchelder were in the receiving line. The Misses Grace Scofield, Marguerite Merrill, Hazel Kimball and Anna Ward served. Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook and Mrs. E. A. Brodie poured.

Sigma Phi: In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stearns, A. W. Dow, Miss Laura Wales, A. E. Moore and Miss Dorothy Gates. Mrs. John W. Goss and Miss Dorothy Chase served, assisted by the Misses Marguerite Moore, Frances Farnham, Ruby Howe, Katharine Dow, Ellen Wood and Martha Pattridge.

Delta Psi: The receiving line consisted of Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Goodrich, Judge and Mrs. G. M. Powers, B. W. McFarland and Miss Marjorie Ayer. Mrs. Max Powell, Miss Esther Ayer, Miss Gladys Fauley, Miss Cornelia Vaughn and Miss Hazel Fisk served.

Beta Sigma of Sigma Nu. In the receiving line were Professor and Mrs. Aiken, Prof. and Mrs. J. F. Messenger and Messrs. John Bartlett, Dwight M. Bartlett, E. W. Ellis and K. A. Emerson.

Phi Beta Kappa.

At 7.00 P. M. occurred the business meeting of Phi Beta Kappa in Williams Science Hall. The following members of the graduating class were admitted to membership:

Henry Albon Bailey, Winooski; Miss Dorothy Cook, Burlington; Miss Katherine Dewey, Royalton; Miss Florence Cox, Wilder; Vernon T. Dow, Hinesburg; Raymond C. Downing, Bellows Falls; Miss Ruth Durfee, Burlington; Miss Georgia E. Gifford, Springfield; Harold P. Gaylord, Brookfield; David W. Howe, Burlington; Miss Margaret Johnson, Orange, N. J.; Miss Ruth P. O'Sullivan, Burlington; Miss Nina G. Shepardson, Richmond; Miss Jeanette M. Sparrow, South Orange, N. J.

Meeting of Trustees.

At the meeting of the board of trustees at 7:30 Dr. Benton presented his report for the year marking the progress of the University under the heads of student attendance, student activities, religious life, the educational staff, business management, the military camp and summer school, with a forecast of plans for the future.

Senior Prom.

The annual senior prom was held as usual at 8:00 in the library. Barton's orchestra of 12 pieces furnished the music for an order of 23 dances. Miss Lucinda Smith catered. A large number of alumni and friends attended as guests of the senior class. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Benton, Capt. and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, Dean and Mrs. Henry C. Tinkham, Prof. and Mrs. William H. Freedman, Pres. Adrian St. John of the senior class, Miss Marie McMahon, Louis W. Batchelder, chairman of the committee, and Miss Lilla Montgomery.

ALUMNI DAY.

Alumni Day, Tuesday, was a record smasher, and in it Vermont began to see her hopes realized. It commenced at 9:00 a. m. with a meeting of the trustees at the library of the medical college. Professor Elijah Swift, Ph. D., was appointed head of the mathematics department, taking the place of Professor Daniels; and Dr. George Howard Burrows, head of the department of chemistry, taking the place of Professor Merrill. The initiation meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa was held in the senior lecture room at the same hour. All the morning alumni were gathering on the hill-top, and their enthusiasm and spirit gave evidence of what a Vermont commencement is soon going to become. All day long more excitement was in the air than ever before on such an occasion. Undergraduates as well as graduates felt the contagion of excitement '04 gaily caparisoned, moving through the town with its tally-ho, shouting the cheers of Vermont, was an inspiration to all. Nor did its spirit wane at the baseball game in the afternoon. The class of '89, besides having the largest twenty-fifth reunion ever held at the University, helped things along for the future by offering a cup to be given annually to the class having the most original costume and stunt for the alumni day activities.

Annual Luncheon.

Thirty-one alumni, wives and children, instructors, seniors, and friends attended the alumni breakfast at noon. The Rev. E. C. Bass, '59, presided. The Rev. Dr. Torrey, '52, invoked the devine blessing. Professor Merrill and Professor Daniels, who retire this year, were both loudly cheered. President Benton was the first speaker. He spoke of Sho Nemoto, '89, and read the letter containing the gift of $250 recently received from him. A short time ago this same letter was read before the student body. President Benton further announced that whereas there was a deficit of $10,000 two years ago, there is now, thanks to Treasurer Smith, a little surplus on hand. Field Secretary I. L. Rich, then spoke of the endowment fund now one-half completed; D. G. Moore, '58, one of the oldest living graduates, declared his love and friendship for the University to be as warm as ever, and that he would continue to stand by it as long as strength and life should last. Dean Tinkham uncompromisingly declared that the medical college should not go. Mrs. Jessie Wright Whitcomb, '84, back for the first time, praised the splendid way in which Vermont was opening her doors to girls for their education. D. J. Boynton and F. D. Hoyt of the class of '64 were the next speakers. '64 sent a larger percentage of men to the Civil War than any other class. J. C. Sherburne, '04, the first Rhodes scholar, spoke in behalf of keeping the University small. G. L. Green, '06, spoke on the development of the Agricultural College, and then the class of 1914 was formally received

This Summer.

This is the last opportunity the CYNIC will have to register a plea for more students next year. Vermont needs them and deserves them, and we can get them if we go after them. We never know where a good word will take effect. There are two classes of colleges—the large college and the small. Some men prefer one, some the other. Vermont with her six hundred students would fall under the latter class. As a small university it is one of the best, ranking high in class A. It has not only the advantages of a small college, but in addition those of a small university. Its situation alone is enough to tempt one to spend the four years of his college life in Burlington. One thing that Vermont might feature more than she does is the cheap living rates. For a college city, boarding and lodging and other expenses are exceedingly low. Such things as these justify us in speaking to any man about coming to Vermont and the getting of students rests largely with the students themselves. A word from an alumnus means a great deal, more than most of us are inclined to believe unless we have had the experience. More students means that the city will cease absorbing college interests, and college interests will begin to absorb those of the city, it means more men of ability and a flourishing of all activities, the growth of Vermont by leaps and bounds. However, this can't be accomplished by sitting still and waiting for our friends to suggest that they might like to come to Vermont.

The Tennis Courts.

It may be impossible—or considered so—to put the other two tennis courts into shape for the summer, but we would like to see it done even though it is impossible. It excuses us to look out of the CYNIC window across weed grown courts to where the warriors are drilling, and think of the impression that may be left on the men of the summer school and camp. Both divisions will want to use the courts, and will consider it strange that they are not in condition. One is in good shape, another in fair shape, and the third in no shape. Were the student management here we would suggest that they set a noble example by gathering a few men and going at it themselves; they, however, being absent, we would suggest, in the second place, that some generous hearted alumnus, a former wielder of the racket, donate twenty-five or fifty dollars to do the thing up brown. All else failing, the University still stands.

Commencement.

Commencement is over. It was the best Commencement Vermont has ever had. More students remained than in previous years, and the idea of the prize banner to be given to the class having the largest attendance in the parade Commencement day brought forth encouraging results. The rivalry should grow as '16 strives to maintain it next year. We wish that still more students might have stayed. The alumni got into things and made it seem like a real Commencement. If they could but realize what their influence means to undergraduates they would come back year by year and shake the buildings on the hill tops with enthusiasm. There was no undergraduate but felt inspired as he saw gaily bedecked, old '04 parade the streets in its tally-ho, cheering for Vermont. Life is what is needed at these reunions, and life we are beginning to get. The cup offered by the class of '89 for the class which displays the most originality in the costumes and stunts of alumni day is a stride in the right direction and brings a bit of rejoicing from every man interested in the welfare of Vermont. Of the loyalty and sincerity of talks and speeches we can say nothing. It would almost pay the university to provide for all undergraduates to be present at them.

The College Store.

Considerable dissatisfaction has been shown among the students of the medical and academic colleges because of the removal of the store to the medical building next year. Everyone realizes that it will serve to bring the men of the two colleges more in unison and for that reason alone the project may be well warranted, but beyond this, men fail to see the advantage. It will put the medical building to severe usage, will make it decidedly unhandy for those who patronize the store most, and will mean an appreciable loss of trade whether the enterprise be in individual or University hands. A communication stating the reason for the change we know would be greatly appreciated.

Cynic Notice.

The summer number will be out August 15 or earlier. It will contain tain but little advertising, etc., and will probably be illustrated. Graduates are subscribing better than undergraduates. The more subscriptions we get the better we can make the paper. Going into so many hands as it will, it should prove a first class advertising agency for Vermont. If one does not care for a copy himself, it will make a good "handle" to talk Vermont with. Pass it on.

down, Mayforth drew a two-bagger, went third on Fitzpatrick's sacrifice fly, Fraser singled, Linnehan tripled. Two runs. Berry's hit came in the seventh—two bases, Fitzpatrick came across with his third safety, and Berry scored on the latter's fake steal second. In the eighth, Linnehan and Malcolm both walked, Linnehan stole third and came home on Maiden's hit to short.

Dartmouth's first run came in the fourth. With one down, Mendall and Low hit safely, Mendall coming home on a passed ball through Mayforth. In the sixth, Mendall again hit safe and Low followed with three bases. Wanamaker's sacrifice fly to center brought Low home. The Green's last tally came in the seventh. Katie walked, Sullivan hit, Kimball got hit, and Loudon sent out a sacrifice fly, scoring Katie.

into the alumni union, D. W. Howe responding for the class.

At the meeting of the associate alumni, held just previous to the luncheon, Professor J. R. Wheeler was nominated as a member of the board of trustees. Professor Goodrich reported nineteen deaths in the academic alumni since last year. Considerable business of an organization nature was transacted.

President's Reception.

At 4:00 o'clock the president's reception to trustees, alumni and visiting friends was held at the president's house. Miss Mary Lyman and Miss Helen Benton introduced the guests, Mrs. Mabel E. Stone and Mrs. F. W. Sears served, assisted by young ladies of the university. Refreshments were served on the lawn. Romeo's orchestra furnished music.

Medical Alumni Banquet.

A very successful medical alumni banquet was held at 6:00 in the evening. The alumni opened their hearts to the younger men, and the younger men received a new idea of their profession. Fourteen alumni have died the past year. About 55 were present. President A. L. Bingham of Williston presided and the following made speeches: Dr. John French of Milford, Mass.; Dr. A. F. A. King of Washington, D. C.; Dr. U. A. Woodbury of this city; Dr. Samuel Lloyd of New York city; Dr. F. E. Clark and Dr. H. C. Tinkham of this city, President G. L. Steele of the medical seniors, Dr. A. J. Golden of Minneapolis, and Dr. J. D. Tanner of this city. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. W. S. Vincent, '61; vice-presidents, Drs. C. W. Jackson, '84, J. M. French, '17, A. J. Golden, '73, O. G. Stickney, '84, E. H. Hackett, '84, M. E. Varney, '89; secretary-treasurer, Dr. F. K. Jackson, '99; executive committee, Drs. Robert Maynard, '11, J. A. Archambault, '01, E. H. Buttles, '08, Benjamin Adams, '10; obituary committee, Drs. C. N. Ferrin, '59, F. K. Jackson, '99, G. H. Parmenter, '02.

Commons Club Alumni Association.

The senior members of the U. V. M. Commons Club and the non-fraternity alumni present at commencement held a joint meeting and formed a Commons Club Alumni Association. Its purpose will be to keep a guiding hand on the undergraduate organization and to give them financial and other assistance. Officers for the year 1914-15 were elected as follows: President, Jasper O. Draffin, '13, of Burlington; secretary, Clarence H. Adams, '12, of Rutland; undergraduate secretary, Merle H. Davis, '15, of Johnson; executive committee, John B. Norton, '13, of Amherst, Mass.; Clarence W. Mickel, '14, of Whitinsville, Mass.; Milton B. Morrow, '14, of Arlington.

Class Reunions.

A number of class reunions were held during the day. The class of 1889 celebrated its 25th anniversary in a memorable way. A breakfast was held at the Hotel Vermont in the morning. Forty-five were present, a number which broke all records for a 25th reunion at the university. There were 16 graduates, 8 non-graduates and 21 members of the class family. At 4:30 p. m., the party took autos for Grand Isle, where they spent the evening as guests of one of the class, F. A. Briggs, at his hotel the Island Villa.

At 8:30 in the morning the lively white-trousered, Mexican-hatted class of '04 held a reunion at the Van Ness roof garden. In the early evening they attended the reception in their honor at Professor and Mrs. Emerson's.

'94, to the number of 12 gathered at the Van Ness for their reunion in the evening; '99 met for breakfast at the Ethan Allen Club; and '13 for lunch at the Van Ness roof garden.

Fraternity Reunions.

A rousing time was had at the fraternity receptions at 9:00 p. m. Kappa Sigma's was held at the Vermont. Sigma Nu's at the chapter house, Phi Delta Theta's at the Van Ness, Alpha Tau Omega's at the chapter house, Delta Psi's and Alpha Zeta's at the respective chapter houses, Sigma Phi's was omitted because of the national convention Friday and Saturday.

Campus Fire.

At nearly the same time as the fraternity reunions the annual camp fire was being held on the back campus. Alumni, undergraduates and friends gathered in the dusk about the smouldering embers, singing the songs of Old Vermont, cheering for class and college.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

Commencement Day proper began at 10:30 a. m., with the procession of trustees, faculties, guests, alumni, members of the graduating class, and undergraduates, from the College Green to the college gymnasium. The banner offered to the class having the largest percentage present was won by the sophomores. The gymnasium was tastefully decorated with national and class flags, the speakers' stand covered with a profusion of palms interspersed with flowers of gold.

The Address.

The commencement address was delivered by the Rev. William Frazer McDowell, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Chicago, Illinois. His theme was "The American Scholar," or rather "The Modern Scholar." A summary of the address follows:

The power of clear, accurate, sustained, relentless thinking is the first attribute of the real scholar. The present is an age of talk, for the most part unseasoned by thought. Men are too prone to opinion, oftentimes hurriedly formed and stubbornly adhered to, yet having no solid basis in thought. Straight thinking, in order to get at the truth of things, is essential to the best in life. Truth, as many of us see it, is the outgrowth of local interests, and is dimmed by local prejudice. The rich tints of an autumn landscape appear only as a uniform blur of color when viewed through scenery-glasses, and too often our mental vision is obscured in the same way. The scholar's aim should be not only to see the truth clearly but to see it all. Unlike the astronomer in his observatory who focuses his attention on a single star, he should let his eyes range over the whole heaven. The first function of scholarship, then, is to get at all the truth and from every source, for the truth never hurts in the end. The true scholar must look at things squarely without prejudice, without passion, without narrowness and without cowardice, and then endeavor to guide his fellows by the light of the truth which he finds.

The modern scholar must be a human being. The day of the philosopher who is a mere seeker after knowledge and who despises or ignores the mass of human kind is long past. The scholar of to-day no longer cares for knowledge for its own sake alone, but chiefly for what it will do for men. He is expected to push back the borders of the unendurable as well as those of the unknown. There is no academic seclusion now. The street runs through the campus and into that street the scholar goes, if he be truly such, to help by means of the truth the man in the ditch, him who is a man none the less and by virtue of his humanity a brother. The second duty of the scholar is loving service to his fellow-men.

The third attribute of the real scholar is purity of motive, and even more, magnitude of motive. Motives are difficult of analysis and are scarcely ever pure white or black. Purity of motive is important but in speaking to college men and women such as you are it may be assumed. By far the more important thing is magnitude of motive. It takes a lot of water to float a ship, if it is big enough to amount to anything, and it takes a tremendous motive to float a life. The need of it is not so evident now when you are young and confident and hopeful, but what of thirty years from now, when the fires of youth are burning lower? Will your motives enable you to live nobly and do your part in life then, or will you be one of those of whom Emerson says that they are just wearing out their shoes? The scholar, then, has pure motives and motives big enough to carry him through life.

And finally, the scholar must have a firm and unshaken faith in God, the God of truth and love. The aim of all criticism is an attitude of assurance and not of question. Faith is trusting, obeying and giving one's life to the eternal truths that a thousand years have proved true. It is not a leap in the dark. It is necessary always, but above all when the storms of life come the man of faith need fear nothing, trusting not in the firmness of his foundation but in the fact that he has wings, the wings of faith. Clear thinking, humanity, large, pure motives and faith in God—these are what make the scholar what he is.

The Boatride.

Under rather inauspicious weather conditions, the first of the week, the senior boatride started at 5:30 o'clock for the annual trip to Bluff Point. Arriving at the point, a dance was held until 1:00 a. m., at Hotel Champlain, at which time an hour's banquet was served. The ride has grown in popularity and a large number attended despite the rain which set in late. Exceptional care was taken with the ride, and the music in particular was excellent. The party arrived in Burlington at about 4:00 o'clock. This closed the festivities of the week.

Especial credit is due the faculty committee in charge during the week for handling the complexity of activities so smoothly. This committee was composed of Professor H. F. Perkins, chairman; Professors Ogle, Gifford, Hooper, Swan and Reeves.

JUNE SPREADS.

Pi Beta Phi.

Pi Beta Phi held its annual June spread at the Hotel Vermont, Saturday evening, June 20. Covers were laid for about thirty-five. The toastmistress was Miss Jennie Rowell. Toasts were given by Miss Dorothy Cook, '14; Miss Marie McMahon, '15; Miss Ruth Durfee, '14; Miss Agnes Miller, '16; Miss Laura Parker, '17; and Miss Mabel Durway, '17. Miss Mina Walker was patroness.

Covers were laid for 60.

Delta Delta Delta.

The Vermont Chapter of Delta Delta Delta held its annual June spread at the Van Ness House, Saturday evening, June 20th. Quite a large number of the alumnae were back and the occasion was very enjoyable. After the spread there was dancing on the roof garden.

Akraia.

Akraia, the Senior honorary society among the young women, announces the election of Miss Bernadine Kimball as president. The society is to be secret.

VERMONT GETS BACK AT MIDDLEBURY

Closing Up on a 3-0 Start Vermont Tallies 4 Runs in the 6th and Holds Her Lead with Malcolm Outpitching Vail.

Supported on the bleachers by the largest crowd of the season, Vermont came back at Middlebury College, Saturday afternoon, June 13, to the music of four to three. From the outset it was plain that the game was to be a pitcher's battle between Malcolm and Vail. Malcolm won. The visitors played good ball and the work of Triggs at shortstop was of a high order. Although a few bad breaks were made by each team, each was playing to win, and the game was by far the most exciting of the season.

The score:

already on the tracks and were unloaded and stored during the next two days. On June 15, Troop M, 2nd Cavalry, Capt. E. L. King, commanding, reported for duty with three officers, sixty-eight enlisted men, and seventy-five animals. Capt. Blanchard of the Medical corps of the U. S. Army arrived on the 17th, and at once took over the work of looking after the sanitary features of the entire camp. In this connection it may be of interest to note that a complete regimental hospital under the care of two army surgeons and twelve enlisted men of the hospital corps will soon be opened and that every attention will be given to the sanitary perfection and maintenance of the camp, as well as medical attendance for any student needing the same.

A full supply of rifles, belts, haversacks, pack-carriers, and other ordnance equipment and stores needed for the students has recently arrived. It is intended to make instruction in the care and preservation of the rifle and its use an important feature of the camp. The rifle range at Fort Ethan Allen is available and will be used. Students will be required to shoot the course of rifle firing prescribed for college student rifle clubs by the National Rifle Association of America, and the badges and medals issued by this association will be given to all students making the necessary qualifications.

A thorough course in equitation will be given to those students desiring it. First Lieut. Taulbee, on duty with Troop M, will act as instructor in horsemanship. Lieut. Taulbee is a former instructor at the Mounted Service School, Fort Riley, Kansas, and is well known throughout the service as an expert and accomplished rider.

For instruction in signaling a full equipment of flag kits, heliographs, field telephones and telegraphs, cavalry buzzers, acetylene lanterns for night signaling, and a radio-pack set for wireless communication, has been provided. First Lieut. S. J. Southerland, on duty with Co. L, 5th Infantry, who has served a detail in the signal corps of the U. S. Army, will have charge of this branch of instruction.

It is intended to conduct a practice march of about a week's duration under conditions as nearly approximating actual field service as possible. The marches will be short, but the daily instruction will include field manoeuvres of problems in which the regular infantry and cavalry connected with the camp will take part. The students will also be taught the most important and frequently neglected subjects of camp sanitation and hygiene. Instruction in the principles of first aid to the wounded and injured will also be given.

It is purposed to instruct the student thoroughly in such matters as making and breaking camp, camp expedients, loading and unloading wagons, camp cooking, camp police, and in general all matters affecting the health, comfort, and efficiency of troops in the field. An interesting series of talks on military subjects has been provided for.

A camp exchange has already been established on the camp site for the benefit of the regular troops. This exchange will also be at the disposal of the students, and will carry a full line of all articles liable to be needed by them while in camp. In addition the exchange carries a carefully selected line of candies, soft drinks, and ice cream. It is under the constant supervision of the camp commander and medical officers, and the quality of all eatables handled is very carefully supervised. It is expected that there will be provided in connection with the exchange a laundry agency, a barber shop, and a shoe shine stand.

Preparations for the students' mess are well under way, and are in the hands of a competent and experienced officer, 1st Lieut. J. B. Barnes, 5th Infantry, who has had long experience as mess and exchange officer at the post of Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., and elsewhere.

Up to the ninth, only two hits had been made off Spear, each being a home run into right field beneath the automobiles. In the ninth, with the score 5 to 2, he broke and was relieved by Gallagher. An unfortunate muff by Malcolm in left prevented the final score being 6 to 5. The game was stopped according to previous agreement at the end of the ninth.

CHINESE UNIVERSITY.

Vermont closed her baseball schedule of 32 games Tuesday, June 23, with a 13 to 11 defeat by the Chinese University of Hawaii. Vermont scored in six innings, Chinese University in three. At the end of the third, Vermont led four to one. In the fourth, the visitors closed up with three runs. The fifth told the story. Getting to Malcolm, they hammered the ball all over the lot. Gallagher succeeded him. After hitting three men, walking one, and allowing a triple and a single, he was pulled in and Upham sent out for his first Varsity game. He straightened out the inning, allowed no hits, and blanked the visitors for the next four times. Nine runs had been made, making a total of thirteen. Then, with a little favorable umpiring. Vermont began to fight up the line, scoring three runs in the last half of the fifth, two in the sixth, and one in the ninth. Both Fraser and Berry played their usual good game, Berry ending his heavy hitting season with a triple, a double, a single, and two passes. One of the features of the game was the clever base running of the Chinese in the fifth. The game as a whole was well marked with streaks of speed and streaks of slowness. The fielding of the home team was better after the fifth.

MILITARY SECTION

LARGEST CAMP SITUATED AT BURLINGTON, VT.

The Students' Military Camps are Striding to a Significant Place in the Future Military Policy of this Country. The Record Which Follows Will Be of Interest to All.

Burlington, on Lake Champlain, the home of the University of Vermont, and styled by William Dean Howells "the most beautiful place in the world," was selected by the War Department as the site for the north-eastern students' military camp for the season of 1914. It proved to be the largest and most successful of the four in the United States. The other three camps were located at Asheville, N. C., attendance 120; Monterey, Cal., and Ludington, Mich., attendance 111. The attendance at the Vermont camp was 350. The roll by schools and colleges follows, 135 institutions being represented, comprising over 20 states.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF CAMP.

Academy, Villa Nora, University of Virginia, Wesleyan, Western H. S. of Arlington, Va., Williams, Woonsocket H. S. of Blackstone, Mass., Georgetown University, Newport, Vt., H. S., Norwich University, and St. Johns School, Manlius, N. Y., all one.

The purpose of such camps, as outlined by Captain Oliver Edwards, commandant, in the opening lecture, University gymnasium, Tuesday, July 7th, is to provide military instruction for the young men of our schools and colleges with an idea of teaching the people the military history, needs and policy of our Government, and of providing the country with a band of efficient reserves in time of war. With this in view the training at the camp was of a strict military nature, instruction being given in camp routine, squad, company and battalion drill, horsemanship, skirmishing, shooting, first aid and mapping, signaling, hygiene, the care of equipment, distance marching, saber and bayonet exercises, calisthenics, etc. In attendance at the camp were Co. L, 5th infantry, from Plattsburg; Troop M, 2nd cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen; and the 5th infantry band. Co. L arrived on the grounds June 11, and occupied the month in putting the camp in order. The student officers arrived Friday, July 3rd; camp opened Monday, July 6th. All members were required to undergo a thorough physical examination and an opportunity was provided for inoculation against typhoid, etc., in accordance with military custom. The army detail officers in charge at the camp were:

Washington U.), T. Worthington, Jr., F. H. Knight (Princeton), M. W. Kresge (Lehigh), E. L. Pelham (N. Y. M. A.), F. M. Fairlamb (Stevens Tech.), M. J. Logan.

The tents were erected six bunks to each. The tents of the officers and the mess and cook tents were electrically lighted, and every precaution used to keep the camp in the best sanitary condition. The water was from the Burlington reservoir, sewer connections and arc lights were used about the camp. The field hospital was established in the south-east corner. In charge were Maj. George M. Ewurzel and Capt. Robert M. Blanchard. A complete outfit of signal equipment was in operation under Lieut. S. J. Sutherland, instruction being given in signaling by flag, heliograph and acetylene lantern. The camp was also provided with field telegraph and telephone, and field wireless outfits. The riding was in charge of First Lieut. Taulbee, formerly instructor at the mounted service school, Fort Riley, Kans. Lieut. Taulbee was also camp range officer assisted by Lieut. Beck, range officer at Fort Ethan Allen. The University gallery was used for the indoor work, and, later in the season, the target range at the Fort for outdoor work. Throughout the summer band concerts were frequently rendered at the camp and in the city by the band. These were greatly appreciated. Athletics were largely under the guidance of the Y. M. C. A. and Lieut. Sutherland.

THE FIRST WEEK.

The first week's work of the camp

was devoted largely to the school of the soldier, the squad, and the company, with some battalion work. During the entire period of five weeks the afternoons, save Wednesdays and Saturdays, which were half holidays, were given over to more or less optional work in the features of the camp such as signaling, riding, etc. The first social entertainment was held Thursday evening, July 9th, in the University Gymnasium.

The Reception.

This took the form of a reception and dance tendered by the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution to the students of the camp and the summer school. Between six and seven hundred were present, crowding the gymnasium to its utmost capacity. Among those invited were the officers of the local companies of the Vermont National Guard, the officers of the G. A. R. and the Loyal Legion, the officers of Fort Ethan Allen, the city officials, and many townspeople.

The reception lasted from eight to nine. Dancing was from nine to 12. The Fifth Infantry band furnished music. The gymnasium was decorated profusely with the national colors. Two old flags marked the ends of the receiving line: the first Revolutionary flag and the flag of the Republic of Vermont.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Joseph Auld, regent of the D. A. R., Fred S. Pease, president of the S. A. R., Captain and Mrs. Oliver Edwards, U. S. A., Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Messenger and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton.

INTER-COMPANY BASEBALL.

Won By Co. D.

The inter-company baseball series opened Saturday, July 11, and closed Saturday, July 25, Co. D securing the cup offered by L. P. Wood in conjunction with the state committee of the Y. M. C. A. The series was closely contested throughout. At the final games Company D and Troop M were tied in the league. A victory by Company D over Company C, score 8 to 3, put the former in the lead. Company B, which had not won a game previously, showed up well with new material in the infield and unexpectedly won from Troop M, thus clinching the series for Company D. The L. P. Wood cup was presented by the Company D baseball team to Captain Chaffin, detailed as

Camp Services.

Services were held at the camp each Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock, the regiment band assisting. The speakers were Rev. Grismer of the Methodist Episcopal Church, July 12; Bishop A. C. A. Hall, July 19, "Personal Purity"; July 26, Dillon Wallace, Arctic explorer, "Labrador Experiences."

Meeting of National Reserve Corps.

The Society of the National Reserve Corps held its first meeting of the year Monday night, July 13th in the gymnasium with a full attendance. The society was formed by the students of the Gettysburg camp last year to push the student camp idea throughout the country, especially by the personal work of its members with their college mates. The work of the corps is largely responsible for the more than doubled attendance of this camp over the Gettysburg camp of last year, in spite of the fact that it is fed by a much smaller territory. This meeting was primarily to explain to the new camp students the objects of the society, and the response was gratifying to the old members, who have been working in this organized way to advance the interests of future camps and to emphasize the need of trained military reserves in this country.

THE SECOND WEEK.

During the second week considerable time was spent on guard and outpost problems, the regulars assisting.

The first real taste of war came Tuesday, July 14th, when the men were sent out as patrols in search of the regular troops who had disappeared into the country and concealed themselves. The manoeuvres were simply for location and information, but some defense fighting was done and a few captures made by both sides.

Company L, Fifth Infantry and Troop M, Second cavalry, left camp early in the morning and took up their positions as opposing forces on the Williston turnpike, near Muddy brook. They were supposed to be advancing from the south. Then the four students' companies, as patrolling forces of a large army, marched out and spread over the country in a fan-shaped position until they located the enemy. At 5:30 in the evening the first dress parade was held with Captain Edwards as reviewing officer.

Wednesday, tactical walks were taken.

On Thursday, a problem in advance guard work was solved. The regular infantry went out south of the camp and took up the attack. Part of the student battalion went out against them, Co. D acting as advance guard, and endeavored to drive the regulars back. Another force engaged with the cavalry in skirmishes on the Williston road.

On Friday, Cos. A and B protected the camp from an attack on the south and east by sending out outposts. Co. L, Fifth Infantry and Troop M, Second cavalry, being the attacking party. There were some very pretty manoeuvres at the south of the camp when the regulars drove back the outposts and attacked the pickets. Several captures were made on both sides.

The Saturday morning work consisted of another outpost problem between Companies C and D and the regular troops. Companies A and B took small arms instruction and gallery practice.

Series of Three Military Hops.

The first of a series of three hops was held in the gymnasium on Saturday night, July 18th. There was a large attendance, both from the camp and city. The chaperons were Mrs. Oliver Edwards, Mrs. George M. Ekwurzel, Mrs. T. Bull, Lieut. Fichet and Mr. Whitehill. The Fifth Infantry band furnished a delightful program of music for the dancing. Refreshments were served. The arrangements for the dance were made by a student committee of eight, with Lieut. Fichet in charge. The committee comprised two from each company. Company A, Drinker (Princeton) and Rogers (N. Y. M. A.); Company B, Carroll (Cornell) and Whitehill (Yale); Company C, Gilbert (Vermont) and St. John (Vermont); Company D, H. Nicholson (Stevens Tech.) and L. Nicholson (Stevens Tech.).

give several encores. The double quartette was composed of Cahill (Harvard) and Street (Yale), first tenors; Carroll (Cornell) and McDermott (Xavier), second tenors; Giddon (U. of Rochester) and Whitehill (Yale), first basses; Cowles (Andover) and Putnam (Princeton), second basses. In the receiving line were Mrs. King, Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Phinney, Mrs. Campbell, and Messrs. MacGowan, Drinker, Cowles and Nicholson.

The third and last hop occurred Thursday evening, July 23. Mrs. Oliver Edwards acted as chaperone. The 5th Infantry and 2nd Cavalry bands furnished music.

Camp Inspection.

On Sunday, July 19, the camp was inspected by Lieut.-Col. Alfred E. Bradley of the medical corps. He is sanitary inspector of the eastern department of the army. The tents were furred and carefully policed for the inspection. The inspecting officer commented very favorably upon the camp.

THE THIRD WEEK.

The program of the camp for the third week was battalion work. There were military problems every morning, with the regulars as the enemy. The work included less company work, but the student battalion carried on the defense and attack more as a unit.

Four Companies in Hot Engagement near Eldredge Cemetery.

The camp took part in an interesting engagement Monday morning when vance guard, Company A, under Lieutenant Phinney, came into contact with the regulars near the Eldredge cemetery, north of the Williston turnpike. Here Captain King's troops deployed and opened fire. The cavalry were driven back after much imaginary loss. The advance was resumed, and the troop which had fallen back joined Company L, again opened fire and the advance was held up. It was necessary to re-enforce with Lieutenant Goodwin's Company B on the right, Lieutenant Bull's Company C on the left. The attack went forward, but it was necessary to throw in Company D under Lieutenant Chaffin before the final charge could be made and the enemy driven back. This terminated the problem and all four companies assembled for a discussion of the problem and a criticism of the work.

Tuesday the student battalion left at 8:00 a. m. under Captain Edwards, Company D acting as advance guard. They were ordered to march to Williston, occupy the town, and collect supplies. As luck would have it, the men didn't have to march that far, because the enemy showed up on the way.

Hostile forces had been reported at Bolton and Underhill, and hostile cavalry patrols were seen on the north bank of the Winooski, according to the problem.

The march had not progressed far before the presence of hostile cavalry on the left flank, north of the Williston turnpike, became evident about the time that the head of the main body arrived opposite the cemetery on the Williston turnpike. A message was received from the cavalry patrol on the road between Burlington and Essex Junction, reporting the advance of a company of infantry and a troop of cavalry toward Burlington on that road.

Orders were at once given to change the direction of the march of the battalion toward the north. A new advance guard, Company B, under Lieutenant Goodwin, was thrown out with orders to move forward and attack the enemy, wherever found. The old advance guard was reassembled and fell in the rear of the column.

The advance in the new direction was considerably delayed by the enemy's cavalry operating against the left and rear of the student battalion. This was a demonstration of how a small force of cavalry under an active leader can be effectively used to harass and delay an infantry column. Finally, the hostile infantry was struck and a fight resulted which terminated north

TARGET PRACTICE—ETHAN ALLEN RANGE.

On the following Saturday night the second hop was held, and despite the rain, proved a delightful affair. Music was furnished by the infantry band. The camp octette sang during the intermission and Ray Cox of Yale gave piano selections. Both were required to the student battalion, re-enforced by ten troopers under Lieutenant Radskoff, marched out to attack the hostile forces which were assumed to have crossed the Winooski river during the night. The enemy were represented by Troop M and Company L. The ad-of the Burlington-Essex Junction road.

Wednesday's work was in camp with extended order drill and gallery practice. Three lectures were given Thursday. On Friday the battalion was given its first work in trenching. Marching out under full equipment, two trenches were dug in So. Burlington, the recently acquired pack spades being employed.

Saturday morning was spent in camp. There was a camp inspection. After this the companies practiced pitching their shelter tents, were given sighting and aiming drills, and took instruction concerning the work on the Fort Ethan Allen range.

Promotions.

Several promotions took place in the camp this week, most of them being made to fill vacancies left by the students who have left for the Vermont militia camp. Company A, L. T. Ross (Manual Training H. S.) vice first sergeant, L. T. Huntington. Company C, Sergeant H. V. MacGowan promoted to be second lieutenant, vice Ernest L. Gilbert. Corporal C. S. Ferrin promoted to first sergeant in Company C vice H. V. MacGowan. F. H. Borden of Company C promoted to sergeant vice Adrian St. John; Privates R. D. Tibbetts (Washington, H. S.), Watson Davis and R. E. French (Culver) promoted to the grade of corporal. Private H. P. B. Poody of Company B promoted to corporal, and in Company C, Corporal L. M. York promoted to sergeant and Private T. H. Shea to corporal.

THE FOURTH WEEK.

The program for this week consisted of shooting on the range at Fort Ethan Allen from Monday until Friday night. The men marched over each morning, shot all day, and returned at night. The shooting was in two divisions, instruction practice and record practice. Instruction practice consisted of 45 shots, 25 slow fire at 200, 300 and 500 yards, and 20 rapid fire shots at 200 and 300 yards. The record practice included 50 shots, slow fire shots, 10 at 300 yards, 10 at 500 yards, 10 at 600 yards; rapid fire shooting, 10 at 200 yards and 10 at 300 yards.

Upon the scores of these 50 shots the individual and college team trophies of the National Rifle association, and the two silver cups for individual scores offered by S. S. Richold were awarded.

On Wednesday morning a little innovation was offered. The men marched out under full equipment and, pitching their own shelter tents, spent the night near the range. At 6:30 on Thursday morning the temporary camp was inspected by Major-General Wood. The camp was represented at the Winooski celebration in the afternoon by the 5th infantry band.

On Friday evening the lieutenants of the student companies entertained the army officers at a supper given at the Van Ness House.

THE LAST WEEK.

War Between Reds of Vt. and Blues of N. Y.

The final week formed a grand climax to all that had preceded. The problem assumed the poise of a local war New York vs. Vermont. Vermont was represented by the Reds, Co. G, 5th infantry, a splendidly drilled war strength company of 150 men commanded by Capt. Merch B. Stewart; New York, by the Blues, the students, in command of Capt. Oliver Edwards. Each division had some cavalry attached. Capt. Van Horn acted as umpire assisted by Capt. Edwards and King. Food supplies were carried out the entire command was ordered forward except Company C, which entered the wood and surprised the enemy which it attacked and dispersed. Soon after the Red infantry was reported in front and north of the road leading to North Williston. The student battalion was fired upon from the right flank. Two companies deployed and were sent against them. Then the Reds were dis-each day by a motor truck. The cooks with two camp ovens accompanied the Blues.

General Situation.

Strained relations have for some time existed between New York (Blue) and Vermont (Red) and a declaration of war is hourly expected. Burlington is ungarrisoned but a red force is being hastily mobilized at Montpelier. The importance of Burlington as a railway, steamboat and supply center is well known to the Blues, who have secretly ferried across from Chazy Landing a regiment of infantry with a few mounted men. Late on the afternoon of Friday, July 31, this force, after a forced march, seized and occupied Burlington, with some resist-covered in force on a high hill commanding the road about three-quarters of a mile southwest of North Williston. Company A, thus far held in reserve, was ordered to move down the road and attack the strong position. Companies C and D were then thrown into support the attack, all the movements being well executed. Company C then was ordered to move north on the road as a reserve. About 12:38 the hill was attacked and carried with some loss. The enemy retreated to North Williston and the Reds were finally pursued across the Winooski. Here the battalion decided to go into camp just east of the high road on the north bank of the river with outposts to the north-east and south.

THE WAR—ON THE FIRING LINE.

ance from such irregular red troops as could be hastily gotten together. The defeated Red force withdrew in the direction of Essex Junction.

On Saturday, Aug. 1, the advance guard had been delayed by cavalry which had moved to a position along the road leading to Williston south of the cross roads. Lieut. Bull with the advance guard was ordered to attack the cavalry. Lieut. Goodwin's Company B, ordered to move felt of the road to locate the infantry, soon discovered that the country to the left of the road was clear of the enemy and

During Sunday there was a short cessation of hostilities. By Monday we find that the Blue forces, consisting of the battalion of the students' military camp, with ten troopers, have marched about ten miles further through hostile and hilly country and are now encamped a mile and a half east of Richmond near the Winooski river. The Reds, consisting of Company G, Fifth infantry, and Troop M, Second cavalry, used the many natural advantages of the country and their active cavalymen so skilfully that the advance was much delayed. Under any actual war conditions a small force could keep back a large army with little difficulty.

The cavalry were able to harass the advance of the Blues at every turn and defile in the road along the north bank of the Winooski from North Williston to Richmond. A half dozen cavalrymen were very effective at these sharp turns, and kept Company B, the advance guard, active and watchful. Finally at the cemetery just west of Richmond came an important engagement between the two forces. The Reds were deployed in a concealed and commanding position at the edge of the cemetery and extending north. They captured the entire Blue cavalry patrol and part of a reconnoitering party. Company D attacked the cavalry at the cemetery, Company A and B attacked the infantry and tried to envelop their right flank and drive them into the river. They suffered much loss but succeeded in making the Reds withdraw. The command moved forward through Richmond and decided to encamp when a mile and a half east.

During Monday afternoon reports were received from Blue outpost that the Red infantry of unknown strength had reached Bolton and that the Red cavalry had advanced as far as Jonesville and Huntington. The Blue outposts and Red cavalry came in contact at nightfall.

Jericho Center, Aug. 4.—The battalion of Blue infantry of the student of the military camp are now in a critical situation. They are encamped one mile north of here, beside the L. river. The camp is in a difficult position to defend. The enemy, who have cavalry, are active. Skirmishes have occurred throughout the afternoon and evening, and the camp is prepared for a night attack.

The Reds are reported gathering in large numbers in the Winooski and La Moille valley. It is not unlikely that the student battalion will soon be pushed back to Burlington.

There was a sharp engagement just west of Jericho Center in the morning. The Blues started out from their Richmond camp this morning, and were ordered to march to the defence of the B. & L. railroad, via Jericho Center. They engaged with cavalry for about two hours on the way, and finally drove back all the Reds' forces, both cavalry and infantry, in the engagement of the morning. The Reds and Blues are now for the first time encamped under hostile conditions.

On Wednesday, the Blues, composed of the student battalion and a rear guard of eight troopers under Lieutenant Radskoff, made an orderly withdrawal from Jericho Center, since the enemy's forces were too strong to let them push further or to hold the ground already gained. In addition to the troopers, the rear guard was first Company A and later Company B. They successfully fought back the Red cavalry and on two occasions made both the Red cavalry and infantry halt and deploy. At Essex Center the war was called off.

social center tent, maintained by the state association, Bryon N. Clark secretary. The tent was in charge of Mr. Cobleigh, secretary, and Mr. Davis, asst. secretary. It provided reading tables, chess, shuffle board, checker games, etc.; offered banking facilities; was headquarters for mail, long distance telephone, and telegraph; promoted athletics; maintained the main camp bulletin board; conducted services, and co-operated with the Government and the students in every possible way. Following is an illustration of some of the illuminations that frequently sprinkled the bulletin:

In pursuing an imaginary army a real meat can was lost. The army was routed and captured, but the meat can has not yet been recovered. Please notify Tent 71 of Co. D of anything concerning the lost can.

Camp Lectures.

During the early part of the camp especially, lectures were often held in the gymnasium to supplement the daily problems.

Tues., July 7: "Objects of the Camp and the Camp Routine." Capt. Oliver Edwards.

Wed., July 8: "Camp Sanitation and Personal Hygiene." Major Eckwurtel.

Thurs., July 9: "Map Reading and Sketching." Capt. King.

Fri., July 10: "The Tactical Organization of the Military Forces of the U. S. and Reasons Therefor." Lieut. Phinney.

Sat., July 11: "The Interior Economy of a Troop of Infantry." Lieut. Goodwin.

Mon., July 13: "Patrolling from the Infantry and Cavalry Standpoint." Capts. Edwards and King.

Tues., July 14: "Fire Direction, Control and Discipline." Capt. Stewart.

Wed., July 15: "Advance and Rear Guard Work." Capts. King and Edwards.

Thurs., July 16: "Outposts." Capts. Edwards and King.

Sat., July 18: "The National Reserve Corps." Pres. Henry S. Drinker of Lehigh University, also Pres. of the Society of the National Reserve Corps.

Sun., July 19: "Hygiene." Lieut. Col. Bradley.

Wed., July 22: "Work of the National Rifle Association." Albert S. Jones, secretary.

Thurs., July 23: "The Military Policy of the U. S." Lieut. Sutherland.—"Infantry Combat." Capt. Edwards.—"The Uses and Duties of Cavalry." Lieut. Bull.

Mon.-Tues., July 27-28: Stereoptican Lectures on Signaling and Aviation, Williams Science Hall.

On Thursday evening, August 6th, the army officers entertained the students with the last dance of the session.

A great deal of tennis was played during the summer, scheduled tournaments being well started in both singles and doubles. Because of lack of time, however, these were uncompleted. The city and University courts were used.

FINALS IN RIFLE MATCHES.

The cup offered by the B. Turk & Brother company for the best score in slow fire was won by T. L. McMurray of Marion, Ohio, and of Company C. He scored 138 out of a possible 150.

The rapid fire trophy offered by the B. Turk & Brother company was won

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

LARGEST EVER HELD IN STATE

Burlington, the Queen City of Vermont, Situated in a Land of Lakes and Fields and Mountains is Becoming the Summer Home of Many Students.

The 1914 session of the University Summer School opened on the same date as the students' military camp, Monday, July 6. The attendance of 266 marked by far the largest summer school ever held in the state. The enrollment by states was: Vermont 185, New York 24, Massachusetts 12, Connecticut 10, New Jersey 9, Pennsylvania 8, Rhode Island 3, Canada 2, Maine 2, Ohio 2, Virginia 2, Alabama 1, Georgia 1, Kansas 1, Louisiana 1, Michigan 1, Washington, D. C., 1, South Carolina 1; total 266. Of these 182 were teachers, 37 students, 5 superintendents and 42 unclassified, 56 were college graduates, 20 from the University of Vermont.

That Vermont with its scenic beauty, its historic associations, its opportunities for study, sightseeing and recreation is soon to become an unusually popular rendezvous for summer students can scarcely be doubted. Especially should it commend itself to students of the South and West as it brings them directly into the heart of that country with which they are perhaps unfamiliar—New England.

The Faculty.

The committee in charge of the school were Prof. J. F. Messenger, director, Profs. G. G. Groat, H. F. Per-

Scott Clifton Carbee, instructor in art; Samuel Silas Curry, Ph. D., Litt. D., president of Curry School of Expression; Samuel F. Emerson, Ph. D., professor of History; William Horatio Freedman, M. S., E. E., professor of Electrical Engineering; Mary Goodwin Griggs, principal of Art School, Atlanta, Georgia; George Gorham Groat, Ph. D., professor of Political Economy; Victor H. Hoppe, B. A., professor of Expression, Denison University; James Eaton, instructor in Mechanical Practice; Walter Ballou Jacobs, M. A., professor of Education, Brown University; Floyd B. Jenks, B. kins and E. Thomas, J. L. Southwick, president of the Commercial Club and M. L. Powell, president of the Merchants' Association.

The faculty was comprised of Guy Potter Benton, LL. D., president; J. Franklin Messenger, Ph. D., director of Summer School and professor of education; Wellington E. Aiken, A. M., assistant professor of English; Anna H. Allen, A. M., professor of expression in Smith College; Heinrich C. Keidel, Ph. D., professor of German in Ohio State University; George Plummer Burns, Ph. D., professor of Botany; topher Peitersen, A. M., instructor in Botany and Dendrology; Henry F. Perkins, Ph. D., professor of Zoology; Mabel Eunice Stone, instructor of Physical Education; Evan Thomas, B. S., professor of Mathematics, Charles Lee Tracy, instructor in Piano; Henry Ernest Williams, M. A., professor of Chemistry; Charles Marshal Underwood, Ph. D., assistant professor of Romance Languages, Simons College.

Preparatory Department: Wellington E. Aiken, A. M., English; William F. Griffin, A. B., French; Arthur S.

Roberts, A. B. German; Evan Thomas, B. S., Mathematics; Allison E. Tuttle, M. A., Latin.

To Professor Messenger, director, unstinted praise is due. His persistent work and personal sympathetic endeavor more than anything else has made the Vermont summer school what it is. Here we can sketch in but briefest detail and memoranda form the best of lectures, entertainments, sports, etc., that occupied its six weeks' session this year.

Dr. A. E. Winship the First Lecturer.

During the first week Dr. A. E. Winship, the well known editor of the Journal of Education, delivered five lectures on present day educational problems. He emphasized the need of strong vigorous personalities in education, the need of men who are bigger than any system by means of which they may work. In his fourth lecture he contrasted the dream and the nightmare with the vision in things educational and told what some men and women with real visions are doing in American education. His lectures were interesting and helpful, though some of the ideas on education expressed in them are somewhat radical.

FIRST OF THE CONCERTS.

Rudolph Larsen's Recital.

The first musicale of the session was Rudolph Larsen's violin recital Friday evening, July 10, in the university gymnasium. An audience of about 350 was in attendance. Considerable interest was attached to the recital because of the fact that it was the first appearance of Mr. Larsen in America after having been in St. Petersburg for the last two years, where he finished his violin studies under the famous Leopold Auer. The high expectations of the audience were not in the least disappointed. His program was well suited to show the versatility of his talent.

It consisted of the sonata in A major by Handel, followed by the monumental concerto in D major by Paganini with its tremendous technical obstacles. The adagio by Ries and the Havaneise by Saint-Saens proved his emotional possibility. A. Brahms' Hungarian dance, No. 4, Valse Bluettes arr. by Auer, an Italian serenade by Sgambati, and Caprice Viennois by Kreisler were played by Mr. Larsen in a delightful manner. His encores were Kreisler's Schon Rosmaria, Kreisler's Liebesfreund, and Hungarian Dance, No. 7, by Brahms. Miss Hazel Morgan was the accompanist.

George Kiernan's "Rip Van Winkle."

The next entertainment was George Kiernan's "Rip Van Winkle."

Tuesday evening, July 14, Mr. Kiernan portrayed a great and lovable character and at the same time impersonated Joseph Jefferson, who will hold a high place in popular affection as long as his memory exists. The play was the dramatized form of Washington Irving's sketch, as written by Dion Boucicault, with one scene dramatized by Joseph Jefferson himself. It contained six scenes, two in the village, two in the Catskills, and two in the village after the legendary sleep of 20 years.

The second entertainment by Mr.

Kiernan was on Thursday night when he rendered an interpretation of David Warfield in "The Music Master."

This second entertainment was even better appreciated than the first and was more largely attended.

The Second Concert.

The second concert was held Wednesday evening, July 15, at the usual place, and was largely attended, an audience of about 500 being present. Those who appeared on the program were Rudolph Larsen, violinist, who made such a great success in his vio-

LECTURES OF THE SECOND WEEK.

Hon. J. Frank Hanly the Speaker.

On Friday evening, July 17, ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly concluded his series of lectures for the week with a masterful address on "The Patriotism of Peace," pleading for three things, the world disarmed, our national integrity, and a saloonless nation. It was inspiring for its eloquence and its irresistible vein of optimism. The audience was visibly stirred.

The titles of Mr. Hanly's other lectures, given each afternoon of the week were The Revolution, The Critical Period, The Making of the Great Charter, The Men Who Framed It, The Letter of the Covenant and The Word Made Sentient. Mr. Hanly is a former governor of Indiana, is a well known lecturer and a party to the recent Hanly-Hobson debates on the Japanese question. His course was greatly appreciated.

ENTERTAINMENTS OF THE ##### THIRD WEEK.

Two entertainments were given the third week. The first, a musicale, by John W. Nichols, tenor, and Mrs. Nichols, pianist, both instructors in the summer school. Mr. Nichols' selections were well chosen to show his clear, ringing tenor to its best ad-

Weber Male Quartette.

On the following evening, Wednesday, the Weber Male Quartette of New York proved a first-class attraction. An audience of about 125 heard the singers and called for encores of every number, and some numbers more than once. The program was well-balanced between light and serious, popular and classic, and was carried through with a decided snap. The plantation songs and the humorous encores, "Adam Never Had No Mammy" and "Get On Your Long White Robe" were especially popular. The audience was surprised and pleased to hear "Champlain" among the list of encores. Robert Armour, first tenor, and Frederick Thomas, second bass, showed considerable ability as soloists. The former's tones were clear and sweet and Mr. Thomas combined strength and flexibility in his notes. The duet of Marlowe Jones, second tenor, and Malcolm Barnes, first bass, was a pleasing number.

Students of Prof. Curry Give Voluntary Recital.

On Friday evening the following recital was given by students of Prof. Curry, Miss Almir Frink and Miss Theodoro Roberts.

DR. JOHN A. LOMAX.

On American Balladry.

During the week of July 27th, Dr. John A. Lomax of the University of Texas presented five unique lectures on American Balladry, dwelling chiefly with the poetry and songs of the American negro and cowboy. He told of the different types of ballads, or more properly folk songs, to be found in this country, of how they may be collected, and of their value as coming directly from the heart of the people and representing elements in our national life that are rapidly passing away. His only evening lecture was on Wednesday night: "Songs of the Cowboy." His trail songs, herding songs, songs representative of his many occupations and emotions were interestingly portrayed.

The Last Musicales.

The last of the summer school musicales was held Friday night, when Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols gave their second recital. An audience of over a hundred were pleased at the entertainment and insisted upon several encores. Mr. Nichols appeared at his best in a select variety of tenor solos which he sang with spirit and with feeling. The audience was again astonished at the remarkable skill and technique displayed by Mrs. Nichols on the piano.

Two Lectures by Mr. E. K. Coulter.

During this week Mr. E. K. Coulter of New York, founder of the Big Brother Movement which has now spread to about 40 cities, gave two lectures—one on Monday night entitled "Children of the Shadow" and the other on Tuesday night, "The Civic Awakening." In them he told of the needs of the tenement child, of the work of the juvenile courts. His stories were numerous and sympathetic. They were humorous and sad. In them was portrayed the cramped life of the boy of the streets, his alertness, his native ability for good or bad. He showed how these children—boys and girls—were now being recognized as boys and girls and given a chance, and how they were making good. In his last lecture he spoke of the founding of the Big Brother Movement.

A WEEK WITH DR. E. J. BANKS.

On the five evenings of the days August 3rd to 7th inclusive Dr. Edger J. Banks gave five illustrated lectures on Eastern countries. Dr. Banks is an explorer and orientalist of high repute and as Field Director of the Babylonian Expedition of the University of Chicago, he did much for Babylonian antiquities. The subjects of the lectures in the order of their delivery were: Turkey, Arabia, Bismya, Palestine and Egypt. Dr. Bank's material is well chosen and clearly presented. Without being in the least technical he makes you see things as he has seen them and makes you feel that he knows precisely what he is talking about. No one can attend his lectures without gaining a clearer idea of what the "Near East" is to-day and of how much the science of archaeology is doing for history, philology and literary criticism.

EXCURSIONS.

Ausable, Mount Mansfield, and Fort Frederick.

Several delightful excursions were taken during the summer, some of private enterprise, others directed by the summer school. The first of these latter of importance was the Ausable Chasm trip Saturday, July 25th. An attendance of 150 vouches for the popularity of the excursion. The trip proper was augmented later by a lecture on the chasm by Dean Perkins.

On the following Saturday, August 1, came the Mount Mansfield hike. An early breakfast, by trolley and steam to Underhill, a hayrack to the foot of the mountain, and then the climb. A trip one should never leave Vermont without taking, a picnic on paper, but many were the bones that were weary that night. About 15 out of the 60 who went remained for the night on the mountain. For future generations of summer school excursionists, we perpetuate the following bulletin advice which preceded the hike:

1. Wear skirts (that is, the ladies) which will permit a full step, up, down or crossways.
2. Wear clothes in which you do not mind sitting on the ground.

3. Wear shoes for fit and not for fashion. High heels and narrow toes will cause more weariness than the mountain.

4. Take a small lunch and cheerful smile.

5. Take this advice.

Saturday, August 8th, the excursion was south to Fort Frederick, the steamer Vermont leaving Burlington at 8:45 a. m. and arriving at Fort Frederick 11:45 a. m., docking at Burlington on the return at 5:00 o'clock. About 40 took this trip, and 20 the afternoon trip north to St. Albans Bay. Lunches were carried by the former.

Tramping, riding, tennis, volley ball, etc., were all popular during the summer weeks.

NEARING THE END.

The Coburn Players.

The Coburn players, who pleased many in Burlington last year in "The Canterbury Pilgrims," again made good this year when on Monday and Tuesday evenings and Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 10th and 11th, they presented three plays of Shakespere: "The Taming of the Shrew," "As You

Three days later examinations were held and the summer school closed.

CITY ITEMS OF NOTE.

July 1-2: Shrinners and wives of Karnak Temple, Montreal, visitors in the city.

July 2: Capt. Oliver Edwards speaks at merchants' luncheon, Hotel Vermont.

July 6-10: Meeting of school superintendents of the state, Queen City Park. Many noted speakers.

July 8-9: Annual meeting of Vermont State Pharmaceutical Association, J. P. Remington of Phil. being the principal speaker.

July 14-16: Medical state board examinations, Masonic Temple.

July 14: Captain Edwards speaks before Burlington Credit Men's Association, Van Ness House, commending Burlington as camp site.

July 15: Wheeler Brothers' Circus.

July 19-26: Record Excursion Week on the Lake.

July 21: State Encampment of Spanish War Veterans.

July 21: Tournament at Burlington Gun Company's Grounds.

MR. AND MRS. COBURN IN "THE TAMING OF THE SHREW."

Like It" and "The Merchant of Venice." The plays were well advertised on Monday afternoon, when the players presented the Morris dances to an appreciative audience on the college green. The advertising of plays by a public dance in the town was an old custom of players in the days of Shakespere.

The stage was located on the back campus just behind the "Old Mill," where it could easily be seen by the audience on account of the natural slope of the ground. The background of trees and evergreen was very effective. A large audience was in attendance at each performance.

July 22-Aug. 8: Annual Encampment V. N. G., Fort Ethan Allen.

July 23-25: Annual Tournament of State Golf Association. Dr. M. C. Twitchell of local club, champion.

July 25: Races at Riverside Park.

July 25: Tennis Tournament, Ethan Allen Club Courts.

July 30: Historical Celebration at Winooski.

Aug. 3: Meeting of State Underwriters' Association.

Aug. 3-15: Carnival Weeks.

Aug. 11: Meeting of Burlington Merchants' Asso. Army officers of opinion next year's camp will be again in Burlington.

THE SUMMER'S DIARY

Wherein May be Found Those Things
 Which are of Greater Interest Because They Have No Place in the General Scheme.

No one who has made up a paper or a magazine but knows that some of the most interesting items are those which are apparently quite insignificant and have no place in the general scheme of things. During the course of the summer many suggestive incidents have come to the attention of the CYNIC editors savoring strongly of student life about Burlington which they know should be recorded yet never will be unless in some miscellaneous section of this edition.

The hot days of late July when the sun, white hot, was beating down on canvas and drill ground the cooler nights about the candle lighted tents; the storms sweeping unexpectedly down the valley drenching men upon the march or skirmishers about some corn piece, the fifty dollar pride of a belligerent farmer's eye; the early opinions at mess and sensations on guard, all these and more we leave to the imaginations of those who were there, sometimes dusty and leg weary, in loose order formation following the night trail back from the day's shoot at Fort Ethan Allen.

During this time of which we speak if one were to glance through the columns of the Free Press or the News he would have seen an advertisement reading somewhat like this:

WANTED.

Send a letter containing full information concerning board, rooms, autos, boats and horses to rent. We need prices, sizes, conditions, street addresses, telephone numbers, and any other information you would desire if you were the customer.

Military Camp, Y. M. C. A. Irving V. Cobleigh, Sec'y.

To the unrelenting efforts of Mr. Cobleigh and his assistant, Mr. Davis, was due the popularity of the Y. M. C. A. tent as a social center. In a letter addressed to the former shortly before the close of the camp, Capt. Edwards fully declared that in his opinion hundreds of letters had been sent home from the camp that would have been neglected had not every convenience for writing been placed in the hands of the men. Each company had its own bulletin but the general center of information was here. A typical notice in relation to the tennis tournament will be remembered by many daily observers.

TENNIS.

Sign here in twos if you wish to enter the doubles tournament; it is preferable that both men come from the same institution.

REWARD TO

Finder of a silver Swiss watch lost during attack of 5th Infantry U. S. A. by Co. B. of brave college students' infantry. Please return same to Ave. B., tent 29, and redeem your reward.

Of the other "social center"; not quite as versatile, but just as effective in its way we enclose a clipping from the Commencement number of this paper. Whether promises were lived up to or not let those who were in attendance judge.

THE VERMONT CYNIC

A camp exchange has already been established on the camp site for the benefit of the regular troops. This exchange will also be at the disposal of the students, and will carry a full line of all articles liable to be needed by them while in camp. In addition the exchange carries a carefully selected line of candies, soft drinks, and ice cream. It is under the constant supervision of the camp commander and medical officers, and the quality of all eatables handled is very carefully supervised. It is expected that there will be provided in connection with the exchange a laundry agency, a barber shop, and a shoe shine stand.

Preparations for the students' mess are well under way, and are in the hands of a competent and experienced officer, 1st Lieut. J. B. Barnes, 5th Infantry, who has had long experience as mess and exchange officer at the post of Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., and elsewhere.

Whenever a new enterprise of any importance is ventured the opinions of prominent men are straightway converted into oracles, and hearkened to with bated breath.

BY PRESIDENT LOWELL OF HARVARD.

If we were in any danger of war with a great power with our small regular army I should urge every young man who could do so to set about preparing himself for military service. To be thoroughly effective this ought to be done long beforehand, and therefore I have been deeply interested in the plan for summer military camps which will fit college men to serve as junior officers and thereby fill the greatest need we should suffer in war on a large scale.

Now a word as to

THE VERMONT SUMMER SCHOOL.

One thing was decidedly noticeable about the students of the Vermont summer school. Nearly all of them were teachers, taking courses for teachers. Comparatively few were defunct students making up work. Every year more teachers take summer school work. This year nearly half the teachers in the state of Virginia were enrolled in summer courses. Dr. Messenger says that all of the students this year spoke favorably of Burlington as a summer school center.

ANNUAL MUSTER OF V. N. G.

Another Camp Added to the List.

On Wednesday, July 22, Camp Colonel Bonett, the joint manoeuvre camp of the 1st Vermont Infantry and Company B, 5th United States Infantry opened on the State reservation near Fort Ethan Allen. The regular joint manoeuvre camp occupied 10 days. During this time there was a varied program of instruction for men and officers, including two days of field work in shelter tents under service conditions. The 10 day camp was followed by a second period of seven days which was devoted entirely to rifle instruction and practice on the range at Fort Ethan Allen.

The idea of the joint camp with the regulars was a novel one.

Colonel Charles G. Morton of the 5th Infantry was camp commander. He had under his command about 700 men. This included the 12 companies organized into three battalions of the Vermont National Guard, and the sanitary troops and band; and Company B, 5th Infantry.

The camp was named this year in honor of Colonel Bonett, who was in command of the 1st Vermont Infantry until his illness and death of two years ago.

With the addition of this camp Burlington was at the height of her war strength. Upward of 2,000 men were in camp on the outskirts of the city. One company, Co. C., of the V. N. G. was made up almost entirely of college men, the large majority coming from the University of Vermont, Prof. Max Andrews, Capt. This was the company formed during the Mexican agitation. One of its most stirring recollections is of the night when, as rookies, they were forced to run the camp gauntlet. Knowledge that they were better drilled and instructed than many of their persecutors did not mitigate the sting of the belt buckles.

While speaking of such martial times it will not be inappropriate to announce that the

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Held a Record Meeting.

On Tuesday, July 21, the largest and most enthusiastic meeting which the State encampment of the the Spanish War Veterans ever held was held in Burlington, about 200 of the members and their ladies from all parts of the State attending. The annual business meeting was held in the morning, followed by a ride on the lake in the afternoon and the campfire at the armory in the evening.

The camp fire in the armory in the evening was largely attended, all the seats being filled. Capt. Reeves of the University, who served in the war, was one of the speakers.

Burlington, "the Queen City of Vermont," is always besieged by many summer visitors. This year what with students, friends, relatives, and the congregating of as many activities, the usual quota was considerably swelled.

From the "Old Mill" tower or the roof gardens the city looks like a forest of trees, the houses almost invisible. Travelling up and down these shady streets went daily touring cars from almost every state in the union.

The two daily papers, the Free Press and the News did what they could to bring success. "War correspondents" were maintained at the camp by both, and every incident of interest was well reported, even to the man who was forced to leave camp with water on the knee, or that other unfortunate who "with tears in his eyes" failed to pass the physical exams.

A representative clipping showing how closely conditions were watched is printed below.

FREE PRESS CLIPPING.

The camp has had an increasing number of visitors every day. Yesterday ex-Lieut.-Gov. Nelson W. Fisk was among the visitors. He saw the entire camp and noted all the details with interest and pleasure.

Henry S. Drinker, LL. D., president of Lehigh University and president of the Society of the National Reserve Corps, will arrive at the camp tomorrow, and will live at the camp for the remaining three weeks. His son is one of the camp students, and he is immensely interested in the work.

Akin to this we recall the following camp announcement.

Guests or members of the camp desiring meals at students' mess will be accommodated as far as messing facilities permit.

Meals will be charged for at the rate of 35 cents each. Meal tickets may be obtained at the Post Exchange. Tickets should be secured before entering the mess tent.

It was President Drinker who presented the following outline of

PURPOSES OF THE NATIONAL RESERVE CORPS.

(a) To perpetuate the system of students' military instruction camps and to encourage a large attendance; (b) To encourage thorough knowledge throughout the country of military policy, military history, and military organization, and to have these subjects included in the curriculum of the various colleges.

(c) To individually train ourselves to the best of our ability to be fitted to serve with best effect in case of need in such capacity as our condition at that time may properly permit.

(d) To establish and support a sound national military policy which shall include the maintenance of a highly efficient regular army sufficient for the peace needs of the nation, and a well organized and efficient militia, each supported by adequate reserves.

By arousing interest among the various student bodies of the country the reserve corps is doing much to promote the work of the summer camps.

The spiritual was not neglected—at least on the part of those in charge.

From the City.

"The Men's Union and the young People's Society of the First Baptist Church, St. Paul Street, fraternally and cordially invite you to join with them in their services during your stay in Burlington."

Each company street had its own bulletin board, and on these boards from time to time appeared local orders such as the following:

CAMP ORDERS.

Student's Military Instruction Camp, Burlington, Vermont,

July 6, 1914.

Orders No. 3.

1. Formations at Reveille and Retreat will be under arms. At the last note of the assembly each man will be in his place in ranks, at attention, in the prescribed uniform and equipment.

2. For all formations the prescribed uniform is, the campaign hat, olive drab shirt, cotton olive drab breeches, leggings and suitable high shoes. When in camp and outside of tents the uniform will be worn. Men leaving camp in uniform to visit town must wear the cotton olive drab coat. The uniform must be kept clean and worn correctly at all time. For athletic sports outside of camp any suitable athletic uniform may be worn.

Civilian clothing is authorized for wear outside of camp when not on duty.

3. The equipment issued to students is the property of the United States and must not be marked or de-marked in any way. It must be kept constantly assembled and in readiness for use.

4. No man will absent himself from any prescribed formation or duty without obtaining the permission of his company commander.

5. Tents and grounds must be neatly policed and in readiness for inspection at 7.15 A. M. daily except Sunday.

6. All lights must be out and all talking, singing or noise of any kind must cease at taps.

7. Men entering or leaving camp, except on duty, will cross sentry post No. 1, at the guard tent.

8. From 12.00 noon until 4.00 P. M. the camp will be open to the visiting friends and relatives of the students.

9. Failure to comply with orders and regulations will render students liable to loss of privileges and discontinuance of attendance at the camp.

10. Students are expected and encouraged to consult freely with all officers on duty in the camp whenever they so desire.

By order of Captain Edwards, J. F. Taulbee, 1st Lieut. 3rd Cavalry, Adjutant.

During the war there passed back and forth such information as conveyed in the following telegram received by Capt. Edwards, 8.00 P. M. Sunday. The unmistakableness of the wording will be noticed.

WAR TELEGRAM.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 2, 7:45 P. M.

"Reliable reports indicate enemy at Montpelier preparing to advance via Bolton pass. You will move out promptly tomorrow morning via Richmond station and Jonesville or Bolton to delay any hostile advance until you can be reinforced. The remainder of the force will march via Williston turnpike at 7.00 A. M. tomorrow on Bolton. Report your whereabouts for the night of the 3rd-4th to me at Williston. The Second Blue Infantry crossed over to Isle La Motte this A. M., and is due to reach Burlington sometime Monday.

(Signed) X-Colonel."

NEXT YEAR'S CAMP.

Likely to be in Burlington.

At a meeting held on the Monday evening succeeding the close of camp Captain Edwards spoke of the success that had attended the efforts of the government in establishing the camp in this city this year and he thanked all those who had given their assistance, which included his fellow officers, the mayor, aldermen, Merchants' association and citizens. He said he knew of no ideal spot for a students' camp, but he thought that there was no better spot than Burlington in which to locate one.

Captain Reeves gave an interesting history of how the camp came to be located here and from his remarks it was plain to be seen, although he by no means emphasized the point, that he was largely responsible for the camp's location in Burlington. He voiced the hope that the camp would come here next year.

Field Secretary Gaston, speaking from the standpoint of the student, said they were very much pleased with Burlington and with their treatment by Burlington citizens. He added he was much interested in Burlington as a site for the camp. He remarked that the summer camp means much to the United States in the way of preparing a reserve military force. He said that in the selection of sites for next year's camp there would be no favoritism shown and Burlington's claims would receive just consideration.

President Powell endorsed the sentiment that the camp would come here another year and gave the assurance that the project would receive the hearty co-operation of the Burlington Merchants' Association.

It came out in the remarks of Captain Reeves that the farmers along the route of the hike had been obliging and courteous and had found little fault. They had sent in no bills for damage claims. It was almost impossible to take a hike through the country without doing some small damage.

GYMNASIUM ADDITION PROGRESSES

Football Coach Selected—Prof. Appelman—Athletics—University Men in Camp—The Educational Report.

Work on the gymnasium addition has been progressing well during the summer and the building will be ready for use at the opening of the fall session. At present the walls are erected and the girders for the roof about to be hoisted into place. The workmanship has been of a high order; the structure will look better than at first supposed. One change in the original plans will be a skylight. This, and the massive windows will render the room exceedingly well lighted. One distinct advantage to be derived from the earth floor is that in military work all marching will have to be done by rhythm as out-of-doors and not by cadence as is inclined to be on an artificial floor.

U. V. M. AND THE WAR.

Prof. Appelman Not to Return.

The European war has not been without its effects upon the University. Professor Appelman who returned to his native home early in the summer expecting to have the permission of his government to return in the fall will probably be prevented from coming. Professor Myrick, in France at the outbreak of the war, experienced the difficulties of the other Americans in securing return passage but finally sailed about the middle of August. The chemistry department is finding difficulty in obtaining chemicals for the laboratories. Many of those in this country are imported from abroad, and those at present in stock are being eagerly seized upon from all sides.

JAMES A. TURNER TO COACH FOOTBALL.

The athletic council has engaged James A. Turner of Chicago, Ill. as football coach this fall. Mr. Turner has a good record as a preparatory school, college and professional player, and it is thought the University has secured a strong man for the position. He will arrive in the city September 10, to be here for early practice, which begins on the 15th. A fuller account will be published in the first fall number.

Winooski Parade.

At the Winooski celebration, commemorating the founding of the town, the University was represented by a float decked with college colors and occupied by college students. This seemed the more appropriate since some of the services were in remembrance of Ira Allen, the founder of the University.

ATHLETICS.

Tennis Courts in Order.

Athletics have been booming on the University grounds during the summer. Several city games have been played on Centennial Field, and the Odd Fellows' field meet was held there August 14. Both this and the back campus grounds were used by the camp men. The tennis courts were all put into shape by the camp and have been in constant use by the students of the camp and summer school.

OUT-O'-DOOR'S CLUB.

The Out-O'-Door's Club should feel pleased at the work accomplished by summer school students. Several excursions were taken on the lake and to the mountains, some of them reported elsewhere in this issue. The chief of the latter was to Mt. Mansfield, its slopes hot beneath the mid-summer sun, bearing little resemblance to the lofty glistening spaces that greet the mid-winter University hikes on snowshoes or skis. Now that the summer school body is so large if the University or State club could cooperate more definitely with the students it would be an excellent thing.

University Men in Camp.

Thirteen University men were in attendance at the students' camp this year. Last year at Gettysburg. R. W. Daniels was the only representative. At the National Guard encampment there was nearly a whole company, Co. C., in command of Captain Andrews. Some of these men, such as Washburn, showed up exceedingly well in the shooting. Captain Reeves secured the revolver trophy—a beautiful automatic weapon.

Entering Class.

A large entering class is still expected for the fall term although there is but little information to be given out. Nothing speaks more highly for the University than that a record number of about 30 are coming from the city high school alone.

REPORT OF EDUCATIONAL COMMISSION.

Findings and Recommendations.

The long anticipated report of the Vermont Educational Commission has been submitted to Governor Allen M. Fletcher. It contains 284 typewritten pages and the printed report of the Carnegie Foundation upon which the Vermont commission's report is based. The commission goes even further in its findings than the Carnegie investigators. Its findings are as follows:

Teaching in the rural schools unsuitable for daily life of pupils and mostly preparatory for secondary schools.

Secondary schools still more unsuitable mostly preparatory for institutions of higher learning and therefore of benefit to but one-tenth of their pupils.

Length of school term insufficient.

Lack of adequate vocational training for pupils and of efficient normal school training for teachers.

Insufficient emphasis on agriculture.

Appropriations to institutions of higher learning too large according to State property valuation.

Duplication of effort in U. V. M., Middlebury college and Norwich University, which are declared to be private institutions and not entitled of right to any state aid.

by F. J. Scarr of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., a member of Company D. He made 96 out of a possible 100. In the 300 yard rapid fire he made 50 out of 50.

The shooting of the whole battalion was very creditable. Just 200 men qualified in the course. Many men who made high scores had never handled a military rifle before. The showing which the companies made is as follows: Company A had 20 marksmen, 15 sharpshooters and 5 experts; Company B had 31 marksmen, 17 sharpshooters and 5 experts; Company C had 26 marksmen, 21 sharpshooters and 6 experts; Company D had 24 marksmen, 18 sharpshooters and 8 experts; the staff had two marksmen and one sharpshooter.

Camp was broken Thursday night.

UNIVERSITY OPENS FOR 124th YEAR

GIFT TO DEAN PERKINS

Pres. Benton Attacks "Armed Peace," and Forewarns the Freshman of his Visit to the Strange Land of the Collegian Wherein He Should "Abjure the Example and Avoid the Fate of the Skitzlanders of Dickens' Fancy."

The formal opening of the one hundred and twenty-fourth year of the University took place at the gymnasium on Wednesday, the 30th of September, at 10 A. M. The exercises were attended by a large number of town's people, and nearly the whole student body.

After a selection by the choir, the scripture was read and prayer offered by the Reverend I. C. Smart of the College Street Congregational Church. Following this, the opening address, a part of which is given below, was delivered by President Guy Potter Benton.

At the close of Doctor Benton's address, the choir rendered another selection, following which Professor Frederick Tupper of the University, in a few fitting words spoke of the long and faithful service rendered to the University by Dean G. H. Perkins, whose seventieth birthday had occurred on the preceding Saturday. Doctor Tupper closed his short address by presenting Dean Perkins on behalf of the faculty, with a handsome set of A. and C. Black's "Illustrated Books on Different Foreign Countries." Professor Perkins expressed his appreciation of the gift in words which showed no little feeling.

The following list of students of high standing from the classes of 1916 and 1917 was then read by President Benton. Class of 1916; first group, Miss Charlotte Pierpont; second group, Bruce R. Buchanan, Raymond L. Grismer, Augustine La Rochelle, Robert N. Pease, Miss Laura B. Porter, Paul L. Ransom, Miss Helen E. Rutter, Edward M. Washburne, and Walter S. Weeks. Class of 1917; first group, Miss Helen Dewey; second group, Miss Elizabeth W. Baker, Harold N. Bregstein, Miss Ruth L. Gates, Miss Pearl M. Grandy, Frederick W. Hackett. The exercises closed with the singing of Champlain by all present.

The President's Address.

In his address President Benton made a happy comparison of the collegian to the people in Dickens' "My

1918 NUMBERS 153.

Largest Delegation Comes from Burlington.

The entering class this year numbers 153. Of these 119 are men and 34 women. Burlington's representation is very large in the class of 1918, there being 27 from this city. Rutland is next, having sent 7. The enrollment of 1918 shows 85 different localities represented. The Freshmen coming within the state number 113, and the remaining 40 are divided among 11 different states.

JAMES A. TURNER, VERMONT'S NEW COACH

Coming With an Extensive Prep. School, College and Professional Experience, Coach Turner is Proving That He Can Teach the Vermont Team Football.

James A. Turner, who has been secured by the Athletic Association to coach the football team this year, is a young man of large football experience, not only as a star player on preparatory school and college teams, but also as a coach and official. Coach Turner received his preparatory school training at Inglewood High School in his home city of Chicago. Following his graduation from high school, he entered Northwestern University and played on the varsity football team during the seasons of 1904 and 1905. He remained at Northwestern but two years leaving to enter Dartmouth College, where he remained one and one-half years. He never played football at Dartmouth owing to the one year rule existing in that institution.

Mr. Turner began his career as a coach at Norwich University in November of the year 1906, and he coached the Norwich team during the four years following. Leaving Norwich in 1910, he returned to Chicago, and coached his preparatory school team at Inglewood High School during that year. Until last fall, he has been included in the line-up, either as quarter or end, in professional teams playing in and around Chicago, and the west in general. During the past four years, he has acted as official at the larger western football games.

When interviewed as to prospects in Vermont for the coming season, he expressed himself very favorably concerning prospects for a winning team, and stated himself to be highly pleased with the attitude of the men in their desire to learn the game, and he feels confident that with this atti-

BALL ON PURPLE'S THREE YARD LINE ENDS GAME

WILLIAMS WINS BY DROP

Team Shows Itself Heavy and Fast and Works Surprise on Opponents—Both Teams Make Costly Fumbles.

After Williams' easy victory of last year the Vermont eleven sprang a surprise at Williamstown on Oct. 3 by forcing the purple warriors to fight within the shadow of their own goal posts, and win a scant 3-0 victory by a field goal. The previous week Williams defeated Rensselaer 30-0. It was Vermont's first game after a two weeks' practice. Owing to the delay in opening college because of the infantile paralysis epidemic scarcely 25 candidates had as yet been training. There are now about 60.

In the first half Williams took the aggressive rushing the ball 84 yards to Vermont's 25, and running back kicks 35 yards to Vermont's 0. In the second half Vermont took a phenomenal pace, outplayed Williams in every stage of the game, and had the ball on their opponent's 3-yard line when the whistle sounded. It was in the first of this half that quarterback deWindt won the game for Williams by a beautiful drop kick from the 22-yard line. For the purple Toolan and deWindt played the best offensive game, Tompkins smashing the Vermont backs on the defense. For the green and gold Glidden on the offensive and Pike and Little on the defense were especially effective. Vermont's greater weight was a constant menace to Capt. Payson's men; the speed of the two teams was nearly on a par. For the following details we are indebted to the "Williams Record":

Capt. Payson won the toss and decided to defend the north goal. Malcolm kicked off to deWindt who received the ball on his 15 yard line and ran it back 20 yards. Toolan circled left end for 30 yards and deWindt made 7 around the opposite wing. Toolan and Jones failed to gain and on the fourth down a missed signal lost 5 yards for the varsity and the ball went to Vermont. After Williams was penalized for off-side play, Lawler ripped off 5 yards through tackle but was thrown for a 5 yard loss on an attempted lob play. Glidden made 3 through right tackle and then punted to Payson who was downed on his own 40 yard line. Jones fumbled on the

UNDERCLASS CANE RUSH THIS P. M.

Winner of Toss to Carry Canes—Tug of War Follows.

The annual cane rush and tug-of-war will take place on the back campus this afternoon. The freshmen will meet at 1:30 sharp and march down town to the store of Miles and Perry, again the donators of the canes, returning to the hill at 2:00 when the rush will take place. The rules:

1. The canes will be carried by that side winning the toss.
2. The rush will last seven minutes.
3. Each whole cane counts two points for the class in possession. Each crook end with one foot of cane will count one point.
4. At the end of the rush Boulder men will judge as to the possession of the canes counting the hands in disputed cases. The crook hold will be considered an advantage.
5. Cleated headed shoes must not be worn. Wear preferably either tennis or rubber soled shoes.

TUG OF WAR.

Time, 2:20 o'clock.

1. There shall be ten men on each side.
2. There shall be three pulls, each lasting two minutes.
3. Cleated shoes are barred.

TRACK SQUAD START WORK WITH CROSS COUNTRY

Home Meet Pending with M. A. C. Nov. 7th—Big Demand for More Material.

With nearly all of last year's track team back in college, the prospects of giving track another boost are very bright. Last spring by scrapily winning two out of the three meets it was shown that Vermont now has a chance of taking a stand on the oval. It is but natural to suppose that with another year of training and experience there will be still further improvement.

With several men of more or less experience there are prospects of a very creditable cross country team. But more material is needed, offering an excellent opening for freshmen looking about for some activity in which they may take part to advantage. Several men are already out, training for the first meet on the schedule, that with M. A. C. at Burlington, Nov. 7th. We shall probably run Wesleyan on their course, but the date

UNIVERSITY OPENS FOR 124TH YEAR.

Wonderful Adventures in Skitzland." In this story a man broke through the earth's crust and fell into the interior. He found a strange country, strange in that while everyone was born physically perfect, at a certain age any part of the body that had not been used was lost entirely, leaving only those parts that had been made use of.

A sequel to this work entitled, "My Wonderful Adventures in Waxland," was conceived. The author, a certain schoolmaster, fell through the crust of the earth into a second strange land, where everyone was born physically imperfect. From earliest infancy everything possible was done to develop the rudimentary organs, at the same time keeping the other organs in good repair. When old enough to understand, the child assisted in the development. Gradually five organs were formed, these forming of themselves a corporeal corporation that did away with all destructive competition, and guaranteed fresh air and sane exercise, exclusive rights for the promotion of a monopoly to capitalize the existing possessions for ultimate organic uniformity.

Collegians are citizens of either Waxland or Skitzland. By far the large majority of them are skitzlanders. More people are "born long" than are "born short." The teaching of the master which declares that "For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have abundance" has been changed to read "For whosoever hath, from him shall be taken away the most that he has and he shall have few things in abundance." Students should multiply their natural gifts without limit, and use them in acquiring others.

In many ways this is the Golden Age of humanity, yet there is much to overcome. Fortunate is he who can point to an honorable ancestry, provided only he improves on his inheritance. The next generation must have ground for saying that their parents improve their golden opportunities.

Preparedness for war has been proven this year not to be the best guarantee of peace. America should be a leader in discarding navies and armies. College students of today are the hope of tomorrow. They should be leaders in abolishing war and the preparation for war.

In conclusion President Benton said, "Young men and women of the University of Vermont to what a splendid company you belong! You are to keep step in the educational march through the year ahead with 300,000 of your kind in the 600 colleges of America, and if with them you measure up to your high opportunities in the development of a well-balanced manhood and womanhood you may speed the coming of humanity's perfect day of world-wide disarmament when the war drum shall throb no longer. The University of Vermont will not be to you all that it can be if you refuse to accept its proffered services in the improvement of your physical, intellectual and moral behavior. The overwhelming majority of you are endowed with the beginnings of a complete physical, intellectual and spiritual equipment. You I exhort, for the sake of your own largest success and greatest happiness, and for the sake of the whole race of men, to abjure the example and avoid the fate of the Skitzlanders of Dickens' fancy."

U. OF MAINE TO-DAY.

Middlebury Game Postponed.

Oct. 3.—Williams at Williamstown.
Oct. 10.—Maine at Manchester, N. H.
Oct. 17.—Dartmouth at Hanover.
Oct. 24.—Colgate at Hamilton.
Oct. 31.—Brown at Providence.
Nov. 7.—New Hampshire State at Burlington.

Nov. 14.—Fordham at New York.
Nov. 26.—Holy Cross at Worcester.

The Middlebury game will be played off between the Fordham and Holy Cross games, probably on Saturday, Nov. 21.

FRESHMEN RULES.

"Hark Ye to These Restrictions Lest the Waters Be Thy Grave."

Put away childish things—wear not thy prep school insignia. You are now in college.

Clad thy skinny ankles in sombre black. Wear no corduroy clothing.

Wander not away from the established paths on the campus. Dare not tread upon the northside of College Street. Be not seen on Church Street after 10:30 in the evening save in the presence of upper classmen.

Doff your cap to the President—tip them to the faculty and seniors.

Upon the earliest opportunity procure a little green cap. Stick to it, nor separate from it ever. Mar it not with your needless name, nor the noisome numerals of your class, nor remove the bright and becoming button. As wintry blasts approach procure a regulation freshman togue. After this the cap shall be worn until founder's day. Sundays may be an exception to this rule.

Attend all smokers with an abundant supply of pipes and matches. Collegiate contests must also be attended.

Smoke is the saddest of sins. Play not with the pleasing pipe nor caress the contraband cigarette. Contaminate not your childish cheeks with the costly cigar. Fearful is the fate of him who fights the nasty nicotine. Smoke only in secret seclusion with fear and trembling in your heart. At college smokers this rule is void.

When the strains of "Champlain" are heard show respect to your alma mater by rising and doffing caps. Have all college songs firmly embedded in your minds by the first football game.

We, the all-powerful class of 1917, heartily welcome you to our University. Join with the student body in an endeavor to make a bigger and better Old Vermont.

Y. M. C. A. HANDBOOKS MEET WITH FAVOR.

Edited by M. H. Davis, '15.

The Y. M. C. A. Handbook, commonly known as the "Freshmen Bible," came out just before the opening of college, and is now in circulation among the students. This little book, which is designed for the purpose of furnishing the entering class with useful information about the college and the city, has more than fulfilled its purpose this year. In fact, it is probably the best handbook which has been put out in several seasons. The style of the book is entirely changed from previous years, both in arrangement and subject matter. Everything is new, and several useful departments have been added, including log tables, other useful tables and formulae, and a new set of the college songs. The book also has a very attractive cover. The editor, Merle H. Davis, '15, is to be congratulated on the results of his work, and the Freshmen will do well to study this little book carefully. Copies may be secured by calling at the Y. M. C. A. office.

1ST MEETING OF DEBATING CLUB.

Interclass Cup Presented by H. Albon Bailey.

The first meeting of the Debating Association was held last Monday night. As there was not a quorum present no business meeting was conducted. The problems of intercollegiate and inter-class debating were discussed. Challenges have already been sent to Middlebury and Norwich, but no answers have, as yet, been received. The question of debating McGill, Bowdoin, Maine, or Bates was considered but no definite action was taken. Programs, method of entering and the question of financing the teams were discussed. A very pretty cup was presented to the club by H. Albon Bailey for inter-class debating. The classes eligible are the sophomores and freshmen and the class and the names of the members of the winning team are to be engraved on the cup, and the Association will undoubtedly vote to give a cup to each member of the winning team.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT NOW ON.

Fall Intercollegiate Schedule Being Arranged.

A considerable number of men have thus far signed up for the tennis tournament and the first rounds are now being played off. The first rounds must be completed before Saturday, October 10, and all who have not finished their matches by this time are ruled out. Those having matches to play have an option on the courts at all times. The results in this tournament will largely determine the selection of the varsity team. Manager Remby is at present negotiating for matches with other colleges and expects to arrange for one or two good matches this fall.

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE 1ST YEAR 1914-15.

Constitution, By-Laws and Officers.

I.

This organization shall be known as "The Inter-Fraternity Conference of the University of Vermont."

II.

Its purposes are:

1. To promote the interests of the said university.
2. And of the several fraternities represented therein;
3. To insure co-operation among said fraternities;
4. Between them and the college authorities to the end that the conditions of the fraternities and their relations with the college authorities may be improved.

III.

This conference shall comprise three members from each fraternity represented in the University of Vermont which subscribes to this constitution.

Each fraternity may choose its representatives in any manner it may see fit, but where possible the three representatives shall be an alumnus, a senior and a junior, the latter to be the senior representative the succeeding year.

During any one college year the representatives of each fraternity shall remain the same, unless a representative leaves the institution in which case a substitute may be appointed in his place. Each fraternity shall have one vote, but there shall be no voting by proxy.

IV.

Regular meetings shall take place once a month; the time and place shall be designated by the president.

Special meetings may be called at the request of the representatives of any fraternity.

V.

The officers of the conference shall be a President, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall perform the usual duties incident to their respective offices. They shall each preferably be chosen to serve for one collegiate year and shall be chosen by lot, the first being the President, the second Secretary and Treasurer; the officers being eliminated at the expiration of term until all other fraternities have held office.

VI.

The conference shall make by-laws regulating the manner of pledging prospective members to the several fraternities represented in the Conference, and any other by-laws which would meet the needs of the Conference.

VII.

Infractions of this Constitution or By-Laws may be punished in any appropriate way to be determined by the Conference.

VIII.

This Constitution can be amended at any time by a majority vote of the fraternities represented in the Conference, each fraternity being entitled to one vote for its three representatives.

Amendment to Article IV. A quorum shall consist of representatives of all but four fraternities.

By-Laws.

Regulating the nine academic fraternities:

1. No invitation to membership in any fraternity of the Conference shall be given to any person who is not regularly enrolled as a student.
2. No invitation to membership shall be extended to any freshman or new student until November 6th.
3. Every invitation to membership shall be in writing, and upon printed forms furnished by the Secretary of the Conference; invitations not accepted shall be returned. This does not apply after pledging day, Nov. 6.
4. Any student who shall leave college after being pledged, but before being initiated, shall be automatically released from his pledge after an absence of six months, and if he returns to college shall be open to invitations from any fraternity.

5. The Constitution and By-Laws shall be printed and a copy placed in the hands of every person who enters the college as a student. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the Conference to see that this is done. The Conference shall choose some person to present and explain the rules at a mass meeting of the freshmen at the beginning of each college year.

6. All pledgees shall wear buttons. They shall be strictly honored by all fraternities (unless the pledging is pronounced irregular by the executive committee).

7. From the opening of college until November 3 shall be a neutral period. During this period no fraternity man shall discuss fraternity matters with a freshman or prospective freshman, or shall entertain or cause to be entertained in behalf of a fraternity any freshman or prospective freshman. Freshmen shall not enter fraternity houses during the neutral period except on Saturday nights. On Saturday nights of the neutral period every freshman is welcome at the houses and rooms of all fraternities, from 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. Entertainment shall be limited to "smokes" and no fraternity matters shall be discussed at these Saturday nights. This neutral period shall be in force in Burlington one week before the opening of college.

8. Fraternities may make dates with freshmen beginning at 10 a. m. on November 2 for a rushing period of three days, November 3, 4, 5, which will end at midnight on November 5. No dates made before 10 a. m. on November 2 shall hold.

9. From midnight, November 5, until 6:00 p. m., November 6, shall be a strictly neutral period, silence being maintained upon fraternity matters.

10. At 2 p. m. on November 6, the members of the conference shall meet, and shall bring all their invitations in sealed and addressed envelopes. Within each envelope shall be only the printed form of invitations properly filled out and an unsealed envelope with the address of the inviting fraternity upon it. The invitations shall then be sorted out and delivered by three messengers all of different fraternities, elected by the Conference from men who have taken no part in fraternity rushing. Messengers shall present invitations to freshmen during the afternoon. Each freshman shall in the presence of the messengers inspect the invitation and fill out the blank, "I accept, I do not accept your invitation to membership"; and shall then put each invitation in the envelope addressed to the inviting fraternity. All the invitations with replies shall then be returned by the messengers to the respective fraternities.

11. All rushing by-laws take effect from the date of their passage until modified or revoked by the majority vote of the Conference.

12. There shall be an executive committee of five members,—two academic seniors, one medical senior, and two alumni members of the Conference elected by a majority vote. The committee shall enforce all the by-laws. It shall investigate all violations or reported violations and send a statement of the findings to the members of the Conference. It may fix what other punishment seems best. Appeal may be made to the Conference from the decisions of the executive committee.

13. It is recommended that the Boulder, Key and Serpent and Ukma, class honorary societies, expel from membership and refuse to consider for membership members of any fraternities who withdraw from the Conference.

By-Laws.

Regulating the three medical fraternities:

1. No student shall receive an invitation to become a member of any medical fraternity until he shall have matriculated as a regular student in the College of Medicine.

2. No student shall be approached in any way in regard to fraternity affairs until two weeks prior to the first Wednesday in November, the aforesaid Wednesday to constitute the first day of pledging students.

3. The above by-laws shall be and remain unalterable except when changed or amended at a meeting at which all medical fraternities shall be represented.

Officers 1914-15.

President.—Wesley A. Sturges.

Secretary-Treasurer—Charles S. Fern.

Executive Committee.—Rev. C. C. Wilson, '08, chairman, Andrew H. Holt, '12, H. A. Gardyne, '15, Harold A. Mayforth, '15, W. H. Niles, '15.

THE UNIVERSITY STORE.

Now in College of Medicine.

During the summer the old college store was taken over by the faculty, and moved to new and more spacious quarters in the College of Medicine. Here may be found supplies for all departments of the institution, and the busy place is now rightly called, "The University Store."

Freshmen: A Place for Every Man.

There are 119 freshmen now in the University. Vermont wants each one of those 119 men to get into some student activity. Kill the idea that you can't do anything. Don't delay until you are a sophomore. Start now, the competition may not be as keen as you think. A man with no more ability than you may win out because he tries. If you have ability enough to enter college you have ability enough to get behind some undergraduate enterprise. In fact, ability isn't the doubtful factor—it's willingness and push. Don't be the junior or senior who looks back over his college course lamenting that he has done nothing. If you go at things with the proper spirit you will soon find that college is amply rewarding you. It will pay in the long run to cut some of the loafing and do some of the work. It is much the same here as in the world; he who starts first is most likely to win, all else being equal. As a matter of fact, some of your best equipment for the world will come out of these same college activities. If you are naturally "backward in coming forward," never mind, the other fellow feels the same way about it, get your nerve and come on. There are the literary and scientific societies, the papers, football, track, Y. M. C. A., debating, dramatics, etc., etc.—a place for everyone. For the sake of Vermont and yourself get into your place. No one is going to put you there. You've got to make inquiries and get there yourself.

The Eleven.

It looks very much as though the football situation at Vermont had been saved. The material this year is exceptionally good, and to the alumni we would say that the fullest confidence is placed in coach Turner and his methods by the undergraduates. Moreover, the interest in football is keener than usual. The night before the team left for Williamstown there were four coaches on the field. The result of the Williams game was encouraging. It is for every undergraduate to back in every way what is probably the best combination of coach and men Vermont has had for several years. In the past, players have frequently broken training, talk has censured this behind their backs, but no open stand has been made against it; this year public opinion should not tolerate it. Men will find it of interest to get out on the side lines when possible and watch the team at work; indications are pointing toward a Dartmouth trip. What Vermont has wanted above all else is a first class fighting team in good condition with the vim and the dash and the go, the aggressiveness that keeps everlastingly at it; we predict she is going to have it.

Hail! Green and Gold!

Vermont is learning to sing. Commencing with the advent of the Lyman Cup and subsequent events last spring singing at Vermont assumed a new aspect. Songs avalanching into oblivion were dragged abruptly back to a popular existence, a few new stanzas were struck off, and upper classmen have been determinedly forcing things ahead. The more and better the singing, the easier it is for others to catch the air and words and get the spirit. The latest move has been made by the University itself, and now one of the most attractive features of the Commons Hall is the orchestra and Saturday night sings. Plus the increased amount of singing it is noticeable that "Champlain," the Vermont classic, is being received with ever increasing respect.

Mid-Summer Issue.

The mid-summer issue of the Cynic cost approximately $130. The income was about $125, making a deficit of about $5.00. Subscriptions are still coming in. We feel that its publication was a success. As a direct and indirect advertising medium it reached scores of people. The subscriptions were sent to home addresses which meant that each one would come in contact with the friends and relatives of the subscriber. Besides, many non-subscribers in camp and summer school and others to whom applications were sent were made aware that Vermont must be alive if its publications were so much alive. Several libraries about the state subscribed. It is hoped it will have its due amount of influence in bringing a large camp and a large summer school to Vermont next year. The states covered by subscriptions were Vt., Maine, Penn., Conn., Col., Cal., N. H., N. Y., Wash., Wash., D. C., Mass., R. I., Va., S. C., Ohio, Ala., Wis., Minn., Ken., Iowa; Canada and Japan. Copies may be secured at 25 cents each.

TRACK SQUAD START WORK WITH CROSS COUNTRY.

has not yet been decided. A larger squad is necessary, for both. These dates depend on this week's showing. Several members of last year's relay squad are back for the B. A. A. meet this winter.

The loss of Squires in the weights and Cintron in the broad jump will be felt keenly and these events will have to be taken care of chiefly by material developed from the freshman class. Capt. Hayden, Minckler, Skippy and Buchanan have had considerable experience in the distances. In the half and quarter, Patterson, Gallagher and Wilbur will be on hand. Other old men are: sprints, Bolster, Woodbury and Patterson; high jump, Wilcox; pole vault, Burrage; hurdles, Hackett and Burrage.

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY.

Professors Daniels and Merrill Retire on Carnegie Allowances.

The changes in the faculty this year are as follows:—Professor A. L. Daniels retires from the department of mathematics and Professor N. F. Merrill from the department of Chemistry both on Carnegie allowances. Professor Elijah Swift, coming from Princeton, takes the place of Professor Daniels. Professor G. H. Burrows will now be at the head of the department of chemistry. Professor C. E. Burke will be an assistant in that department as will James E. Donahue, '02, in the mathematical department.

Thurman W. Dix, '08, will succeed W. H. Fulton as assistant professor of mathematics and civil engineering, Professor Fulton having entered the government service at Washington. Vernon T. Dow, '14, succeeds Andrew H. Holt; and Delafield DuBois of Harvard, Harold F. Barton as instructors in the College of Engineering.

E. H. Ingalls, '96, will have charge of boys' and girls' club work in the public schools of the state, in connection with the agricultural extension service of the university. Peter Schneider of Wesleyan, takes the place of Hovey Jordan, '13, as instructor in zoology. Dr. E. S. Towne, '14, is added to the medical faculty and will be an assistant in anatomy. Forrest W. Kehoe serves as acting registrar during the sabbatical year of Professor M. W. Andrews. In the department of English, John T. Owens takes J. I. Lindsay's place and Edward O. Baker will be added as a new instructor. Professor Lindsay is taking advance work at Harvard. Professor Merrill served the university for a period of 29 years, for the greater part of that time acting as Dean of the Department of Chemistry; Professor Daniels, head of the mathematics department was acting professor for nearly as long—a period of 26 years.

Chemistry Club.

At the Chemistry Club meeting last Monday afternoon, it was voted to send regards and hopes for a speedy recovery to Professor Merrill who is ill at the Mary Fletcher Hospital.

FRESHMEN WITNESS THEIR FIRST VERMONT SMOKER

Enthusiasm Grows as Speeches, Stunts, Songs and Vigorous Cheering Proceed—Unanimous Vote to Accompany Team to Train.

The first smoker of the year 1914-15, the most enthusiastic one that old Vermont has seen in some time, was held at the gymnasium on Thursday evening, Oct. 1, for the purposing of arousing football spirit before the team left on the Williams' trip. The class of 1918 was out in full strength, as well as the class of 1917, hostilities having been declared off by mutual agreement until 10:30 of that evening. The spirit which the freshmen showed in helping make their first smoker a success is worthy of praise and speaks well for the future of their class.

President Dean, of last year's junior class, had charge of the meeting, which was called to order about 7:45. After a few explanatory remarks, in which he emphasized the purpose of the smoker, the chairman introduced President Benton as the first speaker of the evening. The president, in a few words, expressed his hearty sympathy with football in general, and with this year's team in particular. He said that he firmly believed that football at Vermont could be brought up to the same high standard which baseball now holds among us, that we can send out football teams which will rank among college teams as our baseball teams have ranked in the past. President Benton said that he had watched the work of the team from time to time in practice, and felt sure that it was a good team this year. He mentioned the fact that he had never had the pleasure of meeting Coach Turner, so, at the close of his remarks, President Dean took the opportunity of introducing the coach and the president to each other, much to the delight of the crowd. Short speeches by Capt. Flynn, Dr. Beecher, Manager Sturgis, Coach Turner, and "Stan" Berry followed, intermixed with songs, cheers, and freshmen stunts.

The underlying current of all the speeches was an appeal to the student body to stand behind the team whatever happened, and to always remember that the men were doing their best whether victory or defeat was the outcome. Football has been taking a slump at Vermont and is, at the present time, on trial. It is, therefore, the duty of every man in college to do his part toward building up a strong team this year, and thus saving the good name of Vermont. Coach Turner made an appeal for more men out for practice, saying that enough for three teams, at least, should be upon the field every day. It seemed to be the general opinion of all the speakers that, without undue enthusiasm the prospects of the team this year are much better than last year, and that it will give a good account of itself. The vote to accompany the team to the train was unanimous. The meeting closed about 9:30.

BALL ON PURPLE'S THREE YARD LINE ENDS GAME.

first play and Little recovered the ball for Vermont. At this point Blodgett replaced Jones. Lawler made 3 on a delayed pass but Glidden failed to gain through the line. A forward pass, Vizner to Pike, netted Vermont 8 yards. Lawler added 5 more but fumbled, deWindt recovering the ball. Toolan advanced the leather 17 yards around right end. On the next play Williams fumbled Vermont recovered the ball but fumbled also and finally Blodgett pounced on the pigskin. Eells punted 55 yards to Vizner who was thrown for a 5 yard loss by S. Hubbell. The green and gold gained 5 yards on two line plays and then Glidden punted to Toolan who ran the ball back 15 yards to the middle of the field.

In the second period the ball was in Vermont's territory all the time. After a series of plays had brought the leather to Vermont's 40 yard line deWindt dropped back 10 yards and attempted a drop which, however, failed. Glidden punted out from behind his goal line to his 35 yard line. It was here that Toolan signalled for a fair catch but ran with the ball through the entire Vermont team and over the goal line. The resulting penalty placed the ball on Williams' 49 yard line. Garfield gained 8 on a tackle around play and Payson bucked the line for 10 and a first down. Following an exchange of punts, deWindt tried another drop, this time from the 45 yard line and again he fell short by a narrow margin.

Eells kicked off, at the opening of the second half to Vizner who ran the ball back from his 10 to his 35 yard line. After two of Vermont's plays had failed, Tompkins and S. Hubbell recovered a fumble. Toolan circled right end for 28 yards carrying the ball to the 12 yard line. After two plays had brought the ball very nearly to the center of the field on the 12 yard line deWindt dropped back to the 22 yard line and placed the leather squarely between the posts for the only score of the game. The quarter ended with the ball in Vermont's possession on her 42 yard line on the third down.

The green and gold fumbled on the first play in the final quarter but recovered. Tennien, who had replaced Glidden, punted to Toolan who ran back the pigskin 12 yards to his 27 yard line. He then punted to Vizner who was downed on his 35 yard line. After another exchange of punts it was Vermont's ball in midfield. Lawler ran 12 yards through the line and a forward pass, Lawler to Mayforth, netted 10 more. Two plays failed to make any gain and then the visitors were penalized 15 yards for holding. Vermont fumbled, Laplante recovering for Williams. Toolan was thrown for a 4 yard loss on an attempted end run. G. L. Hubbell replaced Jones at this juncture. After an incompleting forward pass J. Wright made 14 on a tackle around play. Toolan fumbled and the ball was recovered by Vermont. Vermont failed to gain in four plays and Tennien punted to the 15 yard line. Payson made four through tackle but failed to gain on the next play. Toolan made 2 yards on an end run and the final whistle blew just as Williams lost the ball to Vermont on downs on the next play on the purple's 3 yard line.

OPPORTUNITIES ON "YE CRABBE."

The Crabbe board held a meeting at the Sigma Phi Place Monday evening, when plans were discussed for the year. "Ye Crabbe" is at present in need of better undergraduate support. There are at present opportunities for new men to demonstrate their ability both in the managing and contributing departments.

PRES. BENTON PAYS VISIT TO COMMONS HALL.

Commons Hall opened Saturday, Sept. 26 with Roy D. Sawyer, the president's secretary, in charge; H. A. Mayforth, '15, as headwaiter, and P. L. Ransom, '16, as cashier. The kitchen is in the charge of Mrs. Estelle Donoway. In spite of the increased cost of food, the weekly rate for board remains at $3.50, the same as last year.

The Commons has been running to capacity, with an average of one hundred and twenty-five at each meal, during the past week.

President Benton was a guest at the Commons last Saturday evening. He received a most hearty welcome from the students. In a few well chosen words he commended the good spirit shown about college this fall and spoke a word of praise for the stand which the football team made against Williams.

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET.

On Oct. 21 and 22 an inter-class track and field meet will be held. A feature of the meet will be a three-mile cross country run between sophomore and freshman teams. Winners of events will be granted class numerals.

List of events:

tude continued, the team will make a very creditable showing notwithstanding the strong teams on this year's schedule. That the team showed excellent fighting spirit in the Williams game is unquestionable, and, although the purple team seemed to be playing in luck, at no time did a Vermont man show any spirit of giving up. Although the game revealed a multitude of weaknesses in the rudimentary arts of the game, Coach Turner is highly confident that by a week's practice, coupled with the advantage of having men who are out for class teams as opponents, that the varsity will soon be rounded into a top speed fighting machine.

GIRLS PLAN BIG ATHLETIC MEET.

Medals Awarded to Winners.

The president of the Girls' Athletic Association called a meeting of the executive board Wednesday afternoon to make plans for the annual field day, which will take place on Saturday, October 24th, under the supervision of Mrs. Stone, director of physical education in the young women's department. The grounds at Grassmount for the baseball, volley ball, track meet and tennis tournament have been put in good condition. Miss Constance Votey, '14, was elected captain of the track meet, and managers were appointed for the several events. A silver cup will be presented to the class of the winner of the tennis "singles," which if won by the same class in three successive tournaments will be its trophy. A Vermont banner is the baseball prize, and to the winners of the greatest number of points in the relay race, sixty-yard dash, hurdles, running broad jump, shot put and long distance throw, a gold and silver medal will be awarded. In honor of the victors in the games, and the new members, the association will give a celebration evening of music, feasting and dancing.

LARGEST SUMMER SCHOOL EVER HELD IN STATE.

Attendance 266.

The 1914 session of the University Summer School opened on the same date as the students' military camp, Monday, July 6. The attendance of 266 marked by far the largest summer school ever held in the state. The enrollment by states was: Vermont 185, New York 24, Massachusetts 12, Connecticut 10, New Jersey 9, Pennsylvania 8, Rhode Island 3, Canada 2, Maine 2, Ohio 2, Virginia 3, Alabama 1, Georgia 1, Kansas 1, Louisiana 1, Michigan 1, Washington, D. C., 1, South Carolina 1; total 266. Of these 182 were teachers, 37 students, 5 superintendents, and 42 unclassified, 56 were college graduates, 20 from the University of Vermont.

The previous record was between 80 and 90. The present record was made despite the fact that very few camp men were enrolled for courses. Dr. Messenger had the school in charge.

LARGEST STUDENTS' MILITARY CAMP.

Vermont Men in Evidence.

The students' military camp held at Burlington this summer proved to be the largest and most successful of the four in the United States. The other three camps were located at Asheville, N. C., attendance 120; Monterey, Cal., and Ludington, Mich., attendance 111. The attendance at the Vermont camp was 350. 135 institutions being represented, comprising over 20 states.

Vermont with an attendance of 13 tied with the City College of N. Y. for sixth place. Yale had the largest representation, 33, Princeton 25, Harvard 21, Stevens Institute 18, Cornell 17, Vermont 13, City College of N. Y. 13, Bowdoin 7, Columbia 7, etc.

R. W. Daniels served as first lieutenant in Co. A, L. T. Huntington as first sergeant; in Co. C, E. L. Gilbert as second lieutenant, A. St. John as second sergeant, C. S. Ferrin as corporal; in Co. D, C. H. Hayden as second sergeant. M. H. Davis acted as assistant secretary in the Y. M. C. A. Tent. The baseball series was won by Co. D, Nicholson of Stevens Tech pitching. Gilbert and Ferrin both played for Co. C. The mid-summer number contains detailed and illustrated accounts of both the camp and the summer school.

CLASS FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

First Game To-day.

To aid football still farther this year the athletic committee and the football managers of the two lower classes have arranged a series of football games with outside institutions, preparatory to the annual class game. These schedules should prove of immense value in rounding the teams into shape for a lively contest on Nov. 21. 1918 has about 25 men out for practice—two teams; 1917 a fewer number. Vermont now has over five teams in operation.

PROF. APPELMANN DEFENDS THE COLORS.

Says Germany Not Guilty.

President Powers opened the Commons Club meeting Wednesday evening by extending a cordial welcome to all the members, both new and old. Professor Appellmann, who is an honorary member of the club, then addressed those present. He wished it be particularly emphasized that he is speaking from a neutral standpoint, and that all he had learned concerning the causes of the war was more from the English side of the question than from the German. As to the report that Germany was prepared for war, it was false, for when he went to Europe on June 16, there were no indications of war. The Archduke Ferdinand was later assassinated, and when Austria sent an ultimatum to Serbia, the part of it was accepted. This was not the direct cause of the war, but was somewhat instrumental. Russia has always favored the Balkan states, in this case, she aided Serbia. One of the chief causes of the war was the jealousy between Germany and England over their commercial interests.

If we are to speak of militarism in regard to Germany, it is better to compare its army with that of some other countries. Russia has a larger army but of course Russia is a larger country. But, in proportion to her population, France has a larger army than Germany. If the people of Germany were overtaxed by the Kaiser in this militarism, they would object, but they are not.

The Emperor can not declare war without the consent of the Lord Chancellor, who has more power than our secretary of state, and of the people of Germany. If he were not a good Emperor, there would be uprisings against him, but the people stand ready to support him in everything.

After Serbia and Austria had declared war, Russia came in. When peace was made between the Balkan states, in London, it was Russia who stated the terms. Russia and Serbia had planned to divide Austria between them, as has been shown by maps which were captured. The Slavs are not so educated enough to manage European affairs.

Germany did everything to prevent war through mediation but Russia continued her mobilization. The emperor sent word to Sir Edward Grey that, if England would vouch for France and Belgium not entering war, neither of these countries would be molested, but no answer was received, except that France began immediate mobilization. France opened the attack by crossing the German frontier, and by aeroplane attacks. Then the German mobilization began on Aug. 1. England was then asked to keep the English, French and Belgium navies out of the war; as Germany would not use her navy against these countries.

Russia and Austria were at war and England was ready to join in when Germany declared war on Russia. Sir Edward Grey respectfully told the German government that no treaties existed between England and France.

Dr. Appellmann said he stood for peace and could not believe England entirely guiltless, since they are forcing their colonies into the war.

GIFT OF $10,000.

Endowment Nears Million Mark.

President Benton announces that a gift of $10,000 has lately come to the University from a woman who stipulates that her name be withheld for the present.

This money will become available at her death, and will constitute a fund, the interest of which will be used for a scholarship for women. In making this gift, the donor states that her early life was characterized by privation and, consequently, it is her wish to be of service to young women who are deserving, but needy. She is a woman who has been in touch with the University for some time.

President Benton adds that the endowment fund of the University is increasing steadily, and it is hoped that it will soon reach the million dollar mark.

"THE EUROPEAN WAR: ITS UNDERLYING CAUSES."

Address by Prof. Emerson.

Professor Samuel F. Emerson, of the University occupied the pulpit at the First Church both morning and evening last Sunday. His evening address was upon the subject, "The European War, its Underlying Causes."

Professor Emerson explained the fundamental cause of the great war as Supremacy of Law against National Rights. According to his theory, Germany is supporting her belief in the inherent right of a nation to govern itself and advance its interests, regardless of all law, while the allies are upholding, perhaps without a perfectly clear understanding of it, a mighty, traditional feeling, descended through ages, that the unity of European states must be observed above the interests of any one nation.

PRES. BENTON EXPLAINS RUSHING RULES TO FRESHMEN.

At a meeting of the members of the freshman class held Wednesday night, September 30, President Benton explained the new rules in regard to fraternity rushing. His explanation of the rules was most satisfactory from all points of view. He said that the success of the new system was hinged upon the honor and diligence of the freshmen in taking care that the provisions were lived up to by themselves, and by the fraternities with whom they might have dealings. In case a fraternity should violate the rules, the freshmen should consider it beneath their notice and not worthy of their consideration. President Benton expressed free confidence in the success of the new regulations.

COMMONS HALL SINGS.

Plans for Commons Hall Sings each night after supper are still being considered, but have not yet materialized. At present they are being held each Saturday night.

KAPPA SIGMA OCCUPIES NEW HOUSE.

The Kappa Sigma Fraternity is now located in its new house at 386 Pearl street, which was purchased last spring of Mr. W. J. Van Patten. The house is now being refurnished and put in first class condition.

Key and Serpent.

Key and Serpent held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, the 7th at the Kappa Sigma house. Committees were appointed to arrange for a series of dances, to have charge of the trophies and the trophy room, and to arrange for collegiate basketball and hockey, if feasible.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE PHI DELTA HOUSE.

During the past summer extensive improvements have been made at the Phi Delta Theta house on College street. The outside has been painted gray and the veranda on the west side enlarged. Inside hardwood floors have been laid, all the rooms have been papered, and the woodwork enameled. The parlor has been refurnished with mission furniture and green rugs. The dining room has also been refurnished and enlarged. A new heater has been installed and also a new kitchen range.

Y. W. C. A. Reception.

The annual reception given by the Young Women's Christian Association for all the new girls, was held at Grassmount on the evening of the first day of college.

On Tuesday night of this week the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet entertained the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet at Grassmount.

Mrs. Stetson Advisor of Women.

The Women's dormitories have opened this year with fifty-five girls in the houses—Grassmount, Howard Hall and the Annex, former residence of Captain Reeves—under the supervision of Mrs. Stetson, who succeeds Miss Terrill as advisor of women.

First Y. W. C. A. Meeting.

Sunday, October 4th, the Young Women's Christian Association held their meeting in the chapel to welcome the freshmen girls. Miss Gates, the president, after greeting the girls briefly outlined the work of Y. W. C. A.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1908. The wedding of Miss Julia S. Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Pease, and Levi P. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Smith, took place Saturday, June 20th, at the College Street Church in this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. C. Smart, pastor of the church, and the Rev. G. Glenn Atkins, formerly pastor of the First Church. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for an automobile trip of three weeks to the southern part of the State.

Since his graduation from the University Mr. Smith has been for the most part connected with the editorial staff of the Burlington Free Press, but he has now entered into a partnership with former Collector of Customs Darling and they have opened a law office in this city.

1912. William R. Mackintosh of Ludlow, Mass., U. V. M. '12 and Miss Sadie M. Chiott of Burlington were married June 22nd at the chapel of St. Paul's Church by the Rev. George Y. Bliss.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh left at noon for a wedding trip to Boston and other places in Massachusetts. They are residing in New York where Mr. Mackintosh is with the Western Electric Co.

1898. Prof. P. O. Ray, for some years at the head of the department of history and political science in Pennsylvania State College, has been appointed head of the department of history and political science at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

1911. George B. Wheeler is now in the employ of the Public Service Gas Co. at Orange, N. J.

1901. Prof. A. Pearl Little has accepted a position in the Bureau of Standards, Wash., D. C.

HEAVYWEIGHTS FROM MAINE DOWN VARSITY

THREE TOUCH DOWNS

Outplayed, the Vermont Team Meets First Decisive Defeat of Season
—Third Game With Maine
Since 1900.

The Maine Campus for Friday, Oct. 9, contains the following announcement:

Coach Cochems, Director Wingard, Captain Baker and fifteen Maine football men, all hopeful of victory, leave today for Manchester, N. H., where Vermont will be played Saturday. Those who make the trip are: Donahue, Moulton, Allen, Peterson, Wark, Purington, Bernheisel, Kriger, Ruffner, Martin, Greeley, Kirk, Spear, McCobb, Reardon, Manager White and Trainer Smith.

Two things contributed to the 'varsity's defeat on the day following the above write-up. One was the weight of the Maine team which outweighed the Vermont men sixteen pounds to a man, and the other was the lamentable sluggishness evinced by the green and gold. Little of the fighting spirit which held Williams to such an encouraging score was manifest.

In the beginning Vermont seemed to show more skill than her opponents but soon weakened under the heavy onslaught directed against her, and was finally driven from the field three times, for a 21-0 defeat. Maine's heavy plays were thrown en masse against the 'varsity's guards and tackles or gathered for short end runs. With a three-man interference coming through it seemed difficult for the Vermont line to pick their man. The three who seemed to stay most determinedly with the game were Tennien, Malcolm and Burke. Quarterback Beinhersel made a 55-yard run just as the whistle sounded. Ruffner dropped a goal from the 33-yard line but it was not allowed, the officials ruling that the ball was not in play at the time. The attendance was small.

This was Maine's fourth game of the season. After easily defeating Fort McKinley on Sept. 19, she suffered a 20-0 reverse on the following Saturday at the hands of Yale. On Oct. 3 she defeated Boston College 26-7.

The records show but two 'varsity games with the University of Maine since 1900. In 1910 there was a 0-0

SENIOR ELECTIONS.

Harold A. Mayforth, President.

At a meeting of the senior class Saturday, October 10, the following were elected officers for the coming year:

President, H. A. Mayforth; vice-president, Miss Marie McMahon; secretary, Miss Almira Watts; treasurer, J. F. Tennien; member of athletic committee, E. S. Hayden; executive board, W. A. Sturges, L. F. Dow, R. B. Smith, Miss Lawrence and Miss Montgomery.

Mayforth was elected by a unanimous vote, also Tennien, who had served as treasurer with marked efficiency during the sophomore and junior years of his class.

Mayforth has played varsity baseball for four years and is at present captain of the team, varsity football one year, and been a member of the varsity track team for two years. He has sung on the college glee club three years and the quartette one year. He has also played on his class football, hockey and basketball teams, managing the last named for one year. For two years he was a member of the student council. He has worked three years on the CYNIC, and was on the editorial board of the Ariel. In addition, he has served as chairman of several important committees during his college course. Mayforth's home is in Springfield, Mass. He prepared for college at Williston Seminary.

ODDS FAVOR THE DARTMOUTH GREEN

Dartmouth's Present Tally is 124 to their Opponents 9—Varsity Gets Hard Scrimmage Practice.

Coach Turner has been putting the men through hard scrimmage during the past week in preparation for today's game with Dartmouth at Hanover. The team have the rudiments of the game well in hand and are trying new formations and smoothing out the old. The dark green, however, will again outweigh the green and gold, and judging from past scores Vermont can scarce look forward to victory. During the 13 games since 1900 Dartmouth has piled up 235 points to Vermont's 7. The 'varsity's sole 7 points was made last year on Currier's long run through the Dartmouth field. Three times the score has been 0-0. '00, D. 0, V. 0; '01, D. 22, V. 0; '02, D. 12, V. 0; '03, no game; '04, D. 37, V. 0; '05, D. 12, V. 0; '06, D. 8, V. 0; '07, D. 0, V. 0; '08, D. 11, V. 0; '09, D.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE DOING EFFECTIVE WORK

Exhibits at Many Fairs This Summer—
Boys' Camp in Charge of Capt.
Reeves—E. L. Ingalls, '96, in Charge of Boys' and Girls' Work.

One of the busiest departments of the university the past season has been the extension service of the Agricultural College. This department, the object of which is the extension of the influence of the state college throughout the state, and particularly into the rural districts has thus far in the one year of its existence busied itself. Along the lines of field demonstrations, fair demonstrations, extension schools in agriculture and home economics, supervision of county agents or advisers, boys' and girls' clubs, chain lectures for Granges, clubs, etc., publication of educational circulars and brieflets, local visitations when they can be made in chains, educational butter scoring, correspondence, agricultural surveys, agricultural improvement associations, and boy's educational camps.

A large part of the work during the late summer and early fall has been done along the fair demonstration lines. An educational exhibit consisting of samples of fertilizers sold in the state, crude chemicals, plant diseases and methods of combat, weeds found in Vermont fields and how to control them, dairy equipment and modern methods, rations for cows, horses, pigs and poultry, numerous charts on different subjects and many other features of interest to the farmer was shown at the state fairs. Two different exhibits were on the road a considerable part of the time and fairs held at Barton, Morrisville, Sheldon Junction, St. Johnsbury, Northfield, White River Junction, Brattleboro, Bellows Falls, Wilmington, Middlebury, Rutland, Manchester, and Ludlow benefited by this work. The exhibits were in charge of several of the extension service and college men, two to four attending each fair according to its size. These men answered questions relative to agriculture and agricultural work in general. A large number of Vermont bulletins and extension brieflets were also handed out to interested parties.

In connection with the work at the state fair held at White River Junction, a boy's camp was held. About 35 boys from all parts of the state attended this camp. The boys were

JUNIORS ELECT.

W. T. Abell of St. Ibens, President.
At a meeting of the junior class Wednesday, October 14, the following officers were elected:

President—Wesley T. Abell.
Vice-President—Miss Agnes Miller.
Secretary—No election.
Treasurer—No election.
Manager of Ariel—Robert R. Bogie.
Athletic committee—William F. Gallagher.

Executive committee—D. G. Clark, M. K. Petty, W. R. Conroy, A. G. Levy, J. R. Berry, M. E. Lord, (medic), and the Misses Styles, Gardner and Fauley.

The election of members of student council was left for the next meeting.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE OR- GANIZED ON LARGER SCALE

Cash Prizes Offered for Press Work—
M. H. Davis, '15, in Charge.

The committee elected and supported last year by the class of 1915, for the purpose of securing more publicity for college events, particularly the baseball games, has been taken over by the administrative department of the university. Roy Sawyer, secretary of the university, has formulated a plan for a new publicity committee. M. L. Davis, '15, has been selected as temporary chairman of the committee, and has organized the student end of the proposition.

The chief difference between the committee of last year and the new committee is that the former was small and was restricted to one class for membership; the latter is open to all men in college. The new committee is also on a more efficient and substantial financial basis. The university has made the following attractive offer as an indorsement to good work; the member of this committee who does the best newspaper work, obtaining the best publicity for the college, will receive at the end of the year a prize of twenty-five dollars. A second prize of fifteen dollars, and other cash prizes depending in amount upon the work done, are also offered. The chairman of the committee can not compete for any of these prizes, and men who receive substantial amounts for their services from the newspapers themselves will not be given as much consideration as men who have received no pay.

Any man in college who has a trace of literary ability, or knows anything about newspaper work, or is willing to learn, should communicate with Davis at once. It is a chance that should appeal to sophomores and freshmen especially.

'VARSITY 48—FRESHMEN 0.*Substantial Gains Through Varsity Line.

The nearest thing to a real football game seen on Centennial field this year was witnessed Wednesday afternoon when the freshman team lined up against the varsity. The freshmen were beaten 48-0 but were greatly outweighed and handicapped by part of their back field not being able to play.
Nevertheless they presented a strong game and punctured the varsity line with astonishing ease at times. Keith's fine forward pass to Mechanic was a feature of the game. The attendance was fair. Cheers were practiced and new cheer leaders tried out.

The summary:

Varsity: Pike, r. e.; Denning, r. t.;
Abell, r. g.; Walker, c.; DeMarco, l. g.;
Flynn, l. t.; Weeks, l. e.; Vizner, q. b.;
Smith, l. h. b.; Burke, r. h. b.; Tennien

Freshmen: Mechanic, l. e.; McBride,

BATALLION TO HAVE GOVERNMENT UNIFORMS.

It has always been the general opinion of the upper classmen of the university that the appearance of the university battalion would be greatly improved if government uniforms were used. This year through the influence of Captain Reeves, Congressman Greene has been instrumental in getting a bill through Congress whereby the members of the battalion are authorized to buy government uniforms. The outfit will include coat, breeches, leggins, shoes, blouse and hat, making an inexpensive and better appearing outfit. The new members have been measured and the order sent in during the last week.

PRIZE ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.*Mathematics To-day.

The first prize entrance examination will be held in Room A, South College, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 17. The subject, mathematics, will include algebra and plane geometry. The Latin examination will be held Saturday the 24th and the Greek examination on Saturday the 31st of this month. All new freshmen are eligible for these examinations. The prizes, twenty dollars for the best man in each subject, are known as the Howard prizes being given from the bequest of Mrs. Hannah T. Howard of Burlington.

DEBATING CLUB MEETS.*Winners of Interclass Debate to Have Individual Cups.

The weekly meeting of the Debating Society was held in the old mill Monday evening. J. A. Hitchcock, '17, read an interesting paper on "Poland and the European Crisis." He traced the history of this nation and showed its critical position in the present war.
The society voted to give individual cups to the members of the team win-
Professor Aiken, Prindle, '15, and Churchill, '17, were elected to meet the Middlebury and Norwich delegates to arrange for the inter-collegiate debates.

CO. C AT THE NATIONAL GUARD ENCAMPMENT.*Wins 20 Percent of the Prizes.

At the Vermont National Guard Encampment held at Burlington from July 22 until mid-August, Company C, the newly formed student militia company, played a full part. Seventeen men from the company attended until July 30. The first night of the encampment Company C performed guard duty, and for the rest of the time was engaged in the regular field manoeuvres. All through the encampment the morale of the company was excellent. After July 30 a detachment of cadets from Norwich filled the vacancies left by the men who had completed their time.
Hayden, Slayton and Hanley remained for the second week of rifle shooting.

In this week Slayton won a cup and medal for expert shooting; Hayden a sharpshooter's medal; Gates, the battalion sergeant major, a sharpshooters' medal; L. T. Huntington won a sharpshooters' medal and also made the third highest percentage in pistol shooting. Captain I. L. Reeves made the highest aggregate score in the pistol shooting contest, winning a beautiful automatic revolver. In all the company carried off 20 percent of the prizes.

SOPHOMORES WIN INTER-CLASS EVENTS

Freshmen, With Ranks Depleted, Lose Can Rush 35-65, and Tug-o'-War.

The sophomores succeeded in cleaning things up pretty generally in the inter-class events of last Saturday, taking the cane rush 65 to 35 and the tug-o-war in two straight pulls. The fact that the freshmen football men were all at Middlebury while the sophs had not only football men but last year's pre-medics together with the soph's previous experience, may have had something to do with the result. There were about 75 frosh and over 90 sophs.

The excitement started at 1:30 when the frosh conducted the Boulder and Key and Snake men marched down College street to Miles & Perry's where the canes were given out. It was at first thought best to toss for the possession of the canes but the frosh were so decidedly outnumbered that they were given possession. The classes took their positions, the frosh at the north end and the sophs at the south end of the campus; lines were formed to hold the crowd; and the pistol was fired. Owing to the slowness of the frosh in getting down on the ground, in a bunch, the Sophs were able to wade right into the middle of the pile at once, this made the fight more open than it usually is in the first two or three minutes, and so much more interesting to watch. Individual scraps were soon in order and in spite of the superior numbers of the sophs everyone got his money's worth. One point that should be remembered for future cane rushes was the holding back of the crowd when the two classes meet leaving plenty of room for the scrap. The seven minutes were soon up and then began the judging by the Boulder men of disputed canes. The score was 1917-65, 1918-35. The basis of the scoring was two points for each whole cane and one point for each crook having at least a foot of cane attached. In the tug-o-war the freshmen suffered most severely from the lack of football men, being able to put only one team on the field, while the sophs had plenty of substitutes. The first pull ended abruptly with the breaking of the rope. The next pull was very even, being won by 1917 by about a foot. The last pull was a walk-over for the sophs and won the event. The duration of each pull was two minutes. The teams were composed of ten men each.

MEETING OF INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL.

Important Constitutional Changes.

At a meeting of the Interfraternity conference at the Sigma Phi Place Monday, October 12, the following changes were made in the rushing rules:

If a man, pledged but not initiated in any chapter of a fraternity having a chapter here, transfers to Vermont, the local chapter has the privilege of confirming or rejecting the pledge. If the pledge is confirmed the man may wear his button even though he is a freshman, but if the pledge is rejected the man shall be treated as any other freshman and is open to bids from other fraternities.

Freshmen must keep off all fraternity property except on open house nights.

Open house will be held Tuesdays as well as Saturdays from 7 to 9 beginning October 20.

Judge E. C. Mower was elected graduate member of the executive board in place of Andrew Holt.

ANNUAL Y. M. AND Y. W.

C. A. RECEPTION.

Over 300 Attend.

The annual reception of the college Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. to the freshmen was held in the college gymnasium Thursday evening, October 8, at 7:45 o'clock. Those in the receiving line were L. W. Dean, '15, president of the Y. M. C. A.; Miss Edith Gates, '15, president of the Y. W. C. A.; President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton; Rev. S. G. Barnes and Mrs. C. B. Stetson, R. A. Healy, '15, and Miss Lillian Montgomery, '15, chairman of the reception committee.

The grand march was led by Miss Helen Benton and J. W. Baker, '15.

The first speaker of the evening was President Benton. After emphasizing the idea of companionship and friendship as found in the four years of college life he said that in the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. one meets well rounded man or woman, that the help to mould the individual into a well rounded man or woman, that the christian associations stand for the spiritual, so necessary in a successful life, and, in closing, that he heartily recommended the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. to all students of the University, especially to the freshmen.

In his usual earnest way Dean Perkins spoke of the strife for the nobler things of life. Captain Reeves closed the speaking with several interesting side lights on the present European situation.

During the course of the evening several vocal selections were rendered by C. H. Swett, '15, and F. S. Swett, '17, and by the quartette composed of C. H. Swett, '15, F. S. Swett, '17, L. F. Dow, '15, and D. J. Roberts, '16, accompanied by A. D. Seaver, '16. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Over 300 students attended.

F. R. CARTER PRESIDENT OF SENIOR MEDICS.

The senior medics held a class meeting Monday morning at which the following officers were elected: President, F. R. Carter; vice-president, Arthur Myres; secretary, E. A. Cameron, treasurer, G. A. Gosselin; marshal, J. W. Bunce. The executive committee chosen were Harold Small, H. H. Hanahan, C. Therrien, E. A. Flynn and A. R. Shirley.

The Publicity Committee.

Clearly the most important event of the past week in the University World of U. V. M. is the formation of the university student publicity committee. Those interested in Vermont and her welfare have long grieved that she was not receiving the due press consideration etc. that was her share. Three years ago a press club was formed, the successor of other attempts, but, blessed with a delicate constitution and small vitality it found the hardships of our university winters too severe, shortly considered its mission in the accomplished and unostentatiously passed away. The present attempt, originating in last year's 1915 publicity committee, and now taken over by the university to be run on a more consistent, extensive, and therefore more effective basis has the support that ensures its permanency if desirable. Its possibilities are manifold. The press, although the chief agency through which it will work, is not the only one. Through its efforts we hope to see the big dailies handling Vermont dope, the state papers telling the people of the state what we are doing, Burlington becoming more interested in the college on the hill, grads and undergrads becoming more proud of, and better workers for, Old Vermont.

On Bulletin Boards.

Last spring there was some rumor of a cork bulletin board for the Old Mill to take the place of the present hard looking ticket. And many a man who has tried to push his way through the tough epidermis of said ticket would welcome the new arrival with joy. Is it not to be hoped for, moreover, that a new bulletin-board bill will be introduced by this year's student council and a little more cleaning-up legislation put through? And moreover, in the third place, may we ask of what earthly or divine use is the bulletin board in the trophy room being put to? Good pine, is scarce, and someone of nimble wit should be able to hit upon some way of using to advantage several square feet that is doing no one any good.

Track is Deserving.

There is one other sport aside from football in which Vermont should move up a place at this time. This fall has seen a stand taken in football, last spring saw a stand taken in track. The splendid spirit shown by the team winning at Middlebury and Durham was commented on freely. From the stand taken then we should keep moving on just as we hope to keep moving on in football. There is no other important sport at Vermont which offers such golden opportunities of winning honor, medals and the V as track. There is never a limit to the number of places to be filled. There are very few men but what can do some phase of the work. Competition is not so keen as in baseball or football. Perseverance is the main specification. A man starting as a freshman and working consistently bids fair to become a track favorite. The time to start, however, is this year—now. The work will continue rapidly on through cross country, relay, indoor meets, and the spring schedule.

The Cynic Competition.

The requirements for CYNIC candidates are a little more stringent this year than previously. This is necessitated by the improvement of the paper during the past two years. Its organization is now about as effective as possible. Improvement must rest in improvement of the staff. One hundred and fifty words of original copy each week aside from regular assignments is intended to show the worth of a man for independent work, set him to seeking news and improve his versatility, to reveal and develop his preferences, incidentally to furnish some interesting reading for subscribers, above all to prove that he means business. The assigned work should prove his willingness and train him in handling any kind of news. What is desired is willingness and ability to get news, ability to write it, and promptness in turning it in. The harder it becomes to make the paper, the greater the honor.

FROM DARWIN P. KINGSLEY.

Following is a letter from Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, which we publish with the permission of President Benton.

My Dear Doctor:—

I regret very much that I cannot be present on the 30th at the opening exercises of the University.

Whether the entering class is larger or smaller than last year is a matter of course of interest, but I assume that the class in any event will be as large as the plant and income of the university can readily take care of. The quality of the class is more important than the question of its size.

It seems to me that the universities of the world—but probably through no fault of their own—have made little impression on the morals of the human race. Europe, and especially Germany, is the place where university education has been within the reach of the great masses of the people for many centuries, and yet almost in a moment, in response to some primal passion, the whole fabric erected by higher education on the moral side at least falls in ruins. Moreover it is developing little by little that the best thought and the supreme purpose of the scientific and highly educated men in Germany for the last quarter of a century has had for its supreme object the invention of deadly appliances to be kept secret, by means of which other peoples could be more extensively and successfully murdered than heretofore and more effectively than by any other nation. I say this not for the purpose of criticising Germany, because all the other nations have really been trying to do the same thing excepting that they have not gone to the extremes and dedicated themselves so absolutely to the doctrine of human slaughter. Education of any kind that does not go deeper than all this does not after all reach the point. And yet people must defend themselves, and if one man carries a gun another must, if one nation arms another must, and if the first increases its armament the second must do the same, and in the end a crash is inevitable. There is more book learning or extension of scientific learning that directly reaches this problem; or if wider knowledge could solve the problem it cannot achieve that end until it achieves the majority of the human race, and it is a long way from that now.

If I were in your position on the 30th, I would tell the undergraduate men to recognize in the present barbaric condition of the world that they must be ready to fight, but ready at the same time to combine with other educated men for the destruction of militarism and all that it supports. I think too, I would teach them what may be called the heretical doctrine that the supreme good of the human race does not lie in nationality because it is now proven that in nationality lies the possibility of the greatest injury to the human race. It is not impossible, as a result of the existing war, that nationality as it has developed since the Middle Ages and now exists will be abandoned. Human rights do not terminate with the boundary line of a state. Patriotism may achieve fine results in a selfish way, but it is evident now that patriotism in politics is like competition in business. Competition in business means ultimate monopoly. Patriotism, logically means the destruction or subjugation ultimately of every people but our own. The ambition, therefore, it seems to me of the educated man should be:

1st. If he must, to defend his own country.

2nd. As he can, to enforce the doctrine that there is such a thing as a brotherhood of man, and even though its achievement should shatter some long-established practices and interfere with some notions that we have thought involved so-called national honor still its achievement is so hereafter dedicate themselves to that as their supreme purpose.

ERUDITION AND CONDUCT.

A Communication from Prof. Daniels.

Out of this great European war comes a lesson for our American Colleges. For forty years they have been dominated by German ideals of "culture." But this culture, with all its attractiveness and splendor, is yet almost wholly a thing of the intellect, and, emphasized as it has been, tends to the fact that there are other and nobler elements in life. I must here be permitted to quote the old dictum of Matthew Arnold: "Three fourths of life is conduct." Culture as commonly understood has paid small attention to conduct, demeanor, dignity, manners, the chief things that sweeten life.

Even thirty years ago the faculty OLLINS SEVEN of this college consisted of ten members, six of whom were ministers of the gospel. These were men of dignity, of deportments, of self-restraint of courtesy, in short of careful conduct as well as of lofty ideals. The feeling created among the students was one of respect and towards some of the elder ones of the faculty, of deference.

Then came on the fashion of "culture" with its battalions of young Doctors of Philosophy. Vastly more learned, each in his specialty, and sometimes vastly less wise outside of it, they swarmed into our faculties, bringing every man his highly specialized fraction of a topic so that the number of courses read on a given subject increased soon from one or two to ten, twenty, and in the larger colleges to forty. This was by no means a reprehensible thing in itself, but it showed that the whole attention of the faculty was riveted on condition as the main and indeed the only thing. We have been so captivated with the research of the German universities that we have endeavored to imitate them in our under graduate colleges. It is to be hoped that we shall soon learn to view these things in a better perspective and I know how to value conduct as well as culture.

COMPETITION FOR THE CLARK CUPS.

Within a few weeks a rifle match will be held to determine the winners of the Clark cups. This race for the championship should have taken place last spring but had to be postponed until later. Capt. Reeves announces that the outdoor rifle range will be opened for use the first of next week, and after that may be used at any convenient time. The prizes are well worth working for and it is expected to be a very close competition.

These cups are presented as follows: One to the military organization, fraternity or club of the University of Vermont winning the outdoor rifle championship; one cup to the individual winning the outdoor rifle championship; one cup to the second highest in the individual outdoor championship; one cup to the third highest in the individual outdoor championship.

One cup to the military organization, fraternity or club winning the indoor championship; one cup to the individual winning the indoor championship; one cup to the second highest in the individual indoor championship; one cup to the third highest in the individual indoor championship.

'Varsity Blankets.

The 'varsity blankets have arrived and were used in the Maine game. They are the same style as last year. Forty-six dollars and fifty cents was collected for this purpose by subscription.

FRESHMEN DEFEATED BY MIDDLEBURY 2NDS.

Show Speed in Distances Gained.

The freshmen eleven was defeated 13-0 at Middlebury by the Middlebury second team Saturday, October 10. The Vermont team showed up well and was speedier, but weighed less than the Middlebury team. The freshmen fumbled considerably but succeeded in getting two good forward passes, Mechanic making good gains on both, while Middlebury was unable to work a single pass. Harris did good work in gaining through the line. Cushman and Sunderland played good games. Twenty men took the trip, seventeen freshmen; Maiden, who was umpire; Mayforth, coach; and Mack, '16, who acted as manager. There were 4 periods; 1st and 3rd 9 minutes and 2nd and 4th 7 minutes.

ected by the different granges and their expenses paid, they in turn doing light tasks on the grounds. The camp was conducted along military lines and was largely in charge of Captain Reeves. Care was taken to have the boys see everything of interest, and competent leaders showed them the good and bad points of the various exhibits. The camp proved decided success from all points of view.

A new worker has recently been added to the extension service staff, Mr. E. L. Ingalls, who has been superintendent of schools at Hartford, and who is to spend his time in doing work among the boys and girls of the state.

DEATH OF THE ### REV. SAMUEL H. BISHOP.

We regret that the following tribute from Mr. C. W. Baker, editor-in-chief of the Engineering News, and classmate of the Rev. Samuel H. Bishop could not have been published last June.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

I enclose herewith clipping from yesterday's New York "Times" giving the announcement of the funeral of my classmate, Rev. Samuel H. Bishop, class of 1886, U. V. M.

I should be glad to pay through your columns a tribute to the fine character and devoted service of Mr. Bishop, whose friendship I have enjoyed ever since our college days. In his work as a student, Bishop showed only moderate excellence; but few men of our class pursued such a wide range of reading and supplementary study during the college course, and few went deeper in earnest study of the great problems of life.

Some fifteen years ago Bishop was installed as pastor of a church in Colorado Springs. It was patronized by a healthy congregation and offered every respect of a comfortable and permanent position. Everything went smoothly until some social question came up on which Bishop felt it his duty to take a firm stand, let the consequences be what they would. I do not now recall just what the particular question was, but my impression is it had to do with the duty of capital toward labor, of rich toward poor, or some subject which on account of some local condition made it necessary that Bishop should be true to his own convictions or should sacrifice them to hold his position. The sermon which he preached at that time promptly resulted in his separation from the church; albeit by reason of the great public awakening on these topics which has since taken place, it is very likely that the same doctrines could be propounded today from most pulpits without endangering the pastor. Following that episode, Bishop devoted the remainder of his life to the conduct of a work for the betterment of the colored race. It speaks volumes for Bishop's fine personality and his earnest and successful work that he won the strong friendship and support of the eminent men of large means.

His life began in humble surroundings (in the little town of Jericho, Vt.) while at his death men of high rank assembled to honor his memory in the great Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. It was fitting that such honor should be paid him for he gave the best that was in him to help his fellowmen.

Y. M. C. A. LECTURE.

The first Y. M. C. A. meeting was held on Tuesday at 7 p. m., in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, second floor south. Professor Jackman spoke on "The Meaning of Life." This was the first of a series of practical half hour talks that will be given by various professors during the fall and winter months.

AGGIE CLUB MEETING.

A short business meeting of the Agricultural Club was held on Monday night of this week in their rooms at Morrill hall. A committee consisting of Mayo, Piper and Carlton was formed to provide a program for the next meeting, Monday night, Oct. 19. Refreshments will be served.

UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT COLLEGE HYMN.

There's a temple famed in story,
Standing high on Vermont's Hill,
And its fame is endless glory,
For its glory is God's will;
'Tis a temple of all learning,
Where the souls of men are tried,
And their toil is honor earning,
For the hands of Wisdom guide.

Like the tree that's aged and hoary,
Spreading wide its ample shade,
Passing years but add their glory,
To the fragrance years have made;
Every spring breaks forth in blossom,
Every autumn yields its fruit
And the song of summer's bosom
Softens winter's harsher lute.

Sons of toil have 'round her gathered,
Broke her bread and poured her wine,
And like eaglets fully feathered,
Soared to seek some other shrine;
But their eyes are ever turning,
To that temple on the hill,
And their hearts are ever burning,
With the fire that's flaming still.

For the crowns around them falling,
Are the stars from out her sky,
Where the Nation's voice is calling,
With the voice of Vermont's cry:
"Ho! ye sturdy, dauntless, yeomen,
Fresh from forest, field and farm,
Come and meet the dreaded foemen,
Where their countless thousands swarm!"

"And in grace and might of manners,
Mold the minds of coarser clay,
Lead them 'neath the Nation's banners,
Stars that light the Nation's way.
For the untaught millions rising,
Like the insects of the spring,
Call for an immortalizing,
In the songs our yeomen sing."

Hear the Halleluiahs ringing,
From the temple on the hill!—
"Vermont's sons are coming, singing,
In their hearts the Nation's will;"
And they swing the Nation's banners,
Where the Nation holds its sway,
Molders of the men and manners,
Of the Nation's future day.

"Bull" Durham an International Favorite

Men prominent in the social, business and public life of many nations find supreme tobacco satisfaction in the deliciously fresh, mild cigarettes of unique flavor they roll for themselves, to their individual liking, from "Bull" Durham tobacco. Their distinguished example has made it correct, smart, fashionable to "Roll Your Own" upon every occasion.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

There is no purer, milder tobacco in the world than "Bull" Durham—none other with such a sweet, mellow, irresistible fragrance. This rare, balmy aroma is as delicate and elusive as it is distinctive and pleasing, and can only be retained and enjoyed in the fresh-rolled cigarette. "Bull" Durham hand-made cigarettes afford wholesome enjoyment and lasting satisfaction to more millions of men than all other high-grade smoking tobaccos combined.

FREE An illustrated booklet, showing how to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes and a Book of cigarette papers, will both be mailed to you free, on postal request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C., Room 1298.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1898. Dr. Clifton D. Howe, assistant professor of forestry in the University of Toronto, spent the summer on Vancouver island in behalf of the commission of conservation of the Dominion of Canada. His special problem was to increase the reproduction of the native trees of commercial importance in British Columbia. Dr. Howe's report on the Trent watershed survey, based upon field work in forestry carried on by himself and assistants in the Province of Ontario in the summer of 1912, was published a few months ago by the Canadian government. It forms a book of 156 pages, illustrated by photographs and maps.

1911. Miss Ruth Votey, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Votey, and Mr. David Sternberg were married in this city on Sept. 3rd. They will reside in Reading, Pa., where Mr. Sternberg is general manager of the American Die and Tool Company.

1913. Jasper O Draffin will do post-graduate work in engineering at the University of Illinois.

1913. Ralph W. Simonds has accepted a position with Mr. Walter C. Pfeifer, a real estate dealer of Detroit, Mich.

1903. Paul Gulick has been made editor of the Universal Weekly published by the Universal Film Manufacturing Co. of New York City. Mr. Gulick has been chief assistant on the Universal Daily for the past two years.

1908. Harold F. Barton, for some years instructor in electrical engineering at the University and one of Burlington's leading musicians has accepted a position with the Westinghouse Electric Co., of Pittsburg, Pa.

1914. Rufus Gilbert spent several days around college during the past week.

1913. Hovey Jordon enters Harvard this fall where he will do advanced work for a doctor's degree.

1907. Oscar M. Sudler has severed his connection with John R. Gemmill & Co., of Denver, Colorado, with whom he has been associated in the bond business for the past five years and is now with the bond house of J. M. Wright & Co., of the same city. Sudler's territory embraces the entire Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast section.

Ex-1908. Robert R. Adams has returned to Denver and is assistant manager of the University Club.

1886. F. K. Graves, formerly superintendent of schools at Ashfield, Mass., is now superintendent of schools at Provincetown, Mass.

1905. Lee H. Hulett is New York manager for Max Krause, manufacturing art stationer, 341-347 Fifth avenue, New York City. It will be recalled that this is the noted German house, which has offices and agents in all parts of the world.

1905. Mr. Leland Mason Willey and Miss Mary S. Winne were married on Thursday, Oct. 1st, in Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. Willey is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. For the past nine years he has been connected with the research laboratory of the General Electric Co. Mr. and Mrs. Willey will be at home after Nov. 18th at 230 State street, Schenectady, N. Y.

1910. A. M. Ockerblad and Miss Adie B. Wertz were married Aug. 22 at Mt. Jackson, Va.

1890. A monograph on "The Marine Algae of Peru," by Dr. Marshall Avery Howe, curator of the New York Botanical Garden, has recently appeared as volume 15 of the Memoirs of the Torrey Botanical Club. This report was prepared at request of the Peruvian government as a contribution to the knowledge of the aquatic resources of Peru. The volume is illustrated by sixty-six plates and forty-four text figures.

1909. Noyes D. Tillotson and Miss Marcia A. Ostrom were married in Schenectady, Sept. 23rd, by the Rev. H. C. Petty, U. V. M., 1893. Mr. Tillotson is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Tillotson 12 Columbia St., Schenectady, N. Y.

1913. Medical. J. F. Berry, M. D., who has completed a year of post-graduate work at the William M. Backus hospital at Norwich, Conn., will be connected with the State Hospital at Kalamazoo, Mich., for the coming year.

Tobacco That is Good For Your Nerves

TUXEDO actually soothes the nerves. It is just mild enough to keep your nervous system in poise, your muscles in tone. Unlike other tobaccos, Tuxedo burns cool and slow. There cannot be a speck of irritation in a pound of Tuxedo.

Great singers smoke Tuxedo just before a performance. Public speakers testify as to its soothing influence. Doctors recommend it to smokers whose throats are delicate.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

The secret of its superiority is the unique "Tuxedo Process" by which all the unpleasant features are eliminated from tobacco.

Another reason is that Tuxedo is made from the best tobacco grown—the choicest, mildest, mellowest leaves of the highest grade Burley tobacco.

Tuxedo is widely imitated—but no other manufacturer has succeeded in making a tobacco as good as Tuxedo.

Tuxedo will give you the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that money will buy.

DARTMOUTH PRACTICES ON VERMONT

LINE SUFFERS INJURIES

Fighting Sturdily, but Hammered by Superior Numbers, Weight and Skill, Vermont Loses to Old Style Football 42-0—Forward Passes Prove Successful—Little a Tower of Strength on the Line.

The 'Varsity lost to Dartmouth. The 42-0 victory for the Green meant only a workout for thirty-three men while for Vermont it means that several of the mainstays are in an injured condition. The game lacked spectacular features. Open play was not resorted to by Dartmouth as she was looking forward to the Princeton game today. She won by straight rudimentary football which gave away no plays of importance.

The rough tactics of the Dartmouth men prevented Vermont from holding the score down any lower. Captain Flynn wrenched his ankle so severely that he had to retire early in the game. Walker, who was one of the strongest men in the line at the start, dislocated his shoulder after ten minutes of play. Abell, playing left guard, received the most serious injury of the game. While at the bottom of a scrimmage pile he received a blow on the head which rendered him unconscious for more than half an hour.

The one department of the game in which the Vermont men excelled was in forward passing. Pike made the feature play of the contest when he leaped high in the air between three Dartmouth men, grabbing a beautiful pass by Vizner. The 'Varsity attempted five forward passes, being successful with three. Dartmouth tried three passes and failed at each attempt. Dartmouth resorted to skin tackle plays after shift formations, and gained almost at will through the line. The Green were repeatedly penalized for being offside, so eager were their substitutes in an effort to show up well. Vermont could not use her open plays on account of the aggressive Dartmouth forwards.

Little was the Vermont line star, in fact he was considered by many superior to any man in either line. De Marco was the only other man who was strong in the line although the other men appeared to be playing to their limit. Smith made the longest gain of the Green and Gold backfield men, on a fake punt formation. Burke also made several substantial gains. Ghee and Tuck were in the limelight for Dartmouth.

Cane Committee—R. A. Healy, chairman, J. S. Hunt, L. Tomassi, J. E. Rapuzzi (Medic.), G. P. Carr (Medic.).

RIFLE SHOOTING AS A COLLEGE SPORT

Over 5000 College Marksmen Last Year—"Aggies" Win Both Championships—H. C. Newberry of Colgate High Point Winner at Burlington.

Over five thousand college marksmen is the record for the college year ending June 30th, 1914. Through the combined efforts of the National Rifle Association of America and the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, rapid strides are being made looking to the introduction of rifle shooting as one of the recognized sports in the colleges throughout the country and the movement has been still further stimulated by a recent act of Congress authorizing the free issue of rifles and ammunition to college and university rifle clubs.

This work was begun several years ago by the National Rifle Association backed by the War Department with a result that at the present time there are 42 colleges and universities having well organized and active rifle clubs. National championships are now being carried on annually both indoor and outdoor. The annual competition for college teams is now being organized for the indoor season. These matches are shot on indoor ranges with 22-caliber rifles. The championship for 1914 was won by the Michigan "Aggies" and the outdoor championship was won by the Mass. "Aggies."

As an evidence of the fact that the athletic authorities of a great many colleges and universities, are recognizing marksmanship as a part of their athletic curriculum, many of them are giving the college letter to those students who make the rifle teams.

A feature of this work which is worthy of mention is the fact that there have been no serious accidents of any kind on rifle ranges since the work was introduced, a claim that could hardly hold good in connection with other prominent school sports such as

COLGATE AND MCGILL TODAY.

Opponents the Favorite in Each Instance.

Colgate at Hamilton will be a hard nut for Vermont to crack today. On Sept. 20, she defeated Ohio-Wesleyan 40-0, on the following Saturday, Cornell 7-3, on Oct. 10, M. A. C. 25-0, and last week suffered her first reverse, 21-7, by West Point. Open playing took the Cornell game, straight football the M. A. C. game. She will meet Vermont confident of victory, but the Maroon has her weaknesses.

On Oct. 3 her line was consistently punctured by the Cornell plunges, the week following it ripped M. A. C.'s to shreds in the first quarter, but was criticised for high charging and poor following. Nineteen of her 25 points came in this quarter when she got the jump on the Aggies. Huntington at right end will probably be out of the game. This is the first time that the Green and Gold has faced the Maroon on the chalk marks.

Tennis at McGill.

The 'Varsity four under Captain Dow meets McGill on the Montreal courts. The line-up is Capt. Dow, D. J. Roberts, A. S. Morgan, and either Scott, Booth or Whitney. Manager Remby is also on the trip. McGill holds the Canadian intercollegiate title and the odds are with her today. One of her players is state champion of Michigan and another holds the individual Canadian championship. Last spring the one Vermont man who could stop them was McFarland. Vermont will await with interest the outcome of this new venture in a fall intercollegiate schedule. Professor Freedman has been coaching the team.

YE CRABBE REORGANIZED

Editorial Policy Changed and More Serious Articles Will Be Published.

At a recent meeting of Ye Crabbe board held at the Sig house many matters of importance for the coming year were discussed. On account of the scarcity of good humorous material found last year, the paper this year will devote only part of its space to cartoons and drollery, the rest being devoted to articles of general college interest, bits of college history and short stories. It is hoped that this will induce a larger number of men to work out for the board. Candidates should drop their names and addresses in Ye Crabbe box in the Old Mill. Freshmen who have had any experience on prep school papers are particularly asked to do so.

DARTMOUTH PRACTICES ON VERMONT.

The Dartmouth summarizes the game as follows: Snappy football was played for the first ten minutes. Vermont received the kick-off and punted to Ghee after failing to gain. Ghee got back five yards and a succession of precise and forceful plunges by Gerrish and Thielscher, with a fifteen-yard run by Cannon, put Gerrish in a position to buck through for a score less than five minutes after the play began. Pudrith kicked the goal. In fact Dartmouth annexed all six attempts at goals from touchdowns, Pudrith and Spears dividing the honors. A second touchdown was the result of powerful straight football a few minutes later. Gerrish again getting the score on a fifteen-yard buck off tackle.

After an exchange of punts, Dartmouth again advanced the ball, halting when Abell received a blow on the head. The stands, after the moment of suspense, laughed, when a fat man, De Marco, was substituted. A fumble gave the ball to Vermont, and Vermont recovered the ball after an attempt to kick was blocked. A second kick went to Ghee in midfield. Several plays failed and there was nobody near Ghee's forward pass. A succession of blocks, fumbles, penalties and called time made the game drag.

After Ghee's fair catch on Vermont's 34-yard line, Pudrith prepared to kick from placement, but Tuck was sent in to try and failed. Smith punted to Ghee in midfield, and consistent plunging including a 20-yard run by Tuck brought the ball back. Ghee got away beautifully on a quarter-back run, and went 20 yards for a touchdown. The half was about over, and an exchange of punts drew it to a close.

The second half was a game of experiment for Coach Loudon, and of experiences for most of the squad. Murdock appeared at fullback and Cumisky at quarter. Murdock plunged through the whole Vermont team for a touchdown, and looked good for more. Opportunities misspent by offside work, fumbling, and a weaker line-play dragged the period to a conclusion. Gerrish, Tuck, and Murdock carried the ball down to the one-yard line at the resumption of play and Cumisky carried it over.

Vermont tried hard to open up in the remaining minutes, and gave the solitary thrill of the half when an open pass formation nearly let Burke get loose. He was pulled down from behind. Dartmouth got the ball on a fumble at the 9-yard line, and Holbrook, who had gone in for Tuck skirted left end for the last touchdown. Two more plays ended the game.

SOPHS SCRIMMAGE*WITH 'VARSITY.

Wednesday afternoon the Sophomore Team lined up against the 'varsity for the first time in a hard scrimmage lasting twenty minutes. The sophs showed up remarkably well on the defense, breaking through the 'varsity line several times and holding them well at all times. The 'varsity always made their distance easily, but there were no long gains and all the plays were well covered. Stillwell, Merrill, McLeod and Greenwood showed up well for '17. Little and Burke did good work on the 'varsity.

SOPHOMORE-MIDDLEBURY GAME.

The game between the Middlebury Seconds and the Sophomore Class Team scheduled for last Saturday, Oct. 17, was postponed on account of rain. The game will probably be played Saturday, Oct. 24, at Middlebury.

The sophomores are now developing a first class team under the direction of Coach Lawlor, medic, '17, and Capt. McLeod. There are about twenty men on the squad regularly. The men have showed up well in scrimmage with the 'varsity during the week.

TRI-DELTS ENTERTAIN*AT HUSKING BEE.

Delta Delta Delta delightfully entertained Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta at an old fashioned husking bee in the Howard gymnasium Friday evening, October 16. The gymnasium was appropriately decorated with pine boughs and bitter sweet, and lighted with jack-o-lanterns. Prizes were awarded to the winning husking team and to Constance Votey, '16, and Bernardine Kimball, '15, for the most original and effective costumes. Cider, pumpkin pies, and doughnuts were served. Dancing of the old fashioned Virginia reel followed by the singing of Vermont songs ended the evening's entertainment. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Stetson, Miss Marshall, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Donoway.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT ST. MICHAEL'S

Forced to Open Playing 1918 Sends Sunderland and Johnson Across the Line for 2 Touchdowns.
—Keith Contributes Forward Pass—Dunlevy of St. Michael's Makes 35-Yard Run.

Saturday, Oct. 17, the Freshman football team defeated St. Michael's College 12-7 on Centennial Field in the first home game of the season. The game was marked by many fumbles, both teams handling the wet ball poorly.
Although the result was in doubt until the last, the game was slow and uninteresting and was marked by extreme roughness on both sides. In the fourth period referee Maiden was forced to put one of the St. Michael's men off the field for slugging. The open game was used considerably by the Freshmen and proved a good ground gainer. St. Michael's men offered a strong line of defense, forcing the '18 men to use end runs and forward passes. Sunderland and Johnson proved consistent ground gainers, and scored all the points for the Freshmen.

The Freshmen received the kickoff and, after carrying the ball to mid-field, fumbled. St. Michael's recovered it and also fumbled after about four plays.
The Frosh then carried the ball steadily and placed it on the four-yard line when the first quarter ended.

It required four downs to get it over in the next quarter and failure to kick the goal made the score 6-0.

Two neat forward passes and an end run by Keith contributed to the second touchdown for '18 in the fourth quarter. Again they failed to kick the goal.

St. Michael's stiffened in last quarter. Kelleher captured a forward pass and carried it fifteen yards. On the next play Dunlevy made a beautiful run of 31 yards through the whole '18 team for a touchdown and afterward kicked the goal.

Final score: 12-7.

INTERCLASS DEBATES.

Freshmen Tryouts November 2.

Freshmen tryouts for the class debating team will be held Monday evening, Nov. 2.

Question:—

Resolved: That the freemen of the State of Vermont in the coming election should elect Charles A. Prouty to succeed William P. Dillingham as U. S.
Senator from Vermont.

Any freshman who shall prepare an argument on his chosen side of the question and is ready to present such argument at the time designated shall be eligible to enter the tryouts. These are the only requirements. Each speaker is limited to five minutes.
From the contestants will be chosen the freshman team of three members with one, or more, alternates, the judges to be chosen from the faculty of the English Department. The tryouts will be held in Room D, North College, at 7.20, Monday evening,
November 2nd.

A cup has been presented to the Debating Association by H. A. Bailey, '14, for the purpose of encouraging the interclass debating. The classes eligible are the sophomore and freshman.
The class and the names of the members of the winning team are to be engraved on the cup, which will be kept in the trophy room. The Debating Association has voted to give individual cups to the members of the winning team.

INDIVIDUAL PICTURES.

New Members Elected to Ariel Board.

The individual Junior class pictures for the Ariel are being taken this week in the Commons Club room in the Old Mill. White's Studio of New York, photographers to Dartmouth, West Point, Annapolis, etc., are doing the work.

All Juniors, Medics and Academs, who have not arranged for sittings should see Fosgate, '16.

Miss Bernice White has recently been elected associate editor and Miss Constance Votey art editor on the Ariel board.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB.

The first meeting of the St. Paul's
Club was held at the parish house,
Monday evening, October 19th. L. D.
Soper, '15, gave a report on the New England Conference. It is hoped that this conference will be held here this year. There was a general discussion of the European War. Professor Ap-pelmann was scheduled to speak, but was unable to be present. Among those who spoke were the Rev. Mr. Abbott,
Rev. C. C. Wilson and Doctor Lyman
Allen. The next meeting will be held November 16 at the Sigma Phi House.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING TOMORROW.

Because of "Open House" nights the Y. M. C. A. meetings will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoons instead of at 7 o'clock Tuesday evenings for the next two weeks. Tomorrow afternoon
Professor Thomas speaks on "Old Fashioned Bouts on New Fashioned Subjects."

Cynic Notice.

Freshmen will receive the CYNIC free of charge for only one more issue. Please sign up. We think it will pay you.

Our Opinion of Ye Crabbe.

The CYNIC wishes to state that it heartily endorses the new policy of Ye Crabbe. There was a time when we hesitated about making such an unconditional statement concerning our struggling brother. We judged that in logical sequence a literary paper should precede a humorous paper, that there was insufficient humorous talent at Vermont to support such a paper as Ye Crabbe, and that there was literary talent being wasted for want of a medium of expression. Ye Crabbe now throws open its doors to literary material of any type, its purpose is to combine the best of its humor with the best poems, short stories, anecdotes, etc., that it can secure of more serious nature. The combination should make an interesting paper. There is a need for such a magazine in every college. So long as Ye Crabbe keeps to this policy we believe that Vermont should get behind it and support it with dollars and with ink.

The Out-O'-Doors Club.

Where is Vermont's campus? It's over the lake to the westward, it's over the mountains to the eastward, it's north and south till the eye grows dim and the horizon closes in. Where is Vermont's campus? Go to the Old Mill Tower as the seasons round their cycle; watch the forests turning crimson, watch "The Lion" crouch beneath his weight of snow, watch the sunset in the springtime flashing on a lake of breaking ice. Where is Vermont's campus? Go ask the Out-O'-Doors Club. It's their mission to show you. Go camp with them on the Autumn trails, or take the snow path in the winter.

Vermont's campus is the length and the breadth of the state they say, they the waiting to teach you its mysteries. The club is scarce a year old, but it has as a workshop a land of ever-changing beauty, already it is building tradition. When its luring finger beckons, follow; it will repay you.

Worth Considering.

It may not be entirely useless at this time to urge someone from Vermont to enter the international peace oratorical contest. The preliminary includes simply Dartmouth, New Hampshire State, Middlebury, and Vermont; the field is almost sure to be a small one, and the rewards of $75 and $50 are worth working for. If fortunate enough to be selected for the International competition the man would find prizes of $100 and $75 ahead of him. But what concerns us most is that a man in either competition would draw considerable attention to himself and to the University. There are several men at Vermont capable of writing and delivering a first class oration. Such an offer appeals to only a limited number at best, and he who runs might very well take the honor and the gold. At the same time we would like to draw the attention of law and economic students to the Lake Mohonk undergraduate prize of $100 for the best essay on "International Arbitration," and to our own prizes of $20 on the best essay "discussing the principles of free government," and the $15 on "International Arbitration."

Vermont's Marksmen.

Striding swiftly into prominence among the intercollegiate sports at Vermont has come the rifle club. In the two years of its existence it has won meritorious distinction. With facilities provokingly inadequate in some respects it is yet maintaining its place at the head of league B. It holds a unique position among our student activities. It deserves and needs the support of every man. When asked to pay a quarter and join the rifle club you are not being asked primarily to go down in the gallery or out on the range and shoot. You are being asked to help other men win for Vermont. These men have been winning for Vermont. They did it last year, they did it year before last, and they swept the prizes this summer at the national guard encampment. The honor, the insignia and the medals that they are receiving are incentives enough for any man to work for a place on the team, but they need the help that our quarters will give them.

Why Sleep on Your Rights?

To the Editor of the Cynic:—

The rights of college men are not to be trifled with. Let a bumptious police force, an officious fire department, or even a slightly arbitrary faculty trample upon these rights, and what is the result? You will find the answer in the glorious history of higher education in America. If the board of aldermen should decree that students could not vote, what a howl would go up. The city government would have to flee to Winooski and perhaps further.

Yet there are between 100 and 200 men in U. V. M. who are 21 years old, but who will not be able to vote this fall simply because of their own inactivity. There are less than six on the check list from the University. This is largely due to ignorance as to the necessary steps.

We all know what highly desirable citizens are those men who drop in a ballot only if a candidate comes around at the eleventh hour with a hack and a cigar. Yet that is the type of active interest which the majority of the students of voting age have shown in state and city politics for the past few years.

If you are 21 years of age, here are the necessary steps to voting on election day, Nov. 3. First, consider whether you have been a resident of the state one year. If your home is in the state, you can vote in this election. Second, go to the city clerk's office in City Hall and file a declaration of residence, filling out a blank which he will furnish. Third, go before the city council, which will meet at the City Hall on the evening of Oct. 26, and take the freeman's oath and get on the check list. If you can not go that evening, watch the daily papers for other city council meetings on following evenings.

This accomplished, you will be able to vote on Tuesday, Nov. 3. You may vote for governor, state officials, U. S. Senator, and national representative from the first district. If you are a Burlingtonian, or filed your declaration of residence at least three months ago, you may vote also for city representative and county officers.

You do not have to pay a poll tax to vote in this election. In order to vote in the city election in March, you do have to pay a poll tax.

University welfare is at stake. The fight for U. S. senator is hot enough and involves many issues that must interest young men. You are doing the University an injury if you allow apathy and inactivity to be the prevailing attitude of the student body at such a time. As individuals you are not starting your career as active citizens in the manner which all have a right to expect from men with your advantages.

You can't afford to surrender your rights. So, voters, get on the check list.

D. W. Howe, '14.

DEBATING CLUB HOLDS SPIRITED DEBATE ON PHILIPPINE QUESTION.

The Debating Club held a meeting Monday night at 7.30 o'clock. S. P. Mills, '15, gave an interesting talk on current events. The question for debate was: "Resolved that Congress should pass a joint resolution, definitely promising independence to the Filipinos at a date not later than ten years in the future." The affirmative was upheld by Hunt, '15, Grismer, '16; negative, by Prindle, '15, Isham, '16. The decision was awarded to the affirmative. Churchill, '17, Crane, '15, and Shippy, '17, acted in the capacity of judges. As Hunt and Prindle both debated this question on the 'varsity team last year, the debate was one of the most interesting the club has ever held.

FRESHMAN ELECTIONS.

G. P. Manning President.

At a meeting held Tuesday morning the freshmen elected as their class officers as follows:

President, G. P. Manning, Buffalo, N. Y.; vice-president, Marion Jackson, Burlington; treasurer, R. C. Brown, Brattleboro; secretary, Hazel Warden, Great Falls, Mont.

Tee Up! Smoke Up!

AS satisfying as the sounding smack of the perfect drive, is the open-air relish of the perfect smoke—Tuxedo. Both go together, too. When you grab your bag and start for the links, grab up your tin of Tuxedo and take it along.

"Follow through" the snappy afternoon with Tuxedo. Put Tuxedo in your pipe and you will "put" the best. And at "the nineteenth hole" rest up and relax with a good, solid smoke of Tuxedo. That's the advice of good golfers everywhere.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo positively cannot bite—not even if you smoke pipeful after pipeful, as many as you can crowd into a day or a week.

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest, selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original "Tuxedo Process" which removes every trace of bite and sting and develops all the wonderful mildness, fragrance and flavor of the Burley Leaf in a way that no other brand of tobacco has ever successfully imitated.

football and baseball. Furthermore, only a small percentage of students can take part in baseball and football matches, while the number of students who can enter shooting competitions is only limited to the capacity of the range.

In addition to competing against each other in rifle matches, college clubs are given annually a medal for a members' competition by the National Rifle Association. Decorations are also presented to club members by the War Department for qualifying as expert, sharpshooter and marksman. The college which made the best showing in the number of students qualified for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1914, was Cornell University. The rifle club which made the best showing in the number of qualifications was the Minnesota University Rifle Club which qualified 96 marksmen, 11 sharpshooters and 19 experts.

At the camps of instruction for college students held during the summer, rifle shooting was one of the courses of military training laid down. At these camps 31 students qualified as experts, 114 as sharpshooters and 219 as marksmen. The National Rifle Association of America presented a cup for an intercollegiate team competition and also a medal for the student making the highest score at each camp. The cup was won by Cornell University whose four men scored 854. The University of California was second with 809 and the University of Minnesota third with 782. The high score men in each camp were as follows:

Burlington, H. C. Newberry of Colgate University; Asheville, Wm. W. Search; Ludington, Theron G. Bethven, University of Minnesota; and Presidio of Monterey, Hacourt Blades, University of California.

Information concerning the organization of such clubs may be secured from the Secretary of the National Rifle Association of America, 1108-9-10 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.

RECOGNITION SERVICE FOR FRESHMEN.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting last Friday afternoon, Oct. 16, took the form of a recognition service for freshmen. Miss Lucy Swift, '16, presided. The faculty ladies were entertained at the tea which followed. Music was rendered by the Howard Hall Orchestra.

On Sunday evening Miss Nutting and Miss Fullington entertained the cabinet at Grassmount.

KEY AND SERPENT DANCE.

The first social dance of the college year was held in the Gym. on Wednesday evening, October 21st, under the auspices of the Key and Serpent Society. The chaperons were: Professor and Mrs. Blackburn, and Dr. and Mrs. Stone. About 70 couples were present. Taplin's orchestra furnished music.

8-WEEK CLUB MAKES ENVIABLE RECORD.

Miss Avery, '15, to Write Booklet.

Miss Bernicia Avery, '15, recently received a letter from the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. saying that among the reports sent in by the 5,000 college girls all over the United States of their Eight Week Club work hers in Ferrisburg had been selected as one of the twenty-five clubs doing the finest work.

The Eight Week Club has been established "for the sake of the girls who live in the thousands of towns of our nation, with the hope that through study, work, play and service they may grow in friendliness and find the meaning of world-wide sisterhood."

The National Board has asked Miss Avery to write a story of the club work, which is to be published in booklet form as a guide to future club workers.

BUSINESS MEETING OF DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

Membership to be on Honor Basis.

At a meeting of the Deutscher Verein held on Thursday of last week, several matters of importance were discussed. It was voted to put the club on an honor basis. No person is to be admitted who has not had at least one semester of work in an accredited college or university with at least the minimum of grade B. Mrs. Stetson was elected to honorary membership. This year there is to be a regular schedule of dates on which the meetings are to be held. The notices will be placed on the official bulletin board.

The business management is conducting a campaign for subscriptions and members of all classes are urged to be ready to hand over the omnipotent dollar when requested. Sophomores and freshmen are all wanted to work out for assistant managerships. To do this the name and college address of the candidate should be dropped in Ye Crabbe box.

NEWSPAPER ASSIGNMENTS.*Reporters Get 16 Papers.

The Publicity committee announces the following newspapers with whom arrangements have been made for the printing of university news. After each paper is given the name of the man who has received a temporary appointment as reporter: Rutland Herald and Rutland News, B. A. Shippy, '17; St. Albans Messenger, E. S. Hayden, '15; Bennington Banner, W. M. Hawkins, '16; Enosburg Standard, E. F. Walbridge, '17; Hardwick Gazette, E. F. Crane, '16; Morrisville News and Citizen, M. H. Davis, '15; Deerfield Valley Times, C. A. Spencer, '15; Orleans County Monitor, A. D. Seaver, '16; The Vermont Standard, Paul Ransom, '16; Barre Times and Montpelier Argus, Louis Tomassi, '15.

The following "prep school" papers have been assigned correspondents: The Hermonite, L. W. Dean, '15; The Rutland Oread, B. A. Shippy, '17; F. C. A. Chronicle, H. B. Tilley, '16; The Breeze (Cushing), H. A. Gardyne, '15.

Several assignments have been made with papers outside the state, but will not be announced until next week. It is the aim of the committee to place "University of Vermont Notes" in every county paper in Vermont, and then to turn undivided attention to opportunities outside the state.

The progress of the several contestants for prizes will be discussed each week in the CYNIC.

BAND MEN DETERMINED TO ORGANIZE.

Considerable difficulty has been experienced this year in organizing a University band and as yet there has been little success. There is an abundance of material especially in the freshman class, but the management has had trouble securing a hall in which to hold rehearsals. Apparently there is no university room available at the present time, but it is hoped a suitable place outside may be secured. Captain Reeves, C. S. Ferrin, '15, and Bosworth, '17, as well as most of last year's members, are working to promote the band. It can be one of the best and most valuable of our student activities.

STUDENT COUNCIL*DISCUSSES YE CRABBE.

At a meeting of the student council Tuesday, October 20, a lengthy discussion took place in regard to the condition of the Crabbe. Three alternatives were proposed: (1) that it be disorganized, (2) that it be combined with the Cynic, (3) that it continue as it is provided sufficient funds can be raised.

The question will be taken up by the senate, which will vote upon it and take the final action.

Henry Barmby Buckham, 1853,

Was the second son of Rev. James and Margaret (Barmby) Buckham, born 14 March, 1827, at Hinckley, County of Leicester, England, and came to the United States with the family in 1834. He gained his preparation for college under the tuition of his father at Ellington, Conn., and in 1849, entered the University from Winooski, where his father at that time was preaching. After graduation he served for one year as principal of Burlington High School; then one year as principal of the Chittenden County Institute at Essex Centre. In 1855-56 he had charge of a school at Potsdam, N. Y. From 1857 to 1870 he was vice-principal of the State Normal School at New Britain, Conn. He was professor of Latin at Vassar College, 1870-72. Then for fifteen years he was at the head of the State Normal School at Buffalo, N. Y. In 1887-89 he seemed to have resided at Santa Barbara, Cal. From the last date to 1905 he was instructor in English in the State Normal School at Marmouth, Ore. Since leaving Marmouth he has made Santa Barbara his home. He was a member of the ΦBK Society, and presented a master's oration in 1856. In 1875 he delivered the oration at the Quarter-Century Celebration of the Delta Psi Society. In 1856 he married Annie Remington of Potsdam, and they had two children; a son, Arthur, who died suddenly at Buffalo, at the age of 14, in 1872, and a daughter, Bertha M., who survives to console her sorrowing mother. Professor Buckham was a born teacher, enthusiastic and successful. He followed all his life the vocation he most liked.

Kingsley Alden Price, ex-1912,

Was born 31 August, 1889 in Grand Junction, Colo., the son of Edwin Price. He fitted for college at the Allen School in West Newton, Mass., and entered the course in Commerce and Economics, and completed two years' work. He was cashier of the New York Life office in Harrisburg, Pa. He suffered from a hemorrhage on the 8th of September, and died at the Harrisburg hospital, 6 October, 1914. The funeral was on the 9th, and the interment at Bloomfield, N. J. His wife and one child survive him.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1896. Harry O. Giddings, '96, of New York, and Miss Camille D. Walker of Philadelphia were married in September at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Giddings will reside in New York, where Mr. Giddings has a position with a chemical company.

1897. Mr. Leonard S. Doten will give courses in Hydraulic and Sanitary Engineering at George Washington University during the current academic year. Mr. Doten is a hydraulic and sanitary expert with the War Department and his work is widely known. He has done advanced work in his specialty at Harvard.

THE UNIVERSITY STORE

ORGANIZED BY AND UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE TRUSTEES PURPOSE

FIRST: To combine the several stores and agencies in one.

SECOND: To carry for sale such supplies as are required for the educational needs of the student.

THIRD: To sell supplies at such prices as would be warranted by a new store that does not own its furniture, fixtures or stock, all of which must be paid for in a term of years.

FOURTH: To reduce the selling price on different lines as rapidly as would be warranted by the amount of business transacted.

FIFTH: To sell supplies finally at cost plus the necessary running expenses of the store.

NOTICE

The University, the Trustees or those who have organized the store receive no profits or pay for services rendered.

The volume of business thus far would warrant a reduction in price on academic books, drawing supplies and certain lines of paper. This reduction is now in force.

What more can be done for the student?

COLGATE JOINS THE VICTORS ROBINSON RUNS CIRCLES

Crippled and Outplayed the Green and Gold Suffers Its Fourth Consecutive Defeat at the Hands of Stronger Teams.

On Saturday, October 24th, Vermont lost to Colgate in the fourth consecutive hard game on the Green and Gold schedule. The game was marked by frequent fumbles and poor kicking on both sides. The forward pass that had been used so successfully by Vermont thus far in the season aided in her downfall. Robinson and Hubbel intercepted one each and carried the ball over for a touchdown. In fact the former made four out of the six touchdowns scored by Colgate.

During the first quarter Vermont held well until Robinson recovered a punt for Colgate and ran ten yards for a touchdown. During this quarter Brooks failed twice to kick a goal for Colgate. Lawler and Glidden featured for Vermont. Robinson again scored a touchdown around right end and Brooks kicked the goal, making the score 13-0.

In the second quarter Colgate sent in a new back field and West, substituting for Warren, scored a touchdown. Brooks kicked the goal making the score 20-0.

In the third quarter, Robinson intercepted a forward pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Brooks kicked the goal bringing the score up to 27 to 0. In the fourth, Robinson again went over for a touchdown on the third play. Brooks kicked the goal. Hubbel intercepted a forward pass and ran 15 yards for a touchdown. Brooks again kicked the goal bringing the score to 41-0. Flynn, Armstrong and Abel received injuries during the game.

MONSTER REUNION AND GET TOGETHER.

Time: Nov. 11th, 6.00 P. M.—Place: Chemists' Club, East 41st St., N. Y. City.

Every Vermont alumnus in New York City and every one outside of it who can borrow money enough to get there is expected to be present at the above time. No excuse except death will be accepted. Daniel L. Cady, '86, will be Master of Ceremonies, F. F. Lincoln, '97, will lead the singing and "Tom" Mulcare, '08, will be cheer leader. President H. B. Oatley, '00, M. C. Robb, '98, and others will have general charge of the meeting. President Benton, "Nate" Merrill, Capt. Reeves, Congressman Greene, etc., etc., will probably be present to grace the occasion. It would take too long to tell all that is going to happen—the music, stunts and hits, lantern slides, side shows, jokes, etc. Take down your hat; go and see. Old friends are calling.

Washington Alumni.

Smoker at the University Club, November 10th. President Benton will be the guest of the evening.

ALL 'VARSITY DIAMOND MEN BACK

Usual Southern Trip—Northern Schedule Shortened—Fall Practice.

With the veteran infield, Mayforth, Merrill, Fraser, Lyons, Linnehan, Maiden and three veteran 'Varsity pitchers, Gallagher, Spear and Denning, prospects for a good baseball season at Vermont this year are up to standard. With the new cage and its full size infield, with plenty of good material among the freshmen, and with Gardyne manager and Mayforth captain, there is every reason to believe that the Green and Gold's prestige on the diamond will be maintained.

This year's southern trip will include eight or nine games, practically the same ones as last year. The home season will be five or six games shorter than last year's, and will include Brown, Middlebury, Yale, Harvard, Tufts, M. A. C., Dartmouth, Colgate, Michigan, Syracuse. There will be no trip through New York State.

Two practices were held the latter part of last week, but only a few men showed up in response to Coach Winter's call for candidates.

Freshmen vs. Spaulding High at Centennial Field.

Tennis Finals at the University Courts.

TENNIS TEAM BATTLES MCGILL VICTORIOUS DEFEAT

Dow and Taggart Win in Singles—Roberts Not Up to Form—Team Drops Both Doubles.

The strong tennis team of McGill University defeated the Green and Gold team in the first match of the season, played at Montreal, Saturday, Oct. 24th, by the score of 4-2. Considering the fact that the McGill team is the intercollegiate champion team of Canada, and that fall tennis is a new departure for Vermont, the team did remarkably well. The loss of McFarland, '14, is quite a severe handicap, and two new men played on the team Saturday. Capt. Dow, Roberts, Booth and Taggart took the trip. Roberts did not show his usual form, being defeated in his match. He and Capt. Dow lost in the doubles. Dow played his usual strong game, taking a fighting fall out of his opponent in the singles. Although the team was defeated, yet, considering the circumstances, the results are encouraging, and show that, with practice and coaching, the team is sure to be a strong one.

The Tribute of the McGill Daily follows:

"The McGill Tennis team again showed its merits on Saturday by defeating the strong team of the University of Vermont.

"Play started at 10 a. m., with the game between Cleveland, of McGill, and Dow captain, of Vermont. Cleveland won the first set in comparatively easy fashion by a score of 6 to 1. In the second set, Dow completely changed his tactics and succeeded in winning the second and third sets.

"Meanwhile, on the first court, Taggart, of Vermont, and Taylor, of McGill, were trying conclusions. The match was very close, the first set going to Taggart by a score of 7 to 5. Both men steadied down to very careful tennis in the second set and Taggart had the score 5 to 1. Taylor picked up and succeeded in winning three games in succession. Taggart finally won out 6 to 4.

In the match of the third pairs, Ward, of McGill, had little trouble in disposing of Booth. Ward's strong drives and consistent work overhead made him an easy winner.

"During the progress of this last game Dempster and Taylor started their game against Dow and Roberts.

'VARSITY AT PROVIDENCE TO-DAY.

Brown Team Suffering from Cornell Game—One Defeat to Date—Average Weight 170 Pounds.

To-day the Vermont team is in Providence playing its last hard game of the schedule.

Brown's record for the season is as follows: Brown 24, Norwich 0; Brown 20, R. I. State 0; Brown 0, Amherst 0; Brown 16, Wesleyan 0; Brown 7, Cornell 28. The team has played the open game well, enough to work successfully against all of the team's opponents this year. The kicking has been done by Gordon, a freshman, who has kicked field goals and punted exceptionally well. Last Saturday he outkicked Barrett of Cornell.

The team is not a heavy one. The average is scarcely 170 pounds. Five of the men who started the Cornell game are on the team for the first time this year. The old-fashioned style of football has been played most of the time, in spite of the fact that the open game has been successfully executed in every game.

Last Saturday one entire side of the Brown line: Staff, left guard; Ward, left tackle; and Ormsby, left end, with his substitute, Saxton, were hurt sufficiently to prevent their playing for some time. The line-up to-day will probably be: McBee, r. e.; Farnum, r. t.; Gottshall, r. g.; Mitchell, c. (capt.); Maxwell, r. g.; Sprague, Wade, l. t.; Norcross, r. e.; Murphy, q. b.; Gordon, r. h. b.; Blue, Andrews, l. h. b.; Fraser, f. b.

UNIVERSITY TAKES THE INITIATIVE

12 Girls Under Mrs. Myrick Start Relief Work for War Zone—Contributions of Time, Money and Wearing Apparel in demand.

Mrs. A. B. Myrick has started the first organized effort in this city for making articles of wearing apparel for the relief of the soldiers taking part in the European war. Twelve University girls have signed up for the work and are knitting on slippers. Other much needed articles are socks, underwear, pajamas, night shirts and bath robes, and such hospital supplies as sheets, pillow slips, and towels. The Red Cross furnishes patterns for needed articles and also little red crosses to be sewed into each garment. When completed the State chapter will forward the articles to the war zone.

The materials for the clothes and other articles must be donated by individuals because, while the Red Cross of the State will do everything in its

1917 AND 1918*SWAMP THE ARMY

Light Teams Prove Too Fast for the Fort Men, and Open Plays Are Their Undoing.

Once more victory rests with the classes. The Sophomore and Freshmen football teams journeyed Saturday to Fort Ethan Allen where they defeated a picked team from the 2nd cavalry.
The Freshmen played the first half of the game and one touchdown was scored by Harris. He kicked the goal.
Both teams started at a whirlwind pace, but it soon told on the soldiers, whose line was ripped to pieces time and again for repeated long gains.
Forward passing was the feature as in last week's game.

The second half found the Sophs facing the opposing team and they found little difficulty in scoring 27 points before the half ended. The open plays of the Vermont teams dazzled the soldiers and it seemed impossible for them to diagnose the plays. Ames, De Cicco and McLeod starred for the Sophs. Ames led with two touchdowns, one from an attempted forward pass by the Army nailed in mid flight, and the other two men with one each.
Merrill kicked three goals from touchdowns.

Harris and Woodard did stellar work for the Freshmen. Battles, who umpired the 'varsity games last spring, was the only light in the 2nd Cavalry's heaven.

No just comparison could be made between classes as the Sophs played a team that the Freshmen had already tired out.

50 AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS VISIT BRIGHAM FARM.

Interesting Archaeological Finds.

Last Monday about fifty Aggies, under the direction of Prof. Burdick, went to St. Albans to visit the farm of Mr. Brigham. Shortly after one o'clock they arrived at the farm and began inspecting the drainage system which is being installed in a fifteen acre swamp. There was much to be seen, but what caused the greatest excitement was a "Cyclone Ditcher," at work digging a ditch. This machine is drawn by six horses and cuts to a depth of about two feet. Although it rained hard all the afternoon the boys went all over the farm and examined the machinery used and the methods of working the land for different crops.
In a number of places Mr. Brigham has found almost complete systems of tile which was laid more than sixty years ago. These tile are of an inch and one half diameter and in most cases full of silt. This shows that attempts were made many years ago to reclaim the land. It may be interesting to note that these tile are of the horseshoe type and were made in St.
Albans.

In two places on this area are found many small shells which resemble the shells of a clam. They are very dry and it is not known whether they are of fresh water or salt water origin.

After leaving the field a visit was paid to the cellar where over five thousand bushels of potatoes are stored. These potatoes are to be shipped all over the Eastern and Southern parts of the United States to be used as seed the coming summer.

Y. M. C. A. SPEAKERS ATTACKING MODERN PROBLEMS.

Vermont Legislature to Face "Vocational Training."

Professor Thomas spoke before the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday afternoon on the subject, "Old Fashioned Doubts About New Fashioned Subjects," his entire talk taking the same general attitude as Professor Jackman's a week ago. One of his chief doubts concerned the progress of modern education, a progress down the path of least resistance for the pupil. To saw through a few knots, he believed, would hurt no man. This year, he said, the Vermont legislature would face the question of vocational training more squarely than ever before.
In carefully chosen words he stated his attitude as that vocational training should not be "exclusive," that it should not be even "primary." Always behind any education stands the intellectual, the moral, the spiritual. On these three the greatest training should be directed. Nor did the professor hesitate to say that he considered education was for the servant rather than for service, maintaining that there could be no adequate service without the continuous education of the servant.

The meeting tomorrow afternoon will be for the cabinet and advisory board at 4 o'clock.

COUNTY FARMERS' ASSOCIATIONS "LOOK US OVER."

Girls of Home Economics Department Entertain.

The College of Agriculture was visited on Tuesday morning, October 27, by seventy farmers from the Orleans County Farmers' Association. They arrived in Burlington the day previous in fifteen automobiles which were labelled with not only the association banners, but also with the legend, "For U. S. Senator, C. A. Prouty." Ray E. Duell, Orleans County Adviser, was the leader of the party. The visitors spent the entire morning at the college, and visited the farm, orchards, greenhouses, forest seedling nurseries, the college woods, and also the University buildings. They had an opportunity to watch the Sophomore class survey a field for a drainage system, the Juniors to prune trees in the apple orchard, and the Seniors to operate different apparatus in the dairy laboratory. Meanwhile, the ladies of the party visited the Home Economics department.

In the absence of Miss Terrill and Miss Marshall, Miss Edith Gates, '15, gave a brief history of the Home Economics movement and a demonstration lecture on salads. Miss Gates was assisted by Miss Hazel Kimball and Miss Helen Nichols and Miss Lucy Swift who served coffee and rolls with the salads prepared by Miss Gates.

At 12.30 P. M. the party enjoyed luncheon at the New Sherwood, where Dean Hills, Pres. H. C. Cleveland and County Agent Duell made brief remarks.

This visit to the college is the second one which has been made by farmers' associations this fall, the Windsor County farmers having visited here but a short time since.

INTERCLASS TRYOUTS

MONDAY NIGHT.

The debating tryouts for both classes will be held Monday evening on the question: Resolved, that the freemen of the State of Vermont in the coming election should elect Charles A. Prouty to succeed William P. Dillingham as U. S. Senator from Vermont.

The regular meeting of the debating club was postponed last Monday evening in order that the members might attend the rally at which Mr. Prouty was the chief speaker.

The sophomore tryouts will be in room D, North; the freshman in Room D, South. The judges will be Professors Tupper, Aiken and Gifford; Professors Jackman, Mower and Groat.

VERMONT GIRLS AT #### EDUCATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Miss Terrill and Miss Marshall are in Windsor this week attending a large Agricultural and Industrial Educational Exposition including Home Economics. The exposition is being held to interest the people of the State in the subject of industrial and vocational training for young people, particularly in the rural schools.

Edith Gates, '15, Lessie Cobb, '16, and Charlotte Pierpont, '16, went as assistants to Miss Terrill and Miss Marshall.

FIRST FRESHMAN SMOKER.

Upper Classmen Speak.

The Class of 1918 held a smoker in the amphitheater of the Medical building Wednesday evening from seven o'clock to nine. A large number attended.

The principle reason for the gathering was to discuss the constitution which had been drawn up by a committee chosen at the last meeting of the class. After the discussion Fichot was chosen cheer leader. The affair was made very informal and was aided by the good spirit and hearty cooperation of the upper classmen.

Mack, '16, gave a talk on class football, urging the men to go into it hard and make a name for 1918. Levy, '16, led a few songs and cheers. Baker, '15, discussed "Ye Crabbe," encouraging contributions and emphasizing that it was a college paper and belonged to the freshmen as much as to the upper classmen and that they should support it to their utmost.

The smoker was the first of a series that the freshmen will hold throughout the school year.

POOR SHOWING AT INTERCLASS MEET.

Only 6 Events Held—1917 Takes 1st Place—Shippy, '17, High Scorer.

The first interclass track meet of the year, held last Thursday, was won by 1917 with 25 points, 1916 was second with 16, 1915 third with 8 and 1918 last with 4.

Because of lack of contestants only six events were run off. The result of these were as follows:

100 yd. dash.—1st, Gallagher, '16; 2nd, Bolster, '16; 3rd, Dow, '17.

220 yd. dash.—1st, Bolster, '16; 2nd, Dow, '17.

440 yd. dash.—1st, Tennien, '15; 2nd, Gallagher, '16; 3rd, Smith, '17.

880 yd. run.—1st, Shippy, '17; 2nd, Chatterton, '17; 3rd, Berger, '17.

1 mile run.—1st, Shippy, '17, 2nd, Pope, '18; 3rd, Winslow, '18.

Pole vault.—1st, Best, '17; 2nd, Minckler, '15; 3rd, Burrage, '17.

Shippy, '17, with 10 points, was first in scoring while Gallagher, '16, and Bolster, '16, were tied for second with eight each.

MORE NEWSPAPERS.

The following publicity assignments have been secured the past week: The Boston Transcript, E. F. Crane, '16; The Worcester Telegram, H. B. Tilley, '16; Concord Monitor, A. B. MacMurphy, '18; Brandon Union, E. LaBrake, '17; Springfield Reporter, J. V. Piper, '16; Bristol Herald, L. W. Dean, '15; Manchester Journal, R. G. Edgerton, '15. Two more "prep school" papers, The Willistonian and The Vermont Academy Life, have also been provided for.

The first men to hand in a substantial bunch of clippings to the chairman, for prize credits, were Chandler Gates (Burlington Free Press), and E. F. Crane (Boston Transcript). These two men have made an excellent start.

One More Step.

Another year has come and debate again forces itself on our attention. During the past three years no other undergraduate activity has advanced so surely and consistently as this. Commencing, after a lapse of some six years, with the 1915 Debating Club, it spread in its second year to the 1915 and 1916 Debating Clubs, and in its third to the Vermont Debating Association. Its advance this year is in the form of sophomore-freshman interclass debates with individual cups for the winning trio and a large cup bearing the legend of their class. Every man of the six who debated on the 'varsity teams last year is back in college. Some of them, however, will not compete for positions this year, and their places will probably be filled either by upper classmen or the men who make the interclass teams. The interclass teams are direct preliminaries to the 'varsity teams.

A position on the 'varsity team means membership in the honorary fraternity of Tau Kappa Alpha and right to wear the key. An appeal to the college to support her debaters again this year is unnecessary. Our one appeal is this: Try out for the teams.

No Alternative—No Quarter.

Now that the sacrificial rites have been performed Vermont feels that it is time to take a game. There can be no alternative about New Hampshire State next week. We must take that and the Middlebury game or forever hold our peace. Nor do we want them by any trivial score. We want to see the colors tear through the line, we want to see no let-up from beginning to end, we expect to see no let-up. That the team has been unmercifully beaten thus far, is not altogether their fault or the coach's fault. It's the fault of an overproud schedule arranged on the assumption that we could make Yale look like a bunch of ten pins if we could only persuade them to take us on. Nor is the schedule the fault of the managers. They, unfortunately, did only too well what was expected of them. But the fact remains we have been beaten, and the fact remains that we have only four games in which to redeem ourselves. Commencing with next Saturday, we want every one of those games, and if we can once forget that we're playing football and get the idea we've got to kill the man opposite we'll get what we want. It's up to every Vermont man to be on the stands next Saturday; it's up to every man on the team to forget himself and play better than his best, to prove to us that the team has the fighting spirit, and that it has been playing the game to the best of its ability all through the season, that our trust, despite defeat, has not been misplaced.

Alongside the Chalk Lines.

We verily believe that there has been almost as much interest in tennis this fall as in football. Why? Well, that is another story of which more later. As to tennis we have one court in shape, another with one eye open, and the third six inches beneath the sod, which is of course all very well and good so we meekly put our fingers to our lips and pass on. What seems to us encouraging is the fall tournament and intercollegiate schedule. The elimination contests as to who should take the McGill trip were held on the college courts. A keen interest was manifest. That brings us to another point. Intercollegiate matches should be played on our own courts not on the Ethan Allen courts. We need them for inspiration just as we ought to have home football games for inspiration. Moreover, we are glad that Professor Freedman is coaching the team, and if we do not take on the biggest universities this side of the Rockies as we have done in football we ought to show-up well next spring. The scrap at McGill was a battle royal, and we are proud of the team, but we didn't win. We want to win. A modest schedule will be quite sufficient.

How to Get Rich Quick.

A day dedicated to improvement! A revolutionary idea, but one perhaps not underserving of consideration. Vermont needs several things. One of them is a better, larger grandstand, another is a reworked running track. Tuft's students have recently been building their own stadium. Vermont men could build a stadium; under the direction of engineering professors they could erect a grandstand in a season such as their enormous contributions will not erect in time for great, great, grandchildren to enjoy. More feasible still is the reconstruction of the track. The track situation—except the geographical—is improving. The oval itself is in wretched shape. It is rough, and soft, and slow; the sarcastic remarks of visitors do not sound pleasant in our ears. It needs reclaying and recindering; the straight-a-way should be on the opposite side of the field where every football man and baseball man, every street urchin and spectator at the games does not go trampling across it; small bleachers should be erected there. Every year sees it growing worse.

Now, then, let those that have such unpleasant duties in charge put a carload of cinders upon the siding, point the way to a clay bank, supply the horses from the farm, and say to the students "this day is yours, build us a running track that will develop a winning team next spring." What would happen? The whole college could be turned out as thoroughly as at an old fashioned proc night, more spirit would be aroused at the preceding smoker than at a Middlebury game, the publicity committee could fill columns. Has anybody got an idea we can't do things here at Vermont as they do them elsewhere? Such a day might become an annual four-hundred-man attack upon some need. Wouldn't Vermont feel rather proud of a neat looking oval out there, one that looked as though we were doing business?

LEGISLATIVE NOTICE.

The author of last week's article, "Why Sleep on Your Rights?" wishes to add that students who have taken the freeman's oath can also vote for county candidates—in other words, for all candidates save city representative, and for him if they have paid their poll tax and been a resident of the city for three months.

AGGIES HOLD LIVELY MEETING.

Fruit Judging Team to Go to Boston.

The first regular meeting of the Agricultural Club was held at Morrill Hall, Thursday evening, October 22. A good sized and enthusiastic bunch of "Aggies" were present, a large number of whom were freshmen, a fact which argues well for the prosperity of the club this year. It was voted to send a fruit judging team to the fruit show, to be held soon, probably at Boston; and the advisability of sending a team to judge field crops at Worcester, Mass., was discussed. The decision in regard to the field crops judging team was postponed. The matter of holding an "Aggie" dance was discussed, and it was voted to give a dance sometime this fall. Scott, '16, Hayden, '15, and Nelson, '17, were elected as a committee to arrange for the dance.

The following program was rendered. Tennien, '15, gave the president's address of welcome to the freshmen; Handy, '15, presented a paper on "Agriculture in China;" Williams, '15, gave a vocal solo; Aldrich, '15, read the Vermont Chronicle, edited by himself, Buchanan, '16, and Lewis, '17. Buchanan, '16, then read some "humorous suggestions for befuddled farmers." Several selections by the "Aggie" or "Agony" double quartette completed the program. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served. While these were being enjoyed, Dean Hills appeared and made a few appropriate remarks.

FRATERNITIES TIGHTEN RULES.

Nov. 6 Ends Neutral Period.

At last Monday night's meeting of the Interfraternity Council it was voted that no fraternity man should be with or talk to a freshman except on the campus between the hours of 8.00 A. M. and 6:30 P. M. from date until Nov. 2, those rooming with freshmen to vacate.

On Nov. 2 at 10 A. M. talking to the freshmen commences and from Nov. 3-5, inclusive, is the period for rushing. From midnight Nov. 5 to 6 P. M. Nov. 6 shall be a neutral period. Any bids given before Nov. 2 are of no value.

On Friday, November 6, at 2.15 P. M. the freshmen will be assembled, and each man, called up in individual order, given his invitations. He will then be sent into a room by himself where he will open his envelope, make his choice, and return all invitations to a member of the conference on hand for the purpose.

LOCAL SORORITY FOUNDED.

Announcement has been made of the founding of a new local sorority Alpha Sigma at the University of Vermont, June 10, 1914. The active members are: Irene Viola Ballou, '16, Mary Joseph Conway, '17, Alma Bridgman Holton, '15, Augustine Mary La Rochelle, '16, Hazel McCuen, '15, Martha Anne O'Neil, '15, Laura Burtt Porter, '16, Madaline Mary Taylor, '17. Alumnae members: Dora Marion Thomas, '14, and Hazel Hattie Riley, '14.

TENNIS TEAM BATTLES MCGILL.

As both pairs were very evenly matched a fine, close game was the outcome. At the outset the McGill men started a lobbing game, forcing their opponents to the back court. Each side won its own service until 4 to 4, when the McGill men got it to 5 to 4 in their favor, only to lose it again and the score stood 5 to 5. Taking a brace and playing wonderful tennis McGill again took the lead and retained it, finally winning 7 to 5.

"The second set was also a battle royal, Vermont realizing that the lobbing game was a winning one, adopted that style of play but McGill kept them well in the back court, and by 'killing' at the net succeeded in winning the set 6 to 4.

"Skeete, of McGill, and Roberts, of Vermont, had a very close game. Skeete's fine placing and consistent ground strokes proved him a strong opponent. Roberts was playing in the second place for Vermont, but Skeete found little difficulty in this match.

An adjournment for lunch left the score 3 to 2 for McGill. In the afternoon Green and Skeete met Booth and Roberts. Greene's fine game marks him as a player of the first calibre. For a time it looked as if the Vermont players were going to put up a strong opposition. But the fine teamwork of the McGill pair, combined with their all round abilities, made them winners 6 to 1, 6 to 2.

The final score was McGill, 4; Vermont, 2. The scores of each game are given below:

Singles.

Dow, Vermont, beat Cleveland, McGill, 1 to 6, 6 to 2, 6 to 2.

Taggart, Vermont, beat Taylor, McGill, 7 to 5, 6 to 4.

Ward, McGill, beat Booth, Vermont, 6 to 3, 6 to 3.

Skeete, McGill, beat Roberts, Vermont, 6 to 1, 6 to 1.

Doubles.

Taylor and Dempster, McGill, beat Roberts and Dow, Vermont, 7 to 5, 6 to 4.

Greene and Skeete, McGill, beat Booth and Taggart, Vermont, 6 to 1, 6 to 3."

WILLIAM H. BALDWIN PRIZE.

$100 prize for the best essay on the subject: "A Critical Study of the Sources of Municipal Revenue in Any City With a Population Exceeding 50,000." Competition open to undergraduate students. Closes March 15, 1915. 18 essays submitted last year. Miss Longhead, of Radcliffe, the winner. See bulletin board.

U. V. M. STUDENTS' DIRECTORY.

The galley proof of the Students' Directory will be posted on the two bulletin boards at the "Old Mill" to-day and Monday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 2, respectively. Any necessary correction and addition should be made out and sent to R. D. Sawyer, Secretary of the University. This Students' Directory is also known as the "Vermont Bulletin, November Number, 1914.

FRESHMAN GIRLS ENTERTAINED AT HOWARD GYM.

Mrs. Stetson and Miss Marshall were hostesses at an old-fashioned husking-bee held in Howard gymnasium, Saturday evening, Oct. 24. The guests included all the girls of the Freshman class and some upperclassmen, making a total of seventy. In the grand march, Miss Esther Magoon, '17, and Miss Norma Strong, '17, received prizes for the most original costumes. A husking-bee, a peanut race, and chariot race furnished much fun. Doughnuts, pop-corn balls, apples and cider were served. A most delightful evening was brought to a close by dancing the Virginia Reel and singing Vermont songs.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING.

Members of Student Council Chosen.

At the senior class meeting held Tuesday morning of this week, J. B. Johnson of the engineering and R. W. Daniels of the Arts and Science departments were returned on the student council, and P. H. Aldrich was elected from the Agricultural department. Ferrin, chairman of the smoker committee, announced that there would probably be a smoker before the first home game. Senior canes are now on exhibition at the College Store.

WASHBURN, '16, TO CAPTAIN RIFLE TEAM.

Club Will Petition Athletic Association for Standing as a University Team.

At a meeting of the Rifle Club held Thursday, October 22, Washburn, '16, was elected Captain and president, and Dix, '16, manager and secretary-treasurer. The reason for doubling these offices is to accord with the rules of the National Rifle Association, which require a president and secretary-treasurer, and with the business of the university, which requires a captain and manager. It was decided to petition the Athletic Association to make the rifle team a university team, and to ask for its support.

MEMBERS OF SOCIAL ECONOMICS CLASS ASSIST IN SURVEY.

Prof. Groat entertained his Social Economics class at his home on Loomis Street, Tuesday evening. The guest of the evening was Miss Brown of New York, who is doing social survey work in Burlington. Miss Brown is inspecting the plumbing of the houses, and says that the conditions in Burlington are exceptionally good.

Several members of the Social Economics class are assisting in the social survey work of the city in looking up records at the hospital and court.

COMMONS CLUB MEETING.

At the Commons Club meeting on Friday night, Oct. 23, it was voted to buy a piano for the rooms. Several committees were appointed and the time of meetings was left to the Board of Seven. After the business meeting the remainder of the evening was spent socially. A bid whist tournament has been arranged.

Quick on the Trigger With a Snap-Shot Eye

THE crack trapshooter has to have steady nerves and muscles absolutely under control—always ready to swing his gun into place and bring down his claypigeon. This means trained, not to the minute, but to the split-second.

We present the names of some famous crack shots. They like to smoke, but take no chances on a tobacco that might "throw them off." They use Tuxedo because it is mild, relaxing, steadying—strictly pure.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest, selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original "Tuxedo Process" which removes every trace of bite and sting and develops all the wonderful mildness, fragrance and flavor of the Burley Leaf in a way that no other brand of tobacco has ever successfully imitated.

power to assist an organized effort, none of the money which has been sent in for the relief of the sufferers can be used as that has to be forwarded to Washington, whence it is sent on to the country for which it was designated.

This work should make an appeal to University students and those who can spare the time should do what they can to help. Money as well as time is needed. To show how extensive this movement might be made we print a clipping from the University Daily Kansan;

"Students and members of the faculty of the University of Kansas will send money to Europe for the use of the American Red Cross in alleviating the terrible suffering that is following the war.

"While the movement originated in the University, it is possible that the various charitable organizations of Lawrence and the churches will be asked to contribute. Citizens of Lawrence are invited to join the University in the movement. Contributions from them will be handled in every case the same as the others.

"Numerous members of the faculty interviewed before the step was taken were unanimously in favor of it. Those who wish to contribute are urged to do so at once.

"The war in Europe is carrying devastation more widely than any war of modern times," Chancellor Strong said this morning. "Much of the burden of course falls on wounded and suffering men, but as often happens a great burden also falls upon women and children. Winter is coming on and the need of help is great."

FROM PROF. APPELMANN.

Editor of the Cynic:

When I was asked to write an article for your CYNIC I hesitated to give my consent, since I did not know what to write about. You, and probably others, might say I should write what I thought of the war; but I almost hate to do it since ever so many people—no matter whether they have the ability to do so—express their opinions in big articles. Besides, I have given once for all my opinion on it in interviews as you probably know. Furthermore, being a German, having been in the battlefield myself, having the closest friends and nearest relatives still there—some of them dead, resting eternally from all earthly troubles and quarrels—some still fighting for their own and their country's existence, I may be prejudiced in many points and may not remain perfectly neutral; and this neutrality I think ought to be the first and highest duty of anybody living in the United States, enjoying the blessings of peace which all of us owe to the wise and careful policy of the great President Wilson.

And yet, when I consider that somebody asked me quite seriously a couple of days ago whether I had not gone home this summer in order to serve in the army "because Germany was preparing for war," I think I ought to state here and under solemn oath that neither I nor any German ever dreamed of war in June, at the time when I left America. Even in July, after the assassination of the Austrian Archduke, Germany and the Germans saw so little danger in the situation that diplomats went off for their vacation. To be sure, relations become more and more complicated in the latter part of July.

I had accompanied my parents to a Belgian watering place, and after spending several weeks there, I started for a trip through Belgium and France, both of which countries had always been of great attraction to me. With new and keen interest I listened again to the chimes of the "Belfry of Bouges" which aroused Longfellow's great interest; passed through Ghent's and Brussels' countless homes of art in ancient churches and gold-glittering city halls; visited Louvain with her old university and famous library located in the upper part of the city mostly in high old buildings, partial remains of former fortifications. This part of Louvain mostly fell, alas to say! as the victim of the cruel war of her own ill-advised inhabitants. On the 31st of July I was in Liege and sent post-cards to my friends here, and they have expressed to me their great surprise that even then I was not afraid of war and did not rush home. To be sure, I had noticed during the week preceding the eventful first of August, that to every train several cars were attached bearing soldiers for the German frontier. The feeling against the Germans grew worse and worse, a fact, which I simply could not understand. It was to me as if now, in this somewhat exciting time, French ideas of "revenge" found their expression even in Belgium. I was glad to pass as an American by speaking English as soon as people found out from my French that I was neither Belgian nor French. It was by that time rather dangerous to use the German language in Belgium. While in Liege, I was invited to come to see the citadel by a French officer whom I happened to meet in my hotel and who claimed to be stationed in the fortress of Liege. After I had seen all places of interest in Liege, I climbed up the more than 800 steps which lead to the citadel, from where one enjoys a wonderful view extending all over Liege that stretches out in the valley of the Meuse and Ourthe. I left Belgium just early enough not to meet with any serious trouble; my parents, however, who stayed until the 2nd of August had to undergo many hard trials before they succeeded in "walking" out of the land of the Vlames and Wallones.

It was on the first of August, Saturday afternoon at 5:15, when the wire suddenly sounded into every corner of Germany, the general mobilization of the army and navy. Besides that, mobilization was ordered in some army-corps of the "Landsturm mit de Waffe" (first day of mobilization being August 2nd). This meant my call to arms, too—and I went. My work was mostly that of an interpreter. After a while, I was taken to Berlin and had to work in different offices—especially that of the imperial navy.

Finally, I, like a few others who had been in this country before, was sent back because the government thought we might be of greater service to the Fatherland by teaching and lecturing here than by fighting in Germany, since there were too many volunteers anyhow. I was instructed, however, that I might expect to be called back at any time, but I am pretty sure that I can stay right through the college year.

From Berlin I rushed home, saw my people again for a few hours, and started on my somewhat exciting trip through Holland (lasting about a week) to the United States where I finally arrived on the 16th of September.

I am asked so very often, "Aren't you mighty glad to be back and safe in America?" And I don't know what to say. You can imagine, Mr. Editor, that it is a strange feeling for a man to leave his home, his fatherland, in such a time of emergency—to leave his brothers and countrymen behind, many of whom have fallen already, or day and night are in danger of their lives. You may be sure if it had not been for Burlington, for dear old Vermont with all my close friends—I at least regard them as such—I should have protested strongly against my being sent back. I should have gladly and enthusiastically have kept my place shoulder to shoulder with my fellow countrymen, should have helped to defend and protect the honor of my beloved homeland, which, attacked from almost all sides, is fighting for her very existence. That is what all of us Germans firmly believe we are doing.

ANTON APPELMANN.

P. S. In the report on my little talk about the war in the Commons Club (CYNIC No. 7's issue p. 7) there are a few statements which do not cover exactly what I said, and which I should like to see corrected. The two most important things are: (1) On August 1st Sir Edward Grey asked the German ambassador in London whether in case of a Russo-German war Germany would attack France if the latter country remained neutral. Whereupon Berlin sent two dispatches, one by the German Emperor to King George, another by the German Reichskanzler through the German ambassador to Sir Edward Grey, both notes saying Germany would not attack France (and this includes of course Belgium) provided England would vouch for the neutrality of France. It is expressly stated in the telegrams that the German troops have strict telephonic and telegraphic orders not to cross the French frontier. The telegram of the German Reichskanzler to Sir Edward Grey (sent on the afternoon of August 1st after order of mobilization) closes as follows: "We (Germany) vouch that before 10 o'clock on the evening of August 3rd the French frontier will not be crossed by our troops if by that time England sends an answer," to the above mentioned telegrams. France, as we know, began hostilities on Friday morning, Aug. 29th, England did not answer, thus failing to prevent the horrible war in western Europe.

No. 2 (End of CYNIC report concerned.) Yes, I firmly stand for peace and cannot, for many reasons, believe England guiltless. One has just been mentioned. Another one is that she drags into war—not only her colonies as stated in the report, she has the political right to do so if the colonies are willing to fight—but several poor small nations which want to be neutral but with which England has "treaties," as, for instance, no Portugal and perhaps even Denmark. The newspaper reports are right.

This is only to correct a misrepresentation. We Germans trust the broad-minded, seriously thinking and really neutral Americans will, by themselves, come eventually to the right conclusion in this difficult question without our saying and publishing much.

CHURCH STREET IN MINIATURE.

Magnificent Spectacle to be Staged by Y. W. C. A.

On Monday evening, November 9th, the Young Women's department will appear in a finished reproduction of the street called "Church" at the Ward Hall gymnasium for the benefit of the "Silver Bay" fund. Sightings anticipated to be seen: College Peerade, Majestic, Dorn's, Churchill's, Wood's Sporting Goods, Paradise Alley, exhibition dancing of the latest New York innovations of the K Trot, Half in Half, La Russe and Lu Fado at the Vermont Roof Garden and Miss Gladys Marriette Gleason presents: "Peg" George in the Kleptomaniac at the Strong. Miss Gleason led the first rehearsal of the Kleptomaniac with its all star cast: Margaret George, Marie McMahon, Hazel Spinney, Almira Watts and Sadie Norris, Tuesday afternoon. Prizes are offered for the best posters advertising the performance.

INTERN SLIDE MEETING

HELD BY Y. W. C. A.

Girls at Silver Bay This Summer—Vermont Oarsmen Take Honors.

The Y. W. C. A. held a "Silver Bay" meeting on Friday afternoon, Oct. 23rd, in the classical room of the "Mill." The meeting took the form of "The Story of a Day at Silver Bay," with lantern slides to illustrate the story. The slides were from photographs and snapshots taken at Silver Bay by Misses, '15, Miss Montgomery, '17, and Miss Swift, '16. The trip through the George was graphically pictured, the Association buildings and the beauty of their situation. A charming snapshot of Miss Condè, the Chief Executive at Silver Bay, was the signal for the song which always greeted upon her appearance at Silver Bay. Songs also greeted the "Megan Lady" and the "Blazed Trail." Miss Gates, '15, president of the Association, and Miss Swift, '16, were leaders of the meeting. In Aquatic sports at Silver Bay, Vermont won a place in the single rowing match and honorable mention in the doubles. Thirteen Vermont girls attended the conference last June and it is expected that twice as many girls will attend the Conference this coming year.

THE BAND ORGANIZES.

Bosworth, '17, Leader.

In spite of difficulties which seemed insurmountable at the beginning of the year, the university band has been organized under the direction of Ferrin, '15, with Bosworth, '17, as leader. At the first rehearsal held Monday at the Delta House about 25 men were present, including some very promising material from the freshman class. At the present time all the band seems to be in need of is the support of the student body, both financially and otherwise, and a permanent place where rehearsals can be held. Rehearsals are now being held in fraternity houses. Bosworth is a transfer student from C. N. Y.

PHI CHI ENTERTAIN FROSH.

On Thursday evening, October 22, the Phi Chi fraternity entertained about twenty-five freshmen at their house on Union street. Owing to a Senate meeting not many faculty members were present. Music, cards and refreshments were the forms of entertainment.

On the following evening Emerson, '18, and Latneau, '18, pledged last year, were initiated.

ALPHA KAPPA KAPPA RECEPTION.

On Saturday evening, October 25, the Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternity held their annual reception to the Freshmen at their rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building. About twenty-five new men were present. There were speeches by alumni and active members and entertainment in the form of music, cards, smokes, and refreshments.

BANNER OFFERED BY Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. is offering a banner to the class that has the highest percentage of attendance at Y. W. C. A. meetings for a month. This banner is to bear the numerals of the winning class each month, and is to be hung in the Y. W. C. A. room.

Kappa Alpha Theta.

Lambda of Kappa Alpha Theta has announced the pledging, October 28, 1914, of Norma Belle Strong, '17, of Hyde Park, and Edith Victoria Holdstock, '17, of Burlington.

Ariel Pictures.

Mr. Robert Strickland, of White's Studio of New York, the photographer engaged by the junior class to take the individual pictures and also some out-of-door pictures for the Ariel, completed his work Thursday, October 29. The proofs will be ready one week from the date of the sittings, at which time the money for the plate must be deposited.

Deutscher Verein.

The Deutscher Verein held a meeting on Wednesday evening and adopted its new constitution. Dr. Appelman had the meeting in charge. Officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Week End Guest at Grassmount.

Miss Margaret Flenniken, Secretary of the North Eastern Field of the Young Women's Christian Association, gave a talk at the Friday meeting, which was conducted by Miss Bernicia Avery.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1840. Mrs. Henry Jarvis Raymond, widow of the founder of the New York Times, died on October 14th at her New York home at the advanced age of 92 years. Mrs. Raymond was Miss Juliette Weaver of Burlington. She met Mr. Raymond during his student days at U. V. M. and soon after his graduation they were married and went to New York, where Mrs. Raymond has lived for the most part, ever since her husband's death in 1869.

5 Reasons Why Students Should Buy Their Supplies at

THE CORNER BOOK STORE

THE STUDENTS' SUPPLY STORE FOR OVER THREE QUARTERS OF A CENTURY

OUR PURPOSE IS

- FIRST---to carry every requisite needed by students in their school or University work.
- SECOND---to help students make selections of their "tools of trade" which will help them attain the highest degree of efficiency.
- THIRD---to make it a decided advantage for all students to buy their supplies here---an advantage in quality as well as in price.
- FOURTH---to help students acquire that independent action of buying to the best advantage without the feeling that they are "tied" to any particular store.
- FIFTH---to give service—guaranteed service—in that all supplies bought here and not found absolutely satisfactory in every way will be backed up with a refund of the purchase price.

NOTICE --- SPECIAL

Our big stock of supplies for students of the University and schools are bought in such quantities that we can and do give a decided advantage in price---an advantage that no other store in the state can meet.

We sell goods to students together with our service and if there is a complaint WE MAKE GOOD.

Is it not good policy for students to start out and buy their supplies in a business way and thereby get in touch with real business houses and business methods?

BROWN PULLS UP FROM BEHIND MALCOLM FEATURES U. V. M.

1st Quarter, U. V. M. 6—Brown 6; 2nd, U. V. M. 9—Brown 0; 3rd,
U. V. M. 9—Brown 6; 4th,
U. V. M. 9—Brown 12.

Had Vermont not been crippled by four hard games she would have won from Brown at Providence Saturday. As it was she upheld recent traditions and fought the Brunonians to a close score, Malcolm, the Green and Gold point winner, carrying the ball over and drop kicking a goal before the first half was over, putting the 'varsity three points in the lead. Brown's winning touchdown came in the last quarter after Vermont had been penalized seventy-five yards. Undoubtedly the Providence men failed to play up to their usual form. They, too, were suffering from the game of the previous week with Cornell and the Green and Gold, using the rushing game, shot their line to pieces.

Previous scores with Brown are as follows: '02, V. 0, B. 0; '04, V. 0, B. 33; '05, V. 0, B. 56; '06, V. 0, B. 12; '07, V. 0, B. 34; '08, V. 0, B. 12; '09, V. 0, B. 17; '10, V. 0, B. 50; '11, V. 0, B. 6; '12, V. 7, B. 12; '13, V. 0, B. 19. It was a sawed-off victory for the Brown and White, there being thirteen first downs and only two scores. Jumping into the lead before the first quarter had well started, the Brunonians saw a blocked punt turned into a touchdown before the period was over. The next period brought another Vermont score when Malcolm kicked a field goal from the 24 yard line. Brown crawled out with a badly perforated pelt when a forward pass from Gordon to Murphy gave Blue a chance to plug his way through the line for a score.

The credit of winning the game for Brown belongs to Murphy. For almost everyone of the Brown's 13 first downs he was the sole and only reason.

Vermont seemed to have a bad attack of stage fright at the outset of the game when Norcross ran 10 yards for a touchdown. It wore off as soon as Brown took the lead and a minute or two later the Green line came through on Gordon, who was back on his 20 yard line ready to punt. Gordon muffed Mitchell's pass, then tried to get his kick away when his only course of action was to run the ball. The kick was blocked. Malcolm ran with it across the line.

This impetus seemed to be all that the 'varsity needed. In the second

JUDGE MOWER TO SPEAK BEFORE DEBATING ASSO.

Sophomore and Freshman Teams Chosen.

At the class debating tryouts last Monday evening the following men were selected by the judges to represent their respective classes. There will be three principals and one alternate on each team. This selection will be made later.

At next Monday night's meeting of the debating association, November 9, Judge Mower will speak on the Monroe Doctrine. This and all other Monday night meetings are open to students and townspeople.

NEW YORK ALUMNAE HOLD REUNION

Officers Elected and Plans Laid to Make the Association More Effective.

The New York Alumnae Association of the University of Vermont met at the Hotel Woodstock for a reunion on October 31st. An especially good luncheon was served by the hotel, which is under Vermont management, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

The officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. D. P. Kilborn, pres., 601 West 191st St.; Mrs. William Stevenson, vice-pres., 49 Halcyon Rd., New Rochelle; Ruth B. Fisher, sec.-treas., Hotel McAlpin; Alice Derby, Mrs. M. N. Baker, and Mary Tracy, executive committee.

Those present from out of town were: Clara Pease Newton, '80, New Brunswick, N. J.; Jean Christie Bull, '86, Whitford, Pa.; Ella Babbitt Baker, '86, Montclair, N. J.; Lillian Corse, '93, East Orange, N. J.; Annie Leavens Manchee, '96, Newark, N. J.; May Russell Stevenson, '99, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Alice Derby, '02, East Orange, N. J.; Grace Sylvester, '08, Bronxville, N. Y.; Margaret Johnson, '14, Orange, N. J.

Those from New York City were: Clara Colburne, '88; Ella Atwater Kilbourne, '89; Martha Wheeler Keeler, '89; Anna M. Clark, '98; Ruth B. Fisher, '99; Mary Tracy, '03; Edith Abbott, '04; Mrs. Frank Abbott; Mary E. Winslow, '13; Theta Baker, '13.

It is the aim of the Alumnae Association to keep in touch with all University of Vermont women in their vicinity. Newcomers—even for a short time—are requested to notify the president or secretary.

CLASS TEAMS MAINTAIN PRESTIGE

SOPHS. 13-11; FROSH. 0-0

Lucky, Weak on Offense and Defense
Strong on the line, 1918 Holds Spaulding High Scoreless—Strong 1917 Aggregation
Hammer Out Victory.

The freshman team is still undefeated, the sophomores have dropped one game to the Middlebury 2nds. 1918 had to work hard to maintain her laurels on Saturday against the fast Spaulding High men at Centennial Field. Her forward passes were useless, her work on offense and defense poor. The sole redeeming feature was her unbreakable line which piled the High School men on high. The Spaulding shift and forward pass were worked successfully time and again for long gains.

Woodward, going head foremost into an end run, broke his shoulder in the first quarter, and Clark, who took his place, ran the team very poorly. At the close of the first half Spaulding had the ball on Vermont's three yard line; in the third quarter she tried a drop kick and failed. The game ended with the pigskin in Spaulding's care on the Vermont five yard line.

Vermont was consistently outplayed. Partly due to her quarter back her offense was very slow, while on defense her ends either got their man or failed utterly to break up the interference, usually the latter. The linemen held well. Sunderland played a sharp game, but his tackles although clever were not sure. Acting Captain Adams was more responsible for Spaulding's failure to score than any other man. He got in on the plays, but his tackles were weak. Some of the Freshmen's best men were at Brown with the 'varsity.

The Sophomores.

While 1918 was skirmishing on Centennial Field, 1917 was pounding the line at Winooski. Heavy and fast she showed up well and brought home a 13-0 victory. Last week St. Michaels lost to the Norwich 2nds by one touchdown.

Her team is strong and the game was fast and exciting although the scoring was one-sided. The two touchdowns were made by Ames and Connor, while Merrill kicked one goal.

FIRST HOME GAME TODAY.

Green and Gold a Consistent Winner Over New Hampshire.

Vermont is decidedly the favorite today at Centennial field where she faces New Hampshire on the chalk lines. Every contest of late years has seen the green and gold victorious over the men from her brother state. In 1912 the last baseball game was played, four innings, resulting in an 18-2 victory for Vermont. Last spring on the New Hampshire oval the Green Mountain trackmen raced against odds and brought back first honors.

Over confidence is the only element that can mean disaster for Vermont to-day. In the four football games played with New Hampshire in previous years, U. V. M. has been scored on but once: '05, V. 0—N. H. 0; '06 V. 17—N. H. 7; '07, V. 34—N. H. 0; '09, V. 11—N. H. 0. If the 'varsity proves too effective in the first two quarters and sophomore and freshman teams will be used.

Y. M. C. A. MEN TO CONDUCT MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Starts Monday Morning—Preliminary Activities This Week.

The Y. M. C. A. will try a new venture this year. Commencing next Monday morning and lasting until Saturday night the committee in charge of membership will conduct a red hot membership campaign. The week will be known as Membership Week. During the past few days preliminary arrangements have been put afoot. Attractive posters have appeared in various places, the local papers have announced the project, chosen professors have spoken before class meetings, and other attempts made to get the idea before everybody, upper and lower classmen alike.

Funds are needed by the Association and the least one can do in its behalf is to contribute his membership fee of a dollar toward its support. Whether one is active in the Y. M. C. A. or not he cannot deny that its work is laudable and that there has to be such an institution in every university. The Association provides a religious director, who is a member of the faculty, it sends men to Northfield who advertise the college, it carries on industrial service work in the city and vicinity, it maintains a secretary and central rooms of use to the student body, it issues the hand book, conducts a reception at the beginning of each year, it has established an employment bureau, and this year intends to take a brace in every department. All these things and others mean expense and the association needs funds.

period they took the ball on their 38 yard line and carried it 53 yards in 16 rushes, through Brown's faltering line to the 10 yard mark. Here, with two yards to go on the fourth down, instead of calling Abell back from guard to carry the ball as he had already done for long gains through Booth, Sprague and Farnum, the quarterback signalled for a field goal. Malcolm was equal to the emergency. Standing on the 22 yard line, he booted over as pretty a drop kick as has ever whizzed between the posts at Andrews Field. This ended the Vermont scoring. Brown stiffened and held.

Toward the close of the second period it seemed as if Brown would come through with the score needed to put the team on the safe side. Less than a foot from the goals the teams lined up, the stands expected a touchdown. Time was called and Brown's hopes sank.

Later, in the third quarter, Murphy dashed around Vermont's right end for 15 yards. This put the ball on the four yard line. Three tries at the line failed to yield up the short distance to the goal so a forward pass was tried but the attempt failed.

In the final quarter, Brown carried over the score that told the story. For almost the first time in the game Vermont was penalized, penalized five times in succession, netting 75 yards for Brown, and pushing the 'varsity back from the center of the field to their ten yard line.

dance was granted the Agricultural Club, to take place November 4, and November 23 was selected as the date of the football hop.

BAND PROSPECTS*CONTINUE GOOD.

The prospects look good for having the best band in years at Vermont. Thirty men are now involved in the organization, nearly twice as many as last year. They have been practicing faithfully for the last two weeks, holding their rehearsals on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons during the drill period.

NEW GYMNASIUM SYSTEM ADOPTED.

Classes Open Next Week.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 9, the gymnasium classes will meet at 4:30—
Monday and Wednesday for the Freshmen, and Tuesday and Thursday for the sophomores. Each week, after the regular gymnastic exercises, there will be an athletic and a gymnastic stunt.
The men will be graded by their showing in these stunts. The standards of marking will be raised each month.
If lack of apparatus does not prevent Doctor Stone from putting the plan into execution, Vermont will be the first college to use this system.

Students are requested to notice that the gymnasium floor and mats are cleaned after military drill, and no one is to go on the floor or tread on the mats after the military hour.

THE U. V. M. COSMOPOLITAN CLUB.*Soon to Open for Second Year's Work.

The U. V. M. Cosmopolitan Club was organized last year by Prof. A. H. Ap-pelmann and Hinting Wong, '17, with the support of others. There were twenty-four members representing thirteen countries, viz.: America, Brazil, Canada, China, France, Germany, Italy, Norway, Philippines, Porto Rico, Portugal, Sweden and Wales. The officers for the last college year were: Hinting Wong, president; Prof. A. H. Appelmann, honorary president; Frank Cintron, vice-president; Otto T. Johnson, treasurer; Henry Way, secretary.

At the last May meeting of the club the following officers for the year 1914-1915 were elected: Prof. Thomas, president; Hinting Wong, secretary and treasurer. Notices indicating time and place of the first meeting will be posted soon.

Those who are interested in the question of International Brotherhood are cordially requested to watch out for the announcement.

UNIVERSITY RESEARCH CLUB.

The first meeting of the University

GIRLS STRIVE FOR HONORS ON THE TRACK

Miss Nutting and Miss Parker Take 1st and 2nd Places—Miss Kimball Holds Tennis Championship

The annual outdoor field meet of the Girls' Athletic Association was held at Grassmount Saturday afternoon, October 31. Enthusiasm was not lacking on the part of the participants, but loyal class supporters were noticeably in the minority. The sophomores had the largest number present. From the roof of their fraternity house the Phi Deltas gazed enrapt, partisan spirit running high, as with leveled binoculars they leaped the hedge and invaded the forbidden precincts of the sacred mound.

Grace Nutting, '15, breezed away with the first prize, sweeping the field in the hop-skip-and-jump and out leaping the length of the tape on the running broad. It is reported that the measurers are still looking for the spot where she landed. Into coveted second place nosed three contestants—Jessie Fiske, stalwart hurler of the shot, Lessie Cobb, the baseball artis, and Laura Parker, the sophomore high hurdler, all from the redoubtable class of '17. And the list would be incomplete without mention of the remaining first point winner, Edith Holstock; the speed girl, '17. The fates having been supplicated and lots drawn, luck fell like a halo about the brow of Miss Parker and she wears the laurel crown. The first and second prizes were gold and silver Vermont seal rings.

The baseball game between the seniors and sophomores was declared a draw, and has since been won by 1917. As no box score was kept its record seems irrevocably lost.

Miss Bernadine Kimball has won the tennis championship cup for the class of 1915, in whose possession the cup will remain until the spring tournament.

Following is the list of field events and the winners of first and second places, all distances withheld from publication:

Baseball throw—First, Lessie Cobb, '17; second, Anna Ward, '15.

50-yard dash—First, Edith Holstock, '17; second, Constance Votey, '16.

Hop, skip and jump—First, Grace Nutting, '15; second Laura Parker, '17.

Shot put—First, Jessie Fiske, '17; second, Lessie Cobb, '17.

50-yard hurdles—First Laura Parker, '17; second, Constance Votey, '16.

Broad jump—First, Grace Nutting, '15; second, Mary Conway, '17.

Judges—Miss Benton, '15, Miss Jackson, '18, and Miss Adams, '16. Referee, Miss Kimball, '15.

Physical Examinations.

All but about 30 of the Freshmen have reported for their physical examinations. The tardy ones are urged to make appointments with Dr. Stone and Dr. Marvin as soon as possible. The examination of the Sophomores will begin soon.

MOVIES INVADE U. V. M.

Illustrated Lecture on Cement.

A fair sized and interested audience of students and townspeople listened to a lecture on the manufacture of Portland cement in Williams Science Hall, Monday evening, November 2. 3,000 feet of moving pictures illustrated the lecture which was given by a representative of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company. The whole process of manufacture, from blasting the limestone to shipping the finished product was shown in pictures of tolerable clearness, considering the great disadvantage under which they were taken.

SENIOR AGGIES AND MEDICS INSPECT FARMS.

A group of students, including the senior aggies and senior medics took a trip to South Burlington, Thursday, October 29, to inspect the buildings on the Drew, Chittenden and Foote farms respectively. The object of the trip was to give the students an idea of sanitary conditions and score the places for the same. This was to get in touch with the necessary requirements for sanitation around farm buildings and to obtain an insight into the practical methods for carrying them out.

Each farm that was visited is a modern, up-to-date place, but at the Foote farm greater precautions for sanitation are systematized. Practical methods and scientific principles are used in operating the farm.

REVISED VACATION DATES.

The dates for the recesses during the college year 1914-15 have been revised as follows:

Thanksgiving Recess—Wednesday noon, Nov. 25 to Friday noon, Nov. 27.

Christmas Recess—Monday night, Dec. 21 to Tuesday night, Jan. 5.

Christmas Examinations—Jan. 2 to Jan 5, 1915.

Mid-year Examinations—Monday, Feb. 1 to Wednesday night, Feb. 10.

Washington's Birthday—Monday, Feb. 22.

Spring Recess—Thursday night, Mar. 25 to Tuesday night, April 6.

Founder's Day—Saturday, May 1.

Final Examinations—Wednesday, June 9 to Saturday, June 19.

Commencement—Saturday, June 19 to Wednesday, June 23.

University Teas.

Delta Delta Delta was hostess Monday afternoon at a tea given at the home of Miss Gladys Flint, '17, in honor of the new local sorority, Alpha Sigma.

The same afternoon Mrs. Stetson served tea at Grassmount in honor of the girls who are doing work for the Red Cross Association. The girls are now knitting on Red Cross neck bands for the soldiers.

Pi Beta Phi.

Bernice White, '16, of Burlington was initiated into Vermont Beta of Pi Beta Phi November 3rd, at the Sorority rooms.

CYNIC NOTICE.

There is an excellent opportunity for more freshmen to try out for the Cynic Board. To get in line for the higher positions the time to start is this year.

Interscholastic Oratorical Contest.

Vermont has an annual interscholastic field meet held each spring on Centennial Field. So far as we are aware there is no such thing as a state interscholastic debating or oratorical contest. Now that Vermont has again entered intercollegiate debating circles it is time for her to look about among the preparatory schools for recruits. Briefly, what we are aiming at is this: bring an interscholastic oratorical contest to Burlington. We say, "oratorical contest" because interscholastic debating leagues supported by the University Club would be too big an undertaking at present. One state-wide oratorical league, with Burlington as its center, would not. Without words, we all know what such steps mean in the prestige of the University. But we want the University to have prestige because it deserves prestige, and it can deserve prestige only by virtue of the good it does. We believe that the formation of such a contest would be for the good of the state as a state. The eagerness with which state papers took up the cause of the debating league last year supports us in the assumption. Until last year the state was devoid of any concerted attempt to provide for debate or oratory in its educational system. Yet debate and oratory are perhaps more influential than anything else in shaping the future of the state. The day of the old village lyceum is rapidly going. What is taking its place? In Vermont, up to last year, nothing. If the University wishes to do some good, if the debating club wishes to expand its commendable work of last year, if some other organization or student committee wishes to do something truly effective, why not bring an interscholastic oratorical contest to Burlington this winter?

Class Finances.

The question of class finances will soon be looming again on the horizon. What we have to say we have to say chiefly to the freshmen. It is this: Conserve your resources. Financially this will be one of your easiest years. Hops and proms and year books and multitudinous other things will not be grinning at your elbow. If you run in debt this year when will the year come in which you can make it up? Your expenses will increase. Do not try to outdo yourselves now. Compel your administration to look ahead. Conserve your resources. How many football sweaters are you going to give? Generosity is sometimes an evil. Limit your number and stick by the limit; don't present eight dollars to every man who puts on a uniform. Next spring your baseball men who have won football sweaters will be clamoring for caps. Well? We sometimes think that the girls are in the right when they protest their obligation to aid in extravagance. Suppose you gave twenty sweaters. Your next motion would be to let those who preferred turn the price of their sweaters toward their class taxes. In baseball it would be the same. Who, then, would be bearing the brunt of your taxes? One other thing—compel your members to pay up. Next year you will lose men—also before next year—and the next year, and the next. If they go away owing you, you lose. The way you handle your finances will mark your ability and ultimate success as a class.

Of What Value is the Student Council?

The University authorities recently received a bitter complaint from a local photographer concerning the Ariel photographs. His dispute was that local business men always support college enterprises with advertising, etc., and that in return they should expect at least equal consideration, whereas, in this instance, they had not even been granted an opportunity to compete, and that as far as the writer was concerned the college had lost his support for the year. Of course there is another side to the question, but that is the photographer's side, and no one can deny that there is some ground for complaint.

What was done we are sure was done thoughtlessly—perhaps rightly. The freshman banquet last year was done thoughtlessly (?)—perhaps rightly (?). We think in this instance that the Juniors should have been a little more careful about pulling off a big deal, but we do not censure them so much as we do those who should keep their eyes on just such matters as the two above mentioned—the student council. We probe our memory in vain for any constructive, effective piece of work that the council has done in months. It has become mainly an automaton for grinding out social permits. Of what use is it? Why put our ablest and most foresighted men on board that shows itself neither able or foresighted? Instead of advancing ideas that would be for our progress, appointing investigating committees, organizing and recommending for the good of the University at home and afield it forgets that it is a body entrusted with our rights and empowered to enforce its legislation. The photography situation will disentangle in due time. A new venture is likely to go to extremes. Hereafter the local men will be given an opportunity to compete, but what is the council going to do hereafter about forestalling, and passing on enterprises that involve the welfare of the whole University? The council is comprised of three men from the senior class, three from the junior and two from the sophomore—a representative group. They should know all that is taking place, and in such instances as this make themselves useful. They should not convene simply when summoned by the faculty committee; they should also convene independently and thresh matters out. We hope to see some real work done under the new regime.

They Liked the Band.

Reports from the Missouri game indicate clearly that the Iowa State College band was a big feature of the Missouri home-coming day festivities. Much favorable comment was occasioned by the fine band which accompanied the team and helped it win the game. The hundreds of Missouri alumni and others who attended the game from all over Missouri were given a good impression of the big neighboring school up in Iowa.

Sending the band to Missouri had its advertising advantages for the institution. Every year Ames gets much advertising in Des Moines through its band which marches the streets of the capital city. Many thousands hear the band; a smaller number of people go to the Drake stadium to see meet or game.

The band helps advertise the college.

The above is an editorial comment from the Iowa State Student. We are glad that Vermont is to have a band again. It helps; there is no doubt about that, it helps to win the games. Despite difficulties, the band has persisted in reforming. We hope that that same persistence will continue in evidence, and that they will all be out on the field, helping us win from New Hampshire State today. We have never supported our band very much. Possibly we have thought that it never deserved it. If it proves to us that it does deserve it, then we should willingly come over with whatever it requests. We can afford to do anything that is for the good of the college. But we are not a millionaire institution, and the band, too, will have to sacrifice—in time and talent—if it supports us as we believe it can. Refused a room, etc., it has nevertheless determined to organize and in this at least deserves our respect.

"The band helps advertise the college."

PROF. FREEDMAN SELECTED AS TENNIS COACH.

The Athletic Committee has appointed Professor William H. Freedman coach in tennis. This new move will add greatly to the efficiency of this branch of athletics, which has developed rapidly in the last two years. Professor Freedman is an experienced player, and has taken part in many of the tournaments held in the city.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Miss Marion Dane, '09, Miss Lois Redmond, '11, and H. R. Dane, '13, who were studying in Europe during the summer, returned to this country safely the last of August. Miss Dane and Miss Redmond are teaching at the Lyndon Institute, Lyndon Center, Vt. H. R. Dane is teaching modern languages at the Loomis Institute, in Windsor, Conn.

1913. H. P. Spring, who attended the Harvard Medical School last year, is remaining at home in Dresden, Germany, and assisting his father, Dr. W. A. Spring, in his dental practice.

1906. Fred B. Church is with the Western Precipitation Company at 442 St. James Place, Chicago.

1906. E. H. Merrihew is with the Westinghouse Electric Company in Chicago.

1913. Paul F. Kruse is doing landscape gardening in Cleveland, Ohio.

1859. Mr. Charles E. Allen of Burlington was a guest at the first Sigma Phi dinner of the season held at the Ellicott Club in Buffalo. This was the first of a series of dinners to be held this winter.

1859. Mrs. Anna Dyke Learnard is librarian of the School of Engineering, University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas. Mrs. Learnard's home until her marriage was in Winooski, Vermont.

GYMNASIUM TO BE SCENE OF NOVEL TOURNAMENT.

Military Drills and Contests—Booths and Dancing—Will Take Place Before Christmas.

The University Battalion under the direction of Captain Ira Reeves will give a military tournament before the Christmas holidays. There will be drills and competitions in the gymnasium annex and dancing in the gymnasium.

The program of the exhibition in the annex will be as follows:

Presentation of commissions and warrants, Zouave drill, saber drill, competition in manual of arms for the Richold and Reeves medals, rifle exercise with music, squad skirmish runs, wall scaling, fencing with sabers, fencing with bayonets, battle royal between class gladiatoris, guard mounting, equipment race, tent pitching contest, shelter-tent pitching contest, field cooking contest, hospital corps exhibition, rescue race with and without litters, bandaging contest, demonstration of hospital tent with cots, and resuscitation from electric shock and drowning.

The band will give a concert during these exercises and dancing will be going on in the gymnasium. Booths will sell refreshments, and useful articles with the college letters or seal. The entrance fee will be a nominal sum, and there will be no extra charge for dancing.

RUSHING SEASON REACHED

CLIMAX YESTERDAY.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 2nd, at 10 o'clock, the fraternities were allowed to date freshmen for a rushing period of three days. Yesterday after military science the freshmen were assembled in chapel and called out in alphabetical order, given their bids enclosed in sealed envelopes and conducted to another room where they opened bids and answered them. These bids were then resealed and returned to the various fraternities through the interfraternity council. A complete list of pledges will be announced in the next issue of the CYNIC.

CATHOLIC CLUB MEETING.

At the business meeting of the Catholic Club held last Monday evening, two committees were chosen, one to make arrangements for the annual initiations which are to be held the first week in December, the other to arrange a regular schedule of socials to be held throughout the year, in conjunction with the Knights of Columbus. It was also announced that the annual ball will be held sometime after mid-years.

PAN-HELLENIC SOCIETY.

At the meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Society, November 3, it was decided to hold the annual Pan-Hellenic reception to the freshmen girls Nov. 20 at Grassmount. The dates for the Sorority teas will be decided upon later. The local sorority, Alpha Sigma, was admitted to membership.

UNDERCLASS NIGHT.

The Boulder Society announces that underclass night will probably be held the night preceding the interclass game. Owing to the break-up in the schedule there is still some doubt as to whether the game will take place Saturday, November 14, or in the middle of the following week. Final instructions will be announced next Tuesday morning.

DOW DEFEATS SCOTT

FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Captain Dow, '15, of the 'varsity tennis team became tennis champion and winner of the tournament cup last Saturday when he defeated W. H. Scott, '16, in three straight sets. Scott reached the finals by defeating A. S. Morgan, '18, 6-4, 6-1; Dow, by defeating R. W. Daniels, '15, 6-2, 6-4.

Baseball Diamond.

In addition to the earthen infield provided by the gymnasium the university will have a dirt diamond out of doors next spring. The turf has been removed and after a little more working over the field will be ready for the winter's fall of snow.

GEORGE ALPHEUS MARSHALL, 1861

Was born in Northumberland, Coos Co., N. H., 17 February, 1836, the son of Caleb Marshall and Laura Franklin Waters. Through his father he was connected with Gen. Israel Putnam of Revolutionary fame, and on his mother's side, derived his descent from Mary Franklin, sister of Benjamin Franklin. He gained his preparation for college at Johnson, Vt., under the tuition of R. C. Benton, 1854, and M. P. Parmelee, 1855. In college he gained the prize offered for the best translation of fifty lines of Horace, and at graduation was received into the Phi Beta Kappa Society. After getting his degree he immediately went west, and prosecuted his law studies at Sheboygan, Wis.; was admitted to the bar in June, 1862; and for the next five years practiced his profession in Galena, Ill. In 1867 he removed to Darlington, where he became city attorney, district attorney, county superintendent of schools and county surveyor. He was a thorough scholar in the law, as in other subjects. His arguments were well considered and closely reasoned; better suited to win the attention of the judge, than to captivate the jury. He is said to have had a working knowledge of nine languages, Sanskrit and Hebrew being among them. He was instrumental in organizing the Episcopal Church in Darlington; was the first warden of the church and the first superintendent of its Sunday school. He had membership also with the Masons, Odd Fellows and a Theosophical Society.

He married 20 November, 1862 at Waukesha, Wis., Miriam Hyatt Cutler of St. Albans, Vt. A daughter and a son were born to them. The latter is now a major in the U. S. Army. He was a modest man; never sought preferment; fulfilled all duties with accuracy and scrupulous care. Of his writing only a few magazine articles were printed.

Why Should I Smoke TUXEDO?

TUXEDO is the logical smoke for millionaires because it is impossible to buy a better tobacco.

Tuxedo is the logical smoke for the economical man because there are 40 pipefuls in a ten-cent tin—making the average cost per pipeful only one-fourth of a cent!

To buy cheaper tobacco means to get less pleasure out of smoking, because it is impossible to make a tobacco as good as Tuxedo at less than the Tuxedo price!

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original "Tuxedo Process" which takes all the unpleasantness out of tobacco and leaves all the pleasantness in!

Tuxedo has a deliciously mild, fragrant aroma that is pleasant to all. It is the only tobacco you can smoke in a room full of lace curtains without leaving even a trace of odor.

A trial will convince you that Tuxedo is superior to every other tobacco you have ever smoked. Buy a tin—today.

WILLIAM MILLER STILES, 1884.

We publish below a letter from Mr. Sabin to Professor Votey announcing the death of Mr. William Miller Stiles, 1884. Mr. Sabin was professor of Chemistry and Physics in the University from 1880 to 1885 and is now the consulting chemist of the National Lead Co.

Dear Sir:

I am extremely sorry to have to tell you of the death of your classmate, William Miller Stiles which occurred Wednesday night, Oct. 14th, at his home in Flushing, N. Y.

Mr. Stiles was at the time of his death and for many years had been Superintendent of the varnish and paint factory of Edward Smith & Co. of Long Island City, N. Y. Before that he was Supt. of the paint factory of H. W. Johns & Co. in Brooklyn for several years; his first engagement after leaving college was as Supt. and Manager for William Johnson & Co. of Montreal (now the Canada Paint Company), from which place he came to the H. W. John Co. Thus he spent thirty years in three positions, all connected with the manufacture of paint and varnish. In this work his chemical training was of much value to him, and in his last position he had a well-equipped chemical laboratory although his work in all cases was essentially executive, so that he had little opportunity to do much chemical work personally. It may interest you to know that for the last fifteen years (or thereabouts) he had as assistant superintendent one of his most intimate friends, Everett P. Martin, who was for about two years a member of your class, doing especially chemical work in the University laboratory.

Mr. Stiles was active in public matters, although he never held or desired office; he was a safe and successful man of business, and had the esteem of all who knew him, and the warm friendship of all who knew him intimately. He had a delightful home to which he was attached; and his wife (May I. Ranney, from southern Vermont) was in every respect suited to her husband. She survives him, also their only child, Mr. Howard Stiles, a graduate of Princeton, who lives in Flushing, and who is married and has two children.

Mr. Stiles led a quiet and useful life, and a singularly happy one. Partly by his own work and in part by inheritance he was always in comfortable circumstances, and was more than usually free from such personal and domestic unhappiness as is caused by ill-health and the like. A few years ago he had a very severe attack of typhoid fever, which was his only severe illness; but I have always felt that he never regained the vigorous health which he had before that time. He would have been fifty-five years old if he had lived twelve days more; was at the age when his usefulness was at its height.

The Sophomores held a class meeting in Williams Science Hall Wednesday. A committee was left to be appointed by the chair to arrange for underclass night. Financial matters were also discussed.

FRESHMAN RULES AT OXFORD.

Nearly every college has its freshman rules, but we find many of these codes stricter as we look farther back. The Wesleyan Argus reprints the following concerning the good old days at Oxford:

A student matriculating at Oxford, we are told, was given a set of university statutes written in Latin. For the modest sum of sixpence he may purchase an English translation of these rules. Among the peculiar rules laid down are the following:

"1. No student shall play at marbles on the steps of any administration building.

2. No student shall roll a hoop down High street at any time, except three days in each year, designated by the proctors, when diligent work may earn him that privilege. Be it, however, understood that this pastime is always open to the rector of Christ's College.

3. No student shall at any time be seen on the campus with a bow and arrow, shooting at fellow-students being especially forbidden.

'Progs,' or proctors, look for infringements of these rules."

ALUMNI NOTES.

1900. The following is taken from the Army and Navy Journal. "Lieut. R. E. Beebe, 27th Inf., has recently patented two instruments which are now being manufactured by the Eugene Dietzgen company of Chicago and New York. The first is a battery commander's level, by means of which angles of site in mils. and horizontal angles in mils. can be obtained. It is simple, light and compact, and has no telescopic effect, but when used with glasses is intended to give quickly and directly all data generally determined by the battery commander's telescope. The second instrument is a locator's hand level, designed to enable the user to obtain grade or degrees of slope and a level line at the same time. Two types are made, one for obtaining level lines and vertical angles, the other for getting level lines and per cent. of slope, the objective glasses being graduated respectively with degrees and per cent. markings. Lieut. Beebe is a Burlington boy and a graduate of the university in the class of 1900. During his undergraduate days he showed decided military ability in the command of the battalion. Upon graduation he was commissioned a lieutenant in the United States army where he has won for himself an enviable record. In 1907 he graduated with honor from the infantry and cavalry school, and in 1908 from the Army Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., later being appointed instructor in the Department of Engineering in that institution, his proficiency along that line being recognized by the war department. He is now on duty with his regiment at Texas City, Texas.

1910. The wedding of Olive L. Hayden, '10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H.

Hayden, and Donald M. Janes, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Janes of Richford, took place Thursday, October 8th, at the home of the bride in Riverside. Mr. and Mrs. Janes left for an automobile trip and upon their return will make their home in Richford, where Mr. Janes is in business with his father.

1912. Miss Mabel Gillis, '12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gillis of Greensboro, and Payson A. Morse of Craftsbury were married in the Presbyterian church at Greensboro on Wednesday, October 7th. Mr. and Mrs. Morse will reside in Greensboro.

Ex-1909. Miss Gertrude M. Gilbert, ex-'09, and Parmelee Fairchild Drury were married July 22, 1914, at Dorset, Vt. Mr. and Mrs. Drury will reside in Springfield, Missouri.

1901. Miss Margaret M. Healy, '01, and John Henry Pfefferle were married June 24, 1914, at Rutland, Vt. Mr. and Mrs. Pfefferle are residing in Pueblo, Colorado.

1914. Philip T. Salisbury is with the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. of New York.

1914. V. A. Hicks has a position with the American Tobacco Co., at Louisburg, N. C.

1914. H. A. Styles has a position with the National Life Insurance Co., at Boston, Mass.

1914. F. O. Ockerblad, Jr., is doing post-graduate work in bacteriology at Michigan Agricultural College.

1914. J. H. Moore is in the employ of the Iron Age Publishing Co.

1912. Harold A. Murdock is in the employ of the U. S. Rubber Co.

1914. H. H. Squire is doing experimental work for the Forestry Department of the University.

1913. H. Gardiner Chase is principal of Fitzwilliams High School at Fitzwilliams, N. H.

1911. H. L. Ames is manager of a large farm in Randolph, Vt.

1913. F. H. Abbott is manager of W. A. Brown's farm in Wilmington, Vt.

THE BONFIRE ON THE BEACH.

All day the men had toiled with bare hands—
Mere pleasure-seekers, making hay—
To rear a towering pile upon the beach
Of brush and driftwood dry. When darkness came
We gathered there. One struck a match.
The dry leaves caught, the tiny flames Flashed into flame, which flickered leaped and grew
And mounted high and high and higher.
The waves' soft murmur heard mingled with Crackle of flames, and throbbing of surf
Beating on some grim headland away.
The mounting flames glowed like a beacon
To the mighty ship whose light home-bound,
We saw far out at sea. The waves were rose-tinged
And the dancing leaves of trees about High on the cliff, were pencilled silhouettes
Against the darkness of the summer eve.
We sat about the fire, and sang songs
And told old tales, and children laughed with glee
And old men smiled, and some wore weary hearts
Warmed by the blaze let open doors long closed
To human touch, and friend saw friend
Where only stranger stood before the hour.

VERMONT AND HIGHER

EDUCATION.

Mr. Ide G. Sargeant, the author of the following communication to the CYNIC, says:

Born in Vermont, educated at the V. M., owner of several Vermont farms and at present principal of one of the largest public schools in New York, I feel I am entitled to an opinion on the educational questions now before our home state."

In the resolution providing for the appointment of the Educational Commission, we find the following: "This commission shall report at the earliest possible date on the several rights, duties and obligations of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College, Middlebury College, and Norwich University with such recommendations as will prevent unnecessary duplication and consequent financial waste." It would have been well for Vermont and educational progress had the commission confined its recommendations to the work outlined for it by the legislature. The commission was not asked to follow the lead of professors in other states and rival institutions, to declare broadcast to the world that Vermont is too poor to furnish a complete education from the kindergarten to the college for those of her children desiring it. For it is false. The commission was not asked to spread broadcast over the Union that our agricultural college is a failure and its trustees recreant to their trust. For it is false. Take a list of its graduates and you will find as high a per cent of them holding prominent positions, in the service of the United States, as instructors in the various state universities, and as farm superintendents, as from any other agricultural college in the land. It tends to be better. We are going to make it so. But not by robbing it of support, from the state. In advocating the withdrawal of state support from the agricultural college, the commission shows great solicitude for the elementary school boy. But a flourishing agricultural college in the state is just as necessary for the future welfare of that boy as a good common school. Vermont needs to develop the sort of agricultural school we have at Randolph but such a school secondary in character, trains a larger class of students than the college, and is no more a competitor of it than the school for army recruits is a competitor of West Point. The type of school at Randolph, and as it is being developed in other states, is very similar to the trade schools for industrial arts. It has come to stay but the agricultural college is needed to supplement it, in training men of broader vision, not merely as teachers of agriculture but as citizens to return to the farms as owners, or superintendents, to lead those less fortunate to better things. On page 113 of its report the commission expresses its inability to say what Senator Morrill, would say, were he alive, as to certain expenditures. Yes, were he alive, what would Senator Morrill, "Father of the Middlebury and Grant Colleges," say when he heard that an educational commission in his own state advocated the withdrawal of state aid from its agricultural college of which he had been trustee for a generation and at a time when it was doing a greater work than at any other period in its history? Vote to make the agricultural college stronger.

The commission was not asked to declare to all mankind, that our medical college is a decadent institution, and unworthy of further state support. It is unfair to its faculty. It is unfair to its graduates, found in nearly every city and village in Vermont. Aren't they faithful in ministering to the needs of their communities? Isn't their skill and success equal to that of the graduates from other states? Aren't they our own boys? We are proud of them. It is not fair to the medical college to refer to the falling off in attendance when the standard of admission was raised. The same thing has happened to the institutions in all the states when the standard has gone up but it has been only temporary.

The commission was not asked to discuss the matter of state scholarship. But it assumes this right and recommends these scholarships be abolished. All thoughtful citizens will agree these scholarships should be made competitive, placing every boy and girl on an equal plain in winning one but not to abolish them. Or better still, to provide a state scholarship for every boy and girl in our state, desiring a college training. It is a mistake to assume a good common school is any more necessary to the prosperity of a state than a good college. True, larger numbers attend the one than the other but it was Sheridan at Cedar Creek that changed defeat into victory, not the frightened thousands already there. Vermont sorely needs more leaders, men and women trained in her own institutions, who will be loyal to the state. The tendency of boys and girls educated in the colleges of other states is to remain in those states. We are proud of the leaders Vermont has furnished to the states at large. This has been going on for a century. Isn't it about time we began to keep our best at home? Students trained in other colleges are ignorant of what ours can do and tend to underrate the worth of home institutions. I remember being present at a meeting of the late Senator Morrill and the late Judge Crosby Miller, both over eighty years old and both trustees of the University of Vermont at the time. Judge Miller remarked, with much feeling on the utter lack of appreciation by many of our people of the work being done by Vermont colleges. Senator Morrill replied: "I regret 'tis so. We have never given our higher institutions adequate support. But I have patience to hope that with increased aid from the 'government' and the larger graduating classes we are sending out each year to take up their work in the various communities, we shall come to have a state sentiment strong enough to give the university all the financial assistance necessary to provide a college education for all who may wish to come here." In the commission's report, page 25—Senator Morrill is quoted as saying, "The fundamental idea was to offer an opportunity in every state for a liberal and larger education to larger numbers, not merely to those destined to sedentary professions, but to those much needing higher instruction for the world's business, for industrial pursuits and professions of life." Senator Morrill understood, after a careful study of state and national education that to hold our place in the life struggle, education from the kindergarten to the college must be provided by the state. This has been demonstrated by Germany to a remarkable degree. Since her humiliation by Napoleon a century ago no other country has given such careful thought to education, beginning her work not with the common schools but by establishing the university, and no other country has made such wonderful progress in agriculture, manufacturing and commerce. Germany understood that her common schools and her industries could never reach their highest efficiency without leaders and it is the province of the college and university to train such leaders. Vermont with her natural resources and geographical position should become one of the leaders in wealth, manufacturing and trade. But to reach this goal we must have trained, far-seeing leaders and the colleges in our state must furnish them with their preliminary training. We are told Vermont is too poor to support these higher institutions. Does any one believe such slander? Denmark, Belgium and Holland each but little larger in area than Vermont, are supporting expensive royal families, large standing armies and yet find sufficient revenue to provide an educational system that has placed her farmers and artisans among the most prosperous and successful in the world. We are required by law to give free tuition to all students wishing to take a high school course and it is just as necessary and our people should demand free tuition for every student desiring a college education. All should read the letters in the April Bulletin of Middlebury College, from students holding state scholarships. I believe the men we are sending to Montpelier this winter have too much red blood in their veins to vote to deprive a single one of these fine boys and girls, of the help the scholarship gives. These young people just entering manhood and womanhood are just as dear and just as important to us as the little five-year old just entering the kindergarten. It is our duty to provide free instruction for both and if I read the temper of our people aright we are going to do it. And we are going to do it at institutions of our own near the home.

Let us keep a good common school within walking distance of each home and thereby keep our families on the farms.

Let us have an up-to-date normal school, to train our teachers in an environment that will leave them loyal to Vermont.

Let us give our state colleges such support as will make them a mighty force in upbuilding our state and make possible a college training for every boy and girl desiring it.

Let us back this up with tenure for teachers, good salaries and better supervision.

In the future we should be more cautious in allowing reports to be spread broadcast that create false impressions and do the state incalculable harm in other states.

POEM BY REV. J. G. CURRIER '01.

Mr. Currier is a native of Rutland and a graduate of the University in the class of 1901. He is pastor of the Memorial Church of the Advocate, Philadelphia. The poem is entitled:

"The Heroes of Vera Cruz."

The Nation stands in awe and mourns, with head

Bowed down, while flag draped caissons wend their way

With martyred dead through city streets and quay.

Deep tolling bell, sad dirge and solemn tread

Of martial escort mark the requiem said.

Our first sad thoughts give place to pride today

That we should have such sons to serve, who say Nor "Where" nor "Why?" Nor murmur though they bled.

O Country Ours! Thrice blest above all lands!

Unique among great nations of the earth,

Thou giv'st thy sons in service of mankind

To heal the wounds, unbind the burdened hands

Of weaker men, dispel deep gloom with mirth,

Till dawns a world wide Peace from God's own mind.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AT VERMONT A HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

In these days of student government agitation it is interesting to look back and see how the students in college a hundred years ago governed themselves. A CYNIC of a quarter of a century ago published an account of the "Legislature" that existed in the University of Vermont in 1809. It was a formidable sounding organization with judges, petit and grand jurors, clerks, sheriffs and a score of other petty officers. Among the more prominent names are Norman Williams, Joseph Williamson, Jaud Wilson, James Collainer, David Camp and John Brownson. That they surely felt their dignity is testified by the following law that asserts, "any persons that wantonly, willfully or maliciously slander or defame the court or any person coming under the jurisdiction shall be fined a sum not exceeding fifty cents!"

Each law was intended to correct some one fault to which undergraduates were particularly prone. The following is a very free transcription of the most important of these enactments.

Any person who willfully and with malice shall curse or swear, shall pay a fine not exceeding twelve and a half cents nor less than six cents and cost of suits for every such offense.

If any person wickedly or designedly wet another with water or other liquid he shall pay a fine to the person so injured and all costs of prosecution not exceeding twenty-five cents!

Any person, who shall willfully or maliciously strike, beat or bruise another with clubs, fists or stones on conviction thereof, shall pay a fine to the clerk of the court not exceeding twelve and not less than six cents.

It is hereby enacted that if any person shall enter the room of another and take his property without his consent on conviction thereof shall pay a fine not exceeding twenty-five cents and make good all damages to the person so injured.

It is hereby further enacted that if any person shall ring or toll the College Bell at any time not permitted or directed by the Authority of College or Bell Ringer, unless in case of fire, shall pay a fine not exceeding twelve and a half cents together with costs of prosecution.

At the end is written:—

Passed June 2nd. Anno Domini 1809.

D. M. Camp, Speaker, H. R., James C. Dutcher, Clerk.

THE LIBRARY.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:—

There are probably not more than a couple of dozen men in the university who fully realize the opportunity offered to the students of the institution in the use of our library. Most of us go in once in a while, although there are some, we fear, whose visits are rather irregular. Some of us sit down for a few moments to glance over a paper or a magazine, then rush out again. Others study there a little at odd moments. Sometimes we avail ourselves of the reference books which are placed on reserve shelves for our inspection. But there are not many who take the pains or the time to make any extensive use of the wonderful treasure of good literature which the library affords. We never think of investigating for ourselves. We haven't acquired that habit. And that is where many are missing some of the richest experience of a college course. The very atmosphere of the library is culture in itself. If one has the least regard for books, the feeling of being surrounded by the best that the world affords gives a man a peculiar inspiration.

We would urge the freshmen, especially, to cultivate the habit, early in their college career, of spending a few minutes, at least, of each day in the library, either studying or reading, and not to confine the reading entirely to the newspapers and magazines. These are good, but they can be found anywhere, while there are many priceless volumes all about, which you may never have the opportunity to make use of again. Here is your chance to explore the great world of literature. Find something that interests you and delve into it. Learn how to use the book index, so that you can help the librarian in

VERMONT TOO MUCH FOR NEW HAMPSHIRE MALCOLM AGAIN

Line Bucks Carry Ball Over in 4 Minutes for First Touchdown—2 Punts Result in Goals—Severe Snow Storm Marks 2nd Half—Sophomores Outplay Opponents in Last 2 Minutes.

Last Saturday, Nov. 7, Vermont won her first actual victory of the football season, defeating New Hampshire State by the score of 20-0. The score indicates the comparison between the two teams very well, the Green and Gold at no time being in danger and keeping the ball in their opponents' territory most of the time. New Hampshire played a strong game, however, stronger than was expected, but the brilliant work of Malcolm, Little and Burke assured the victory for the home eleven. It was the first home game played this fall and though the team was not up to its standard form gave a superior exhibition of what Vermont can do in the great college sport.

It was a hard gruelling struggle for both teams, fast work being impossible because of snow and the consequent muddy field. Vermont resorted to line plays chiefly, attempting five unsuccessful forward passes. New Hampshire's only successful play was a shift which they worked only a few times to advantage. Little was particularly good at breaking this up and getting the man. Bucks through the line were useless for New Hampshire, the 'varsity line being almost invincible, save for one or two instances.

Vermont's first touchdown was made by straight football after four minutes play. Burke running the team beautifully down the field and Tennien getting the touchdown. In the same quarter Malcolm got down the field under the aid of Smith's punts, recovered it, and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Malcolm also made the third touchdown in the last quarter of play, recovering a punt which Little had blocked. Two more points are also due to Malcolm for kicking goals twice after touchdowns.

First Quarter.

Vermont received the ball on the kick-off, Little carrying it 10 yards. By a delayed pass formation Pike went through for 25 yards on the first play; the buck by Smith and Burke's quarterback run made another first down. Three more short bucks and Tennien got through right guard for the first touchdown. New Hampshire was taken Take Team and Individual Cups—Co. C Team 2nd.

The Commons Club Rifle Team won the Clark cup for out-of-door target shooting Saturday afternoon, making a team score of 305 out of a possible 375, and distancing its nearest competitor by a margin of 34 points. More than that, two members of the same team took the two cups for highest individual scores, Daniels, '15, winning first place, with LaBrake, '17, second. The team score follows:

Washburn, 63; Huntington, 50; Minckler, 58; Daniels, 69; LaBrake, 65.

Barber, '18, of the C. C. aggregation, while not qualifying for the team, made an excellent individual score.

A picked team from Company C took second place, scoring 271 points.

PROC NIGHT RULES

Hostilities Begin With Dummy Rush at 4:30—End With Bonfire and College Hum at 10:30—Freshman Toques.

The Boulder Society announces that Proc night will be Friday night, November 20.

(1) Hostilities are to begin with the dummy rush at 4:30 on the back campus. The dummy is to be of canvas approximately 2½ feet, in diameter by 6 feet in length. It will be placed on a chalk line in the center of the field. The object is to rush it over into the enemy's territory. There will be two rushes of 5 minutes each with 5 minutes intermission. Each class is to use all its members in each rush. Each rush counts 10 points.

(2) From 5:00 until 8:00 will be given over to general hostilities.

(3) At 8:00, the wrestling matches commence on the front campus. There will be 3 matches, 2 out of 3 falls. Each match will count 5 points.

(4) 9:00 o'clock, the flag rush. Back campus. It will be a flying flag fastened 10 feet above the ground and defended by the sophomores. Time: 10 minutes. 15 points.

(5) 10 o'clock: Proc pasting contest. A quadrangle will be erected on the back campus. Paste only is to be used. Time: 15 minutes. 20 points.

(6) 10:30: Bonfire and college hum.

Football men are barred from the above contests at the penalty of 20 points per man. No spiked shoes are to be worn.

Old Mill the Scene of Much Anxiety as 12 Fraternities Send in Their Bids.

On Friday afternoon, Nov. 6th, the fraternity bidding and pledging took place in the Old Mill. The freshmen were assembled at 2:15 o'clock in the chapel where President Benton explained the plan adopted by the conference for the issuing of bids.

Each man's name was called in alphabetical order, irrespective of whether he had received a bid or not. When his name was called, the man went out of the chapel, and was conducted up the stairs at the north end of the mill, into Professor Bassett's room, where were the senior representatives of the different fraternities. The freshman, upon entering, gave his name, and if he received a bid or more, the fraternities bidding him gave him their invitations. He then went into a side room where he signed all bids, either rejecting or accepting, and upon returning to the room in which were the fraternity representatives, gave back his bid or bids. He then passed down the stairs at the south end of the mill, without seeing any man whose name had not been called, and directly to the house of the fraternity whose invitation he had accepted.

The fraternities announce the following pledges:

Lambda Iota.

Sidney L. Harris of Leominster, Mass., S. L. Hartwell of Brattleboro, K. G. Chase of Burlington and W. J. Freeman of Lynnfield Center, Mass.

VERMONT VS. FORDHAM.

A Close Game Expected at N. Y. To-day—Vermont Favorite on the Line, Fordham in the Back Field.

Vermont goes to the Fordham game to-day strengthened on the line and weakened in the backfield. Captain Flynn, a strong man on the line, will be back in place at left guard and Lawlor, one of the fastest backs, will be in one of the wing positions. But in the backfield Burke will be unable to play at quarter because of injuries received in the New Hampshire State game and Lawlor, who has been out of the game for three weeks with a bad ankle, will go in at end. In case Captain Flynn has to go out, Little, a bulwark on the right side of the line, will act as captain.

Fordham's team this year is one of the best in recent years. They have two of the best backs in the East in Dunn, a former Yale star, and Yule, his running mate. Vermont's hopes lie in the ability of her strong line to stop their opponents' plays, the Fordham line being rather weak. Vermont's chances of winning are at least even and possibly better since the team now has turned into the winning column. Following is a list of games that has been played this season by Fordham:

Fordham 0—Georgetown 0.

Fordham 7—Gallaudet 6.

Fordham 21—Rochester 0.

Fordham 28—Middlebury 0.

Fordham 21—R. I. State 0.

Fordham 21—Gettysburg 2.

Fordham 0—Navy 21.

Fifteen men will take the trip. The probable line-up for the game:

Pike or Lawler, r. e.; Little, r. t.; Armstrong, r. g.; DeMarco, c.; Flynn or Abell, l. g.; Denning, l. t.; Malcolm, l. e.; Vizner, q. b.; Smith, l. h. b.; Frank, r. h. b.; Tennien, f. b.

completely by surprise at the speedy onslaught of the green-jerseyed line and backs.

Vermont received again, but the visitors stiffened and after two short bucks and an unsuccessful forward pass, Smith punted, booting the ball 45 yards. Vermont forced their opponents to punt gaining about 15 yards by the exchange. A direct pass from center was lost and the green was thrown for 15 yards after which Smith punted about 35 yards. Malcolm was down the field, recovered the punt and carried the ball across for the second touchdown. He then kicked the goal, making the score 13-0.

Vermont received and rapidly carried the ball to the blue's 28-yard mark where the quarter ended.

Second Quarter.

The blue and white stiffened and Vermont lost on downs. Pike blocked and recovered their punt on the 20-yard line; Malcolm dropped back 10 yards and booted a drop which fell just short of the cross bar. The visitors then punted from the 20-yard line out of danger. Burke was injured on the next play, Vizner taking quarter and Frank going in halfback position. New Hampshire captured a forward pass but Flynn broke through and blocked their punt which Armstrong recovered. This ended the half with the ball on New Hampshire's 20-yard line. Score, 13-0.

Third Quarter.

Snow fell all during the second half making fast work impossible. New Hampshire received and the ball zigzagged in the middle of the field, followed by an exchange of punts, Vermont gaining slightly. Pike nipped a New Hampshire pass and hit the trail for the goal-posts, the touchdown not being allowed, however, as the pass was incomplete. End of quarter. Score, 13-0.

Fourth Quarter.

Vermont held for downs and started down the field ripping the opposing line for three and four yards at every buck, Smith and Tennien slipping through. Frank also made some good gains. On the four yard mark Vermont fumbled the heavy ball and New Hampshire carried it back 20 yards. The visitors worked their formation at this time, making a few good gains, but Little and Malcolm began coming in from each side and breaking it up, forcing their opponents to punt. Little again displayed stellar work breaking through and blocking the punt; Malcolm again recovered and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. Malcolm's work following the ball was of sensational order. He kicked the goal, making the score 20-0.

Sophomores Enter.

The sophomore team went in for the last two minutes of play, holding their opponents from New Hampshire and forcing them to kick. Greenwood broke through twice and threw his man for a loss. The half ended with the ball in the middle of the field in Vermont's possession. Final score, 20-0.

While Vermont did not show remarkable work, the playing at times was brilliant. Little, Malcolm, Pike and Denning succeeded in spoiling many of their opponents' calculations. The New Hampshire team worked hard, fighting every foot of the way and well deserve commendation.

COMMONS HALL SMOKER.

One of a Series to Be Conducted
Throughout Year—"Stubby" Clark
Discourses on the Valorous Days of Yore—Music Enlivens the Occasion.

Last Saturday night was held the third of a series of weekly Saturday night smokers at Commons Hall. The guest of the evening was Dr. "Stubby" Clark of the Medical College, who was received with a great ovation. The larger part of the New Hampshire State football team was also present.

The program began with several popular selections by the orchestra, which were well received, followed by singing of Vermont songs. Then Professor Thomson introduced Dr. Clark who kept everybody in laughter with his witty sayings and reminiscences of former college days. He dwelt on the better relations between the medics and academic students than was formerly the case and on general increase and improvement of "pep" in the university. Swett, '15, rendered two vocal selections which were received with continued applause. After a few cheers had been given the program was closed with the singing of "Champlain."

Much spirit is evident at these smokers and they fill a well defined need of the university. It is expected to continue them throughout the year if they remain as popular as they are at present, new speakers being procured for each time. The musical program will also be changed from time to time to give variety to the entertainment.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES THE ANCIENT CITY

Y. W. C. A. Girls Present "Church Street in Miniature," and Stage the One Act Farce, "The Kleptomaniac."

Did anyone notice the earthquake which so shook the foundations of Burlington that Church Street went up in the air and came down again in the College Gym? In some fashion or other this marvelous feat was accomplished and the College Y. W. C. A. seemed to have much to do with it.

The "Hotel Vermont Roof Garden" was one of the greatest attractions. Miss Bernadine Kimball, '15, assisted by Miss Spinney, '15, and others gave exhibitions of many of the new dances.

Dorn's and Churchill's vied with each other in popularity with the odds in favor of the latter. At Dorn's, all sorts of good things were served at the small tables in the spacious dining-room. Churchill's was small but all there even the empty Huyler boxes. The shelves back of the counter held many kinds of drugs but no prescriptions were filled except those for ice cream cones.

By a happy chance the "Majestic" had landed next to "Churchill's." The lofty gray edifice had an unusual feature, the "machine" was on the outside, visible to the busy shoppers. Inside actual "movies" were shown coming from behind the screen.

The "Concord Candy Kitchen" might have had "Come once, come again," for an appropriate sign. The white capped and gowned clerk, doubtless had something to do with its attractiveness. Near the "Kitchen," "White's Art Store," "The Specialty Shop," and the "Regal Jewelry Store" had landed in the corner. At the "Fire Sale" "Undamaged Goods at Damaged Prices" could be purchased in any quantity. A new feature at the "Regal Jewelry" was discovered, the Auction lasting all the time. The Auctioneer drew the crowd.

And "Celeste's!" Not even the window decorations could be described. Live models exhibited the wonderful hats and gowns. The pink automobile? It stood by the curbing. In the shop "Madame Celeste" in a "perfect dream" of a dress served tea to her patrons.

The latest war news bulletins were posted before "Paradise Alley." Near by "Wag-tin-emery," advertised that excellent photographs could be secured at the lowest possible rates.

Before going into the theatre, the thing to do was to step across the street to "Gove's." An arched frame of white latticework twined with wisteria, together with maidenhair ferns and baskets of sweet peas formed the background for the beautiful roses, violets and carnations.

Just before the play "The Peerade" appeared. The band consisting of one drum and the "comb" orchestra led the strange procession. The broomstick battalion marshalled by "Captain" Nutting created a sensation, also it received the cup for the best costumes.

Why the store windows weren't smashed remained a mystery, for the militant suffragettes paraded in full battle array, with axes, hammers and all.

About nine o'clock the streets were shrouded in darkness, not an unusual occurrence. Then the lights at the Strong flashed out. "The Kleptomaniac" with the following all star cast was presented to an appreciative audience:

Mrs. John Burton,
Grace alias "Peg" George, '18.
Mrs. Armsby, ... Gladys Gleason, '15.
Miss Freda Dixon, ... Almira Watts, '15.
Mrs. Charles Dover, Hazel Spinney, '15.
Mrs. Preston Ashley,
Constance Votey, '16.
Miss Evans, a reporter,

Marie McMahon, '15.
Katie, the maid, ... Sadie Norris, '17.
Natural and pleasing was "Peg" George as the young bride. Miss Gleason, the dashing widow, in her costume from Celeste's made a distinct impression. The other parts were well acted, Freda Dixon giving Miss Watts an opportunity to display her powers of oratory.

Unlike some earthquakes, this did some good for the treasury of the Y. W. C. A. is the richer by some $80., which means that Vermont will be well represented at Silver Bay next June.

The Cynic—An Alumni Publication.

There are few college papers that have as large an alumni subscription list as the CYNIC. It aims to keep the alumni in touch with undergraduates and each other, and to keep undergraduates in touch with the alumni—to make one united brotherhood of the sons of Old Vermont. The paper welcomes each new subscription that comes in from the outside world. Its money value we need, but it is the thought that one more man is still loyal to U. V. M. that pleases us most. Gradually the paper is extending its reach, its influence is spreading farther and farther, from coast to coast and to foreign countries. We wish that as Vermont men pass on the streets they would ask each other if they subscribe for the CYNIC, that as one friend writes another a good word might be exchanged for the paper, and particularly that at luncheons and reunions it be boomed as one more tie to the college on the hill. We are now publishing subscription blanks with each issue. You who have influence cut one out and send it to a friend with advice to fill it out.

One more thing we are always glad of is news contributions. It does the undergraduates a world of good to know that the alumni are still interested in the college. We wish that alumni associations which have not been keeping us posted would acquire the habit. We always have a mighty good opinion of that individual who now and then sends us a few alumni notes. Write us and you will find your communication given prompt attention.

On Kicking.

It is everybody's privilege to kick; it is an editor's duty to kick. The privileged man kicks only his enemies; the dutiful man kicks his friends as well. Friends always invite you to kick them if they are in the wrong, but they seldom thank you if you take them at their word. People complain that the papers do not print the truth, if they do print the truth there's a wreck in the editor's office. A paper registers the opinion of the people; that opinion doesn't always look pleasing in unchangeable black and white. When one man wants to kick another man he comes around to the editor and asks him to do it for him—probably thinking that the editor enjoys such things.

Well, to direct the other fellow's boot, there has been some kicking lately because the gymnasium addition isn't being completed more rapidly, and some more kicking because the trophy room isn't kept cleaner by the students. Our own kick concerning this latter we voiced last spring—that the trophies ought to be in a more appropriate and cleaner place than the "smoking room." Just at present this is all the kick we've got in us.

A Course in Journalism.

Nearly every college of any standing at the present time is putting in some kind of a course in journalism—especially those that have newspapers and press clubs. There are undoubtedly several men who would sign up for such a course at Vermont. Consequently it ought to raise the standard of our periodicals and press work. Furthermore, it would give an incentive to such work. We do not think that editors should be given direct class credits for work done under the present system, but we do think it would do no harm to offer them a course in conjunction with their work for which they would receive the usual amount of credit. If even a two-hour half-year course in the theory of journalism were offered it would help matters not a little. Surely it would prove as profitable to those who elected it as our courses in argumentation. But so long as we have the CYNIC and Ye Crabbe and press work there is no reason why it need be purely theoretical. Newspaper style could be studied, practice given in editorial and news writing, lecturers occasionally brought in from outside, etc. Any English professor would find the course easy to build up and of value to the college. It could be made decidedly interesting, and there is nothing resembling it here at the present.

Who Are Cuckoos?

Who are Cuckoos? The whole damned team! Doesn't look particularly thrilling in print does it? Doesn't sound particularly thrilling on the field. Last week the freshmen heard it for the first time. Doubtless it warmed their hearts despite the snowstorm with the spirit of U. V. M., and caused them to wonder how under such daredevil enthusiasm any team could fail to score. We have heard the yell for several seasons. We have never seen it carry the least bit of effect, we have never heard it spoken of with favor, the men give it listlessly. Yet it mechanically continues to exist. Its sentiment is worthless, it doesn't sound well before the crowd, it isn't needed where it is used, and cheer leaders might do much worse than to quietly drop it.

A '16 MAN'S OPINION.

To the editor of the Cynic:

It would seem that the severe and repeated defeats which our football teams have suffered during recent years, point to the conclusion that Vermont is attempting too much in this branch of athletics. We are playing out of our class.

Williams, Maine, and Dartmouth would be a serious proposition for any football team to run up against the first part of the season. We are a door-mat to big teams.

Our football teams have been so crippled, early in the year that strength of attack becomes noticeably lacking in the last games. Mass. Aggies, Springfield Training, Holy Cross, Fordham, Williams, etc. are not out of our class and Vermont men would get into the habit of asking, by how much did we win, rather than, to how low a score did we hold them. It is bad to get into the habit of loosing.

Signed,

'16.

THE COLLEGE NEWSPAPER MAN.

Attention is called to the relationship between the following circular which recently reached the CYNIC office and the editorial on "A Course in Journalism" in this week's issue.

The average candidate or heeler for a college paper enters a competition wholly unequipped for his task. He is handicapped at the outset by his ignorance of the rules common to reporting and writing in all college newspaper offices. He is unable to visualize the value of facts in the light of news, to write suitable "leads," or even perfectly to construct a news story on so ordinary an affair as the afternoon practice of an athletic team. It is hard for a beginner to write a thorough and accurate account of a game in an easy style that will make interesting reading.

The college editor, recently elected to the board, finds himself, in most cases, totally unprepared for the technical work which he is called upon to do. The mechanics of copy-reading, head-writing and make-up, are to him a closed book.

The men who have been editorial writers, or candidates for Editor-in-chief or Chairman of their paper, have long felt the need of some standard, set by their contemporaries, by which they might judge the kind of work demanded of them. The misery of being at a loss for an idea can only be appreciated by the men who have racked their brains until far into the night in search of a suitable topic for editorial discussion.

IRA BALLOU HASTINGS, Ex-1910

Died at the home of his parents in Glover, Vt., October 21, 1914, of tuberculosis, a terrible but brave and patient sufferer. Mr. Hastings was born in Waterford, Vt., July 21, 1881, the son of Frank W. and Emilie E. Hastings.

His boyhood days were spent on a farm. He graduated from St. Johnsbury Academy in the class of 1901, but owing to weak eyes did not pursue his studies further for several years, during most of which time he was employed by his uncle of the firm of I. H. Ballou & Co., commission merchants of Boston. In 1906 he entered the Department of Civil Engineering, University of Vermont. While at the University Mr. Hastings made many friends and won the respect of all who knew him. His scholastic attainments were of a high character, standing second to none. During the college year of 1910 he suffered a severe attack of typhoid fever which prevented him from graduating with his class and from the effects of which he never fully recovered.

During 1911 and 1912 Mr. Hastings was employed at the Boston office of the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford R. R., but owing to failing health he was compelled to give up his position. That he made good as an engineer and proved himself worthy of the profession he had chosen is vouched for by the head engineer under whom he worked.

A young man of strict morals, deep regard for the rights of others, and the truest type of friend, Mr. Hastings will be missed and mourned by many besides the members of his family.

VERMONT DELEGATION INVADES NORTHFIELD.

How U. V. M. was Advertised—Eight Men Carry the College Colors.

Eight Vermont men led by Dr. Barnes represented the university at the Northfield (Mass.) Students' Conference this summer, the largest delegation sent down by the university in several years. They were H. A. Bailey, '14; R. A. Healy, '15; P. H. Gates, '15; M. H. Davis, '15; L. W. Dean, '15; E. J. Crane, '16; and W. Voorhies, (medic), '18.

Owing to Vermont's late commencement the men were unable to reach Northfield on time, arriving only the last week in time for the closing days. Their tents were alongside those of the large Wesleyan delegation by whom they were given a most hearty welcome. Indeed, by arriving late they perhaps made all the greater impression. The new college cheer in the eating hall was quite noticeable and the large green and gold banner stretched between the tents attracted favorable comment. Dr. Barnes was present during the whole session, teaching a Bible Class of college men, and it seemed to the Vermont men when they arrived that he was a pretty "popular fellow about town."

The men did not arrive in time to enter the baseball schedule or the track meet. The latter was taking place as they came onto the grounds. It is perhaps well that they didn't as some of the best college athletes in the East are sent up to Northfield to win for their respective institutions. It makes a big stroke of advertising before the five hundred prep. school men present. At the auditorium celebration in the evening when each of some fifty preparatory schools and colleges are given an opportunity to cheer by turns, as the name of each is read, it sounded well to hear the "Old Vermont" among the many. The delegation had seats of exceptional advantage, and their colors like the others were in evidence. Among the cheers and songs and stunts came the thrilling West Point salute to peace.

The delegation found that Vermont was known among the colleges. Brown, or Colgate, or Lafayette, or Cornell men knew men that Vermont men knew, the name of Gutterson was still familiar in track circles, the Yale delegation, some sixty strong, had not forgotten the baseball team.

Dr. Barnes says that until the men arrived the perpetual query put to him was, "Where are your Vermont boys?" By arriving late they missed much, but aside from the speeches by men of international reputation, perhaps their greatest regret is that they missed a week's association with the finest type of men that the American colleges are producing.

THE CONVERSE PRIZES

IN ECONOMICS.

A cash prize of $40.00 will be awarded for the best essay dealing with some phase of the industries of Vermont. A cash prize of $20.00 will be awarded for the second best essay dealing with the same general subject. The competition is open to all undergraduates of the university. The essays offered in competition for these prizes must be handed in to the Department of Economics not later than June first. A committee of citizens of the State will be chosen to act as judges in the award of the prizes. For further particulars inquire of the Department of Economics.

REVIEW OF "YE CRABBE."

Yes, all who have carefully perused the "October" number of "Ye Crabbe" agree that it is now some booklet. There are many notable improvements. The first is seen on the front cover—that of a permanent part of the page with a different insertion to supplement it at each issue. This policy is followed by many of the leading magazines of the country and has been proven popular. Certainly the front page of any publication must be attractive to insure interest in that publication. Consequently both the permanent portion of "Ye Crabbe's" face and the monthly change must bear evidences of talent as well as effort.

The editorial section of the magazine is always of a high class order and alone is almost worth the price of the paper.

"The Man and His Game," a continued story written by a well known senior, is perhaps the greatest improvement to date. It forms a substantial nucleus around which the different types of work may be distributed to better advantage. Of course the object of the story is to create more interest in the following issues of the paper. This end will surely be attained if the readers will but stop long enough in their mad dash for a "college education" to get started. The style is easy and the plot most interesting. The interest is magnified on account of the local touch bearing on the university and Burlington.

"Ye Crabbe's" advertising space is well filled with "ads" of the highest order. Any paper may be able to get a few "ads," but the arrangement, the quality and the wording of these advertisements are of an improved nature. That happy state of cooperation between the advertiser and the paper that works for the best interests of both may be seen in looking the advertisements over.

Seeing beyond the present improvements those in charge of the paper are anxious that every man and woman in the university "come out" and contribute to the paper. The CYNIC desires the same and this is the only action that will improve our publications more and more, bringing them up to levels even more worthy than those now occupied. An old rule stating that any Crabbe board member not contributing to two successive numbers shall be dropped from the board, is to be strictly enforced from now on.

ter, and later submitted an idea as to how they are to be extended into the spring. An indoor tournament is to be run off commencing next week. Coach Freedman believes in the "building up" system of athletics. Any who are interested in tennis, even if they have never played, are urged to give their names to Remby, Grismer or Gates. These names will be put in a hat, and drawn out one by one. The first one drawn out will be number one, the next number two, etc. If number 7 challenges number 2 and defeats him, they change places. If not, they remain the same as before, and number 7 cannot challenge number 2 again until he has won some other set. Entries can be made at any time after the tournament starts, the man entering taking the last number and working up. Professor Freedman will arrange the matches and post them Saturday for the next week. In this manner, by next spring, numbers 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the singles tournament will represent the four best players. Later a tournament will be arranged for doubles matches. Each entrant should give Coach Freedman his hour plan so as to assist him in arranging the matches. After a match, the contestants should write down the score, sign their names, and drop the paper in Mr. Freedman's box at his office near the large lecture room of the Williams Science hall. Arrangements have been made with Dr. Stone so that freshmen and sophomores playing two hours a week will be excused from gymnasium work.

The tournament will continue on the clay courts in the spring and the 'varsity tennis team will consist of the eligible men at the top of list at the time of the varsity game; that is each man must defend his position against all comers. Because a man plays in the first 'varsity game does not insure his playing in every later 'varsity game.

Manager Remby and Captain Dow will act as an advisory committee to the coach and the first question taken up will be to submit to the athletic council a scheme for awarding letters and numerals to men reaching a certain standing in the list of players and playing in the 'varsity games.

There will also be played a round robin tournament to determine the class championship for indoor tennis. Each class will be represented by a team of two men. This allows a series of two single matches and one double match between the various teams.

If the student body will raise by popular subscription a sufficient amount a cup will be offered for this championship to be held by the winning class for one year or until won by another class.

STUDENTS DIRECTORY.

The new students directory has been published and may be obtained by calling at the secretary's office. It is much the same as last year's, containing a list of trustees and faculty members with addresses, also names, class, course, the city, home and telephone addresses of all students. In the back is appended a list of fraternity houses with street and telephone addresses.

LECTURE BY JUDGE MOWER.*The Monroe Doctrine—Its History—Its Interpretation—Its Bearing on the Present Crisis.

On Monday evening Judge Mower addressed the Debating Club on the Monroe Doctrine. His attitude toward this question was as follows:

The Monroe Doctrine is probably the most important single phase of our public policy. It is involved in one way or another whenever any international complication arises. At present the possibility of a German invasion of Canada as a sequel to a German victory in Europe has made the question a very important one indeed. Yet it is fair to say that no two statesmen or publicists in the United States to-day would define the scope or purpose of the doctrine alike.

In the first place there is a great misconception as to the doctrine as originally promulgated by President Monroe. In 1815 Russia, Prussia and Austria concluded a joint treaty which came to be known as the "Holy Alliance." Its ostensible purpose was to promote the influence of the Christian religion in matters of government, but its real purpose in its later development was to conserve the principles of monarchy and absolutism and hence to discourage the spread of republican principles and free institutions. Accordingly, when most of the Central and South American states succeeded in securing their independence from Spain, the powers of the Holy Alliance were at one time at the point of engaging in war for the reconquest of these colonies for the benefit of Spain and the principle of monarchy. Now the Monroe doctrine simply put the United States on record before the world as opposed to any such action and as desiring that the Western Hemisphere be left to develop its own institutions without European interference. It was in no sense an ultimatum, since at that time the United States lacked the power to make an ultimatum effective. Looked at in a more frivolous light its promulgation at that time may be termed a piece of courageous and successful bluff. And yet it was at that time justifiable from all standpoints. The weak states of South America liked it as a shield against oppression, while from a standpoint of international law we were justified in protesting against what might have been a real menace to our integrity as a nation. Now we have never been confronted with a similar situation since that time, and yet the Monroe Doctrine has been invoked many times and often in ways inconsistent with one another. In 1846 the government of Yucatan, being in financial difficulties, offered to add the territory of Yucatan to us or any European power that would agree to straighten out their difficulties. At that time the State Department ruled that we could not take the territory and that the Yucatan government could not add it to any European power. On the other hand, when the Venezuela boundary dispute arose in the '90's, the State Department ruled that England must arbitrate the question, but that if Venezuela were willing to add the disputed territory she might do so. These two diametrically opposite attitudes taken at different times on the same question show that the Monroe doctrine has never meant anything fixed and definite beyond the general notion of European non-interference in Pan-American affairs.

Now with this vagueness and this tendency to stretch the doctrine to fit any case which affects our real or supposed interests in this hemisphere in mind, let us look closely at the doctrine in the light of the present. In the first place powerful and enlightened nations have arisen in South America, whose institutions compare quite favorably with our own and which are quite capable of taking care of themselves. Quite naturally they resent our self-constituted and our zealous guardianship and regard our frequent and often talked inference in their affairs as entirely unwarranted and objectionable. So they have come to fear our aggressions far more than those that may come from Europe and in consequence we have less of their large and growing trade than Germany and England. The Monroe Doctrine as the people of South America understand it to-day does them no good and us measureless harm in their eyes.

Furthermore such incidents as that of Magdalena bay, in which we said in effect that citizens of Mexico could not dispose of certain real estate to citizens of Japan, are entirely beyond the sanction of international law, which declares that all states, no matter what their size or power, are equal before the law of nations and sovereign within their own territory. Any nation may take such manoeuvres as it thinks necessary for the preservation of its national integrity, but many of the matters in which we have intervened in the name of the Monroe Doctrine cannot by any stretch of the imagination be said to menace that integrity.

Lastly, as may be inferred from what has been already said, the Monroe Doctrine is not in any sense a principle of international law, but only a principle of American public policy. It is not generally recognized by the nations of the world, and its unwarranted application may lead at a time to its being questioned by force of arms. Consequently, we should limit the action of the doctrine by the bounds of international law and the necessities of the time, or better we should seek to form a Pan-American Alliance, which would serve the original purpose of the Monroe Doctrine, the prevention of European interference in Pan-American affairs and at the same time would go toward restoring us to that place in the eyes of South America which we held in 1823.

Freshman Class Notes.

H. C. Billings of Springfield has been elected captain of the football team.

At a class meeting held Tuesday afternoon, Miss Jackson, Gallup and Baker were elected as a committee to decide on class colors.

Coach Mayforth spoke to a meeting of the men on Thursday chapel hour, urging more to come for the interclass game.

TRAINING TABLE.

Wesleyan has worked out successfully a new plan for a training table by which all the advantages may be secured without additional outlay. Men on the squad eat together at several fraternities. Each house looks after the table for two days, and during that time sends to each of the other houses a number of its own members equal to the number the second house has on the squad.

AGGIE CLUB DANCE.

About sixty couples were present at the annual Aggie Club dance held at the gym last Wednesday evening. Chaperons were Prof. and Mrs. M. Cummings and Prof. and Mrs. R. Burdick. Excellent music was furnished by Taplin's five-piece orchestra.

C. C. EXPLAINS ITS ATTITUDE.

In view of the criticism on the part of some and surprise on the part of others at the attitude of the Commons Club during the recent rushing period, the following has been handed in, a brief statement of the Club's position on the matter:

"The purpose of the men who founded the Commons Club was the formation of a society which would give the non-fraternity men in college a better chance in organized activities, so that both the men and the activities might benefit. The Club's first year was one of all of obstacles and difficulties. Its good men hesitated at first to affiliate themselves with an organization in which there was everything to give, and nothing to receive.

"Since that time a change has come about. The Commons Club no longer has to hunt up members. It is the largest society in college, and we have some reason to believe, one of the strongest. During the past year it has had a record in college activities which any organization in the university may well envy. It sets its men to work with a precision and effectiveness which it is certain no other organization can equal.

"Our consequent attitude toward the freshmen should, then, be readily understood. Getting a freshman doesn't mean quite as much to us as the responsibility for his future after we have got him. Aside from a general invitation to one or two meetings in the rooms, no rushing or urging of any sort has been done, and the appended list of new freshmen members, who will form a nucleus for later additions, were taken in the last night of the fraternity rushing period, after they had made their decisions independently.

From 1918: Clarence D. Pierce, Jr., of Craftsbury; Alfred W. Barber, of Williamstown, Mass.; Leon C. Spencer, of Bennington; Carl Dwyer, of Berkshire; John M. G. Gibson, of McIndoes Falls; Roland W. Johnson, of Rutland; John T. R. Andrews, of Charleston; and Floyd A. Woodward, of Richford."

N. B. All non-fraternity freshmen are welcome at the Club rooms Friday evenings.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

There will be a meeting of the Deutscher Verein in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in the Old Mill next Wednesday evening. This will be a business meeting and officers will be elected. The following men will be received into the club at this meeting: Grafhls, Small and Seaver. Mrs. Stetson has been made an honorary member. All members, both active and honorary, are requested to be present.

EDWARD HANBORN REED, 1901,

Eldest son of Henry L. and Clara (Patridge) Reed, was born at Crown Point, N. Y., December 7, 1879. His education was begun in the public schools of Crown Point. In 1893, his father having died, the family moved to Burlington, and he was graduated from the high school in 1897, and at once entered the University, gaining his degree in chemistry in 1901. After a few months in New York City he entered the service of the Illinois Steel Company at Joliet. This position he resigned to accept one with the Lackawanna Steel Company at Buffalo. While in college he played on the 'varsity baseball team, and took a general interest in athletics. He was a communicant of St. Paul's Church in Burlington. He married June 19, 1909, Emma Petzing, of Buffalo, who with one daughter survives him. His death July 9, 1914, was owing to a cancerous growth on the brain, from which he suffered for two years before the end came.

MEETING OF INTERFRAT. COUNCIL.

The Interfraternity Council held a meeting on Friday, November 6th. L. W. Dean, '15, was appointed to act as announcer at the meeting of the freshmen.

The matter of irregularity in rushing was discussed at length. Several cases were brought up and opened to discussion although no definite action was taken against any fraternity.

Rev. C. C. Wilson spoke upon the interpretation of the rules. He pointed out several means whereby they could be made more binding.

SOPHOMORE MILITARY THESIS.

"A Plan for An Adequate National Defense."

Captain Reeves recently assigned to the Sophomores the subject of their thesis which is to be handed in at the mid-year examination period. "A Plan for An Adequate National Defense" is the subject of the thesis, which is appropriate indeed at this time when there is so much question of the strength of our defenses. Captain Reeves will spend one period each week lecturing on the subject for the rest of the half-year and intends to make it a very practical work. His idea is to give each man's originality a chance to show itself; the conditions and requisites of defense are explained and everyone is expected to develop his own plan for our national defense, giving details and full particulars.

FIRST MEETING OF UNIVERSITY RESEARCH CLUB.

The Research Club of the university held its first meeting of the year on Monday evening in Morrill Hall. The club is comprised of faculty members, and membership is elective. Its purpose is scientific research, and its discussions are sometimes withheld from publication.

On Monday night Messrs. Fiske, Johnson, Ross, Snyder and Dr. Towne were elected to membership.

A committee consisting of G. C. Cunningham, Prof. Evan Thomas and Dr. F. K. Jackson was appointed to revise the constitution and report on it at the next meeting.

Dr. F. W. Sears gave an interesting discussion of Poliomyelitis or Infantile Spinal Paralysis, under the following headings: history, epidemiology and etiology, classification of different varieties, symptoms, diagnosis and prognosis, the importance of long continued treatment by exercise, massage and galvanic electricity.

F. S. Page gave an interesting scientific report of the presence of Mycorrhiza on the roots of the white pine.

A lively discussion followed each of the papers, which showed the lively interest of the club in the proceedings. The members then adjourned for refreshments which had been prepared by the Domestic Science department and a social hour was enjoyed.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS.

(1) College men who earn a large part or all of their college expenses will doubtless be interested again this year in the free scholarships offered under the direction of Mr. H. W. Frey to self-supporting students. For the past six years over 1200 students have won cash scholarships worth $100 to $1000 apiece.

Any self-supporting student can secure full particulars without obligation by dropping a postcard at once for "The Adventures of T. Courtney Perkins" to The Review of Reviews Scholarship Fund, 30 Irving Place, New York City.

(2) Information concerning the "Current Opinion" scholarship fund may be obtained by addressing 134-140 West 29th St., New York City.

MISS BROWNELL

ADDRESSES Y. W. C. A.

Association Begins Work in the Neighborhood House.

On Friday afternoon, Nov. 6th, Miss Mabel E. Brownell addressed the Young Woman's Christian Association on "The Work at the Neighborhood House." Miss Brownell is guardian of a camp fire girls' group and is intimately in touch with the work at the Neighborhood House. She spoke with enthusiasm of the opportunities for service there and of the good results which have already been accomplished. "There is," Miss Brownell said, "special need of help which college girls can offer in the way of leadership in gymnastic training, in singing and in story-telling. The work is difficult and trying but the joy of having done some worth-while work for others is a satisfactory reward."

Miss Frances Tenney, '17, rendered a vocal solo. Miss Nutting, '15, had the meeting in charge. At the close of the meeting a number of girls signified their desire to take up work at the Neighborhood House.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Weekly meetings have reverted to the regular Tuesday night schedule. A good series of practical talks will be given the rest of this semester. The time is from 7 o'clock until 8--no longer. This week's meeting was given over to Northfield Conference reports by the Vermont delegates.

The membership campaign this week has been very successful although the exact number of new members cannot be determined as the paper goes to press. The mere fact that campaign week has come to a close does not mean that enrollment has stopped.

More men are wanted as teachers for classes of foreigners, gymnasium classes for boys, Sunday school classes at the orphanage and boys' Bible classes.

To-morrow, Sunday, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Mark R. Shaw of the National Intercollegiate Prohibition Association will speak. Time, 4 o'clock. He will also conduct the chapel service on Monday morning, and will meet individuals at any time for discussion of the question.

ROUSING REUNION OF VERMONT GRADS.

N. Y. ALUMNI ON THE JOB

Talent Flows Freely—The Oldest Grad.—U. V. M. Mascot—Capt. Reeves Guest of Evening.

The largest gathering of Vermont Alumni ever held outside of Burlington took place on Thursday evening, Nov. 12, at the Chemists' Club on 42nd street, where 148 members of the New York Alumni Association were assembled. The guest of the evening was Capt. Ira L. Reeves. During the meeting a telegram was received from President Benton, who was in Washington at the time, expressing regrets at his inability to be present. Of the board of trustees there were present the Hon. Elias Lyman, '70, the Hon. Darwin P. Kingsley, '81, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, and Prof. James R. Wheeler, '80, of Columbia University, John J. Allen, '62, the Rev. H. C. Farrar, '62, Robert M. Catlin, '73, Charles MacChesney, '83, Dr. Samuel Lloyd, '84, Sereno S. Pratt, ex-'78, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, and many other prominent alumni were also present. The success of the meeting was due largely to the efforts of A. B. Gilbert, Henry B. Oatley and Leon R. Whitcomb, respectively the vice-president, the president and the secretary of the New York Association.

President Oatley opened the exercises with a health to "Old Vermont," which was drunk in Montpelier cider, furnished by "Pat" Corry, '01, cider that was neither too old or too young but precisely the "golden mean." The meeting was then turned over to Dr. "Dan" L. Cady, '86, who took charge of the rest of the program. He first introduced the guest of the evening, Capt. Reeves, to whom he paid tribute in this lyrical ebullition:

He has neither the hiccoughs nor heaves;

He has neither paral'sis nor peeves;

This man we admire,

This man we desire

El Capitan Ira L. Reeves.

Not at all phased by this introduction Capt. Reeves proceeded to give an interesting account of military matters at Vermont, and to explain how it is that Vermont's military standing has risen from the last part of the third group to the first part of the first group in the short space of two years. Capt. Reeves was encored and received a very warm welcome.

OLD RIVALS MEET TO-DAY.

Middlebury Wins 1 Out of 9 Games Since 1900.

Two games will be played on Centennial Field this afternoon—varsity vs. Middlebury and the annual interclass game. Three bands will be on hand—the Middlebury band, 2nd cavalry and Vermont. The visitors will invade Burlington full force and while Vermont seems to have the advantage in every respect a stiff fight may be expected. Middlebury outplayed Norwich 7-0 last week, but her fumbles were costly. Horsford, Capt. Jones and Cowles featured. This week the team has been excused from classes for practice periods. Probable line-up: Jones, (capt.), l. e.; Parker, l. t.; Fish, l. g.; Lang, c.; Horsford, r. g.; Reynolds, r. t.; Cowles, r. e.; Kron, q. b.; Braham, l. h. b.; Keefe, f. b.; Lynch, r. h. b. In the 9 games since 1900 Middlebury has won one—'00, V. 21—M. 0, V. 31—M. 6; '01, V. 20—M. 0, V. 0—M. 12; '05, V. 10—M. 0, V. 11—M. 0; '06, V. 12—M. 0; V. 11—M. 0; '13, V. 10—M. 7. Vermont will use a system of numbered players for the first time in to-day's game.

In the interclass game the 1917 men seem the stronger. They have won two games and lost none, also showing up better than 1918 in the 2nd cavalry game. 1918 has played three games, winning one, tying one and losing one. If two or three of the 'varsity men are released, however, it will materially strengthen their chances.

"REPRESENTATIVE ENGLISH DRAMAS"

Edited by Prof. Frederick Tupper of Vermont and Prof. James Tupper of Lafayette.

The Oxford University Press (American branch) has just issued a collection of "Representative English Dramas," edited by Professor Frederick Tupper of this university and Professor James W. Tupper of Lafayette College. The book, which is designed for students rather than for scholars or specialists, presents in a single volume representative plays of the century and more between the Restoration of the Stuarts and the American Revolution. In the words of the preface, "the introductions to the dozen dramas and the notes and bibliographies at the end of the book contain only such information as the editors deem necessary for an understanding of the circumstances of this literary output, only such interpretative comment as they consider stimulating to the reader's own critical sense."

VT. DOES NOT LIKE FORDHAM'S ATTITUDE COURTEOUS-CONDESCENDING

N. Y. Eleven Scored First, Referee Declaring No Goal—3 Minutes Later Vizner Carried Ball 65 Yds. on Kick-off and Scored on the Next Play—Frank Kicked Goal.

After numerous discussions pro and con throughout the New York papers, in which both colleges have received more or less publicity, and after a great deal of superfluous explanations, everybody now seems to be convinced that Vermont won from Fordham on the latter's field last Saturday, by the close score, 7 to 6. The difficulty arose over the decision as to whether Captain Wymard of the Fordham team kicked the goal after the maroon's single touchdown. Now that everything has quieted down, Fordham freely concedes that the game belongs to Vermont, but, while the green and gold appreciates this, it does not like the condescending spirit with which the concession is made. For instance, the following are some of the head-lines which appeared in the New York papers: "Fordham Gives Doubtful Game to Vermont Eleven," "Fordham Beaten by Own Decision," "Fordham Gives Game to Vermont." Also, on Tuesday, seven New York papers printed articles which, from their similarity, were evidently from officials at Fordham. The following from the New York Tribune is an example: "There was much discussion yesterday on the Fordham campus in regard to the Fordham-Vermont game on Saturday. In order to find out what was the exact reason of the misunderstanding over Wymard's goal from touchdown the Fordham Athletic Association held a special meeting yesterday and went over every phase of the question thoroughly. After an interview with the officials of the game, it was found that a misunderstanding had arisen over right of jurisdiction of the officials.

"One of the officials ruled 'no goal,' while the other said 'goal.'"

"The Fordham undergraduates were unanimous in their decision to show every possible courtesy to the visiting Vermont eleven, and out of regard for the splendid exhibition of football, decided that the Vermont team should not suffer from the fact that the officials disagreed, and voted the score 7 to 6 in favor of the New England eleven.

"They requested the newspapers and Associated Press to place it according-

WASHINGTON ALUMNI SMOKER.

Pres. Benton Guest of Evening.

The Washington Alumni Association held a very successful smoker on the evening of Nov. 10th at the University Club, Washington, D. C. Twenty-two alumni were present and a spirit of good fellowship was evident. President Benton, the principal speaker of the evening, was introduced by Wendall M. Reed, '86, the president of the association. The other speakers were E. L. Ingalls, '96, and Thomas Bradlee, both of the faculty.

STRONG THEATRE MANAGEMENT GETS IN BAD

Clubs, Guns and "Blackjacks" Fail to Daunt College Larkers Who Wink at Opposition and Finally Withdraw at Request of the Police.

One hundred and fifty strong the college men quickly massed on the night of the Fordham victory, marched down Pearl street, and swung onto Church. Here, stopping at short intervals, they cheered for the coach, the captain and the manager, for Vizner who made the 65-yard run, and for each member of the team.

Then, under perfect control and in perfect order, they started the traditional round of the theatres, first entering the lobby of the Strong where they paused and gave the "Old Vermont." Their next move was to enter the inner doors and march down the aisles to cheer again—only they didn't. Manager Whalen, who runs Burlington's biggest but at present far from most popular theatre, suddenly appeared on the scene, opposing the advance with three or four rough looking retainers brandishing fists and clubs. Fortunately this unexpected opposition, considered altogether uncalled for, did not result in demolition of property. A few blows were exchanged and a little blood flowed, but for the most part the students still held themselves well in hand.

But their anger rose a little higher when the doors were suddenly thrown back and a tousled haired, ignorant looking fellow appeared before them with advanced rifle. This man afterward claimed to be a special house officer but produced no badge. It was significant, moreover, that the rifle disappeared on the appearance of the police. His irresponsible bravado attitude was not conducive to the safety of the crowd.

The first to arrive was Officer Brodie. Under his protection Manager Whalen attempted to make a

Next came a stunt in which the oldest living "grad." appeared. His coming was heralded by loud knockings and fearful shrieks of "I want to get in!" Whereupon the toastmaster said to Fred B. Wright: "You are the spryest thing about here. Go and see why that 'whangdoodle' mourneth. So Wright went behind the "arras" and wheeled in the old gentleman, who, though too feeble to walk, was still able to gesticulate with great effect and to speak in the strongest of phonograph voices. The old man was faced around toward the crowd and Wright kindly sat down beside him and carried on the conversation for the edification of the assembled multitude. The first query propounded was in regard to his class, whereat the old gentleman brought down the house by declaring that he was in a class by himself. He went on to say that Ethan and Ira Allen were both in college with him and that he remembered them well. "Ira," said he, "was a quiet sort of a chap and a good student, but Ethan was too much inclined to leave town on Saturday night for Bristol, in search of pyroligneous spirit or otherwise (m) Ethyl. On one occasion when he returned from Bristol stone blind, he was censured by the faculty and suspended for two weeks." The old gentleman was able to keep the attention of the boys strictly focused for at least fifteen minutes. He received a vote of thanks and three rousing cheers, given under the leadership of "Tom" Mulcare, who was especially imported from North Adams, Mass., for the occasion. There was at first some doubt as to the old fellow's Christian name, but a vote finally decided that it must be "Seth."

Prof. James R. Wheeler was next introduced as a teacher "connected with a school which Vermont recognizes as being in Class A, to wit, Columbia University. Not satisfied with this hyper-complimentary prelude Dr. Cady favored him with the following limerick: He's a human nature revealer; He's an elegant looker and spieler; He's a Columbia sheik, He's a Green Mountain Greek, He's "Jim" and "Professor" and "Wheeler."

The undaunted Professor talked notwithstanding. He especially thanked the New York boys for giving him their votes for trustee last spring, and in closing made some wise remarks on the Vermont Educational Commission and the Carnegie Foundation. Next came Elias Lyman, who also commented in his kindly and common sense fashion upon educational conditions in Vermont and closed by delivering a message of regrets and good will from Prof. Merrill. At the end of his remarks a vote of remembrance for Prof. Merrill was unanimously carried and Secretary Leon B. Whitcomb was appointed a special committee of one to convey this message to Prof. Merrill.

Next a considerable amount of time was devoted to considering the question of a mascot. "Pat" Corry addressed the meeting and said in all seriousness that in his opinion many of the athletic reverses of Vermont were due to the lack of a mascot. "Princeton," said he, "has her tiger, Yale, her bull dog, Wisconsin, her eagle, and many other great colleges have each their special animal. Now I believe that if some animal native to Vermont should be selected and given proper athletic training by the physical director and the coach, Vermont would soon strike thirteen on every diamond and gridiron where she played." A motion providing for a mascot was promptly seconded and unanimously carried. Next came vehement speeches in favor of different herbivora and carnivora. H. N. Drury, in English unequalled since Milton's time, proceeded by the method of analysis to seek out the fourfooted "critter" best suited to the needs of the university, and finally proposed the woodchuck. Then former President Robbins grew eloquent for the caff (not calf). Swift upon his heels came W. J. Dodge with the raccoon which he deemed especially appropriate because of its bi-colored tail, the rings of which might be dyed green and gold. M. A. Howe, the Bronx Park zoological expert, proposed the panther because of its multiplicity of names, viz.: cougar, puma, mountain lion, jaguar, catamount, etc., etc. Two million trout eggs were proposed by "Syd" Weston for reasons best known to himself. Another speaker stood sponsor for the horse as being an animal of great ambition and of proved worth to college students. T. R. Powell closed the discussion by giving the merits of an animal while he challenged as having a fine spirit (not attar of rose, however) but the name of which he did not mention. The voice with which he closed would surely win him another prize if submitted to Life. Dr. Cady finally appointed a committee consisting of President Oatley and the presidents for the next two years, to decide the matter with full power to send for witnesses, papers and books.

The last speaker of the evening was Dr. Samuel Lloyd, a former president of the association. Like Dr. Holmes, Sir Thomas Browne and other eminent physicians Dr. Lloyd has fine literary taste and he entertained the company with an original poem, pronounced by the toastmaster to be the finest literary production ever given before a Vermont smoker. The leader of the choir was F. F. Lincoln and both music and cheering were of the best quality and quantity. In closing President Oatley urged the boys to be present at the Vermont-Fordham game. Then, to the strains of Champlain this record alumni meeting broke up and the diners, every man of them promising to attend the annual banquet in February, passed out of the Chemists' Club into 42nd street.

Freshman Meeting.

The Freshmen met on Tuesday, during chapel hour, and made plans for Proe Night. The election of a manager for basketball was taken up, but the vote was tied, and a new vote will be called for later.

speech, but again misjudged his crowd as a water front mob and was jeered down. The men were getting uneasy and reluctant to leave. A patrol of officers was summoned and a respectful way was made for them through the crowd. They apparently saw no particular grounds for putting out the students as all they were demanding from the manager was an apology for provoking a fight that had resulted in the clubbing of a senior. Their hesitancy caused Manager Whalen's wrath to be directed against them in an odious comparison with what a similar number of New York policemen would do. Again he was jeered down by the crowd. Finally under the requests of the police and the leaders the students withdrew molesting nothing, one of the police remarking, "We'd stand a big show, wouldn't we, if these fellows got started."

At the Majestic theatre the men were readily admitted, filed in with hats off, waited until the proper time, gave their cheers and filed out. Popular opinion on the hill is strong for the Majestic which has always been popular with the students; the attitude of the Strong, now more unpopular than ever, is looked on as contemptible.

WEEKLY MEETING OF DEBATING CLUB.

New Members Admitted.

The question for debate at the Debating Club last Monday evening was of local interest. Resolved, That the Basis of Representation in the Lower House of the General Assembly of Vermont Should be Changed from Town to District Representation According to Population. The affirmative was upheld by J. V. Piper and H. E. Crane. The negative by L. W. Dean and M. H. Davis. The decision was awarded the negative.

After the debate Mr. Shaw of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Society spoke, urging the members to enter a delegate in the Intercollegiate Prohibition oratorical contest which is the largest intercollegiate system in the country, nearly doubling the Peace system numerically.

Seven new members were admitted to the association: C. R. Carlton, '16; R. C. Winston, '17; H. Wong, '17; G. E. Davies, '17; L. A. Woodward, '18; P. R. Johnson, '18; and C. D. Pierce, '18.

The above question will be debated at the senior debate, 10:30 next Tuesday morning.

LOCAL ALUMNAE MEET.

The first meeting of the local U. V. M. Alumnae Association for the current year was held at the home of Miss E. Mabel Brownell, '01, on South Willard street, on Tuesday evening, November 17. Owing to the bad weather there was only a moderate attendance. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Louis J. Paris. Prof.

Wellington E. Aiken spoke on "The Poetry of Alfred Noyes," and later refreshments were served.

ARIEL BOARD HOLDS FIRST MEETING.

Plans Well in Hand—Junior Week Section an Innovation—Book to be Out Last Week of College.

The Ariel Board held its first meeting on Tuesday. General plans were discussed, and some of the details taken up. Editor-in-Chief Ransom has the work well under way and there is no reason for having to rush everything at the last moment. Several new features will be added to the book this year, and it will, undoubtedly, keep up the high standard already set. The Junior Week section for next spring will be one of the additions to the book, and should be a feature, as it gives 1916 an opportunity to have the account of its own Junior Week in its own Ariel. The book will probably be out during the last week of college.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB MEETING.

Speakers Discuss Future of Interfraternity Council.

On Monday evening, November 16, the St. Paul's Club met at the Sigma Phi house. After the transaction of routine business, the evening's discussion, "The Future of the Interfraternity Council," was opened. The speakers were Howe, '14; Sturgis, '15; Rev. Dr. Bliss, '89; Rev. Mr. Wilson, '07; Baker, '15; Roberts, '16; Sawyer, '12, and Soper, '15. At the close of the discussion Mr. Shaw of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association was introduced and spoke on the liquor traffic. He also invited Vermont to join the association and to send a delegate to the national convention at Topeka, Kans. in December. After singing a few college songs the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will take place at the Kappa Sigma house, December 16. All are cordially invited to attend.

PROF. GIFFORD ADDRESSES TUESDAY NIGHT MEETING.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, Professor Gifford gave an address on "Religion and Culture." The main thought of the address was the intermingling of religion with all the departments of normal life. Nearly every form of culture has its beginning closely linked with religion. When, however, it has become independent in its own strength, then separation from religion has occurred and an entirely different conception has often taken possession of it.

There are three principles prevalent in religion. They are: (1) Love for our fellowmen, (2) Loyalty toward Society, and (3) Reverence for the Ideal. These three principles are also the basis of true culture, thus the two are closely united in their essentials.

Tea was served Thursday afternoon of this week at Mrs. H. F. Perkins' for the benefit of the Red Cross girls.

CHANGES IN Y. M. C. A. CABINET.

B. R. Buchanan, '16, is now office secretary, taking the place of R. A. Healy, '15, resigned. D. S. Jones, '17, has been appointed chairman of the Industrial Service Committee. J. V. Piper, '16, who was formerly chairman of this committee and also of the Missionary Committee, remains chairman of the latter.

E. F. Crane, '16, has been appointed chairman of the Intercollegiate Committee, taking the place of H. A. Mayforth, '15, resigned.

A new Bible class has been formed at the College Street Church under the leadership of Captain Reeves. Information may be obtained from R. W. Daniels, '15; R. N. Pease, '16; or A. W. Rutter, '17.

Sophomore Class Meetings.

At the chapel hour last Wednesday, a meeting of the sophomore class was held in Williams Science hall. Finances and other class matters were discussed. Another meeting was held Friday morning to make plans for underclass night.

The Cynic—An Alumnae Paper.

Last week there was an editorial published presenting the CYNIC as an alumni paper. It is one and we want to make it a better one. We print all the alumni news that we can trace and want more. It being a weekly paper we can publish a substantial column each week, particularly through the winter months, if we can but get it. An alumni editor and assistant are now making this their particular work. But we also want to build up another department of the paper—an alumnae department. Until two weeks ago we do not recall having ever seen a report of an alumnae reunion in the paper. We were very glad to get one from the N. Y. Alumnae Association and gave it front page space. We try to give space in proportion to importance, and to tell the truth the activities of the girls of the university are showing a noticeable advance in print. We want alumnae notes, reports of alumnae gatherings and—alumnae subscriptions.

A Man's Work.

Like tennis, debating and one or two other things, Y. M. C. A. activities are beginning to demand so much space in the news columns of the CYNIC that they also demand editorial comment. We make free to say that the increased interest in Y. M. C. A. matters is one of the most encouraging signs of a Vermont in touch with the bigger and nobler phases of life that we have yet seen. This is an age of awakening. The world is recognizing and demanding moral standards of private and public life. Men are no longer afraid to confess that they are idealists. When John R. Mott refused the ambassadorship to China that he might continue his international work among the students of the world the spirit of the times applauded. Mighty forces are at work. The hand of the world is grasping higher and higher.

Peace, the brotherhood of nations, is no longer considered a dream of the idle. Men of prominence, powerful minds, are working for its fruition. The white standards of Christianity are carrying civilization and progress to all the nations of the earth. Behind them are marching statesmen, captains of industry, the man of science. Witness the great layman's movement that is sweeping over our country. Who are offering the prizes and awards to-day? The humanitarians. Who are receiving them? The men who do the most for society. The whole world is struggling upward; movements of vast importance are afoot. Keen, farsighted college men are linking themselves to them, they are scanning the future. The Y. M. C. A. is their greatest medium. They are not afraid to connect themselves with it; they have been quick to realize its possibilities, and are pushing it into every phase of life that stands for community uplift. Thousands of dollars are annually expended by the large college associations, their work calls for the prominent and able college men, and these men are readily responding. They are the best men of our American colleges, big minded men, the men that the nation will look to in the future. They are accepting the opportunities that their colleges are offering them. There are positions waiting in the Vermont association to-day that would prove a revelation and wonderment to nintenths the student body. If there is a man in college to whom the big things of life appeal he had best call at the doors of the Y. M. C. A. and ask for the work it can give him.

Vermont Wants the Final Games.

Back we come to the inevitable subject of football. Before another issue of the CYNIC goes to press Vermont will have played her two final games. The college wants them both, and if it gets them both it will say that the season was at least a decided improvement, and that, profiting by our mistakes in scheduling big games, we should have a winning team under Coach Turner next year. But we need both these games. We need to finish strong. We have no reason to be confident of an easy victory over Middlebury. Over confidence may prove our undoing. We were too confident last year and were nearly beaten. "Fight" is the word, fight from the pipe of the whistle, fight with no let up, batter them off their feet. We did not see New Hampshire State ripped up as we expected. Two of the touchdowns were on flukes. To-day we want to see the team get the jump and play football. And then, massing all the strength that it has left, we want it to end the season well, and cap the climax by winning from Holy Cross on Thanksgiving day. But nothing would so inspire us as to see each man plough things up to-day.

The Building-up System.

What Vermont needs is a building-up system of athletics. Coach Turner and Coach Freedman both seem to have adopted this as their policy, and with it are winning the confidence of the student body. There is perhaps unusually good material at Vermont, but much of it is undeveloped as Vermont is not an athletic state and comparatively few of the men come from the athletic prep. schools outside. The plan for Vermont is to take what she has and build it up. We predict that football and tennis are soon going to see the result of the system, but how about baseball and track? These have no system, they are run on a haphazard basis. It works out fairly well in the case of baseball because we have a set of first class players. That is all we do have, however. As for several infield or outfield subs, who ever heard of such a thing at Vermont? A player makes his position the first game and stays in it for the season. He is never taken out when playing poorly, he is never taken out in a minor game and a sub sent in. There are no subs; they soon get discouraged and quit. There is no second team to give the first team a rub. Why should there be? All the favors are shown the first string men. In track just as in tennis some system ought to be devised to get men into the sport, to keep them there and develop them as track men. In tennis and track Vermont ought to shine. But some one must figure out the system. Men who think they have no ability should be made to prove that they haven't. Then, too, there is some criticism due the students here at Vermont in their attitude toward athletics. Some go out the beginning of the season and if they don't make the team they quit. It's rotten spirit, but it's the spirit that is often shown. Sooner or later their chance would come. There are other men who have ability, but don't go out at all; others who make their letter one year and refuse to go out the next year; others who would go out for their class teams but wouldn't go out for the 'varsity. We all know the men. What we would like to see is such a spirit manifest that they would feel obliged to go out. The other thing we would like to see just at present is a building-up system in track.

CYNIC COMMUNICATION.

Concentration.

If the present status of the great prohibition reform suggests anything it is the pressing need of concentration upon the part of various organizations in the nation-wide movement. The other and many lines of temperance and prohibition effort have certainly led up to this very important one. And how to cling tenaciously to old theories and forms will only occasion delay when great and rapid strides are demanded. The Prohibition Party, the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U. and the numerous social and church temperance societies can well take fresh courage in seeing the culmination of long continued plan and effort in the nation-wide agitation for prohibition. To be sure some of the workers have had this movement always in mind—they have not swerved from it but there has not been a day when there was such an impetus toward a united concentration as there is just now. And we believe this phase of the subject marks the beginning of the end to the greatest reform of the century. The conviction obtains that there have been theorizing and organizing long enough. Let outright and downright work now be in evidence. The end to be accomplished is of vastly greater moment than the prolongation of the life of any particular organization. Let societies and organizations perish but let the end toward which they have contributed be their enduring monument. If need be they can well lose their identity in the unity and concentration now becoming universally apparent.

SOPHOMORE TEAM STILL UNDEFEATED

Straight Football Piles Up 24-6 Score Against Spaulding—Tomassi of Spaulding Makes 80-Yard Run for Touchdown.

Last Saturday the Sophomore team defeated the strong Spaulding High School team in football at Barre by a score of 24-6. The Sophomores had easily the superior team ploughing through their opponents' line at will. The whole of '17's backfield played a brilliant game, Ames and McLeod doing especially noticeable work. The line held at all times and worked well in conjunction with the backfield, breaking through several times and tackling for a loss.

Vermont's four touchdowns were all gained by straight football. The forward pass was worked very successfully twice, De Cicco getting away with the ball for good gains after receiving it. Spaulding's only touchdown was gained in the first minute of play, Tomassi receiving the ball on the kick-off and running through the entire team, 80 yards, for a touchdown. This was the most spectacular play of the game and proved to be Spaulding's only chance to score, the ball not being within 40 yards of the Sophomore's goal at any other time.

The Sophs got their first touchdown in the first quarter on straight football, line plunges and end runs. The second quarter netted them two more, one the result of a Spaulding pass intercepted by Stillwell. In the third quarter, after forcing their opponents to kick, '17 carried the ball across for the fourth touchdown of the game. The ball was on Spaulding's 2-yard mark in the last minute of play where Vermont fumbled, the only fumble of the game.

The game was marked by clean, though hard playing, no penalties being inflicted. Seventeen men took the trip including Coach Lawlor. The lineup follows:

Sophomores: St. Cyr, l. e.; R. Powers, l. e.; Hitchcock, l. t.; Greenwood, l. g.; Metcalf, c.; Blodgett, r. g.; Stanley, r. g.; Merrill, r. t.; Foote, r. e.; Stillwell, q. b.; Saunders, q. b.; McLeod, l. h. b.; Connor, r. h. b.; De Cicco, r. l. b.; Ames, f. b. Spaulding High: J. Tomassi, r. e.; Alexander, r. t.; Cole, r. g.; Kingston, c.; Wallstrom, l. g.; Bisbee, l. g.; Tobin, l. g.; Eager, l. t.; T. Tomassi, l. e.; Parker, l. e.; Sector, q. b.; Smith, r. h. b.; Gordon, l. h. b.; Levin, f. b.

Referee, Barber. Umpire, Lawlor. Head linesman, Scampini. Time, three twelve minute periods and one five minute period.

COMMONS CLUB MEETING.

At the C. C. meeting Friday evening, November 13, several committees were elected and chairmen of several others appointed. Woodward was elected to the Board of Seven from the freshman class, and a resolution was passed that the club room should be neutral ground in the class scraps.

The editors have been guided in their choice of plays by the consensus of critical and popular opinion. These are the tragedies and comedies selected: Dryden's "The Conquest of Granada" and "All for Love"; Otway's "Venice Preserved"; Congreve's "The Way of the World"; Farquhar's "The Beaux' Stratagem"; Addison's "Cato"; Steele's "The Conscious Lovers"; Gray's "The Beggar's Opera"; Fielding's "Tom Thumb"; Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," and Sheridan's "The Rivals" and "The School for Scandal." The text of each play has been derived from a careful comparison of the earliest quartos with the latest and most scholarly editions.

The book is already being used by a class of one hundred and twenty at Smith College. Copies will be found in the Billings and Fletcher libraries.

MISSIONARY TALK ON ZULULAND BY MISS TYLER.

On Friday afternoon, Nov. 13, Miss Tyler gave to the members of the Young Women's Christian Association a very interesting talk concerning the Zulus of Africa, their life, customs and the work of the Missionaries among them. She spoke for a short length of time about the effect of the war upon the people of South Africa, and the various ways by which they are sending aid to the war zone. Miss Tyler, the daughter of a missionary, was born and spent her early girlhood among the Zulus, and consequently she speaks largely from personal experiences. That she had an appreciative audience was shown by the unusually large number present.

Miss Fullington, '15, was in charge of the meeting.

17 HOURS TO BE ARTS AND SCIENCE LIMIT.

By a ruling of the faculty of Arts and Sciences no student after this year is to enroll for more than 17 hours in the Arts and Science courses unless he be a chemist, in which case the hours are prescribed, or obtains special grant from the faculty. This ruling goes into effect at the beginning of the next college year.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN ELECTS.

At the regular meeting held Wednesday evening in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, the following officers for the year were elected: President, F. L. Grahls, '16; vice-president, Edith Gates, '15; treasurer, R. A. Healey, '15; secretary, Helen Benten, '15. The members of the executive board are G. M. Spring, '16 as chairman, Ethel Jackson, '15, and P. L. Ranson, '16.

The Band.

This year's band under Director Bosworth is gaining unusual prestige. During the past week rehearsals have been held in conjunction with the 2nd cavalry band. All preparations have been made for to-day's game and are being made for the coming tournament.

You Smoke a "Better" Tobacco —Why Not Smoke The Best?

THE tobacco you now smoke you consider "better tobacco than you ever smoked before." Naturally, you kept trying until you found a "better" one.

But it stands to reason that since there is a difference in tobaccos, you may be missing still greater pleasure in a still better smoke—in the BEST smoke, in fact.

Tuxedo is the best smoke because no better tobacco leaf grows.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is treated by the famous original "Tuxedo Process" for removing the sting and bite of the natural vegetable oils.

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have sprung up.

No other tobacco can give the unique pleasure of Tuxedo because no other maker has yet been able to equal the Tuxedo quality.

VERMONT DOES NOT LIKE FORDHAM'S ATTITUDE.

ly. It seems that Vermont followed the decision of the referee, while Fordham, being nearer the umpire, saw him declare the goal valid, and therefore held it as such.

"The decision was a matter of inches and Fordham men preferred to suffer defeat rather than have a visiting eleven feel aggrieved on the maroon grounds through the difference of opinion of the officials."

The following is a copy of the telegram received by Dr. C. H. Beecher, chairman of the university athletic committee, from Father Mullaly of Fordham: "Investigations. Vermont won. Press notified. Misunderstanding powers of officials. One informed Fordham goal valid, other opposite opinion. Regret exceedingly misunderstanding. Will write.

C. J. MULLALY,
Faculty director athletics."

On Tuesday, Manager Sturgis received a letter from Manager Lannin of the New York team. We quote some of the passages from that letter. "Upon investigation we find that the whole affair was the result of a misunderstanding over the jurisdiction of the officials. Fordham followed the umpire who was standing under the cross bars and who claimed the kick was valid, while Vermont followed the referee who had not signalled a goal. At a meeting this morning the Fordham athletic authorities decided to award Vermont its rights to victory and to so inform the newspapers. Your captain and yourself have heard the opinion of our faculty athletic director who, rather than have Vermont leave Fordham discontented, 'phoned the Associated Press informing them to wire a 7-6 score of the game.

"May I not hope that you will view this matter in the light in which Fordham viewed it and appreciate the fact that we have notified the New York papers and gave the laurels of victory to Vermont, despite the fact that the rules gave us a right to a tie score."

This tone of condescension which pervades all the reports from Fordham is entirely uncalled for. Vermont asks for no favors. She claims this game as her just dues, not as a "courtesy" on the part of Fordham. With the evidence all in favor of the green and gold, we fail to see where the New York team had sufficient grounds upon which to base her claims to report a tie score to the New York papers. The only reason which is given is the disagreement of officials. According to all reports, "Vermont followed the decision of the referee, and Fordham followed the umpire." Now, according to Rule VI, Sec. 6, of the regulation football rules for 1914, "The referee has jurisdiction over all goals from touchdowns." Thus, any opinion, either official or otherwise, which the umpire may have experienced on the subject could have carried no weight whatsoever, and ignorance of this fact is a poor excuse for circulating reports of a tie score.

Furthermore, it was generally understood at the end of the game that Vermont won; in fact, the Fordham manager telephoned to the Vermont team at the hotel that the score would stand as 7-6. The pigskin was also awarded to the green and gold team. Considering these facts, the entire change of attitude of Fordham after the Vermont team left is hard to understand.

The game itself was hard fought from the beginning. Vermont's line was the heavier and she made extensive gains by straight football. Fordham was the first to score, her touchdown coming in the third quarter, and Vermont crossed the goal line less than three minutes afterward, when Vizner pulled off the feature stunt of the game by rushing the kick-off 65 yards, through the whole Fordham team, to the eight-yard mark, going through center for the touchdown a moment later.

Vermont started things with a rush. In six first downs she placed the ball on the ten-yard line, using rapid-fire attack, thrusts through the line, and off tackle plays. After being held for three downs, Malcolm tried for a field goal which went astray. The remainder of the first half was a battle royal, neither team being able to make any effective gains.

It was during the third quarter that the thrills came. Regan broke through the green and gold ranks for 40 yards, bringing the ball to the four-yard line. Then the Vermont team took a brace and held for three downs, only to lose out when Dunn squeezed through on the last attempt.

Then it was the visitors' turn. Vizner received the kick-off and, evading the whole maroon eleven, reached the eight-yard point by covering 65 yards on the start. And it was he who wedged through center on the second down, and crossed the goal line for the touchdown. Frank kicked the goal.

Malcolm tried to repeat Vizner's stunt on the kick-off, but was stopped after a forty-yard run. During the remainder of the game, Vermont was ever dangerous, the ball being in Fordham's territory the greater part of the time, and resting on her twelve yard line when time was called.

It was an unlucky game for Captain Wymard of the maroon team. He not only missed his first goal in two years of play, but he was obliged to leave the game twice on account of injuries. The last time he was unconscious for several minutes after being carried off. Dunn and Rice were the heroes of the day for Fordham, while Vizner, De Marco and Little and Tennien featured for Vermont.

BAND OF 45 PIECES WILL FURNISH MUSIC AT TOURNAMENT.

Refreshments of a Novel Order.

Preparations for the coming military tournament and dance, which is to be held in the gymnasium, probably on December 18, have begun in earnest. The men who have volunteered to participate in the numerous contests and drills are working hard under the leadership of their respective officers, a list of which was published in last week's CYNIC. The originator and moving spirit of this novel event is Capt. Reeves.

A band of forty-five pieces will furnish music for entertainment and dancing, and the selections by the band will furnish variety to the various military ceremonies and contests. The affair will be educational as well as entertaining and will afford those attending an opportunity to learn something of the pleasures as well as duties of military life. Refreshments are to be served in the new annex and regular army fare such as hard tack, baked beans, coffee, etc., will be served supplemented, however, by more toothsome dainties.

INTERESTING FACTS PRESENTED BY MARK R. SHAW.

Annual Liquor Expenditure in U. S. equals 6 Panama Canals—78 Per- cent of World's Leaders Are College Men—College Men Becoming Interested in National Issue.

Mark R. Shaw, travelling secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, addressed a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. room Sunday afternoon. Mr. Shaw said that the liquor problem is the great National Problem of the present day. Between two and four billions of dollars are spent in the United States yearly for intoxicating liquors, and, taking even the lowest estimated figures, a yearly expenditure in this direction would equal six Panama Canals, or a dread-ought every two days. It is the aim of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association to enlist college men in the movement for National Prohibition and the prevention of this immense waste of resources. It is the college men who leads in every department of useful labor. This is shown by the fact that, although only 2% of the population of the nation have a college education, yet 78% of the leading men of the country are college men. It is the college men that the prohibition is trying to reach. And the work is being carried on in a practical, logical manner. The old traditional method of describing the evil of the drunkard is being done away with. Hard facts are the only convincing material and these are being used in convincing the college men. Furthermore, it is specialized workers that are required in this work by means of credit courses in many colleges, and voluntary classes in others, the college men of the country are studying this problem and becoming familiar with every phase of it.

Next December there is to be a big convention of the representatives of colleges of the country at Topeka, Kansas. This is the first thing of the kind ever held in the country, and Mr. Shaw closed with an appeal to the students to see that this college had more or more representatives at that convention. Upward of 1,000 college men will be present.

On Monday, Mr. Shaw spoke for a few moments in chapel, and, in the evening, he addressed the Debating Union and the St. Paul's Club.

This custom of entertaining a selected number of Freshmen each year originated by the class of 1915, and has been followed by 1916 and

How It Seemed to J. S. Wright, '03, Former Cynic Editor.

The following is an extract from a letter by John S. Wright, '03, to his brother, Fred B. Wright, '05, of New York City. Mr. Wright was assistant manager of the Antwerp branch of the Bell Telephone Manufacturing Co., during the siege of Antwerp. He is at present in Paris at the head of the Paris branch of the same firm. When in college he was editor of the CYNIC.

"We are living a sort of hand to mouth existence here. My house seemed too good a target for Zeppelin bombs. It is unprotected on one side and that side 100 feet away from a new wireless station and 300 feet away from a breach in the old fortifications which is protected by a hundred soldiers day and night. Both the breach and the wireless station are heavily mined. Then, too, the house is only about 1,000 feet from the government factory. The latter has been the target for a Zeppelin bomb, which missed its mark as did all the bombs, and landed in the garden outside of my window. I felt that was a little too close for comfort. I am not sure whether or not I told you of the first Zeppelin bomb that hit Antwerp. It was about one a. m. The government factory was all alight as usual for they had been working a day and night shift for some time. I remember thinking that they made a much louder noise than usual and then suddenly realized that the additional noise came from an airship's motors.

Suddenly there was a terrific explosion, then guns began to fire, officers to give commands; then other explosions. I jumped out of bed, dressed and in the hall met Bergman exclaiming that the siege of Antwerp had begun. I did not realize until next day that it was a Zeppelin, and that it had made its way past the forts and over the city trying to destroy the government factory, the court house, the national bank, king's palace and a barracks. You have read the result.

The next time it came was just eight days later, and the forts kept it outside—or rather the forts and fortified places in the city; for in the meantime rapid fire guns had been mounted on several high buildings and when the Zeppelin appeared there was a regular rain of shots. We all "beat it" for the cellar, as did everyone else in Antwerp, and stayed there until the firing ceased.

We find lots to do and are happy."

On a postcard later, Mr. Wright wrote the following message:

Bergen, Opzoom, Holland, Oct. 9.

Walked eighteen miles yesterday from burning Antwerp; 75,000 people on the road—refugees like myself. All are being fed and most of them housed by Hollanders, whose hospitality beats anything I have ever seen.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1886. Reported by the Buffalo Express October 23.

At the dinner of the Engineering Society of Buffalo held last night at the University Club, Charles Whiting Baker, editor of the Engineering News, a member of the Palisades Interstate Park commission and vice-president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, gave an address on Engineers and Public Service.

Mr. Baker spoke of the effect which the present war is having on the whole world. There is a unity of mankind today undreamed of a hundred years ago when the Napoleonic wars were only a matter of hearsay to the American pioneer. This physical unity, which has been brought about by the engineer with his steamships, railroads and cables, must yet be matched by the achievement of political unity.

"We see the highest kind of public service in the unselfish sacrifices which are being made in Europe today by the common people," said Mr. Baker. "It has been said that the world has relapsed into barbarism, but as a matter of fact the highest qualities in man's nature are being revealed today. It seems impossible to employ such heroism to the running of a waterworks or laying its pavements and sewers, but the man who devotes his life to the betterment of a great city's population has rendered even a greater service than the man who dies on the battlefield.

"Public utilities in a modern city must be built and operated by competent engineers or the public is going to suffer. More than half a dozen cities have already awakened to the fact that the operation of waterworks, paving the streets and looking after gas and electric lights and sewers does not come within the scope of politics at all, but is purely business, of a kind which only engineers are capable of doing.

"Why not hire an engineer to do it, and fire the whole crowd of aldermen and councilmen and hangers-on and political pensioners that have been getting their living out of us? The people who oppose these reforms are those who have fattened at the taxpayers' expense under the old form of city government."

Mr. Baker predicted radical changes in our public utilities during the next few years. Public sentiment is leaning more and more towards municipal ownership and operation of city utilities. The question arises as to how they should be applied. This, he said, depends entirely upon local conditions. Municipal ownership might work in one city and be most disastrous in another. It will be a very long time, he conceded, before the cities take over all the gas works, electric plants and street railways, and it will be a long time before the majority of them are sufficiently well governed to carry out such a programme.

Mr. Baker recognizes a change for the better in the ideals of city government during the last twenty years which will have great influence towards substituting for the older ideals the new ideal of public service. He concluded by saying that the engineering profession must do its part by supporting the men who are chosen to fill high positions, and that the engineering societies, national and local, must do all in their power to help raise the standards of public service.

1907. Miss Effie P. Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wells, and William M. Duffus, of Madison, Wisconsin, were married October 1st at Burlington, Vermont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. C. Smart, pastor the College Street Church.

Miss Wells is a member of the Class of 1907. Later she took the degree of Master of Arts at U. V. M. For the last two years she has been head of the department of home economics at Middlebury College. Mr. Duffus holds degrees from Leland Stanford, Jr. University and the University of Wisconsin and is connected with the Wisconsin Railway Commission.

1909. Miss Ruth Chapin Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Lyman Childs, of Brattleboro, Vermont, and Orin Burton Hughes, also of Brattleboro, were married October 7th at the home of the bride. They are now residing at 44 Highland Street in Brattleboro.

Mr. Hughes is a member of the Class of 1909. He was on the football team for four years, was a member of the debating team that defeated Bowdoin in 1908, and a member of the Boulder Society. Since his graduation Mr. Hughes has studied and practiced law.

1896. Otis W. Barrett, who has been in Burlington several times recently, has resigned his position as chief horticulturist for the Philippines and sailed for the Canal Zone.

1908. Mr. Walter Clayton Guptil, '08, and Miss Gertrude Tamlyn Laves, were married on October 29th at Red Bank, New Jersey. Mr. Guptil is associated with the Singer Sewing Machine Company and is travelling for the company in Central America.

CUP OFFERED FOR INTERCLASS TENNIS.

Class Numerals May be Awarded.

Fifty students have enrolled for indoor tennis. The classes are divided up proportionately, that is, about 12 from each class.

Plans for an interclass match in singles and doubles are being made and a cup has been offered for the winning class.

The list of drawings have been made up and are posted on the bulletin board. This list will be posted each week. In the near future a list of the 8 leading men will be published each week.

The coach is arranging a system by which the leading men in each class will receive numerals.

SENIOR SMOKER.

Last Sunday evening several of the members of the class of 1915 met at the Sigma Phi place for a smoke and talk. The invitation came from the Sigma Phi seniors. The custom, of class smokers is becoming more popular.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSO.

GIVES RECEPTION.

The Girls' Athletic Association gave a "The Dansant" for the new members last Saturday afternoon in the Howard Hall gymnasium. About fifty girls were received by the president of the association, and the honorary members, Mrs. Stetson, Mrs. Myrick, Miss Terrill and Miss Marshall. The Howard Hall orchestra played the newest dance music and sandwiches, punch and wafers were served between the dances.

PROF. GROAT AT ## COMMONS SMOKER.

Last Saturday night was the fourth of a series of smokers held at Commons Hall. Prof. Groat was the speaker of the evening. He discussed how undergraduates appear to the professors and the puzzle the undergraduates are. During his talk, he illustrated the point he wished to make clear, by many good stories. Several cheers were given and the victory over Fordham was received with great enthusiasm.

CLASSICAL CLUB MEETING.

At the first Classical Club meeting of the year, held last Wednesday evening in the classical rooms, Miss Laura Porter, '16, was elected chairman of the executive committee. The program consisted of readings from Alfred Noyes.

HOLY CROSS GAME.

Vermont's football season closes Thursday next, Thanksgiving Day, when she meets the Holy Cross eleven at Worcester. Out of four games since 1900 U. V. M. has won one, the last, 13-0. Holy Cross this year is rather weak. Vermont's best material will be available, and a second Fordham game may be anticipated. Thanksgiving recess commences Wednesday noon and lasts until Friday noon.

BIG SMOKER PRECEDES MIDDLEBURY GAME

STUDENTS' NIGHT STARTS

Sophs and Frosh Wrestle to a Tie—
Song and Cheer Leaders Elected—
The Strong Boycotted.

With the ground covered with a foot of snow on the morning of Friday, Nov. 20, and snow steadily falling all day, students night seemed a very dubious proposition. At a meeting of the Boulder Society, one o'clock at the Delta Psi Place, it was decided to postpone the outdoor events until a more favorable season. It was decided, however, to hold the freshman-sophomore wrestling matches at the big smoker held in the gym that evening in preparation for Saturday's game with Middlebury.

The matches resulted in a tie, as each class won one match and the points of the third were divided between the two classes, the freshman entrant being found to be eight pounds overweight.

President Mayforth of the senior class was in charge of the smoker, which started about 7:30 o'clock with selections by the University band. The meeting was then called to order. Baker, '15, was elected head cheer leader and Swett, '15, leader of songs for the year. Catain Reeves headed the list of speakers, receiving an enthusiastic welcome.

He said he thought the projected students' night plans would have been found a great improvement over the plans of other years, if the snow had not interfered. He praised the enthusiasm shown at the smoker and trusted that it would be as much in evidence at the morrow's game. He then stated that the military tournament which it was planned to hold December 18 would be postponed until after the holidays. At his request the exhibition in the manual of arms, by the Zouave squad under Captain Steele, followed. This will be one of the features of the tournament. The squad, though it has not been drilling long and is partly composed of freshmen who have never had military training before, showed much proficiency in the drill.

President Mayforth then brought up the matter of boycotting the Strong theatre, in view of recent events and the consistently insolent attitude of the management to college men. The vote on the question was unanimously affirmative. He then stated that a college vaudeville similar to that of last year was under consideration, and

Forward Pass Accountable.

Vermont lost to Holy Cross at Worcester Thanksgiving morning 7-0. The field was slippery, making fast playing difficult. The teams were evenly matched, but the Purple broke away with a forward pass for a 35-yard run and afterward kicked the goal. Frank did the aggressive work for Vermont, Abell and Little, the defensive.

ASSOCIATION OF ALUMNI SECRETARIES

Meetings Held at Columbia and Yale —Vermont Represented by Field Secretary Rich.

The third annual convention of the association held its meetings at the Hall of Journalism, Columbia University, November 19 and 20, and at Yale University on the 21st.

Alumni secretaries and corresponding officers from sixty-five colleges and universities participated in the discussion of a wide range of topics, among which were the following:

(1) What Alumni Associations are doing and might be doing; from the institution's point of view; from the alumni point of view; service supplemented by social activities; the ideal association; how to develop and voice alumni sentiment so that it shall really represent the highest ideals of the alumni for the institution; how to turn alumni sentiment into something worth while in the service of the institution; how our associations may best serve the alumni themselves.

(2) The Class Secretary.—The plan; class secretaries' associations; possibilities of the system and how to finance the work.

(3) The Local Alumni Association.—How to organize and maintain active local associations; lines of work open to such associations; local problems, reunions, local and central.

(4) Sectional Conferences on the following topics: State institutions; how to make alumni influence effective in the development of state universities; larger endowed institutions; the ways in which a university can be of service to its graduates in return for the services the graduates give their alma mater; the best system of general alumni giving to a university; how can the board of trustees be made respective, sympathetic and active? the smaller endowed institutions; efficient alumni organization; the kind of organization best for the college with a graduate list of about one thousand; financing such an organization; to what extent the secretary should be independent of the institution; the prob-

MIDDLEBURY HOLDS VERMONT SCORELESS DEFENSE GAME SUCCEEDS

Vermont Always Hovering Within Striking Distance is Unable to Score and Middlebury Occasionally Fights the Ball Out Into Green and Gold Territory.

For the second time in fourteen years Vermont failed to win from Middlebury College at football Saturday afternoon and the game resulted in a 0-0 tie. Middlebury fighting against a better team played an excellent defensive game and proved to be one of the strongest defense teams which Vermont has met for some time. Her line was heavy and but slightly outplayed. Few successful end runs were pulled off. The Vermont back field was the stronger. Fumbles and penalties were numerous, Vermont suffering most.

The crowd at the game was one of the largest and most enthusiastic seen on the field in several football seasons, despite the fact that they were sitting in the center of a field covered with fifteen inches of snow. Both cheering sections, accompanied by the college bands, deserve mention. The gridiron was in first class condition, many cubic yards of snow having been removed by the students in order to make conditions suitable for players and spectators. The grounds were better policed than usual and the old side line trouble of crowds who shut off the sight of the spectators was entirely eliminated.

The Game—First Quarter.

Malcolm kicked off for Vermont and Middlebury was downed after a fumble on the 22-yard line. After several rushes in which Vermont tackled the visitors for a loss they were forced to kick to the center of the field. Smith next went through the line for a 5-yard gain and it looked as if Vermont would go on for a touchdown. A fumble which might have proved costly had it not been recovered by Pike forced Malcolm to try for a goal from the 35-yard line or loose the ball on downs. A beautiful drop kick missed almost by inches. Middlebury fumbled the ball but it was recovered by Capt. Jones. Middlebury then lost 10 yards and tried a forward pass which was blocked by Pike. She then kicked to the 40-yard line where Jones received the ball and was tackled in his tracks. Vermont secured the ball on a fumble and after short but consistent gains made by Tennien, Smith and Denning the quarter ended. Score 0-0.

SOPHOMORE ELEVEN WINS ANNUAL STRUGGLE

12-0 Class Game Fought Out Before Large Crowd of Spectators—Clean, Hard Contest in Which the Sophomore Backfield Ex- cels.

Touchdowns by Stillwell and Ames won for the Sophs last Saturday over the Frosh in a game that was filled with thrills and excitement from the first kick-off by Merrill until the referee's final whistle at the end of the game. The score was 12-0.

The scoring was done in the 2nd and 4th quarters, after the Soph's had by consistent plugging placed themselves in position to score. Owing to the Middlebury game a record crowd was on hand to see the classes struggle. Supporters of both factions wore their class colors in the shape of the traditional bow and in addition the Freshmen carried canes with small triangular 1918 banners. The 1918 mascot was also much in evidence. Good spirit and enthusiasm was in evidence throughout, although somewhat minimized by interest in the 'varsity game. During the 2nd half the ball was in the Freshman 10-yard zone twice and again in the fourth period the Sophs showed superiority over their opponents, while their own goal was never in danger.

The freshmen were forced to punt three times as against '17's none, Harris and Sunderland doing the kicking. The teams were evenly matched in regard to weight. The Soph's strength was in Ames and McCloud. Both played slashing games and were consistent ground gainers. The sophomores rushed the ball in straight bucking for a total of 152 yards, to the Freshman's 105. Many gains were made on end runs by both teams. Ames at full and Harris at right half

MIDDLEBURY HOLDS VERMONT SCORELESS.

Second Quarter.

Smith lost a yard and after another fumble Vermont lost the ball on downs. Hubbard and Buchanan made gains of 2 yards and 9 yards respectively through the green and gold line. Keefe made it first down. The Vermont line then held the visitors and forced them to punt again to the middle of the field. After a series of plays in which the 'varsity made few gains she kicked to the 4-yard line and Condit returned the ball to the 35-yard line. Vermont was penalized 15 yards for the illegal use of hands and Smith punted, but Middlebury soon fumbled and Vermont recovered. The quarter ended with the ball on the 45-yard line where it was brought by several good gains by Smith and Tennien. Score 0-0.

Third Quarter.

At the beginning of this quarter after Burke had taken the kick-off Vermont was penalized 5 yards for holding. Smith was unable to make gains so punted to the 15-yard line. The green stockings outpunted the blue and white by a large margin and were ahead a good many yards on the exchanges. Condit punted to Vermont's 15-yard line and in the next play, which was a fine forward pass, the 'varsity was penalized 15 yards for illegal use of hands and was forced to punt. Here came one of the features of the game which was the forward pass of Hubbard to Cowles which netted the visitors a 25-yard gain. The quarter ended with the ball on the 50-yard line. Score 0-0.

Fourth Quarter.

Vizner replaced Burke at quarter and Frank replaced Vizner at half. During this quarter Middlebury was penalized 32½ yards for illegal use of hands and was then forced to punt to Vermont's 37-yard line. After gains amounting to 15 yards a fumble gave Middlebury the ball on the 22-yard line. She punted and Vermont slashed the line for consecutive gains and it looked as if she would have a touchdown. Tennien and Little made gains of 15 yards each and Smith and Frank made good gains. Denning was laid out with a dislocated shoulder and Armstrong relieved him. But the tide turned and after a fumble and attempted forward pass the quarter ended with the ball once more in the center of the field. Score 0-0.

FIFTEEN INCHES OF SNOW ON GRIDIRON.

Students Clear the Field in 4 Hours.

With fifteen inches of snow lying on the football field and the Middlebury game but a few hours distant the students went to work. Classes and chapel suffered, but the field was cleared and marked. At eight o'clock the first comers began to arrive. The morning was biting cold and a stiff wind blowing. Toques, leggins and sweaters began to dot the barren waste of whiteness as men settled to their work and more and more began to swell the ranks. Scrapers and double horse teams joined the outfit. Photographers put in an appearance. The sun rose higher and warmer. Coats came off. The work progressed. The close of each class period sent its delegation. More came than left until the whole field was a scene of action. As fast as the snow was flung back sweepers attacked the earth with brooms. The sky became overcast again and the wind swept over the level, catching the snow as it flew from the shovels. There was no cessation. The field of workers began to concentrate. By noon bleachers, field and paths were cleared. For ten yards beyond the goal posts and nearly as far beyond the sidelines the grass showed as though no snow had fallen. The field was marked and in first class condition for the interclass and 'varsity games in the afternoon.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

The 773 Young Men's Christian Associations among students last year enlisted 20,000 in the service of their fellow students as officers and committeemen.

Community service for boys, immigrants, etc., enlisted 7,120 men.

Classes for studying our great social problems attracted 5,145.

Students gave $95,552 to foreign missions.

The Christmas vacation found hundreds of leading students scattered in small bands presenting a virile Christianity to the boys and young men of towns and villages. Result—the moral tone raised, the churches strengthened, and 2,000 boys led into the Christian life.

Prof. Tupper to Address Next Meeting.

At the last Y. M. C. A. meeting Professor Borland gave a straightforward talk to the men present. It is hoped that a large number will be out to hear Professor Tupper next Tuesday evening. At the close of the meeting two letters were read—one from President Schoff of last year's association and one from Mr. Shaw of the Inter-collegiate Prohibition Society, who spoke here last week. A portion of the latter is quoted:

"Just a line to thank you again for your kind hospitality during my stay at the University of Vermont, and to say that I hope the interest is increasing there, and that the boys are planning to send a delegate to Topeka.

We have nearly eighty members at Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, and they plan to make it a hundred or more. It looks like we will reach the hundred mark here at Colby also. Both schools are planning to send delegates to Topeka. The University of Vermont must not fail to be represented!"

The Cynic—A Students' Paper.

And now that we have presented, in previous issues, the CYNIC as an alumni and alumnae paper we would like to present it last as a students' paper. More than anything else its interests are the interests of the undergraduates. It is their paper, run by them and essentially for them. Their interests are its interests; its interests should be their interests. In the first place, it covers the news. Time was when the campus was accustomed to hear the complaint that everything in the CYNIC was old and already known. For two years that complaint has been dead. It covers the news that is known and the news that is unknown. In printing news a college paper should have two aims—to print news for news sake and to print it for college records. This is what the CYNIC aims to do. Last year the editorial section took a decided boost—also the news section. This year we are trying to raise the standard of the news section even higher. We are trying to present write-ups that are write-ups, that tell the truth and are not bluffs, that are interesting and readable even if the subject matter is known. We are trying to raise their style, tone and independence. In fact, we are trying to raise the style, tone and independence of the whole paper. In its news columns and in its editorials we intend to have a directed purpose. We do not intend it to be in the rear but in the van of the student body. We intend it to stand for something among them. And this is what should be expected of a college paper. We are desirous of getting the opinion of the student body on all points of interest. An opinion expressed in black and white is much more effective than an opinion shouted at random. If there is something you don't like, if there is something you want to see improved, tell about it in the CYNIC. We want contributions, contributions on both sides of a subject. When someone registers an opinion that you don't like register a counter opinion, don't growl behind his back. If you don't like an editorial idea, say so. We aren't afraid to print your comment; nothing gets at the truth any quicker than a little discussion. If you do like the idea of an editorial follow it up with suggestions of your own. No one had anything to say about the little affair at "The Strong" a couple of weeks ago. We want you to help us make the CYNIC a college paper, truly representing, and leading in, the interests of Vermont.

We Won't, But Why Not?

The athletic association is in need of funds. Presently a college vaudeville will be put on to help provide them. Everybody will be expected to go, and will want to go if it is anything like last year's. But the Association will still need funds. At the interclass meet this winter in the gymnasium why not stage a dual wrestling meet—say three bouts—between Vermont and Middlebury? At the same time why not run our 'varsity relay team against a relay team from Middlebury? Vermont has never seen an intercollegiate relay race in her own gym. Every man in college would be willing to pay admission and every one would be there. Of course even the suggestion is a sacrilege against "the god of things as they are" and it won't come about, but if it did, the Athletic Association could jingle a few more coppers. If any one has anything to say on the subject why not write the CYNIC? Even a dual gymnastic meet is not inconceivable or a basket ball game.

Smokers.

If the freshman class accomplishes nothing else while in college than the origination of class smokers its life here will scarcely have been in vain. The more it can successfully hold the better it will be for the class and for Vermont. The fact that other classes are adopting the idea proves it to be deserving. A fuller spirit of loyalty, co-operation and understanding is what we all need. One of the greatest contributions of the fraternities to the University is the organized support which they lend. These class smokers, Commons Hall smokers and University smokers are to be fostered. The weekly Saturday night smokers at Commons Hall with songs, cheers and speeches should prove particularly profitable—all should contribute to the welfare of Vermont. And out in the world the alumni are holding them, for the name has carried over, and Vermont men everywhere are getting together at smokers. To work together means to get together, and we must all get together and work together for our Green Mountain college.

State Alumni.

We sometimes wonder why Vermont, as a state, has not a larger University Alumni Association. Outside of the state where numbers are smaller and where we would be less likely to expect them, we find them; within the state where graduates are so numerous and where we would be more likely to expect them, we miss them. What are some of us going to do when we graduate if we settle within the state? We want to be loyal Vermont alumni, and yet we will find no active association to welcome us. Vermont draws many students from the state. It is here that a live association could work with the most efficiency. Local associations should be organized into one large association. Results would probably be forthcoming. There are many graduates within the state. Large and rousing reunions could be held, the state papers would begin to report them, more men could be directed back to the hill each commencement season. Really, the largest and strongest association should be here within the short radius of state limits. Think of the number of alumni within the city of Burlington alone. It is easier to support the University in many ways from its locality than from a distance.

"ARBITRATION" AND "WAR AIR CRAFT" SUBJECTS OF DISCUSSION AT DEBATING CLUB.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Debating Society Monday evening, November 23, a short but interesting program was carried out. Bailey, '15, read a paper on Arbitration which dealt with the most important phases of the subject. The unsoundness and illuiveness of diplomacy was the first point that was touched upon, the author stating these to be the reasons for its failure to promote peace. A brief history of arbitration showed four defects in cases of international peace. They were stated as follows: (1) The judges were inefficient and carelessly chosen. (2) The courts have been but temporary makeshifts. (3) Person and racial bias has seriously intruded. (4) There have been no fixed terms and salaries. There have been many ways suggested by which to keep peace and by this a great diversity of opinions have come to the surface. A few writers were stated to have advocated a confederation of great powers in an armed league to keep peace, but this leads away from the object of arbitration, and the question arises who is to keep the peace in the armed league? It was shown that an armed league of policing nations is not the solution because after an elapse of a great number of years, the agreeing nations would be replaced by one people and the inferior nations would gradually loose all that is distinctly theirs.

An outline of international sociology showed that it was a necessity before suggesting a means for an international court of arbitration. The Hague conferences were discussed. Each nation usually selects two men from the court and the four choose a fifth. If the fifth cannot be agreed upon he is selected by the head of some disinterested nation. Consequently this system is but a mere expediency.

It is realized from conclusions that a permanent court of arbitration for the world is far from near at hand. With the warring condition prevailing in Europe at the present time it seems as though arbitration has done scarcely anything for the purpose for which it was created. But when the world recognizes a rule of reason then nation can meet nation as brother meets brother, but not until the ideal will prevail can there be peace on earth among nations.

The concluding part of the program was a short talk on aircraft for war service, by Mills, '15. The efficiency of air-ships in war service was stated by giving facts concerning the present war in Europe. There were three ways stated in which aircraft has featured in the European war. They are (1), as a means of locating the enemy; (2), as a means of defense; (3), its scouting usefulness. With these results, Mr. Mills stated, there is good evidence that flying machines have come to stay.

A short business meeting followed.

BIG SMOKER PRECEDES MIDDLEBURY GAME.

that any who wished to enter should give their names to Ferrin or Gardyne.

H. A. Mack, '16, speaking for the Key and Serpent Society, announced that a football banquet would be held during the week of December 13, and asked for a large attendance. Tickets will probably be a dollar a plate, football men admitted free.

The singing of several Vermont songs with Swett as leader and Seaver, '16, as accompanist, followed. After which, Baker then made a motion that congratulations be extended to Professor Merrill on his return to the Old Mill. He then made a speech in the interests of Ye Crabbe in which few words were of less than six syllables, but which carried the unmistakable impression that Ye Crabbe is still anxious for contributions and subscriptions. A subscription paper was circulated during the evening with good results.

Dr. Beecher was called on and after telling a few characteristic stories spoke of the work to be done in cleaning Centennial Field of snow, if the game was to come off. He called attention to the presence of Ray Collins, '09, in the crowd. A speech was demanded and Collins told how good it seemed to hear the old cheers and songs again, for this was the first smoker he had attended since leaving college. He remarked that nothing succeeded like success, that there was no playing like the college playing, where a man's heart was in the game, and that the team would play all the harder Saturday for the victory it had won in the preceding game with Fordham.

President Benton received a long ovation. He excused himself for the unusual glory of his raiment on the ground that he had but just come from a dinner-party. He said that if a man plays the game in college with true sportsmanship that this same element will make his life worth while in his later years. He cited the cases of Collins and Gardner as bringing great credit to Vermont. He urged those present to conduct themselves at Saturday's game in a way to bring credit to the college in the eyes of the visiting college. He also laid emphasis on the splendid way in which Vermont is holding her own in the number of her students, while colleges throughout the country have been falling off in this respect.

Manager Sturges now issued four calls for volunteers to clear off the field, grandstand and paths, beginning at 8 o'clock on the following morning. It would be a good chance for Vermont men to prove themselves bigger than weather. All present pledged themselves to come at either one hour or another in the morning.

Coach Turner, when called on, said that the team was grateful for the warmer support of the student body. He said that no team in our class could have trimmed us the previous Saturday. Captain Flynn promised that the team would do its part in the game if the students did theirs in getting the field in a condition fit for the game to be played on. Each member of the team was called on for his opinion. Burke's seemed the best summing-up of the team's intention: "We're going to fight."

Dr. Stone made a brief speech which brought forth howls of joy. He was the victim of his own unwitting pun when he remarked that Middlebury had left no stone unturned in its preparations for victory in the game. Selections were then given by a quartette made up of the Swett brothers, Dow, '15, and Short, '15.

During the program a collection was taken up to secure the services of the 2nd Cavalry band at the game—? A barrel of apples provided by the Key and Serpent Society also added zest to the occasion.

The wrestling watches took up the rest of the evening until 11 o'clock. The matches were catch-as-catch-can with only the strangle hold barred. Dr. Stone was referee. In the middle-weight class Avery, '17, took two straight falls out of Walker, '18. In the light weight class Demeritt, '18, and Hoyt, '17, were slow in getting into action, and Hoyt was so unmistakably outweighed that a protest went up. Demeritt won he first fall, but on being weighed was found to be eight pounds overweight. The Boulder Society settled the dispute by dividing the points between the two classes. In the heavyweight class, Stanley, '18, won from Hayden, '17, in two straight falls. Hayden put up a game fight throughout, and it was only after a protracted time in both bouts that his shoulders touched the mat.

The classes were tied in the matches, each being credited with seven and one-half points, five for each match won and two and one-half for the light-weight match.

OLD MILL SPIRIT WINS AGAIN.

Braves Lick the Giants.

On Thursday, November 19, the Old Mill "Braves" again played the Converse Hall "Giants" to a standstill. Despite the loss of the whirlwind guard Sam Morrow, and the farfamed dropkicker John Dana, the Old Mill certainly showed excellent form. In the first quarter, Captain Tennien of the "Braves" punted across the Converse Hall goal line, and Washburn tackled the man for a safety. The game waxed fast and furious, but the "Giants" were outclassed at every point. In the third quarter Anderson of the "Braves" was sent across for a touchdown. The goal was not kicked and the score remained, Old Mill 8, Converse Hall 0. This makes the second victory for the "Braves" since the inter-dormitory game has become an established precedent.

Following are the scores of former games:

- 1912. Old Mill 7, Converse Hall 0.
- 1913. Old Mill 0, Converse Hall 15.
- 1914. Old Mill 8, Converse Hall 0.

SOPHOMORE ELEVEN WINS ANNUAL STRUGGLE.

bore the brunt of the attack on their respective teams.

Frequent fumbling due to the cold weather occurred on both sides, keeping the spectators on edge. Two penalties were handed out to the Sophs for pushing, netting 20 yards. Despite the rivalry the contest was free from all roughness and was played in the best of spirit.

One accident marred the game, Kent of the freshman eleven, receiving a bad toss in an attempt to block Ames who was running back a blocked punt. Between the halves 1917 and 1918 paraded around the field, the freshmen carrying their banner tipped canes and the sophomores marching in color encircled platoons. A platoon charge through the freshmen line brought a moment of excitement when it was hoped 1918 would retaliate and a general scrimmage ensue.

First Quarter.

Merrill kicked off to the Frosh 25-yard line. Harris made 4 yards around left end. Sunderland fumbled and St. Cyr, '17, recovered. De Cicco tore off 10 yards around right end, 1st down for Sophs. The Soph quarter-back fumbled and Billings recovered for 1918. Harris was sent through the line for a 10 yard gain. On the next play Sunderland got 4 yards through center. Keith made a clever run for 10 yards around right end. (1st down). Harris made 2 yards and was tackled by Merrill. Here the Soph line held and Sunderland did not gain. Harris was sent through right tackle for 3 yards. The freshmen were forced to punt, but it was blocked by Merrill who broke through the line before Harris got the ball fairly started. Ames hit the line for 3 yards. De Cicco went through right tackle for 15 yards and McCloud added 7 more. Ames jammed through center for 3. De Cicco gained first down on a tackle play. McCloud added 6 and Ames 3. By clever dodging Stillwell placed another 1st down. Here a penalty of 15 yards was fastened on the Sophs for pushing. McCloud threw a lateral pass to De Cicco who carried it forward for a gain of 8 yards. Sophs failed to make 1st down and the freshmen tried Keith for a gain, but he was downed in his tracks. Harris made 3 yards. Sunderland tried an end run but with no gain as Foot got him by a clean tackle near the side line. Harris received a pass from the center and kicked, but it went off-side on the 26-yard line. End of quarter. No score.

Second Quarter.

From the Frosh 26-yard line, McCloud gained 6 yards. Ames added 12 yards. De Cicco went through for 6 yards. McCloud was held without gain. With the ball on the Frosh 2-yard line Ames was given the ball and went around right end for the 1st score. Merrill failed at goal. Score '17, 6-'18, 0.

Merrill kicked to the Frosh 20-yard line. Adams ran the punt back 5 yards. Harris added 3 more and Adams 5. Harris picked a hole in the Soph right side and made 1st down. McCloud intercepted a pass but was thrown for no gain. De Cicco made 2 yards and Mack added 5 more. Connor went in for St. Cyr at left end. Adams intercepted a forward pass. With good interference Harris circled right end for a 10 yard gain. Sunderland was sent through for 4 yards. Harris added 6 more. (1st down). On an end run Harris was thrown back for a loss by Connor. Keith fumbled and Stanley, the Soph left guard, recovered. Connor gained 4 yards around end. Here Barbour took Freeman's place at right tackle. Ames tried a line buck but was thrown for a loss. Connor made 2 yards and McCloud added 7 more. Whistle with ball on Frosh 35-yard line. Score: Soph. 6-Frosh. 0.

Third Quarter.

Harris kicked to the Soph's 35-yard line. McCloud snapped a lateral pass to De Cicco with a gain of 10 yards. De Cicco squirmed through guard for 5 yards. Ames added 2 more. Sophs. failed to gain and the Freshmen received the ball on their own 46-yard line. Merrill got Sunderland for a loss. Adams by a line plunge made 7 yards. Next play, no gain. Sunderland kicked off-side. Sophs. received the ball. De Cicco gained 7 yards. Ames brought the spectators to their feet by a spectacular run of 20 yards to be stopped by Keith, the only Frosh. between him and the goal. De Cicco added 5 yards, McCloud 4 yards and Ames made 1st down. De Cicco tried an end run but met no success. Logan replaced Rice at right end. McCloud made a clever gain of 15 yards around end. Ames and McCloud added eight yards on line bucking. No gain on next play. Ames secured 6 yards and 1st down. Connor made 4 yards. The Frosh. line braced and held Ames for no gain. Frosh. held again on their own 3-yard line against all the Sophs. could offer, and received the ball on downs. Sunderland punted to the 20-yard line. McCloud ran the pigskin back 12 yards. Score 6-0.

Fourth Quarter.

From the 12-yard line Ames made 4 yards. Sophs. were penalized 5 yards for pushing. On the 16-yard line Harris broke up a pass. He went around left end for 2 yards, added 10 more and 1st down. Sunderland broke through the Soph. line for 4 yards. Adams did not gain. Sunderland tried center but was pushed back for a loss. Sunderland dropped back for a punt, but Ames blocked the kick and ran the ball 10 yards. At this time he was tackled by Kent who was injured. Freeman went in at right tackle. McCloud added 2 yards. Ames hit center for 5 yards and De Cicco made first down through right tackle. McCloud, Ames and De Cicco added 10 yards, making 1st down. Ames ran the ball to the Frosh. 2-yard line. Stillwell carried it over on a center rush for the 2nd and last score of the game. Merrill failed to kick the goal. Score: '17, 12; '18-0. Merrill kicked off to Adams who ran the ball back 15 yards before being tackled. Incomplete forward pass. Harris tried to gain around end but failed. Another incomplete pass was pulled off. Sunderland punted to De Cicco who was dropped in his tracks. Connor got 10 yards through right tackle. Another pass failed. Game ended with the ball on the Frosh. 25-yard line.

Score: 1917-12, 1918-0.

FOOTBALL HOP A SUCCESS.

The most successful football hop of recent years was held Monday evening, November 23, in the gym. Taplin's orchestra furnished a program of 18 dances for over 100 couples. For decorations, each fraternity took charge of a portion of the wall space and furnished booths.

The receiving line consisted of Professor and Mrs. Groat and Professor and Mrs. Messenger and the president and vice-president of the freshman and sophomore classes.

The chairmen of committees in charge were: Decoration, Miss Derway; refreshments, Miss Flint; music, Miss C. Parker.

CATHOLIC CLUB.

A short business meeting was held Monday evening in the K. of C. rooms. Plans for initiation, which will be held December 2, were discussed. After the business meeting Father Cassidy gave a short talk on the socials which will be held throughout the year with the Knights of Columbus.

tem of editing and managing the alumni publication; the relation of the non-graduate to the alumni organization; the problem of keeping in touch with the alumni and maintaining their interest.

(5) The Secretary.—His relation to the alumni and to the institution; scope of his activities; how to finance the work and to insure permanent retention of good men in the service.

(6) The Alumni Publication.—Ideals that should govern the editor; how to interest the alumni, old and young; relation to student affairs—particularly athletics; how to collect subscriptions; how to finance the publication; co-operative advertising in alumni publications.

A verbatim report of these discussions will appear in the annual report of the secretary of the association from whom copies may be obtained.

Officers for the ensuing year include: President.—Edwin Rogers Grisbee, Yale University.

First Vice-President.—Dean C. Matthews, Western Reserve University.

Second Vice-President.—John A. Lamox, University of Texas.

Secretary.—Wilfred B. Shaw, University of Michigan.

Treasurer.—A. T. Prescott, University of Louisiana.

The hospitality of Columbia and Yale in entertaining the association was marked. A lunch was given the members at the Claremont, Riverside Drive, at which Dean Frederick P. Keppel of Columbia College made an address of welcome. The delegates were provided with rooms in Fernald Hall. On Friday afternoon they were invited to a university tea at Hartley Hall and that evening entertained at a dinner by the Columbia University Club at their club house at Gramercy Park. On Saturday a luncheon was given them in the President's Reception Hall at Yale University at which time Mr. Stokes, secretary of Yale, made an address of welcome.

The association will meet at Leland Stanford and University of California next year. Vermont was represented by alumni field secretary Irving L. Rich.

ANNUAL HOME CONCERT.

College Gym, Dec. 17.

The annual home concert of the Glee and Instrumental Clubs will be given Thursday, December 17 in the college gym. There will be twelve numbers, including two by the glee club and numbers by the quartet and various solos. The concert has been planned so that dancing will begin by 10 o'clock, following two hours. Holding the concert in the gym is an innovation this year. The concert should be distinctly a college affair but lately has not received anywhere near proper patronage. If it is given on the hill the attendance will be principally made up of students. Last year out of 300 present there were only 40 students. Thirty men are practicing three times a week and everything points to a record breaking affair.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

OF Y. W. C. A.

Attendance Banner Won by Sophomores.

On Friday afternoon, Nov. 20th, Mrs. W. J. Van Patten lead the Y. W. C. A. meeting. She spoke inspiringly on the topic "Thanksgiving," showing what constitutes real "Thanks-giving" and its value in a well-rounded life. In conclusion she gave the following quotation from Dr. Atkins, former pastor of the First Church of this city. "The land of pure delight will be found in no geography; it has never been plotted or surveyed. But it exists none the less and is nearer than we think. Its gates are duty, fellowship, love and truth; its roads open at our feet. In moments of self-surrender we pass its frontier and know its joys, in times of vision and communion its great serene mountains uncover their summits of peace and strength. We find it behind barriers of pain and come upon it by paths of disappointment and discipline. Like the sky it stoops to meet us. To find it is the end of life, to be certain of it, the ground of all courage, to discern it ever more and more clearly, the justification of all Thanksgiving."

At the close of the meeting the banner for best percentage of attendance at four consecutive meetings was awarded to the Sophomore class.

ACTIVE BOULDER MEETING.

College Vaudeville—Kake Walk.

At a meeting of the Boulder Society on Friday afternoon, November 20, it was decided to postpone Students Night indefinitely but to hold it sometime during the year. The wrestling matches, it was decided, should be put on as scheduled that evening. It was arranged to have a college vaudeville sometime between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Because of the cutting down of the stage at the Majestic and because of a recent little misunderstanding at the Strong, the affair will be staged in the gymnasium. This will save a large expense. Gardyne, Mayforth, Knight, Ferrin and Hayden are the Boulder men in charge. Kake Walk plans were also discussed. There will be two directors this year instead of one, and an extensive advertising campaign will probably be run.

MEETING OF CHITTENDEN

COUNTY CLINICAL SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the Chittenden County Clinical Society was held Tuesday night at the medical college. Dr. B. D. Adams read a paper on Chronic Polyarthrititis. Discussion by Drs. Beecher and Wheeler followed. Dr. B. H. Stone reported on the spread, cause and early diagnosis of Infantile Paralysis. Refreshments were served in the pathological laboratory.

C. H. Jones President of Agricultural Chemists.

C. H. Jones, connected with the University Experiment Station, was elected president of the Society of Official Agricultural Chemists at their annual meeting held recently in Washington.

"Bull" Durham an International Favorite

Men prominent in the social, business and public life of many nations find supreme tobacco satisfaction in the deliciously fresh, mild cigarettes of unique flavor they roll for themselves, to their individual liking, from "Bull" Durham tobacco. Their distinguished example has made it correct, smart, fashionable to "Roll Your Own" upon every occasion.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

There is no purer, milder tobacco in the world than "Bull" Durham—none other with such a sweet, mellow, irresistible fragrance. This rare, balmy aroma is as delicate and elusive as it is distinctive and pleasing, and can only be retained and enjoyed in the fresh-rolled cigarette. "Bull" Durham hand-made cigarettes afford wholesome enjoyment and lasting satisfaction to more millions of men than all other high-grade smoking tobaccos combined.

FREE An illustrated booklet, showing how to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes and a Book of cigarette papers, will both be mailed to you free, on postal request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C., Room 1298.

PREP. SCHOOL USES WIG AND BUSKIN PLAY.

Written by R. G. Ramsdell, '09.

Lake Forest Academy, Lake Forest, Ill., has chosen a former Wig and Buskin production as its school play. The play was written by R. G. Ramsdell, '09. One of the directors is C. N. Hitchcock, '13. "The Spectator," the academy paper, reports:

"The play chosen is entitled 'William Warren's Welcome' and was written in 1909 by R. G. Ramsdell, who was at the time an undergraduate, for the use of the Wig and Buskin Club of the University of Vermont. It was very successful at its first presentation during Junior Week and was repeated at Commencement for the benefit of the alumni and guests. Since then it has been used successfully several times by various preparatory schools and other amateur dramatic organizations in New England.

The plot is woven around the experience of William Warren, a young college man, who goes to visit at the country home of his classmate, Jack Parker. Young Parker is suddenly called away on the evening that his friend is expected, and leaves his family, who have never met Warren, to entertain the guest. During the course of the evening four different people, including an automobile agent, two burglars and a meek young Englishman are taken for Warren, and Warren himself is mistaken for the agent. It takes three acts to get matters straightened out, and the action in the meantime is further enlivened by the attempts of the automobile agent to sell a car to the head of the house, who has no use for motors, and the attempted abduction of Miss Sylvia Parker, which ends disastrously because of a mistake in identity. This brief outline of course no more than suggests the snappiness of the dialogue and the clever arrangement of the situations throughout the play.

THE RELATION OF A COLLEGE SCHEDULE TO CIVIC RE- SPONSIBILITY.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

We college men are continually being told by more or less analytical minds that the future of the United States rests squarely upon our shoulders; it is asserted that we can make and unmake the success of government, national, state and municipal. Whatever may be the reasons for the above assertion and whatever may be the manner in which college men are meeting this responsibility for leadership in affairs politic the question yet remains—is the college student recognizing this responsibility in the framing of his college course?

The college man may be a classical student; he may find profitable pleasure in the civilization of an age long since passed away. He may be an engineer and learn to build bridges or motors. He may study the intricacies of chemistry and may spend his years in chemical analysis. He may discover the secrets of crop rotation and thereby materially aid in increasing the productivity of our hills and valleys. Or the college man may study the human anatomy and the science of preventative medicine. Yet whatever he may be he is primarily a citizen affected more or less intimately by the civic problem—government.

If the citizen is to discharge his civic duties according to enlightened opinion, it is necessary that he know something of the fundamentals of civic science. And if the college man is to be the leader of to-morrow, it is because he has the most abundant opportunities to discover the fundamentals of citizenship. Consequently the college man has no logical refuge in the argument that he is to be an engineer, a farmer, a teacher, or a doctor and therefore should be excused from studying for citizenship.

Every freshman should recognize this civic duty and this great opportunity; he should include in his schedule at least a minimum of basic work in economics and politics. Whether the work in these courses will profit him anything depends upon the grasp he gets on what he takes, be it little or much. In the opinion of the writer Economics I and Politics I should be required of every student in the university. Other similar courses may be pressed with much profit.

The University of Vermont is a state institution partially supported by state funds. Each student should deeply recognize that in addition to his or her own special work there is a duty imposed upon all—citizenship. And we should strive to meet that duty by preparation in college. To a large extent a college schedule will reveal the student's attempt to meet this obligation.

SENIOR DEBATES COMMENCE.

The first senior debate of the year was held on Tuesday morning of this week at 10:30. The affirmative, upheld by H. E. Crane and G. B. Sanford, won from L. W. Dean and R. W. Daniels of the negative. The question was: Resolved, That the Basis of Representation in the Lower House of the General Assembly of Vermont Should be Changed from Town to District Representation According to Population. The judges were Professor Groat, Professor Jackman and Dr. Barnes. The next debate will be Friday, December 18, at 11:30. The debaters will be L. M. Prindle and L. F. Dow vs. J. S. Hunt and R. A. Healy.

TECHNICAL AGRICULTURAL FRATERNITY.

Announcement has been made of the formation of a local, technical, agricultural fraternity to be known as the Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity. The new fraternity is composed of the members of the Alpha Zeta fraternity and is located in the Alpha Zeta house. It has not yet been decided where the Alpha Zeta will be located.

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE.

The interfraternity conference met Thursday night, November 19, to discuss changes brought in by the medical fraternities. The meeting adjourned at 3 a. m.

REV. EDWARD BINGHAM CHAMBERLIN, 1848

Was born in Strafford, Vt., January 18, 1826, the son of Henry Chamberlin and Mary Bailey. His father was a volunteer at the battle of Plattsburg. His preparation for college was gained in part, at the Montpelier Academy under Calvin Reave, 1838. After graduation he taught in Natick, Gloucester, Newburyport, Bolton, Sunderland and Princeton, Mass. Graduated from Andover Seminary in 1854; supplied a church in Lancaster, N. H., for nine months, and one in Centerville, Mass., four months; was ordained as pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Plattsburg, N. Y., March 12, 1856; dismissed June 1858; supplied at Green Bay, Wis., 1858-59; settled at Shoreham, Vt., 1859-64; preached at Essex, Vt., 1864-66; at Westford, 1866-68; at South Wilbraham, Mass., 1868-74; and at Sharon, Vt., 1874-89. Here he owned and managed a large farm, besides attending all parish duties, and conducting meetings in the outlying districts. In 1896 he became fatally blind. From 1889 spent his summers in Sharon. In Shoreham and Westford he served as superintendent of schools. In 1876 he was town representative from Sharon. When in college he was at one time president of the Phi Sigma Nu Society. He married December 21, 1856 Mary Jane Moore, of Lancaster, N. H., and at his decease left a widow with five sons and three daughters. His death, from apoplexy, occurred at Sharon, August 26, 1914. A younger brother graduated in the class of 1854.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1876. The Hon. Henry Wayland Hill, of Buffalo, was the presiding officer of the Great Lakes Waterways Conference which met in Chicago, November 17th and 18th at the Hotel La Salle. This organization is made up of representatives of the leading commercial organizations of the principal ports of the Great Lakes. The conference had its inception in a meeting called in Buffalo last spring by the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of bringing about concerted action for the advancement of navigation and the commercial interest of the inland seas and major tributary waterways.

1886. Charles C. Farnham was elected president of the Lawyers' Club of Buffalo at its first banquet of the winter, which was held at the Hotel Genesee on the evening of Friday, November 13th.

1904. A. E. Pope has been promoted to the position of assistant general manager of the Connecticut River Transmission Company and is to have charge of all the engineering work of the company. His office will be located in Worcester, Mass., as before.

PUBLICITY MEETING.

R. D. Sawyer spoke before a meeting of the publicity workers Tuesday afternoon, briefly tracing the history of publicity, or press, clubs at the university and speaking of the various kinds of college advertising conducted by the college as (1) athletics; (2) catalogues and similar official publications; (3) student papers; (4) news publicity. This last he said was what was most desired at present. After a few suggestions as to how more news might be put before the public the meeting broke up and an informal discussion took place.

NEW BASEBALL CAGE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT.

The University of Vermont is doing much this year for her baseball teams. Vermont has always been unusually strong in baseball, and the impetus which the team will derive from winter practice in this steam heated, well equipped cage, large enough to lay out a full-sized diamond in, will be very considerable. The south roof has a 60 ft. skylight, which will make the diamond available on the very darkest days. The cage is not to be monopolized by baseball, but will be used also for winter training by the track management, for cattle judging contests etc. by the agricultural college and for tournaments and drill by the military department.

FINAL GAME OF THE SEASON

HOLY CROSS 7---U. V. M. 0

Vermont Mainly on Defensive but Several Times Within Striking Distance of Opponent's Goal—Forward Pass Scores.

In the last game of the season Vermont lost to Holy Cross, on Thanksgiving day at Worcester, by a score of 7-0. The score indicates well the comparison between the two teams; about equal in strength, but Holy Cross slightly more skillful in retaining a foothold on the muddy, slimy field. A break of luck would have tied the score, a feat which Vermont very nearly accomplished.

The only touchdown of the game was made in the second quarter when Devlin received a short pass on his left end and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. He was aided by splendid interference, three of the green jerseyed men being put out of the way of the little quarterback. Brawley then kicked the goal and this ended the scoring. Vermont's main chance came in the fourth quarter when the Green and Gold blocked Devlin's punt on the Holy Cross 10-yard line, but the ball was booted across the goal line and brought back to where the play started.

Little was easily the star for Vermont as he has been throughout the season. He was a bulwark on the right side of the line besides covering all kinds of ground. Several times he was down the field before his forwards and got the man in his tracks, twice breaking through and blocking Devlin's punts. DeMarco played a steady, and at times a brilliant, game at center. Denning broke up everything which came his way, but was forced to leave the game, again dislocating his shoulder. His work while he played was of a high order. In the backfield Tennien and Frank played a strong consistent game.

Holy Cross excelled on the offense, the muddy field making it impossible to stop the Purple's fleet backs. But the Vermont team almost invariably stiffened when their goal line was in danger, stopping the attack and getting the ball on downs. Holy Cross attempted to score by the drop kick route also but failed three times.

Both teams tried the forward pass several times, each pulling off two successful passes. Vermont attempted five while their opponents made twelve tries. Each team also intercepted two of their opponents passes. Vermont worked a shift play frequently with good success, the backs shifting to the line while the three wing men on the opposite side dropped back. The Purple employed a varied attack throughout the game.

First Quarter.

Holy Cross received the ball on the kick-off on their 20 yard line running it back 15 yards. An end run and dash through tackle netted the Purple 21

CHICAGO ALUMNI TO MEET.

Arrangements are being made for an informal dinner of the Chicago Alumni Association on the evening of December 15th, at the Hardware Club, corner of Randolph St. and North Wabash Ave. As this is the first gathering of the season there will be an election of officers and a general discussion of plans for the year. It will be a live "get together" meeting and all alumni in Chicago at that time will be very welcome.

yards. Vermont held and after an unsuccessful forward pass Holy Cross punted to the Vermont goal line. Vermont was forced to punt to their 30 yard line where they held their opponents for downs. Smith punted and Little, down the field with the ball, recovered when Devlin fumbled. Frank and Vizner carried the ball 17 yards, and Pike recovered a beautiful pass of Malcolm's on the Purple's 10 yard line. A forward pass failed and Holy Cross, receiving the ball, punted out of danger. The Green and Gold returned the punt and after a gain of 20 yards through the line the period ended with the ball in Holy Cross' possession on their opponent's 38 yard mark. Score 0-0.

Second Quarter.

A lateral pass netted the Purple six yards and on the next play Devlin pulled a pass out of the air and raced 33 yards for the only touchdown of the game. Brawley kicked the goal.

Vermont received but was forced to punt to midfield. Holy Cross carried the ball steadily down the field to the 28 yard mark where an attempted field goal went wide. Being unable to gain, Vermont again punted from her 20 yard line and again Holy Cross' irresistible attack carried the ball within striking distance, but a drop kick failed. Smith and Frank carried the ball to midfield for the Green team but fumbled. The half ended after Holy Cross had carried the ball to the Vermont 20 yard mark. Score 7-0.

Third Quarter.

Vermont received but was held for downs. Pike and Little broke up two plays for a loss of 20 yards, forcing Devlin to boot the ball. Holy Cross recovered but lost the ball when Tennien intercepted a forward pass. After two unsuccessful line plays, Smith punted the ball to Holy Cross' 35 yard line. An end run and tackle play netted them 25 yards. Abell threw McCarthy for a loss, forcing Holy Cross to punt. Smith then returned the boot from behind his own goal line and an attempted field goal by Holy Cross failed. From her 20 yard line Vermont could not gain, Smith booting the pigskin out of danger. Time was up for the quarter on the next play, with the ball on Vermont's 45 yard line. Score 7-0.

Fourth Quarter.

Tennien again recovered a forward pass from the hands of Dolan but Holy Cross held firm, forcing Smith to punt to his 40 yard line. Devlin made an end run of 25 yards and then a seven yard plunge through the line, putting the ball on the Green's eight yard

FOOTBALL ELECTIONS.

Monday—Trophy Room.

Elections for manager and two assistant managers of next year's football team will take place in the trophy room next Monday morning, December 7, 8:30 to 12:30. The candidates for manager are E. R. Holmes and H. A. Mack; for assistant managers, R. F. Joyce, R. C. Sanders and F. C. Stewart.

1914 FOOTBALL SEASON BECOMES HISTORY

Not an Exceptional Team, but Strong —Faced a Hard Schedule—A Better Basis Secured.

The football season just passed has been of a progressive nature as compared with that of last year, but the change has not been of a revolutionary character. The numerical record is in games composed of 2 won, 1 tied, and 6 lost. The record in points is: Vermont 36, opponents 132. However, the situation is not so bad as the mere numbers would seem to indicate, and perhaps the corner has been turned for a spurt. Considering the fact that teams out of our class were played in some instances, resulting in injuries which incapacitated the team for following games, and that every team has a slump occasionally, as well as the fact that the long trips were exceedingly fatiguing, a partial excuse for results may be found.

Vermont's new coach, James A. Turner, has been energetic and exacting in his work, and has secured some improvement in the work of the team.

The season started with a rush when the Williams game resulted in a score of 3-0 in favor of Williams. In the second quarter the Green and Gold were superior in almost every way, and when the whistle blew they had the ball on their opponent's 3-yard lines. This, in spite of the fact that there were only about 25 men on the squad previous to the game, owing to the epidemic of infantile paralysis which delayed the opening of college. Glidden, Pike, and Little were especially effective.

The Maine game brought defeat by a score of 21-0. However, the Maine team outweighed the Vermont eleven 16 pounds to a man, and the Vermont line weakened considerably under the onslaught of the heavy Maine attacks despite a spirited resistance at the outset. A victory was hardly to be expected. Tennien, Malcolm, and Burke played strong games.

Dartmouth annexed Vermont's scalp to her collection by a score of 42-0. She sent 33 men into the game, and succeeded in injuring many of Vermont's best players. The Vermont eleven fought hard and yielded grudgingly, but could do little against superior numbers, weight, and skill. The feature of the game on the Vermont side was the forward passing. Three out of five passes succeeded, while three attempted by Dartmouth failed. Little starred for Vermont. This game showed up another handicap that the team faced throughout the season—playing on the home grounds of the opposing team others had an abundance of subs to use while Vermont had few.

Weakened by the injuries in the Dartmouth game the Varsity was outplayed by Colgate on October 24th and defeated 41-0. The forward pass failed here and furnished two touchdowns to Colgate. Lawler and Glidden made good gains.

The Varsity nearly turned the tables on Brown again and tried to grasp a victory, but the Brunonians overhauled her in the fourth quarter and managed to maintain their superiority to the tune of 12-9. The game was a battle royal throughout and was closely contested as the score indicates. Malcolm featured U. V. M.

Following was the first home game of the season, that with New Hampshire State. This proved a walk-away for Vermont, who carried the ball over in 5 minutes for the first touchdown. The sophomores were substituted in the last two minutes and outplayed their opponents in spite of a severe snow storm then raging. The score was 20-0, of which Malcolm gained 14 points.

Strengthened by this victory the eleven fought Fordham to a standstill on Nov. 14th, and forged out a victory of 7-6. Vizner pulled off the feature of the game with a 65-yard run after kick-off, and made a touchdown on the next play. There was unfortunately misunderstanding regarding the score at first, but the Fordham authorities yielded the point. De Marco and Little played excellent games.

Vermont was unable to score in the game with Middlebury, the last home game. Middlebury had a good defense which she employed to good advantage, resisting the Vermont attacks effectively whenever they came dangerously near her goal. Smith and Tennie made consistent gains for the home team.

The season ended on Thanksgiving morning in a game with Holy Cross resulting in a defeat for U. V. M. by a score of 7-0. Abell and Little featured for Vermont.

Of the 36 points gained by Vermont Malcolm gained 20, and he could nearly always be depended on for a gain. Pike, at the other end, played a fine game. Captain Flynn, Abell, and DeMarco were consistent players on the line. Little excelled. In the backfield, Lawler, Glidden, Tennien, Vizner, Burke and Smith formed strong combinations, playing steadily and at times brilliantly.

Looking back on the season as a whole it seems only fair to say that the team did their best under the circumstances. For a while at the first of the season there was a dearth of material until a new underclassman arrangement remedied the situation considerably. The season is remarkable neither for its successes nor for its reverses when one considers the disadvantages under which the team worked, and may be considered a fair season for Vermont. A revolution came

FOOTBALL BANQUET MONDAY EVENING THE 14th

The Big Banquet of the Year—Football, Track and Baseball Men to Speak—Election of Football Captain.

On Monday evening, December 14th, at 7.45, there will take place at the Van Ness House one of the biggest events of the college year, namely, the Football banquet. Indeed, as far as banquets go, it is to be regarded as second to none. Those who were present last year need no urging to attend, as they can fully vouch for the enthusiasm and real Vermont "pep" shown at this, the most important banquet of the year. The Key and Serpent Society is doing all in its power to make the event a success and it remains for the student body to turn out in loyal support.

The whole student body is invited. The "V" men as well as the speakers of the evening will be given complimentary dinners. There are to be speeches by Pres. Benton, members of the Athletic Committee, the Football men, Manager of Football, Baseball Manager, and Captain of Baseball. Dr. Stone, and Hayden, '15, will speak in interests of Track. There will also be a speech by the newly elected manager of football. The captain will be elected by the "V" men at the banquet in the presence of the student body. At Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, the annual football banquet and election of captain is one of the biggest events of the year. Football is surely of enough importance at Vermont to close the year with a rousing good banquet, with each loyal Vermont man present.

For the benefit of the freshmen, it is well to say that the football banquet was given last year at this time, somewhat in the nature of an experiment. If it proved a success the banquet was to become an annual event. The result of last year's experiment far exceeded the expectations of those in charge, giving all assurances of a favorable banquet this year. The continuance depends largely upon the success Monday evening. The freshmen are especially urged to realize the importance of their support. Since this is the only event of its kind in the college year every fellow should buy a ticket whether he is able to be present or not; and those who go will never find cause to say that they have begrudged the dollar thus spent. The usual college songs and cheers will be given during the evening. Tickets will be for sale by Key and Serpent men.

COLLEGE VAUDEVILLE.

The date of the college vaudeville has not as yet been decided upon. The management say that they have a large number of exceptionally good stunts this year, and that if nothing miscarries it will be the best vaudeville that has ever been put on at the University. A large stage will be erected in the gym, instead of having it at the Strong or elsewhere as has been the custom.

line. Holy Cross was penalized 15 yards and a drop kick was blocked, giving the ball to Vermont on her 33 yard mark. Smith punted and after holding Holy Cross for downs Vermont tore off several good gains and a pass, bringing the ball to the Purple's 26 yard mark. The elusive pigskin was fumbled but Little blocked Devlin's punt and made what was thought a touchdown. The referee, however, claimed that the ball was kicked over the line and the score was not allowed. The ball was given to Holy Cross. Devlin punted but Holy Cross intercepted a forward pass and hurled the ball over goal for a touchback on the next play. Malcolm carried the ball to midfield and on the next play Dolan intercepted a forward pass. The whistle ended the game with the ball in Holy Cross' possession on her 45 yard line. Final score, 7-0. ### YE CRABBE.

More Candidates Wanted.

A change of printing establishments has made last month's issue of "Ye Crabbe" rather late, but it is well worth waiting for. The features of this number are the conclusion of the football story started in October's Crabbe, and a story by Hinting Wong entitled, "The Flower in the Mirror."

Editor Baker wants more men for the Board. He says there is a good chance for freshmen in either the editorial or the business department. In one place a man runs a dangerous chance of becoming a humorist, and in the other he gets some practical experience making ends meet. Names may be handed to J. W. Baker, '15, E. M. Washburn, '16, or to A. B. Tuttle, '17.

1914 GATHERINGS TO BE MONTHLY AFFAIRS.

Wednesday evening, at 409 South Union street, David Howe, '14 entertained ten members of the class of 1914. A permanent organization was effected to arrange for monthly meeting of members of the class who happen to be in the city: President, L. W. Batchelor; vice-president, Miss I. Spofford; secretary, D. Howe. Members present were Misses R. Durfee, I. Spofford, B. Deyette, J. Sparrow and D. Howe, L. Bachelor, W. Howe, E. Bissonette and H. Bailey.

MEETING OF T. C. A. CIRCLE.

The T. C. A. circle held its first meeting of the year at the Alpha Tau Omega house Monday night, November 30, from eight until ten. After a short business meeting a program was carried out, Miss Clara Gardner being in charge. The freshmen who met with the circle for the first time were Miss Billings, Miss Hayward and A. Theodore Woodward. Each one was called upon for a short speech. The circle were fortunate in having with them Miss Sarah Thomas, an ex-student of T. C. A., who rendered two solos. A couple of charades concluded the program, after which light refreshments were served.

We invite the students of the University to examine the extensive stocks carried in this store.

Our Football Schedule and Then Some.

How many men will be attracted to Vermont by the result of this year's football season? How much profit or enjoyment have the undergraduates received from it? We did not wish to strike a discordant note during the course of the season so purposely refrained from saying very much about the matter, although enough was said so that by this time readers should know pretty well how we stand in regard to this year's schedule. And we are fortunate in not standing alone in our judgment; the whole student body believes that the present schedule policy is wrong. They don't care so much whom we play, but they want Vermont to win. Moreover, they want to see a few games for themselves and realize that we have a football team in our midst.

It is hard for eleven men to get out on the field and play, knowing that they are going to get pounded to pieces. None of us would care very much to witness a bout between a U. S. title holder and a street gamester no matter how gritty the gamester. Probably the little fellow wouldn't enjoy it much either, and would get to thinking that the sooner the knock-out came the better. Yet we expect our team to face the best football fighters in the East. That they take their licking without a whimper is to their credit. But what's the use? The other man still holds the title; we're one of the down-and-outers, forgotten. All we have accomplished is to help train him for his big fight, to add a little bit more to his notoriety, to detract a little perhaps from our own. The wonder is that our men win any games. They come back from the big ones crippled, they don't know what it is to win, scarcely what it is to have a chance to win. The incentive of a winning streak is unknown.

This might all be changed by simply playing in our football class. Why not take on Hobart, St. Lawrence, Middlebury, Norwich, Union, Trinity, New Hampshire, Wesleyan, Springfield, with perhaps Williams, Amherst or Holy Cross at the close of the season? Half the games could be played on the home grounds then. We could see the men at work, we could use our subs, we could get some life and interest in the game. Football ought to be popular here, and there's no reason why it can't be. Last year's baseball season shows us how futile it is to build all our hopes on one activity. The territory that we draw most of our men from is Vermont. We want to make a good impression within the state. To do this we must bring teams within the state and play our games at home. A New York game doesn't advertise us much in Vermont. Moreover, we ought to have a state league—Middlebury, Norwich and Vermont and consecutively win in that league. The sooner we get over despising Middlebury the better off we will be. Middlebury isn't to be despised. She's a good college, she has some good men and some loyal men. Contempt won't keep us her superior. While we've got our nose up in the air, she'll hit us in the belt line. Norwich is another instance. We dictate to them that if they won't come here every year we won't play them. Now we're not so much out of Norwich's usual class as we might be, it's a state team, there would be good rivalry, and we ought to play them. They beat us one out of the last two games played with them. The spirit at such a contest is alone worth the contest for the good it does. The spirit involved in a contest with the University of Maine, on the other hand, is almost nil. Well, a whole lot depends on the makers of next year's schedule as to the development of football interest and a football team at Vermont.

There's Something in It.

Mr. Courtney, the Cornell coach, speaking recently to a body of Cornell men in St. Louis in words which he described as enough "to get me into hot water clear up to my ears when I get back to Ithaca," expressed himself as follows: "I have looked at this athletic situation from every standpoint and angle and it looks to me something like this, that if athletics are not a good thing they ought to be abolished. If they are a good thing for the boys, it would seem to me wise for the university to take over and control absolutely every branch of sport; do away with this boy management; stop this foolish squandering of money, and see that the athletics of the University are run in a rational way."

Reed College, in Portland, Oregon, opened its doors in 1911, under the presidency of a Harvard man, William T. Foster, '01. The athletic problem was carefully studied, and a policy, thus described by President Foster, was adopted: "Physical education, hygiene and out-of-door games for all the students and faculty, especially those who need it most, in place of intercollegiate athletics for a very small group of students, especially those who need it least."

After two years of trial the policy is pronounced a conspicuous success. "This fall," President Foster has recently written, "every one of the 180 students has taken part in out-of-door sports, according to the Reed College plan, under the direction of the department of physical education. Equally notable is the fact that nearly every member of the faculty is engaged regularly in vigorous games. Students and teachers are out for the same purpose—health, recreation, and sport in the spirit of sport."

The above, for which we have The Grinnell Review to thank, is not printed with any idea of advocating the plan for Vermont. What a clamor would go up were the University to adopt such a policy! Yet if the money that we yearly sink in intercollegiate athletics to support a few players were put into building a big local athletic plant with the best of grounds and all kinds of apparatus, with a place for everybody, Vermont would receive more advertising because of the uniqueness and wisdom of her scheme than she possibly can at present from all her athletic teams. Statistics show that very few men come to college to play on teams.

Would We Like a Restaurant?

If a stranger should come onto our hilltop and ask us why we didn't turn Commons Hall into a big college restaurant, what would we say? Would his idea be such a bad one? As an eating hall it never has been a huge success. It's an accommodation, true, but little more. And if we are to speak of accommodations a restaurant would be even more of an accommodation. Many a man who goes down town for his dinner would often stay on the hill. Late risers would welcome it as a boon. Others doubtless would take a chance on getting as good board under the restaurant plan as under the present. Some would take all or part of their meals there. During afternoons and mornings of winter quantities of stuff would be sold. The college store demonstrated this last year. The building is amply large enough. A smaller force would be needed to run it. It would be an actual service to the students, it would be supplying something wanted. When we find a demand we find profits. The college could be making money and the students wouldn't begrudge it. How much would be taken in on a proc night for instance?

To 1914.

With this issue of the CYNIC we are sending out an appeal to 1914 men and women. More members from the class of 1914 should be on the circulation lists of the CYNIC than from any other class. Don't make the mistake that many have made before you and begin in your first year to detach yourself from U. V. M. The spirit of the campus is still with you. Friends of yours are still among us. You ought to know what they are doing. You ought to know what your classmates are doing. More than all else you ought to know what Vermont is doing.

ing. You are her youngest alumni. Much depends on you. If you begin to break the ties now, it will be hard to mend them later. If you begin to keep them now, you will keep them forever. Why not be known as one of Vermont's loyal alumni. The very best way is to take the college paper. It will come to you every week. It will not let you forget. Don't put it off, you're first year is the year to start. You do your share and we'll do ours. And your money will help us make the Vermont paper the kind of a paper we want to make it. For Heaven's sake don't stop to argue; it's no arguing matter. Fill out the blank on this page and send us two dollars. You're going straight to perdition if you've lost all college feeling so soon. Even if you weren't going to get your money's worth you ought to do it, but you know you will get it.

CYNIC COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Editor:

I beg space to call attention to a falling off in a custom which seems to me should be always observed. I refer to the custom of removing the hat when passing through the chapel. We would not think of remaining covered in a church, and what is our chapel hall if not a place of worship? When I came here as a freshman, this custom was universal among us, but as the new classes have entered it has seemed to be forgotten. One of the greatest evils among us today is lack of reverence. Let us start in at once and set a good example to the freshmen by teaching them to show as much reverence toward the chapel hall as they would toward any place of worship.

(Signed) 1916.

ARIEL BOARD STARTS SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN.

The 1916 Ariel board met in A South College, Dec. 3, and discussed several matters of importance in connection with the publication of the book. Mgr. Bogle is starting an active campaign to secure subscriptions. The price of the Ariel will be $2.00, the same as last year. The board plans to make the book worth more than it costs.

CITY Y. M. C. A. LECTURE COURSE.

A considerable number of college men are attending the series of winter lectures held Sunday afternoons at the city Y. M. C. A. Good speakers are provided, and the lectures are free. Occasionally, too, college men take part in the program. Last week, when Mr. Mead spoke, Short, '18, and Gallup, '18, rendered a duet.

MR. MEAD PRESENTS "DAMAGED GOODS."

On Wednesday evening of this week Mr. Mead of New York gave a rendering of the famous social play "Damaged Goods" in the Y. M. C. A. room. It was largely through the generosity of President Benton that Mr. Mead appeared. On Monday morning at chapel he presented Alfred Noyes' war poem, "The Wine Press."

HOME CONCERT DATE DRAWING NEAR

David Bispham, America's Greatest Baritone to Sing in Conjunction—Remarkable Series of Entertainments to be Held on Hill this Winter.

What is considered as one of the best glee clubs Vermont has had in years will give a concert in the gym Thursday evening, December 17, at 8:15. The program will consist of twelve numbers, including selections by the glee club, instrumental club, string quartette and Scotch dialect readings by Peden, '18. This is the first time the concert has ever been held on the hill, and it is the duty of every member of the student body to turn out and help make it a success.

The Reidpath Musical Company has been negotiating for a series of twelve concerts to be held here during the winter months, and the first of the series will be held in conjunction with the home concert. David Bispham will appear, and the combination should make one of the biggest drawing cards that has been on the hill for many years.

Bispham is regarded as America's greatest baritone, and the seventeenth of his only date in Vermont for the coming year. He has been the only singer to appear with the Metropolitan Opera Co., and the Royal Opera Co., of London, in the same season. His voice is rich and its freshness is unimpaired. Bispham has probably appeared in more American cities than any other artist, and is a favorite everywhere.

Among the other attractions in the concert series are the Ben Greet Players, the acknowledged leading exponents of Shakespeare. These plays have appeared in nearly every university in the country, and at Chicago and Michigan, their coming is a regular annual event. Kellerman of the Metropolitan Opera Co., another baritone, is also booked to appear. Then there is Katherine Ridgeway and her company of peerless entertainers, Van Eeten Rogers, the great harpist, Walter Eccles and his college girls, Doctor Harvey Wiley, the pure food expert, S. Marks Cadman who is considered the greatest preacher in America, Raweis of New Zealand, who with his company will give selections of the native music and a lecture on New Zealand, and Montaville Flowers of California, who will speak on the Japanese question. These are all considered the best of their line of work, and the college fortunate in having this series on the hill during the coming winter. In fixing the price of admission to these entertainments, the management has placed them easily in the reach of all. A membership fee of one dollar for the entire course is charged. Then persons holding these tickets are admitted to the entertainments for the enormous (?) additional price of ten, fifteen or twenty cents. The home concert is the only exception to this rule. When the admission will be twenty-five, thirty-five, and fifty cents.

This concert series is the first that the college, or even the city, has had for a long while.

GIFT TO CLASSICAL LIBRARY.

Over 100 Volumes Donated by Mrs. Stetson.

The classical library has received as a gift from Mrs. Stetson more than one hundred books and about twenty-five volumes of periodicals from the private library of Professor Stetson. The books include texts and annotated editions of classical authors, handbooks and monographs, chiefly on Greek subjects. It will be remembered that Professor Stetson held the chair of Greek at Colby for eight years, and was acting professor of Greek at the University of Vermont for one year before becoming head of the department of German.

The classical library, which is kept for the use of classical students in one of the rooms of the classical department in South College now contains between three and four hundred volumes in addition to the most necessary texts and handbooks which are loaned by the University library. It was begun about eight years ago at the suggestion of President Buckham, who made the first gift of books. Professor Goodrich and the late Mr. Robert Benedict are also among its donors. Mrs. Stetson's gift is the largest and most valuable which the library has received.

A BACK CAMPUS INCIDENT.

Considerable excitement was aroused among the denizens of the back campus last Wednesday afternoon, when the new Commons Club piano travelled to the top of the Old Mill via the air line route and came to rest on the window sill of its new home. Heads protruded from the windows above, necks were stretched from down below, in front of the gym, loitered newly uniformed cadets. On the ropes heaved three lusty sons of toil, experienced men, who know the ins and outs of expressive English speech when the weight on their arms grew heavy and the music dangled sixty feet o'er head. Piously steering of the guy ropes, among friendly shouts of encouragement, smiled a minister's son. At the conclusion of the entertainment all seemed happy and well content, all save the news man who was heard to lament the lack of an accident.

MEETING OF SOPHOMORE CLASS.

Three Elections Made.

A meeting of the Sophomore Class was held Wednesday during chapel hour for the purpose of electing a manager of basketball. Two men were also elected to start things off for next year's Ariel, by keeping in touch with the progress of this year's. The men elected were Spear for manager of basketball; Chatterton for the literary side of the Ariel proposition and Burke for the managing. It is hoped that by starting men this year in getting acquainted with the business of editing the Ariel that they will avoid the trouble which each class has in knowing how to begin.

There is a Great Difference in Tobaccos

Tuxedo is the Mildest, Sweetest, Most Pleasant Smoke in the World, Because—

First—No one but the makers of Tuxedo is willing to spend the money necessary to buy the mildest, choicest, most thoroughly aged, selected Burley tobacco.

Second—No one but the makers of Tuxedo knows how to treat this Burley tobacco so that every bit of pleasantness and goodness remains in the tobacco and every bit of unpleasantness and harshness is taken out.

TWO STRONG SPEAKERS BEFORE DEBATING CLUB.

Wong, '17, Speaks on Municipal Government in China, and Prindle, '15, on Classical Education.

"Municipal Government in China" was the title of a most interesting paper read before the Debating Association last Monday evening. Hing Ting Wong, '17, traced the development of this form of government from its early stages in the history of Rome and Greece to its adoption by China. "Three years ago, China was an absolute monarchy. The emperor had supreme power. As a consequence, the part played by the people in their government was very small, and their right of equal suffrage was more or less curtailed from them. For this reason, municipal government in China before the year 1911 was not established and sanctioned by law, but was rather an outgrowth of the necessities and customs of the people as a whole. . . . . The difference in governmental organizations between America or Europe and China lies not in the non-existence of municipal government in the latter country, as some writers believe, but rather lies in the fact that the municipal government of Europe and America is established by written law, while in China by unwritten law or customs. . . . The municipal organizations of China may be grouped thus: (1) Local organizations; (2) Protective organizations; (3) Charitable institutions; and (4) Educational institutions."

Within the territorial jurisdiction of a district lie the so-called cantons, towns and villages, (Tsan, Tseung and Heun) each being governed by an Elder elected by the people of the locality. These divisions in the district comprise the local organizations. Corresponding to the mayor of the modern American city is the Lee Chun of the Chinese canton, town or village.

The protective organizations find their parallel in our city police force, being organized for the purpose of protecting the community in times of peace and serving as volunteers in times of war.

The third division, charitable institutions, constitute all the public buildings for the poor. Their function is to help the unfortunate and keep peace in the community.

Under the heading of educational institutions come those organizations which have to do with the education of the young people. They are not supported by the Government, but by the individual canton or town or village.

Mr. Wong concluded his address as follows: "After the constructive period a constitution was adopted which was modelled on the American constitution with but few modifications. By this constitution the Chinese people were protected. Unfortunately, however, Yuen Shih Kai, the present president of the Chinese Republic, since his inauguration in 1912, has repeatedly violated the provisions of the Constitution of China, and has finally cancelled it. Parliament, legislative bodies, as well as all local political organizations, were abolished by Yuen, whose absolute power is, in some respects, worse than that exercised during the regime of the Manchu Dynasty. For this reason, there has been revolution after revolution in China with the hope that the present government of Yuen may be overturned, and it must be overturned before a true democratic government can be firmly established, and the Chinese people may have the three characteristic features of a republican government: Liberty, Equality and Fraternity."

L. M. Prindle, '15, spoke on "Some Aspects of Classical Study." In his discussion of the topic the following points were emphasized: (1) The relation of classical literature to classical life. (2) The position of classical culture and its relation to what came before and after, i. e., Asiatic and Modern European. (3) The aspects of literary tradition and of language as a mirror of life.

"LITERARY STUDY OF THE BIBLE"—PROF. TUPPER.

Next Y. M. C. A. Meeting to Be Led by Prof. Groat.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, December 1, Professor Tupper gave a very interesting address on the "Literary Study of the Bible." Several interesting facts were brought out touching upon the relation between the literature of to-day and that of the Bible, but the main thought was directed to the Bible in literature, not literature in the Bible. Illustrations were freely given by quotations. The influence of the Bible in prose is of a notable significance because of its direct bearing on so much of the prose literature which followed. The Gettysburg Address was mentioned as an excellent illustration. Not only in prose is this influence found but also in poetry. Among Chaucer's works there is found an admirable love for the Bible, also in Shakespeare and Milton of the old writers, while among the modern writers Huxley is an example.

The simplicity of the Bible marks a great difference between its diction and that of our recent writers. Three characteristics which describe it are: (1) Dignity of style, (2) Concreteness, (3) Charm and wonderful rhythm. Among the mightiest works of literature, the book of Job was mentioned which gives a wonderful background of pastoral life. The wonderful love stories of the Bible, its poetry and prose, its nucleus of plots were all referred to. In literary strength and charm the Bible is the strongest, most powerful work of any nation.

Next week's meeting will be lead by Professor Groat.

OUT O'DOORS CLUB.

Activities to Start Soon.

A dozen Out O'Door Club enthusiasts met Tuesday afternoon to plan for the winter's activity, Baker, '15, acting as chairman. Seaver, '16, was unanimously elected president and Clayton, '16, secretary and treasurer.

There is a club membership of approximately fifty men and those who have been active this fall desire the cooperation of the remaining members. To be sure there are many activities in the University needing support, but this is one that does not demand large numbers and one that interferes but little with the others.

The member of the club has a wide choice in the different activities to be put forward this year. The departments and the chairman of each follow: Mountain climbing, Prof. Thompson; winter sports, Mack, '16; water sports, Baker, '15.

Under the present system there are two classes of members—active and honorary. Each pays the admission fee of 25 cents, but to become an active member a person must climb one of the two or three mountain peaks in the vicinity designated by the club. The choice of peaks will probably be broadened this year. It is planned to take a short hike, more for sport than distance, in the near future. Meetings will probably be held at regular monthly intervals.

EXTENSION WORK OF HOME ECONOMICS DEPT. INCREASING.

Mrs. Julian Dimock Added to the Staff.

The Home Economics Department has added another assistant for extension work and has been very fortunate in securing Mrs. Julian Dimock of East Corinth. Mrs. Dimock was formerly a teacher at Pratt Institute and has been engaged in extension work in connection with the Mass. Agricultural College. Mrs. Dimock has an intimate knowledge of country life and conditions, which will be an invaluable asset in her extension work in this state.

An Institute lasting two days, Dec. 1 and 2, was held in Barre under the auspices of the Home Economics Department of the Woman's Club. Miss Merrill, Miss Marshall and Mrs. Dimock had the Institute in charge.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN MEETING.

Goethe Discussed.

The Deutscher Verein met Wednesday night, Dec. 2nd, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, Old Mill. Miss Ruth Adams, '16, arranged a programme on Goethe's "Dichtung und Wahrheit." Miss Jackson, '15, Miss Benton, '15, and Herr Appelmann gave interesting "side-ights" on Goethe's life. A few current items of general interest were given by Miss Gardner, '16. Refreshments were served. The evening closed with the singing of German songs. The next meeting will be held on December 16th. The subject will be "Goethe als Lyriker" with Herr Spring as leader.

not be expected in one year. It would seem that a good basis has been laid.

CATHOLIC CLUB INITIATION.

Good Line of Speakers at Banquet.

The annual initiation of the Catholic Club was held Wednesday evening, December 2, in the rooms of the Catholic Young Men's Union on Main Street. Following the initiation a banquet was served at Dorn's Cafe.

The following eleven men were made members of the club: John W. Vizner of Hartford, Conn.; Joseph H. Welch of New York; Thomas H. Norton of Rutland; Ernest P. Lyons of Plattsburg; J. Harold Lozor of Great Barrington; Walter L. Hogan of Burlington; F. J. Carpenter of Somersworth, N. H.; Louis W. Branchaud of Rutland; John J. Finney of Shelburne; Rolland L. Jerry of Plattsburg, N. Y.

Many alumni were present and about 60 attended the banquet at Dorn's, which was served at ten o'clock. Following the banquet short speeches were made by Reverend Fathers Welch of Orwell, Crey of Brandon, Griffin of East Albany, Kennedy and Cassidy of this city. Speeches were also made by T. B. Wright and W. V. Scully of this city. J. J. Boland, president of the club, acted as toastmaster.

RELAY MEN COMMENCE WORK.

Track activities this winter will be directed toward developing a team to enter the intercollegiate meets in the spring and the mid-winter relay meet at Boston. It is expected that at least five colleges will be represented in the former. Of them are New Hampshire State, Middlebury, and Colgate. Dr. Stone is continually watching for new material for individual work, and wants more candidates for the relay team. Among the 'varsity men already out are Capt. Hayden, Gallagher, Bolster, Patterson, Wilber and Tennien.

PRESS CLUB STILL ALIVE.

The CYNIC prints this week a picture of the new baseball cage, one of the Press Club series. The club believes in the superiority of pictures as an advertising medium over the printed column, and has sent, at minimum cost, duplicate "mats" of this picture and subscribe to newspapers all over New England.

A new project for publicity is the securing of a number of large framed pictures of the University campus and buildings. These pictures will be furnished at cost to the various preparatory school delegations in the University who wish to procure them to send to their various schools. It requires no stretch of the imagination to realize their value on the walls of a school room. Davis, '15, will have one of these pictures on exhibition this afternoon at the Library.

There will be several opportunities during the coming week for write-ups of unusual importance. Men who would like a try-out will please see the chairman at once.

WINTER COURSES

IN AGRICULTURE.

The 20th annual session of the winter short courses in agriculture will be held at the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College beginning Monday, December 28, and closing Friday, February 26. It is intended to cover the study of creamery operations in a broad way and to teach the essential principles and practices of soil management, dairy and other feeding, stock breeding and judging, vegetable gardening, orcharding, forest management, etc. They are open to men and women 18 years of age or older, who have had a common school education. Nine instructors will teach by lecture, text-book study and recitation and by practical work. No charge is made for tuition to residents of Vermont. Incidental fees aggregating $10 are the only charge made. Text-books cost about $5, working suits about $3. The entire cost of the nine weeks' session need not exceed $65. Parties interested should write for information to Prof. A. A. Borland, Morrill Hall, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.

CHEMISTRY CLUB.

The Chemistry Club held a meeting Tuesday evening in the Williams Science hall. There was a good attendance to listen to a very enjoyable program. Mr. Jury of the Wells & Richardson Company gave a very instructive talk on dyes.

Mr. Monroe of the American Woolen Company and Mr. Bisette of the local electroplating concern were honorary guests. A lively discussion followed. Refreshments prepared by the Home Economics department were served.

Sigma Phi Dance.

The Sigma Phi Fraternity held a dance at their house Tuesday evening. There were about twenty-five couples present. Refreshments were served. Taplin's orchestra furnished music. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Stearns.

BATTALION APPEARS IN

NEW UNIFORMS.

The military battalion appeared in full uniform for the first time at general formation on Wednesday. The new leggings give a natty appearance to the whole battalion. The uniforms were purchased directly from the government at reduced rates. To Captain Reeves is due the credit of instituting the legislation which makes it possible for state universities to buy from the government.

ALUMNI VISITORS

FOR THANKSGIVING.

Several alumni visitors were in town during Thanksgiving week, among whom were the following: I. L. Smith, '02; E. J. Lockwood, '11; Aaron Grout, '02; F. S. Small, '96; L. C. Hunt, '12; Donald McClellan, '10; Miss Alta H. Grismer, '13; and Lee Sawyer, L. W. Douglass, J. H. Moore and H. A. Styles, all of the class of '14.

STUDENT COUNCIL

FORMULATING PLANS.

The Student Council held a short meeting late last week in A South College. Johnson, '15, chairman, presided. Several matters were brought up and a general discussion followed. Another meeting was held the latter part of this week. Nothing will be announced until the matters are fully decided.

UNDERCLASS NIGHT FOR 1914 IS OVER LAST EVENTS RUN OFF

Sophomores Easy Winners—Freshmen Show Poor Spirit—Grand Total 621-2 to 71-2.

The long delayed Underclass Night occurred last Monday and proved to be a walk-away for the Sophs, who were present almost to a man. The Frosh, with scarcely half their number present, were at a great disadvantage, and made a poor showing in the contests. The events in the order of their occurrence were the dummy rush at 4.30, on the back campus, the paste rush at 7 o'clock at Centennial Field, and the tag rush at 7.30, on the back campus. In the dummy rush the two classes were stationed at equal distances from the dividing line upon which the dummy was placed. At the sound of the pistol the two sides charged and had piled up about the dummy in a wild scramble to rush it over the line. The Freshmen got the jump on the Sophs at the start, but the Sophomore machine soon got into working order and rushed the dummy back in time to win the first rush. The second rush was hard fought, and either side was able to get the dummy fairly over the line, but the Sophs were declared winners by the small margin of eight inches. These two rushes netted the Sophs 10 points each. The paste rush, which was the feature of the evening, occurred around the barn near Centennial Field. There, each class received an equal number of procs, and one side of the run was allotted for the posting. At the end of a lively scrap, lasting 10 minutes, the Freshmen had failed to get a single proc. They had, however, added the Sophomores to a score of 27, which was the best showing on '18's part during the contests. This rush gave the Sophomores 20 points more. At the completion of this rush, the classes adjourned to the back campus for the last event. The Freshmen, somewhat depleted in numbers, were selected to defend the flag. About one-third of the Sophomores formed themselves as a wedge, and at the signal, advanced at a slow run and easily broke through the Freshman defence. Together with the other members of the team, they forced their way to the pole and seized the flag in less than one minute from the sound of the gun. As this struggle was, it added 15 points to the Sophomore budget. After this last event, both classes gathered all upper classmen present gathered around the bon-fire. After a few

TUESDAY NIGHT SMOKER POORLY ATTENDED.

College Activities Presented by Speakers, All of Whom Score Freshmen for Non-Attendance.

A unique smoker was held in the gymnasium on Tuesday evening, the 8th, unique in the entertainment and unique in that only a handful of freshmen were present.

Dean, '15, started things off with a plea for the CYNIC, followed by Berry, '16, who urged that everyone attend the football banquet. Bailey, '14, spoke for the Debating Society, and Mack, '16, for the Out-O'-Doors Club. Gallagher, '16, made a spirited and well-grounded speech, tending largely toward the spirit shown by 1918, and Remby, '15, added a few words to remind the men of the coming big event, the Home Concert. The band showed up especially well, and this, with a violin solo by Taplin, '16, and a few clever stunts by Kelly, a guest on the hill, made the evening very pleasant. President Mayforth of 1915 presided and called the meeting to a close by singing of a few college songs.

ANNUAL HOME ECONOMICS DAY OBSERVED

75 Devotees Worship at Shrine of Ellen H. Richards—2 Tableaux Presented—Funds Raised Toward Support of "Home Economics Journal."

At Morrill Hall, on Thursday, December 3, about one hundred and seventy-five people attended the observation of "Home Economics Day," which is held throughout the country to celebrate the birthday of Ellen H. Richards, founder of the Home Economics Movement. Mrs. Dimock, the new assistant in the extension work, spoke on the "House Beautiful" and members of the department reviewed the December "Journal of Home Economics." Two tableaux were given, one representing the budget of the colonial household, when the food, clothing and furnishings were produced and used within the dwelling, and the other showing the modern budget as worked out by Mrs. Richards, the division of the family income in covering the expenses of the house of to-day. After the formal program, tea and cakes were served. Jars of marmalade, fruit and jellies were sold by the students, the proceeds to be sent to the Ellen H. Richards Memorial fund, which assists in the publishing of the "Home Economics Journal."

BOULDER SOCIETY STATES ITS PLATFORM ENDORSED BY '16 AND '17

Led by Boulder 3 Honorary Societies Make a Stand, Suggesting Reforms for Welfare of University.

The Boulder Society, senior honorary, held a meeting on Thursday night of last week and another on Saturday afternoon, both at the Owl House. It was arranged to run off the remaining underclass night events Monday night, Dec. 7. The football banquet date was set for Thursday evening, Dec. 10. At the Saturday session the following platform was adopted by Boulder and endorsed by Key and Serpent and Ukma, the junior and sophomore honorary societies:

Inasmuch as the status of the Boulder Society has of late been questioned, and

Inasmuch as its powers have obviously atrophied and are becoming obsolete,

We, the Boulder Society of the University of Vermont, do hereby declare and make known our platform and position in relation to activities at said university.

Having direct or indirect supervision of all undergraduate interests and activities, we stand for, and seek a realization of, the following:

I. Reorganization of the administration of the university as it directly concerns the student body, essentially a more simplified University government.

1. Abolition of the faculty-student council as it now exists.

2. More centralized committee organization with less diffusion of power and apparent responsibility caused by the present multifarious and interlocking directorates.

3. A more simplified and efficient matriculation system.

4. A more comprehensive record of individual students.

5. A more systematic and efficient registration department.

6. A buildings and grounds committee with a simplified system of procedure.

7. A definite cooperation between faculty and students by:

(a) Joint smokers and like functions.

(b) Interest and participation of the faculty in student activities.

(c) A higher standard of scholarship on the part of the students.

(d) Defined system of cuts with definite number of cuts.

HOME CONCERT NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT.

Tickets for the Redpath series are selling rapidly, and an extensive canvas is being made. The student body will remember that this series is to be held on the hill, that each event is a winner in its class, and last but not least, that the Redpath people have given them the chance of their lives to boycott the Strong in good shape. The Glee Club is showing up well in its rehearsals, and will give a good account of itself at the home concert. The musical clubs are a big advertising factor for the university, and deserve support.

VERMONT DEBATERS WILL FACE MIDDLEBURY

'Varsity and Freshman Teams to Clash with Rivals—Norwich Withdraws from League—Interclass Debate Next Wednesday.

On Monday afternoon a meeting was held at the office of Mr. Guy B. Horton of this city to arrange the intercollegiate debates for the year. Norwich declines to enter the triangular league this year and consequently a dual debate with Middlebury has been arranged. A Middlebury team will meet a 'Varsity team here, and a Vermont freshmen team will meet the Middlebury freshmen at Middlebury. Both debates will probably take place on March 12 and may be on the same question. Each college is left free to make any further debating arrangements it pleases, and it is understood that Norwich may reenter the league next year if she cares to do so.

The Freshman-Sophomore debate will be held in the Williams Science Hall on the evening of December 16th at 8 o'clock. The constitution of the team is as follows: Sophomore: F. R. Churchill, J. L. Hitchcock, A. C. Lewis; alternate, R. C. Wriston; Freshman: P. R. Johnson, C. O. Pierce, L. A. Woodward; alternate, E. B. Forbes. Every freshman and sophomore ought to come out and help support the teams who are putting a good deal of work on the debate. Then, too, there might be a variation from the usual order of things this fall. The freshmen may win.

E. L. Chatterton, '17, was initiated into Tau Kappa Alpha on Monday evening.

Football Pictures.

Pictures of the 'Varsity V football men and also of the freshman football team were taken at the Tims studio last Sunday, December 6. The picture of the sophomore football team was taken Saturday, December 5.

FRATERNITY INITIATIONS CONTINUE

Delta Sigma and Sigma Nu Hold Banquets—Two Medical Frats Announce Initiates.

Delta Sigma held its initiation on Thursday evening, December 3. The initiates were A. H. Soulis, '17, of Everett, Mass.; J. E. Powers of Burlington; and I. M. Ricker of Montpelier.

On Saturday evening the initiation banquet was held at the Van Ness Roof Garden, with an attendance of 31. W. C. Walker, '12, of Cabot acted as toastmaster. The following toasts were responded to: Delta Sigma, Capt. I. L. Reeves; Welcome, R. H. Soulis, '15; The Frat, L. A. Tomassi, '15; Frosh, I. M. Ricker, '18; Alumni, H. M. Degree, '12. The alumni present were: W. C. Walker, '12, Cabot; T. H. Ovitt, '07; Larry Gardner, '09; M. L. Irish, '10; Kent Perley, '10, all of Enosburg; R. W. Davis, '10, of Newport; W. H. Greene, ex-'16, of Richford; H. M. Degree, '12, C. V. Soule, '09, and T. C. Ross, '11, all of Burlington.

Sigma Nu.

Beta Sigma chapter of Sigma Nu held its annual initiation and banquet Saturday, December 5. The initiation took place at the chapter house, the banquet at the Van Ness. Fourty-four persons attended the banquet. Merryman, Schroeder, Fletcher and Osborne of the Dartmouth chapter and L. A. Byington of Syracuse chapter were present.

The alumni present were Prof. J. F. Messenger and Prof. Aiken of the University, D. C. Deyette of Burlington, R. F. Darling and K. A. Emerson of Newbury and C. R. Boyce, '16, of Windsor.

D. C. Deyette acted as toastmaster. Among the speakers were Professor J. F. Messenger, Professor Aiken and Merryman and Schroeder.

The initiates were Herbert Cummings Merrill of the sophomore class, Myers Landon Booth, Raymond Joseph Cushman, Philip Reynolds Johnson, Robert Earl Knight, Charles Sherman Parker, Roderick Walker Smith, Harvey Haskell Sunderland, Frank Stevens Thompson, Adrian Theodore Woodward, all of the freshman class.

Phi Chi.

Alpha of Phi Chi announces the initiation of L. J. Menard, '18, of Holyoke, Mass., E. A. Mandeville, '18, of Holyoke, Mass., and P. F. Gadle, '17, of Norwich, Conn.

Alpha Kappa Kappa.

Delta of Alpha Kappa Kappa announces the initiation of J. P. Brennan, '18, of Poultney, C. N. Church, '18, Millbury, Mass., C. H. Clough, '18, Burlington, J. F. Collins, '17, Marlboro, Mass., J. E. Free, '18, Burlington, J. P. Goodrich, '18, South Royalton, G. Houston, Jr., '18, Crompton, R. I., M. J. P. Paulsen, '17, Burlington, C. A. Ravey, '18, Burlington, and H. B. Walker, '18.

UNIVERSITY TRAVELS TO THE COUNTRY.

Extension School at Chelsea.

The first extension school of the year was held at Chelsea, Dec. 7 to 11, inclusive. Lectures and demonstrations were given on different phases of dairying, bacteriology, soil fertility and management, field crops and home economics. Those who took part in the program included Professors Jenks and Borland, Mr. Carrigan, Mr. Loveland, Mr. Downing, Mr. Bartram, Mr. Chandler, Mr. Moran, Mrs. Demock, and Miss Stuart. With this list of strong speakers working for the improvement of agriculture and home economics back in the rural districts, the people of the state will be greatly benefited. These extension schools are carrying the University to those who cannot or will not come to the University, and by so doing the influence of the University is broadened and a feeling of closer relationship is inaugurated between the college and those who should support it.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB ENTERTAINS.

Many Aggies Turn Out to Pleasant Evening.

On Tuesday evening, December 8, the Agricultural Club was entertained by the Home Economics Club at Morrill Hall. About a hundred and twenty-five were present. In the receiving line were Miss Nichols, the President of the Club, Miss Marshall, Mrs. Stetson, Mrs. Hills, Professor and Mrs. Burdick and Professor and Mrs. Cummings.

Amusement was furnished by an impromptu circus, in which everyone took part. Then each guest was given materials and required to make a Christmas present. Mr. Sunderland took the cake. Miss Swift gave a reading and Miss Hall a violin selection. Light refreshments were served.

COMMONS SMOKER.

Elias Lyman, '70, Tells of the Grads.

Another smoker was held at Commons Hall on Saturday evening, the 5th. Swett rendered one of his ever-pleasing solos, and Elias Lyman, '70, gave an impromptu talk, speaking especially of the attainments of the alumni. He was very well received. After a short announcement by one of the representatives of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, which is presenting a series of entertainments here this year, the gathering broke up with the singing of "Champlain."

Y. M. C. A. MEETING—

PROF. MESSENGER.

At the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday night Professor Messenger gave a very interesting talk on "The Psychology of Reform." He summed up his talk as follows: "Everything we do is permanent; nothing is lost, the tendency toward action is cumulative, and successful reformation consists in keeping the right views before a person, or, in the example of a teeter-board, in keeping down his end of the board."

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS.

Discusses Finances, and Standing of Honorary Societies.

At a meeting of the Student Council on Friday, December 4, permits for dances were granted to Delta Psi for December 18; to Lambda Iota, December 18; to Delta Mu, December 15; to Pi Beta Phi for January 8.

Class finances were discussed and several suggestions were made regarding the administrations of the same.

Prof. Jackman gave a very encouraging report on the financial conditions of "Ye Crabbe." A more complete report was promised at the next meeting of the council.

The standing of class societies and the methods of election to the same was also discussed.

It was decided not to grant the request for the college vaudeville because the date was only a week from that of the glee club concert. The vaudeville will probably be given shortly after the Christmas recess.

PI PHIS ENTERTAIN.

Vermont Beta of Pi Beta Phi entertained in honor of the new girls of the university at the home of Mrs. G. E. Partridge, a patroness of the chapter, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 5.

An original program, representing a Pi Phi reunion at the studio of the Misses Parker and Lawrence, was given by the active members. Elaborate refreshments were served. As favors, the guests were presented with wine carnations. Two of the other patronesses were present, Miss Mina Walker and Mrs. C. V. Grismer, as well as many of the resident alumnae.

NEW PROFESSOR IN DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY.

Prof. C. E. Burke, late of the University of California, arrived Wednesday to take up his duties in the Department of Chemistry here. He began work with his classes in the organic laboratories the day of his arrival. Prof. Burke is a graduate of McMaster University, class of 1907. He received his master's degree from the same institution, and in 1911, received his doctor's degree from the University of Illinois. The Department has placed him in charge of organic and physiological chemistry.

HONORARY MEMBERS' NIGHT AT COMMONS CLUB.

On Friday night, December 4, the Common's Club observed honorary members' night. Professors Jackman, Thomas and Appelmann were present and each made a few remarks. Devereux, '13, also had a few words to say. After the regular meeting an informal hum closed the evening. About 40 were present.

CLASS MEETINGS.

Meetings of the sophomore and freshman classes were held during chapel hour on Thursday and each class voted to attend the football banquet in a body. S. L. Harris was elected manager of the freshman basketball team.

TENNIS SCHEME WORKING WELL.*25 Matches Played the Past Week—Men on the Waiting List.

A tennis boom at Vermont during the winter months may seem to some of our readers incredible. In former years the tennis season has lasted only as long as the weather remained warm in the fall when the game was dropped until spring. Under Coach Freedman's new arrangement, however, there are at present fifty men on the tennis schedule at the present time and our others who are waiting their turn. Twenty-five matches were played in the gymnasium court during the past week.

The game as played indoors is making the playing faster and snappier since the balls rebound much more sharply and forcibly from a board court than on the outdoor dirt courts. This will tend to develop speed and quickness in the players. With this system Vermont should next spring have the best tennis team which has ever worn the green and gold, and Coach Freedman expects that he will have eight to ten men to pick from, anyone of whom will be as good as men who have made the 'varsity team in former years. The relative standing of the men as to the matches which they have played will be published later.

ALPHA TAU DANCE.

The Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity gave their December dance on Friday evening at the Van Ness Roof Garden. About twenty-five couples were present. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lee, Mrs. Thomas A. Davenport of Bennington, and Miss Katharine E. Burton of St. Johnsbury. During intermission a buffet lunch was served in the grill room, catering by the Van Ness. The decorations were pink and white chrysanthemums. Hagar's orchestra furnished music.

CLASSICAL CLUB TO PRESENT THE "MOSTELLARIA."

The Classical Club met on Wednesday evening in the Classical rooms. Professor Ogle read the "Mostellaria" of Plautus in Latin. Parts have been assigned for the presentation of an abridged form of the play in the original. This will be given before the Classical Club sometime after mid-years. It is hoped that a portion of one of Seneca's tragedies can also be put on.

PRE-MEDIC CLUB ORGANIZES FOR YEAR AND ELECTS OFFICERS.

The Pre-Medic Club met at the Delta Sigma house on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organization. H. A. Johnson, president of last year's club, presided. The following officers were elected: President, R. V. Sanderson; vice-president, F. S. Kent; secretary, H. A. Gibson; treasurer, R. W. Johnson; entertainment committee, W. H. Rice and E. P. Lyons.

PRESS CLUB NOTES.

The following preparatory school delegations have taken advantage of the Press Club arrangements for University pictures: Brigham Academy, Williston Seminary, Johnson High School, Mooers High School, Bellows Free Academy, Goddard Seminary, Tilton Seminary, Bennington High School, Pittsford High School, Waterbury High School, Barton Academy, Troy Conference Academy.

KEY AND SERPENT DANCE.

The second successful dance of the Key and Serpent series was held in the gymnasium, Thursday evening, December 3, the last dance previous to the Christmas vacation. About 60 couples were present.

The chaperons for the occasion were Professor and Mrs. Burns and Professor and Mrs. Ogle. Music was furnished by Taplin's orchestra.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETINGS.

The Juniors met at chapel hour on Friday, December 4. At this meeting G. S. Bean was elected manager of basketball. An Ariel tax of six dollars was voted, and other matters pertaining to the Ariel were discussed. The class pictures are now on sale. See Fosgate.

Another meeting of the class was held Wednesday, December 9. Plans for junior week were discussed and the date partially decided upon. A class constitution was presented and adopted.

C. F. Robinson has been elected to assist M. E. Lord on the medical division of the Ariel.

HOWARD HALL CLUB INITIATION.

Howard Hall Club held its annual initiation at Howard Hall, Wednesday evening. Several members in the city were present. The initiates were: Miss Elizabeth Gilmore, '16; Miss Zilpha Ranney, '17; Miss Daisy Stewart, '17; Miss Sadie Norris, '17; Miss Myrtle Rose, '18; Miss Charis Billings, '18; Miss Dorothy Cady, '18.

CYNIC NOTICE.

If a freshman wishes to try out for the CYNIC all he has to do is to drop his name in the CYNIC Box, Old Mill. We take care of the rest. This is positively the last call.

How Shall we Dedicate the Gym?

We now have the addition to the gym practically completed and the question arises how shall we dedicate it? Or shall we simply admit by our silence that it is here, say nothing about it, and give the publicity committee nothing to spread itself about? It has been suggested that we have an indoor interscholastic meet. And why not? Why not bring up the prep. school fellows from around the state, give them a good time and let them try the place out? Coming up in mid-winter and running indoors they would almost of necessity mix more with us than they do at the spring meet, and we with them. But how to give them a positive impression of the place? In the spring they go away simply realizing that they have been at the University of Vermont, but carrying away no very vivid impression of it, in fact no impression at all—good or bad. Now, on the other hand, suppose we had them here for the day of the Kake Walk, ran off their contests in the afternoon, and in the evening invited them to the Kake Walk as our guests. Then what kind of an idea would they have of Vermont when they went away? Would it still be negative? Moreover, if the Walk is advertised through the state this year as it should be, these men will be anxious to come and a goodly number ought to respond to the invitation.

The Entertainment Course.

We cannot well permit this issue of the CYNIC to go to press devoid of comment on the step the University has taken in securing a series of entertainments for the coming winter. Not only the University but the city as well has been singularly lacking in efforts of this kind. We have heard it said that Burlington is a city of little culture. This, concerning a college city. If we are not to find culture in the home of a college where are we to turn for it? The University this year is fortunate in securing the services of the Redpath Musical Company, and the city is fortunate in having the University to provide such a course. That it is to be held on the hill is another good omen. More students will attend. We are beginning to make the hill more of a gathering place; it will foster college spirit. All of our activities should head the men in this direction.

A Little More Football.

With this editorial probably our last word on football is spoken until the new schedule appears. One phase of the work it seems to us merits special mention—the sophomore and freshman schedule. We believe that Coach Turner has laid a good foundation within the 'varsity team itself, but it is really the sophomore and freshman teams that have changed the football outlook. Each team played a long season together, each team had its coach and each team had its schedule of games, exclusive of the inter-class game. Because of these two teams alone about thirty men were constantly in training and will be available for the 'varsity and second team next year. What the 'varsity lacked this year was a second team with which to work. Without the two class teams it would have had nothing. We have had the 'varsity and class teams this year. Next year we may hope for 'varsity, class and second teams, each with its schedule and coach. Under such a plan we will see men being made into 'varsity material—and the plan is started.

Are We Ill Mannered?

Last week there appeared in the CYNIC a letter concerning the wearing of caps in chapel. We are always glad to receive a communication such as this. It shows that some one has his eyes open and isn't afraid to speak out for what he believes is right. We hope that sometime we will have a chapel building. Meanwhile, we have the chapel hall and should respect it as such. It is very easy to forget what we owe its spirit as we pass through from door to door on the way to class, but we shouldn't forget; we should always uncover and respect it as is a place of worship's due. Were we to treat a church otherwise we would be called ill-mannered.

THE BOULDER'S PLATFORM.

To the CYNIC Editor:

The writer, after thinking over the platform advanced by the Boulder Society, wishes to say that, in the main, he heartily approves of the platform. The general idea of concentrating authority and responsibility or, in plain language, of reorganizing certain things upon a simplified basis, with a little less red tape and fireworks, is indeed very good.

And we all certainly desire to adopt efficient systems of coaching in football, baseball and track, or we ought to drop them. But none of us desire to drop anything; the only alternative which loyal Vermont students and graduates can consistently adopt is reorganization, with a view to larger results than we have recently obtained.

We all realize that the powers and privileges of the Boulder Society have atrophied, but only a few really know the reason. No self-perpetrating body can retain for long its respect, its privileges and its powers.

There are a number of us that do not consider the creative body known as the Faculty-Student Council as ever having met the situation which it was intended to meet. I, for one of these, am radical and democratic enough to believe in representative student government and shall welcome the not distant day when the University of Vermont will teach young men how to govern by the actual process of governing. It is absolutely nonsensical for any faculty member or student who is progressive, believing in Republican democracy, to assert that the students of this University are less capable of governing themselves and running their own activities through student representatives with power and responsibility than are the people of Vermont to do the same. (If I am hitting anyone in particular I don't know it!)

So give us an efficient student organization, elected by the students and not self-perpetrating through which the much needed reorganization may take place. We must win games; we must concentrate more than in the past. We have 26 "recognized" college societies; these ought to get together (or be made to do so) to agree upon established and permanent hours for meeting.

Now none of us have anything against the Boulder Society or the Council; we all of us desire to see many of the plans in their platform enacted. But I do object to a self-perpetrating and oligarchical society of any kind (regardless of its past history, traditions and honorable position as at present) assuming or knowing the power to assume to run the University hereafter in the organized regime. It can't be done; whenever the personnel of the organization fails to command the respect and confidence of the students and faculty the powers and privileges will certainly atrophy. This is no attack on the Boulder Society as individuals; this Society has advanced its platform and by that act acknowledged the personal right to object to what is neither fair, right nor necessary. Let the Boulder Society be a governing body but for the sake of consistency give students and faculty the power to determine who shall constitute the Society.

So let's think the proposition over—Boulder Society, all societies and fraternities, individual students and members of the faculty. Suppose we admit a few things and get together to boost the University.

With due reverence and love to my Alma Mater, and an appreciation of the Boulder's attitude, I am

H. Albon Bailey, 1914 and 1915.

THE BOULDER PLATFORM.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

The student council should not be allowed to exist on its present basis—but—it should be given more power, power enough to make its work respected.

Moreover, the writer considers the recent action, or actions, of the Boulder Society as entirely unwarranted, and dangerous to the best interests of the college. The "senior honorary society" has not the place of importance it may have once had in the minds of the majority of the students. I believe it was the knowledge of this fact, as much as any other reason, which impelled that organization to make all the fuss which it has for the past week.

The students at large will never be satisfied to have student activities controlled by a self-perpetuating institution, some members of which are always of inferior ability, and to have that control thus taken too far from their own reach. We could easily elect a new student council, if the one we have fails to do its duty. The election of a new Boulder Society would be attended with many obvious complications.

I believe the rank and file of the men in college, with the exception of a few Key and Serpent and Ukma men whose eyes are wistfully fixed on Boulder, and whose opinions are of course taken for what they are worth, will agree to what I have written. My interest in University affairs is still too great to let this go unsaid.

AN INTERESTED ALUMNUS.

"EIGHT WEEKS' CLUB"

UNDER DISCUSSION.

The meeting of the Young Woman's Christian Association on Friday, December 4, was in charge of Miss Bernicia Avery, '15. Miss Avery gave a very interesting talk upon the "Eight Weeks' Club," and encouraged as many girls as possible to have such organizations during the coming summer. She spoke particularly to the college girls living in the country, who have splendid opportunity to bring much into the lives of girls whose social and educational advantages have been fewer. Miss Avery was herself the leader of a very successful club during the past summer.

SENIOR DEBATE NEXT FRIDAY.

The next senior debate will be held in Williams Science Hall, Friday, Dec. 18, at 11:30. The question reads, "Resolved, That Congress Should Pass a Law Providing that Every Able Bodied Male Citizen of the United States Should Serve a Year in the Army before the Age of Twenty-five Years." The affirmative will be upheld by J. S. Hunt and R. A. Healy, the negative by L. M. Prindle and L. F. Dow.

words from Captain Reeves, everyone joined in a college hum, and cheers for old Vermont.

The final score of the contests stood 55-0 in favor of the Sophomores. This, with the 7½ points gained in the wrestling matches on the night before the Middlebury game makes a total of 62½ to 7½.

VERMONT TEAM
MAKES GOOD SHOWING.

Wins 2nd and 3rd Places.

The fruit judging and packing teams sent to represent Vermont at the intercollegiate contests held at Worcester, Mass., Dec. 2, made a very creditable showing. The judging team consisting of Buchanan, Wood and Carlton, all 1916, won second place.

There were four colleges entered, namely, Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, and New Hampshire, who finished in the order named. The judging was held in connection with the meeting of the Mass. Agricultural Society, and there was a very good display of fruit to work with.

In the packing contest, the Vermont team, consisting of Piper, Buchanan and Carlton, won third place with Mass. first, New Hampshire second, and Maine fourth. The team was handicapped by lack of apparatus and training in this work. In the box packing the team was scored heavily for poor wrapping of the apples, but in the barrel packing a better showing was made, and the judges commented favorably upon the work in this line. Massachusetts had one exceptionally good man, Rogers, who was first both in judging and packing, and his work greatly aided the success of the M. A. C. team in winning both contests.

GREEK LETTER MEN MEET.

Fraternities Go on Record for High Scholarship and Sound Morals.

"More than 100 delegates from 34 national college fraternities attended the sixth annual interfraternity conference at the University Club, N. Y.," says the New York Times. Two college Presidents, many college professors, and representatives from universities throughout the country participated in the meeting.

"That fraternities have exercised an increasingly wholesome influence on college life since the inauguration of the first national interfraternity conference by President W. H. Faunce of Brown University was established by reports from seventy-five institutions. Of the colleges questioned forty-five answered that the fraternity influence for good had grown during the last two years. No college reported that their influence was baneful. It was also asserted that closer cooperation was being effected between the faculties and the students' secret organizations.

"The interfraternity conference again went on record in support of high scholarship, sound morals, and cordial relationship between the societies. Reports of the result of efforts during former years brought about through the national executive bodies of the fraternities, their graduate members, and the traveling secretaries showed that the condition of living in the chapter houses was steadily bettering. Gambling or drinking in fraternity houses is almost generally forbidden. Study hours are generally enforced, and there is a tendency to regard the chapter house as a genuine college home.

"James B. Curtis, Delta Tau Delta, was elected president; H. H. McCorkle, Phi Kappa Psi, secretary; O. H. Cheney, Phi Gamma Delta, treasurer; and F. W. Shepardson, Beta Theta Pi, the retiring president; J. D. Livingston, Delta Phi, dean; T. A. Clark, Alpha Tau Omega; Albert S. Bard, Chi Psi; O. H. Rogers, Sigma Phi, and F. H. Nymeyer, Zeta Psi, were chosen to the executive committee."

CLASS SECRETARIES' ASSOCIATIONS.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

An important factor in creating alumni interest and securing participation by the graduate in commencement and other alumni gatherings is the class secretaries' association. This organization transmits to successive classes the established system of class activities and records, and insures the class and institution against the all too frequent failure of the class program because of the neglect and inefficiency of the secretary.

In some cases the activities of the secretary have meant the initiating of work of prime importance to the institution. At Yale, the class secretary is the only permanent officer of the class and to him is delegated, among other things, the duty of keeping with scrupulous care the life records of his class-mates. The work has been carried on so consistently during the entire life of the institution that these records form one of the most remarkable series of biography in existence and is considered a priceless possession of the University. A handbook for the class secretary has been prepared as has been done at Cornell University, also. This makes certain the full instruction of the secretary and uniformity of purpose and result. But a greater advantage follows from forming an association of secretaries of all classes. This provides for a discussion which means growth of activity and interest and overseeing the work of each secretary.

It would seem worth while to consider this subject with a view of adapting it to the University of Vermont. Such an association might be started by the recent classes which have adopted a standard form of organization and the two upper classes in the University. Many of the earlier classes appear to be without permanent officers and there has been no attempt at cooperation and uniformity in the activities carried on other than that there should be the various reunions on stated years.

HENRY LINGAM LAMB, 1856

Was the son of Josiah Quincy and Polly (Nichols) Lamb, born in Earle, Vt., 3 February, 1834. He was prepared for college at the Montpelier Academy under the tuition of N. G. Clark, 1845, and others. He had already gained a sort of initiation into newspaper work by learning to set type at the age of thirteen. For three years after graduation he was principal of Rolaski Academy in Oswego county. At one time he served as assistant secretary of the Vermont Senate. In 1860 he began his journalistic career with the New York World, and was subsequently connected with the Burlington, Vt., Times, the Utica Morning Herald, and the Chautauqua Democrat, besides acting as Albany correspondent for several dailies in Central New York. He was also, in 1873, for some time the managing editor of the Troy Times. He became deputy superintendent of the N. Y. Bank Department, and in 1877, acting superintendent of the same, holding the position until 1880, when he became connected with the lasting honor of D. Powers & Son of Lansingburg as confidential and financial adviser, an association which continued until his retirement, May 1, 1909. Mr. Lamb's range of reading was wide, his views on social and political questions sound and judicious, and he excelled as a conversationalist. He married 2 September, 1868, Elizabeth Gertrude Brockway of Watertown, who survived him with a son, Dr. Robert J. Lamb, superintendent of State Asylum at Mattewan, and two daughters. His death at his home 1 July, 1911, was not unexpected, as he had been for some months in failing health. He was connected with the Unitarian Church.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIALIST SOCIETY.

The Intercollegiate Socialist Society, formed for the purpose of promoting an intelligent interest in Socialism among college men and women, has begun the college year 1914-15 with sixty student chapters in the principal colleges of the country. All students interested in the study of Socialism and allied subjects are eligible for membership.

The Sixth Annual Convention of the Society will be held in New York on December 29, 30, 31, 1914. The subject of the Convention dinner will be "How Can Permanent Peace Be Secured?" Prominent representatives of various lines of thought will speak on this occasion. The Society this year is planning a more active season than ever before, and will be glad to supply literature to those interested.

MISS ELIZBETH NEDORA HOOD, 1889

Daughter of Albert O. Hood and Betsey M. Craig, his wife, was born in Winooski in December, 1869; fitted for college at Burlington High School under S. W. Landon, 1874; was elected to Phi Beta Kappa; made further study of French and German in 1890-92; and taught these languages in various Western cities until 1897, when with a partner, she started an Art School in St. Paul, Minn., and also engaged in the importation of decorative art materials. She died at the home of a sister at Rockford, Ill., 28 June, 1914. Funeral services at Winooski, July 2. ROLLIN THURMAN HACK, 1878,

Was the son of Chester Bradley Hack and Julia Root, born in Lowell, Vt., January 19, 1856. The founder of the family came to America in 1658, and some of its members were actively engaged in the War of the Revolution. He gained his preparation for college under Joseph S. Cikey at Brandon. He entered college in 1874, but at the end of three years was compelled to withdraw from ill health. For six years he wandered in search of strength, though teaching a portion of the time. The years 1884-87 were spent in theological study at Bangs, where he gained the degree of B. D. He also studied at Oxford, England, 1892-94. In 1901 the University made him Master of Arts, and in 1913 gave him the A. B. course. He was ordained at Belfast, Me., September 30, 1887, and was pastor there until 1894; at Portland 1894-1904; at Gorham 1906-11; then at Housatonic, Mass. He died at Gorham, Me., September 16, 1914. In Maine he was moderator of the State Conference in 1898, and a trustee of Bangor Seminary in 1902. He married 13 March, 1878 Miriam M. Forbes, of Orwell, who with one son, now an instructor at Harvard University, survives him. He was a man of scholarly instincts, general and friendly in all his relationships. The funeral was in Gorham with interment in his native town.

Tea by Ladies' Faculty Club.

On Tuesday afternoon, December 1, the ladies of the faculty were hostesses at a tea given at the home of Mrs. Benton for the young women of the University, and the wives of the medical students.

U. V. M.'S FAMOUS ALUMNI.

Following is a list of prominent Vermont alumni published last year by the University. We insert it here hoping that it may inspire someone to make a little more pride in, and work a little harder for, Old Vermont.

The members of the first graduating class, 1804, were:

Charles Adams, Lawyer, Judge of Probate, and Trustee of the University 1823 to 1854.

Wheeler Barnes, Lawyer, Founder of La Grange, Illinois, New York State Assemblyman, Chairman of Commission in charge of the Erie Canal Bill. Cairus Kennan, Professor of Natural History, supposed joint contributor with Paulding and Irving to "Salmagundi."

Justus Perry Wheeler, Lawyer, born in Charlotte, 1872.

Among the sons of Vermont who have attained prominence may be mentioned:

Jacob Collamer, 1810, Judge, United States Senator, and Postmaster-General.

Maddeus Stevens, Statesman, and Wilbur Fiske, Founder of Wesleyan University, in the classes of 1814 and 1815 respectively, both of whom left college before graduation to participate in the War of 1812.

Asa O. Aldis, 1829, Judge of the Supreme Court of Vermont, President of the Southern Claims Commission, and United States Commissioner of French and American Claims.

John Gregory Smith, 1838, War Governor, President of the Central Vermont and the Northern Pacific Railroads.

Henry J. Raymond, 1840, Founder of the "New York Times."

James R. Spaulding, 1840, Founder of the "New York World."

John A. Kasson, 1842, Minister to Austria and Germany, Commissioner Plenipotentiary for Reciprocity Treaties.

William A. Wheeler, 1842, Vice-President of the United States.

Frederick Billings, 1844, President of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Henry O. Houghton, 1846, Founder of the Riverside Press.

Matthew Henry Buckham, 1851, President of the University of Vermont.

Charles Fayette Taylor, M. D., 1856, Founder of the New York Orthopedic Hospital and Infirmary.

Benjamin F. Stevens, 1857, Bibliographer, Editor, Agent for the British Museum and the Congressional Library.

Henry A. P. Torrey, 1858, Philosopher and Author.

ANNUAL BANQUET BECOMES PERMANENT — LAST YEAR'S SURPASSED

Unprecedented Enthusiasm, Songs, Cheers, Witticisms and Rattling Talks by Football, Baseball, and Track Men Features of Rousing Football Banquet.

The second annual football banquet, held Thursday night, December 10, at the Van Ness House was even more successful and enthusiastic in every way than the one held last year. It is safe to say that more real college spirit and "pep" was shown at this gathering than at any similar gathering held in the history of Vermont and this display of real U. V. M. spirit certainly made those who have thought that "pep" at U. V. M. was becoming a minor quantity change their opinion. By 8:30 nearly 180 students were assembled in the lobby of the hotel, and after giving the different class yells, they entered the dining room by classes. Between the six courses of the dinner, jokes, cheers and puns on the names of the football team, faculty and a few others present were given. Not one member of the team or athletic council was left out in this humorous sort of applause. Many of these puns and jokes would have made excellent material for the famous contemporaries "Ye Crabbe" and "Life." A hearty cheer was given Dr. Stone when it was announced that the day was the 65th anniversary of his birth.

The first feature of the evening, after the dinner had been served, as announced by the Toastmaster, President Benton, was the awarding of the "V's" to the team. As each man's name was called, he stood up in line and after the completion of the list Tom Fay led the procession around the dining room to the President, who congratulated each one. The first in line was Louis Little, '17, of Leominster, Mass., who had just been elected captain of next year's team by the "V" men present. Captain Little has been the big gun in the line for the past two years and will make an excellent leader. The names of the "V" men appear elsewhere, as do the names of the sophomores and freshmen receiving sweaters and numerals for participation in class games.

Capt. Ira L. Reeves, who, President Benton announced, had been made an honorary member of the U. K. M. A. society, was the first speaker of the evening. Capt. Reeves spoke of what an inspiration this gathering gave one

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION DINES.

The regular fall dinner of the Boston Alumni Association was held at the Hotel Westminster, Thursday evening, December seventeenth at 6.30 o'clock. The meeting was well attended and plenty of the right kind of spirit (not "spirits") was in evidence. The younger alumni were right on hand when it came to songs and cheers and it may be said in general that the meeting had the "snap" which the U. V. M. alumni gatherings all over the country are showing this year.

The guest and speaker of the evening was the Rev. William H. Van Allen, S. T. D., Rector of the Church of the Advent. Dr. Van Allen delivered an able and timely address on "The Moral Principles Involved in the Present War."

COUNCIL MAKES FOOTBALL AWARDS FOR THE YEAR

16 Men Receive the V—19 Sophomores Get Numerals and 21 Freshmen— Limited Number of Sweaters.

At a meeting of the athletic council Wednesday evening, December 9, the football, 'varsity and class awards were made for the year and announced the following night at the banquet. The following men were given the "V" for work on the football field: Pike, Little, Armstrong, Flynn DeMarco, Denning, Malcolm, Burke, Visner, Tennien, R. W. Smith, Walker, Abell, Glidden, Frank and Sturges. The above men were also voted sweaters with the exception of Little, Abell and Glidden, who received sweaters last year and are not therefore entitled to them again this year.

In the sophomore class (1917) the following received both numerals and sweaters: C. A. Ames, R. A. Foote, H. C. Merrill, R. C. Sanders, H. H. Metcalf, L. L. Connors, W. A. Blodgett, J. A. Hitchcock, A. W. Stanley and R. F. Joyce, manager. Numerals were given also to H. T. Stillwell, K. S. McLeod, E. M. Root, G. C. Greenwood, L. L. St. Cyr, R. Powers and L. M. DeCicco, who, having earned sweaters last year, could not receive them again this year. Edward Powers and R. W. Whitney of the sophomore class were also voted numerals, but under the rules for attendance at practice were debarred from receiving sweaters.

Seventeen freshmen received numerals and sweaters. They were: S. L. Harris, H. Mechanic, D. P. Powers, H. H. Sunderland, S. W. Keith, J. H. Logan, P. R. Johnson, R. D. Adams, H. V. Adams, R. G. Clark, F. S. Kent, H. C. Billings, K. K. Chase, W. J. Freeman, H. A. Dwinell, A. T. Woodward and R. J. Cushman. Injuries having kept both Woodward and Cushman

FIRST ANNUAL INTERCLASS DEBATE — 1917 WINS 2 TO 1

Classes Argue Federal Control of Liquor—Affirmative Wins—Class and Individual Cup Awards—Pres. Benton Presides.

The first interclass debate took place in Williams Science Hall last Wednesday evening before a small audience. President Guy Potter Benton presided. The question: "Resolved that Congress shall propose an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" was upheld by the sophomores while the freshmen took the negative. Ten minutes were allowed each man and five minutes for rebuttal.

F. R. Churchill, '17, opened the argument for the affirmative. He contended that the amendment was the only thing that would cure the present evil; that such a cure was necessary, first, because of the harmful effects of drink on the moral, mental and physical conditions of the people; because of the loss financially to the people by way of work, to the state in taxes, to the nation in money and life. He said, such an amendment would solve the so-called "labor problem" and "social evil." In nearly all cases the practical experience of the individual, the state and government condemn license. Not only the above arguments were offered but also the fact that public opinion and national sentiment demand it and will be satisfied with nothing less than total prohibition of the traffic.

This closed the first argument for the affirmative and C. D. Pierce took the platform with the opening argument for the negative. Mr. Pierce contended that such a law if passed should not be put as an amendment to the constitution, for he held that that would be contrary to the spirit of the constitution, but that if any such law seemed advisable or if the public seemed to demand such a law it should be put on the laws of the nation and not on the federal constitution. He held that such a measure would be an infringement of state rights; that at the time the constitution was adopted the sovereignty of states in regard to their own internal offices was acknowledged and any such act would be an infringement of this right. He believed that the liquor question is a matter entirely within the state and should be left to the state to regulate. He argued that to take away a state's power in a question like this relating to her

FOOTBALL ELECTIONS.

Thursday, Jan. 7.

The election for manager and assistant managers of football will take place on Thursday, January 7. Since the three candidates have simply to be ratified by the student body the election will be general, taking place in the chapel at 12.30. The candidates are: manager, H. A. Mack; assistant managers, F. C. Stewart and R. S. Joyce.

4th INTERCOLLEGIATE Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

Held at Montpelier Seminary—Vermont Sends Delegation of Seven Men, the Largest Present.

The fourth annual conference of the college students of Vermont was held at Montpelier Seminary Saturday and Sunday, December 12 and 13. The conference includes Vermont, Middlebury, Norwich, Vermont State Agricultural School, Montpelier Seminary, and Lyndon Agricultural School and is under the auspices of the state committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Vermont. For promoting such activities much credit is due Byron N. Clark, state secretary. The first year the conference was held at Middlebury, last year at Vermont, and this year at the Seminary which opened wide its doors to the delegates.

Vermont had the largest out-of-town delegation present exactly equal to all the others combined. It consisted of H. E. Crane, '15, M. H. Davis, '15, L. M. Prindle, '15, L. W. Dean, '15, P. H. Morey, '17, I. Ricker, '18, and C. S. Parker, '18. The agricultural school was represented by M. D. Barrett, '16, W. M. Carner, '16, G. W. Montgomery, '16, and Professor E. C. Kibbey (Vt., '06). Norwich sent two delegates, Professor Woodbury and C. A. Shinkum, '18; Middlebury one, C. T. Day, '15. Many were in attendance from the Seminary.

The Vermont delegation left Burlington at noon and with the Middlebury delegate was the first to arrive on the grounds. Entertainment was provided throughout the session by the Seminary. The program proper began with the supper at six o'clock followed by the post prandial exercises, conducted by Professor G. N. Perkins of the Seminary, toastmaster. The Seminary orchestra furnished music. The address of welcome was given by H. Earle Sweet, '15, president of the Seminary Association and responses were offered by L. W. Dean of Vermont, C. T. Day of Middlebury, Prof. Woodbury of Norwich and M. D. Barrett of V. S. A. Secretary Clark who attended. He thought that if Vermont spirit was closely analyzed that it would be found that the character of the young men was inwardly loyal, although not outwardly demonstrative and that the real spirit and willingness was there. He said that there were natural difficulties which made successful athletics impossible until they were overcome. The greatest difficulty was the distance of the athletic field from the college and the moving of this field would aid materially in making athletics more of a success. We should all get out, he concluded, and work for the interests of the college and boost it.

BECOMES PERMANENT.

Dr. C. H. Beecher, the next speaker, said that there were two points in the Boulder platform recently drawn up which were of great interest to him and which meant a great deal to the increase of success in athletics, namely, the changing of the athletic field and the question of a graduate manager for all athletics. He said the reason for the field being where it now is, was that a chance was offered to buy it at a low figure. Now the part of the field known as Centennial Field, which is only a small part of the whole field, is worth for building purposes all that was originally paid for the whole field and that sum would bring a suitable athletic field, near the gymnasium, which he hoped could be obtained in the near future. In regard to a graduate manager he said it was not so much of a question as to the position as to the man to fill it. He praised the excellent enthusiasm and spirit shown at the banquet and before the Middlebury game as being a fine thing for Vermont.

Doctor Stone, praised the team unstintingly, said that the general feeling of good fellowship ran high among its members, that they always took their knocks like men and, whether they won or lost, they always played like true sportsmen. After thanking those present for the sincere approval of his having lived so long he paid a tribute to Gutterson, who was "a man," he said, "the like of whom a university has only once in a hundred years" and who was a fine representative of the university. Dr. Stone took part in the first national field meet ever held in America and is one of the four competitors in those events still living.

Manager Sturges reviewed the past football season. He claimed that the material was of the best this year and that the team had fought in good spirit and deserved to win, but he named two faults, namely, that the schedule was too hard but was prompted by the question or finances, and the second, that the coaching system was at fault. He said there was a lack of cooperation between the coach and all of the members of the team which did not tend to bring about the best of results. He thanked the student body for their cooperation and especially the team for their hearty support in all his undertakings, saying that his association with them would always be the happiest thought of his college life.

It has been the custom, President Benton resumed, to call upon the newly-elected manager, but the elections because of complications had been postponed until some future date by the Boulder Society.

Captain Flynn said he had done all in his power to make a team worthy of praise. He said that the quicker we see that we can not be battered against big teams and win, the better for Vermont. He thanked the members of the team for their treatment of him and the student body for their support.

After the singing of Champlain, Professor S. E. Bassett, of the athletic council, stated that he had been longer in the university than any other member of the council except the chairman and that 10 years ago the present enthusiasm and "pep" was not only unheard of but was an unthinkable thing. He said nothing could stand against Vermont if this spirit increased in the next ten years as it had in the past.

Captain-elect Little thanked the team for the honor they conferred upon him and hoped he could fill the place as well as it had been in the past. He said the team was to play teams in our class next year and that there were to be four home games, which should bring out more interest in the sport. He hoped for a hearty cooperation among the members of the team. He asked for more candidates, and the support of the students, and stated that with these factors, the team turned out next year could do something, and was going to do something, worthy of praise.

Baseball was the next subject of discussion. Mgr. H. A. Gardyne was very optimistic in regard to the team this year, with the added facilities of the new cage, with eight veterans back and promising material in the freshman class. Practice will start earlier this year and with the facilities of the new cage every man will have a chance to show his true worth before the southern trip. This trip starts March 24 and includes eight or nine games, practically the same ones as last year. The schedule will be somewhat shortened this year. The home schedule opens April 28 with Syracuse. So far 13 home and 12 out-of-town games have been scheduled. He said the present prospects pointed toward a team of which all would be proud and which would be willing to meet any teams in the country.

Captain Mayforth was also optimistic in regard to the prospects for a winning team. He said as yet the coach had not been selected and as for places on the team, the best men would get them, and every one will get a square deal.

Professor G. P. Burns of the athletic council spoke of the great advantage of the new cage and what it will mean to the university. He considered a graduate manager a most important factor and subordinated other demands to this one.

J. B. Johnson, manager of track, outlined the plans of that department for the year. He said that there was a well balanced aggregation of men of whom great things were expected after training and development. Although most of last year's men are back, he pleaded for more candidates. The first meet will be February 6, when the relay team will run against Tufts in the B. A. A. meet. On March 1, the indoor class meet takes place. May 1, comes the dual meet with Colgate, at Hamilton; May 15, a home meet with Middlebury; with May 22 reserved for the New England inter-collegiate at which it is expected U. V. M. will be represented this year. May 29, there will be another home meet with N. H. State, and a meet is pending for May 8 with M. A. C. at Amherst.

Capt. E. S. Hayden of the track team said that track had not been given the means to make this branch of athletics very successful because they had not had the men. He deplored the false reports of the inefficiency of the coaching system and pleaded for more candidates to work out.

The banquet broke up at 12 o'clock, and each one left with the idea uppermost in his mind to work harder for the good of old Vermont.

INDOOR RIFLE CONTESTS.

Commons Club Takes Organization Cup—R. W. Daniels, '15, Individual.

Indoor rifle contests were held in the shooting gallery Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, December 16 and 17, in competition for the L. C. Clark cup offered for the best individual score and the best score by an organization. Company C, Sigma Nu, and the Commons Club had teams competing for the latter cup. The results were as follows: First, Commons Club, 539; second, Sigma Nu, 525; third, Company C, 450. The individual cup was won by R. W. Daniels, '15, with a score of 186.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held Wednesday evening, December 16, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. Miss Porter, '16, conducted the meeting which consisted of a literary program on "Goethe als Lyriker?" Several of Goethe's poems were read by members of the club.

GUTTERSON, '12, OUT FOR WORLD RECORD

At Present Holds Olympic Broad Jump Record, and Will Carry the Name of Vt. Again to the Fore.

Members of the university are very much pleased to learn that Al Gutterson, '12, holder of the New England Intercollegiate records in the broad jump and the low hurdles, has decided to compete in the athletic world again this spring. Gutterson is Vermont's greatest track man. When he first came to Vermont he was undeveloped and was no greater track man than several in college today. Before leaving he was the best high and low hurdler, broad and high jumper, hundred yard and quarter man, and relay man in the university. Gutterson astounded the world by jumping 24 feet, 11½ inches in the running broad jump at the Stockholm Olympic games in 1912, breaking the Olympic record.

He announced his retirement after the Elks carnival held at Fenway Park, Aug. 10, 1912. Since then he has not put on a shoe. Business gave his scant time for athletics, but he has written to the Boston Athletic Association, which club he represents, that he has decided that he is far from being passé and is in a position to train. He says it will not take him long to get into shape and he thinks he can jump over 25 feet. He wants to compete at the Pan-American games at San Francisco next summer. The Vermont athlete believes that the climate of the Pacific coast will aid him in his attempt to beat the world's record figures of 24 feet, 11¾ inches, now held by Peter O'Connor.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.

and principal Hatch of the Seminary also spoke. Not a little humor mingled with the seriousness to drift about the corners of the cheery reception room. Following these talks some reports from the various associations, and then the principal address of the evening by Wallace M. Ross, graduate secretary of the Dartmouth association.

Mr. Ross spoke of the two features which make a successful association as activity and efficiency. An association may have neither, it may have either, but it needs both to be successful. Many stories and experiences taken from actual work in the field marked the progress of his remarks. Dartmouth's specialty is deputation work with the preparatory schools and townships of the state. 17,709 people were reached last year by this deputation service. No communities are more in need of this kind of work than the smaller townships of Vermont. 8400 men attended campus meetings during the year. 311 undergraduates engaged in the association's activities. This year the Association has a membership of over 900. An attempt is made to organize the whole situation on a business basis, and the work is put up to men on the basis of being a big man's job. As a result the big men in college have taken it up, and as a proof of efficiency the trustees are now turning over to the Association University Hall to be entirely under their management and responsibility even to its reconstruction if destroyed.

On Sunday afternoon, after a short program in the morning, two conferences were held, one led by Clarence P. Shedd, student secretary of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and the other by Mr. Ross. Mr. Shedd took up Industrial Service, Membership, and Finances. One astonishing fact brought out by him, in the light of the experiences of the Vermont Association, was that there are usually more men ready to go into industrial service work than there is a field for. Mr. Ross dealt with Religious Meetings, Deputation work, Bible and Mission study. Each speaker questioned the different Associations present concerning these activities in their institutions.

At four o'clock in the Seminary chapel the closing exercises were held, a student mass meeting. Special music was rendered by the Seminary male quartette. Mr. Shedd delivered the address of the occasion, "Students of North America United." He told of conditions in our American colleges of a hundred years ago when Yale seniors could keep only two gallons of wine in their rooms at commencement time and the president of Bowdoin one year rejoiced that finally one Christian student had entered his college. He traced the slow, then rapid, then phenomenal growth of the Student Volunteer and Y. M. C. A. movements in the colleges—the first originating at Williams, the latter at the University of Virginia—and showed how from isolated attempts they had united into a national movement and world wide organization. Three of the challenges of to-day are general campus life and conduct, extension of service, and deeper personal consecration. It was only last year that the captain of the Yale varsity football team wrote Baker, captain of the Princeton team that he would go before his student body and make a stand for no gambling if Baker would do the same. Baker consented, and both captains made their pleas with the only result that could be expected, their student bodies stood behind them and there was far less gambling than at any preceding Yale-Princeton game. This service was presided over by Professor C. A. Davis. Principal Hatch gave the closing message.

BOULDER MEETINGS.

Meetings of the Boulder Society were held on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week. At the latter meeting representatives from Cap and Skull, the senior medical honorary society were present. It was voted to hold football elections Thursday, January 7. Indications point to the formation in the near future of a strong student governing body, representative, and vested with complete power. It is expected that the plan ultimately submitted by Boulder and Cap and Skull, by Key and Serpent and Ukma will meet with the common support of both faculty and students.

CYNIC NOTICE.

The next issue of the CYNIC will appear the first Saturday after the Christmas recess, January 9.

Freshman Spirit.

What has become of the freshman class? Such a perfected lack of spirit as was evidenced during the early days of last week it is safe to say has never been attained within the history of any class in the university. If some radical change does not take place, 1918 will have established a unique and peculiar history at Vermont. Such a disgraceful showing as at the pre-banquet smoker could scarcely be equalled. Mainly for the underclassmen the smoker was put on, but one looked far before locating a number of this class of 1918. Freshmen aren't seniors or juniors—not yet—and they're jolly well expected to get a little move on and turn out to such affairs, and learn a little about Vermont. And it would seem that they've got quite a little to learn. A freshman is supposed to take the brunt of things, he's expected to get out and show himself and work whether he wants to or not, it's the edict of every college, and when a class begins to get the idea it can drift irresponsibly along it will go to pieces just as 1918 appears to be doing. Now there is some good stuff in 1918, some mighty good stuff, but a few men in the class, the few whom we notice are always out—can't be the whole class. Every man has got to pull his oar or the boat begins to lose. And it's for every man to come up strong, keep in a body, and show what 1918 can do.

College Spirit.

Somehow there has grown up a feeling that for the sake of college spirit university activities should be held on the hill. At present the feeling is a sort of general impression, but concerted movement is beginning to get behind it. The first instance of a decided change occurred in the case of the Glee Club which held its entertainment on the hill this year for the first time. The vaudeville will probably do likewise. Upper-classmen feel that the tendency is to drift away from the hill, to separate, that instead we should concentrate and get the habit of going to the hill. It was extremely gratifying to hear Professor Bassett the other evening at the banquet bear witness to the wonderful change in college spirit that he himself had witnessed since being here. But the movement is still going on, spirit is needed behind everything, and this plan of making the hill a common meeting place should help out the idea. It means that more college men will attend college activities and that townspeople will have to come up and get acquainted with the college. If all college entertainments and other activities do take place on the hill, then students should make a special effort to attend and boost this as one idea of bringing in more union and more spirit.

The Boulder Platform.

Whatever is said in this editorial is said chiefly to show that there may be another side to the question of the Boulder Platform than that presented by the two letters of last week. This, like every other question, has two sides. It seems to be quite generally conceded by the students and by a number of the faculty that the rules, on the whole, are good and that there is need of improvement along the lines suggested. The only question on the students' side is—are the honorary society men the right men to present and uphold them? One thing is very certain, the student body would not have had the rules in its behalf had it depended on any other set of men in the university than the Boulder men to provide them. Then why at the very outset say the rules in the main are good, but we don't want you honorary society men to champion us. What difference does it make who does the championing so long as it is done? It is very true that Boulder, Key and Serpent and Ukma are not popular elective bodies. They are to a very great extent, however, representatives. Is there any other similar number of men so much at the heart of college activities and know so much about college activities as the men in these three societies? If we were to compare their lists with the lists of those who compose the student council for instance, an elective body, which group would we find best able to represent the activities of the university? The society men have a first hand knowledge of its undergraduate affairs; as managers of teams, as captains of teams, as club men, and dramatic men, as men who have been for two or three years talking over these matters with faculty members, and faced the difficulties in actual practice they know whereof they speak. Probably some of the most important planks in the platform are considered as entirely needless by the majority of the student body simply because the student body as a unit has never been in a position to see the need. Undoubtedly there are some undeserving men in the honorary societies, but can we find perfection anywhere? Most of these men have striven for honors and won them, and membership in the activities has largely been their goal, the cause of competition. Can we say, then, there is no need for these societies? It is easy for a man who has never taken part as a leader in college activities to lean back and criticize. The chances are were the university to depend on him very little would be done. Yet he uses his right of criticism to the full. We speak of "representative bodies," and this makes a good slogan, but when we think of our class elections and the politics which begin with the nominating board and continue through to the casting of the ballots, we sometimes must wonder if these self-perpetuating systems do not bring just as good results. And now comes the other side of this question. The platform came with a thump, unexpectedly, it looked radical, but Boulder, Key and Serpent, Ukma or any other society or body could not thrust these ideas down the throat of the faculty, and the society men know this as well as anyone else. The only way the objects can be obtained is by thought and by cooperation. The faculty has not ridiculed them, it has already begun to respond and assist. It is safe to say again that if the faculty were to call in men whose fingers were at the pulse of the student body, whose opinions are respected as those of men knowing the student body and its activities and how things stand on both sides, they would be men from the honorary societies. And as for the students, these men are the strongest men to represent them. Who then could be better mediators? Until a better plan is evolved it would seem that the societies are the ones to once more assume the responsibilities of student leadership in the university. By working carefully, consistently, determinedly they will retain the respect of faculty and students, and work that needs doing can be accomplished by the men who seem most fitted to undertake it. Always, however, these societies must remember that there is some ground for the censoring directed now and then against them and that they can hold the respect and confidence of all only as they maintain a high personnel and integrity.

Class Constitutions.

Concerning class constitutions: It seems to have become a custom in the university, due we believe more to negligence than intent, for a class to formulate and adopt a constitution only as it enters its junior or senior years. It is adopted then because complications reveal no standard to which to appeal and by which to abide, or because the downright negligence of the thing suddenly strikes the class members. The present senior class adopted its constitution only under stress of junior year. The junior class just adopted theirs. The sophomore and freshman classes have none. Now the only logical time in which to establish a constitution is in the first year of a class's history. Then the class has something to go by. There is constant need for such a standard of action—it is seen at almost every class election. At times there is dire need. When a class undertakes to draw up its constitution, the committee should consult the constitutions of the upper classes. These are not infallible, they may have weaknesses, but they have stood the test and contain some valuable suggestions. 1918 would be wise in drawing up her constitution at once, and then making sure that it is adopted by the class so that it may not be disputed later.

THE BOULDER QUESTION.

Students of the University:

I stated in last week's CYNIC that in my opinion the University of Vermont had not become so effeminate as to allow an honorary society which is self-perpetuating to control and supervise student activities. Furthermore I hinted that the time was ripe for a general reorganization of student activities toward centralized control subject directly to the students and indirectly to the faculty.

We cannot hope to form closer ties of interest between the student body and faculty unless we can show mutual confidence and respect; we cannot alienate the faculty and yet stimulate faculty-student co-operation. Furthermore, in efficient systems of control there must be some administrative supervision. Still, we must also realize that a Faculty-Student Council will either be a faculty controlled body or it will have no definite power to execute its ordinances; and such a body among college men as among citizens can carry out its decrees only so far as student opinion will back it up. And these facts alone will tend to place such a council in an atrophied position—the original powers will sooner or later be lost. This is the criticism I have heard several voices against our council.

Now the following principles ought to be considered and not brushed aside lightly according to anyone's radical or conservative tendencies because they seem to embody elements of mutual confidence and respect as between faculty and council; and they also in general terms clearly set forth the powers of the governing body.

Suppose in thinking over the question we consider the following principles: (1) There should be a elective governing body of student alone, called either the Boulder Society or the Student Commission, of not more than fifteen members or less than five. We should also consider that the university is a co-educational institution and give representation proportional to numbers upon this council. (2) The faculty should have the power (not through committee) either to appoint one-fifth of the commission or to veto the election of those whom it thinks unfit; if the latter alternative the veto should state definitely the reasons for the action. (3) This commission of society should have all executive and ordinance powers subject to proper referendum to the student body. (4) The meetings of said body should be open and public to students and faculty members. (5) This body should have the power to recognize, regulate, and supervise all student activities and should be the budget making board of recognized activities. (6) This body should be allowed $75 per annum for expenses and should be severally liable for any expense in excess of that amount. (7) The accounts of said organization and of all student organization should be audited semi-annually by a committee of three appointed by the President of the University; two of said committee should be professors and the third a member of the senior class. This committee should publish its reports and make recommendations to the governing body.

If the present council and the Boulder Society have any plans to advance they should do so at their earliest convenience. And we in mass meeting should be given opportunity to discuss and to amend—if necessary—their proposals. Then we should be permitted to vote by ballot box and check list upon the measures as amended. If passed, submit the plan to the faculty senate; if absolutely vetoed, don't strike but bring it up continually until the movement wins. Let such action come from the student body with a consistent purpose of sane businesslike reorganization and it can't lose! We do not need any babyhood of July celebrations to carry student government; we need cool headed deliberate politics characterized by fairness to all for I am sure some such plan will receive hearty support from many on the faculty.

The plan I outlined may contribute but little to the powers of the present council but it does emphasize certain features so as to make them recognizable to all. So let's forget the man who advances the plan in consideration of the pros and cons of the scheme.

After some thought between the last paragraph and this and after some discussion with others, I respectfully request the president of the Senior class to call as soon as possible a mass meeting of students to consider my plan; to make amendments thereto; or to reject the same. This plan is based upon sound principles of organization; embodies mutual respect and confidence as between faculty and students; whatever objections may be opposed to it, it offers a constructive reorganization which we sadly need. Personally I do not care to usurp the rights of the Faculty-Student Council but when two members of said council said there was no hurry as long as we were sure of getting student government "sometime," I asked myself if we were sure of a proposition until we made some move to get it.

So I ask you men of Vermont who and for efficient business, who believe to a certain extent in the platform advanced by the Boulder Society, and who are big enough to lay aside for the time being society, fraternity and definite student activity ties to come out, to be insurgents for a little while, and to assume your true places in leadership. And if the men whom

I have in mind will do this, remembering that the university is an entity and not an aggregate of activities, you men will be supported by the students and you will have—I know—strong support on the faculty. This movement must come from us as students, not from us as Boulder men, or as members of the present council and not from the faculty or administration.

H. Albon Bailey 1914 and 1915.

AN ALUMNUS ON THE QUESTION. To the editor of the CYNIC:

There is something radically wrong when there is such a strained feeling between the student body and the faculty as, I remember, there used to be and seems to be at present at Vermont.

Since graduation I have been somewhat connected with another New England college of about the same size of U. V. M. While here I have often noted the cordial attitude of faculty and students toward each other. I have scarcely heard of any "kicks" at the faculty as a whole.

I am inclined to think that this happy state of affairs is due to the extremely lenient manner in which the faculty deal with student activities. To a large extent it seems to be a "hands-off policy."

Through a senate composed exclusively of students elected by the students, activities with exception of athletics are managed with a fair degree of success and to the entire approval of both faculty and students. Even in athletics which are more closely connected with the faculty such supervision seems to be more nominal than active, the faculty exerting an influence only.

Perhaps the unhappy relations between faculty and students at Vermont would be improved by such methods as these. It would benefit both the university and the students.

Some place might be found for Boulder in such a scheme as the above. It could perhaps be made the executive head of a self-governing student body.
A Recent Alumnus.

PHI CHI BANQUET.

NEW GYM. SYSTEM WORKING WELL.

Will Enable Coaches to Get a Line on Athletes.

Dr. Stone has adopted a new and original gymnasium system this year. It is meeting the approval of the students and is working well. By this system the students are given work along two different lines. The first half of the gymnasium period is taken up with a dumb-bell drill, and work on the horizontal bars, the parallel bars and the horses. In the second part of the period an individual trial of each man's athletic ability is made. Trials are made in the "push-ups," the "pull-ups," the high jump and the 110 yard race. In all of this work the men are graded by the "A-X" system, the same as in scholarship. This method of grading naturally develops a competition among the men which leads them to take far more interest in the work.

The chief object of this new system is to develop the physique of each and every student. But, aside from this, it will be of great value to Dr. Stone and the coaches in picking men for the various athletic teams.

PLANS FORMING FOR NEW ATHLETIC FIELD.

To Be on Back Campus.

An athletic field nearer the university, such as was discussed at the football banquet, was one of the main features of a plan for the development of the university ground, favorably considered by the Trustees at a meeting Tuesday night. By this plan the athletic field would be moved from Centennial field, where all outdoor athletic events have been held, since 1904, to the back campus. It is planned to build concrete stands lighted by electricity. Ornamental posts would carry a take down canvas fence surrounding the grounds. A scheme for the grouping of new buildings and for beautifying the grounds is included in the plan. It is expected that the final decision as to the adoption of the plan will be given soon.

GIRLS VOTE ATHLETIC TAX.

During the chapel hour, Monday, December 14, the girls of the junior class met and voted to pay an athletic tax of two dollars and a half, this tax to be put on the term bill at mid-years. For next year the tax will cover the entire college year and will be five dollars, one-half payable in the fall and one-half at mid-years.

On Tuesday the girls of the sophomore class met and voted a similar tax, but, since many of the class were not represented at the meeting, there is some doubt as to whether the motion will hold.

Mt. Hermon Club.

The Mt. Hermon Club held a meeting last Sunday afternoon at the Alpha Tau Omega House. R. A. Healy, '15, who responded to the toast on Vermont at the school's annual Thanksgiving banquet, made a report.

COMMONS CLUB PLACES ITS FUTURE IN THE HANDS OF ITS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

At its last week's meeting, the Commons Club took several very important steps regarding its future policy. The most important of these was the passage of a resolution recognizing in matters of extreme importance to the club the authority of the C. C. Alumni Association, and pledging the club to go for advice to the alumni before taking radical political measures of any sort. This resolution and attitude is looked upon by most as a significant thing, as it probably places the present, very broad, exceedingly democratic policy on a rock which will weather any storm.

The C. C. Alumni Association was formed last June by members of the classes of '11, '12, '13 and '14. The organization was formed "to keep a guiding hand upon the activities of the undergraduate body of the club, and to continue the interest, communication and pleasant relationship between C. C. men, when they shall have left the university." Jasper O. Draffin, '13, is president and Clarence Adams, '12, general secretary.

Last night the annual "Xmas Social" was held in the rooms. One of the events of the evening was the presentation of a large mission reading table for the club rooms. A recently formed seven piece orchestra furnished music for the evening.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING.

Alfred Noyes Read by Prof. Ogle.

At an unusually well attended meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association last Friday afternoon, Professor Ogle read several charming selections from Alfred Noyes. Among the poems read were "The Red of the Dawn," a fairy tale from The Forest of Wild Thyme, and "Flos Mercatorum," a part of Dick Whittington's Tales from the Mermaid Tavern. Professor Ogle's delightful reading and interpretation of the poems were greatly enjoyed by all who were fortunate enough to be present. Plans are on foot for many equally interesting programs for the meetings of the coming college term. It is hoped that these meetings will be even better attended than last Friday's meeting.

MILITARY TOURNAMENT POSTPONED INDEFINITELY.

The military tournament of the U. V. M. Battalion has been postponed pending the completion of the gymnasium annex. The ground will have to be leveled and lighting and heating apparatus will have to be installed. If the work on the annex is rushed through, every effort will be made to hold the tournament before the mid-year examinations.

AGGIE CLUB.

The Agricultural Club held a meeting last Monday. Reports on the fruit judging team were read. It was voted to extend to the Economics Department a vote of thanks for the reception given them. The business meeting was followed by a short program, after which refreshments were served.

WEEKLY MEETING OF DEBATING CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Debating Club was held Monday evening, Dec. 14, in the Old Mill. There was a spirited debate on the question: "Resolved that the United States should materially increase her standing army." The affirmative was taken by Piper and Carlton and the negative was defended by Bailey and Shippy. The judges, Professor Tupper, Davis, '15, and Grismer, '16, awarded the decision to the negative. Lewis, '17, was admitted to membership and several other names were proposed for consideration.

C. E. BADGER FIRST IN STRENGTH TESTS.

At the time that the freshmen took their physical examinations, they were put through certain strength tests which resulted as follows: C. E. Badger, 1st, 3,100 lbs.; C. T. Roberts, 2nd, 2,800 lbs.; L. W. Merrill, 2,742 lbs.; S. H. Keith, 2,144 lbs.; H. Williams, 2,133 lbs.

CLASS BASKETBALL SCHEDULE.

Engineering Lecture.

On Tuesday morning of the current week a representative of the Buckeye-mobile Company gave an illustrated lecture before the engineering classes. The Buckeye-mobile engine is known as the locomobile abroad. He traced the development of the engine, and by slides illustrated its parts and manner of working.

internal power would be a big step toward centralized government and monarchy. He quoted part of the fifth amendment to the federal constitution, which reads:

"Nor shall he be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law." He draws from that that a measure which would ruin millions of dollars worth of liquor business would be a chief violation of this principle. He next compared the agitation for total prohibition to dissection on religious matters from age to age. Force was never found successful in religion. How can we hope that in this case force will make the people temperate?

A. C. Lewis was the second man to debate for the affirmative. He stated that because of the great political influence exercised by the liquor organization, national prohibition was demanded. He insisted that the saloon is a public wrong, that it was neither constitutional, inalienable, whereof, a natural right, that the saloon was admitted by the court to be a public menace. He pointed out that over fifty-five thousand die annually from drink; that is every eight days as many as were lost in the Titanic disaster. Would it not be as well to prevent this greater loss of life as to take measures regarding the lesser as has been done? He brought out the fact that regulation of the traffic has been unavailable and gave his opinion that if it cannot be regulated it must be destroyed. He mentioned the liquor traffic as being an outlaw industry and asked "if ten states have outlawed the saloon and prospered from it why could it not be a good plan for the nation to follow?" He stated that the saloon acted against the school as an impediment to national prosperity.

L. A. Woodward then took up the argument for the negative. He said "Suppose the law passed—then would we have enforcement. In 1861 Maine went dry. It made no effort to enforce it until 1890 and since then it has never been enforced to any great extent." He drew from this that the national law could not be enforced any better than the state law. He pointed out that all breweries and saloons could shut up at once and the habitual drinker would be left with no honest means of getting what seemed to him to be a necessity. They could not do without the liquor and the consequence would be that they would form secret societies and manufacture liquor in small bonds. He held that the law could not be enforced entirely in towns and localities where public opinion is against it. He even thought it possible for a civil war to result when the employees got together, an army several times larger than our standing army and militia combined. When he pointed out the results of non-enforcement of the constitution. Not only would we lose our own self-respect but also the respect of foreign nations. Hitchcock then took the platform and closed the main argument for the affirmative. His argument hinged on the expediency of the question. Local and county option had been tried, he said, with varying success but it could not be effectual as the liquor interests wrongly controlled the police. Taking up state prohibition, he pointed out the difficulty of enforcing the law as there were so many ways of evading the law. This proposed amendment, he contended, was not a party law and hence should be supported by all parties. Sixty per cent. of the population live in no license communities, showing that public opinion or at least the opinion of the majority is for no license.

As to the enforcement of the law once it were put through Hitchcock said: "The government now competently controls revenue taxes and has put a stop to the 'moonshine' business. If they can do this, why not that wonderful machine of government enforce this new law as part of the constitution? Under the present system the enforcement of the law is impossible against the powerful machine of the liquor dealers. "The federal government could stop the matter at its very fountain head. The liquor organization would be crushed, for once their powerful national organization is broken up the rest is easy." This closed the main debate for the affirmative.

P. R. Johnson gave the closing argument for the negative, arguing chiefly on the results if the measure were put through. He first mentioned the economic results. For the year 1913-14 he said the revenue from liquor was greater than one-third the year's national expense. Thus, he argued, if this income were taken away direct taxation or taxation of necessities would be necessary. "Over a million will be thrown out of work," he said, "which my opponents make no provision for." What is the result—wages go down, cost of living comes up—we have a panic—after that a change—perhaps a revolution. My opponents would make a law that the people would have to live up to when later they would not want it. They say liquor is absolutely injurious, I contend that this is not so, for many famous men have been moderate drinkers. Self-control and moderation is necessary. Liquor does not make weak characters—weak characters make men drink liquor in excess. This amendment would take away the peoples' self-reliance. This measure is not the public wish. This measure takes the peoples' will from them and places it in the hands of a high power. It leads from freedom to despotism. Furthermore, there is a possibility of adopting it when the majority of the people are not in favor of it. For instance, thirty-six states of small population could carry it while in the remainder of the states the population would total up more. How can the United States enforce this law in communities where the people are not in favor of it?"

He also brought out that if the United States went dry, Canada would have little difficulty in shipping the stuff across the border, so that they would reap the benefit in revenue instead of the United States.

The first rebuttal was made on the negative side by Mr. Pierce. He questioned the statement made by his opponent that prohibition would empty poor houses and jails, and showed by statistics, using New York State as an example, that the individual money in the banks was greater under "wet" than under "dry." He questioned the statement made that the federal government could prevent the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, holding that it would cause a great many illegal stills and a great deal of "moonshine" business "My opponents say," he stated, "that the business is an outlaw and in the next breath they say the government is a partner in the business. Can we consider the United States Government a partner in an outlaw industry?" He considered talk about constitutional, inalienable, inherent, natural rights dodging the question.

Mr. Churchill then opened the debate for the affirmative. He denied that they were using force when sixty per cent. of the people wanted the amendment. He stated that license men had refused time and again to take a popular vote on the subject. The negative had said that such an amendment would be contrary to the spirit of the constitution. Mr. Churchill said the spirit of the constitution was to promote the general welfare of the people, which purpose the bill would serve. "They argue," he said "that because the law can not be enforced in Maine, the government cannot enforce it. That is not so. They also fail to take into consideration the fact that instead of the twelve millions which would be spent by Maine under license she spent in the last year only one million for intoxicating drink." He said that the million people then out of work by the closing of saloons and breweries, would go into other manufacturing lines, or secret societies, for the purpose of manufacturing liquor, could not exist because public opinion would not favor it," he said.

Woodward then continued the negative side stating that public opinion seemed to be not for prohibition, but for temperance. He affirmed that the people do not want the amendment and held also that the motion had no right to take away the property or business of the liquor interests without some good return being made. "It could never be wiped out," he said, "secret societies could exist and would."

Mr. Lewis then took the affirmative. He held that even if it did violate private rights as the negative asserted, that the public good came first of all. As for the Government being a producer, he said that the Government has to control the business or liquor would rule.

Mr. Johnson then took the negative. "Assume, for the sake of argument," he said, "that the amendment was carried and enforced to the letter. Would it then be good for the people? When you are taking away the supply, you are not taking away the market. Drinks being denied where would these people go? Why, to Patent Medicines. Did you know that Peruna contains 28.59% alcohol; Vinol, 18.88%; Hoff's Extract of Malt and Iron 5.24%; Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 20.61%; many root remedies, 7.32%; these percentages by volume and taken from the Massachusetts Board of Health Report for 1912.———And beer containing only 5% alcohol. You would be substituting impure stuff for material which is tested and standardized by the Government today. Not only that, but these "remedies" contain besides alcohol, often drugs, cocaine, morphin and perhaps in some cases opium. From their use then we would reap not only the liquor habit but the drug habit as well."

Hitchcock closed the debate for the affirmative. "I hold," he said, "that this amendment would cover patent medicines and all other intoxicants. Maine to which they continually refer, is in a hard situation. With 'wet' states on three sides of her and the 'wet' ocean on the other, I mean that seriously, for with her long seacoast she can hardly prevent the landing of a good deal of liquor shipped from Boston and other drink centers." He said that New York was not a fair state to pick in taking statistics regarding the internal revenue bank rolls in "wet" and in "dry" territory because of the great concentrated wealth in the city of New York. He held that even if there was some "moonshine" business done that it would lock the back door of the National organization and therefore amount to little.

This closed the debate and the three judges cast their ballots. President Benton announced two in favor of the sophomores and one in favor of the freshmen. He said he was glad it had happened this way as it was a credit to the good work done by the freshmen on perhaps the harder side of the argument. "The freshmen," he said, "were laboring under great odds as I know them personally and some of their fathers as well and know that personally they are not in favor of the side on which they have been arguing tonight." Dr. Benton deplored the fact that the latter class debates had not received the support given to the athletic teams, but he believed that the interest in debating was reviving and hoped it would continue to do so. In presenting the individual cups to the winners, F. R. Churchill, A. C. Lewis and J. A. Hitchcock, he said, "I am confident that nothing but cold water will be used in these cups for drinking purposes." The class cup was given by him to Mr. Hitchcock for the sophomore team and is to be held for one year.

The class cup was presented by H. A. Bailey, '14; the individual cups by the debating association. The judges were: J. E. Cushman, T. E. Hopkins and S. R. Moulton.

Y. M. C. A. CONTRIBUTES AID TO CITY INDUSTRIAL SERVICE

Great Training and Something to it, Say Workers Who Offer Opinions
—More Men Needed.

Industrial service has become a live wire in the Y. M. C. A. It appeals to men because they see themselves accomplishing something. It is not theoretical. When a foreigner takes out his naturalization papers, another learns to speak English, or a twelve-year-old French boy, who has grown up neglected by the city, learns to read for the first time, men who have been in the work say that it makes them feel good to think that it is due to them. It's solid work, work that counts, the kind of work that's worth while. The man who takes it up is gaining experience which is to help him win future success.

The Y. M. C. A. is now conducting classes at the Champlain school, the city library, at Winooski in conjunction with one of the churches, three men are at the Home for Destitute Children, two at the city Y. M. C. A., two or three will soon be at the Neighborhood House, and more are needed. One in particular is needed for a boys' Bible class at the city Y. M. C. A., and some for the Neighborhood House. Any man who wishes to take up the work may see either Dr. Barnes between the hours of 4 and 5 p. m. at the Y. M. C. A. office, or W. D. Jones, chairman of the committee. There follow a few ideas contributed by men who were in the work last year.

"A few days ago I was requested to contribute an account of my experiences in connection with last year's Y. M. C. A. industrial classes. This work, right from the start, proved intensely interesting, but in telling about it I find myself somewhat at a loss to know just what to relate. I will do my best, however, to give an account which I hope may interest others in taking up this work.

University Y. M. C. A. Men at Work

"About a year ago Mr. F. H. Rindge, Jr., traveling secretary and industrial expert, began the organization of the present industrial service work of the U. V. M. The first class, consisting of about half a dozen Italians, met at the Fletcher Free Library and ten or twelve college men were present to see Mr. Rindge demonstrate his system of teaching English to foreigners. He began by speaking a few verbs and having the class repeat them, then he spoke whole sentences using these verbs and explaining the meaning of each sentence by appropriate gestures. He then had the class read the same sentences, repeating after him from a large chart, and in about an hour they had learned the first lesson of about fifty-six words, and understood their meaning. The future meetings of this class were assigned to Mr. Gaylord and myself.

"At the next meeting there were about eight present. A few of them could speak a little English, but others could speak hardly any so we divided end and covered with green burlap. Palms were used to trim the stage, giving a simple but dignified appearance fitting for the occasion. On one side was a Steinway grand piano secured especially for the occasion.

Over forty participated in the fourteen numbers on the program which was varied and suited to all tastes. Besides the Glee Club of thirty men, the College Quartette, String Quartette, Miss Tenney and R. W. Pedan, reader, assisted. The whole might be said to have centered about Mr. Bispham, who was greeted with continued applause at each appearance and whose wonderful voice captivated all. But without the Musical Clubs the affair would have been tame indeed. Great credit is due Mr. Swett, the leader, and Manager Remby for their success in turning out such a successful club and in making the home concert the success it was.

The Club was composed of C. H. Swett, '15, H. A. Mayforth, '15, E. S. Hayden, '15, L. F. Dow, '15, W. E. Remby, '15, W. S. Weeks, '16, M. H. Petty, '16, N. Williams, '16, A. L. Lavery, '16, W. F. Gallagher, '16, U. A. Woodbury, '16, F. E. Griffin, '16, (Continued on page 6.)

WINTER SHORT COURSE HAS BEGUN

Attendance Large—9 Instructors, 30 Lecturers—Certificates to be Issued—Farmers' Week, Feb. 22-26.

The winter short course in the agricultural college opened Monday, December 28, with 38 students enrolled. This is the largest attendance for several years. A considerable number of applications have also been received for the second course. The first four weeks will be devoted to creamery work including the manufacture of butter, ice cream and cheese, handling and marketing of milk and modern methods of sanitary production of milk. Special emphasis will also be given to the Babcock test for butter fat in view of the state law requiring a license for testing when the basis of payment is on such test.

On January 25 the character of the work will change. The subjects discussed for the four weeks thereafter will be the principles and practices of soil management, feeding and care of dairy cattle, stock breeding and judging, vegetable gardening, orcharding, and forest management of the farm wood lot.

The forenoons are devoted to lectures and recitations and the afternoons to laboratory work. There are nine regular instructors giving work during the short courses and about

MUSICAL CLUBS' ANNUAL CONCERT

AIDED BY MR. BISPHAM

Considered Best Program in Years—
First of Series of Entertainments—
Big House Fills the Gymnasium.

Thursday evening, December 17, witnessed an event in musical circles which has not been equalled in years in Burlington. This event was the joint concert of the University of Vermont Glee Club with David Bispham, the greatest baritone in America, held at the gymnasium. There was a remarkably good attendance, the gymnasium being nearly full.

In every way the entertainment was an immense success. The management was well satisfied. Those attending were also very well satisfied, all agreeing that seldom is such an opportunity afforded them.

A large stage nearly the width of the gym. had been erected at the east

HOCKEY ENTHUSIASTS AT ESSEX JUNCTION

Team From University Does Up the Regulars in Sharp Contest
2-1.

A hockey team picked from the University defeated the Essex Junction team on Essex pond Sunday, December 20, by a score of 2 to 1. The game was clean and fast as both teams were ready for a sharp contest. This is the first game for the University boys and Captain Denning's men showed particularly good form. The Essex team was in better condition from practice and previous games and were strengthened by two veterans. The speedy attack of the Vermont men was irresistible, however, and their work on the defense was of the best. Corley as goal-tender played a steady, consistent game while captain and manager Denning and Merrill excelled on offensive work. Merrill and Wilder each got one goal while Grow scored the only goal for the Essex team. At the end of the first period the score was 1-1, and by their splendid attack the college boys scored the winning point.

The ice was not in the best of condition, but nevertheless the game was hard and fast and particularly marked by clean playing.

There were two periods of twenty minutes each.

Lineup of the picked team: Corley, guard; Vizner, point; Spear, cover point; Denning (captain and manager) rover; Merrill, center; Wilder, right wing; Slayton, left wing.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Cynic Editor:

The readers of the CYNIC will remember that there appeared in a recent issue an article entitled "The Boulder Platform" in which was stated that the rank and file of the college with the exception of the Key and Serpent and U. K. M. A. men would never be satisfied to have student activities controlled by a self perpetuating institution. As members of this rank and file who are not members of the mentioned societies the present writers wish to discuss a few of the elements which enter into the situation.

As is known there is being pushed a campaign to take away the powers which the class societies possess and to invest them in an organization to be elected from and by the student body. Thus the decision which now confronts the undergraduates and the administration of the university means the determination of the manner in which, in the future, all of the organized undergraduate activities shall be carried on and the way in which this matter is decided will have a very profound influence upon undergraduate life in the years to come. It is the most important question which has been, for some time, brought before the students for their consideration and the answer should not be given except after careful and if possible unprejudiced thought.

It is through the organization of these societies that management of nearly all of the already established collegiate activities (excepting, of course, those which, like athletics and the technical societies, already had their own especial organizations), has been carried on. Upon them has rested the burden of running baseball and football banquets, of giving dances for the benefit of athletics, of arranging for class basketball and inter-fraternity baseball games. In a word, they have been, in some measure, the executive organization of the college.

There may be suggested an analogy between the organization of national government and that of the student body. In the government there is an elected legislative body and an appointed judiciary. The Chief executive of the United States is elected by the vote of the people, but with that exception the work of the nation is carried on by men who are selected by appointment. The cabinet which is composed of heads of the various executive departments are directly appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the public, and as we descend the scale we find that their subordinates are selected in the same manner. In the P. O. Dept. in the Diplomatic Service, in the War Dept. and in the Navy Dept. this rule holds good. But there is no office in the undergraduate body of the University of Vermont which corresponds to that of the President of the United States and so there has been worked here a system by which the duties the executive and (in as far as they are vested in the student body) those of the judiciary, are performed by organizations in which each class elects its own successors from the class beneath. The senior society did, at one time have some legislative powers, but these are now vested in an organization which is directly elected by the student body. That this is best so is everywhere acknowledged, and any consideration of the benefits of this arrangement need not enter into discussion.

The matter hinges, then, around the question as to the organization which shall carry on the already established activities and shall act in the capacity of a judicial body. The objection which is offered to the employment of the class societies for this purpose is that they are not representative bodies. This takes for granted that in order to be representative a body must be elective, and implies that if it is elective it must necessarily be representative. But is this so? Are the terms synonymous? If election means representation then must the henchmen and figure heads of Tammany Hall and of every other rotten political ring in the country be the true representatives of the people. Nor do we need to go so far from home. Was the Faculty-Student-Council representing the undergraduate body of the University of Vermont when, after that body had expressed its unanimous will, it refused to allow the new steps at college dances? And now can any other than an elective body be representative? Webster gives the definition of representative as "bearing the character of another." These men are truly representative who have the most executive and business ability, who are able to serve the college most efficiently, and who have the keenest foresight and judgment.

By which method of selection then can we obtain the services of the greatest proportion of the men of the type which we want? There has been little if any criticism of the personnel of the class honorary societies. Their ability is borne witness to by the list of positions of trust, entirely separate from the society, which they have won. Perhaps mistakes have been made, undoubtedly men have been elected who were unworthy, undoubtedly men have been refused who deserved the honor, but these societies have ever since their foundation commanded the very best which the college has produced.

The members of the societies are especially fitted to determine who shall be their successors. They are themselves the most able men in the class, they have especial opportunity to judge of the abilities of the men below them, they are in a better position to weigh those abilities calmly and impartially than is the college at large, and not only are they influenced by a desire for the good of the university, but they have an added incentive in a desire to maintain the high standard of the society. Nor would selection by popular vote secure as consistently the most desirable men. It is hard to determine the factors which would influence a selection of this kind, but we do know that politics would surely enter in, we do know that personal popularity would play a large part. We do know that there are at present, and would be, many largely out of touch with undergraduate activities, who would by this action be given as great power as anyone in the selection of these men. It would be a safe wager that a considerable number of the students of this university have not as yet heard of this movement to strip the class societies of the powers at present invested in them.

And what of the organization which is to take over all the duties which have been performed by the old organizations? It is to be composed of ten members, five seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores! These ten men are to have complete charge of all undergraduate activities, activities which now occupy the attention of three times that number. They shall run the Wake Walk, smokers, dances, banquets, vaudeville, and elections. They shall supervise and arrange schedules for class basketball and inter-fraternity baseball. They shall fulfill multifarious duties which will not only demand a large amount of time but will overtax their powers and strength.

Complaints are made by faculty members that the outside work of the members of the honorary societies interferes with their studies. When then will these ten men have time to go to college? And the sophomore members with one year's experience with college conditions are given equal responsibilities and equal powers with the senior of three times the experience. To say nothing of the enormous responsibility and the great power which you are concentrating and placing in the hands of a very small body of men. Nor of the number of men with ability to carry on this sort of work to whom no opportunity would be given to serve the college.

But if the present system of selection is not the best, we must look for the causes of the dissatisfaction which has resulted in a movement looking toward abolition. There seems to be a feeling in the student body that the work of college is being carried on without their knowledge and understanding, and that they have no control over their own affairs. The honorary societies are not strictly secret, their members make no mystery of their proceedings, but on the other hand, their organization, their charters and their records are not available to the public. Inasmuch as they are performing a public function the college public should have access to the records that they may know their limitations and powers, and their proceedings in full.

There also may be a feeling that favoritism plays a part in the election of new members. There are now included in the membership of the societies honorary members selected from the faculty. Now if these men be elected by the student council, for example, three from each society and if they be given advisory powers and the right to veto names by a unanimous vote, would not the possibility of favoritism be done away with entirely?

It was stated in the article which appeared in the CYNIC that the Boulder Society was an oligarchical society, but this is certainly untrue. Webster's definition of an oligarchy is "government in which supreme power is in the hands of a few." This society has not and does not seek supreme power, it does not ask the prerogative of governing the student body, it asks only an opportunity to serve the college.

In brief the suggestions which have been made are as follows:

1. All legislative powers pertaining to the student body to be vested in an elective assembly, responsive to the undergraduate will.

2. Executive and judicial powers to be vested in the appointive class societies with the powers and limitations of each definitely established.

3. All appearance of secrecy to be done away with. The records of the societies to be available to the student body and the important proceedings to be published.

4. Additional faculty members, selected by the student council, with advisory, and, in regard to the selection of members, with restricted veto powers.

PRE-MEDIC CLUB.

The Pre-medic Club held a meeting at the Delta Sigma House Friday evening, Dec. 18. The business consisted of reading and accepting the constitution as drawn up by the officers of the club. It was voted to hold two meetings each month, one to be a business meeting and the other to be a social or literary meeting. After the business meeting the Delta Sigs served refreshments.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION

SERVICE.

The Agricultural College, cooperating with the Federal Department of Agriculture, has recently been taking an inventory of the farming business in Vermont for 1914 on about 300 farms, three parties of men, each in charge of a farm management specialist, making a study of the systems of farming in different parts of the state. In cooperation with the university and the Federal department are the County Farmers' Association of Orleans, Rutland and Windsor counties.

Because of the announcement by the Athletic Council of the eligibility of R. C. Sanders as candidate for assistant manager football elections have again been postponed. By a recent ruling of the council each candidate's name requires 10 days' publication.

ARIEL BOARD MEETING.

At a meeting of the Junior Ariel Board, Dec. 17, the matter of dedication was taken up. No definite action was taken. Seaver, who has charge of the junior class section spoke, emphasizing the necessity of getting the grinds in during Christmas recess.

The class groups taken by White of New York City, are now on sale, and may be bought from Fosgate, '16.

Sophomore Class Meeting.

At the class meeting held in the Science Hall Friday, Dec. 18, the class constitution, as drawn up by the executive board of the class, was read, but since considerable time was spent in discussion and not a sufficient number of the class was present, final action in regard to accepting it was postponed until the first week after the vacation.

FACULTY STUDENT COUNCIL.

At a meeting of the faculty-student council held Friday, December 18, the following dances were granted: Phi Delta Theta for January 11, Delta Sigma for January 12, Alpha Gamma Sigma for January 15, and Key and Serpent for March 5. Plans for student government were also discussed.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING.

On Friday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Young Woman's Christian Association, Miss Habel Watts, '15, read selections from Henry Van Dyke's "Story of the Other Wise Man." The reading was well rendered and much enjoyed by all. Miss Gladys Lawrence, '15, sang a Christmas Carol.

Akraia.

A business meeting of Akraia, the girls' senior honorary society, was held at Grassmount Thursday afternoon, December 17.

Plans for general assemblies, girl dances and girl students' employment bureau were discussed. The present members of Akraia are: Edith Gates, Marie McMahon, Lou Fullington, Hazel McCuen, Lella Montgomery, Bernardine Kimball and Hazel Spinney.

We invite the students of the University to examine the extensive stocks carried in this store.

The New Athletic Field.

An athletic field on the campus should mean a revolution in sports at Vermont. It is with pleasure that we learn the trustees have sanctioned the plan. To look out from campus windows upon an athletic field when baseball and football and track men are daily practicing will be an experience new to Vermont. If it does not prove a source of inspiration and a suggestion of "come and do likewise" nothing ever will. When that day comes no one will be in doubt as to whether we have a football, or a track or a baseball team, for they will be right out there on the bleachers watching the practice. That's because they won't have to take an afternoon off to get there. And if a man day after day sees other men out doing something and doesn't occasionally get a thrill to do something himself then he needs a tonic to put some red blood in his veins. Conditions at present have not only failed to interest men in athletics, but they have worked directly against those who have been interested. Watch a track man set out on a quarter mile hike to Centennial Field, or a football squad coming in through the cold and dark at about 5:45, and you begin to wonder that they do it at all.

But when locker rooms and showers are within a few yards of the field and oval, when you can get into your togs and out of them again without the feeling that it's a day's work, when you can trot out onto the field and "fool around," awhile, when its just as handy as the gymnasium floor, things are going to look differently. Finally, not only more students are going to be in attendance at the games, but more city people as well which means that more eagles will begin to flap their wings at the gate. Centennial Field seems a long way off, the college doesn't. Two men will come up to the college where only one would go to the Field. It's largely the psychology of the thing. People will be forced to realize, moreover, that the field and the college go together, that they are at the University of Vermont, and as an advertising scheme it will mean a great deal to the institution. When people begin to come onto the campus they will begin to have a different idea of the place. They will have a positive idea that there is a University here, not a negative one.

Finances.

Christmas is over and everybody's happy, for everybody got something but the CYNIC, and nobody cares whether the CYNIC got anything or not. What's the CYNIC to us; the editors take care of that. They just whistle and fifty dollars a week comes rolling into the till. It always has managed to squeak along without our help and we guess it can this year. Our room-mate takes it anyhow and the people at home—well, it never occurred to us that we might have it sent home and keep a complete set, but it probably wouldn't be worth two dollars even then. Sure, the CYNIC is out of funds, dead broke, and would like to have us fellows who subscribed pay up, but they probably won't ever force us to pay and instead of helping them out in a pinch we may as well hang onto the bones until it's a little more convenient to come across. We could get along without a few issues if need be, some other colleges publish on the "every once in a little while" basis, and we wouldn't see the letters that came in from the alumni. There are too many activities here and we would all be just as well off if the college dropped such things as its weekly paper. We wouldn't miss it or anyone else. All we want is our diploma. In the words of our fellow sufferer, "nough said."

Moral! The CYNIC humbly requests your consideration of two things: one, new subscriptions; two, paid subscriptions. Come around and inspect our bank book and help us out with a few invectives—we're running short.

Books On Reserve.

This treats of a subject which one may hear discussed, and sometimes with a great deal of vehemence, at almost anytime he wishes. Just suggest it and the conversation livens right away—only there is no argument, all the ballast is on one side. Nearly everyone during his or her brief sojourn at the University of Vermont has experienced the sensation of seeing the classic shadows withdraw and the intellectual sunlight turned on. Then he begins to look desparately about for a sun shade and, not finding one, the situation begins to get pretty hot for him. The sun shade is usually a "book on reserve." The heat is usually emitted by irate professors. Now we know what Kipling means when he speaks of "Files on parade." But no one does seem to know what this professor or that professor means when he speaks of "Books on reserve." Each professor is entitled to state at what hour his "reserve" books may be taken from the library. It is ordinarily about five o'clock. During the hours from five p. m. to eight a. m. one person has access to it. The next morning eight develops into ten or eleven, or the book is forgotten entirely. If a person wants a "reserve" book in the evening all he can find of it is the name of the person who has taken it out. This person has perhaps engaged the book anywhere from one day to two weeks before hand. Some persons have a peculiar addiction to "books on reserve." It's a mania with them. These do the reciting the next day, the rest think of the night before when they were searching through the alcoves of the library. Incidentally they funk. The present five o'clock rule was made when the library closed at six. Now it closes at nine. It's a question if any reserve book should be allowed out at all, but, if it is, it should not be until nine. If professors knew the trouble students find in getting books, and of how one tries to get ahead of another, if they could hear some of the current remarks, they would pass a universal rule that no reserve books were to be let out. As it is now the librarians have to abide by the antiquated five o'clock rule, or by any rule that any professor wishes.

The Gym Addition.

In our opinion the gym situation is getting to be a rather serious matter. It is drifting on from week to week and month to month and little is being done. If it isn't soon heated and put into shape the military department will be unable to use it, the track squad, starting in its winter's work, will be unable to use it although it needs it right now, and the outlook will even be dubious for the baseball men. It seems too bad after so much time and money has been put into a building to lose the value of it for a year because of a let-up at the end. Every day finds one department or another wishing it was complete. The military department is still marching to the cadence of a hard wood floor and is unable to run off its tournament, the track men are still running on the elevated with the B. A. A. meet near at hand, the agricultural college has its lowing herds patiently waiting at the door and baseball is coming over the horizon.

OUT-O'-DOORS CLUB.

The Editor-in-Chief:

Men from your institution are invited to participate in the first intercollegiate ski and snowshoe meet ever held in this country which will be the feature of the Dartmouth Outing Club's annual Winter Carnival this coming February.

The purpose of the project is more to get college men who are interested in winter sports together and give them an opportunity to fraternize. In every college and university are men who love out-of-door life in all its phases—skiing, snowshoeing, mountain-climbing, camping—but in only a few institutions has there been any serious attempt at organization. By means of the proposed competition, Dartmouth hopes to get many of these individuals acquainted with each other, to the end that the Outing Club movement may receive impetus from cooperation and friendly rivalry, the factors largely responsible for placing intercollegiate athletics on their present firm foundation.

The spirit of contest will not be in any way lacking, however, for the tentative schedule of events includes short dashes, relay races and cross country runs for both skiman and snowshoer. In addition there will be competitive ski jumping.

For any who are unfamiliar with Dartmouth's unique social event, a word of explanation is in order. First instituted in February of 1911, the Winter Carnival has grown from humble beginnings to become a very close rival of Junior Prom. In fact, this year the difference between the two will be quite negligible, for the elaborate program now drawn up comprises a concert by the combined musical clubs, a play by the dramatic association, the Carnival Ball—to be held in Alumni Gymnasium this year, for the first time—hockey and basketball games, and interclass and intercollegiate ski and snowshoe meets.

The recently formed Publicity and Information Bureau of the club will deem it a pleasure to furnish more detailed information relative either to the meet or to other activities of the club, and welcomes correspondence. In sending this letter to you, the bureau hopes that you will give the matter full publicity in your publication, and will greatly appreciate anything which you may do to boom the proposed meet.

The Publicity and Information Bureau of the Dartmouth Outing Club.

MUSICAL CLUB DONATES.

From their receipts at the home concert the musical clubs have donated $40 to the athletic association. W. H. Scott, '16, won the prize of five dollars for selling the largest number of tickets.

On Thursday and Friday of next week, January 14 and 15, the clubs will entertain in Richford and Enosburgh Falls.

President Benton received the sad news of the death of his mother, Mrs. Daniel Webster Benton, at her home in Anoka, Minnesota, Thursday night, December 17. Dr. Benton had just returned from New York City when he received word of the bereavement. Two weeks previous President Benton was summoned to his mother's side on account of her very serious condition and spent a week with her. Besides her husband Mrs. Benton leaves three sons, Henry D. Benton and Dr. Clarence Benton of Minneapolis and President Benton; two daughters, Mrs. Eugene Barrett of San Francisco and Miss Marguerite Benton of Anoka; one brother, Dr. Fletcher Wharton; and two sisters, Mrs. Dudley and Miss Lora Wharton. Mrs. Benton would have been 79 years old had she lived until February.

The student body sympathizes with their president in this great loss and desires to make manifest a sincere spirit of condolence.

MONKS TAKE POSSESSION OF MEDICAL COLLEGE

Martyrs to Medical Research Will Be Well Cared For—Laboratory Outfitted for Scientific Study of Poliomyelitis.

Monkeys to the number of 50 are now chattering and grimacing in the new laboratory fitted up for them in the medical department, apparently enjoying life with one foot under a tombstone. The monkeys have been on the way from Asia and Africa for some time and only recently arrived in New York where they underwent rigid examination for disease. They will be used as subjects for a scientific investigation into poliomyelitis under the direction of Dr. B. H. Stone of the State laboratory. The Vermont and the Rockefeller Institute laboratories are practically the only two in the country making a study of the disease.

Everything for the comfort of the monkeys has been provided. They will occupy 24 steel cages distributed in three well-lighted, heated and ventilated rooms. There will be a room for those who are well, those acutely sick and those convalescing. These rooms are lined with cement and have cement floors arranged with drainage so that they may be flushed each day, and in this way kept absolutely antiseptic. The rooms have been covered throughout with a waterproof paint. Each room has its own special ventilating system, the air being sucked out by an electrically driven motor from the bottom, while fresh air comes in at the top. The monkeys will be treated with all the consideration which a human patient would receive at a hospital, being thoroughly etherized before any experiments are started. They will be given regular rations, which consist of pasteurized milk, bananas, peanuts and bread. A regular hospital routine will be carried out, which will require the time of an extra man.

The laboratory itself where the work is to be done will have all the necessities of the modern operating room and this, as well as the rooms where the monkeys are to be kept, has been arranged so that it will be thoroughly antiseptic. The whole laboratory could not be better situated in this city as regards light, air and general situation, occupying as it does the southwest corner on the ground floor of the college of medicine building.

MILITARY NOTES.

Monthly inspection was held Friday, December 18, in the gymnasium annex. Lead men in their respective companies were: Hackett, '17, Bigwood, '18, Hayden, '18, and Houston, '18. Hayden was the high man of the battalion, as regards cleanliness of equipment and uniform.

The Richold competition, set for the same date, was postponed because only one of the three judges was present. This event will be held soon, and will be shortly followed by the military tournament.

Lectures in military science are to begin soon.

VERMONT MEN IN CHICAGO.

Election of Officers—Another Meeting Planned.

An informal dinner of the Chicago Alumni Association of the University of Vermont was held at the Hardware Club on Tuesday evening, December 15 with a good attendance.

The gathering was made particularly interesting by the presence of Mr. R. D. Sawyer, of the class of 1912, secretary to President Benton, who gave an interesting account of current activities at the University and then spoke at some length of the educational situation in the State of Vermont and its bearing on the several colleges in the state. A general discussion followed, during which several of the men present spoke informally on recent tendencies of student activities, the present athletic policy of the University, and other matters of common interest to Vermont graduates. The meeting was further enlivened by many reminiscences.

The annual election of officers was held, and R. D. Sattley, '79, was chosen president; F. D. Farr, '92, vice-president, and C. N. Hitchcock, '13, secretary.

Another meeting is planned for February, and the Association hopes again to secure a representative from the University for an address.

OTHERS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES.

Kansas Alumni Make Investigations.

University of Washington Daily—Fifty graduates and former students of the University met in Kansas City last night and passed a resolution empowering the president of the Alumni Association to appoint a committee of five to visit the University and investigate the charges of lack of spirit that have been made in the past two weeks. This committee will come to Lawrence in the near future and will report its findings to the Alumni Association.

Some of the charges made against the University are:

The faculty is dominated by a clique.

The personnel of the faculty has degenerated because they did not agree with this clique.

The University has deteriorated in the past few years.

The faculty dominates the student council and the Daily Kansan.

The faculty oppresses student spirit. There are too many restrictions.

The students who led in the rally before the Aggie game should not have been expelled.

CHRISTMAS PARTY AT #### GRASSMOUNT.

On Friday evening, Dec. 18, the girls of the College Dormitories gathered at Grassmount for a Christmas party. The "little girls" of the Freshman class gathered around the Christmas tree and "spoke their pieces." Further entertainment was furnished in the form of a vocal solo by Miss Nivins, '17, a Christmas reading by Miss Lucy Swift, '16, and a piano solo by Miss Helen Nichols, '16. After general singing by the girls, refreshments were served.

Tobacco That is Good For Your Nerves

TUXEDO actually soothes the nerves. It is just mild enough to keep your nervous system in poise, your muscles in tone. Unlike other tobaccos, Tuxedo burns cool and slow. There cannot be a speck of irritation in a pound of Tuxedo.

ANNUAL CONCERT.

F. R. Bolster, '16, R. N. Pease, '16, C. H. Gates, '16, L. French, '16, D. G. Roberts, '16, W. H. Scott, '16, C. M. Pike, '16, S. F. Swett, '17, R. W. Whitney, '17, H. A. Durfee, '17, H. T. Stillwell, '17, W. A. Best, '17, H. Gallup, '18, W. P. Straight, '18, H. A. Gibson, '18, R. Blake, '18, C. A. Parker, '18, and G. H. Short, '18.

Shortly after eight the program opened with the singing of Vermont songs by the Glee Club. Two by two they filed onto the stage and at the signal burst forth into the strains of the "Old Mill Song." This was followed by "Three Times Three," the ever popular song, and lastly, by "Harvard Has Her Crimson." The number was very well received.

Mr. Bispham then appeared for his first number. He was immediately received with a round of applause. He explained the action before beginning to sing. The scene is laid in a beautiful garden. A giant enters looking for his loved one and being unable to find her makes a harp of reeds and sings. Mr. Bispham rendered this very difficult selection, "O, Ruddier Than the Cherry," with a strong, deep voice, melodious and sweet. His interpretation was artistic and pleasing. There was in it a touch of the light and fantastic, bringing into play considerable action which the singer executed brilliantly. The first effort was very well received. "When Two that Love Are Parted," his second solo, was a contrast, being sentimental and full of feeling.

The third number was a violin solo by Taplin, '16, "Hejre Kati," accompanied by Seaver, '16. He rendered the difficult selection very capably, playing with ease and grace the light parts and interpreting well the heavier and more serious strains. His work showed the delicate touches of the artist at all times. He was encored and played a short selection, "Schumannlied," a lullaby, which was again applauded.

Swett, '15, leader of the Musical Clubs, then rendered with delicacy and charm the solo, "Your Tiny Hand Is Frozen." Mr. Swett's voice is a beautiful tenor with great sweetness. He has much feeling and power in his singing, and was heartily encored. His encore was a shorter selection, "Within the Garden of My Heart."

The next number was one of the best on the evening's program, "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," by the Glee Club with soprano obligato by Miss Tenney, '17. Seaver, '16, and Morey, '17, played the accompaniment.

The Glee Club sank the first strain with beautiful effect:

"Wynken, Blynken, and Nod, one night
Sailed off in a wooden shoe,
Into a sea of golden light,
Into a sea of dew."

Miss Tenney then took the air with soft accompaniment by the Glee Club. Her voice was rich and sweet and set off the bass and tenor accompaniment effectively. Miss Tenney and the Glee Club were applauded continuously and repeated the last verse as an encore.

This was probably the most popular number on the program and deservedly so.

Mr. Bispham appeared again in two solos, "I'm a Roamer," and "The Two Grenadiers." The latter was particularly well received. It told of two French soldiers of Napoleon, one thinking of his family, the other fired only by love of country. The music tells the story and when interpreted by Mr. Bispham is shown to its best effect. The patriotic strains of the "Marseillaise" were introduced in this. He was heartily encored and sang "The Pretty, Pretty Creature," a quaint little ditty. C. H. Swett, '15, and S. F. Swett, '17, appeared in a duet, "In a Persian Garden." Both sang their parts well and the finale with both together was a beautiful blending of voices.

The String Quartette composed of Taplin, '16, and Paulsen, '16, violins, Grismer, '16, viola, and Daniels, '15, cello, rendered Mozart's "Andante and Allegro" with expression and feeling. Their number and encore were well received.

The College Quartette entertained with two selections, one of them of the humorous type, being especially well received. As an encore they sang "We're Jolly Fellows." This quartette composed of C. H. Swett, '15, F. S. Swett, '17, L. F. Dow, '15, and D. J. Roberts, '16, met with a very hearty reception.

Mr. Bispham on his next entrance rendered his most popular selection of the evening, Tannhauser's "Evening Star." Great delicacy of feeling and remarkable power made this a very effective number. The accompaniment, played by Mr. Rogers, contributed to the effectiveness in this solo. Mr. Bispham also sang Pagliacci's "Prologue," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," "Banjo Song," "Danny Deever" and "Annie Laurie," the last three at his final appearance. His reception was always enthusiastic. "Annie Laurie" sung with great feeling, appealed to all.

R. W. Pedan, '18, told several good Scotch dialect stories. "Sandy's" experiences greatly amused the audience and served as a change from the musical end of the program.

The Glee Club rendered the final numbers, "Sword of Ferrara," "Rise, Sleep No More," several popular selections and closed with "Champlain." "Rise, Sleep No More," a hunting song, was received with especial favor. Energy and life fairly radiated from the notes of this selection sung with good volume by the Glee Club. "Sympathy" and "High Jinks" were among the popular songs, whistling being introduced in the latter. At the singing of "Champlain" the audience rose and remained standing until the last verse was finished, a fitting climax to hear the strains of Vermont's most sacred song with all standing in deference to the college custom.

No account would be complete without mentioning the splendid work of the accompanists, Seaver, '16, Morey, '17, Mrs. Arkley and especially Woodruff Rogers. Their work was of a very commendable character and added greatly to the program.

After the concert the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed by about 75 couples. Music was furnished by Taplin's orchestra. Dancing lasted until 12 o'clock. President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton and Dean Perkins and Mrs. H. F. Perkins were the chaperons.

MORE POTASH COMING

American crops and soils are still as hungry for Potash as before the outbreak of the European War, which curtailed the Potash shipments.

Some of the Fertilizer Companies are trying to induce farmers to buy the one-sided low Potash or no Potash fertilizers of a generation ago. This means a fertilizer that is profitable to the manufacturer, but not the best for the farmer. When the Syndicate in 1910 started the direct sales of Potash to dealers and farmers at reasonable prices, Potash sales increased 65 per cent. in one year, a clear proof that farmers know that Potash Pays. They know that Potash gives good yields, good quality and resistance to plant diseases.

Many of the Fertilizer Manufacturers are willing to meet the farmer's wishes and sell him what he thinks he needs. These manufacturers are now willing to furnish as much Potash as they can secure. They offer goods with 5 per cent. and even in some cases 10 per cent. Potash, if the farmers insist on it.

Shipping conditions are improving, more Potash is coming forward although the costs of production and transportation are higher. The higher price of fertilizers is not due wholly to the slightly higher cost of Potash. Much of the Potash that will be used in next spring's fertilizer had reached America before the war started.

There is no substitute for Potash.

We can no more return to the fertilizer of twenty years ago than we can return to the inefficient farm implements or unprofitable livestock of that period.

H. A. HUSTON.

the class into two divisions, Mr. Gaylord taking the advanced and I the beginners. The fellows were thoroughly in earnest and in a short time a few of them had made enough progress to be transferred to the advanced class which was now just beginning the first reader of short historical sketches. Of course a few of the beginners got discouraged and dropped out, but those who remained soon found themselves able to speak a few words of English. The fellows seemed to appreciate our efforts in their behalf, were always polite and attentive, and behaved as gentlemen. It was certainly a great pleasure to teach them. They learned a little English from us and we learned a great deal from them; in fact, I think it would be hard to tell which side learned the most, the pupils or the teachers. After the spring recess the two divisions were united and the class turned over to D. S. Jones, '17, who conducted it for the rest of the college year.

"Just after Easter Mr. Taylor, '15, and I started classes at the Champlain school. A large attendance resulted, and the assistance of two other fellows was obtained. Classes were conducted in arithmetic, English reading, book-keeping and beginners' English, and were continued until the first of June. In this section of Burlington there is a chance for a great deal of this kind of work to be done. There are many, both boys and girls, working in the cotton mills and factories who can not attend school in the day-time. Evening school however would give them a chance to obtain the much desired knowledge. The work at the Champlain school has not, to my knowledge, been started this year, but I hope that after Christmas that there will be volunteers who will 'start something.' Any fellow desiring to take up this work will surely find something suited to his abilities, work that he can do that will prove both interesting and instructive.

"A goodly number should 'get busy' this year and held 'Old Vermont' to do some of her best work."

Leffler, '15.

"For two years now there has been an industrial work movement in the University Y. M. C. A. Classes have been conducted at Winooski, the Fletcher library and Champlain school. Last year after Mr. Rindge's visit to the university much enthusiasm was shown for the work and the result was that nearly fifty foreigners received instruction in reading, writing and mathematics. To-day there are more than a hundred foreigners in this city and Winooski waiting for someone to lead similar classes. One promising class has been conducted for a month. There is a chance for a dozen fellows to give one night a week to this work which only means two hours out of the early part of the evening.

"From the testimonials of those who have been in the work it is very interesting and helpful inasmuch as one becomes accustomed to leading these men. No matter what branch of work a fellow tackles after leaving college he must lead or direct his fellow men, for that is what he is here for and that is just what he is least prepared to do when he leaves college. Here is a chance to get the necessary training and also help a hundred foreigners to become good citizens of the United States and a link in the chain of progress.

"Not only will it help the one who undertakes the work, but it will help to advertise the university; it will help the community and to some extent the state and nation, for these men will serve as a nucleus for their fellow workers who will come later. Here is a chance for the man who did not go out for athletics and who wants to do something for his University. Call at the Y. M. C. A. office and see what it is like.

"Inside of a week you will say it was the best move you ever made. Ask Leffler, Taylor, Conner or Jones. Just talk with Dr. Barnes and find out where to go; it's free for all and a boost for U. V. M. A chance for '18 to show some of your stuff. You are to be the leaders in U. V. M. when the others are gone."

Jones, '17.

"Over a year ago I became interested in social service work, especially that of teaching English to coming Americans. The principle back of the work moved me just as it or the principle of any similar appeal must move all who have the English spirit of fair play. The two sides to this question, How much can I do for the other fellow? and how much can he do for me? are pretty evenly balanced. The man who gives one or two evenings a week to the teaching of those who lack our opportunities is not necessarily an altruist. He may be selfish. Often he is more than repaid from a purely practical standpoint. One will find that with a little knowledge of French and German he can absorb more in an hour with a settlement class than in two hours of recitation on the hill.

"Last winter a night school was started in the Champlain school, two evenings a week being given over to it. Supt. Chittenden by providing the building and books necessary made the work possible. From the two who came that first evening the attendance increased until over 20 were coming. The interest shown by these boys from the Cotton mills was seconded by that of the boys from the old mill. We who worked there last year certainly hope that others may take the work up again and push it through our only regret being that conditions must count us out."

Taylor, '15.

UNIVERSITY RESEARCH CLUB.

The University Research club held its monthly meeting in Morrill hall Monday evening, December 21, with a large number of the members in attendance. The committee on the revision of the constitution and by-laws presented several amendments which will be voted on at the January meeting. Two important papers were presented by Professor Cummings and Professor Thomas; one on the "Feeding of Carbon Dioxide to Plants," and the other on "The Fourth Dimension."

WINTER SHORT COURSE HAS BEGUN.

30 special lecturers will discuss topics closely allied to the class room work.

Certificates are issued to students who satisfactorily complete courses I or II, who pass examinations with a grade of 60, and who give satisfactory evidence of having completed one year (or one full season) of practical experience in a creamery or on a farm, at least six months of which must be subsequent to the school work and is subject to the inquiry of the school, either by visitation or otherwise.

The short courses will close with the farmers' week program February 22-26, which will include specialists in different subjects of particular interest to Vermont farmers.

SENIOR DEBATE.

Compulsory Army Service—Won By Negative.

Dow and Prindle, negative, won from Healy and Hunt, affirmative, in the Senior Debate, Dec. 18. The question was, "Resolved that Congress should pass a law providing for compulsory service in the army of every able-bodied male citizen of the United States, before the age of twenty-five."

The question is of especial interest at this time since Congress is thrashing out practically the same proposition in the legislative halls at Washington.

The main points in the argument for the affirmative were (1) There is necessity for an adequate military reserve. (2) There would be a saving of life and expense if we had an adequately prepared and experienced army in event of war. (3) The reaction upon civil life would be beneficial.

The essential points in the winning argument: (1) The proposed system would give an army larger than necessary. (2) The probability of war in the near future is very slight. (3) It would be well nigh impossible for a foreign power to land a formidable force in the United States before we could prepare to meet it. (4) The cost of the army occasioned by compulsory service would be enormous. (5) The policy of compulsory military service is in opposition to the traditional military policy of the United States. (6) It is our duty to the world not to increase our armament at the present time.

The next debate is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 13, at 9.10. Gardyne and Ferrin vs. Sturges and Willis.

LAMBDA IOTA DANCE.

The Lambda Iota fraternity held a formal dinner party and dance at their fraternity house Friday evening, Dec. 18, from 6:30 to 12:00 o'clock. During the intermission each guest received a favor from a Christmas tree decorated for the occasion. The chaplains were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Middlebrook and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brodie. Music was furnished by Taplin's orchestra.

MADCAP COLLEGE GIRLS MAKE A HIT ECCLES CAN ENTERTAIN

Program of Variety and Never Tiresome—Audience Wreathed in Smiles—Next Entertainment
Monday.

Walter Eccles and The College Girls, the second in the series of Redpath attractions, appeared at the college gymnasium on Wednesday evening, January 13. The entertainment was the nature of light opera and musical comedy, nothing of a heavy type being attempted. Mr. Walter Eccles showed himself to be an artist in his line, his Scotch songs being especially good. His facial expressions and perfect abandon to his work were the charms which carried his audience with him every moment. His monologues brought roars of laughter.

The College Girls lived up to their name, for no fair maids of the college world ever put more vivacity and genuine life into their actions than did these rare musical artists. The enthusiasm with which they rendered each number won fairly the hearts of the audience, and they were encored again and again.

The contralto solos of Miss La Sheck were especially popular. With a deep rich voice, a simple, distinct rendering, and a very expressive personality, Miss LaSheck is an artist whose popularity is secure.

In fact, each one of the five has a distinctly original personality and an unusual voice. Together, their harmony is perfect and each one of their musical number is a delight. As already stated, they did not aim so much at the classical as at the popular. Their effort was to please, to entertain, and they did this fully. Their natural gaiety was irresistible. They made the audience enjoy itself, because they themselves seemed to be doing it. Their costumes were unique, but simple. All their efforts aimed to combine simplicity with beauty. In the "Football" and "Baseball" songs and in "The Scotch Oratoria Society," they had an opportunity to display their vivacity to the utmost, and the Scotch costumes aided in making this part of the program exceptionally popular. The hunting costumes in the Hunting Song from "Madcap Dutchess" were, perhaps, the most attractive of all.

As the closing number, the war songs sung by the drummer girls and the recitation by Mr. Eccles converted smiles into downcast eyes until the

The CYNIC has compiled the preceding statistics concerning fraternity and non-fraternity membership at Vermont. The sorority membership is included in the table under the fraternity column, and non-fraternity girls under the non-fraternity.

The total enrollment of undergraduates according to the directory issued by the University in November is 597. Of this number, 352 are fraternity members, making the average of fraternity men 58.9 per cent., as compared with 55.6 per cent. for last year, showing an increase of 3.3 per cent. for this year. However, this may be due to student mortality among the non-fraternity men and not necessarily to an actual increase of fraternity men.

The largest fraternities this year are Delta Mu (medic) and Kappa Sigma, both having thirty-five members. Phi Delta Theta comes next with a membership of thirty-four. Delta Psi secured the largest number of freshmen, with twelve. The largest sophomore delegation belongs to Phi Delta Theta, which has eleven, and in the junior class Alpha Tau Omega and

THE COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED.

Feb. 22 is The Walk.

Pres. Mayforth of the senior class has appointed as Kake Walk committee, W. A. Sturges and H. A. Gardyne, directors; J. E. Rapuzzi, W. H. Niles, medics; C. S. Ferrin, R. B. Smith, W. H. Davis, W. Y. Handy, and D. R. Grandy, of the senior class; D. J. Roberts, medic; C. R. Bloomer, W. R. Conroy, E. R. Holmes, and W. H. Scott, of the junior class. Two directors, in place of a chairman, will have general oversight of the work this year. Plans are already under way. Monday, February 22, is the date as usual.

BOULDER PROPOSES DEFINITE FORM OF STUDENT GOV.

Draws Conclusions From Recent Discussions and Bases Its Proposals Upon Them.—Mass Meeting Likely to Be Held Soon.

The Boulder Society at a meeting held Monday evening, Jan. 11, adopted the following conclusions and recommendations, formulated in the light of recent discussions by the student body at large.

1. No student of the university has ever disputed the advisability of some form of student government. Therefore, student government is deemed advisable by the students.
2. The students agree that the present student council is totally inadequate.
3. But the attitude of the student body toward the recent Boulder platform, launched in good faith, proves that the student body does not want its student government to be in the hands of the honor societies.
4. It therefore is deemed by the students that either elective representation alone or appointive representation alone is not likely to bring true representation and the desired results.
5. An adequate student council must be large and must be granted by faculty and students absolute charge of all student affairs.
6. Such a council should be formed at such date in the near future as seems advisable, and authorized by a mass meeting.
7. Inasmuch as this central body must be more representative and competent, have more power and be larger than heretofore in order to handle its more varied and multifarious duties, it should consist of 19 members.
8. These 19 men should comprise 2 medical members elected at large by the medical college, 3 academic seniors

PI PHI DANCE.

Enjoyable Annual at Van Ness Roof Garden.

The Vermont Beta Chapter of Pi Beta Phi held its annual dance at the Van Ness Roof Garden Friday evening, Jan. 8th. About 30 couples were present. In the receiving line were Captain and Mrs. Reeves, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Partridge, Miss Louise Douglas, '15, Mr. Martin Paulson, '16, Miss Marie McMahon, '15, and Mr. Reginald Hawley, '17. At 12 o'clock refreshments were served at the home of Marie McMahon on College street. Taplin's orchestra furnished music.

Ethel Jackson, '15, of Lambda Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta, Miss Lilla Montgomery, '15, of Eta Chapter of Delta Delta Delta, and Miss Alma Halton, '15, of Alpha Sigma Sorority were present as guests.

Among those from out of town were Miss Mazie Powers, '10, Miss Sylvia Warren, '10, Miss Winifred Hall, Vermont Alpha, '09, Genevieve Harlowe and Anna Fisher, both active members of the chapter at Middlebury College.

CLARK TRIO SCHEDULED BY VARSITY DEBATERS.

Prof. Groat Discusses Economic Aspects of the War.

Clark College, Worcester, Mass., has accepted Vermont's proposal for a joint debate next spring. Clark is a strong debating college. The debate will be on the question of government ownership of the telephone and telegraph, and will take place at Worcester sometime in May.

Professor Groat addressed the debating association last Monday evening on "The Economic Aspects of the War," showing how war is financed, and how several economic theories have been upset by the present conflict.

War bonds are sold to the people. When these become due the government levies a tax to pay them. Whenever justified by need of a government may levy taxes or confiscate property. On the amount which the countries can obtain in this way depends the length of the war.

The war has not stopped industrial work, merely forced the men to change their occupation. Women and girls are now doing the work that men were doing, while the men are at the front or engaged in more profitable labor than hitherto. Nor is the war such an additional cost as might be imagined. For instance, the coaling of the English fleet costs but little more now than in time of peace.

LOCAL ALUMNI ELECT.

The annual business meeting of the University of Vermont Alumni Club was held on Tuesday evening, Jan. 12, at the home of Mrs. L. J. Paris. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. George I. Forbes; vice-president, Miss Jennie Sewell; secretary, Miss Mabel Balch; treasurer, Miss Mary Bates; chairman of the March meeting committee, Miss Effie Moore; chairman of the lecture committee, Mrs. L. J. Paris.

CHAMPS OF LAST YEAR TRIM SOPHS.

Second Game of Class Series.

The second basketball game of the interclass series was played Monday night, January 11, between the juniors and sophomores. The juniors, who were last year's champions, won by a score of 13-11. The game was hard fought and, considering the amount of practice which the teams had had, was very fast and clean. The juniors started the game off brilliantly and caged two baskets during the first two minutes of play, Gallagher getting both of them. Gallagher was easily the star of the game, scoring 11 of the juniors' thirteen points. Bloomer played a strong game at guard and Wilcox was a strong floor worker. For the sophs. Vizner played a good game as did also Powers. The line-up:

JUNIORS.	SOPHOMORES.
Gallagher, l. f. . . . . l. f., Dow, Powers	Williams, Gilbert, Carlton, r. f.
	r. f., Vizner
Wilcox, c. . . . . c., Walker	Armstrong, Gilbert, l. f.
l. f., Dow, Powers Greenwood	Bloomer, r. g. . . . . r. g., Burke
Baskets from the floor—Gallagher 5,	Powers 3, Vizner 2, Wilcox. Fouls—
Burke, Gallagher. Time—12 and 15	minute halves. Referee—Currier.
Timekeepers—Weeks and Shaw.

SENIORS WIN FROM FROSH IN SLOW GAME.

First of Series.

The Key and Serpent interclass basketball series open Thursday night, Jan. 7, when the seniors won from the freshmen, 14-12. Although the game was close, it was slow and uninteresting and both teams showed lack of practice. The baskets were also in poor shape and tended to make the game somewhat slower than it otherwise would have been. The line-up at the start was as follows:

SENIORS.	FRESHMEN.
Dow, r. f. . . . . l. g., Manning	Ferrin, l. f. . . . . r. g., Hayden
Brown, c. . . . . c., Billings	Maiden, r. g. . . . . l. f., Weed
Glidden, l. g. . . . . r. f., Booth

PROF. MESSENGER SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A.

'18 the Banner Class.

On Friday afternoon, Jan. 8th, Prof. Messenger addressed the Y. W. C. A. on "The Psychology of Resolutions." Prof. Messenger said, in substance, that although there is a certain place said to be "paved with good resolutions" he was inclined to think that, if it is paved with anything, it must be with "bad intentions." The mere fact of the making of the resolution is good whether the resolution is broken before midnight of the day on which it is made or not. It is better to make a new resolution every day than never to make one at all. For, after all, a resolution, is but 'one aid' to keeping down the 'good end' of the teeter-board of behavior." A resolution is very likely to have more weight if it is clearly written down on paper or definitely told to some person. The general benefit derived from resolutions is not often negative and is many times of positive good.

After the regular meeting the banner for best percentage of attendance at four consecutive meetings was awarded to the class of 1918.

THREE NEW DEPARTMENTS ADDED TO Y. M. C. A.

"Lost and Found" Bureau—Magazine Bureau—Deputation Work.

Three new departments have recently been added to the work of the Y. M. C. A.

A "lost and found" bureau has been established. All articles such as fountain pens, pins, etc., may be turned in at the office, and called for there by the owners. If not called for within two weeks they may be redeemed by the finder. The office hours are from four to six daily save Saturday and Sunday.

A magazine bureau has also been established. A monthly canvas will be made of dormitories and fraternity houses for old magazines. These will be sent to hospitals, charitable institutions, etc. If men not living in places canvased will turn in their magazines at the office it will be greatly appreciated. F. H. Isham, '16, is in charge.

The association has taken its first definite step in deputation work which has proved so popular in other colleges. E. F. Crane, '16, former chairman of the intercollegiate committee, has taken charge. Intercollegiate work will hereafter be handled by the office secretary.

SHORT COURSE MEN RECEIVING CAREFUL ATTENTION.

Work Promises to Be Profitable.

Professor Borland and his assistants are doing all within their power to make the work of the short course men both pleasant and profitable. Last Saturday morning they visited the large milk condensary of Borden's at Richmond. This plant, which is a branch of the extensive Borden Co., is doing a thriving business, and it afforded the short course men a good opportunity to study this particular side of the creamery business. The lecturers this past week have included Mr. A. R. White, ice cream manufacturer, who spoke on marketing dairy products; Mr. T. Moran, head of the cow testing association of the state, who spoke on cow test associations; and Hon. E. S. Brigham of St. Albans, state commissioner of agriculture. No lectures were held at the college Wednesday and Thursday, the students attending instead the meeting of the State Dairymen's Association, which was being held at the Armory during this time.

YE CRABBE.

A meeting of the board was held Tuesday, at which plans for future issues were discussed. Some interesting features will be worked out by the editors. The manager rendered a report.

DECISIVE LEGISLATURE HAS CONVENED

University's Position Defined—Will the Medical College Exist?

Below are printed a few extracts from a recent pamphlet—letter sent out by President Benton to the alumni of the University.

President Buckham's Attitude.

"It is interesting and profitable to note the attitude of the preceding administration regarding this educational question. Indeed my attitude and activity are but the consequence of the late President Buckham's position. The policy of the University toward the educational situation in Vermont is found in his last public utterance. The theme of his opening address to the students of the University in September, 1910, was a phrase from the state constitution of 1777, 'The One University for the Whole State.' In course of the address President Buckham said:

"May it not be that yet some mode of consolidation, or differentiation, may be found on which the several institutions can cordially agree, whereby without injury or unfairness, the 'One University for the Whole State' may be started again on a career as auspicious as the one conceived by the fathers, and one wholly worthy of the commonwealth of their hope and of our love and pride."

After presenting the salient features of the University's argument in behalf of Vermont not being a State University and mentioning the appointment of the Educational Commission, continues:

"The Commission denies our claims as a State University and recommends the withdrawals of all state support from higher education. While this verdict is disappointing to the friends of the University it does not shake our faith in the justice of our insistence. We are well fortified by the best legal and judicial authorities of the State and to this finding of the Commission we take exceptions.

"The report by and large is so good and its effect on education is sure to be so salutary, however, that on November 25, 1914, the Status Committee of the Board of Trustees of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College took the following action bearing upon the Report of the Vermont Educational Commission."

The University's Present Position.

"Resolved, by the Committee on Status of the Board of Trustees of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College:

"That it is the sense of this committee that the Educational Commission, authorized by the General Assembly of 1912 and appointed by the Governor, has rendered invaluable service to all the people of our State through the record of the investigations made and presented in such report of the Commission recently published and circulated:

"That the members of the Commission have devoted themselves with singular unselfishness, commendable patriotism, and painstaking effort to a study of the educational conditions and needs of our State:

"That we fully concur with the finding of the Commission that the State owes its first obligation to its elementary and secondary schools and that all funds available for purely educational purposes should be expended upon these schools until their needs are supplied:

"That we recognize the awakening of interest on the part of the people of the State in scientific agriculture and, as evidence of our purpose to meet the larger requirements occasioned thereby, we call attention to the policy already adopted of increasing allotments of University funds to the support of this branch of its work, and to the revised curriculum of the College of Agriculture recently announced:

"That we agree with the finding which condemns the unnecessary duplication of work among the institutions of higher education and we trust that in developing working plans such duplication will be avoided:

"That we heartily endorse the position of the Carnegie Foundation that there are only two consistent policies a state can pursue towards institutions of higher education—either to leave higher education to be supported by philanthropy, or to treat it as a function of the state entitled to state support, with the fixed policy of appropriating money to no institution that the state does not control:

"Resolved Further, That respecting the judicial question as to the public or private character of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College, which we do not press at this time, we reaffirm our belief that said University is a State institution, and we urge the desirability of establishing beyond question the State University as the head of the public educational system of the State.

Guy Potter Benton, George M. Powers, Redfield Proctor, Newman K. Chaffee, Guy W. Ailey, Status Committee.

"This is the official stand of the University as the question goes to the Legislature for settlement."

The Medical College.

"The Trustees of the University have determined that in justice to all the graduates of our medical college who hold diplomas from an institution of the first rank, the College of Medicine shall exist only as a first grade institution. In other words annihilation is preferable to a continued existence in degradation. The State must determine whether it is worth while to support a medical college. The question will be squarely put to the legislature 'Will the service be commensurate with the outlay for the training of doctors to serve the smaller towns and communities of the State?' In this connection the friends of the University will present facts showing that more than four hundred of the seven hundred twenty doctors in the State are graduates of our medical college, and further, that of Vermonters trained in medicine outside the State only a very small percent. have returned to the State to be of service here. We feel that the deduction cannot be avoided, that if Vermont is to have medical service for its remote districts, it can be provided only by training men in a Vermont environment. The fate of the medical college is thus wholly in the hands of the legislators."

It's a Short Way to Mid-Years.

"Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget, lest we forget."

The time of the reaping draweth nigh and every year the reaper taketh his annual toll. The reaper's name is mid-years. Narrow and straight is the path from henceforth until the first of February. We know not in what hour he cometh. Today we are here, tomorrow we are cast out. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

He who is wise poureth much oil into his lamp and turneth the wick nightly. Procrastination is the thief of time. To wear a smile at mid-years, now is the time to get insured. The successful man is the one who looks ahead. It won't cost many bones, but it will cost a little boning. "Plucked" hath an uncanny sound heard even in the popping of the little bottle which drowns all care—until we awake to find we've missed an exam. Prepared or unprepared, the hour of trial is coming, and he who goes in to the long white boards with nothing but a prayer:

"Lord God of hosts, be with us yet Lest we forget, lest we forget."
is likely to sally forth with the words of one of our exchanges:

"Lord God of hosts was with us not For we forget, for we forget."

University Citizenship.

Due undoubtedly to circumstances which could not be foreseen the election of football manager and assistant managers have been postponed. There are now three men to be voted upon for the two positions of assistant manager. The voting, therefore, will be by the ballot box method. On the appointed day how many men are going to the poles and cast their ballot for a choice of these men? Any college question is a question which concerns every college man. Every loyal college man will vote upon the question if he gets the chance. "No choice" or "indifference" are hardly excuses. College life isn't merely going to classes any more than later life is merely drawing a salary. If our sense of voting responsibility has become drowsy and we're in a state of coma, let's kick ourselves awake and register our vote when the opportunity comes. How many votes should the student body register? One for each man to the full number of men. How many will it register?

The Oft Repeated Question.

Now that the Boulder platform has been thoroughly threshed out, and faculty and students are all alive to the question of student government as at no time previously, what are we going to do about it? All admit that the platform has already accomplished something and that the planks in the main are good. The student body, however, does not want its government to be in the hands of self perpetuity societies. Neither does it consider that the purely elective body has been efficient. Boulder has this week introduced another plan. But who is going to formulate the ultimate plan? If student government is desirable (and it would seem that it is so considered) now is the time to originate a government that will be a government. In order to have regularity and unison all power must be centralized, all activities must be controlled from one source. If we think student government is for the best, we must go after it and get it before interest dies. The Boulder Society has introduced the only definite plan. It is entirely without prejudice. A mass meeting should be called soon and the plan either adopted in toto or used as a basis for an improved plan.

What Do You Mean, "Catalogue?"

A lady who has two daughters preparing for the University was recently heard complaining because she didn't understand the catalogue. The Columbia Alumni News says:

"A college catalogue is a barren thing. Almost any enterprising mail-order house could give points to the precise and systematic faculty editors who prepare the statement of the goods they and their colleagues have to offer. Even a seed catalogue is more informing; that at least prophesies explicitly what color a hollyhock will display, and leaves you in no doubt whether your corn is good for people or live stock. But nobody can tell from the formal note in the college catalogue whether to expect red radicalism or lavender dilettantism, whether the lectures one agrees to hear will be good for the soul or merely for a sheepskin.

"That courses are not what they seem everyone soon finds out. The classic yarn about the man who directed his son to take nothing but mathematics, because that was the only department which was not teaching Socialism, is an extreme case in point. But fortunately not all students are driven to such desperate measures to avoid getting what they do not expect. Each course that counts at all on the campus is accurately labelled and classified in that large corpus of criticism of lectures, lecturers and things in general that passes from one college generation to the next, that sometimes errs, but that in the long run is justified.

"But there are always some men who fail to hear the oracle of public opinion. For their benefit, and for the better guidance of all purchasers of education at so much per point, there should be a student catalogue into which some of this wisdom is carefully garnered. Then the man struggling with his registration blank would have a supply of really pertinent information."

RED CROSS HAS THRILLING HISTORY.

Address by Harry S. Howard.

Howard S. Howard, attorney-at-law, addressed the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday evening on "Red Cross Work in the War." Tracing the history of war, he came at length to the introduction of medical aid and the Red Cross service which originated from the work of a Swiss doctor in the Italian-Sardinian war. It was made an international institution at the Geneva convention in 1864.

As a compliment to Switzerland, the Red Cross flag was made similar to the Swiss flag, with the colors, red and white, reversed.

In the Prussian war, Austria, although not a member of the international society, aided with money and nurses.

Germany spent about 4 million dollars in Red Cross work during the war of 1866. In the Franco-Prussian war, Germany spent about 15 million dollars, while France spent 3 millions, besides the doctors and nurses. In 1877, Russia and Turkey spent 13 million dollars for Red Cross work in their war. The Red Cross was organized in Japan at the time of the Russian-Japanese war. The American society was founded in 1881. In the Spanish war not only did our own Red Cross do good work, but it was aided by many other countries.

The purposes of the Red Cross are:

(1) To take care of wounded soldiers and sailors in war.
(2) To work whenever there is need in times of peace. In 1905 the American National Red Cross Association was founded and was strengthened by support of the national government. Several of the committee are appointed by the President of the United States. The Red Cross aided at the time of the San Francisco fire, the Italian earthquake, and the flood of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

America's aid to non-combatants in the present war has been done under the name of the Belgian Relief Committee and this work has progressed not only in Belgium but through the entire fighting zone. The work of the Red Cross proper is simply with combatants, for fear of violation of international law.

Senior Debate.

The senior debate scheduled for 9.10 Wednesday of this week has been postponed until the same hour of next.

STUDENT SELF GOVERNMENT.

As Viewed by U. of Washington Students.

Meaning: That the students shall consider themselves individually and collectively responsible for the citizenship of our student body; this means that we must first sanction and then institute a body for our self-government.

Need of: We need student self-government at our U. for the same reasons that it is needed in all citizen producing institutions:

1. In order to give to students something of the training which every citizen of our state should possess, namely, the training in the workings of government and in the feeling that each one is individually responsible for the welfare of the state, and should no longer be willing to cast his own responsibility away and leave government in hands of others, however capable they may be. This responsibility cannot be evaded when we leave our college walls. Why spend four years under the elusion that we should have nothing to say in student government and the day after graduation assume that, without having had any training, we are capable of and should have something to say in a great state, which involves the problems of life, of millions. Why cannot we, supposedly future leaders of the state, now deal with our university problems, which are really insignificant when compared with the problems of state?

2. To take away from the faculty the disagreeable responsibility of being, as it were, guards and supervisors, and instead to give to the faculty the greatest opportunity to devote their entire time to the best educational advancement of our university. This would tend to cause that fine feeling, which makes faculty and students alike united in the best interests of the individual and the school.

3. To cultivate the spirit of loyalty, without which a school can offer little except its mere scholastic work. Loyalty is the feeling side of education, as distinct from the intellectual side. Both are extremely important. Without loyalty, government would be impossible. But true loyalty can only exist where all the individuals involved take an active interest and part in the affairs of that group. In fact, participation is the very basis of loyalty. Hence why not cultivate loyalty by undertaking a vital college game, in which all can and should participate, student self-government.

EXTENSION SCHOOLS NOW BEING CONDUCTED.

The extension service is now busily engaged in the midst of its winter schedule of extension schools. Last week schools were held at Swanton and Lyndonville and during the current week a school has been in progress at Townshend. An exhibit was also displayed at the Armory during the State Dairymen's convention which was held there Jan. 12-14, inclusive. Harson, '15, Carlton, '16, and Piper, '16, were in charge of this exhibit.

Y. M. C. A. BIBLE CLASSES SHOW ENROLLMENT OF 70

Association Strengthens Work and Systematizes Its Plans.

It is estimated that over 70 men are now enrolled in Y. M. C. A. Bible classes. These classes have been organized in all the churches save the Unitarian where it is hoped one may be soon. The University Y. M. C. A. and the churches work in unison.

Several years ago due to the lack of response manifested toward Bible classes as conducted by the Y. M. C. A. the hill such classes were turned over to the city churches to be conducted by the churches, but to be recognized by the Association as its regular Bible classes and for the progress of which the Association and the individual churches should be jointly responsible. With the larger part of the burden thus shifted from itself the Association seems to have been perfectly willing to unload its own remaining part of the work on to the churches, that for some years past no effective interest has been taken by the Y. M. C. A. in Bible class work.

Having been forced to assume the responsibility of meeting the needs of the student body, the churches have organized and very successfully conducted Bible classes to which college men have been cordially welcomed. Though members of the Association have been interested in such classes, as an organization the Y. M. C. A. can claim little credit for their success, and, moreover, it has failed to recognize these classes as a part or connected with, its own work. In the attempt to so strengthen the Y. M. C. A. as to enable it to assume its proper sphere in college activities the present cabinet recognized the possibilities within effective Bible classes as a means towards building up the Association. At first the Bible study committee considered the feasibility of having classes at the several fraternity houses and thus follow the plan successfully carried out by many colleges, but such a plan did not seem likely to favorably adapt itself to local conditions and consequently was not attempted. Instead, it was decided to build up the classes already organized at the churches, and to aid in the organization of classes where they were not already present. By giving the deserved recognition would given these classes by the college would strengthen a connecting link between church and college which would prove mutually advantageous. With the newly organized class at the College Street Church there are now three Y. M. C. A. classes at the First, College Street, and Baptist Churches under the leadership of Prof. Borland, Mr. Reeves, and Mrs. Simonds, respectively. Since the college fellows have become firmly attached to the classes conducted by President Benton at the Methodist Church and by Mr. C. C. Wilson at the St. Paul's it was evident that there was no need for separate classes for college men at these churches. Though as yet no class has been formed at the Unitarian Church it is hoped such a class can be arranged in the near future. It is planned for the college men in the several classes to unite once a month in a big "get-together" meeting thereby maintaining a closer relation between the classes and a stronger unity with the Y. M. C. A. Through such co-operation of the churches and the Association it is hoped to enable the Bible class, with its discussion of problems vital to the college men, to assume the place it should hold in his life.

Though the present plan was adopted as one peculiarly suited to meet local conditions it has since been learned that such a plan has been newly introduced at Dartmouth and is also recommended by the international committee. If it can be successfully introduced in other colleges it should be a success at Vermont.

In order that every man in the student body shall be induced to find his place in some one of the classes, the chairman has enlarged his committee as follows: H. E. Crane, '15, chairman; P. H. Aldrich, '15; J. W. Baker, '15; R. W. Daniels, '15; S. P. Mills, '15; W. E. Remby, '15; E. F. Crane, '16; S. F. French, '16; E. L. Chatterton, '17; F. R. Churchill, '17; J. A. Hitchcock, '17, and P. J. Morey, '17.

Fraternity, Sorority and Non Fraternity-Sorority Statistics as Compiled by Cynic.

Kappa Alpha Theta (sorority) tie with eight apiece. Among the seniors Phi Chi has the largest representation, possessing twelve, equalling the largest delegation in the freshman class in any fraternity.

The smallest number of members in one fraternity or sorority is eight, which the new local, Alpha Sigma, possesses. Among the fraternities alone, Alpha Gamma Sigma and Delta Sigma have the smallest membership, fourteen.

The average membership is 22, and seven have over that number. Last year there were 273 non-fraternity men while this year there are 245, showing a decrease of 28. This may have been due to an increase of fraternity men in the freshman class, to a loss of non-fraternity upper classmen, and in part to the relative decrease in attendance this year. There are so many different factors concerned in the results that too much emphasis can not be placed on the mere comparison of figures for the two years.

PHI DELTA DANCE.

Monday evening, January 11, the Phi Delta Theta fraternity gave a dance at the Hotel Vermont. During the intermission a buffet lunch was served, and three of the sophomore members gave a short one-act skit. The patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. Guy Potter Benton, and Professor and Mrs. G. P. Burns.

Tee Up! Smoke Up!

AS satisfying as the sounding smack of the perfect drive, is the open-air relish of the perfect smoke—Tuxedo. Both go together, too. When you grab your bag and start for the links, grab up your tin of Tuxedo and take it along.

"Follow through" the snappy afternoon with Tuxedo. Put Tuxedo in your pipe and you will "put" the best. And at "the nineteenth hole" rest up and relax with a good, solid smoke of Tuxedo. That's the advice of good golfers everywhere.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo positively cannot bite—not even if you smoke pipeful after pipeful, as many as you can crowd into a day or a week.

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest, selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original "Tuxedo Process" which removes every trace of bite and sting and develops all the wonderful mildness, fragrance and flavor of the Burley Leaf in a way that no other brand of tobacco has ever successfully imitated.

1915 ARIEL.

Few Copies Left—Going Cheap—Some Recommendations.

There are about 30 copies left of the 1915 Ariel, Vermont's record breaking year book to date. To close out these copies will be sold at one dollar each, and may be obtained from either R. H. Ballard or M. H. Davis. Following are some of the recommendations of the book.

Ex-Governor Mead of Rutland: "A strikingly original book. I congratulate you."

Edwin Lawrence, Attorney for the New York Central: "At the rate you are going, Vermont will have established a reputation for year books as great as her prestige in baseball. Such a book as that will be an advertisement that will pay."

The Tuttle Company, Publishers of the Ariel: "We have had many years of experience in the publication of college annuals. It may count for something when we say this: The 1915 Ariel of the University of Vermont is one of the best college annuals we have ever published, and for the size of the college, unquestionably the best."

Dean Perkins: "It is not only the handsomest Ariel I have ever seen; I think it is the handsomest college annual I have ever seen anywhere. My greatest criticism of the book is that it is too handsome, too elaborate."

Professor Borland: "I think it would have been a splendid thing if the name of the university could have been placed on the cover. You will see the advantage of this. . . . The book is certainly unique."

O. G. Beale, Manager and "Yearbook Expert" of the Tuttle Company (extracts from several letters):

"The copy and dummies which have come in from you for the Ariel have been the most systematic and workable of any we have used this year. If editors all understood how important this part of the work is, publishers would be able to give far better service."

"The pen and ink drawing for 'Platform and Stage,' by Mr. Washburn, is some drawing. I have never seen its equal in any college annual."

"There are three college annuals in New England this year (you know which ones I mean) which are on a par with the '15 Ariel. I consider none of them any better than the Ariel though, and the four of you are certainly in a class by yourselves."

DELTA SIGMA DANCE.

The Delta Sigma fraternity held a formal dance at the Hotel Vermont Roof Garden on the evening of January 12. During the intermission, supper was served at Dorn's café. The chaperons were Capt. and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill L. Irish of Enosburg Falls. Music was furnished by Taplin's orchestra for an order of eighteen dances and two extras. About twenty couples were present.

Dr. Elias Lawrence, 1868.

News has been received of the death in Spirit Lake, Iowa, Dec. 2nd, 1914, of Dr. E. L. Brownell, aged 71. Dr. Lawrence Brownell, son of the late Norman Brownell formerly of Essex Junction, Vt., was born in Montgomery, Ohio, Feb. 28, 1843. He was taken to Vermont by his parents in 1850 and lived in Williston and at Essex Junction until 1867. He joined the army when 19 years of age and at the close of the war, came out as Captain of Co. F, 9th Vermont Volunteers. He graduated from the medical College in Burlington in 1868. He first settled in St. Lawrence County, N. Y., later in 1870 he went to Jackson, Minnesota, to become a Pioneer doctor and he rode in this capacity for twenty-five years, working as only such a Doctor can, to all, rich or poor; and since then has lived in Spirit Lake. He had been ill 18 months and death came as a relief from great suffering. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. S. Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. F. C. Smith, of Osage, Iowa, and Miss Ruth, who graduated from the university in the class of 1913. He also leaves one brother, A. S. Brownell, of Elmhurst, Illinois, and one sister, Mrs. W. F. Chapin, of Chicago, Illinois. He was buried at Spirit Lake, Iowa.

CYNIC COMMUNICATION.

Dear Editors of the CYNIC:

I wish to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 5th instant and wish to say, that your dramatic appeal to my loyalty was not wholly lost. I surely appreciate your endeavors to keep the price of the dear old CYNIC at the same price for which it has sold from the day of its birth, and that you have spurned the opportunity to "boost" the subscription price on the pretext of a war shortage in paper, or for any other reason.

I don't know whether you have ever heard of the town of Bethel before but assuming you have never heard its praises sung, I should like to tell you about it and how the boys at "Old Vermont" can help a town that is down and out. Bethel was once one of the leading hatting towns in the country, especially stiff hatting, but stiff hatting is nearly a thing of the past and times are never duller than at the present time. Now here is the way in which the boys can help Bethel and indirectly the author of this letter.

Push the idea that no worthy representative of "Old Vermont" should ever venture out with a young lady, lend church or chapel, take in the movies, or in fact venture out of the town, without wearing a stiff hat, in other words, a derby. Spread the good tidings to the other colleges throughout the country. This would cut the demand for stiff hats, Bethel's industry would once more come to life, and the scribe of this letter could then possibly loosen the price of a year's subscription from the grip of several others in the town. The idea of getting two dollars from a hatter looks pretty enough, but come down and try

MORE POTASH COMING

American crops and soils are still as hungry for Potash as before the outbreak of the European War, which curtailed the Potash shipments.

Some of the Fertilizer Companies are trying to induce farmers to buy the one-sided low Potash or no Potash fertilizers of a generation ago. This means a fertilizer that is profitable to the manufacturer, but not the best for the farmer. When the Syndicate in 1910 started the direct sales of Potash to dealers and farmers at reasonable prices, Potash sales increased 65 per cent. in one year, a clear proof that farmers know that Potash Pays. They know that Potash gives good yields, good quality and resistance to plant diseases.

Many of the Fertilizer Manufacturers are willing to meet the farmer's wishes and sell him what he thinks he needs. These manufacturers are now willing to furnish as much Potash as they can secure. They offer goods with 5 per cent. and even in some cases 10 per cent. Potash, if the farmers insist on it.

Shipping conditions are improving, more Potash is coming forward although the costs of production and transportation are higher. The higher price of fertilizers is not due wholly to the slightly higher cost of Potash. Much of the Potash that will be used in next spring's fertilizer had reached America before the war started.

There is no substitute for Potash.

We can no more return to the fertilizer of twenty years ago than we can return to the inefficient farm implements or unprofitable livestock of that period.

H. A. HUSTON.

U. S. MIGHT HAVE 3,000,000 VOLUNTEERS PLAN BY CAPTAIN REEVES

Students Would Receive Army Pay and Serve As Reservists.—Proposal Already Submitted.

Captain Reeves has submitted to the War Department "A Plan For the Creation of a First and Second Line Reserve Army Through the Means Already Afforded by the State and Land-Grant Educational Institutions of the United States." According to this plan, it is proposed to organize two reserve armies, to be called respectively, the United States First Line Reserve and the United States National Reserve, the latter being a fully organized and equipped army, ready for immediate call to arms.

It is with regard to the former, that is, the United States First Line Reserve, that it is proposed to use the Land Grant Colleges and State Educational Institutions, and to build up a system of military scholarships, which will be mutually beneficial to the student and the military department. It is proposed in this plan that military scholarships shall be given to educational institutions, said scholarships carrying with them the moluments and obligations hereinafter named and apportioned as follows: The President of the United States shall appoint annually 500 scholarships, at large, each senator and representative shall appoint, annually, fifty from their respective districts; and such numbers from Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, and dependencies shall be appointed by the President of the United States as shall bear the same proportion to the population as the numbers appointed from any congressional district bear to the maximum population of a congressional district.

"Students who receive appointments to these military scholarships would receive the pay and clothing allowances of their respective grades as enlisted men of infantry of the U. S. Army during their entire course at college. Those rising to commissioned grades shall receive one-fourth of the basic pay of like grades in the army." This applies to persons between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five and who are citizens of the United States. In order to obtain such a scholarship one must meet all the entrance requirements of the educational institution to which he is appointed; he must pass the physical examination required of recruits for the United States Army;"

"CAN THAT HEAD GEAR," SAY SOPHS.

Punishment for Freshmen Transgressors of the Law.

Punishment was meted out on the back campus last Saturday afternoon to delinquent members of the class of 1918, when upwards of a dozen "violators of the law" fell into the hands of the sophomore vigilance committee during chapel hour.

"The hat law has been grievously transgressed" said 1917. Forthwith, rounding up a squad of 25, they sallied forth to uphold law and tradition, if not order, in the good old fashioned way where might alone prevailed.

A dozen unfortunates were "caught with the goods on," paddles miraculously appeared and a gauntlet formed. One freshman, more daring than the rest, ventured to escape. Overhauled by a quartette of pursuers, he was brought back and forced to stroll at a more moderate pace down the lane of paddles. Threats are still in the air.

Noted Pure Food Expert Lectures to Large Audience in Gymnasium.—Commends Work of Medical and Agricultural Departments.

Despite the unpleasant weather a large audience greeted Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in the gymnasium Monday evening, Jan. 18, when he delivered his lecture on "The Public Health, Our Greatest National Asset." The lecture was the third in the series of Redpath entertainments.

Dr. Wiley's lecture was in a manner extemporaneous, for he declared that he had never written anything on the subject and committed it to memory, and that his talk this evening would be different than it was the night before, and would probably be something else the following night. But the subject which he was always prepared to talk about was the disregard for life which human beings seem to possess. The disease to die of is old age, but the length of life of the average American is only 44 years. This is partly or largely due to the lack of attention to proper food. He declared that an absolutely pure milk supply would lengthen human life ten years. An appalling number of children die under one year of age from diseases. But sugar is not essential to diet. Starch and sugar cannot take the place of nitrogen, phosphorus and lime in building up the body. Early decay of the teeth comes from too much candy and ice cream. A man should be fed when

BURKE WILL CAPTAIN TEAM.

At a meeting of the football "V" men Wednesday afternoon, F. J. Burke, '17, of West Rutland, was elected captain for 1915. Burke, although a "V" man of but one year's standing, has won the confidence of all by his energy and sincerity. This and his excellent playing rendered him eligible for the position of trust which he holds. His position is quarterback.

N. Y. ALUMNI TO BREAK RECORD.

Note the Speakers.

The annual dinner of the New York alumni association will be held at Delmonico's on February 3rd. There will be so much enthusiasm that you can't help enjoying yourself whether you want to or not. President Benton will be there with the latest news from the front. The Hon. Warren R. Austin, of St. Albans, Prof. David S. Muzzey, of Columbia University and Prof. Andrew W. Edson, associate superintendent of New York Schools, are going anyhow. While the Hon. John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Congressman Greene and others will be there if they can.

There were 152 at the reunion on November 11; every man promised to attend this dinner and bring another man with him. That makes 304. If you are going, write to L. R. Whitcomb, 100 William Street, New York City, and tell him so at once. Then when the time comes, take yourself and $4 and go. It is up to every last alumnus in New York to see that he himself and everybody else is there. If a man won't go proudly, take him by force; he will be glad of it afterwards.

AMERICAN SCHOLARSHIP SIGNALLY HONORED

Prof. Jackman's Book, "Transportation in Modern England" Accepted By Authorities of Cambridge—Author's Two Volumes Will Embody Nine Years of Research.

The result of nine years' research and scholarship by Professor W. T. Jackman, the material of which was largely obtained in the Parliamentary documents and in the archives of the British Museum and the Public Record Office in London, has now been embodied in permanent form and, under the title "Transportation in Modern England," will be published in two volumes, of about 450 pages each, sometime during the present year. Its acceptance by the authorities of Cambridge University, Cambridge, England, is evidence of the high character of the work; and the author has the signal honor of having his work published under the imprint of that university. This recognition is the more meritorious because of the fact that, while the author is an American, he is now acknowledged to rank with the members of the faculty of that university, for the publication of whose works the Cambridge University Press was established. This text will be especially useful as collateral reading in university courses in economic history and transportation.

Club Well Received in Richford and Enosburg—20 Take the Trip.

The first Musical Club trip of the season took place Thursday and Friday, January 14 and 15, concerts being given at Richford and Enosburg Falls. The trip was on the whole successful, the Clubs playing to a full house in Richford and a fair sized audience in Enosburg Falls. The Club was given a very satisfactory reception at both places, especial applause being given "Wynken, Blynken and Nod" with the soprano obligato by Miss Frances Tenny, '17, leader Swett's solo and the work of an improvised quartette comprised of Roberts, Mayforth and the Swett brothers, which resurrected "David in the Lion's Den" and other old favorites to the great amusement of the townspeople. The Club was under the auspices of the high schools of the respective towns. The program was as follows:

1. Vermont Songs.
2. Wynken, Blynken and Nod. .Nevin

13. Vermont Songs.

The following men took the trip; Leader C. H. Swett, F. S. Swett, Pike, Mayforth, Best, Woodbury, Whitney, Roberts, Manager Remby, Seaver, Morey, Short, Pease, Gallup, Gates, French, Paulsen, Daniels and Grismer.

STATE BIRD-BOTANICAL CLUBS WILL MEET AT UNIVERSITY.

Herbert K. Job to Lecture.

The annual meeting of the Vermont Botanical and Bird clubs will be held Thursday and Friday of next week, Jan. 29 and 30, at the university. The principal speaker will be Herbert K. Job.

Mr. Job is a minister by profession, but has for many years been an expert worker in bird study and his pictures of birds taken in various parts of the world have been published far and wide as examples of the best type of that class of nature work. Many of his illustrations—he uses over 100 of his own slides in the lanterns in connection with his lecture—are very remarkable, considering the difficulties under which the photographs were made and the rarity of the birds represented. His accounts of his experiences in making these studies and his descriptions of bird life observed at close range, will give the clubs and others who are fortunate enough to be present at the lecture, a very delightful treat.

No admission is charged to the lecture and all nature lovers are welcome. It will be given in the Williams Science Hall, following the annual supper of the two clubs, on Friday the 29th.

CATHOLIC CLUB NOTES.

Thursday evening, Jan. 14, Dr. John G. Coyle, a noted speaker from New York City, gave an interesting lecture at the Majestic Theater under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus and the University Catholic Club. He spoke on "The Advance of Religious Toleration in the United States." Over 700 students and townspeople were present. After the lecture, Dr. Coyle was entertained by the Knights and Catholic Club men in the K. of C. Rooms.

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, two debating teams from St. Michael's College appeared before a large audience in the K. of C. Rooms. The question "Resolved, that railroads should be controlled and operated by the Government" was supported by Carmody and Mann on the negative and Hodge and Murtaugh on the affirmative. The debate was won by the negative.

The annual election of officers of the club will be held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 25, at 4 P. M. in the K. of C. Rooms.

SOPHS. TROUNCE SENIORS.

Games Postponed.

On Thursday evening, Jan. 14, the third of the series of inter-class basket ball games was played in the gymnasium between the Seniors and Sophomores. The first and second periods were much more interesting and closely contested than the third. The Seniors caged all their baskets in these periods, and in the third period the Sophomores shot their baskets freely. The score was 21-5 in favor of the Sophomores. The remaining games will take place after mid-years.

SENIORS DEBATE EXAM. SYSTEM.

The senior debate Wednesday of this week was on the question, "Resolved, that the present system of examinations at the University should be abolished." The affirmative was upheld by H. A. Gardyne and C. S. Ferrin, the negative by W. A. Sturges and A. N. Willis. The decision was rendered the negative.

The next debate will be next Thursday morning. "Resolved, that the U. S. navy should be materially increased." Remby and McNabe vs. Edgerton and Tomassi.

CLASS MEETINGS.

Sophomore.

The sophomore class held a class meeting at 10 o'clock Monday in the Williams Science hall, at which freshman rules were discussed.

Freshman.

On Tuesday at 10 o'clock the freshmen held a meeting in Williams Science hall. The class tax was set at $1.50. Nominations for hockey manager were made from the floor, C. T. Roberts and R. W. Johnson being nominated. Election for this office will be held at the next meeting of the class. H. W. Batchelder, '17, and H. O. Wilbur, '17, spoke to the class a few moments in regard to the freshmen rules.

NEW CONDITIONS GOVERN RICHOLD COMPETITION.

Woodard Holds Gold Medal—Co. D. Stars.

The first of the three contests for the Richold-Reeves medals was held in the gymnasium last Wednesday afternoon. H. C. Woodard, '17, of Co. D. won first place; C. M. Collord, '17, Co. D, second; and L. A. Woodward, '18, Co. B, third. The judges were Major Ashley, V. N. G.; Lieut. Smalley, U. S. A.; Lieut. Watterman, U. S. A.; and Lieut. Ratzhoff, U. S. A.

The conditions this year provide that only first and second medals can be won by sophomores. The last freshman down secures third. This does not, however, prevent a freshman from securing first or second.

A new system has been arranged whereby a man on being dropped from ranks falls into a "re-entry" company. If his work here seems to warrant he is returned to his original company and permitted to re-enter the competition.

ANNUAL FARMERS' WEEK COMING.

Home Economics and Engineering Depts. to Assist.

The seventh annual Vermont farmers' week will be held at the university February 22 to 26. It will deal with:

(1) Agriculture; (2) home economics; (3) highway work.

(1) The simon-pure farmers' week will be given up to addresses, demonstrations and laboratory work in agriculture for five days. Two score lectures and demonstrators will take part.

(2) The home economics section will be in session for either two or three days. Several women lecturers and demonstrators will discuss various phases of the home maker's problems.

(3) The college of engineering will hold a two days' session dealing with road construction and particularly with road materials. Addresses, demonstrations and laboratory work will be given. The State highway commissioner will collaborate. A State meeting of the county highway commissioners will be held in conjunction with this session.

Programs will be in print by February 1st and may be secured of the director of the extension service, Morrill hall, Burlington, Vt.

"WILL YOU WALK WITH US TO-MORROW?" ASK OUTING MEN.

Short Hikes Planned.

Interest in the Out-of-Doors Club is reviving and Vermont men are beginning to feel the call of the great outdoors. At this season of the year the club has thought best not to take any very long hikes. To fill the need which seems to exist for weekly hikes, the club has arranged a series of short and long hikes for Sunday afternoons. If one feels inclined for a long walk, there will be others of like mind, or if one feels that he can devote only an hour to recreation there will be others similarly fixed. So if you were thinking of going for a walk to-morrow afternoon drop around at Williams Science Hall about 2:30 o'clock and you will find others there.

ABILITY OF VERMONT ENGINEER RECOGNIZED.

D. C. Wedgeworth, a graduate of the department of engineering of the University in the class of 1897, has been appointed resident engineer in the barge canal office at Schenectady. This position makes Mr. Wedgeworth responsible for some of the most important work remaining to be completed in the famous New York engineering project. It is a position demanding good engineering judgment and conspicuous executive ability. The Schenectady Union says:

"Mr. Wedgeworth has been in the state employ many years and is not only familiar with all details of barge canal work but is an executive of much ability."

The Schenectady office is one of the busiest if not the busiest of the whole barge canal system on account of construction work of the waterway above and below Schenectady. But little has been completed here while large sections in other localities are finished and ready for receiving traffic. No date was named for Mr. Wedgeworth to assume charge, but it will be in the near future.

PAN-HELLENIC SETS PLEDGING DATES.

A meeting of the local Pan-Hellenic of the four women's fraternities was held Monday afternoon in the Marsh room of the Billings Library. Changes in the constitution were discussed and it was decided to change the dates of what are known as asking and pledging days. The invitations will be mailed at noon Friday, February 19, and the written answers together with the invitations are to be received not later than six o'clock Saturday, February 20, which will be the pledge day.

ANNUAL ELECTION—HOWARD HALL CLUB.

Thursday evening, January 14, the Howard Hall Club held its annual meeting for the election of officers. Almira Watts, '15, was chosen as president; Lucy Swift, '16, vice-president; Marion Walker, '17, treasurer; and Claris Billinger, '18, secretary. Ida Holden, '15, was elected chairman of the executive committee and Marjorie Luce, '16, chairman of the entertainment committee. Plans are on foot for an entertainment to be given soon by the members of the club for the benefit of Howard Hall.

ST. MICHAEL'S ICEMEN SLIP OVER 2.

Saturday afternoon, Jan. 16, a picked team consisting of H. H. Denning, captain, H. C. Merrill, L. C. Wilder, E. M. Washburn, P. S. Slayton, F. P. Corley and C. M. Pike played St. Michael's College on the St. Michael's rink. St. Michael's won with a score of 2-0. The game was slow and the Vermont men showed lack of practice. They seldom had the ball in their possession, and all that prevented a worse defeat was the lack of aggressiveness on the part of their opponents.

Will Her Legislature Disown Her?

The University of Vermont has the distinction of being the oldest state university in the country. Will the State Legislature this year disown her? The educational committee was quite right in advising the Legislature not to support three collegiate institutions when the common schools were suffering. It is absurd to expect a state to help all of its institutions of higher learning, but it would be almost as absurd for a state to turn completely about and declare that it would foster none. No state is so sufficient unto itself that it can afford to abandon the aid of some higher institution of learning working in its behalf. Private institutions or philanthropy-supported institutions never apply their energies directly to state problems. State institutions do. A state needs a state university. Vermont does, but of course it doesn't need three. It can not financially or in any other way afford to scatter its strength. The present situation compels one to think of the talk he has often heard on disorganized charity. That is about what the state's support has amounted to in the past. The State should put its expenditures upon a business basis, with an idea of definite, adequate returns for money expended, take one institution and make that institution alive to its responsibilities. The Legislature might select either Norwich, or Middlebury, had Vermont not a prior claim in already being a State university. The question which the Legislature will ask is, "Has Vermont that prior claim, is she already a State University?" Vermont has sound arguments to prove that she is, but even though she were not, as an agricultural—medical—scientific—arts institution, she is rendering the State more service than it is possible for the other two institutions, more limited in scope to do, and she has more potentiality. Even had she not the prior claim she would, nevertheless, be logically the one to select.

Why Be Kept in the Dark?

One of the planks in the recent Boulder platform advocated more openness in faculty legislation pertaining to students. Doesn't it seem reasonable to suppose that if the senate and its committees or the various standing committees when shouldering a bit of legislation off onto the students would explain why it was needed and why it was passed in its existing form that it would at least appear much more frank, win more confidence and lead to better understanding? At present no one knows what a regulation is until suddenly notified that he has violated one. What are the rules concerning cuts? The students don't know. What is the rule concerning M. A. degrees? The students don't know. What are the scholarship rules concerning team eligibility? They don't know. And these and many others they sometimes wonder if the faculty know. When anything new is undertaken that is of interest to the students, if an accurate report were sent out for publication and reference the students would appreciate it. They are ready to stand for what is best, even though it may inconvenience them, if they know it is for the best. But unless informed they are often not in a position to know the whole situation.

Basketball.

If admission is going to be charged at basketball games why not continue the policy in vogue last year of either putting on two games an evening or scheduling some team like St. Michael's? St. Michael's has a strong five this year, and by pitting a picked team against them interest enough would be aroused to bring in creditable gate receipts. Enthusiasm, too, is usually at a low ebb this time of year and needs an occasion to express itself. Judging from the amount of life shown at the games last year, a game with St. Michael's would sufficiently supply the occasion.

Education.

The note of warning sounded by an eminent English professor recently, against the danger of substituting technical training for a generous education, ought not to pass unheeded. Any one who takes even the most casual survey of the educational history of the last forty years must be struck with the acceleration everywhere noticeable toward specialization. It is the age of the specialist, as it is the age of the division and subdivision of labor, and any one who works out this tendency to its only logical conclusion must recognize the need of such a warning as has been alluded to. With an extraordinary aptitude for coining phrases which has already considerably enriched the language, an eminent British politician recently inveighed against the attempt on the part of a purely materialistic outlook "to recreate man, the image and likeness of God, in the image and likeness of a Diesel engine." Some methods and developments of modern education cannot be held wholly blameless of such a tendency.

There is a story told of Raikes which is not inapposite in this connection. Well known for the extraordinary sweep of his general information, there was an earnest concern amongst some of his friends to discover some object with which he was not familiar. On one occasion, a fellow guest at a dinner party, at the Holland house, attempted to achieve this purpose. In collusion with some other men, he raised a discussion on Chinese metaphysics. To their surprise and horror, Raikes plunged into the discussion, contradicted them all point blank, and wound up with the amused remark, "Now, gentlemen, I know where you got all your information. You got it from an article I wrote many years ago in an encyclopedia. I was ill-informed on the subject then, and am in a much better position to educate you in the matter now."

The world's greatest men have always been the men with the widest interests, men capable of sympathizing with many pursuits and many ideals, and who, through the broad understanding which this brought to them were able to take into account, at their full value, great fundamental facts which the more specialized and technically efficient theorist might have completely lost. In regard to such vast questions as education, it is useless to attempt to indicate a royal road in an apothegm, but where the question lies as between the "generous education" of the universities of fifty years ago and the specialized education of some of the more modern schools, the solution, broadly speaking, is surely to be found in that word of common sense and profound wisdom uttered over 2000 years ago: "These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone."—Christian Science Monitor.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

REVIEWS SCHILLER.

The postponed regular meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held Wednesday evening, Jan. 20, in the Y. W. C. A. room. Herr Spring, '16, had arranged a literary program on "Schiller As An Idealist." Several of Schiller's shorter poems were read, and refreshments were served after the formal program.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor:

We believe that the proposition submitted last week by the Boulder Society is the only solution to the troubles which have interested student council, class societies and students for the past five weeks. We hope that the president of the senior class will submit the proposition to the students for a ballot vote as soon as practicable. We are confident that the scheme, a compromise as it is, but nevertheless a permanently good one, will get the hearty support that it deserves.

(Signed) Four men from the "Dorm."

PRESS COMMENT

Harvard's Football Team Composed of "Highbrows."

Eighteen of the 25 Harvard football players who accomplished the defeat of Yale this fall are listed in the book of ranking Harvard students published by the university. "Jeff" Coolidge and Dick Curtis are Phi Beta Kappa men, and the others have received individual honors in different studies.—University of Washington Daily.

Big Nine Go On Record.

At the conference of the Western universities, which make up the Big Nine held in Chicago, measures were taken for advancing a stimulus for a higher scholastic standing among the athletes. At this meeting the sum of $2000 was set aside, the interest of which is to be used to purchase medals to be presented to the Senior who stands highest both as student and as athlete in each of the nine institutions. While the standing of Athletes, scholastically, is very good at present it is expected that this stimulus will tend to raise it even higher.—Brown Daily Herald.

Simple College Loyalty.

In an eastern university, a certain athlete recently left school because of the criticism directed toward him because of his failure to pass up enough work to make him eligible for the team.

The man had passed through his "prep" school days gloriously because of his athletic prowess, and not because he had done any studying. At college the professors insisted that he do at least a minimum of work to be considered in good standing. The athlete had not learned to study, and became "peevish" at his instructors, and tried to shift the blame for his ineligibility upon them. The "profs." had it in for him, he said.

But while students will overlook many faults of an athlete because of his ability on the gridiron or track, the students at this school saw that the refusal of this man to dig in and qualify was losing them game after game. He was sorely needed on the team.

So they told the athlete just what they thought of him. He could not stand the gaff, and went home to his family where he was sure of sympathy.

Fortunately, ninety-nine out of a hundred athletes are not of the stripe of this man. Most athletes make big sacrifices in order that they may serve the old school. But when the hungry man comes along, and unfortunately he is usually a star, who will not settle down to business and get up his work, out of love for the college, if for no other reason, any school is better off without such a man in its enrollment. It is the duty of every man who can legitimately do so, to serve his college on its athletic debating, or other intercollegiate contest teams. The real college man recognizes this duty and performs it.—Iowa State Student.

BULLS-EYE MEN ON VERGE OF CONTEST.

Dartmouth First on Schedule.

The official targets for the intercollegiate Rifle matches have arrived from the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle practice at Washington. All except two of last year's team, which made such a fine showing, are back and with some new material and practice it is expected that a good team will be turned out. The club is to be aided this year by the use of some excellent new guns that have recently been purchased. The first match will be held Jan. 28, when the University team shoots against Dartmouth, and the second match takes place Feb. 4th against Notre Dame. Serg. Steele, U. S. A., will be the official judge this year.

170 INSTEAD OF 70.

Noted Student Speaker for February Meeting.

170 should have been the Y. M. C. A. Bible Class estimate recorded last week instead of 70. One class alone shows an enrollment of 50. The classes of the various churches will all meet with President Benton's class at the Methodist Church to-morrow.

A list of Y. M. C. A. missionaries has been compiled and placed in the Y. M. C. A. room. It includes former missionaries and those still on the field.

Plans are being made for a large Tuesday night meeting next week, at which Dr. Wilson will speak.

Rev. Dr. Raymond Calkins has been secured for the special services, Feb. 4, under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. He has preached at nearly all the New England colleges, and to many of them he is called early.

NATIONAL INTER-COLLEGIATE GALLERY CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES.

Conditions Governing 1915 Matches.

Eligibility.—Open to teams from university and college rifle clubs affiliated with the National Rifle Association and in good standing. Members of teams to be in good standing the undergraduate year, and who are maintaining the necessary hours of work and standard of scholarship required by the institution, and who have not taken a degree from any other college. Certificate to be furnished by some duly authorized authority.

Team.—Any number of men up to 10 may shoot, the best five scores counting for the team score.

Distance.—50 feet from end of rifle target.

Number of Shots.—20 for record, 10 standing and 10 prone.

Sighting Shots.—Two sighting shots only will be allowed at commencement of firing if the two positions are shot consecutively. If there is an interval of time between shooting the two positions, sighting shots will be allowed before record firing in each position.

Targets.—The N. R. A. gallery target 1 to 10 count, to be used. Officially stamped targets will be furnished free for each match. These targets will be marked for identification, and no other targets will be received for record. These targets will be sent to the N. R. A. judge and will be retained under his control before and after the shooting when they will be immediately returned to the National Rifle Association.

Position.—Standing: off-hand, body free from all support, strap allowed in connection with one arm only. The regulation web belt may be used if desired. Prone: Head toward target. No part of extended arm to touch the ground, except at the elbow. No artificial support to any part of the rifle, except the sling, or to the arm, except at the elbow.

Rifle.—Any .22 caliber rifle weighing not over 10 pounds.

Sights.—Any, in front of the firing pin, not containing glass. Telescopes not allowed.

Trigger Pulls.—Not to be less than three pounds.

Ammunition.—.22 caliber, short.

Time Allowance.—15 minutes will be allowed for each string of 10 shots.

Judges.—The judge appointed by the N. R. A., or his representative, will act as executive officer at each contest. He will see that all conditions are adhered to and report the score to the headquarters of the N. R. A. by mail or telegram on completion of match.

Matches.—When Shot.—Teams must shoot on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of each week, or on any day preceding, provided the targets stamped for the following week are used. A report of the week's shoot must be in the office of the N. R. A. by Thursday night of each week. All clubs not reporting by mail or telegram by Thursday night will receive a zero for the week's shot.

Entrance Fee.—Five dollars per team.

Prize.—The winning team of class "A" will receive the championship trophy and 10 silver medals. The second team in class "A" bronze medals, and the winning teams in each of the lower classes will receive medals. Vermont is in class "B." The 10 medals are to go to the team of 10 in the greatest number of matches.

Special Prize.—J. A. Baker, Jr., and P. St. G. Bissell, Jr., two former members of the Columbia University rifle team, have presented a bronze figure as a special prize for the non-military college making the best record in the matches. The trophy to remain in competition for 10 years and to become the property of the college winning it the greatest number of times in that period. The method of determining the winning team in each class will be by the percentage of the grand aggregate score of all matches shot.

Quick on the Trigger With a Snap-Shot Eye

THE crack trapshooter has to have steady nerves and muscles absolutely under control—always ready to swing his gun into place and bring down his claypigeon. This means trained, not to the minute, but to the split-second.

We present the names of some famous crack shots. They like to smoke, but take no chances on a tobacco that might "throw them off." They use Tuxedo because it is mild, relaxing, steadying—strictly pure.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest, selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original "Tuxedo Process" which removes every trace of bite and sting and develops all the wonderful mildness, fragrance and flavor of the Burley Leaf in a way that no other brand of tobacco has ever successfully imitated.

DR. ALBERT FREEMAN AFRICANUS KING.

Professor of obstetrics at the medical college and a member of the faculty for 44 years. His death removed a familiar figure at the university and a man much beloved by the other members of the faculty and one popular with the students. He came to the medical college in 1870 when he was 29 years of age and last June he completed his 44th year of service on the faculty, never missing a single year.

Dr. King was born in England January 18, 1841. He received his degree as doctor of medicine from Columbia University in Washington, the institution now being known as George Washington University, in 1861. He also was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1865. He received two honorary degrees from the University of Vermont, master of arts in 1883 and doctor of laws in 1904. He married Ellen A. Dexter of Boston October 17, 1894.

In the course of his busy professional career, Dr. King was acting assistant surgeon of the United States army in 1864, professor of obstetrics 1871-1914 and dean of the medical school, 1879-1894 of Columbian University; consulting physician of the children's hospital in Washington; obstetrician George Washington University hospital; professor of obstetrics at the University of Vermont, 1870-1914; member of the Royal Society of Medicine of London; member of the American Gynecological society; fellow of A. A. A. S.; member of the Washington Academy of Sciences; president of the Washington Obstetrical and Gynecological society, 1886-1887, and of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia in 1883-1884.

Dr. King was the author of "A Manual of Obstetrics," published in 1882, and "Mosquitoes and Malaria," published in 1883. He was the first man who conceived the idea, which he carried to practical demonstration, that malaria has its origin in the bite of the mosquito.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1847. William W. Blodgett, who is now our oldest alumnus after the Rev. G. G. Rice of the class of 1845, is now in his 91st year. He has been the Judge of Probate in Pawtucket, R. I., more than forty years and is still in office. Only these two men remain of all who graduated before 1850.

1882. Former Professor Harry A. Stores, consulting engineer with headquarters at Chicago, is spending the winter at Tucson, Arizona, as consulting engineer for the Tucson Farms Company, which is operating over 10,000 acres of irrigated land. It will be recalled that Mr. Storrs was professor of electrical engineering at Vermont during the years 1891-99.

1892. Captain George C. Martin, who since 1905 has been in charge of the military department of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, has recently received orders from the War Department detailing him elsewhere on December 31 last. Captain Martin has been longer at M. A. C. than any other officer who has been stationed there since the military department was organized.

1894 Medical. Dr. Charles J. Downey of Springfield, Mass., has lately been appointed by Governor Walsh as a trustee of the hospital for consumptives for the State of Massachusetts. Dr. Downey is a member of the Democratic state committee and was active in the campaign for Walsh last fall. After leaving the university he did post graduate work in New York and Vienna and studied in various hospitals abroad. He was formerly a member of the Springfield hospital staff and has been on the staff of the Mercy hospital for the last fifteen years.

1909. Mr. and Mrs. Julian S. Jacobs are the parents of a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, born Dec. 30, 1914. Mr. Jacobs is a member of the class of 1909.

1914. Walter W. Howe is a chemist for the American Cotton Oil Co., in their laboratories at Gottenburg, N. J. Address 221 Thirty-first St., Wood-cliff, N. J.

1914. Herbert V. Wheelock is managing an orchard in Whitemarsh, Pa.

1901. Miss Madge E. McElroy is teaching in Santa Ynez, Santa Barbara County, California.

1912. Mr. L. C. Hunt is Principal of Champlain High School, Champlain, N. Y.

1913. Miss Alta H. Grismer is now a teacher in the Latin Department of the High School at Camden, N. Y.

1902. Mr. and Mrs. Don M. Pine of Caldwell, N. Y., are the parents of a daughter, Katharine Bennett, born November 28, 1914.

Total .....2867 1358
 Graduates in arts and sciences, 2826;
 graduates in medicine, 2355; graduates in engineering, 345; graduates in agriculture, 104. Total, 5630.

Of the above 5630 graduates, approximately 3200 were living in 1913. 1500 other students have enjoyed courses of instruction without taking degrees.
 Adding the quota of 1914 to the graduates—112—the total number of graduates comes to 5742.

Following the analysis of the mailing list for 1910-11 employed for finding the "University Notes," covering graduates and non-graduates. It is to be noted that the figures in the "Medic" column are included in the "Grad. and Non-Grad." column.

Vermont has a total of 979 according to the list, and considering the accessions of 1914, and also addresses not known, probably the total is nearly 1100 by this time. Of the 979, more than a third, or 378, are M. D.'s. This demonstrates the value of the College of Medicine. The Vermont cities having the largest number of Vermont men according to the list are:
 Montpelier and Rutland highest, each having 33, of whom 12 are doctors in Rutland, and 10 in Montpelier; St.
 Albans, third with 28, and 8 doctors;
 Winooski fourth, with 33, and 8 doctors.
 The salient fact is the general distribution throughout the State, showing that the university is considered as the common benefit of all. There are 59 places having at least three Vermont men in them.

Looking beyond the state borders, we find that New York has 501 of our men, as compared with the 394 in Massachusetts, but is excelled in the number of M. D.'s by Massachusetts, which has 269, as against New York's 253.
 New Hampshire follows with 109 men, of whom 82, or about 80 per cent, are doctors. Considering the fact that Portsmouth at the time had not done away with her medical course this would seem to be an extremely good showing. Outside the New England States, California is the best Vermont
 State, having a total of 75 U. V. M.
 men.

Of the cities beyond our borders,
 New York and Boston lead with 151, and 71 respectively. South Carolina, of all the states, alone lacks a Green and Gold representative.

In the Eastern Hemisphere we are represented by 8 men, 2 in England, and one each in Austria, Russia, Turkey, Greece, France, and Belgium.

Very probably, considering that 1358 of the 2867 on the mailing list are possessors of the M. D. degree, the favorite occupation is medicine.

Without doubt, if the full record were at hand up to date, a much better record could be put forth by old Vermont, but as it is, it is one of which the university may justly be proud.

ALUMNI NOTE.

1889. At the special convention of the Vermont Methodist Episcopal diocese which was held on Jan. 20 in the parish home of St. Paul's Church to elect a successor to the late coadjutor
 Bishop William F. Weeks, the Rev.
 George Yemens Bliss, D. D., the rector of St. Paul's Church in this city, was elected on the third ballot to the vacant office.

The newly elected coadjutor bishop is a graduate of the University in the class of 1887, and in addition to the Bachelor of Arts degree, holds also the degree of Doctor of Divinity, which was conferred upon him by the University at the time of the centennial celebration in 1904. Dr. Bliss has been Rector of St. Paul's Church since 1899.

MORE POTASH COMING

American crops and soils are still as hungry for Potash as before the outbreak of the European War, which curtailed the Potash shipments.

Some of the Fertilizer Companies are trying to induce farmers to buy the one-sided low Potash or no Potash fertilizers of a generation ago. This means a fertilizer that is profitable to the manufacturer, but not the best for the farmer. When the Syndicate in 1910 started the direct sales of Potash to dealers and farmers at reasonable prices, Potash sales increased 65 per cent. in one year, a clear proof that farmers know that Potash Pays. They know that Potash gives good yields, good quality and resistance to plant diseases.

Many of the Fertilizer Manufacturers are willing to meet the farmer's wishes and sell him what he thinks he needs.
 These manufacturers are now willing to furnish as much Potash as they can secure. They offer goods with 5 per cent. and even in some cases 10 per cent. Potash, if the farmers insist on it.

Shipping conditions are improving, more Potash is coming forward although the costs of production and transportation are higher. The higher price of fertilizers is not due wholly to the slightly higher cost of Potash.
 Much of the Potash that will be used in next spring's fertilizer had reached America before the war started.

There is no substitute for Potash.
 We can no more return to the fertilizer of twenty years ago than we can return to the inefficient farm implements or unprofitable livestock of that period.

H. A. HUSTON.

"The reserve army herein contemplated, shall not be available for active military service other than for repelling invasions and suffering insurrections, and for service beyond the seas against the enemies of the United States. It shall in no case, be used for quelling local disturbances, excepting where the disturbance takes upon itself the nature of an insurrection, and then, only after all available state and federal troops have proven inadequate to cope with the situation."

A thorough course of military instruction, consisting of five hours a week, is provided for. Annual encampment and maneuver for a period of two weeks during the summer vacation, with full pay and allowances, is a part of the plan.

An appropriation of $6,000,000 by the Government is required to be apportioned among the educational institutions in proportion to the members of the U. S. First Line Reserves to be stationed there. This is for the purpose of providing adequate armories, instruction facilities, and storage for United States property.

The plan provides for organization of the students into "such units of infantry, cavalry, field or coast artillery and auxiliary branches of the service as may make the entire student organization of the United States an army balanced in all its branches."

An officer of the United States Army, to be known as Professor of Military Science and Tactics will be at the head of each institution. There will also be one captain of the army for each battalion of appointees, and a lieutenant for each 100. These officers may also serve in the capacity of instructors in the academic department, or as coaches on athletic teams.

As the graduates and ex-students pass from the United States First Line Reserve to the United States National Reserve, a great reserve army will thus be created which will number practically 100,000 men, and which will provide officers and the higher grades of non-commissioned officers for a volunteer army of 3,000,000 men.

ALPHA GAMMA SIGMA DANCE.

On Friday evening, Jan. 15, Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity gave a dance at the Van Ness Roof Garden. 20 couples were present. The chaperons were: Professor and Mrs. Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Fiske. The order consisted of 20 dances. Taplin's orchestra furnished the music. Lunch was served during intermission.

at college for the occupation he intends to follow, the same as the football player is fed at the training table. The doctor discouraged the use of tea and coffee and pointed out the danger of tobacco and alcohol. Avoiding these, and living on rational food, the average man should live until 88. The length of an animal's life is calculated as four times the period it takes to bring it to maturity. The human being is mature at 21. Multiplying that by 4 we have 84, and putting in four extra years for good measure we have 88, twice the average lifetime of people in the United States.

Dr. Wiley made other interesting remarks, among them being an expressed wish that the women of Vermont might join in the good work of the state by being able to cast their ballots at election time, the present situation which should be easily avoidable in Europe shows what a mess the men have made. Surely women could do no worse than the men have done. He remarked that if the cows and horses of the state were to suddenly experience some disease that there would be plenty of state and federal aid to fight it, but that an appropriation for fighting an epidemic among children would not be so readily forthcoming. This would seem to indicate that people think more of their cows than of their babies.

The selection of pure, simple and wholesome food tends to lengthen life. In his own early life his four articles of diet consisted of molasses, skim milk, corn bread and learning a verse daily from the Bible. Dr. Wiley is bringing up his children in much the same way. His oldest boy does not know the taste of candy, cake or ice cream. He will be allowed a little sugar when he gets older. Sugar is useful for furnishing extra energy for great physical exertion. As a case in point he said, "Once when Harvard was being beaten by Yale at football, I told the Harvard boys to carry sugar into the game and have a lump in their mouths at all times. They haven't lost a Yale game since."

He commended the work of the university and spoke a good word for the agricultural college, medical school, and for the state's health department, making particular reference to the work of the department of hygiene which is now engaged in studying the dreaded scourge of infantile paralysis. He said he was proud to acknowledge the University of Vermont as a foster mother. Dr. Wiley was granted an honorary degree by the university four years ago. He closed with a wish for the New Year that all would enjoy happy and long lives, full of service to God and humanity.

The next attraction in the Redpath series will be Kellermann and company. The date has been changed from Jan. 28 to Thursday evening, Feb. 14.

All-Girl Dance.

The annual all-girl dance, postponed from last Wednesday, will be held in the gymnasium this evening.

HONORS FOR LITTLE.*Vermont Tackle Mentioned in Selection of All-American Team.

The many friends of Louis Little, '17, will be pleased to learn of the honor conferred upon him by Parke H. Davis in his review of the football season of 1914. Mr. Davis, next to Walter Camp of Yale, is probably the foremost football authority in the country. Mr. Davis annually reviews the football season and picks an All-American team. In addition to mentioning the fact that Mr. Little was considered in picking his All-American team he makes especial note of his prowess. His review was published a few weeks ago by a syndicate of newspapers.

This can be no great surprise to Mr. Little's friends, as he has been known for the last two seasons as one of the best tackles in New England.

Competing against colleges such as Dartmouth, Maine, Brown, and Colgate, Little has been at all times a star and a bulwark on the line. His position has been considered impregnable and he could always be relied upon to make a hole.

Concerning the Dartmouth game in which Little played against McAuliffe, the famous Dartmouth tackle, the following was said: "Little at right tackle played a star game for Vermont, indeed he was considered by many as the best man on either line."

Concerning the Holy Cross game the Worcester Post said: "The all-round playing of Louis Little, the ex-Worcester Academy star, who is widely known as the Leominster iceman, featured for Vermont. . . . He was invariably down the field before his ends and stopped plays all along the line."

Before the Holy Cross game. The following from an advance write-up of the Worcester Telegram: "The spectators should watch Lubo Little, Vermont's big right tackle. He has been a wonderful asset in the plays of the Green and Gold hurled through his tackle this season. He played a slashing game for Worcester Academy in 1911 and is well known among followers of football. Holy Cross will do well to keep an eagle eye on his position this morning when Vermont has the ball."

In summing up the football season of the Vermont team the CYNIC gave Little much credit for his remarkable work on the line. It was said that he was a star in nearly every game and summed up by saying: "Little excelled."

The students of the university owe Little a debt of gratitude and all rejoice at his being honored as he justly deserves.

MUST ABANDON SOUTHERN TRIP.

The Athletic Council has decided that it will be impossible for the baseball team to take its usual southern trip during the Eastern Vacation this year. The Council is forced to this decision against its wishes because of the large expense of the past football season and the general lack of finances.

VERMONT WILL SEND COMPETITORS DARTMOUTH MEET FEB. 10.

Co-operative Hike Feb. 6—2 Clubs Will Spend Night on Mansfield—All arrangements Under Care of
Out-o-Doors Club.

On Saturday and Sunday there will be a joint Green Mountain trip between the Outing Clubs of Dartmouth and Vermont. The two clubs will meet on Saturday night at Barnes' Camp near mugglers' Notch, spending the night there. On Sunday morning they will make the ascent of Mt. Mansfield, returning Sunday evening. All arrangements have been made by the Outing Club officers, and Vermont men who can take this trip should communicate with Mack, '16. The Dartmouth men are making this trip at considerable expense to help in bringing about a closer relationship between the two colleges and all Vermont men who are interested, even if it is necessary to make some sacrifice, should endeavor to meet with Dartmouth on the summit of Mansfield.

The Out-O'-Doors Club has started the winter season with a boom and expects to be very active in winter sports. Last Friday night Ted Bell of Dartmouth gave a talk about the Outing Club at Dartmouth and the plans for the big winter carnival. His talk was given in the large lecture room in the Science Hall and was illustrated with lantern slides. There was a fairly good attendance.

According to Bell, Dartmouth was the first college to establish an Outing Club and Vermont the second. Since these two colleges have started the movement similar clubs have sprung up in many other colleges. At Dartmouth the club is very strong and active and this year is holding an immense winter carnival Feb. 10-13 inclusive. Gym cuts are given to those making the hikes or doing other outdoor work of a similar nature. In this way many freshmen get started in the club and the interests and attractions are so great that they become members. The best of opportunities for winter sports are afforded in the vicinity of Dartmouth. They have been given a large piece of land which is utilized for this purpose. Three cabins have been built which serve as lodging over night for parties on a hike. One of these was built by students who remained at Hanover during a vacation period.

Every Sunday a short hike is taken with members varying from twenty to

COACH F. W. CROWTHER

CROWTHER ENGAGED FOR BASEBALL TEAM

Commended by Capt. Mayforth. Arrives Feb. 21.

The Athletic Council has announced the selection of Mr. F. W. Crowther as baseball coach for the coming season.

A short resumé of Mr. Crowther's baseball career is as follows: played with Springfield, Massachusetts, High during 1903 and 1904; semi-professionally with teams in Massachusetts and Connecticut for the next seven seasons; was with the New York Giants for trial during season of 1911; signed contract with Hartford Eastern Association team for 1912 and played with them and in the Twin State League during the last three seasons.

Captain Mayforth, who is personally acquainted with Mr. Crowther, is hearty in his recommendation. He says, "In past years Vermont has had coaches from the big leagues who have attempted to build up a team without giving the players instruction in important elementary things. Mr. Crowther is not of the kind that coach from the bench. He will get out and work with the team. He will put some 'gyp' into the men. Mr. Crowther has played nearly every position in the infield and he can give our infielders some points on how to play their positions."

The new coach will arrive in Burlington Feb. 21. He has sent instructions for the battery candidates to report a week before his arrival. The new cage will be in readiness. The net will be up, and batting, throwing and infield work will be begun.

DR. STONE HAS ANNOUNCED BIG FOUR CAPT. HAYDEN ENTERED

Relay Men Will Meet Tufts Next Saturday at Boston—Team Faster than Last Year's.

The Vermont relay team meets Tufts, Saturday, Feb. 6, at Mechanics Pavilion, Boston, under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association. This is the big winter track event of New England and teams from most of the New England colleges and from other eastern colleges will compete. Besides the relay team Captain Hayden will compete in the mile handicap. Last year Hayden brought great credit to the University by taking second place in this event in which representatives of all the big colleges took part. He was second only by a yard, a Harvard man just pulling ahead for first place.

After hard and earnest work all fall and winter on the part of the track men the team is in good condition for the race. A training table was started two weeks ago at Commons Hall. The team as announced by Doctor Stone will be composed of Gallagher, '16, Patterson, '16, J. Tennien, '15, and either Bolster, '16, or Minckler, '15, for the fourth man. The final trials will be held today. The withdrawal of Wilbur, '17, a promising candidate, will be a handicap to the team.

Dr. Stone is highly pleased with the work of the team and expects them to make a good showing. Last year Vermont lost to Tufts, but this year's team is considerably faster and it is hoped that they will win.

Seven men will take the trip: Gallagher, Patterson, Tennien, Bolster or Minckler, Captain Hayden, Dr. Stone and Manager J. B. Johnson. The team expects to leave Friday and return Sunday.

NEXT AUTUMN'S TEAM MANAGED BY MACK.

H. A. Mack of West Woodstock was elected football manager for the season of 1915 at the elections last Friday, Jan. 22. F. C. Stewart of Fairfax and R. C. Sanders of Brattleboro were elected assistant managers.

VARSITY DEBATERS CHOSEN.

2 Teams to Represent University.

The competitions for the Varsity debating teams were held Thursday night, Jan. 21. Each competitor spoke for five minutes on either side of a question selected by himself. Four out of six of last year's Varsity team will debate again this year. The judges were Professors Tupper, Gifford, Aiken and Jackman. The decisions follow:

Vermont vs. Middlebury at Burlington: M. D. Powers, '15, of Athens; L. M. Prindle, '15, of Charlotte; H. A. Bailey, '14, of Winooski; alternate, J. V. Piper of Springfield.

Vermont vs. Clark at Worcester: J. S. Hunt, '15, of Johnson; H. E. Crane, '15, of Danville; J. A. Hitchcock, '17, of Pittsford; alternate, M. H. Davis of Johnson.

KAKE WALK PLANS STEPPING LIVELY

Full Committees Appointed—Seating Capacity Enlarged—5 Stunts Already Entered—Rest to be in by Feb. 12.

The first meeting of the kake walk committee was held Tuesday evening at the Kappa Sigma house where plans were discussed for the coming function, and various sub-committees appointed by the directors. The complete list of officers is as follows: chief directors, Sturges and Gardyne; publicity committee, Davis, Scott, Conroy; seating committee, R. B. Smith, Ferrin, Grandy, Handy, Niles, Holmes; pee-rade committee, Ferrin, Rapuzzi, Bloomer; kake walkers' committee, Handy, Roberts, Scott. The first named are chairmen of their respective committees.

The rules are practically the same as in former years with a few changes. The names and outlines of all the stunts must be handed in to the directors on or before Feb. 12. The seating capacity will be enlarged by 300. There will be no judges' stand as in the past, but the judges will be stationed at their own discretion about the hall. The names of the judges will not be known until the night of the walk.

Fraternities must send in the names of the chairman who will represent them. Those who walk for the cake must notify the directors before Feb. 15. Ticket sellers should notify the directors immediately. Charge books will be furnished the chairman of each committee so that he may buy such things as necessary, but each purchase must be sanctioned by one of the directors before it will be valued.

Prospects are very good for the best kake walk in years. Five fraternities

VERMONT HAS HIGH TYPE OF CHRISTIAN SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Mr. Boyd Commences Series of Lectures on Modern Sunday Schools.

"I have found a higher type of Christian school teachers in Vermont than in any other state in which I have worked," said Mr. Boyd of the State Sunday School Association in his opening lecture on "The Modern Sunday School" Thursday night, Jan. 21. Mr. Boyd is an attractive speaker and the lecture surprised the audience as a source of information and interest.

The speaker first took up the importance of religious education as shown by its place in history among the Hebrews, in the early Christian Church and in the medieval church. From this he passed to its modern development when Robert Raikes, the journalist, originated the first Sunday School, founding it among the industrial workers of an English mill city. His schools were known as the "Ragged Schools" and so great were their growth that within five years their enrollment was 250,000 boys and girls receiving instruction. This instruction was often as much in reading and writing as in religion. Then came its spread to America, and Greensboro, Vermont, has the distinction of being the first Sunday School in the country to start a movement for training teachers. This was in 1814.

There is a need of religious education, maintained the speaker, since man is a religious being, and Christian character is essential to our national life. The public schools, however, are no longer supplying that education save in a few conspicuous instances. Therefore, an institution for religious education is a vital necessity. The Sunday School is an educational institution, it has a spiritual purpose and a social mission.

FREEMEN OF STATE MAY SAY "YES" OR "NO."

Supt. of Anti-Saloon League Speaks on License Referendum Bill.

Mr. C. H. Smith, Superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, addressed the Y. M. C. A. at its Tuesday night meeting this week. Special emphasis was laid on the referendum bill which has been introduced in the present legislature. For two years the State Grange, with a membership of from eighteen to twenty thousand, has been working for this bill, four large church bodies are behind it, and other organizations like the Good Templars with smaller enrollments. The bill provides that the people be permitted to vote whether the State be license or no license. When it went license in 1902 it did so by only 1,000 majority out of 60,000 votes cast. Only 17 towns out of 320 now have saloons. At the election last spring the no vote was 10,000 in the majority. Vermont, said the speaker, may fall in line with the other states that have voted against license and help lead the movement, or she may wait until she has to lag along behind.

U. V. M. OUT-DOORS.

The past five years have witnessed an increased interest in the newer outdoor sports among the colleges of the East. Dartmouth stands forth pre-eminently as the pioneer in this excellent movement, the Dartmouth Outing Club having come into existence in the fall of 1909. For two years this organization, under the leadership of Fred Harris, '11, made rapid strides in laying the foundations of an institution which has now become deep-rooted in the life of Dartmouth College with a membership of over 500 for this year. And now, through the generosity of the Rev. John E. Johnson of the class of '66, the Outing Club has been able to broaden its activities into many fields, chief among which is mountain climbing. A line of cabins, three in number, has been constructed through the White Mountains. These have been built through the generosity of various alumni and have been fitted with all the necessary camping outfits at the expense of the Rev. Johnson and others. Frequent trips are taken by the club to these cabins and the life of the mountains has become a part of the life at Hanover.

The Dartmouth men must tramp many miles or take long railroad trips to arrive at any mountain of considerable altitude. What about the opportunities afforded by the country about Burlington? It would be difficult to find in any college setting the combination of lake and mountain that he finds around the University of Vermont. Mansfield, with its caves, the highest and most interesting of the entire Green Mountain Range, lies at eighteen miles by rail from the university while Camel's Hump with its thousand foot rock cliff is scarcely twenty miles from the campus. The Long Trail of the Green Mountain Club passes between these two peaks, winding through some of the most interesting mountain country in all New England. The U. V. M. Outing Club was organized last year in order that the men of the University might find enjoyment and recreation in the mountain and lake country so near at hand. Why shouldn't the Outing Club of the U. V. M. have a line of cabins from Mansfield to Killington? The Dartmouth Outing Club is ready and willing to co-operate in every way to assist in building up an organization and bring about closer relations between the two northern colleges, Dartmouth and Vermont. Joint hikes in the Green Mountains are already under consideration.

Other colleges have the advantage over us in that they have a system of clubs. When a man wants to take a two days' Outing Club trip at the week end, he feels free to go and he has the use of his cuts. Why not give the students of the University of Vermont the opportunity to get away from the campus now and then, striking off into the mountains to get a new grip on things and to look at the academic world in a different light? Let us have a definite number of cuts for each semester, that, whether on the trips of the Outing Club or on the trips of our various teams, we shall know definitely how many cuts we can take without being brought up before the Deans.

Whether mountain climbing in winter or summer, snow-shoeing, skiing, hikes on the low land, skating, canoeing or sailing, let every man in the University who feels that he would enjoy the recreation and the companionships born of these various activities affiliate himself in some way with the Outing Club. Stereopticon lectures and Fireside Talks will be given from time to time by the Club and these entertainments will be open to the members and their friends.

Publicity Committee,
U. V. M. Outing Club.

MEETINGS PLANNED FOR SUNDAY, FEB. 14.

Dr. Raymond Calkins Will Be Speaker.

The Day of Prayer for colleges used to be held on the last Thursday of January, and the older graduates of the U. V. M. remember many notable observances. Unhappily, however, the Thursday became a holiday instead of a holy day, and it ceased to be observed. Then a Sunday was taken, under the leadership of Y. M. C. A., but unfortunately the present situation presents no uniformity of usage. The World's Student Federation has set apart the fourth Sunday in February, the Council of Church Boards of Education recently selected the third Sunday in February, and some of the Christian denominations have chosen still other dates. In the colleges, therefore, there is much diversity of observance, but a considerable number have taken the first Sunday after the mid-year examinations are well over, and that has been the choice here. Feb. 1 is, therefore, the date set for the special services to be in charge of Dr. Raymond Calkins. It is planned to have a general meeting in the morning, an address to the young women in the afternoon, and to the young men in the evening. Opportunity will also be offered for personal conferences.

CLASSICAL CLUB

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Classical Club met Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. room. The following officers for the next semester were elected: President, L. W. Dean, '15; vice-president, Miss Merle Byington, '16; secretary-treasurer, Miss Mary Frank, '17; chairman of the executive committee, Miss Laura Porter, '16. After a short musical program the meeting adjourned.

ELECTION OF CATHOLIC CLUB OFFICERS.

Social Gathering Notes.

A meeting of the Catholic Club of the university was held Sunday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus rooms. Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, W. F. Gallagher, '16; vice-president, W. A. Tennien, '17; secretary, A. P. Latneau, medic, '18; treasurer, E. A. LaBrake, '17. The appointing of the executive board was left to the incoming president.

A large number of the members of the club together with the Knights of Columbus enjoyed a social gathering Wednesday evening at the K. of C. rooms. It was one of the series of entertainments that are being held throughout the winter.

On Wednesday evening, February 10th, St. Michael's Dramatic Club will present to the public "The Bells" in St. Mary's Hall. Tickets can be obtained from members of the club.

We invite the students of the University to examine the extensive stocks carried in this store.

Cynic Notice.

This issue of the CYNIC clears the news until mid-years. There will be no issue during the two weeks of examinations.

The 1915 Kake Walk.

The period of the Kake Walk is here once more. It seems to those who year after year are called on to produce a stunt that human ingenuity can no longer contrive anything new. Yet each year something new is contrived, each year some "stunt" takes the prize. It will be so again this year; some one will devise something never thought of before. The Kake Walk never lacks interest, but it would seem that during the last year or two there has been a falling off in attendance on the part of the city people. Variety it has, but, nevertheless, its general plan and arrangement are the same, and it is scarcely to be wondered at that those who have seen it many times come to regard it with a sort of passivity, and as willingly stay at home as attend. This year the fraternities should be at particular pains to make their stunts excell, and the directors should do all in their power to introduce some original features. It seems as though there was a little more of a competitive spirit in the air than usual. No organization should fail to put on a stunt, and to make them successful it means that they be started early. At times some of the fraternities have been reluctant to enter. There are none but what can produce a creditable stunt, and it is their duty to come across. The medical men should be particularly urged to participate this year. Above all it should be largely advertised. With the decrease of local support comes the necessity for more outside support. Why not plan on a large scale? Advertise from one end of the State to the other, and make it easier for people to get here than to stay away. Vermont can make this the biggest Kake Walk she has ever had if she's got the will to do it, and she can flood the gymnasium with more people than it has ever held before.

Mid-Years.

Mid-year examinations commence Monday. Vermont has no honor system, save that imposed by each man on himself. If he cannot be entrusted with his own honor no one else is going to shoulder the responsibility. It will be up to him now just as it will always be up to him. The arrangement of having the examinations in the gymnasium has not stopped the dishonor. A few are still busy duping the pros; it's only occasionally that one gets caught, but what's the use? What's the use of being dishonest? A man knows it isn't on the level, he won't do it when everything is fair sailing. Why knuckle down to it in a pinch? If a man doesn't prepare for an exam. it's his fault, and if it floors him why not take the consequences? Nobody wants to be sentimental about the thing, and a little crooked work may not seem a very serious offence. If it's only a little cheating that stands between passing and not passing what is a man to do? Well he knows that dishonestly isn't a square deal to himself, or his neighbor at the bench, or his college. He knows dishonesty isn't right and that the best kind of a man will take the steel rather than turn and run. So the proper thing to do is to go in without the cribs and to play a clean game while in there.

A Few Reasons Why.

Last week an editorial was published explaining that the State should have a State university, but should not support three institutions as at present; that the preponderance of evidence shows Vermont to be already the one authorized State University, and that even without consideration of this prior claim she would be the logical one to select. University men should be more than passively interested in the Legislature's decision. Only this past week the Legislature in accordance with custom took advantage of its privilege and elected its quota of university trustees. Does it appoint any trustees to Middlebury College? No. To Norwich? No. If Vermont were a private institution what right would the State Legislature have to appoint trustees? Such obvious facts as these are, or should be, known by all University men. There follow a few of the grounds on which the university justifies its claims, showing that its arguments are valid and honest, and its attitude sincere.

In the first place the original intent of the people of Vermont was to found a State University. The Constitution of 1777 in section 40 declares:

"A school or schools shall be established in each town by the Legislature for the convenient instruction of youth, with such salaries to the masters paid by each town, making proper use of school lands in each town, thereby to enable them to instruct youth at low prices—one grammar school in each county and one university in this state ought to be established by direction of the General Assembly."

In the next place, in the charter act, the university was "founded" by a State lawmaking body in contrast to the modus operandi of incorporating a private educational institution in which case permission to incorporate is "granted" to a petitioning body.

Furthermore, the Legislature fixed the location of the university by ballotting on several aspiring towns in the State, obviously in marked contrast to the procedure of incorporating a private institution.

The records show that the original instrument made the Governor, the Speaker of the House and the President of the University ex-officio trustees. They show further that from 1810 to 1828 the Governor and Council marched in solemn state to the House of Representatives and there elected in joint session the trustees of the University of Vermont and filled vacancies caused by death, resignation or expiration of term.

That the Legislature has required biennial reports from the university the same as from other departments of the State government is significant. The mere fact that the University bears the name of the State is convincing.

The Joint Excursion.

The Dartmouth Outing Club has extended a welcoming and a helping hand to the Vermont club. To show that Vermont appreciates it how many men are going on the joint trip next Saturday? It will be the Dartmouth Club's annual Green Mountain hike, lasting from Saturday, February 6 to Tuesday, February 9. This year the Green Mountain College has been invited to participate for two days. This seems to be the time for the Out-O'-Doors Club to catch a new hold and to hang on. The out-of-doors movement is growing in the colleges. The Dartmouth Club was the first to be found, the Vermont, second. Sometime Vermont will be proud of her position in the list. Meanwhile, the committee in charge must make the Club an interesting thing. It will take more than a lonely hike now and then to stir any enthusiasm on the campus. The men must see something to become interested in, and the Club has infinite opportunities for advertisement. The Out-O'-Doors Club is practical for Vermont, and as it is a growing idea it would pay the college to make a big thing of it. Even those who think they do not care for the hikes should join. The fee is small, but it will help the Club advertise itself and that is what it must do if it wishes a successful following. Next Saturday Vermont ought to show Dartmouth that she can put a good number of men into the field, and when these men return from the hike they ought to have imbibed enthusiasm enough to keep the out-o-doors idea buzzing.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The last issue of the CYNIC contained the report that the southern trip for the baseball team must be given up because of lack of funds in the treasury of the athletic council. To many of us lovers of baseball the loss of the training which the trip affords the team seems worthy of inquiry. Vermont has gained an enviable reputation in the South by means of her crack nines and she ought to do all in her power to maintain it.

Might it be suggested that a concerted effort be made by every student in the university to get together the necessary funds. The "Co-eds" at Wellesly could give us pointers on raising money. When their main college building burned they got busy and collected cash enough to build a new and better one.

Could we not, with the receipts of the Kake Walk, Military Bazar, an Vaudeville and by popular subscription send our team South this spring?

"Fan."

PRESS COMMENT

Freshman Toques.

After chapel service yesterday morning G. C. Valentine of the Cammaria Club spoke to the members of the freshman class on the matter of having a toque to replace the freshman cap during the winter season. He stated that several colleges had adopted the toque and that the Cammaria Club was willing to grant them to Brown freshmen if the first-year men thought the present cap was inadequate. A vote to show the general sentiment showed that a majority favored its adoption. Brown Daily Herald.

Why not apply the ordinary moral standard to examinations? One who cheats deserves to be ostracized by his fellows. There is nothing curious about cheating. It indicates an empty head and a flabby sense of right and wrong.—The Daily Nebraskan.

Initiative In Athletics.

President John Grier Hibben, Princeton University, in a recent report made the statement that college athletics were now being professionalized to an alarming extent by the use of highly paid coaches and training systems.

The chief objection to the present system, as pointed out by him, is that a player is robbed of initiative in game, and must play at the bidding of a man who is not even allowed to follow the play from the side line. He recommends that all colleges place more responsibility in the hands of the captain, not only in a game but in practice as well. The game will then develop a player's initiative and give him other training than mere obedience in response to a higher power.

To our mind the recommendation is sound, and it should have the attention at least, of the football people of the country. A college education for the purpose of developing character and initiative, and athletics, which has so important a place in most colleges, should tend toward these things the same as any other course.—Athenaem (W. Va.)

DEBATING CLUB DEALS OUT INFORMATION.

Current Events, Submarines and Municipal Government Presented.

A meeting of the Debating Club was held Monday evening, Jan. 25, in D North College, with a fairly good attendance. A very interesting and instructive literary program was carried out.

The first speaker was A. C. Lewis, '17, who discussed "Current Events." The war, of course, came in for its share of the discussion and the recent earthquake in Italy with its disastrous results was mentioned. Another interesting thing from the airman's point of view, which Lewis discussed, was the establishing of stations for aeronauts on both land and sea. If this plan is carried out, as is now intended, the air pilot may know just where he is to stop and find good accommodations for himself and his machine. It is expected that the plan will do for aviation what good roads have done for the auto. An item of state interest was the review of the work done so far by the State Legislature, now in session.

Shippy, '17, read an extensive article on "Submarines and Their Use in War." According to the writer there are two classes of submarines, viz.: the torpedo boat of high speed for offensive work and the slow submarine for defense only. However, the slower vessel is passing out of use and few are now built which cannot make from sixteen to twenty knots per hour. With the new types of submarine now being built and the gradual development in speed and power the time is thought to be coming when the greatest fleets of Dreadnoughts will be useless.

H. A. Bailey, '14, gave an able talk on "Municipal Government," dealing particularly with the principles and practice of the commission form of government. He first discussed the changes in the handling of a city's affairs from the time of Athens down to the present. The municipal system is one of the great faults in the United States, the speaker said. In commission government the affairs are handled by a council which has practically all power. Each commissioner has supervision over a particular department. By this, continuity of policy is secured. The main principle is concentration, the placing of power on a few men.

The Debating Club will start an active season immediately after mid-year. The debates with Middlebury and Clark are already in preparation. At present the club has a membership of 22 men with other names under consideration. Membership is limited to 30.

UNMOLESTED BY MAN.

Saturday evening the annual all-girl dance was held at the gymnasium under the management of the Girls' Athletic Association and the local Pan-Hellenic. Refreshments of punch and popcorn balls were served. Miss Isabel Spofford, '14, furnished music for an order of twenty dances. The chaperons were Mrs. Stetson, Miss Marshall, Miss Shattuck and Mr. Stone.

A REAL CHAPEL TALK.

Rev. Ora Gray Speaks on Purposeful Exertion.

A part of the chapel hour Monday morning was taken up by Rev. Ora Gray, who has been connected with Y. M. C. A. work for the past twenty years. He expressed great pleasure in having an opportunity to speak to the students of the university because his subject was one of great importance to college men. The theme of his talk was the establishing of a purpose, and the exertion of all possible powers in a straight forward and self-respecting manner toward reaching this purpose. He illustrated this point very interestingly by telling the story of a family of three boys who lived in a rural district of New Hampshire. The father and mother of these boys were poor, hard working farm people who saw possibilities in the future lives of their sons. With sacrifice, on the part of their parents, the boys were sent through college. They studied hard, worked, and in the end reached the goal for which they had set out. The possibilities which the father saw in his boys were made actualities by an established purpose and to-day we find them among the noted of our country's workers, one high in the employ of the National Government, another dean of what is perhaps America's greatest law school, and the third president of one of the country's biggest universities.

NEXT THURS. NIGHT

IT'S KELLERMAN.

The next entertainment of the Red-path series, Marcus A. Kellerman and Co., will take place next Thursday evening, Feb. 4. Mr. Kellerman is one of the greatest dramatic baritones of the present day. He will be assisted by Miss Garowitsch, violon-cellist and William Parsons, pianist.

Since Mr. Kellerman has been in this country he has toured with the New York Symphony Orchestra under Walter Damrosch, the Minneapolis Symphony under Emil Oberhoffer, the St. Paul Symphony under Walter Rothwelt, and his appearances with the Boston, the Theodore Thomas and the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestras, as well as the most prominent musical organizations of this country in recital, concert and oratorio have gained for him universal commendation.

ENTERTAINED BY ALPHA SIGMA.

The girls of the class of 1918 were entertained by Alpha Sigma at the home of Mrs. Ira L. Reeves on Saturday afternoon, January 23. The guests were taken on a "musical tour of the world," and refreshments were served in the form of a basket lunch. Mrs. Bassett, one of the patronesses, poured.

Freshman Class Meeting.

P. R. Johnson has been elected manager of the freshman hockey team. At the same meeting the class voted a 10 cent tax toward the Dartmouth competitions.

William Faversham

Famous Actor, says

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo will put snap and vim into your daily work. It's an inspiring tobacco that will keep you fit as a fiddle, full of zest, hearty and happy and hale. You can smoke it all day long, and each succeeding pipeful will glow with greater cheer.

The original, exclusive "Tuxedo Process" has many imitators—but no equal.

Try Tuxedo for a week, and you'll like it forever.

AGGIE CLUB ENTERTAINS SHORT COURSE MEN.

Dean Hills Explains Extension Work.

The Agricultural Club held a very interesting meeting Friday evening, January 22, in Morrill Hall. This was especially planned for the short course men and they availed themselves of the opportunity by turning out in large numbers and giving the club a chance to show what benefits can be gained by such an organization. The members who took part in the program were well chosen. The "chronicle" by Handy, '15, was well arranged and received a good hand. Professor Jenks followed with a very interesting talk on experiences that he has had in agricultural lines. His talk suggested that he has had a good chance to see quite a lot of the farming sections of the country, especially through the middle and far west.

The club was fortunate in having a "regular" quartette to furnish the musical side of the program. This was composed of Sweet, '15, Mayforth, '15, Remby, '15, and Short, '17. Several encores were given.

Dean Hills is always ready to help out the club and with his talk the program was complete. He told of the work that has been done by the extension service and what is being done this winter at the present time. A few selections on a victrola ended the program, after which light refreshments were served.

ALL-STARS NOT SHOOTING STARS.

Points More Than Doubled by St. Michael's Five.

Forty-seven to 20 was the defeat suffered by the All-Stars last Tuesday evening with the fast five from St. Michael's. After a few scoreless minutes St. Michael's began to warm up and show some of the work that has been winning their games this year. At the end of the first half they led by 14 points, the All-Stars having caged but four baskets. In the second half the All-Stars showed considerably more speed and Gilbert was able to land four baskets, while Glidden and Metcalf each got one.

The shooting of Linnehan of St. Michael's was the feature of the game. He caged the ball from all parts of the floor, and scored 11 baskets and one foul out of the 47 points made by the college five.

Following is the line up:

ALL-STARS. ST. MICHAEL'S.
Vizner, r. f. .... r. f., Gilligan
Metcalf, l. f. .... l. f., Keleher
Gilbert, c. .... c., Linnehan
Hayden, l. g. .... l. g., Hammond
Glidden, r. g. .... r. g., Murtagh

Baskets from the floor, Gilbert 6, Metcalf 2, Glidden 2, Linnehan 11, Keleher 7, Hammond 2, Gilligan, Murtagh. Foul goal, Linnehan. Referee, O'Brien. Scorer, Linnehan. Time-keeper, Beaupre. Time, 20 and 15 minute periods.

Junior Class Meeting.

The junior class met yesterday for the purpose of electing a manager of hockey, and the matter of the dedication of the Ariel was also discussed.

VERMONT OUTSHOOT DARTMOUTH.

Gallery Men Win First Match by 23 Points.

The rifle contest between Dartmouth College and the University of Vermont ended Thursday, Jan. 28, with a victory for Vermont by a score of 924 to 901. Finnessy, '16, held the highest individual score for Vermont, and Slayton, '16, shot 12 consecutive bullseyes from a prone position. The scoring was well bunched and foretells a successful season. The five men out of ten whose scores were highest, shot as follows:

VERMONT.	DARTMOUTH.
Finnessy, '16,	Rundlett, '16, 188
Slayton, '16, 185	Winters, '16, 183
Ransom, '16, 184	Cutler, '16, 180
Daniels, '15, 183	Phillips, '18, 179
Washburn, '16, 181	Hall, '15, 171
Totals,	924 901

FOOTBALL SWEATERS SELECTED.

The football sweaters for the Varsity, sophomore and freshman teams have been ordered and will be ready in the course of a few days. The sweaters are made by Charles H. Dudley & Co. Twelve men receive Varsity sweaters, ten receive sweaters from the sophomore class, and seventeen freshmen receive sweaters. A committee composed of Dr. Burns, Dr. Stone, Mr. Sawyer, Manager Sturges and the two class team managers chose and ordered the sweaters.

Sophomore Class Meeting.

At the sophomore class meeting this week Tuesday, H. C. Merrill of West Somerville, Mass., was elected manager of the hockey team. It was decided to support a team should the other classes have one.

It was also voted to raise a tax of five cents per member to help defray the expenses of competitors at the Dartmouth winter carnival. Another meeting was held yesterday.

R. W. Powers was elected chairman of the Sophomore Hop Committee.

Tea at Prof. Groat's.

Professor and Mrs. G. G. Groat entertained the members of his economics classes at their home on Loomis Street last Sunday evening.

CHARLES HENRY LEWIS, M. D.,
Ex-1862

Who died at Jackson, Mich., 7 October, 1914, came to college from Jackson in 1858, and completed two years of the course. Two years later he graduated from Michigan University, and received his medical degree in 1866. He was born in Concord, Mich., 10 November, 1840, the son of Edward Lewis and Caroline Davey, and was a nephew of Chalon F. Davey of the class of 1842, whom a few will remember as town clerk of Burlington in 1847-55. Dr. Lewis married 29 August, 1866, Mary A. Barry of Ann Arbor, Mich., who survives him, as also a married daughter.

REV. WM. HENRY HARRISON McALLISTER, 1880

Who died at the house of his son in Melrose, Mass., 5 January, 1915, was born in Stowe, Vt., the son of John McAllister and Mary Morrison. Through his maternal grandmother he believed that he traced his descent from John Cabot [?]. He got his preparation for college at Morrisville, under the tuition of Charles H. Heath, class of 1854. He entered the University with the class of 1862, but in August, 1861, enlisted as private in the 4th Vermont Volunteers, and joined the army of the Potomac at Chain Bridge, Va., about Oct. 1. Before the end of the month he was detailed as quartermaster's clerk at division headquarters and promoted sergeant, returning to his company in January, 1862. In the following April he was detailed as ordnance sergeant for the brigade, and held the position during the Peninsula campaign. Then, after two months in hospital, he was promoted first sergeant and accompanied his regiment in the Fredericksburg campaign; was wounded in the battle of 13 December, 1862; lost his right leg in consequence, and was in hospitals at Washington and Burlington, Vt., until his term of service expired. He was in the service a little over three years. He served as deputy collector of customs at St. Albans from 1865 to 1878; re-entered college in 1879; graduated at the head of his class in 1880; taught school a few years (two years in Boynton Institute, Vt., 1885-87), and did some work as a journalist. He was ordained deacon in the Methodist Episcopal Church in April, 1888, and was advanced to the eldership in 1893; had several local charges, and for a time was pastor of an independent church at Portland, Me. For five years he was in the coal business at Old Orchard, Me. He served as principal of the High School at Old Orchard, and also as superintendent of schools. In 1909 he was living at Methuen, Mass.

He married 15 November, 1865, Elizabeth B. Towne of Woodbury, Vt., who with a married daughter now living in Tilton, N. H., and a son already mentioned survive him.

MORE POTASH COMING

American crops and soils are still as hungry for Potash as before the outbreak of the European War, which curtailed the Potash shipments.

Some of the Fertilizer Companies are trying to induce farmers to buy the one-sided low Potash or no Potash fertilizers of a generation ago. This means a fertilizer that is profitable to the manufacturer, but not the best for the farmer. When the Syndicate in 1910 started the direct sales of Potash to dealers and farmers at reasonable prices, Potash sales increased 65 per cent. in one year, a clear proof that farmers know that Potash Pays. They know that Potash gives good yields, good quality and resistance to plant diseases.

Many of the Fertilizer Manufacturers are willing to meet the farmer's wishes and sell him what he thinks he needs. These manufacturers are now willing to furnish as much Potash as they can secure. They offer goods with 5 per cent. and even in some cases 10 per cent. Potash, if the farmers insist on it.

Shipping conditions are improving, more Potash is coming forward although the costs of production and transportation are higher. The higher price of fertilizers is not due wholly to the slightly higher cost of Potash. Much of the Potash that will be used in next spring's fertilizer had reached America before the war started.

There is no substitute for Potash. We can no more return to the fertilizer of twenty years ago than we can return to the inefficient farm implements or unprofitable livestock of that period.

H. A. HUSTON.

VERMONT WILL SEND COMPETITORS.

one hundred. This example Vermont is adopting. These hikes are highly refreshing to both mind and body, and a spirit of good fellowship is fostered. Last winter a long hike was taken from Hanover to Mt. Mansfield. This trip was made on snowshoes and skis. It is to be repeated this year Feb. 6 and 7, and a party of Vermont men will take the trip at the same time to meet the Hanover men on the mountain. When such meetings can be arranged to occur often there is sure to be a rousing of intercollegiate interest.

The big winter sports carnival is to be held Feb. 10-13 at Hanover. This is the first intercollegiate event of this kind attempted in the United States and everything is being done to make it a success. There are to be ski jumps, short races for speed and long endurance races. Likewise with snowshoes there are to be both long and short races. In addition to this, there are to be two intercollegiate matches, one in hockey and one in basketball. The play "Under Cover" is to be presented by the Dramatic Association and a big dance will take up one of the evenings. Colgate, New Hampshire State, Colby, McGill and Vermont have already signified their intentions of sending representatives to compete while negotiations are being carried on with Yale, Harvard and Williams. It is expected that the carnival will attract large numbers and doubtless will become an annual event. All competitors are to be entertained by the club at Dartmouth, the only expense being carfare.

A fine ski jump is one of the features of Dartmouth's outdoor equipment. It is built on the side of a long hill and after coming down the take-off, about 450 feet, one shoots out into the air and drops down into a valley. The course of the jumper while in the air follows that of the hill below the jump. Jumps of 90 feet have been made and 60 and 70 feet jumps are frequent. Great care must be exercised in the placing of these jumps in order to have safety combined with distance in jumping.

In order to send representatives to the carnival to enter into the competitions the sophomore class this week voted a tax of five cents per member and the freshmen class a tax of ten cents per member. This is to be used to pay the carfare of those entering the competitions.

Weekly hikes have been established by the Out-O'-Doors Club of the university. Last Sunday, Jan. 24, several men under the leadership of Professor Thomson, took a hike to Brigham Hill, a distance of about eight miles. All found it very enjoyable. A trip to Mansfield is to be made Feb 6 and 7 by skis and snowshoes. Everybody is urged to take these hikes if possible.

A Few Handbooks Left.

It is announced that there are a few more of the 1914-15 Handbooks, or Frosh Bibles, on hand. They can be secured at the College Y. M. C. A. offices.

have already given notice of their desire to compete. More extensive advertising will be used, and special trains run on the Rutland and Central Vermont roads. The committee will be very grateful at all times for any suggestions that will help make this affair a bigger success.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 7 at the Kappa Sigma house.

SENIORS DECIDE U. S. DOESN'T NEED LARGER NAVY.

Debate and Junior Argumentation to be Combined Next Semester.

The question debated by the seniors Thursday morning was "Resolved, that the U. S. navy should be materially increased." Edgerton and Tomassi, for the negative, defeated McNabe and Remby. The winning points were briefly as follows:

We are not in danger of war because our relations with foreign powers are very friendly; because other nations want our financial and commercial support and because the present European war will weaken the participants to such an extent that they will not be willing to engage in another war for many years.

Our navy now takes high rank among those of the greatest nations, and our present policy of adding two battleships a year will continually improve it. We do not need an extremely large navy because our geographical position is easily defended, and because the Panama canal will enable us to concentrate our naval strength in the Pacific or on the Atlantic within a short time.

If, however, we wish to prepare for a possible war, we had better wait until the end of the present conflict in order that we may know whether it is best to spend our money for dreadnoughts, submarines, aeroplanes, coast defence or the army.

The debate was not well attended. Professor Tupper said that in the next semester the junior course in argumentation would be combined with the senior course in debate to insure an attendance of 35 or 40 upper classmen at the debates.

A CORRECTION.

In last week's issue of the CYNIC in the account of Captain Reeves' reserve army scheme, note the following: (See next to last paragraph of the article) "An officer of the Army to be known as Professor of Military Science and Tactics will be at the head of the institution." This mention of the proposed measure is not correct. The officer of the army mentioned is at the head of the military department of the institution only.

has elected all its other trustees to succeed themselves. They are Warren A. Austin of St. Albans, Newman K. Chaffee of Rutland, Guy W. Bailey of Essex, and Clayton J. Wright of Williston.

GREAT OUTPOURING OF VERMONT ALUMNI

N. Y.--SCHENECTADY--WASH.

All Enthusiastic and Full of Optimism for University's Future—Speakers Bring Vigorous Messages—
Club Elections.

No more along Manhattan's shores
The pale Princetonian tiger roars;
No more New Haven's blue-nosed pup
On Broadway dogtrots down and up;
The panther of Vermont has shook
His tail, and handed 'em the hook;
Then cheer the hosts of Old Vermont,
For what they get is what they want.

The annual banquet of the New York Vermont Alumni Association was held at Delmonico's on February 3 and 4. The occasion was billed for February 3 only, but as a new day came along before the ceremonies were finished, use was made of this fresh period of time in which to conclude them in preference to adjournment.

The viands were plentiful and good, the "vins" good enough if not very plentiful, and the music under the direction of Conductor Bob Lincoln, '97, late Secretary of War for the Colonies, was chockablock with shiny Jap-a-lac tunes and rising interurban strains which had no dying fall. "Juniata," "Tipperary," "Champlain" and many other numbers were rendered with hearty, voiceful verve.

Dear Thomas Mulcare, Cheer Master of the U. V. M. world, came down from North Adams and again called forth the Kingsleyonic and other high praise. One hundred and three, a superlative number, breaking every record, although these be melting pot days for the University, showed up and sat down, and Pres. Oatley, Vice-Pres. Gilbert, Sec. Whitcomb and the matchless dinner committee still wear the palms captured by them at the November Smoker as getters-out.

The "wax-works," so-called, filled the long speaker's table. Those on the right of Pres. Oatley were Dr. Pres. Benton, Herr Dr. Prof. Muzzey of Columbia, Dr. John Jaques MacPhee, Dr. Charles Darwin Pearl Kingsley and Dr. Lile Lyman. On his left were Dr. Associate Supt. A. W. Edson of New York; Dr.-to-be Hon. Warren A. Austin of St. Albans; Dr. Gen. Gov. J. G. McCullough, Dr. Chet McLaughlin and Old Dr. Dan Cady.

It was something past ten o'clock when Pres. Oatley "in a few well chosen words" stood upon his feet and opened the meeting to general discussion, introducing as the first disputant Pres. Benton, who received greetings and cheers good enough for any college (Continued on page 6.)

NEW VERMONT SONG BY CARL F. ROBINSON

A Medley Including "Champlain," "Hail, Green and Gold" and "Rah, Rah, for Vermont"—The Snappiest Yet.

Carl F. Robinson, '16, has added another song to his list—one even better than his "Hail, Green and Gold" of great Vermont fame. Everyone has a copy of "Hail, Green and Gold"—if they haven't they should get one now—and therefore knows what to expect in this new song of Mr. Robinson's. The title is "Vermont Wins To-day," and the theme is suitable for the football field, or banquet or dance. The music is snappy, and well arranged with lots of good harmony. Everyone will be singing it the next year and no doubt it will have even larger success than "Hail, Green and Gold," which by the way is now on nearly 5,000 pianos.

The song begins with the well known "Rah, Rah for Vermont" which has never been published before, and swings into a brand new strain which has lots of "pep". This leads into "Hail, Green and Gold." The theme then returns to the new strain and ends in "Champlain" and a snappy finale. The benefit of having it on as many pianos as possible cannot be over estimated.

"Vermont Wins To-day" can be obtained at the College Store, at Bailey's Music Rooms and at Woolworth's Five and Ten Cent Store, also is on sale in many of the stores around the State. The cover design is especially attractive and will look well on any piano.

Mr. Robinson is a junior in the Medical College and has led in many of the musical activities of the college for three years. As leader of the Instrumental Clubs he has played in all the cities in the State and most of the towns. He has also won fame with his orchestra.

His latest song is selling fast at the above named stores for 10 cents per copy.

MEDFORD RUNNERS FINISH 20 YARDS IN REAR

Vermont Relay Men Easy Victors at
B. A. A.—Hayden Does Not Run.

Vermont easily won from Tufts in the relay at the B. A. A. Meet in Boston on Saturday, Feb. 6, time, 3:15%. Tufts jumped the pistol and was penalized two yards. Patterson, '16, Vermont, took the pole and increased his lead every lap, giving fifteen yards to Bolster, '16, the second runner. Tyler, for the Medford team, nearly closed the gap, the third runners getting away on practically even terms. Tennien, '15, of Vermont had the speed and drew away again, giving a ten-yard handicap to Gallagher, '16, the anchor man, who won for Vermont by 20 yards. The splendid showing is due to the consistent training which the men have done under the direction of Doctor Stone.

Captain Hayden, '15, who was to have run in the mile handicap in which he finished second last year, lost his position at the start through a misunderstanding and failed to run.

ALPHA SIGMA INSTALLED AS ALPHA XI DELTA.

The local Sorority, Alpha Sigma, was formally installed Monday evening as the Upsilon chapter of Alpha Xi Delta. The pledging and installation took place at the fraternity rooms. The installing officers were Mrs. Haskell, Grand Vice-President; Miss Shepard, chairman of the extension committee; and Miss Bradford, an alumna from the Lambda chapter at Tufts College. After the installation ceremony, refreshments were served.

On Tuesday afternoon Alpha Xi Delta entertained Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi at the home of Mrs. Bissett. Mrs. Haskell, Miss Shepard, Mrs. Bissett, Mrs. Reeves, Miss McCuen and Miss O'Neil received. Mrs. Jenne poured. The Alpha Xi Delta girls are to be distinguished by their badge—a golden quill. Their flower is the pink rose.

DAY OF PRAYER FOR COLLEGES.

Dr. Calkins of Cambridge, Mass., Aids in Observance at Vermont.

Sunday, February 14, was observed as a day of prayer for the University. The Reverend Doctor Calkins, of Cambridge, Mass., spoke at three different services which were held at the college. At 10:30 a. m., Dr. Calkins preached in the chapel before a filled house. In this service he emphasized the need of man for God.

In the afternoon the service was conducted for the Y. W. C. A., and in the evening for the Y. M. C. A. At both of these meetings Dr. Calkins showed the need of God for the co-operation of man in the great universal plan, and emphasized the pressing need for service both at home and abroad at the present time. They were well attended.

Doctor Calkins is a forceful and pleasing speaker. His delivery is excellent and he presents his message in a way which appeals directly to college men and women.

FULL HOUSE ENTERTAINED BY 2ND NOTED CONCERT SINGER.

Pleasing Program by Kellerman and Co. Serves to Break Mid-Year Exam. Period.

The students of the University and the people of Burlington showed their appreciation of high-class entertainment Thursday evening, February 4, when a crowded house greeted Marcus A. Kellerman and company. This entertainment was the fourth in the series arranged by the Redpath bureau and it served as further evidence of the excellency of the series.

Miss Sara Gurowitsch assisted Mr. Kellerman with the cello which she played with much feeling and expression. As for Mr. Kellerman, he held his audience as only a strong pleasing personality combined with art of the highest class can. By changing the nature of the selections from light to serious, and also from English to German, the program was given variety. Mr. Kellerman's fine baritone voice proved itself capable of bringing out the light, soft notes as well as the heavier ones, and he was delightful throughout.

Among his popular selections were Danny Deever, On the Road to Mandalay, The Rosary, You'd Better Ask Me and Toreador Song.

The entertainment came during the mid-year examination period and compelled a hasty exchange from business to pleasure paraphernalia in the gym.

AGRICULTURAL DEPT. IS OUT FOR BIG FARMERS' WEEK.

Opens Monday and Includes Departments in Agriculture, Home Economics and Road Construction With Noted Lecturers.

The College of Agriculture, in co-operation with the state extension service and U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, will hold its seventh annual Farmers' Week, February 22 to 26. The program this year will be more extensive than ever before, and will be of interest to the farmers' wives and daughters as well as to the farmers themselves. It will, also, appeal to those doing road construction or improvement work. There will be three separate departments of instruction; one dealing with agriculture, one with home economics, and one with road construction.

The agricultural section will be of first importance. It opens Monday, Feb. 22, at 2 P. M., with lectures on dairying, soils, needs, and extension work. From then until Friday P. M. there will be, both morning and evening, lectures following each other in rapid succession, with demonstration work in the afternoons. The list of lecturers will include J. W. Sanborn, of Pittsfield, N. Y.; W. A. Orton, of Washington, D. C.; M. A. Juel, MacDonald College, Quebec; L. B. Flohr, of Washington, D. C.; H. R. Talmage, Pres. Long Island Potato Growers' Association; J. H. Fay, of Hawthorne, Mass.; Mr. Taylor, Pres. of the Greater Vermont Association; Mr. Stimson, Caledonia County Adviser; Mr. Fryhoffer, State Creamery Inspector; Mr. Cady, Master of the State Grange; and Mr. Brigham, State Commissioner of Agriculture.

The section in home economics will open at 10 A. M. Tuesday, and close Friday P. M. Professor Terrill and her staff will be assisted in this work by Dr. Dalton, Mr. Flohr, and Miss Winchill of the Teachers' College of Columbia University.

The road construction section opens at 9 A. M., Wednesday, with an address by State Commissioner Bates. Lectures and laboratory demonstrations of road materials and their use occupy two days, this work ending Thursday afternoon.

OPPORTUNITY TO WORK YOUR WAY THROUGH COLLEGE.

I desire a Freshman to travel for me during the month of September and to represent me in the district in which your college is located. The reason I want a Freshman is, the experience he would gain the first year would make him twice as efficient the two remaining years he would be in college. If you are going to take a post-graduate course, all the better, as an agreement can be made for a term of years.

I want a good, bright hustler so that it would pay him as well as myself. A college man whom I had for five years and is now graduated, always made, clear, $100.00 to $125.00 in September.

Write at once, giving me your age, home address, references and whether you would be home for your Easter vacation, that I may plan to see you on my Spring trip and make arrangements to settle the matter and start you early in the Fall. H. Earle Welt, 149 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

POTASH

is food for thought as well as for crops
this year.

When shipments were interrupted by the war, it was estimated that there was enough Potash on hand in the United States to provide two and three per cent Potash in mixed fertilizers for this spring's trade. Some manufacturers had more than enough for these percentages.

Since then minor sources of Potash have been fully utilized, and additional shipments from the usual source are still being received. The supply is below normal, but this need not prevent farmers securing some Potash in their fertilizers, nor should it lead farmers to decide not to use fertilizers.

There is no reason to return to the out-of-date goods without Potash, although some authorities may try to "wish" them on us. We have not used enough Potash in the past. The largest annual import of Potash was only one-seventieth of the Potash taken from the soil by our 1914 corn crop and only one-fifteenths of the Potash lost every year in drainage water.

Spring crops use from two to ten times as much Potash as Phosphoric Acid. Get as much Potash in the fertilizer as possible. A few firms are offering to furnish from four to ten per cent.

There is no substitute for Potash. It may be harder to get just now, but POTASH PAYS.

Medical College in Vermont, few men who graduate outside would locate in the State, and many places would suffer for want of physicians. One thing that caused the Doctor much pride and satisfaction was the standing of Vermont men in comparison with Johns Hopkins, Harvard and Columbia, the Vermont graduates having less failures than graduates of the other named institutions. Dean Tinkham closed by saying that the Medical College would continue its work at Burlington.

President Charles Alexander Richmond, LL. D., of Union College was a guest of the Association, and made a most favorable impression by his genial spirit and by his optimistic expressions concerning educational problems. One of the strongest statements made by Pres. Richmond was that concerning "Efficiency." "We are told that a man must make good"—said Dr. Richmond: "He must be efficient. For what? Not to be a better earning animal: not to go out and sell something—but to be able to give." He dwelt on the importance of a college education that fitted a man to be worth something to the community. Efficiency—in President Richmond's opinion—had not made for a better world as proven by the European war which is a product of the greatest efficiency in modern scientific methods.

The presiding officer of the evening was the Rev. Charles Marcellus Sturgess, D. D., class of 1900. Grace was said by the Rev. John Lowe Fort, D. D. of the same class. The committee on nomination reported the following officers to serve for the ensuing year, and they were elected.

President, Rev. Henry Curtis Petty, class of 1893.

First Vice-President, Charles S. Raymond, 1898.

Second Vice-President, Donald Clark Wedgworth, 1897.

Third Vice-President, John Morrow Downer, 1900.

Secretary and Treasurer, Arthur E. Lessor, 1909.

Executive Committee, Rev. William Herman Hopkins, D. D., 1885; Donald A. Young, '03; W. C. B. Hall, M. D., 1895.

Committee on Alumni Activities, Harry Pratt Hudson, '02.

The Alumni Field Secretary, I. L. Rich was present and spoke concerning the needs of the University, urging upon all loyal alumni interest in Alma Mater such as becomes a worthy son of Vermont.

The unavoidable absence of the President of the University, Dr. Benton, was much regretted by those present.

Washington, D. C., Alumni Dine.

The Washington Alumni Association of the University held their annual meeting and dinner at the Cochran Hotel on February 4. The retiring president, Wendell M. Reed, 1886, was toastmaster and introduced the following speakers: President Benton, Senator Page and Col. Frank L. Greene.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

H. A. Edson, 1906, President; N. R. Smith, 1911, Vice-President; J. H. Eaton, 1903, Secretary and Treasurer; W. D. Gilbert, Duncan Stuart and E. N. Lovewell, Executive Committee.

SIX VERMONT MEN ENTER DARTMOUTH CONTEST

Creditable Showing but no High Places Against Dartmouth and Canadian Out-of-Door Experts—Extensive Entertainment.

The most pretentious Winter Carnival ever held at Dartmouth took place on Feb. 11, 12 and 13. Fully 150 guests were present at Hanover from all parts of the United States and from Canada, participating in the social and athletic activities of the second winter carnival and fifth winter-week.

Vermont's representatives in the snowshoe and ski events were Slayton, '16; Mack, '16; Buchanan, '16; Burtage, '17; Butler, '17; Morey, '17. A large number of Dartmouth men participated and other colleges represented were McGill, New Hampshire State and Harvard. Slayton, '16, and Buchanan, '16; were Vermont's best performers, the former landing a fourth place in the hotly contested three mile cross country ski race and the latter getting fifth place in the snowshoe race over the same route. Mack finished well up in the finals of the snowshoe dash. The other men made a creditable showing, but were not so near the limelight.

Friday's events were snowshoe three-mile cross country race, two and one-half mile ski race. Snowshoe obstacle race and the McGill-Dartmouth dual 10-mile ski relay which was won by the Green, as were all the firsts that day with the exception of the ski race, which was awarded to Paulsen, the phenomenal star from New Hampshire State, who thrilled the crowd and the "movie" man by his forward somersault on skis from the ski jump.

The next day's program consisted of the 100-yard and 220-yard ski and snowshoe dashes, together with the ski jumps. Dartmouth showed up the stronger in the dashes, while the men from Canada were superior in the ski jumps.

Through the extensive planning of the Dartmouth Outing Club a varied program of great interest accompanied the out-of-door events. Dartmouth was victorious in a hockey game with Bishops College, the dramatic club staged a wonderful performance in "Under Cover", the Glee and Mandolin Clubs gave a remarkable concert, Yale triumphed over Dartmouth by a narrow margin in a closely contested basketball game, and in addition to these activities there were numerous dances, receptions and teas, which kept up the continual whirl of amusement. The guests of the Outing Club were cared for in the most hospitable manner possible and came away with a desire to push the now prevalent out-of-door boom to the fullest extent.

We've Just Begun.

The State through its Legislators has registered its approval of the Medical College and unanimously shown that it considers the College of valuable service to the State. That the Legislature would stand behind the University was not to be doubted, but to see it do so unanimously gives much gratification to friends of the Institution and is, in large measure, a voucher of what action will be taken if the University needs an appropriation. Close upon this comes the news that Vermont is still rated as a class "A" medical institution. Furthermore, class "A plus" has been abolished. So Vermont is now in the first class and nominally out of danger for two years. Is this a time, then, to enjoy a little rest? On the contrary it is the time to work all the harder. The halo about the Medical College should not dazzle us. The big question still remains—Is Vermont the State University? Those in authority are not resting, they are laboring hard to bring final conviction to our Legislators. Are we behind them—the alumni and undergraduates? Are we using what influence we have at Montpelier and ascertaining how the Representative from our town stands on this measure?

Opportunity for a Boom.

One activity has witnessed no let-up during examinations. One might venture further and suggest that it has shown more sprightliness and signs of life during the last two non-eventful weeks than during the sum total of all the other weeks of the year. Of course the dial points toward the Out-O'-Doors Club. To send men up Mansfield with the Dartmouth men was doing something. To send delegates to the Dartmouth intercollegiate was doing something more. Now that the club is beginning to show actual signs of existence, men are becoming interested in it. Everybody is tired of being informed that this is a good country for hiking—no one is so ignorant of his whereabouts as not to know it, but it doesn't follow that he wants to get out and hike. To arouse any interest among non-believers, the Outing men must pull out and do something, and come back with glowing accounts. It would seem that they have started, and it begins to sound interesting. If it's kept up the outing contingent is going to grow. But until the sport is developed some few must keep everlastingly at it.

What Do You Think About It?

Some time ago an editorial was published on the subject of college journalism. As a feeler, it brought no expression of opinion from faculty or students. Yet the CYNIC is still of the opinion that some such course, once offered, would meet with popular approval. At present there is nothing to resemble a course in modern literature, short story and news writing, American literature, magazine standards, etc. in the University. The conservative courses are necessary, but they fail to meet the demand.

Men want something which they can put to actual use. Journalism is suggested because it would prove of practical value to those taking it, and at the same time insure a higher standard of periodicals at the University. A critical study of the best newspapers from the standpoint of editorials, headlining, accuracy, news style, getting and constructing the news story, relative value of news, featuring, etc. is of importance to any newspaper reader. Or consider the advantage of being able to estimate a magazine article, and suppose that a course in magazine literature were offered, magazines used as text-books, and magazine articles discussed. Is there any doubt that the course would prove a favorite?

Undergraduate Superficiality.

A plaintive note that is often sounded by the busy, curriculum-driven student, is that he does not have time to be thorough, that the present system enforces superficiality in education. A magazine article of the month brings this idea once more to mind, and presents the truth with regard to the results of the system in a striking way. It is true, the present system does result in superficiality from the standpoint of technical knowledge of specific subjects. But, we raise the question, is anything more expected of the system? We do not believe that there is.

Grammar schools supply the crudest approximation to the ideal; the high schools come considerably closer; the university carries the process a step farther still. The grammar and high schools gave the student the rudiments of knowledge. The university exists to broaden and expand the narrow mind that comes to it. It cannot therefore afford to put the undergraduate on intensive diet in a very small number of subjects. Rather it must encourage diversity, it must urge superficiality. It must be expected that in addition to a diversified curriculum that the student will take part in some social life, that he will spend time making friends, that he will want to hear good music, good lectures, good drama, and that he will take active part in the cooperative efforts of his fellow students while in college. Can he be thorough under such a system? Is it desirable that he try to be? We think not.

Rather it is expected that the student will emerge from his undergraduate days with an alert mind filled with the broad general truths of knowledge, that he will have made friends, that he will have developed character, that he will possess poise and self control. If thoroughness is to come it must come in post-graduate days when the student can afford to again narrow his attention to a single branch of technical knowledge. Minnesota Daily.

PRESS COMMENT

Oxford Athletic System Teaches Valuable Lesson.

Norman S. Taber, former mile runner for Brown, and now a Rhodes scholar, writing of undergraduate life at Oxford in the Sunday American, says:

"The activities among undergraduates also tend to broaden the Rhodes scholar, for they, too, are different from those in American Universities, and here I believe that, in one particular at least, Oxford has a valuable lesson to teach the colleges in the United States. This is her system of athletics, one which provides exercise and competition for everyone, and not for a limited number of stars. In the afternoon, all Oxford men, almost without exception, take part in outdoor games of some sort. I do not discount the importance and the value of the university teams, but I wish to encourage the building of a system of athletics that will cater to every student. Regular exercise and competition on the athletic field are essential to both the mental and physical development of an efficient man, and Oxford is adequately supplying these elements."—Brown Daily Herald.

The University of Wisconsin has the largest Student Council of any college in the country. Its fifty-two members have the best organization for student government that is known. The Wisconsin is under the direct supervision of the council. Its direct purpose is to bring into closer contact the male students of the University and to look after and provide for their general welfare. The purpose is mainly a social one, the Union fostering most of the good times had by the students.

Mixers and sings are under the direction of the Union. It gives a Faculty-Senior Mixer each year to create good feeling between the faculty and students. All big out-of-town football games are reported over a special wire leased by the Union—Washburn Review.

A Step Forward.

The announcement of two new courses in practical journalism for the second semester is welcome news to a large group of students who have been waiting for an opportunity to get practical training in newspaper work.

In bringing this about the journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi, believes that it has accomplished something very substantial for the University.

"Most men go into journalism," wrote W. H. Page of the World's Work, "at a disadvantage because they think they can write, because they have written academic 'themes,' and taken courses in literature; and they are impatient with the long apprenticeship they must serve." Why the apprenticeship? Because, say the editors, the average college graduate is not able to write clear, direct and interesting newspaper style. On the contrary he is predisposed to write a subject to its dregs, sprawl over inordinate space, and cover up significant facts with dry detail.

It is to be hoped that all who write for University publications will take advantage of this opportunity to get expert training. If they do, we may with some confidence look for a general pulling up of the tone and quality of the news side of the Daily Nebraskan.—Daily Nebraskan.

A Census of Universities.

The development of vocational and technical departments in the universities has been so rapid and unequal that few persons would be able to tell which are the largest schools in each field. If the reader thinks himself well informed let him take the following quiz:

Which has the largest law school? Harvard, followed by New York and Michigan.

Which has the largest medical school? New York, followed by Michigan and Johns Hopkins.

Which has the largest divinity school? Northwestern, followed by Chicago and Yale.

Which has the largest engineering school? Illinois, followed by Cornell and Michigan.

Which has the largest nonprofessional graduate school? Columbia, followed by Chicago and Harvard.

Which has the largest school of education? Columbia, followed by Pittsburgh and New York.

Which has the largest school of agriculture? Cornell, followed by Wisconsin and Ohio.

Which has the largest school of commerce? New York, followed by Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh.

Which has the largest school of journalism? Columbia, followed by New York and Wisconsin.

Which has the largest school of architecture? Cornell, followed by Michigan and Columbia.

Which has the largest body of undergraduate students? California, followed by Harvard (including Radcliffe) and Michigan.—University Daily Kansan.

STATE SCHOOLS WILL CONFER AT UNIVERSITY

Problems of Vital Significance in Vermont Education to be Discussed—March 11-13.

The Tenth Annual Conference of the Schools of Vermont with the State University will be held March 11-13. The aim of the University in arranging the programs for these conferences is to suggest problems which need consideration in the interests of educational progress. Last year the subject was The School and Community Needs. The year before it was Education and Health. These topics are timely, and the conferences, helpful.

In discussing the various relations and functions of the school it is possible to underestimate the needs of the child himself. It is agreed that the school should serve the community and the state by which it is supported. Should its duty to the community take precedence over its duty to the child as an individual? To what extent should education be based upon a child's native capacities, and to what extent upon the needs of his particular locality? If a farm needs the boy does it follow that the boy needs a farm? Might a boy be born on a farm and yet be better fitted for some other career than that of farmer? If you were the boy or the boy's parent what kind of educational opportunities would you wish provided? Lincoln would have made a good farm hand, and it would have been better for the farm if he had stayed on it. Would it have been better for Lincoln and for humanity? Would making country boys stay in the country and city boys in the city tend to stratify society? There are arguments in favor of a stratified society and arguments against it. Would it be an unmixed evil to educate every country boy for the city and every city boy for the country? No one would regard this as practicable but it may suggest a thought. Does education for environment encourage provincialism? Should we encourage a provincial spirit, or strive for greater nationalism?

The trend of modern educational thought has been largely toward the recognition of individual capacities. May education for local needs run counter to education suited to the child's capacity? Are we in danger of losing sight of the needs of the child for our enthusiasm for the needs for the community? Is there danger of an educational serfdom which binds every child to his birthplace by making him fight for that and nothing but that? In the coming conference a sympathetic consideration of the child himself is being asked for.

It is hoped that the general discussion will be participated in by many teachers and friends of education. All are invited to be present and to take part.

SPEAKERS DISCUSSED UNIVERSITY QUESTIONS

Annual Kake Walk Smoker Well Attended—Pres. Benton Commended Students on Loyalty and Prof. Bassett Vouched for Increase of Spirit.

On Friday evening, February 12, a very successful smoker was held in the Medical College. Its direct purpose was to discuss the coming Kake Walk. President Mayforth of the Senior Class presided, assisted by the band, quartette, cheerleader Olzendam, and the speakers of the evening. Sturgis discussed the plans for the Kake Walk, and Manager Gardyne spoke in behalf of the baseball team.

Captain Reeves spoke on athletic conditions. He said that the Association has things well in hand and prophesied better things for the future. The Athletic Council is to be open and above board and invites suggestions for improvements rather than petitions. A petition is an easy thing to set on foot.

Professor Bassett was the next speaker. He said that the spirit here has improved wonderfully in the last ten years, and that it is the fundamental need in a college. One great impediment is knocking. If we would use the energy in doing that we use in knocking, things would be accomplished.

President Benton was called in from the office and received a hearty ovation. He said he was sorry not to be associated with the students more this year, and regretted that it was necessary for him to be away so much. He thanked the students for their spirit of loyalty, and asked for a continuance of their support. He concluded his speech by saying that the days of oratory are not yet gone and gave as an illustration a very interesting description of the recent debate in Congress over President Wilson's Shipping Bill.

Doctor Stone then spoke about the track team. He praised the work of the relay team at Boston very highly, and said that the track team now is the best the college ever had. Hard work will get anything if the student body is back of the movement.

Professor Aiken was called on and spoke in behalf of the debating team. He said that there will be a debate with Middlebury in March and that there is another scheduled with Clark. There is also debate between the Middlebury freshmen and Vermont freshmen. Vermont has college spirit, but lacks the power of expressing it.

Mayforth put in a plea for more men at the Hash House. There are good athletes who need a job to keep them in college, and the more tables mean so many more opportunities for these men to work. The smoker was adjourned with the singing of Champaign, and light refreshments were then served in the basement.

GREAT OUTPOURING OF VERMONT ALUMNI.

president in New England or elsewhere. Pres. Benton, after expressing satisfaction with his reception, went on to speak of college hopes and fears, saying that although this is the cold weather time of year and the snow pretty deep in Vermont and although the great educationalists, Rockefeller and Carnegie, were being investigated by a man from the Ozark Mountains, nevertheless, he had hopes that Providence and the Legislature would reach a working agreement, the Medical College be saved, and the other three colleges cut down in scholarships and scholars not more than thirty-three and one-third per cent. Everyone was glad to see and hear Pres. Benton, who never makes a dull statement before the New York Alumni, nor an erroneous one unless he talks football.

Fred B. Wright, '05, was then called on to read the report of the Mascot Committee. Brer Wright is the direct heir and successor of Marshall P. Wilder and the U. V. M. wit: it was he who said that the way to hatch a thing is to brood over it, and he also remarked the other day that hyphenated Americans ought to be shot in the hyphen. His report covered the whole field of Goldsmith's Animated Nature, and some others, and recommended in its last paragraph, that as a tentative or suffragan Mascot, the June bug be given a trial upon filling the proper bond.

Next came Mr. Trustee Austin, who with a faithfulness and fidelity that nothing can surpass, and an energy and insight that cannot be gainsaid, set forth the legal status of the University.

Mr. Austin made one of the best arguments ever passed up to a supreme court anywhere, before or after dark, and easily proved that the University of Vermont is not only a straight, Simon-pure State University, but in short the only one outside of Bologna and one or two in New Zealand.

Mr. Associate Supt. Edson, who was born in Barnard and later on walked over the gulf hill past Barnard pond down into Randolph where he was principal of the Normal School for several years, next continued the grand theme of Vermont education. Mr. Edson made a responsive hit when he said it occurred to him that the recommendation of the Vermont Educational Commission to confine State support to primary and secondary schools only, was like sending the legs and half the torso of a man out into the world to do business without any upper part of his body and without any head. This pleased the multitude so much that the tribunes of the people, Marullus Samuelis Lloyd and Jamesibus Publius Wheeler, had to call for cigars and order.

The next entertainer was Prof. Muzzey, who said that he doesn't teach history and left it there. The impression, however, as he went on gained ground that he was not entirely truthful, for he proceeded to give a most delightful historical account of the literature of the Pilgrims and some of their descendants. This account was both witty and eloquent and especially delightful to those who rather have it "in" for Elder Brewster, Gov. Bradford and their blood relations of the Congregational way of thinking. Poor old John G. Whittier's gray whiskers were trimmed a bit and it was a new idea with many that Ralph Waldo Emerson was not orthodox enough to be even an infidel. However, Prof. Muzzey reached cloud-splitting heights in a number of his periods and climaxes, was generously applauded and perhaps was the bright particular talking star of the evening.

Last but not least Elias Lyman being called for, he said that he felt it had been a good meeting, that he was glad to be there, that he sensed his faith in the University strengthened, his fervor increased, and that he believed he would carry back to Vermont new unction and grace to cheer and work for the U. V. M. Mr. Lyman's closing remark was that he did not see how the Vermont Legislature could fail to take some reasonably kind attitude, strange as it might seem, toward the only University Vermont ever had or ever will have.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Oatley, Kingsley and Cady was appointed to memorialize the legislature in case it should seem the thing to do.

The great meeting then broke up to the strains of "Laertes shall be King, Laertes King."

Eastern N. Y. Alumni.

The annual meeting and banquet of The Eastern New York Alumni of the University of Vermont was held at the Mohawk Golf Club, Schenectady, on Tuesday evening, February 2—and was one of the most enjoyable gatherings in the history of the association. The visitors from the University were Dean George F. Perkins and Dean Henry C. Tinkham. They were both enthusiastically received and their addresses brought forth frequent applause from the men present.

Dean Perkins brought hearty greetings from the University to the former students, many of whom had attended his classes. He expressed as his ideal of college life a four year course in the small college and then the post-graduate work in the larger institution.

The Dean said that all alumni had right to be proud of their University at Burlington. The pride, however, was not in the fact of buildings or equipment, but was in the fact of a loyal alumni body which so enthusiastically entered into the spirit of Alma Mater.

Professor Perkins told several good stories, and was given the most thoughtful attention throughout his address. Should he care to come again to the meeting and banquet of 1916, he may be assured of a most cordial welcome.

Dean Tinkham, who always comes to this association meeting with a smile on his face and with most optimistic forecastings for the future of the Medical Department of the University, was never better in his words concerning the University than on this occasion. He spoke on "The College of Medicine: its conditions and functions."

Dean Tinkham said in part:—that he was not in sympathy with that recommendation on the part of the Carnegie Foundation to abolish all small Medical Colleges, having for instance, in New England only one large one or at most two, as Harvard and Yale. The small college stimulates the people of the community and the physicians of the State. With no

MILITARY TOURNAMENT

AND INSPECTION MAY 22.

Recent Orders Issued by Commandant.

Because the work this year has been interrupted and delayed, Captain Reeves has decided to have the military tournament, which is to be held in the gym., Saturday evening, May 22, count for five formations. By this measure, he hopes to lighten the work during the last few weeks of the course. The tournament will give place to a military ball at about 9:45 or 10 o'clock, and dancing will be enjoyed until midnight.

Military activities will be resumed Monday morning and will last all day. The principle events will be a sham battle and the annual inspection required by the War Department. Captain S. J. Bayrd Shindel, who has conducted the inspection here for the last two years, will be here again this year. He will arrive Saturday in time to attend the tournament and ball.

Captain Reeves has recently issued the following orders:

The following transfers are made: Second Lieut. T. H. Ockles transferred from Company C to Company D. Second Lieut. C. H. Hayden transferred from Company D to Company C.

First Lieut. L. T. Huntington is relieved from duty as battalion adjutant and has assumed command of the signal corps detachment, and will also act as tactical officer of the hospital corps when that organization is drilling as infantry.

Lieut. R. H. Ballard has been appointed battalion adjutant.

First Lieut. Roderic M. Olzendam, having reported for duty, is assigned to Company A.

All members of the signal corps detachment have permanent assignments to companies, and will report to their respective companies for duty at all inspections and ceremonies. On other occasions they will fall in as a separate organization, with separate roll call.

At the regular monthly inspections members of the freshman class will report in full uniform prescribed. Sophomores are not required to wear russet shoes, but are required to wear the legions. After May 1 members of the sophomore class will be required to wear russet shoes at inspections.

"Pink Slips" earned during the first half of the year, but which have not been used, may be used after the regular annual inspection, or before that time if arrangements are made in advance with the company commander. Hereafter, company commanders will use the roll of their companies to be filled at each formation. The report by squads may be continued for practice purposes, if desired.

The latest issue of the manual for non-commissioned officers and privates, militia and volunteers may be obtained from the commandant's office by making deposit of 50 cents, to be returned when book is returned by the depositor. This book embraces all the essentials of the military course given at this institution, and is recommended to those who are interested in their military instruction.

DEBATING CLUB

RESUMES ACTIVITIES.

At a well attended session of the debating club, Monday evening, R. L. Grismer, discussed the finances of the club. A very interesting paper was read by H. A. Bailey upon "The Efficiency Movement in Municipal Government."

HOP COMMITTEE ELECTED.

The following have been elected as this year's Hop committee: chairman, H. H. Powers of Morrisville; Miss Loomis, Miss Montgomery, Miss Chapin, Miss Denway, C. M. Collord, M. W. Thomas, W. Tennien, R. Anderson, R. Hawley, F. R. Churchill, A. Sanford and Cheney (Medic).

MORE POTASH COMING

American crops and soils are still as hungry for Potash as before the outbreak of the European War, which curtailed the Potash shipments.

Some of the Fertilizer Companies are trying to induce farmers to buy the one-sided low Potash or no Potash fertilizers of a generation ago. This means a fertilizer that is profitable to the manufacturer, but not the best for the farmer. When the Syndicate in 1910 started the direct sales of Potash to dealers and farmers at reasonable prices, Potash sales increased 65 per cent. in one year, a clear proof that farmers know that Potash Pays. They know that Potash gives good yields, good quality and resistance to plant diseases.

Many of the Fertilizer Manufacturers are willing to meet the farmer's wishes and sell him what he thinks he needs. These manufacturers are now willing to furnish as much Potash as they can secure. They offer goods with 5 per cent. and even in some cases 10 per cent. Potash, if the farmers insist on it.

Shipping conditions are improving, more Potash is coming forward although the costs of production and transportation are higher. The higher price of fertilizers is not due wholly to the slightly higher cost of Potash. Much of the Potash that will be used in next spring's fertilizer had reached America before the war started.

There is no substitute for Potash.

We can no more return to the fertilizer of twenty years ago than we can return to the inefficient farm implements or unprofitable livestock of that period.

H. A. HUSTON.

be scattered about in the audience at their own discretion. This will make it necessary for the stunts to be put on in such a fashion that they can be seen equally well from all sides.

Up to the present, eight couples have signified their intentions of walking for the cake, and nine fraternities are to put on stunts. Fraternities will be allowed one-half the expense of stunts, provided the entire cost does not exceed $20 per stunt.

The usual prizes will be awarded. To the fraternity winning first prize in the stunts, the Briggs cup and large cake will be given; the fraternity coming second gets honorable mention. A small cake and the Kake Walker's Cup are the first prize for the winning couple in walking fo' de cake, and honorable mention goes to the second couple. The Syndicate Clothing Company has, also, offered a small cup for the best costume in the P-rade. Kake Walkers will be allowed a limit of $3 per couple for costumes. Prizes are on exhibition at McMahon's bakery.

The program for the 1915 Kake Walk is as follows: The "P-rade" will start promptly at 8 o'clock. The fraternity stunts will commence directly after the "P-rade" is over. These stunts will come in the following order: (1) An Evening on the Campus, (2) Post Torpischorean Hallucinations of a Freshmen Medic, (3) Barleycorn's Busy Night, (4) Passing Review of 1915, (5) Mr. Ford and His Baby, (6) A Dip in Death, (7) Blackville Merchants, (8) Somnambulism, (9) The Triumph of Grape Juice. Walking fo' de cake will next be in order after which the judges will render their decisions. The usual dance will close the evening's events at the gymnasium. Every man in college, however, is expected to attend the smoker which will be held for prep. school men at the Medical College directly after the dance.

The managers wish to announce that the fraternities will be given 15 minutes each for stunts, and the Kake Walkers will have three minutes each, this to include the time used in getting on and off the floor. Time will begin for one stunt just as soon as the preceding stunt is off the floor, so that there will be positively no waits. This policy will also be carried out with regard to the Kake Walkers, so that each couple must be ready to start as soon as the preceding couple finishes. A warning horn will be sounded two minutes before the close of time for the fraternity stunts, and one-half minute before the close of time for the Kake Walkers. The judges will be notified of all over-time, which will be taken into account at their own discretion.

The University Band, augmented by several members of the cavalry band from the fort, will furnish the music for the occasion.

Special trains will leave for Rutland and stations on the Central Vermont directly after the Kake Walk is over, and special street car service will be run to Essex Junction at 1 A. M.

Wide publicity is being given to the 1915 Kake Walk, more advertising being attempted than ever before. And the results, thus far, have been exceptionally good.

The managers wish to impress upon the several fraternities the necessity of conferring with Professor Freedman, immediately, in regard to lighting and other arrangements for their stunts, provided they have not already done so. The men, especially the Freshmen, are urged, also, to be around to help in getting the gymnasium ready for the big event. Everybody who possibly can do so is expected to show up on Saturday afternoon. The managers also urge all those who are not taking part in other ways to get in the "P-rade" and help make that department a big success this year. In other words, there's work for everybody.

Tickets are now on sale at the Majestic Theatre.

DARTMOUTH AND VT. ON MOUNTAIN HIKE.

Mansfield Ascended.

The joint hike up Mt. Mansfield with Dartmouth, although not largely attended, was in many ways a success. Four University men left Burlington on Saturday morning for Jeffersonville, going from there up through Smugglers' Notch. The party arrived at a farm house in Stowe Forks in time for supper. Five Dartmouth men arrived soon after. The following morning, the party climbed the mountain; the trip consuming five hours. The summit was in clouds and snow was falling. Where it had taken five hours to ascend, one ski man from Vermont made the trip down the mountain in 32 minutes.

CROWDS THROGGED GYMNASIUM AT EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL KAKE WALK

WINNING STUNT BY SIGMA NU

Woodbury and Baker Took the Kake, Shanley the Peerade Cup—Stunts Showed Variation from Former Years—Peerade and the Walking Were of High Order—Dancing Followed.

The eighteenth annual Kake Walk, Monday evening, February 22, drew a record-breaking crowd, which besides filling all available space on the main floor of the gymnasium, completely filled the balcony and closely lined the running track. The Walk was remarkable no less for the originality and careful execution of the stunts and the unusual excellence of the walking for the Kake, than for its phenomenal attendance.

The Briggs cup and big cake were awarded the Sigma Nu Fraternity for their stunt "The Triumph of Grape Juice," which took the prize for its timeliness, unusualness and originality. The small cake for the kake-walking proper was awarded to the first couple on the program, Baker and Woodbury of the Sigma Phi Fraternity, who set a standard of excellence that the succeeding couples found difficult to surpass. The Wright cup for the most original costume in the Peerade preceding the stunts was awarded to Hobart J. Shanley, Jr., of the freshman class, who gave an exhibition in full evening attire, of "Les Nouvelles Danes" with a dummy partner, which gave him a chance to show his physical strength as well as his agility, his partner being no featherweight.

The Peerade began its march up the floor after the audience had all been seated. A profound truth in symbolic form led the march, in the person of the U. V. M. boulder itself, representing the Boulder Society, leading behind it the faculty's goat. An old tale was used to point a new moral when the familiar line of figures appeared, representing the various stages from starvation to repletion, from "I am hungry" to "You won't be if you eat at Commons Hall." Another striking feature was a series of seven couples, each representing a different department of the university, and each carrying one letter of the seven that make up the word "Vermont." Individual peeraders were good, but the last on the list, the prize-winner himself (or themselves) was the best. There were other exponents of the latest dances.

Lambda Iota, last year's winners of the cup, opened the program with "A Revery of the U. S. A." The setting was a moonlight scene among the pyramids of Egypt. An American sojourning in Egypt had saved the life of a native. This native possessed magical powers, and in gratitude to his saviour caused the Sphinx to disclose the future of the United States in this time of war. The face of the Sphinx opened, and Uncle Sam came forth, followed by Abraham Lincoln, and eventually by George Washington, all of whom prophesied good things for the United States. The staging of the stunt was done with much care, and the impersonations were remarkably good, particularly in the case of Lincoln.

Kappa Sigma presented "Barleycorn's Busy Night." In this the gentleman of the house arrived home half seas over, and eventually fell asleep on a couch. His dreams were then acted out. He was first awakened by the approach of two white swathed spooks, and after he drove these off the devil appeared with his wife to give him some uncomfortable moments with the flaming pitchfork he carried in his hand. When John arose to rescue his wife the devil grabbed him and thrust him into the mouth of one of his torturing animals, in the shape of a very realistic crocodile. When the spotlight left the huge wabbling monster John was seen asleep on the couch as before. Awakened by his wife, he was very glad to sign a petition to do away with John Barleycorn in Burlington, which had previously been signed by some of the proprietors of the saloons. This stunt was the only one in which the devil played a part. In this Kake Walk the infernal regions were temporarily abandoned.

"Somnambulism," put on by Phi Delta Theta, was a clever stunt, with complicated mechanical effects. The scene opened in a hayfield dotted with stacks, with four husky and musical farmers at work. The somnambulist, a dorky, fell asleep at the foot of a stack. In the few seconds that the lights were turned off the stacks were transformed into a city park with a spraying fountain surrounded by flowers, a lighted lamp post and a dispensary of drinks presided over by a dusky beauty. The dorky wandered through this paradise, meeting with various adventures, and eventually awoke in the hayfield where he had fallen asleep. The farmer's quartette rendered several good selections during the action of the stunt. Some of the more elaborate effects, though carefully planned, failed to materialize, but this

MANY FARMERS WEL- COMED AT UNIVERSITY

ABLE INSTRUCTION CORPS

Wide Field Covered by Daily Lectures and Discussions on Agriculture, Home Economics and Road Construction.

The annual Farmers' Week at the University during the current week was one of the best in years. The attendance was larger than usual despite the rainy weather.

The week opened Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with an address by H. F. Johnson, an assistant in extension work. His subject was "Variation in the Fat Contents of Milk and Cream." J. E. Carrigan spoke on "The Proper Food for the Cow." "M. F. Downing, another assistant in extension, discussed soil management and the raising of the largest possible crops on a given piece of land. Director Bradlee of the State Agricultural Extension Service spoke of the future of the extension movement in Vermont. Dean Hills spoke on "The Island of Jersey, using lantern slides collected by the late President Buckham of the University, who visited the island many years ago and obtained much valuable information.

The second day of Farmers' Week carried a large program. Seven forestry addresses, ten agricultural demonstrations, ten lectures and two demonstrations in home economics, in addition to two moving picture demonstrations, made the day a profitable one.

S. N. Stimson, the Caledonia County agent, discussed the work of a county agent. Director Bradlee explained the purpose in Farmers' Week: "To help Chittenden County, help herself." C. W. Brownell, president of the Chittenden County Farmers' Association, outlined briefly the reason for forming the organization. The forestry lectures were given by Assistant State Forester Chandler, who discussed "Forestry and did not detract much from the success of the stunt.

FRESHMAN DEBATERS CHOSEN.

Freshman debate try-outs Thursday night, Feb. 18, resulted as follows: L. A. Woodward of Richford, F. A. Lamperti of Montpelier, P. R. Johnson of St. Albans, C. D. Pierce of Craftsbury, alternate. These men comprise the team which will debate the Middlebury freshmen at Middlebury on the same night as the 'varsity debate here. The question is, Resolved, That the Federal Government should Own and Operate the Telephones and Telegraphs. They will uphold the affirmative.

CROWDS THROGGED GYMNASIUM EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL CAKE WALK.

The winning stunt, "The Triumph of Grape Juice," was put on in five scenes, and the spectators were warned in true orthodox movie fashion to refrain from expressions of partisanship during the exhibition of the war scenes. The first scene showed the heads of five of the great powers at a game of poker, during which the Czar struck the Kaiser, and war was declared. The next scene depicted a battle scene with the Germans on one side and the allies, who arrived in various manners, suited to their various nationalities, on the other. A truce was called until the movie man arrived, after which the battle was on. Among the features of the fight was the arrival of a Zeppelin from the sky—or the gym roof—which dropped a bomb and sailed back again. The third scene was a mass meeting in a public square, where a stump orator called on William Jennings Bryan to address the populace. The secretary gave it as his opinion that he could stop the war with grape juice. He was next seen approaching the seat of operations in a man-of-war, with a large jug of his favorite beverage. Stopping on the Russian side he left one jug and poured another into the keg from which the Kaiser was feeding his men beer. The Germans soon lost their strength and were captured, while Bryan sailed back home with the weapons he had seized, followed by a miniature squadron of lighted ships, some of which blew up on the way. The stunt was effectively and rapidly staged, and its interest was unflagging.

"Mr. Ford and His Baby," put on by Alpha Gamma Sigma, received honorable mention and well deserved it. When the lights came on several heaps of junk and what appeared to be the body of a car were in evidence. Mr. Ford ordered his head mechanic to construct a motor and chassis for his car out of the scrap heap, the whole not to cost more than $3, the company's purpose being to get out a car for the common people. The construction of the car and the byplay of Mr. Ford's stenographer furnished plenty of comedy until the motor finally started, killing or maiming various workmen during the process, and disappearing through the door, exhausting in a series of explosions which sounded like the bellow of a gatling gun. The stunt exhibited considerable mechanical ingenuity in its production.

The Delta Mu Fraternity presented "Post Terpsichorean Hallucinations of a Freshman Medic," which had the true medic flavor. Two phantoms and a skeleton were involved in the dreams of the medic, who had danced and imbibed not wisely but too well at a Yiddish ball. The spooks danced the latest steps in each other's arms, to the accompaniment of blood curdling howls and screeches from the skeleton. No lights whatever were used, the phosphorus with which the ghosts were smeared furnishing a sufficient though uncannily weird light.

The Commons Club introduced local color again with a very clever stunt, "Evening on the Campus," which was well applauded. The scene depicted a spot on the snow-covered campus by moonlight, where are Lafayette's statue and the fountain. The interest of the stunt lay in the dialogue, and in the excellent characterization of various professors, some of which was uncannily faithful to life. The deus ex machina appeared from the heavens in a bona fide aeroplane, in the person of Mr. Hapgood of Peru, who declared that the future of the University would be safe with him. Every part from the CYNIC reporter to the statue of Lafayette, who occasionally added a word or two to the conversation, was well taken.

The title of the last stunt on the program, as given by the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity, was "Blackville Merchants." The stock in trade of the rival merchants consisted of articles of second hand clothing, most of which had some historic or pathetic interest. After much dissension among the merchants, involving much clever repartee, both stores caught fire and were consumed in a most spectacular manner.

Owing to a failure in some of the paraphernalia the stunt of the Sigma Phi Fraternity, "Neptune's Daughter," was cancelled.

Seven couples walked for the cake, introducing enough variety into the walking to keep the audience keenly attentive. The costumes varied from the most elaborate to others concerned chiefly with first principles, and the stepping involved everything from the old conventional high kicking to the latest variations of modern dances. The first couple, Baker and Woodbury, which won the cake, gave an interesting mixture of the old and the new, and were repeatedly greeted with bursts of applause from the audience. Gallagher and Hayden, last year's cake winners, appeared in even better form than usual. Hackett and Taggart gave a bit of interesting byplay before beginning their walk in startling glory of costume, appearing at first in rough ragged clothes. Hackett was perhaps the highest kicking lady of the seven. The other walkers were Alden and Tomassi, Smith and Adams, Lewis and Bean, Aldrich and Sheldon. Smith and Adams were awarded honorable mention.

The judges were T. C. Cheney, Clayton Wright, Larry Gardner, T. B. Wright, and Justice G. M. Powers. Changes were made necessary at the last moment in the list of judges, Judge Powers substituting for the Rev. H. A. Flint and Mr. Gardner for Dr. Beecher. Music was furnished during the evening for the walking and for an order of dances following by Taplin's augmented orchestra. Dancing continued until 1 o'clock, when a smoker was held at the Medical College in honor of visiting preparatory school men.

N. E. ALUMNI NOTICE.

The annual dinner of the New England Alumni Association of the U. V. M. will be held Friday, March 19, at 6 P. M. at the New Boston City Club, Somerset Street, Boston.

Y. W. C. A. BIBLE CLASSES ENTERTAIN LEADERS.

On Thursday evening, Feb. 18, the College Y. W. C. A. Bible classes entertained their leaders at Grassmount. Mrs. Stetson and Miss Gardner, '16, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. Bible study committee, received.

A short program was enjoyed which consisted of a piano solo by Miss Helen Nichols, '16, a reading by Miss Lucy Swift, '16, a reading, "A Legend of Francesca Alexanders," by Miss Bernardine Kimball, '15, and a violin duet by Miss Alma Holton, '15, and Miss Helen Hall, '18. Refreshments were served. The guests of honor were Prof. and Mrs. Aiken, Prof. and Mrs. Groat, Miss Worcester and Mrs. W. J. Van Patten.

SILVER BAY SUBJECT OF Y. W. C. A. MEETING.

Club to be Soon Formed.

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 19, Miss Lessie Cobb, '17, spoke to the Young Women's Christian Association on the subject, "Why You Should Go to Silver Bay." She emphasized three especially important reasons for going. One should go for the associations found there; for the knowledge to be gained there; and for the pure enjoyment to be secured there.

Miss Lou Fullington, '15, presented the aim and value of a Silver Bay Club which is shortly to be organized.

The class banner for the best percentage of attendance for the month was presented to the class of 1918.

411 SIGNED REFERENDUM PETITION.

In the recent canvass of the University for signatures to the petition asking for a state referendum on prohibition, 367 signatures were obtained among the students and 44 among the Faculty, 411 in all. Others would have signed if they had not already put their names on petitions circulated elsewhere.

MEDICAL EXPERIMENTS LEAD TO DISCOVERIES

Inoculated Monkeys Aid Humanity in Combating Infantile Paralysis.

The 30-odd monkeys who are residing at the medical building in their own private apartments are serving well their purposes in the world, and no one begrudges them their expensive and exclusive quarters. The study of poliomyelitis has now been underway several weeks. Dr. Amoss of the Rockefeller Institute spent 10 days here outlining the work, and giving Dr. Towne, who is assisting in the work, the latest and best methods and knowledge of the subject. Dr. Amoss is probably the highest authority on the disease in the world, and he is carrying on a similar work at the Rockefeller Institute. No expense is being spared and everything in connection with the work is strictly sanitary and up-to-date. Dr. Towne and assistants wear white suits, and all clothing, etc., is sterilized at a high temperature.

The work which is being done is an effort to determine the means of communicating the disease, and there is also an attempt to evolve a treatment. To this end 20 monkeys have been inoculated with different things. Some were inoculated with pure virus, others with washings from the noses and mouths of humans, who have had the disease, and others with a mixture of the blood serum of a person who has had the disease and virus. In the latter case, the idea is to ascertain whether a person, who has once had the disease is immune from it, or in other words, to see if his blood serum will neutralize the action of the virus. One monkey thus inoculated developed the disease, which tends to show that persons who have once had the disease are not necessarily immune from it. As the monkeys develop symptoms of the disease, if the workers are to get intelligent results, they must be thoroughly familiar with monkeys, both when normal and when sick, for a monkey has no way of telling one he has a headache or that his stomach feels bad, unless one learns his language.

In this connection Dr. Towne is working out a determination of the average pulse rate of monks.

A discovery which has already been made indicates that one can now determine the presence of the disease before paralysis actually occurs. The lack of such knowledge has heretofore greatly helped the disease to get a foothold before being discovered. It has been found that the presence of the disease is accomplished by an increased pressure, and also an increased amount of globulins in the cerebrospinal fluid, and by means of a puncture into the spinal cord in the lumbar region, these symptoms may be ascertained. The medical students of the University have a rare opportunity for the study of the disease.

RECEPTION TO MISS WINCHELL.

An informal reception was held at Grassmount, Wednesday evening Feb.

24, by the members of the Home Economics Club in honor of Miss Winchell of Columbia Teachers' College. Miss Winchell spoke briefly about a practice department which is furnished and run by the girls of the eighth grade in one of the public schools in New York City.

"YOURSELF IN THE OTHER MAN'S PLACE."

Captain Reeves addressed the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday night on the subject, "The Measure of Success." He showed by several illustrations taken from different fields of life how true success is often misjudged as being wealth or position while in reality it is what a man actually is. Community service is nearer its measurement. One is not judged by his opinion of himself, but by the opinion others have of him. To put yourself in the other man's place is a hard formula to learn, but is necessary for real success.

Self Government.

Now that mid-years, the Kake Walk, and similar mile stones have again been passed is the student body to once more concentrate its attention on self government? We may as well freely admit that there is no such thing as student government, or self government, at the University now. Nor has there ever been. There has been a mockery, a masquerade, but nothing to resemble government. There was a committee from the students to meet with a committee from the faculty. No definite responsibility was placed upon them, no power was authorized them. They did not even know what they were expected to do. Small wonder that they accomplished little and never dared venture far. It is better to abolish the council and make no pretense at student government than to go on in the present purposeless, useless fashion. Perhaps there is no particular necessity for student government at Vermont. "Student government," "self government," are terms which catch the popular ear. They become the vogue, they are readily taken up with, and the idea often becomes reality, materializes, without any adequate sense of the work and the responsibility involved. It is safe to assume that the faculty would not be unwilling to relinquish their charge. They would be willing to let us try the matter out. Now, then, do we want to? Do we want to take on ourselves the trouble of managing ourselves? We can, we are able, if we want to. Do we want to? There can be no half way measures. We want student government in toto or we want it not at all. Responsibility, authority, restrictions held by the student body, is all that can make student government vital and reliable. Boulder has proposed a plan to start with. Do we want to adopt it?

Ten More Men.

Ten more men are needed at Commons Hall. This plea comes not from the management of the Commons, but from everyone who is interested in the athletic success of the University. At this time in particular all the support possible should be given the athletic situation. This extra table is needed by an athlete. It has been easy enough for some of us to criticize because the refusal to pay athletes has meant that some of our best men have left us. Now when the chance is put up to us, when we are made responsible, let's see if we can keep one. It even begins to look as though a southern trip might be realized. We should take pride in the fact that positively no man on our teams is paid for his services, that our athletics are clean, we should do all in our power to help deserving men honestly, all those who possibly can should help fill this table at Commons Hall.

Faculty and Students.

Strange how easy it is to accuse the professors of anything that does not meet with instant approval. Take them individually and it would be difficult to select one who was not always friendly and pleasant to meet. No one would ever doubt their wisdom nor, by far the majority of cases, their unprejudiced judgment. Yet take them in the aggregate and they are often suspected of handling matters in a way detrimental to student welfare. They are opposed and condemned for many things that our own unexcited judgment warns us are for the best. A measure that seems to cross our fancy or thwart our liberty brings a storm of censure. Looked into closely it will be found to be for our good. Sometimes they make mistakes, but would we be infallible in their places? The idea is not to be too ready in finding fault, or in thinking that they are unfriendly to our interests. It may be ourselves sometimes who do not give them a chance or a fair deal.

Results of Better Rural Education.

The fathers of more than 70 per cent. of the young men and women representing 18 different nationalities who are taking the short courses in agriculture provided at the University of Agriculture, are farmers. Recent statistics from the New Hampshire State College at Durham indicated an increasing percentage of its pupils who, coming from the rural districts purposely were gaining an education to fit them to abide prosperously and contentedly where they grew up.

Here are straws showing a reversal in a current of population that has run for generations straight from the farm to the town, shop and factory; that has brought about congested urban centers, and that has radically altered the balance of power in the country so that upon the city man now falls final decision of issues of politics. For years it has been the ambition of the typical country lad to leave home, make his way to a nearby or distant city, gain a fortune or professional renown, if possible, and then perhaps to return to the scene of his boyhood and be suitably honored for his achievements. The countryside has seemed tame and unendurable, its economic rewards too meager and its scope for individual endeavor too limited.

Studying this historic trend, latter-day observers have come to see that it was not to be checked or reversed by railing at it or by minimizing the strength or legitimacy of the city's attraction. They have seen that rural communities need education and recreational enrichment, that new social centers must be established, and that instruction of pupils in the schools must have a more practical bent and trend to equip the youth with powers which he or she can use and profit by without going beyond town bounds.

Conspicuous in promoting this wiser view of education of rural youth and this larger notion of community prosperity and contentment are the state agricultural colleges, such as the one at Durham and the state universities, of which Maine's in the East and Wisconsin's in the mid-West are exemplars. Their programs for the rural youth's education do not tempt him to depart from his father's calling; rather they encourage him to continue with it, on a broader scale and with truer understanding of its possibilities.

To the economist these signs of a check given to depletion of agricultural regions of their best youth are no less welcome than they are to the moralist.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of the CYNIC:

What about that "Southern Trip?" These longer days prophesy a rapidly approaching baseball season and the Athletic Council have conditionally vetoed this trip on which our teams have in the past made excellent showings, because of a deficit in funds. But the coach says this trip is necessary; the team or candidates feel the necessity of it; and I am sure the students and alumni of the University desire to send the team on this trip. Furthermore, the schedule is arranged and the contracts are awaiting the signatures.

Now we should send that team on the "southern trip" because we wish to send out a team trained to win games. Up to a certain point cage practice is good, but it affords no opportunity for team work, especially no chance to exercise the outfield. Vermont weather is not suited for early out-door practice and the team must have the Southern Trip in order to get early practice. Our schedule this year includes many strong teams and we must have early team work if we are going to put out a winning team.

We have on our schedule Amherst, Holy Cross, Yale and Springfield Training School; these take a southern trip. Our team must be in trim to meet these teams. The southern trip will do it.

This trip advertises the University, and for that reason alone is well worth financing. They expect us down there; they expect what we have given in the past—good snappy games. Shall we continue this means of advertising? Certainly! Show your "pep!"

We can raise the cash because it is necessary to do so. Contributions and subscriptions from down town, from graduates and from the students will do it. The Athletic Council should make a try!

Students of Vermont. The team needs the trip and we need to give them the trip. So let's do it!

H. Albon Bailey, 1915.

PRESS COMMENT

Maine and Vermont.

The state of New Hampshire is now rapidly overtaking the states of Maine and Vermont in the matter of sending its sons and daughters to its own state college. The University of Maine and the University of Vermont are the corresponding schools of the states to our east and west. The courses in these three schools are by no means identical, but all offer four year courses in similar subjects and the great number of students in each college is enrolled in these four year courses.

For each 100,000 of population Maine sends to its school 87 four year students, and Vermont 104 four year students. New Hampshire has now 73 four year students for each 100,000 of population. The rate of increase in this state this year for these four year students who are New Hampshire men and women was more than 20 per cent.

—New Hampshire State.

Although it is the youngest organization in college, the Outing Club is becoming one of the most active. Each succeeding trip has found a greater number of men in attendance. With the dawn of more favorable weather conditions and copious snow, the Outing Club will undoubtedly become a most popular organization with the men on the hill.—The Colgate Madisonensis.

Bowdoin.

A movement has been started among the alumni for a somewhat radical change in the athletic policy of Bowdoin. It is urged that the future success of Bowdoin demands that the college break away from the close ties with the other Maine colleges and establish stronger relations with the four colleges of her class that have maintained the same standards, Wesleyan, Williams, Amherst, and Trinity.

Make Politics Clean.

The editor of this column is a fraternity man but realizes well that he is no better than one outside for that reason. As long as he has been in school he has known nothing of a "fraternity vote" which the town papers speak of. There may be an alliance against a fraternity man being elected to office—we are not in a position to know whether or not there is. But if such a thing is in existence it is just as bad as the suggested "fraternity alliance." It is your duty to vote for the man whom you think is best fitted for the place. Opinions vary as to who this may be, but let everyone avoid such rumors as a "fraternity-barbarian war."

RESUME OF MEDICAL COLLEGE SITUATION

Department Has Legislature Behind it and Holds American Medical Association's Highest Grading.

An important stage in this crisis of the existence of the Medical College has been passed successfully, to the ratification of all its friends, as the following telegram indicates:

President Guy Potter Benton, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.

"New classification of medical colleges to be announced tomorrow morning. Class A the highest; then B and C."

We are to be in Class A. No further examination for at least two years."

(Signed) "T. KIDDER."

This action taken by the American Medical Association through its Council, ensures Vermont its present high rating, and in fact raises its class, for when there was formerly an A+ class, now there is none.

The University authorities had decided that if the college were to be continued it should be as an A class institution or not at all, and now this step, which places it in a class with Harvard, Yale, Hopkins, and Tulane medical schools, ensures the continuance of the school provided that the state furnishes adequate support. So the whole problem is now focussed on the action of the Legislature. The administration and authorities of the University have done their best to maintain the standard, and the result now is wholly under the control of the men at Montpelier.

The people of the State are now entered a medical school of the highest rating in America, and will not have to be satisfied with inferior service from their medical practitioners. So this is a matter of satisfaction on the part of the people of the State as well as on the part of the Medical College and its friends.

A movement indicative of favorable action by the Legislature, and capable of no other interpretation was the joint resolution passed by both Houses of the Legislature without a dissenting vote, on February 5, to the effect that the services of the Medical College are largely appreciated, and that they are convinced that the Medical College should be continued so. Although no definitive action has not yet been taken, Vermont men may certainly feel certain that after this joint declaration of intention the Legislature of Vermont will consider its own interests regardless of the report of the Carnegie Foundation, and that after the action of the medical authorities of the United States in giving Vermont this highest classification, any lingering doubts on the part of the legislators as to the advisability of state support will be dissipated, and the college will be able to continue its good.

RECEPTION TENDERED DELTA PSI.

A reception was tendered to the Delta Psi Fraternity, Friday evening, February 19, by Dr. and Mrs. C. V. K. at their home. The active men and many resident alumni were present, among them, Dean Perkins, Prof. S. F. Emerson, Robert Roberts, M. D. Chittenden, H. B. Chittenden, J. E. Colburn, E. S. Isham, J. L. Hall, E. I. Ingalls, J. W. Leach and Bradley Thomas.

The parlors were decorated with Vermont and Delta Psi banners. A pleasing program was enjoyed consisting of readings by Mrs. E. C. Everest, pantomimes by Horace Powers and songs by a quartet. Mrs. J. L. Hall and Mrs. James Leach presided at the dining table.

COACH WANTS SOUTHERN TRIP.

"Regarding the spring trip of the team to the South, let me say that I consider the matter most essential for several reasons. The team is sure to derive much benefit from the fact that it will have the experience in the actual playing of games much earlier than would be possible under weather conditions at that time of the year in Vermont. Of course, the cage work is beneficial up to a certain limit, but the early development of team work obtained from the playing of regular games cannot be had in a cage. A southern trip enables the entire team to work as one unit. This point is a very important one as it will give the team a better chance to be in condition and developed in connection with the games among colleges of the New England section on our return.

"Then, too, I think the University receives a great deal of splendid advertising through this medium and I have observed that the young fellows in this section of the country follow very closely the progress of the team on such a trip."

DEUTSCHER VEREIN'S FORTNIGHTLY MEETING.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held Wednesday evening, Feb. 24, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. A literary program on Wagner's life and works was carried out. Raymond, '16, had charge of the meeting. Names of candidates for membership were voted on, and financial matters discussed. German songs were sung.

WIDE-A-WAKE 3 O'CLOCK SMOKER FOLLOWS WALK

Speakers Praise Committee—Present Need for a College Education—And Keep Crowd in Uproar.

The annual post-Kake Walk smoker for the benefit of the sub-frosh as usual followed the dancing at the Gym last Monday night. The amphitheater at the Medical College was filled to the doors with a crowd which showed phenomenal pep for that hour of the morning.

The meeting was opened with a cheer for the Kake Walk after which President Mayforth of the Senior class, who presided, spoke his appreciation of the work done on the Kake Walk by the committee and the fraternities, and after extending a word of greeting to the sub-freshmen called on President Benton.

President Benton, also complimented the committee on its success. He then invited the attention of the prospective class of 1919 to the excellencies of the various colleges, in particular, the Medical College which had just come into the highest rating among medical colleges and would stay there permanently. He then spoke a bit concerning our purposes in coming to college. The true purpose of a college education is to obtain knowledge, not merely information, and to gain faith in self and in humanity. Prexy spoke at some length and most interestingly on this topic. He invited the new men to meet him in his office later.

The next speaker was Doctor Clark who was greeted with great applause and managed to keep the crowd in an uproar.

By way of diversion, a quartette composed of the Roberts brothers, Gallagher and S. Swett were called and rendered Tipperary with great verve and eclat, calling forth immense applause. They followed with the old favorite "Dan'l."

Captain Reeves was next called on as the man who had built a military department out of nothing. He spoke principally of the opportunities Vermont extends to prospective students.

Sturges was next, and gave for an estimate of the profits from the Kake Walk, $900. Of this, all above $630 goes toward sending the team on the southern trip.

Doctor Stone was the next speaker, limiting himself to a few good stories and general remarks.

At this point, Mayforth spoke of the need of more boarders at Commons Hall to provide another table for waiters. Mr. Crowther, the baseball coach, then made a few remarks, asking for a liberal response to the call for candidates, promising a fair show to all, and for the backing of the students.

The quartette then rendered "Champion" in which the crowd joined, and the meeting was adjourned to the basement where refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the Key and Serpent Society.

The affair was most successful, being short and snappy, and was a fitting termination to a very successful evening.

PROF. JOHN ELLSWORTH
GOODRICH, 1853.

John Ellsworth Goodrich, emeritus Professor of Latin at the University of Vermont, died Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock at his residence at 483 Main street, after a considerable period of feeble health, aged 85 years. For the past six months he had been in failing health, but had been up and about the house until last Saturday, when he took to his bed. Since Tuesday morning he had been unconscious.

Professor Goodrich was born in Hinsdale, Mass., January 19, 1831. He entered the University of Vermont in 1849, founded the Delta Psi fraternity in 1850 and was graduated with honor rank in 1853. He was principal of the Academy at Hinsdale in 1853 and of Washington County Grammar school at Montpelier from 1854 to 1856. He then entered the theological seminary at Andover, Mass., and was graduated in 1860. He was ordained as a Congregational clergyman at Hinsdale, Mass., in 1864, and was chaplain of the 1st Vermont cavalry in 1864 and 1865. He served with that regiment in the campaigns of the Wilderness and of the Shenandoah Valley, was present in the struggle about Petersburg and at the surrender at Appomattox. He served the church in Richmond as pastor from 1865 to 1868 and became superintendent of the city schools in Burlington in 1868. He accepted the principalship of Kimball Union Academy at Meriden, N. H., in 1871 and was called to the University of Vermont in 1872 as professor of English literature and Latin. He continued at the University, occupying the chairs of Greek and Latin and finally of Latin alone until his withdrawal in 1907.

Since 1907 Professor Goodrich has been continually busy, compiling books for the press, reviewing manuscripts for publication and in the preparation of articles for the encyclopedia. He was president of the Phi Beta Kappa society at the time of his death and only last Saturday conducted the exercises of initiation. He has kept in constant touch with the alumni of the University by correspondence and has for years prepared the annual necrological record. He was most intimately familiar with the history of the University and profoundly penetrated with traditional spirit. In 1900 Professor Goodrich became president of the Humane society and was deeply interested in its work until the hour of his death. He has for several years been the chaplain of Vermont Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

Professor Goodrich was the eldest of a notable family of six children. Four brothers survive him. One, Chauncey, is at present completing a long period of conspicuous service as a missionary at Peking, China. January 8, 1869, Professor Goodrich married Miss Ella M. Moody of Burlington, who survives him with one son, Chauncey M. Goodrich, of Detroit, Mich., and one grandchild.

In the Home Economic section, Professor Terrill spoke on "Vegetables Made Attractive" and later spoke on the various cuts of meat, assisted by Mr. Russell of Howe's Market. The moving pictures and talk by Dr. H. E. Huston of Germany, explained thoroughly the working of the immense potash mines of Germany. In the evening W. N. Cady, Master of the State range, spoke on the order. Dean Perkins followed Mr. Cady with an interesting talk on his travels in the Orient and the methods of agriculture used there. Dr. Perkins used lantern slides as illustrations. Slides illustrating concrete manufacture and use were also used. The rest of the work was carried out in much the same manner.

2. Determination of soil acidity, Mr. Jones.

3. Home mixing of fertilizers, Mr. Jones.

4. Weather forecasting, Mr. Hooper.

Perhaps the feature of the week was the excellent demonstration work done by the motion picture lectures. Hitherto, because of State underwriters' laws the University has been able to do but little with this effective branch of the service.

SERIES OF LECTURES RESUMED.

The series of lectures in Sunday School Teaching was held Thursday night, Feb. 18, by Mr. Boyd, as the second one in the series. The Sunday Schools' organization he said was natural and necessary, and was a thing worthy of study. It is just as important for the Sunday School as for the public school to be arranged in natural groupings so as to meet the growing needs of developing life. This has led to its departmental organization and its business-like administration. The next meeting will be the coming Thursday night.

ROPE KING VISITS VERMONT.

Entertains at Fraternity Houses.

S. C. Scotty, formerly of his majesty's navy, now rope king of the college world, has hit town for a few days' entertainment and entertaining at the fraternity houses. Scotty says he has been in all the state universities of the United States. In vacation time he sails the main as a deep sea salt. Glasgow is his home, his accent decidedly Scotch. He's a wandering Scottish minstrel astray in a foreign land, as handy with the gloves as with his songs. He is sometimes known as the straight-jacket king. His chief form of entertainment consists of having his hands tied with any kind of knot, and as many as possible with a 30-foot rope, from which he guarantees to get loose within 10 minutes.

100 U.V.M. ALUMNI GATHER AT MONTPELIER

GOVERNOR ATTENDS

University Situation Explained by Those Who Know.—Sturges Speaks for Undergraduates.—Officers Elected.

Vermont Alumni gathered, one hundred strong, at Montpelier on Friday evening of last week to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the association. After the banquet came the post-prandial exercises at which Charles D. Watson of St. Albans presided.

Governor C. W. Gates said that he was not inclined to criticize the statement that Vermont was spending so much for her higher education but, on the other hand, he was inclined to feel proud of the fact. President Guy Potter Benton paid a tribute to the late John E. Goodrich, saying that good men never die, they simply emigrate. He laid down as two salient facts that the State needs the University and the University needs the State. This interdependence being shown, the people of the State will gradually come to recognize the fact.

Professor James R. Wheeler of Columbia said that the people of the State must not think that the University is the only institution of higher education needing support. We are two-thirds University of Vermont now, but we must not let our reason give way to sentiment. He suggested informal cooperation between the three State institutions since absolute union is impossible and in this connection mentioned an interchange of professors.

Dr. H. C. Tinkham, Dean of the Medical Department, said the College of Medicine proposed to remain in "Class A" rank. Financial support is the only thing of importance now and the continuance of the medical school depends on whether the State wants it or not. Professor S. F. Emerson with delightful satire scored the recently developed trades school ideal which he said had upset all his previous notions of education. Warren R. Austin of St. Albans, said the continuance of the University as a State institution was a most vital question among the people of the State of Vermont. Dean J. L. Hills of the Agricultural Department spoke of the value of the work of the extension service. W. A. Sturges, '15, speaking for the undergraduates, of which about 20 were present, said that they were in entire sympathy with the idea of continuing the University as a

JUNIOR WEEK COMMITTEES ELECTED.

The junior class held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Williams Science Hall to elect committees for Junior Week. The results of the elections were as follows:

General committee: Scott, chairman, Wilcox, Bloomer, Carlton, Seaver, Corley, and Roberts, medic.

Junior Prom committee: Gallagher, chairman, Baldwin, Griffin, Foster, Williams, Misses Scofield, Wilson, and White, and Olsson and Lord, medics.

Peerade committee: Bogie, chairman, Washburn, Pike, Clark, Armstrong.

Junior Play committee: Mack, chairman, Buchanan, Corley, Isham, Dix, the Misses Votey, Tuck, and Gardner.

Seaver was elected as the junior member of Founder's Day committee. Pike and Wilcox were nominated for Founder's Day speaker.

DEBATERS MEET VARSITY HERE NEXT FRI. NIGHT

High School Auditorium—Middlebury Cancels Freshmen—Judges Selected.

The second intercollegiate debate with Middlebury College will be held at 8 o'clock next Friday night, March 12, in the Edmunds High School auditorium. Last year Vermont won from Norwich and lost to Middlebury. This year Norwich refused to compete, and Clark University has been scheduled in her place; the debate to take place in the spring. The freshman debate which was to have taken place against the Middlebury freshmen at Middlebury next Friday night has been cancelled by Middlebury. The club is looking for a debate with some other institution.

The question for the Varsity debate is: Resolved, that the U. S. Government should own and operate the telephones and telegraphs. The affirmative will be upheld by Middlebury, represented by H. Haskins, '15, E. Cole, '15, W. Miller, '17, alternate W. Edmunds, '17; the negative by Vermont, represented by H. A. Bailey, '14, L. M. Prindle, '15, M. D. Powers, '15, alternate J. V. Piper, '16.

The judges are Judge Leighton P. Slack of St. Johnsbury, Prof. John S. Bassett, professor of American History at Smith College, and Rev. A. H. Bradford of Rutland. The presiding officer will be Professor Frederick Tupper. The time for opening speeches will be 10 minutes, for rebuttals, six.

A reception and dance will be tendered the Middlebury men after the debate.

43 INSTITUTIONS ON VT. FACULTY

EUROPEAN TRAINING

Creditable Number of Graduates Retained—Cosmopolitanism—Advantages of Both Policies.

The 97 members of the faculty of the University of Vermont received their bachelor's degrees from 43 different institutions. Of these 43—Vermont naturally comes first with a total of 41 members, that is, 42% of the whole. This leaves 58% or 56 men representing 42 institutions. Certainly this is no inbred faculty, and may be called cosmopolitan. Massachusetts Institute of Technology has four representatives on the faculty, Harvard and Yale three each, and Dartmouth two.

Dr. Robert J. Alely, president of the University of Maine, thinks an institution very fortunate if its faculty is cosmopolitan. President Alely believes that any college faculty increases in value as it becomes more cosmopolitan and the conceptions and ideals of all sorts of institutions are brought together and blended with the ideals and conceptions of that institution. Dr. Alely said, however, that he believes in general that any institution is fortunate in having from 25% to 40% of its faculty from its own alumni provided they have studied elsewhere. The obvious advantage of this is in having men who understand the traditions, customs and conditions of the institution in order to avoid errors due to ignorance of its distinctive characteristics.

While the average undergraduate student does not appreciate the fact, a great deal depends upon the selection of professors and instructors for any institution, both as regards the atmosphere, spirit and ideals of that institution, and concerning the more material side of teaching capacity and intellectual equipment. From this point of view, and from the point of view of the cosmopolitan composition of its faculty, the University has cause for self-congratulation. There is an inestimable benefit to be derived by the students of a university through meeting representatives of different institutions in various parts of the country, in absorbing some of their separate individuality, and in receiving their necessarily varying points of view. It is this which

KAKE WALK NETS $30 DOLLARS.

Directors Sturges and Gardyne announce that the receipts of the Kake Walk amount to eight hundred and thirty dollars. This is by far the most successful Kake Walk ever held, the receipts exceeding those of last year by two hundred dollars. This will go towards sending the baseball team on the Southern trip during the Easter vacation.

MODERN BABYLON BY HONORARY ALUMNUS

Dr. Cadman Comes as Lecturer on Redpath Series—Masterly Address on the 20th Century City.

The seventh entertainment of the Redpath series, held in the University gymnasium, Wednesday evening, March 3, was an interesting lecture upon "The Modern Babylon." The speaker, Reverend Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, is an honorary alumnus of the University of Vermont. An Englishman by birth, he came to this country 25 years ago. For the last 15 years he has been preaching in his Congregational Church in Brooklyn.

Dr. Cadman began his lecture by asking what proofs of our Christianity we could offer to a chance visitor from Mars. With Europe reeking in human blood, what right have we to call ourselves Christianized, or even civilized? He pointed out the advance in all branches of science during the past century as a proof that we are becoming civilized; not only the science of chemists and astronomers, but also that by use of which statesmen have modified and developed the governments of the United States, of England, of Russia, of Germany, and of France. In his opinion, man's crowning achievement during the last hundred years is the building of the great city, his modern Babylon. The great city is the melting pot of all humanity. It embodies in its framework of steel and concrete, in its government by popular vote, in its museums of art, in its journalism, in its peoples of many tongues, the highest that man has attained. In the last century the city has changed a great deal; municipal government has improved as the ideals of the people have risen. Dr. Cadman regards this evolution of the city as an indication of the world's Christianity, and he believes that true religion today is to sympathize with sufferers, to live a clean life, and to promote a square deal all around. Americanism has

VARSAITY DEBATE
FRIDAY NIGHT
HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Telephones and Telegraphs Debated.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Debating Society, Monday evening, March 1, the program consisted of a debate: Resolved, That the United States should take over and operate the telephone and telegraph lines. The affirmative was opened by Carlton, '16. He showed that there is no difference between government ownership of telephone and telegraph lines and the post office system. As far as efficiency is concerned the former are superior in that communication is more direct. Comparing our present system of telephones and telegraphs with those of other countries which have public ownership of these systems, we have higher rates and power service. With the post office systems, the opposite is the case.

The negative was opened by Isham, '16, whose main argument was the efficiency of our present system as compared with that of England's, where the lines are operated by the government. Here the rates are such that there is one phone in every 10 houses, while in England there is only one phone in every 100 which is a cause for a great decrease in business efficiency. The reason for this, he stated, was that private owners boom the business, making it a more intensive system, thus cutting the rates and consequently raising the efficiency of telephone and telegraph lines.

Davis, '17, further sustained the affirmative. He showed that the requirements demanded by the people can only be brought about by municipal ownership and in this case an unselfish system would be established. In case of war the present system would be a menace. Since telephones and telegraphs are great factors in carrying on plans of war, the Government would take more interest in maintaining efficient service. This is true in all times.

Shippy, '17, took up the financial standing of the systems, both as they exist today and as they would be if changed over to Government control. In countries where public ownership prevails a decrease of 250 per cent. in wages was realized. This, too, would add an immense number of laborers in the employ of the Government which would mean an additional expense to the Government in maintenance and also in control. Besides this, there would be brought about a very undesirable political reaction.

The debate was summed up and the rebuttal made in reverse order. A vote from the judges resulted in an unanimous decision in favor of the negative. After a short business session, in which several names were dropped from the roll, the meeting was adjourned.

ECONOMIC PRIZES ANNOUNCED.

Harvard and Oberlin Tied in 10 Years' Standing.

Harvard men have just been announced winners of two out of four prizes offered in the 1914 economic prize essay contest endowed by Messrs. Hart, Schaffner & Marx of Chicago.

Donald Earl Dunbar, '13, won one thousand dollars with his paper entitled "A Comparative Study of the Welsh and American Tinplate Industries."

Richard S. Meriam entered an essay on "The Webbs' Theory of Wages" and won three hundred dollars.

Other prizes were five hundred dollars to Albert H. Leake, Ontario, Canada, subject: "Agricultural Education"; and two hundred dollars to Niles Carpenter of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. Carpenter's paper was entitled "A Comparison of the Financial Operations of the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company during the Panic of 1907 and the Period Preceding."

The contest was the tenth of a series of annual competitions. Harvard is now tied with Oberlin in the standing for the 10 years.

In that time Chicago University and Northwestern captured five prizes each; Cornell and Washington and Lee took four each; Oberlin and Harvard three each; University of Illinois two; and Yale, Columbia, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin took one each.

PRE-MEDIC CLUB LISTENS

TO ADDRESS

Similar Meetings Every Two Weeks.

The Pre-Medic Club held a meeting at the Delta Psi House Friday, Feb. 26. After a short business meeting the club listened to an informal talk by Mr. Peiterson on "Peculiarities of a Scientist."

Mr. Peiterson said that a scientist must be honest, he can make no bluff. He must be accurate, truthful and patient. He then turned his attention to the statement often made that scientists are narrow-minded and self-centered. He disproved this allegation and showed that a scientist had to be broad-minded. He admitted, however, that they frequently were absent-minded and told a few stories of such cases.

These meetings are held every two weeks at the different fraternity houses and are of a very instructive and practical nature. Different instructors are asked to address the Club on matters which are of general interest and especial interest to pre-medics.

COURSE IN PHOTOGRAPHY

PROVES UNUSUALLY POPULAR.

Large Number Sign Up This Semester.

At the beginning of the second semester the course in photography was started as usual by Professor H. F. Perkins. It is a one hour course but the class meets twice a week in the evening between 7 and 8, on Mondays and Thursdays. The class is larger than usual this year, and although not a required subject for any degree, it takes well and men seem to realize that in almost any profession a course in photography adds much to the material benefits as well as pleasure and enjoyment.

All phases of the subject are taught and demonstrations are used a great deal. Each student is urged to own a camera or kodak so that he may get the practical side as well as the theory. Colored pictures, ordinary pictures, stereopticon and microscopic photography is taken up.

MEMBERSHIP.

Proposes to Work for University.

The University Hat Club, Melissodon, has recently admitted to membership Louis Dow, Robert Healy, Robert Bogie, Ralph Soulis, Paul Ransom, Emery Seaver, Wesley Abel, Eddie Washburn, Joe Levy, James Bunce and Walter Hogan (medics).

The purpose of the club is organized service to the University. Its membership is comprised of men from all fraternities, the Commons Club and all departments. It has recently offered a tennis cup for use in spring tournaments, and is providing an extra table for the help of athletes at Commons Hall.

LARGE SQUAD OF CANDIDATES

ANSWERED FIRST CALL.

Cut Not to Be Made for Some Time.

A large squad of candidates reported to Coach Crowther this week in the new cage. The daily routine consisted of fielding and batting practice concluding with a five-lap hike around the infield.

Coach Crowther is given especial attention to the freshmen pitchers of whom he expects a great deal. There is a good nucleus from last year around which to build a strong organization.

The first cut will not come for some time yet and not until every man has had full opportunity to show his worth.

FOUNDER'S DAY COMMITTEE.

The seniors have elected M. H. Davis and J. S. Hunt as Founder's Day committeemen. Davis is chairman. At a long meeting Thursday morning considerable discussion took place in regard to Ariel taxes. It was finally decided that athletic rebates did not apply on the Ariel tax.

HARDEST OPPONENT OVERCOME.

The rifle team was again victorious, defeating the University of Pennsylvania in the last match. Detailed returns have not yet been received. University of Pennsylvania is in first place in Class B, having the highest aggregate score although Vermont is first in number of matches won, having won four and lost none. The next match is with Wisconsin. The score: Daniels, 193; Finnessy, 192; Bogie, 190; W. J. Hayden, 188; Slayton, 188; total 951.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1914. George Seiple is a reporter for the "New Milford Times," New Milford, Conn.

Ex-1908. Mrs. J. Lee Wells (Laura Cutting) is living in Chicago where her husband has a position with Bliss & Laughlin, manufacturers of shafting.

Ex-1907. Ivor S. MacFarlane is one of the incorporators of the Kansas-Nebraska Loan and Mortgage Co., of Holton, Kansas. This company was established in November with Mr. MacFarlane as president and several prominent Kansas men on the board of directors. To an extent, it is a reorganization of Taylor & Hoag, a well established firm of Holton, which has been doing over a million dollar business. For several years after leaving college, Mr. MacFarlane was in The Marble Savings Bank of Rutland, Vt., a part of the time holding the position of treasurer. Two years ago he went to Holton, Kans., with the Rafter Farm Mortgage Co. and left this firm last month to take up his present duties.

1914. Walter W. Howe, has a position as chemist with the American Cotton Oil Company. His work is in the laboratory of the company's refining plant at Gottenburg, N. J.

1914. Harold P. Gaylord has recently secured a position as chemist with the Southern Cotton Oil Company, and is located at Mt. Clair, N. J.

1907. Hanson Patridge is located at 2435 Blaisdell Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. Recently he was made secretary of the Bellman Co., publishers of The Bellman.

We invite the students of the University to examine the extensive stocks carried in this store.

Are We Still Working?

The recent action of the Boulder Society in promoting the interest of the student body in the legislation pending at Montpelier rather anticipated the climax of the editorials relating to the Legislature that have been running in the CYNIC. Those which were to follow were to make a plea for a more active interest on the part of the students in affairs at the capital. When administration and alumni were putting forth such strenuous efforts it seemed a shame that we stand inactive by and passively watch the result. With our University at stake it seemed disgraceful not to use our influence in her behalf. For we all have influence. The peculiar system of representation in Vermont gives us that influence in a greater degree than we would find it in any other state. We are closer to our representatives. We are a more important factor in their constituencies. That they would like to know our opinion on the matter is not to be questioned. Those who live outside the State have also an opportunity to testify—their opinion is perhaps more valuable because they do live outside. Those of us who prepared in other states know that the University is about the only institution ever heard of outside. Why not tell the men at Montpelier so? And if any of us have failed to write our Representatives or our Senators it is not too late to do so now.

Those Numerous Societies.

Continually the report is current that the University is over organized with societies, and without thought of contradiction we have come to agree that this is so. Is it so? The Y. M. C. A. and Debating Club have meetings once a week, the Agricultural Club, Chemistry Club, Deutschen Verein and two or three others not more than twice a month. There are perhaps seven organizations outside the honor societies actively and frequently doing business. Isn't it an absurdity to think these are depriving us of time? And what a delusion to think we haven't time to support them. Assume the Majestic open twice in two weeks. Would we be too busy to support it? The University isn't over stocked with societies. Every night there are men enough down town to keep two or three flourishing if the men were on the hill. Two or three organizations have hung out crepe this year. Those that remain overlap but little. The trouble is not that societies are too numerous or that time is lacking, but that there is too little inclination to support them.

Vaudeville Next?

Now that the Kake Walk has turned out so well financially and the southern trip begins to materialize what is to be our next move toward financing it? Perhaps it is well that the vaudeville did not take place, as planned, before Christmas for now we are all alive to its necessity or the necessity of some other means of raising money. The patronage now would be much superior to that of two months ago. Anything that comes will have to come before Easter. There is just time to arrange for one more event. The Association last year had this money in addition to the Kake Walk money and will need it again this year.

FUNERAL OF ### PROFESSOR GOODRICH.

The funeral of Professor John Ellsworth Goodrich was held Saturday morning, February 27, at the house and at the First Church. The services at the house consisted of prayers and were conducted by the Rev. S. G. Barnes for immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Russell sang "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand," the favorite hymn of Professor Goodrich. The services at the church consisted of Scripture reading and prayer by the Rev. I. C. Smart, and a tribute to the deceased by Professor S. F. Emerson. Professor Emerson spoke in high praise of the sincerity, honesty, and industry of Professor Goodrich in his glowing tribute to his fellow professor. The honorary bearers were: Dean G. H. Perkins, Dean J. W. Votey, Professor A. B. Myrick, and Charles E. Allen. The bearers were J. A. Hitchcock, Leslie Kendall, E. J. Therrien, and M. R. Wilcox, four members of the Delta Psi fraternity of which Professor Goodrich was the founder. There was a large gathering to pay final tribute to Professor Goodrich, including the University faculty, students, The Loyal Legion, and Stannard Post, G. A. R. The floral offerings were many and beautiful, including pieces from the University faculty. Interment was in the family lot in Green Mount Cemetery.

Professor S. F. Emerson said in part concerning Professor Goodrich:

His teaching was profoundly stimulating and his scorn of intellectual inertia was so scorching that the dullest minds were roused to effort, while the accuracy of his scholarship, the purity of his English and the chasteness of his thought evoked the admiration of colleagues and students, and imparted a marked character to the students' public productions. Professor Goodrich's fine literary taste was conspicuous in his speech and literary work. His conduct of chapel exercises was eminently gratifying and his choice of selections strikingly apt. He became recognized as a kind of literary arbiter and his critical judgment was eagerly sought. In response he gave his best efforts ungrudgingly and unremittingly. His strenuous type of instruction bore rich fruitage and brought a bounteous blessing to those subjected to it. But with the larger liberty of choice and the wider range of studies introduced into the curriculum and the consequent relaxing of student effort and the transformation of scholastic standards and ideals, Professor Goodrich found himself out of sympathy and increasingly incapable of readjustment. He was undoubtedly relieved therefore when an increasing aural infirmity made it necessary for him to withdraw from classroom work in 1907. He found abundant opportunity for productive labor in his study and the Carnegie pension eased the financial pressure. He kept himself always in intimate relation with the university, was deeply interested in its problems and pathetically concerned for its welfare.

Life for Professor Goodrich was strenuous. It was indeed a conflict not essentially unlike that of Christian in Pilgrim's Progress. There were intervals of joyous relaxation and unrestrained merriment, but even during these periods the sentry was stationed in order to warn in time of the enemy's approach. And at times he was forced to face onsets of the foe in the form of sickness, of the death of passionately loved children and of serious financial reverses. He came off victor of course, yet sorely tried, "in the full clutch of circumstance he did not wince nor cry aloud," but the lips became more tightly pressed and a strange fire gleamed in the eyes. He seemed in consequence sometimes stern and there was a characteristic brusqueness of manner which may have repelled a stranger. But in fact it was assumed to fortify himself against the flood of emotion which frequently threatened to unman him. This became in time a settled habit, but to those who knew him, the sharp note was proof positive of the surging of deep emotions threatening to break forth in storm. The robust intellect of Professor Goodrich was in striking contrast with the frail form, but here again spirit triumphed over nature. By a careful regime and a calculated abstemiousness together with a most painstaking husbandry, practiced with rare skill and great persistence, his inherited physical soundness was preserved to a ripe old age and enabled him to offer to the last a remarkably vigorous resistance to the attack of the final foe.

It would be difficult to imagine a more attractive spectacle than that afforded in the last days of this serene, unclouded intellect, unhinged by no thrust of penetrating pain, not rendered unsteady by wasting weakness, commanding the shattered physical mechanism to the discharge of its accustomed functions until in complete exhaustion it totally collapsed.

Professor Goodrich was a splendid example of the New England Gospel of the sufficiency of trained intellect conjoined with disciplined character to solve the great problem of life. This spiritual economy has, it is true, a disturbing severity but it has its succeeding great reward. It is to be devoutly hoped that the attempt to soften the severity may not jeopardize its essential good.

The burial of the remains of Professor Goodrich was solemnized in a singularly symbolical setting. Our stern New England climate was yielding under its burden of softest, whitest snow to the gentle advance of approaching spring; the sombre pines beneath which he was laid away to rest stretched out their limbs in restrained and silent greeting to the anticipated breath of life and the laurel wreath which crowned the casket was a fit token of death swallowed up in victory.

Appropriate services were also conducted in the chapel by Professor Emerson and Dean Perkins on Thursday and Friday mornings respectively.

PRESS COMMENT

May Install Primaries at Whitman College.

The primary election system may be incorporated in the constitution of the associated students of the college, if the plans of its advocates are voted upon favorably at the annual meeting of the students Monday. Declaring that the present nomination system gives opportunity for crooked work in securing student offices, a number of the students are actively carrying on a campaign in favor of the adoption of a primary system. The proposed plan provides for a general blanket primary without nominations for all student officers, with a general election one week later, at which the two highest candidates for each office will be voted upon. —U. of Washington Daily.

Have You?

Have you given any thought to the measures now before the legislature concerning student affairs? Have you informed yourself as to their content and significance? Have you done anything to aid in getting the student point of view on these measures before the legislature?

If not, you have been shirking a responsibility. These measures may come up for action at any time now. They concern matters vital to the student body. Our interests threaten to be disregarded unless we get our case before the legislature. Here is a responsibility for everyone of us. We have friends and relatives all over the state who will be glad to help us. Get into the game.—The Daily Cardinal.

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT KEEPS GRADUATE SYSTEM

Has Been in Operation for 20 Years.—
Is at Service of Students and Alumni.

A system of graduate records in the engineering department is in the hands of Dean Votey who has had charge of this for the last 20 years. A bulletin is published each year with a complete, revised list of the graduates who have completed an engineering course in the University. This method keeps the men in touch with the college and helps to secure work for men who find it hard to obtain it otherwise. A record of each man's work during his college course is kept, and in this way the degree of efficiency that each man accomplishes while in college can be ascertained at any time. This is one of the few colleges that keep such a record of their graduates. Although there is a comparatively large amount of work connected with it, still there is enough accomplished by it to justify an ample reward. A Vermont engineer wanting a better position may simply apply to this bureau and is helped if a position is available.

COMMONS CLUB TRACK MEET.

First Place Taken by Tennien.

The Commons Club track meet last Saturday night, though not as largely attended as that of last year, was nevertheless a success. Several of the events were very hotly contested, especially the mile, which had an exceedingly sensational finish, and the 25-yd. dash, which required four heats before Bolster won the finals. J. F. Tennien did the quarter mile in 1.12½, on the main floor, winning from Bolster, LeBaron and Leon Spencer. The other events were all interesting, though some of the men who were stars in last year's meet were not in form. First place was won by Tennien, '15. He took 19 points and had the distinction of being the only man who participated in every event of the evening, field events, sprints and distances. Shippy and Bolster followed, with 14 and 8 points, respectively. For the "non-track" men (men who have not been on 'Varsity teams), Leon Spencer, Hawkins and Powers starred.

It is believed that the purpose of the meet was realized, and that the Commons Club has unearthed a little more track material for its already generous supply.

IMPORTANT 1917 CLASS MEETING.

Founder's Day Election—Constitution—
Functions of Melissodon Explained.

At a sophomore class meeting Wednesday morning, F. R. Churchill was elected to represent the class on the Founder's Day committee. This member will have charge of all activities of Founder's Day with which the sophomore class is connected.

Amendments to the constitution were discussed at length and it was decided to refer the constitution back to the committee for further changes which were suggested during the discussion.

It was decided to leave the matter as to whether or not the sophomore hop should be formal to the committee.

Hayden, '15, and Dean, '15, spoke, stating the purposes and ideals of the Melissodon Society and asking the co-operation of the class in furthering its activities. At present, according to the speakers, the society is working for a new Commons Hall and is starting a new table at the present Commons. Everyone was urged to work out for the society.

REV. C. C. ADAMS BEGINS SERIES OF LECTURES.

Two Field Workers Entertained by Local Y. W. C. A.

The weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Friday, Feb. 26, was conducted by the Rev. C. C. Adams of Essex Junction in the first of a series of talks on "The Spiritual Life." The topic was "Meaning and Value of Spiritual Life."

Two Y. W. workers have been guests of the local association this week, Miss Conklin, field secretary of the student volunteer movement, who spoke and was tendered a reception last Friday evening, and Miss Flenniken, student secretary of the N. E. Field Committee. Miss Flenniken spoke several times during the early part of the week and on Wednesday evening was entertained by the advisory board at Grassmount.

ceased to be a geographical distinction, and is now a moral force which will make the future of the modern Babylon even more glorious than its present.

Speaking in a very pleasing manner, Dr. Cadman kept his audience in good humor with many amusing anecdotes and descriptions of people and places he has seen in his travels both in our own country and abroad. Throughout, his note was one of optimism for the cities.

TRIBUTE TO FRANK L. MOORE, '90.

Published by "The Paper Mill and Wood Pulp News."

The Hon. Frank L. Moore is the happiest man in forty States for this reason, this being his last term in office, as he thought, as president of the Empire State Forest Products Association, his ambition was to make this meeting and banquet the most interesting and instructive one that was ever held in the nine years the association has been in existence. Did he do it? Well, just ask any one of the one hundred and fifty paper and pulp manufacturers, pulp wood and lumber operators of the State of New York. His answer will come most decisive, "he did."

Now I am not going to throw any bouquets at Frank L. Moore, for once you start there would not be flowers enough in the State to go around among the industrial representatives of New York State who would like to shower him with them, but in Moore's case, actions and results speak volumes for Moore. Words only express them, but Moore is endowed with great magnetism and he is considered a prince among men, and just the mention of his name brings forth a round of applause. Now if it is not magnetism, what is it? Hypnotism? Why he can draw to a full house and fill it every time, and just glance down the following program and see what his full house consists of. Can you beat it? * * *

Now then did you ever see congregated in one room to answer the call of the president of an industrial association, such industrial talent, many of whom traveled hundreds of miles to accommodate the president and to make an address to the members and guests of that association? Now then, ask again, isn't it wonderful how Frank L. Moore can draw such distinguished men and talented speakers to his association, and is it any wonder that that committee headed by no less a distinguished gentleman than Virgil K. Kellogg refused to do his bidding, and that was to elect a new president? No, no, they knew full well it would be utterly impossible to find a man that could pull the stroke that Frank L. Moore has pulled and is pulling for the Empire State Forest Products Association. * * *

Mr. Moore, who holds so many positions that he is one of the busiest as well as one of the most prominent men in the State, being the president and general manager of the Newton Falls Paper Company, president of the American Paper and Pulp Association, president of the Empire State Forest Products Association and president of the Watertown Chamber of Commerce, has recently been designated by Governor Glynn as one of the State's delegates to the third annual National Association of the Conservation Congress, to be held at New Orleans, November 16-20, and also has been designated by President Henry W. Hill, of the New York State Waterways Association as delegate of that association to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, to be held at the New Willard Hotel, in Washington, D. C., December 9-11.

MAY WINIFRED RUSSELL,

(MRS. WM. F. STEVENSON), 1899.

May Winifred Russell (Mrs. Wm. F. Stevenson), 1899, whose death occurred at New Rochelle, N. Y. 10 February, 1915, six days after a surgical operation, entered the University as from Burlington. She was born 24 May, 1877, at Fitchburg, Mass., the daughter of Warren Sutherland Russell and Emma Viola Chamberlain. Her special preparation for college was gained at St. Johnsbury Academy under Principal C. E. Putney and at Burlington High School under S. W. Landon, U. V. M., 1874. She was graduated A. B. cum laude, was received into Phi Beta Kappa Society, and appeared as one of the commencement speakers. The next year she served as principal of the Richford Grammar School, and was promoted to the High School the year following. From 1901 to 1905 she was teacher of English in the Burlington High School. This position she resigned to accept a similar appointment in the high school of Ware, Mass. and from Ware she went to Everett.

She married 29 December, 1910, Wm. Freeman Stevenson of Newbury, Vt. She was a very successful teacher, her clear intelligence having been admirably supplemented by a training at once thorough and varied. Besides her husband, she leaves a little daughter to mourn her loss. She was a member of the College Street Church in Burlington.

tends to do away with sectionalism and makes better Americans and better Vermonters.

Turning from the cosmopolitanism of the faculty as represented by their baccalaureate degrees, to their cosmopolitanism as demonstrated by their post graduate work, we find a variety almost as marked as in the former case. There are 41 different institutions represented, the more important being Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Berlin, Freiburg, Vienna, Munich, Gottingen, Tubingen, London, Heidelberg, Lurich, Leipzig, Wien, Sorbonne and Paris, Milan, Rome, Athens, Toronto, and Strassburg. From a perusion of this list it is found that Vermont has the additional influence of European culture and learning, and that the faculty should be better known among the students.

GIRLS TO HAVE DRAMATIC CLUB.

The Girls' Dramatic Club met and organized last Wednesday afternoon. Professor Andrews addressed the meeting and plans for the coming year were talked over. The following officers were elected:

President, Gladys Gleason, '15; vice-pres., Leanora Styles, '16; secretary, Lilla Montgomery, '15; treasurer, Martha O'Neill, '15; executive committee, Mabel Wilson, '16, chairman, Marie McMahon, '15, Lucille White, '15, Constance Votey, '16, Alma Holten, '15.

Girls the Guests.

The girls of the University were guests of the faculty ladies at the lecture given in the City Hall by the celebrated lecturer and author, Mary Antin, last Tuesday evening.

CLOSE OF WINTER COURSES SHOWS INCREASING INTEREST

Lectures of Last Day.

Farmers' week closed last Friday afternoon, completing the seventh annual program of this sort. There were six addresses and as many demonstrations, which were attended by the usual number of farmers and other business men interested in agricultural lines. S. Hargreaves, gardener, took up the discussion of the "Care of House Plants."

He said that the notion is widespread that plants in living rooms are unhealthy, but this is now recognized to be incorrect. Moreover, plants are the greater sufferers when living in rooms with persons. Plants breath much as animals do, and are more sensitive to proper conditions, especially light and air. Plants should be given a bath now and then to wash out the pores and free them of dust, which accumulates very rapidly. Temperature is another factor which should be taken into consideration, because drafts and chills are anything but conducive to healthy plants. Plants should be kept free from insects and for this purpose a solution of soap applied occasionally works very well. Common laundry soap is as good as any and only about an ounce to a couple quarts of water is all that is necessary. This, followed with a clean water wash in half an hour, will keep house plants free from all harmful insects.

C. H. Jones, experiment station chemist, discussed "Limes and Liming," saying that the use of lime is rapidly increasing in New England and especially in Vermont. Lime is used agriculturally either as ground limestone or meal, as quick or burned lime, or as slaked or hydrated lime. It acts differently according to the form used. The use of lime varies according to the soil to which it is applied. It has a flocculating effect on clay, putting it into a more desirable physical condition for plant growth; it is a powerful neutralizer of acid soils, favors the growth of soil bacteria and promotes the decay of organic matter. It should, however, be wisely used because it has an injurious effect as well as beneficial.

One of the important discussions of the week was that on road construction and proportioning concrete. Professor Votey emphasized the necessity of paying attention to the amount and kind of gravel used. Failure to secure satisfactory results with concrete in connection with road construction was often due to the inexperience of those in charge of the work. He cited instances in proof.

D. T. Perry of Brattleboro, related an experience in the construction of a culvert in which he used two different cements for the two parapets. One of these proved a failure while the other was successful. The cause of the failure he attributed to the action of a certain element in the gravel which was used.

This subject of road construction was discussed at length and several experiments and experiences with cement were presented. There was on exhibition a large collection of road material gathered from all parts of the State. The laboratories of the engineering department are well equipped with machines for determining the wearing quality of stones. Four new machines have recently been added.

Other lectures which were given were: "Origin and Improvement of Hubbard Squash," by Mr. Stone; "Principles of Apple Storage," by Prof. Cummings; "Orcharding in the Hill Country and the Champlain Valley," by Mr. Vaughan; "Seed Inspection in Vermont and Its Relation to Agriculture," by Prof. Burns; and "The Production of Plant Food" (illustrated) by Dean Hills.

There was a good attendance at all the lectures throughout the week. Friday and Saturday were the days on which the short course students took their examinations. A larger number remained to take them than usual, which shows that the winter courses in dairying and farm management are being recognized and taken advantage of by more men each year.

REVIEW OF WINTER SEASON AT VERMONT PREEMINENTLY SUCCESSFUL

Kake Walk, B. A. A., Basketball, Tennis, Rifle Team, Outing Club, Musical and Debating Clubs, College Loyalty and Enthusiasm All Pushing to the Fore.

Vermont has had a very successful season through the winter of 1914-1915. Not only in athletics indoors, but in outdoor sports, in debating, in the musical clubs, the rifle team and in general spirit. The winter is usually considered a dull season, but the winter just passed has been full of activities of such a varied nature that every one has been concerned to some extent.

The big feature of the winter was the annual Kake Walk. This year the Kake Walk was the most successful ever held, both financially and otherwise. Several new features were introduced in managing the affair which proved their worth, and the originality and cleverness of the stunts were up to the usual standard. Eight hundred and thirty dollars were cleared, an excess of two hundred dollars over last year's receipts. This surplus goes toward sending the team on the southern trip. Much credit is due to the committee in charge and particularly, Directors Gardyne and Sturges.

Vermont's success at the B. A. A. meet at Boston, Feb. 6, was a cause of great satisfaction to all. Vermont ran against Tufts in the relay race and defeated the Tufts team by 20 yards. The Vermont team was composed of Patterson, '16, Bolster, '16, Tennien, '15, and Gallagher, '16. The team has worked faithfully since fall, and their success is due to conscientious effort on their part and the persistent training of Dr. Stone. Through an error, Captain Hayden, who had been training all winter, did not get started in the handicap mile. He undoubtedly would have taken a place, having gotten second the previous year. Other men have been working in the gym, in preparation for the spring schedule at the shot put and hammer throw, and at the short distance events. The new addition to the gym has been utilized for the hammer throwing and putting the shot. The high jump and hurdling are two events at which the men have also worked.

A movement was started to organize a Varsity basketball team but, owing to lack of finances, the athletic committee could not sanction it. Under the direction of the Key and Serpent Society

TRACK MEN TO COM- PETE FOR LAURELS GYMNASIUM TO-NIGHT

Large Entry List—Change in Point Awards—Dancing.

The annual interclass track meet will be held on the ground floor of the gym this evening at 8 o'clock. The unusually large number of competitors already entered ensure a close contest, not only for the banner to be awarded to the class winning the most points, but also for the gold, silver, and bronze medals which are to be awarded as individual prizes to the three men holding the most points. The awarding of points this year will differ from the practice heretofore in that four men, instead of three, will be given points in

STURGES AND WILCOX TO BE UNDERGRADUATE SPEAKERS.

At a college meeting held last Tuesday noon in the chapel, W. A. Sturges, '15, of Underhill, and M. R. Wilcox, '16, of Georgeville, Quebec, were elected senior and junior speakers for Founder's Day exercises, May 1.

SEVERAL PLAYS UNDER CON- SIDERATION FOR JUNIOR WK.

Cast Will Be Coached by Gage.—Extensive Trip Planned.—Candidates
Wanted.

M. H. Davis, '15, president; and G. L. Bean, '16, manager of Wig and Buskin, are busy making preparations for the annual Junior Week play. The play has not been chosen as yet, but "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and Piner's "The Magistrate" are the preferences at present.

"General" Gage has been secured as a coach. He is a college man who has seen much of stage life and understands the business to a "T." He has coached many of the college presentations in previous years. He is a man who takes an active interest in such work, and will be sure to draw the best from his characters. The society is fortunate in being able to secure him.

The general sentiment seems to be each event. First place counts five; second counts three; third, two; and fourth, one point. There will be no undergraduate officials. Spectators will be given seats on the balcony or on the running-track during the contest. Dancing will be enjoyed afterward until midnight. Admission, 25 cents.

The list of events:

Track events—25 yd. race, 30 yd. hurdles, 880 yd. run, mile run, sack race, 440 yd. run, obstacle race and the sack hurdle race.

Field events—Pole vault, running high jump, high dive and 16 pound shot put.

against the usual banquet after the play, but much in favor of an extended trip, similar to those taken in years gone by. Any money made at the Junior Week play would go toward the losses on the trip, and for things worthy on the hill.

There is no lack of dramatic talent this year, and competition in the try-outs is sure to be keen.

impossible. The committee wishes to announce that the dance will be formal, but that they are putting forth every effort to omit the cabs and flowers. Another change this year is the omission of fraternity booths; the committee will assume the entire burden of decorations. Taplin's orchestra of from nine to twelve pieces (exact number to be made public later) has been engaged for the music. A buffet lunch will be served during the evening by a competent cateress. Decorations and programs will be unique and novel, both of a first class order. The price is two dollars, which covers everything.

SENIORS GO AT IT AGAIN.

The first Senior debate of the second semester will be held next Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The question; Resolved, that State aid should remain proportionately distributed among the three institutions of higher learning in the State. The affirmative will be upheld by Dow and Sturges; the negative, by Edgerton and Dean.

RESULT OF AGGIE CLUB'S ANNUAL ELECTION.

Executive Matters Discussed.

The Agricultural Club held a business meeting Thursday evening, March 4, to elect officers for the following year. The officers elected were: Carlton, '16, president; Connor, '17, vice-president; H. L. Adams, '18, secretary; Billings, '18, treasurer; and Dwinell, '18; member of the executive committee. The question of revising the constitution, so that the treasurer would, in the future, come from the junior instead of the freshman class, was brought up, and it was decided to lay the matter on the table to be voted upon at the next meeting of the club. It was decided to have the president appoint one man from each class to assist the treasurer in collecting the dues, each man to collect from his respective class. Hayden, '15, Buchanan, '16, Churchill, '17, and Briggs, '18, were appointed to do this work. Wood, '16, was elected chairman of the executive committee to take the place of Carlton, '16, resigned.

CURRENT TOPICS TO BE DIS- CUSSED AT COLLEGE ST. CHURCH.

The Sunday School Class under Captain Reeves at the College Street Congregational Church has been organized into a current topic class. Each Sunday some live topic of an ethical nature will be discussed. Tomorrow it will be State prohibition in Vermont. At this meeting a subject will be selected by the class for the ensuing Sunday. Two men will be selected to introduce the subject and then an open forum will be held. Any college man who does not already belong to a Sunday school class is invited to attend. At a meeting held last Wednesday evening at the home of Captain and Mrs. Reeves, F. P. Corley was elected class president and R. W. Daniels, secretary. A membership committee was elected consisting of Dean, chairman, Corley, Rutter and Booth.

DEBATERS WANT ANOTHER INTERCOLLEGIATE.

Weekly Program.

At a weekly meeting of the Debating Club last Monday night considerable discussion took place relative to the debate with Middlebury last night and coming debates of the club. An offer has been sent St. Lawrence University for either a Varsity or freshman debate.

The literary part of the program consisted of two talks, one on "The Progress of the War" by S. P. Mills; and the other on "What the Vermont Legislature is Doing" by L. W. Dean, in which it was pointed out that the minor work is nearly accomplished and the constructive work about to begin.

EXTENSION SERVICE TAKES A LOOK AT BOSTON.

Director Thos. Bradlee, Miss Thayer, Mrs. Dimock, Mr. E. L. Ingalls and Mr. Jay Coryell of the University Extension Service staff attended various conferences at Boston, March 3-5. Mr. Bradlee attended the conferences of the State Leaders of County Agent Work of the North Atlantic States, of New England Federation for Rural New England Extension Workers, and Progress. Miss Thayer, Mrs. Dimock, and Messrs Ingalls and Coryell attended the latter two conferences. C. H. Jones, chemist of the Experiment Station, attended the conference of N. E. Experiment Station Chemists.

Y. W. C. A. ENTHUSIASM.

Lectures—Contests—Sales.

Friday, March 5, Mr. Adams gave the second of his series of lectures before the Young Women's Christian Association. His subject was "The Law of Spiritual Development." March 2, Mr. Adams spoke on "The Hindrance to the Spiritual Life." The subject of his lecture for March 19 will be "Personality and the Spiritual Life."

The class of 1918 has again won the Y. W. C. A. banner for attendance. This makes the second time that 1918 has won. The winner for three times holds the banner for the remainder of the year.

Wednesday, the Y. W. C. A. held a coffee and doughnut sale in the association room. The sale was well patronized and a fair profit realized.

FEDERAL DATE CHANGES TOURNAMENT DATE.

Co. C Inspection Monday Eve.

Captain Reeves of the Military Department announces that the date for the federal inspection has been changed from May 22 to May 26 and 27. The military tournament and the military ball with take place on the 26th.

Federal inspection of Company C will take place next Monday evening.

CROWTHER ADDRESSES

COMMONS CLUB.

After a short entertainment at the Commons Club last Tuesday night, a long business meeting was held. Coach Crowther was present and addressed the club. Several committees were appointed, and many questions discussed. Lougee, '17, was elected to represent the club in the class nominating board. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

EXTENSIVE SPRING TRIP BEING BOOKED BY GLEE CLUB.

The University Glee Club is making extensive preparations for its spring trip. The trip will include most of the important towns in the southern part of the state. The schedule is not completed but such towns as Bellows Falls, Bennington and Brattleboro will be included. The trip will start the latter part of this month. There will be several rehearsals of the club this coming week.

Junior Banquet Hovering.

At a meeting of the Junior Class, held Monday at chapel hour, plans for the class banquet were discussed, and it was decided to leave all arrangements to the general committee on Junior Week.

GERMANS ARE INFORMAL.

The Deutscher Verein met Wednesday evening, March 10, in the Y. W. C. A. room at the "Mill." The regular literary program was postponed until March 17, at 7.30 o'clock. Several unique German games were played and an informal social time enjoyed. Refreshments were served. The meeting closed with the singing of German songs.

Cap and Gown Committee Appointed.

The seniors will wear caps and gowns on Founder's Day. The committee has been appointed as follows: R. W. Daniels, chairman, W. H. Smith, H. C. Fiske, and G. P. Carr and L. D. Soper, (Medics).

ALUMNI NOTES.

1914. P. J. Hurley, has joined the laboratory force of the Merrimac Chemical Company, at North Woburn, Mass., manufacturers of heavy chemicals.

1909. Milan L. Gallup and Miss Rhoda A. Egbert of Camden, N. J., were married in September and are making their home at 92 Chapel St. Saylesville, R. I. Mr. Gallup is engaged as an efficiency engineer in the Saylesville Bleacheries.

1891. Edgar H. Adams, formerly with T. H. Fraser Company, of Brooklyn, has opened an office as a general contractor at 278 Madison Avenue, New York City.

1910. The engagement of Maurice P. Ames, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ames, of Burlington, Vermont, to Miss Winifred Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Wright, of Erie, Pa., was announced at a Valentine party, Friday evening, Feb. 12, given at the home of Miss Elizabeth Fassett at Erie. Mr. Ames was graduated from Vermont in the class of 1910 and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is manager of the testing department of the Burke Electric Company at Erie.

Pliny Corbin Huntington, ex-1889.

Was the son of Henry Huntington and Martha M. Dunton, born 23, June, 1868, in Des Moines, Iowa. He made his preparation for college at North Craftsbury under the tuition of L. E. Tupper, 1880, and M. D. Hoffnagle, 1884. Since 1890 he has seen service in California as civil engineer, and resided for a time at Sutter Creek. He was director and chief engineer of the Paso Irrigation district, superintendent of the Blue Lakes Water Company, and assistant superintendent of construction for the Standard Electric Co. of California. For some years he had managed the property holdings of the Law Brothers of San Francisco, and was well known as a man of business integrity and ability. He had membership in the Congregational Church of Craftsbury. He married August 13, 1893, Della May Hale of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. His only son is in one of the universities in California. His death came very suddenly March 14, 1914, after undergoing a slight operation in consequence of a clot of blood reaching the heart.

SOPHOMORES BECOME CLASS BASKET BALL CHAMPIONS

Team Won Two Games—Key and Serpent Dance Followed Last.

On Friday evening, March 5, the Sophomores defeated the Freshmen in the last game of the interclass basketball series, by a score of 30 to 19. The game was fast throughout; Taggart's spectacular shooting being one of the main features. 1917 had previously defeated the seniors, and the victory gave them the championship. The lineup of the two teams was as follows:

1917. 1918.
Greenwood, c. . . . . c., Billings
Powers, r. f. . . . . r. f., Booth
Metcalf, l. f. . . . . l. f., Taggart

Owing to some misunderstanding, the Junior-Senior game, which was scheduled for the same date, was not played.

After the game a dance under the auspices of the Key and Serpent Society was given. About 60 couples were present. The chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Perkins, and Professor and Mrs. Freedman. Taplin's Orchestra furnished music.

PRES. BENTON ADDRESSES CATHOLIC CLUB.

Next Speaker Will Be Bishop Rice.

President Benton was the speaker at a well attended smoker in the series arranged by a joint committee of the Catholic Club of the University and the local council of the Knights of Columbus, held in the council rooms Tuesday evening. Speaking on "The True Religion," Dr. Benton drew a vivid picture of Muncaksy's famous painting, "Christ Before Pilate." Using the emotion on the faces of the characters there portrayed, he summed up the attitude of the world toward Christ. In the relation of Christianity to the world, he pointed out that the civilization of Athens and Rome, the highest types of civilization of the world at that time, lacked the essence of true civilization, namely, Christianity. He pointed out the fact that the Catholic Church has stood through the ages, and was the mother of all Christian religions. The speaker remarked that philosophy and ethical doctrines could never take the place of Christianity as religion.

The executive committee wishes to announce that at the next meeting, the Right Reverend Bishop J. J. Rice will address the Club.

PI BETA PHI HOLDS

INITIATION AND BANQUET.

The 17th annual initiation of Vermont Beta of Pi Beta Phi was held at the chapter rooms Saturday afternoon, March 6. The initiates were: Marcia Clarinda Stuart, '15, Fairfax; Mildred Best, '18, St. Albans; Charis Billings, '18, Poultney; Marion Carolyn Jackson, '18, Burlington; Anna Caroline Meigs, '18, Burlington; Corinne Marie O'Sullivan, '18, Burlington; Ruth Catherine Parker, '18, Burlington; Myrtle Belle Rose, '18, Enosburg Falls. At 8 o'clock the initiation banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont. Ruth Durfee, '14, was toastmistress, and toasts were responded to by Mrs. C. V. Grismer, patroness; Edith Gates, '15; Agnes Miller, '16; Mildred Best, '18; Emma Feeney, Vermont Alpha; Lessie Cobb, '17; Jessie Bates, '07; Marion Jackson, '18; Laura Parker, '17. The guests included Miss Mina Walker, Mrs. C. V. Grismer, Mrs. G. E. Partridge, patronesses; Mrs. Warren E. Bristol, Ohio Gamma; Louisa Bullis and Emma Feeney, Vermont Alpha; Amy Wheeler, ex-'15, Essex Junction; Mazie Powers, '10, St. Albans; Sylvia Warren, ex-'09, Williston, and Grace Sylvester, '10, New York City.

OLD AND NEW CONCEPTION OF BIBLE CONTRASTED.

The third of Mr. Boyd's lectures on the modern Sunday school, held Thursday night, March 4, contrasted the old time conception, and the modern viewpoint of the Bible. The old conception was a static view of life in which the Bible must be taught and in which all parts were of equal importance. As a result, memory work was emphasized and the lessons were selected at random.

The modern viewpoint looks upon life as dynamic and the Bible as a growth with developing life. Therefore, the child is placed first, his needs studied, and the lesson courses graded accordingly. The speaker concluded by mentioning three or four of the available courses of study, such as the International Graded or Uniform Lessons, Bible Study Union Lessons, or the Constructive Bible Studies.

ACTIVITIES OF MELISSÉDON.

The cup secured by Melissédon for the spring tennis tournament has arrived and been placed on exhibition in the trophy room. During the past week a table has been organized by the society at Commons Hall. A project is on foot to secure the removal of the trophies from the trophy room into the gymnasium.

At last Sunday's meeting several matters similar to the above were discussed. W. C. Wood was admitted to membership. L. W. Dean was elected vice-president, succeeding J. W. Baker, resigned.

Melissodon.

It is proverbially true that some of the simplest things are the last to be thought of. Much as the University has been in need of organized support by the undergraduates, nothing was offered until the formation of Melissodon. The society has the rare distinction of being distinct. Its motives are entirely altruistic and any one with selfish ends to promote need not apply. Its scheme is as simple as effective. It is comprised of seniors and juniors from each academic and medical fraternity and from the Commons Club. These are men of influence and ability who have proved they are willing to work. The club takes up and promotes any cause in the University which it thinks deserves and needs support. By having a large membership—about thirty—it is able to work effectively. It has already offered a tennis cup which has been on exhibition during the past week, is trying to secure the removal of the trophies to some appropriate place where a visitor need not engage a flotilla to conduct him over the seas of tobacco juice, has organized a table at Commons Hall and is making plans for promoting a new commons. Elections for next year come in June. If rendering unselfish service to the University is a laudable cause, then Melissodon deserves the support of all, and nothing should be done to detract from it. Those to whom its objects have been explained concur in this opinion.

On Being Late.

Lateness has become a thing fearfully perfected at Vermont—lateness to meetings, lateness to rehearsals, lateness at photographers', lateness to anything at which one possibly may be late. Locked doors are all that preserve recitations. Even so the University will soon be running an hour behind schedule. Each man reckons on the lateness of the other man and plans his own time accordingly. Meetings are now purposely set a half hour previous. No one expects to be anywhere on time. What's the use? No one else is there. Always bad enough, the plague is actually growing worse. Whole hours are wasted in simply hanging around waiting for the other fellow and for things to begin. One thing a man never has learned when he leaves Vermont and that is to be prompt. It would be a blessing if organizations would always, regardless of attendance, start their activities on time, and thereby create a sentiment in its favor. Members would soon acquire the new habit—might take it up as a novelty. Stop waiting for people and presently they will begin to be on time.

University Service.

The University is rendering ever greater service to the state. This year the increased amount of work operated by the Agricultural Department is remarkably noticeable to those who have followed the department's reports for the past few years. The demonstration schools with trained workers assisted by students from the Agricultural College have been active throughout the state. Not only are the people of the state benefited, but the students who participate receive excellent experience. An unusual number of farmers were in attendance at Farmers' Week and more short course men staid to take their final examinations. This, in part, shows the growing importance with which the College of Agriculture is being viewed. When we turn to the Department of Arts and Sciences we note the tremendous growth of last year's summer school, and the increased popularity of the college as a meeting point, evidenced by such gatherings as the large one now in session. The Medical Department has undertaken more experimental work that bears directly on the welfare of the State and as usual, in many ways, is disseminating its influence, intelligence and help. There is absolutely no question but what the University today is rendering more service to the State and the world than at any previous period in its history.

Who Is Fit to Be a College Man?

A certain standard of physical fitness as a pre-requisite for admission to Columbia University is being given serious attention by President Butler of that institution. In his annual report recently read, he suggested that Columbia should take the lead in this phase of entrance requirements.

"The university is expending each year out of the income of its endowment immense sums to supplement the fees paid for tuition in order to provide the best possible facilities for college and university instruction," says the report. "The university owes it to the public and to itself to see to it that these colossal expenditures are made only upon and in the interest of those who are really fit physically as well as mentally to take advantage of the opportunities which the university has to offer and to make appropriate return to the community in the form of personal and social service. There is a careful physical examination insisted upon in the case of candidates for admission to the military and naval academies maintained by the United States. . . . It is a matter well worth earnest consideration whether Columbia University should not once more take the lead in formulating educational policy, and provides specifically that physical fitness as well as intellectual capacity shall hereafter be required of all candidates for admission to the university in any of its parts."

If President Butler thinks Columbia ought to admit only physically fit students, he will probably go ahead and adopt a policy of exclusion of others, just as he abolished football several years ago. But The Daily Illini is of the opinion that he will meet with too many obstacles to make his scheme a practicable one.

The foremost difficulty will be in the formation of a test for exclusion. Just what is a physically fit man will be an impossible question to determine. What must a man be, anyhow, to be able to do mental work? Where will he stop in ruling out defects? Are legs, arms, eyes, stature, weight necessary for the equipment of a college man? The lack of any one of these of course, will bar a man from West Point or Annapolis. But a military education would necessarily include the physical element because of the nature of a military life. Where will President Butler draw his line?

Who is fit to be a college man?—The Daily Illini.

T. C. A. CIRCLE ENJOYS ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY.

The T. C. A. Circle held a St. Patrick's Day party, Friday evening, at the Lambda Iota fraternity house. A short business meeting was held, at which plans were made for entertaining at the University during Junior Week a delegate from T. C. A. Mr. Burdick, read an article, "The Blows of Sound" by Harriet Murdock Billings, wife of Vice-Principal Billings of Troy Conference Academy. The article was an exceedingly interesting presentation of "Ear Impressions of a Boy's Dorm," and was enthusiastically received. After the literary program, refreshments were served. Petty, '16, was the host of the evening. The chaperones were Mrs. Aiken and Mr. and Mrs. Burdick.

PRESS COMMENT

Begin your course in college education today. Go out with the bunch. Give your voice to the Glee Club. Take your Boy Scout training to the Outing Club. Take your thoughts to debate. Give your speed to the track. Give your smile to the crowd. Say "Hello!" as if you meant it. Do these things and watch men become your friends. For men here, men everywhere, like men that are men.—Colgate Madisonensis.

Four years are given to the college student to get, not a college diploma but an education. It's the fellows whose sole ambition in college was to "Get By" who are standing in line at the soup kitchens.

Getting an education and NOT "Getting By," is the business of the college man.—Iowa State Student.

State Appropriations.

Economy in state appropriations can not be too highly recommended, if it is the right kind of economy. There is no question but that the state can be saved money by the abolishment of useless boards, and the consolidation of others, along the line being advocated by Governor Capper. For the Legislature, however, to save the state money by crippling the state educational institutions is penny wise and pound foolish economy, and it is to be hoped that the present Legislature will not indulge in this kind of an economical policy. The state that is generous to its educational interests is the state that makes the most of its opportunities and in doing that it puts into practice the finest kind of economy. Chanute Tribune.

No Debate Judges Needed in West.

The debating clubs representing Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio State, Western Reserve, and Oberlin have voted to debate without judges hereafter in their intercollegiate contests. It is thought that the speeches in college debates have been spoiled or lessened in effect because they have been planned solely to please the judges.

Hereafter, the debates will be oratorical meetings and no decisions will be given.—Wesleyan Argus.

Intercollegiate athletics are today facing an ordeal of inquiry and investigation. They cannot last forever without having first justified their existence. "Too much expense for the benefit derived," argue the system's opponents, and their criticism carries weight because it is largely based on truth. Colleges and universities are annually expending immense sums to perfect physically a relatively small number of men. This arrangement bears far off from the original and fundamental aim of athletics.—Williams Record.

Michigan Students Favor House Cleaning for Athletics.

That the student body of the University of Michigan is determined to have a general house cleaning in athletics is evidenced by the following resolution adopted at Ann Arbor: "We wish to stand against the sentiment that athletes are of necessity, a hard and tough group of individuals, and we wish to encourage the development of the clean and manly type, which will stand out as the true Michigan athletes. We further encourage and give our support to any movement or practice which has as its purpose the general, moral, academic, and athletic uplift of the university."

Among the practices aimed at are drinking after victories, betting on games, profanity by team members, and the use of tobacco at mass meetings.—Brown Daily Herald.

INTERCLASS TENNIS TOURNAMENT HAS BEGUN

Rules Governing Matches—Schedules—Contestants.

The indoor interclass tennis tournament has begun, and the following points are to be noted by those who are entered.

Every man has a right to claim a default unless opponent appears within 15 minutes of scheduled time. If a man defaults, he drops five places in the standing. If both players default, they drop five places each in the standing.

Matches are to be one set with change of courts after every odd game.

Beginning next week, the squad will be cut to 40 men, with any who have thus been eliminated having the privilege to challenge number 40 at any time.

The score of the match, signed by both players, must be left in Coach Freedman's office in the Williams Science Hall, second floor.

The Schedule.

Monday, March 8—Sophomore vs. Freshman.

Wednesday, March 10—Junior vs. Sophomore.

Friday, March 12—Senior vs. Junior.

Monday, March 15—Senior vs. Freshman.

Wednesday, March 17—Junior vs. Freshman.

Friday, March 19—Senior vs. Sophomore.

Freshman Team. Sophomore Team.

1. Taggart ..... 1. Whitney
2. Booth ..... 2. Rutter
3. Hogan ..... 3. Tuttle

Junior Team. Senior Team.

1. Scott ..... 1. Dow
2. Roberts ..... 2. Brundage
3. Williams ..... 3. Daniels

Results of the first matches: On the doubles Taggart and Booth won from Whitney and Rutter, score 6-2. On the singles Booth defeated Whitney, 6-2. Taggart defeated Rutter, 8-6.

SEEK PERSONALITY URGES BARSTOW.

Young College Theologian Enlivens Chapel.

R. W. Barstow, recently graduated from Dartmouth, and at present, a student at the Hartford Theological Seminary, visited the University the first of the week. On Monday evening, he was the guest at an informal reception at the home of Doctor Barnes, where he met the present and future members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

On Tuesday morning, Mr. Barstow gave a short talk in chapel upon "The Call of the Christian Ministry." He mentioned the large amount of deputation and social service work which is being done in colleges at the present time, and the great increase in popularity of this kind of work during the past few years. He emphasized service as the greatest aim in life, and urged the consideration of this truth in the choice of a life work. Man is made up of body, mind, and spirit. All are important, but the latter is the greatest of all, because it includes the other two. Personality makes the man; it is thus that we know him. The world is calling for leaders. They were never needed more than at present, and it is to the college that men turn for such leaders. The college man is expected to have high ideals and strong personality. The world follows his lead, and, therefore, if he believes in Jesus Christ, it is necessary that he should stand firmly for his beliefs. Men are wanted who are capable of molding character, of taking the raw material, which is found on every side, and turning it out a finished product into the world of trained men and women. There is opportunity for service in every profession, and all service is the ministry of God.

FRESHMEN POSTPONE ELECTIONS.

The Freshmen held a meeting in Williams Science Hall, Tuesday morning, March 9, to elect baseball and football managers, and a member of the Founder's Day committee, but they postponed the elections until next Tuesday in order to have ballots printed. L. W. Dean, '15, spoke for a few minutes about the organization of upper-classmen known as the hat club, explaining its purpose and its value to the University.

The elections will be held March 16, in the Science Hall, during chapel hour.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of the CYNIC:—

An eventful, and not unsuccessful, winter for the University is drawing to a close. Many things have been done for the good of Vermont during the past few months, and the students as a body, have been showing unusual interest in the welfare of the college. The spring vacation is now drawing near, and the men and women will be going to their homes for a short time. Shall we forget Vermont and her interests during these few days, when we are free from classes and not obliged to turn our attention to college affairs? Shall we throw aside everything which has to do with the college on the hill, when we leave the hill for the vacation period? That is often the idea which controls our thoughts of vacation, but is it the best way?

The educational situation in the state at the present time has brought the University of Vermont before the eyes of the people as never before. In all parts of the state, the University is being discussed favorably and unfavorably. The influencing of public opinion on the side of the State University, just at this time, is of the utmost importance. Here lies the opportunity for us, as true sons and daughters of Vermont, to put in our best efforts for the institution. Scattered, as we shall be, throughout the state during the last of March and the first of April, our influence will be far-reaching and may be of the utmost importance, if we choose to make it so. The people of our home communities will look to us, to a certain extent, for impressions of the University. They will have a great deal of respect for our opinions in regard to the educational situation, and a good word from us, or a good argument on the side of the University will have a telling effect.

Then, let us go to our homes the last of this month prepared to use every opportunity to boost the University and give it the proper importance in the eyes of the people. Let us inform ourselves thoroughly on the advantages of the institution, and then give the people with whom we come in contact while we are absent from the hill such a good impression of the University that no doubt may exist in any part of the state as to whether it should be the State University or not.

REVIEW OF WINTER SEASON AT VERMONT.

class teams were organized and a schedule arranged. Four games were played as follows:

Seniors vs. Freshmen. Seniors won 14-12.

Juniors vs. Sophomores. Juniors won 13-11.

Seniors vs. Sophomores. Sophomores won 21-5.

Sophomores vs. Freshmen. Sophomores won 30-19.

A little class spirit was aroused at these games, particularly where the two lower classes were concerned. A schedule such as this, no doubt, fills a need during the winter months and serves as a training for baseball, football and track men, as well as giving a chance to those not engaged in the other sports.

The Senior team was made up of: Dow, Elick, Smith, Maiden, Brown, Minckler, Glidden, Mayforth, and Fern.

The Junior team included Gallagher, Williams, Gilbert, Carlton, Wilcox, Armstrong, Bloomer, and Bean.

The Sophomore team: Burke, Pike, (Medic.), Hackett, Walkter (Medic.), Ed. Powers, Vizner, Berger, Greenwood, Dow, and Metcalfe. Spear, manager.

The Freshmen team: Manning, Hayden, Billings, Weed, Booth, Taggart, S. L. Harris, manager.

In hockey, there was little interest. Class managers were elected, and plans were made for a series of games. However, there was no action and the only team was one picked from the University, independently, which played at Essex Junction and against St. Michaels', defeating the former team and losing to the latter. This team was composed of Denning, Merrill, Corley, Vizner, Spear, Wilder, Pike (Medic.), Slayton, and Washburn. This is the second year that hockey has been started, but with little success. With the material in college and the usual advantages for the game, hockey ought to be a prominent winter sport at Vermont.

Coach Freedman has given tennis a big boost this year. An indoor tournament has been progressing all winter, with over 50 men entered. As many as 25 matches have been played in one week. The number entered is to be reduced now to 40, and, later in the spring, to 20, in preparation for the spring matches. Five matches have been arranged for the season, two of them at Burlington. In connection with this tennis tournament, the Melissodon Society has offered a cup for competition between the classes.

The first call for baseball practice was issued by Coach Crowther, Feb. 24. The squad is working out regularly in the new cage, in which a full-sized infield has been laid out.

Work along athletic lines can hardly be passed over without mention of Dr. Stone's new gym system. In addition to the regular exercise with dumbbells, etc., a special test is made each afternoon such as the high jump, broad jump, or two hundred-yard dash. Each man is required to reach a certain standard to get A, and is graded accordingly. This plan tends to give more individual development and, at the same time, shows up Varsity material. The plan is a new one and has worked out very successfully.

The rifle team has had marked success, so far. Four teams have been defeated viz.: Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mech. College, and Univ. of Pennsylvania, while Vermont has lost but one match. The score of the team is continually improving. The men who have made the five highest scores in the different matches are: Finnessey, '16, Slayton, '16, Ransom, '16, Daniels, '15, Washburn, '16, Bogie, '16, Corley, '16.

An indoor rifle meet was held Dec. 16 and 17 for the organization and individual cups.

The Outing Club has taken great strides forward this winter. The two big events were the hike to Mansfield by snowshoes and skis with the Dartmouth Club, and the intercollegiate winter sports meet at Hanover, N. H. Four men from Vermont and five from Dartmouth took the Mt. Mansfield trip and reported a very enjoyable time.

The meet at Hanover was the first of its kind ever held in the United States. Dartmouth, Harvard, McGill, New Hampshire State, and Vermont were represented. Vermont sent six men, Slayton, '16, Mack, '16, Buchanan, '16, Burrage, '17, Butler, '17, and Morey, '17. Although the Vermont men took no places, they made a very creditable showing. While in Hanover they were entertained by the Dartmouth Outing Club.

The Outing Club aims to include all outdoor sports, snowshoeing, skiing, skating, mountain climbing, lowland hikes, canoeing, sailing, in fact, all branches. The Club has been put on a firm basis this year and hopes to continue its work with renewed vigor.

The Musical Clubs are among the best the University has put out in years. The Home Concert, with David Bispham, was a great success in every way. Jan. 14 and 15, the Clubs took a trip to Richford and Enosburg Falls, giving two very successful concerts. 20 men took the trip. A big spring trip has been arranged for Easter vacation, including a possible concert in New York before the Alumni Association.

The Debating Club has still further increased its activities. Regular meetings are held, with discussions of vital topics. Two intercollegiate debates are on the schedule, the first with Middlebury at Burlington last night, and the other with Clark at Worcester. The subject of the home debate was: Resolved, that the United States government should own and operate the telephone and telegraph lines. The Vermont team upholds the negative. The team against Middlebury consisted of: Hunt, '15, Prindle, '15, M. D. Powers, '15.

The team against Clark will be J. S. Hunt, '15, H. E. Crane, '15, Hitchcock, '17, and Davis, '15, alternate.

An interclass debate was held Dec. 16, between the sophomores and the freshmen on the question: Resolved, that Congress should pass an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. The sophomore team, upholding the affirmative, were awarded the decision. The sophomore team was composed of Hitchcock, Churchill and Lewis, and the freshman team of Pierce, Woodward and P. R. Johnson.

A greater interest has been taken in debating than heretofore, and Vermont can, and is, making debating a permanent institution.

General enthusiasm has been shown in the Commons Hall Smokers, the efforts of the Melissodon Society, and the activity for favorable legislation at Montpelier. The football banquet on Dec. 14 was one of the most spirited banquets in many moons. The athletic situation, and the recent stand of the Boulder Society have been much discussed subjects. Student government has been discussed at some length, but no decisive action has been taken. The Redpath Entertainment Course has served to keep the men on the hill.

On the whole, it has been a very active and profitable winter for Vermont. If improvements are made next year as great as those of the past year, enormous strides will be taken forward. One of the notable things planned in the way of improvement is the new athletic field and stadium on the present back campus. This project certainly deserves the support of every student and alumnus. Plans are now under way and athletics at Vermont are expected to benefit greatly.

PHILANDER DEMING. 1861.

Philander Deming, 1861, whose death occurred at his residence in Albany, N. Y., 9 February, 1915, at the advanced age of 86 years, was a little more than 32 years old when he gained his first degree.

H. M. Wallace, 1853, was 29 at graduation, and W. H. H. McAllister, who entered in 1858, but served three years in the Civil War, was 43 when he won his first degree. He was the son of a Presbyterian clergyman, Rev. Rufus R. Deming, and his wife, Julia Ann Porter, born 6 February, 1829, at Carlisle, N. Y. His grandfather Deming served in the 6th Connecticut Regiment in the Revolutionary War, and his great-grandfather Deming also saw service in the 2nd Connecticut Regiment. His maternal grandfather was a cousin of John N. Pomeroy of the Class of 1809. Mr. Deming gained his preparation for college at the Baptist Seminary in Whitestown, N. Y. At one time, probably before graduation, he taught a district school in his home town. Before coming to college, he had discovered among his father's books a copy of Taylor's stenography, which he mastered without aid; and it was this, no doubt, which led him to take up refracting as his life-work. He began his active newspaper work as reporter for the New York Assembly of 1861. He left college with the Phi Beta Kappa rank, steadily increased his acquaintance with English literature as the years went by, and in 1873 began his charming contributions to the Atlantic Monthly, which were subsequently gathered into volumes, and issued as Adirondack Stories, 1880, and Tompkins and Other Folks, 1885, and later The Story of a Pathfinder, 1907. He wrote occasionally for Lippincott's Magazine also. He soon exchanged Taylor's system of shorthand for that of Isaac Pitman, and was influential in introducing stenography into the New York courts. From 1861 to 1882 he was official stenographer of the Supreme Court. He was graduated from the Albany Law School in 1872 and admitted to the bar. In 1878-79 he was president of the N. Y. State Law Stenographers' Association. For a period he was the special legislative correspondent of the N. Y. Times. In 1864 he was invited to present a master's oration at commencement. In 1881 he gave the oration before the Associate Alumni, and was president of that body 1891-92. His connection with the Atlantic Monthly brought him into pleasant relations with Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, and Holmes, whose acquaintances he made at the banquets given by the Magazine to its contributors. He was a member of the Congregational Church; maintained for some years a summer home in Burke, Vt. Was never married.

SCHOOLMASTERS WAGE 3 DAY DISCUSSION

ADDRESS BY DR. SNEDDEN

Educational Education Gets Some Hard Knocks—Lectures and Round Table Talks—Secondary Principals' Association Organized.

The opening session of the tenth annual conference of the Schools of Vermont with the State University was held Thursday night, March 11, in the Billings Library, when David Snedden, Ph. D., Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts, delivered an extremely interesting address on "The Beginnings of Educational Science." The speaker was introduced by Professor Messenger.

Dr. Snedden said in part:

A state of unrest in education is at present manifest in this county. The public are calling for larger functions on the part of the schools with no definite opinion as to just what these changes should be. This is not due to any desire for more money, but simply a belief that the schools are not fulfilling their proper functions. This unrest may be traced to the beginnings of a science of education. In any science there is first a time in which little is known concerning the actual mechanism when customs and beliefs spring up. Gradually the science is investigated and the facts are brought to light, and the customs and beliefs are refuted. This transition from the "custom order" to the "science order" causes unrest. Education is at present entering into this era of change.

It is far behind the other sciences such as medicine and agriculture because it is vastly more complicated. To develop these applied sciences the pure sciences on which they are founded must be worked out. The two principal sciences on which education is based are sociology and psychology, and many do not even raise these to the dignity of calling them sciences yet. Therefore, it will be a long time before educational science can be developed to any great extent. There can be no science of education until we have some knowledge of society and its aims. Educators have felt this stirring in education and have tried to get hold of it and apply it with any concise knowledge of what they were doing or why. People are beginning to question the benefits from certain studies long unquestioned, why girls should be required to study algebra and how much Latin really

***** GLEE CLUB STARTS SHORT EASTER TRIP NEXT WED.

Three Stops Scheduled—Will Enter Mass.—Rehearsals Called For.

The Glee Club will start on its Easter trip next Wednesday, March 24. The club has met with several reversals of late which have forced it to partially reorganize, but several rehearsals have been held, more will be held, and it is expected a good program will be produced. The trip will take in three towns.

Owing to the lenten season Manager Remby had some difficulty in arranging for the trip at all, but finally met with some success. The clubs will play in Middlebury the 24th of March, in Bennington the 25th, and in Greenfield, Mass., the 26th.

It is requested that members attend all coming rehearsals.

JUNIOR WEEK DATES ARRANGED.

Promises of Brilliant Affair.

This year's Junior Week will begin Monday, May 17, the dates having been ratified by the faculty student council. The committees in charge are working hard to make this event one of the most brilliant affairs in the history of the University. Plans for the Prom and Peerade are progressing favorably, several stunts having already been proposed for the latter event. The dates of the different events are as follows:

Monday evening, May 17, Junior Banquet.

Wednesday evening, May 19, Fraternity Dances.

Thursday evening, May 20, the Prom.
Friday noon, May 21, the Peerade.

VERMONT DEBATERS CRUMPLE MIDDLEBURY

UNANIMOUS DECISION

Haskins and Prindle Particularly Effective—Hunt Enters On Two-Day Notice—Visitors Swept From Their Feet by Vermont Team Work in Refutation.

The second intercollegiate debate with Middlebury was held last Friday evening, March 12, in the Edmunds High School auditorium. The question was: Resolved, that the United States government should have control of the telephones and telegraphs. Middlebury upheld the affirmative, Vermont the negative. Vermont won by unanimous decision. The debaters were Haskins, Miller, Cole for the visitors; Powers, Prindle, Hunt for Vermont. The judges were Judge Slack of St. Johnsbury, Professor Bassett of Smith College and Rev. Bradford of Rutland. The presiding officer was Professor Tupper. 10 minutes was allowed each man for constructive argument, six minutes for rebuttal. Dancing followed the debate.

Middlebury started strong with Haskins, but weakened somewhat with Miller, and Prindle, Vermont's second speaker, readily turned the current and started the drift the other way. The most sensational feature of the debate was the work of Hunt, Vermont's third speaker. Two days previous to the debate, Bailey, the University's mainstay, had to abandon the debate. Hunt with only two days in which to prepare was called on to fill the gap and acquitted himself as the hero of the hour. In rebuttal the Vermont order was changed to Hunt, Prindle and Powers, reserving Powers to close the argument. During the entire refutation Vermont had Middlebury at her mercy, Prindle being particularly effective.

Haskins of Middlebury opened the debate for the affirmative. His first point was that government ownership of the telephones and telegraphs is not at all a novel proposition, inasmuch as nearly every important country in the world, save the United States, owns and operates these utilities. He next compared at some length American and European rates, to the great disadvantage of the former, pointing

PIKE WILL HEAD Y. M. C. A.

C. M. Pike of Montpelier has been elected president of the Y. M. C. A. for the ensuing year. He assumes his duties after the spring recess. G. A. Smith, '17, has been elected vice-president, E. F. Crane, '16, secretary, and F. H. Isham, '16, treasurer. Professor Gifford has been returned to the advisory board for a period of three years and Capt. Reeves, newly elected, takes the place of Dr. Perkins, resigned.

Previous to the election of officers last Thursday evening, March 11, Dr. Boyd delivered his fourth lecture on the modern Sunday School, speaking of the opening and closing services and the instruction.

BASEBALL MEN ARE ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

First Cut in Squad—Tentative Infield—Southern Trip Doubtful.

In preparation for the southern trip Coach Crowther has cut the baseball squad down to 24 men until after the Easter vacation. The pitchers left on the squad are eight in number, viz.: Gallagher, Upham, Gilbert, Spear, Batchelder, Elrick, Goldberg, and Menard. Mayforth, Brown, Powers and Scott remain behind the bat. The infield and outfield candidates are: Maiden, Merrill, Pike, Swett, Ridlon, Weed, Linnehan, Butler, Murnane, Sunderland, Tennien and Mandeville. The infield which has worked the best together so far is Merrill, 1st base; Ridlon, 2nd base; Maiden, short stop; and Linnehan, 3rd base. The outfield gets no practice in the cage save batting practice and this makes it difficult to judge the candidates. Coach Crowther does not wish to make known the date for the picking of the team for the southern trip until it is decided for sure whether the trip is to be taken.

CLASS STANDING IN TENNIS MATCHES.

Monday, March 8.—Taggart and Booth won from Whitney and Rutter, 6-2. Booth defeated Whitney 6-2 and Taggart defeated Rutter 8-6.

Wednesday, March 10.—Whitney won from Roberts 6-0, and Scott won from Rutter 9-7. Scott and Roberts beat Rutter and Whitney 10-8.

Monday, March 15.—Dow defeated Taggart 6-4, and Brundage lost to Booth 7-5. Dow and Brundage won from Booth and Taggart 6-4.

The rest of the schedule will be completed Monday, March 22.

out that we are paying from 50 to 200 per cent. more for our telephone and telegraph service than are the people of those European countries where there is government ownership.

Powers of Vermont opened the case for the negative by speaking of the peculiarly American character of the telephone and telegraph systems, which are almost wholly the result of American inventiveness and genius for organization, unhampered by governmental restriction. He next showed that the service is satisfactory, that the extension of facilities is wide, that the employees are well treated, and that everyone is well pleased with the system. He contrasted the excellency of the service in America with the miserable service in some European countries, particularly France. Finally, he pointed out that regulation is proving effective and that hence government ownership can be justified by showing that either lower rates or improvement and extension of service will be its consequences.

The second speaker for the affirmative, Mr. Miller, laid much emphasis on the numerous economies which would follow postalization. The government can rent money at three per cent. instead of six per cent.; it pays no dividends at all; it has no watered stock; and finally it pays no taxes. Legal expenses, advertising, and overhead management savings, could be eliminated entirely; finally, a large part of the operating expenses could be saved by making the postal employees do double work. All these numerous savings could be applied to extension and improvement of service and the lowering of the present exorbitant rates.

The second speaker for the negative, Mr. Prindle, began immediately to turn the argument, pointing out that Mr. Haskins' rate comparison failed to take into account the character of the service here and in Europe and were not really significant for that reason, as the service in Europe is as a rule very poor, and several European countries have sent commissioners to America to study the Bell system. Government ownership in Europe has resulted in very poor service, inadequate extension of facilities, deficits and rates which are low only when the preceding faults are ignored and sometimes not even then. Government ownership is inherently less in that it removes the strength insensitive to economy and efficiency, the desire for private profit. Four more specific defects have helped to cause the failure of the systems in Europe and they would be equally operative here. There are nine lacks of continuity of policy, a lack of a sane and consistent financial policy, over-centralization, and the civil service system, with its low salaries and seniority promotions. Finally, congress has displayed no tendency to economize or to adopt a sane budget system. We must then conclude that government ownership would fail either to extend the service or to lower the rates, and only by doing either one or the other of these things could it justify itself.

Mr. Cole, the last speaker for the affirmative, showed that the government has the constitutional right to take over the telephone and telegraph systems and is not performing its full duty to the people unless it does so. He also pointed out that it cannot be argued that the difference in extent between the United States and the European countries would interfere with the success of government ownership here. Finally, he showed that government ownership would be successful here, first, because it has been a success in Europe, and, second, because the postoffice is a success here as is shown by the fact that there was a surplus of over $3,000,000 in the postal department the past year.

Mr. Hunt closed the opening argument for the negative. He showed that government ownership would be followed by an unfavorable political reaction. The number of government employees would be vastly increased and the hold of the spoils system upon the government would be strengthened. Hundreds of millions would be added to the appropriation bill and the chance for log rolling and the pork-barrel method would be much increased. The result of all these things would be more graft and corruption and an increasing hold of the party in power upon the country.

In rebuttal, the material used by the affirmative was aimed to show that regulation has not proved effective in this country, that the service in America, while good, could be much improved under government ownership, and that in the matter of rates, which are really the most important consideration, there is no comparison between the American and European systems. The remain negative contentions were that rate comparison without service comparisons are not significant, that the European systems have failed and that the causes of their failure would operate here, and finally, that the very committee appointed by Mr. Burleson decided against taking over the telegraph and the several telephone lines.

Varsity Insignia Ex Tempore Subject for Debaters.

Death of Aviator Beachy, Former Burlington Airman.

The regular meeting of the Debating Society took place Monday night, March 15, at 7:30. A short program was carried out in which Woodward, '18, gave a short talk on current events. The summary of the war news was outlined and the result of the war in each country so far, also what each country has lost and gained. The recent death of the aviator Beachy was mentioned which seemed to be of special interest here because of the fact that six years ago he made a few flights in Burlington and vicinity. He was the most skilful and daring airman in America.

P. R. Johnson discussed the history of the Panama Canal with a great deal of interest. He showed that the construction of the "great ditch" accomplished a greater influence than has been realized by the world as yet. The canal zone has been changed from a very undesirable place to live in in respect to health conditions to a zone of disease-free possibilities.

The meeting was concluded by an extemporaneous debate: Resolved, that the members of the Varsity debating team should receive insignia the same as members of other Varsity teams. The affirmative was well sustained by Shippy, '17, while the negative by Isham, '16, was so well handled that the judges saw fit to award the decision in his favor unanimously.

CO. C. UNDERGOES INSPECTION.

Several Prominent V. N. G. Officers Present.

The annual federal inspection of Co. C., V. N. G., took place Monday and Tuesday of this week. The inspecting officer was Lieut. Colonel B. B. Buck, of the 9th U. S. infantry. The entire equipment of the company was inspected, and Monday evening the company was put through various drills in the Annex. Other officers who were present were: General Lee S. Tillotson, who is the Adjutant-General of Vermont, Colonel H. T. Johnson, Commander 1st infantry, V. N. G., Major Geo. E. Carpenter, chief of ordnance, and Capt. L. G. Mygatt, U. S. infantry inspector-instructor.

On Tuesday Colonel Johnson gave a lecture to the freshmen in Williams Science Hall on the conditions of the soldiers before the Spanish War.

TEA AT PRESIDENT BENTON'S.

OUT-O'-DOORS CLUB CONSIDERS PURCHASING

Plans Formulating for Spring Hikes and Canoe Trips.

The Vermont Out-O'-Doors Club held its monthly meeting Thursday evening, March 11, in the new headquarters of the club in the basement of South Converse Hall. Dr. Paris, secretary of the Green Mountain Club, and Mr. Taylor, president of the Green Mountain Club, both spoke on the opportunities offered by a college outing club in interesting men in the great out of doors.

Plans are being considered for the purchase of one of the old lumber cabins near the summit of Camels Hump. This log cabin, known as the "Randall Camp," can be fixed up at small expense and will serve as one of the chain of cabins which the club hopes to have scattered over the Long Trail from Sterling Mountain to Lincoln Peak.

As soon as the weather becomes more settled short weekly hikes will be taken with now and then an overnight trip to Mt. Mansfield and Camels Hump. When the ice goes out of the lake canoe trips will be taken on Saturday afternoons with a chance for a campfire supper along the shore of the lake, returning to Burlington before dark.

UNIVERSITY MAY RUN MOVING PICTURES.

Will Help Keep Students on Hill.
The new and novel idea of starting a series of moving picture shows here on the hill, is receiving much consideration by the authorities. If the plan goes through, the machine will be installed in one of the large lecture rooms and at least two shows will be given each week. There will be no admission fee and the pictures shown will be of an educational bent. The only objection is the expense of the new system, but it is expected that the committee investigating the plan will reach a decision soon.

Pres. Benton stated that it is not the plan of the University to run the picture shows in competition to any public motion picture house, but simply to furnish a form of entertainment here on the hill for all of the students.

The Athletic Council's Opportunity.

If the athletic council wishes to do something which would please the student body it need simply turn its attention to the University's trophies and athletic memorials. The University's age has gone well over the century mark, yet we have little to visibly remind us of the achievements of the past. Particularly is this true in athletics where usually is to be found the chief attempt to treasure the symbols of prowess. Judging from the contents of the meagre case of relics in the trophy room, there must at one time have been an era of saving and collecting. Vermont has gone on winning, but the saving and collecting has been ignored. If any baseballs, footballs, etc., are to be kept we should be consistent about it, a smattering of photographs should not be placed upon the walls of the gymnasium, but photographs of all the teams. Cups and tablets should be better preserved and an attempt made to increase the number. A committee appointed to look after such matters would meet with hearty approval.

Distribution of Offices.

Criticism is sometimes heard that too few men are leaders in undergraduate affairs, that these few are compelled to bear the brunt of all the work, and that consequently both they and the work suffer. To some extent at least this is true. Cases are familiar to everyone where the student has become so involved in college activities that he has been flunked out of college. Equally familiar are the cases where one man is called upon to respond again and again until he has so much on his hands that he can attend to none of it properly. There is the sound argument, too, that there are other men who could capably handle these offices etc., if they were but given the opportunity. Once started on the road to popularity and a man receives honor after honor while his equally capable companion remains neglected. Is there any remedy? Yes. It can be regulated by either the faculty or by student government. Let a schedule be made out of major and minor offices and then designate how many majors and how many minors each man may hold. This will limit the offices of one man, force a distribution, make more men interested in college affairs, and permit of more individual attention to each office. There is the other method the one employed in athletics of requiring men to maintain a certain scholastic standard to hold office, but this would be more cumbersome and sometimes work injuriously.

Medical Schools.

The number of medical schools in 1904 was one hundred and sixty. There are now ninety-eight with a probability of others withdrawing or being dropped before the last of June. Seven states now require two years of pre-medic work, and the Secretary of the Council believes these will be increased to ten during the present sessions of the legislatures. Six medical schools are now requiring a year's hospital service for the M. D. degree. One of them is Vermont. Vermont, moreover, has one academic year and is contemplating two. Eighty-four out of the ninety-eight colleges require at least one year. There has been a decrease of nearly ten per cent. in the number of students enrolled in medical colleges during the past year. The three of four medical schools now privately owned have been relegated to Class C.

A Hint to Alumni.

There are several little things which alumni might do that would help to build the kind of undergraduate body which Vermont is seeking—more active, more loyal, more enthusiastic. We are getting there, but every little bit helps, and it would encourage many if they could but know that the men on the outside still have an interest for the men on the inside. The interclass singing cup offered by Mr. Lyman last year for the best singing class at Founder's Day was a step in this direction. Other contests might be promoted. Help to a winning track team would be particularly opportune at this time. The trophy room is in need of more trophies, and the Vermont teams are waiting to take them if any were offered to take. Some device is needed to encourage the men to stay on the hill. Bailey's cup made feasible interclass debating this fall. Of all the cups offered for various college activities scarcely one is offered by an alumnus. Prizes are always incentives. One might be offered for scholarship, for athletics, or a combination of the two, for securing the greatest number of new students, for University service, for publicity work, for the class keeping the most men at Commons Hall or rooming in the dorm. At least the opportunity is not at fault. Someone might even go so far as to present the CYNIC with a hundred dollars and finish liquidating the debt that only a short time ago almost passed the thousand dollar mark. Thanks to the efficient work of a few recent managers only about one hundred dollars still remains and this is being reduced at the rate of seven dollars per week. Next year will close this unpleasant little episode in the paper's history, then we hope to see a semi-weekly, many cuts, and much general improvement.

COMMUNICATION.

To The CYNIC:

After reading of Pres. Butler's plan for physical entrance requirement at Columbia several questions at once rose up in my mind. I would first ask Pres. Butler if his plan were to develop a Columbia super-man? I wonder if it be possible that the administration of Columbia has fallen blindly into the pit of misconception of Darwinian law. I wonder if "the struggles for existence," and "the survival of the fittest" are not inherently in college life anyway. I wonder, though, of those men who are the victims of these two laws, how many are such because of physical unfitness.

If Pres. Butler would not educate the physically weak boy, what would he do with him? Would he send him out into the world without an education to do manual labor perhaps, where indeed the weaker are pushed to the wall?

Pres. Butler compares Columbia to West Point and Annapolis. The former is we are told a civilian institution and the two latter military and naval respectively. Without a sound body a man would be admittedly unfit for duty in time of war, but does the mere fact that a man is minus one leg impair his ability to think; does it detract from his powers of rationalization?

To be very consistent with his plan, I would suggest that Pres. Butler adapt his curriculum to his requirements for entrance, that is, stop teaching the philosophy of Kant, Rousseau and Locke and adopt that of Nietzsche and even Bernhardt.

PRESS COMMENT

Clean Finances.

A number of Student Court trials last year revealed the fact that the class accounting system then in force was by no means perfect. Class officers were frequently entirely ignorant of its requirements; there appeared to be no central responsible party to whom accounting could be made; the system seemed to have hardly more than a nominal existence. Appreciating these defects, the Conference recently adopted a new system of accounting which is now ready to be put into effect.

The system is simple and easily comprehended. It is to be administered by a salaried official which should insure its enforcement. There is no reason why this system should not result in a highly efficient conduct of student finances. Dishonesty and carelessness in the use of class funds should become a thing of the past.

It is unlikely that the Student Courts will in the future listen to any pleas of ignorance. Hence, it will be in the interest of everyone connected with the administration of class finances to inform themselves as to the requirements of the new system. At last we are to have clean and efficient conduct of class finances, thank to student self-government!—The Daily Cardinal.

30 Per Cent. of Harvard Grads Have Degrees.

According to figures from the Quinquennial catalogue, 31,144 degrees are at present held by Harvard men. Of this number, 30 per cent. hold two or more degrees from the university. James Bryce, LL. D. '07, Litt. D. '09 holds twenty-two academic titles thereby heading the list of degree holders. Theodore Roosevelt, '80, and S. N. Newcomb, '84, stand next on the list, holding eighteen degrees each. Nichols Murray Butler is the prepossessor of seventeen, while Dr. Charles W. Eliot has amassed but eleven, and Pres. A. Lawrence Lowell has only nine.—Daily Californian.

A Good Character After All.

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. For some reason, he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, so we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there could be no editors, devils or news.—Fourth Estate.

Appropriations.

The appropriations for the state educational institutions have not yet been made. It is hoped that this Legislature will remember that education is the most important business of the State and that money spent on higher education is as good an investment for a State as for an individual.—The Arizona Teacher.

ALPHA XI DELTA'S FIRST ANNUAL

The first annual initiation banquet of Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta was held last Saturday night at the Hotel Vermont. The initiates were Gladys Gleason, '15, Daisy Stewart '17, Anna Smith, '18, and Katherine Jordon, '18. There were four guests present with Mrs. Ira L. Reeves, one of the patronesses as guest of honor. Hazel McCuen acted as toastmistress and toasts were given by Martha O'Neil, '15, Anna Smith, '18, Irene Ballou, '16, Daisy Stewart, '17, Gladys Gleason, '15, Laura Porter, '16, and Mrs. Reeves.

JUNIORS THE BANNER CLASS AT ANNUAL TRACK MEET

Hayden, Smith, Gallagher Take Gold, Silver and Bronze.

The annual Indoor Athletic meet, which is an inter-class affair was held in the gymnasium on Saturday night, March 13. The juniors with a total of 40 points won first place and received the banner. The sophomores came second with 36 points, freshmen third with 31, and the seniors secured 22. The winner of the gold medal for highest individual score was Hayden, '15, who captured four firsts for a total of 20 points out of a total of 22 won by his class. Smith, '18, with a total of 18 points to his credit, won the silver medal. Gallagher, '16, won one first, three seconds and a third, making a total of 16 points, and was awarded the bronze medal. Bolster, '16, finished fourth with a total of 13 points.

The events and point winners were as follows:

FIVE FEET OF SNOW REPORTED ON THE HUMP.

Out-O'-Doors Party Finds Treacherous Climbing.

On Saturday at 1:18 o'clock three members of the Out-O'-Doors Club left by train for Camel's Hump. The party took the trail at Bolton, arriving at the old Randall Lumber Camp some four miles up the mountain in time for supper. At small expense this cabin could be repaired and put in shape to be used as one of the cabins of the Out-O'-Doors Club. Saturday night was spent at the camp. Sunday morning the party climbed the remaining two miles to the summit. The snow was from four to five feet deep and very slippery for skiing. Two of the party had to give up the skis and walked with considerable difficulty the remaining mile and a half. The view from the summit was excellent. Seldom are the mountains and lakes so clearly visible as in winter with the wind blowing from the north. The entire Green Mountain range from Killington to Jay Peak was plainly visible. The Presidential Range with Mt. Washington towering skyward 6,000 feet was very distinct. Whiteface and Marcy and the lesser Adirondack peaks stood bold and white against the sky. Lake Champlain, frozen its entire length and breadth, except directly opposite Burlington, seemed close by. Looking down to the valley of the Winooski 4,000 feet below, the falls at Bolton sent up a white mist visible at this high altitude.

The skiing down the southern slope was rather dangerous and the snow, but a few inches deep in places, was very slippery. The party returned to Burlington Sunday night after one of the most interesting yet trying trips attempted by the Out-O'-Doors Club.

SECOND ALL-GIRL DANCE.

The second all-girl dance given by the Girls' Athletic Association was held Tuesday night, March 16, in the gymnasium. Music for dancing was furnished by Hazel Kimball, '15, and refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Mrs. Stone chaperoned.

does in broadening and sharpening the intellect.

This is not merely meddling inquisitiveness on the part of the public but a serious curiosity. As education is now, in ten years we should be able to test the usefulness of some subjects such as algebra and Latin, as to their real good. On the other hand, some such as moral education, the need of which is strongly felt by many but about which very little is known as to what we want or how it should be taught, it will take decades to test out. Vocational education is one of the simplest in which to trace the aims. The greatest trouble with it is its cost. It should be taught as a separate thing and not mixed in with other work and should be considered along the lines of the vocation for which it is fitting as to hours of work.

The questioning of the old set customs makes people panicky. Teachers should not be disturbed if the old customs are torn up in the face of newly found facts. It will take a long time to reconstruct entirely our educational system. The teachers will take a great part in the work in keeping an hospitable attitude toward any research work. The actual work must be done by special men not by teachers. Be as advanced as possible in your thinking and conversation but extremely slow in applying any new idea. There is apt to be a hysteria in such a time as this. People are apt to take up any new fad and run away with it. Be very careful about adopting anything new, but be open-minded and ready to be shown. Don't be a stand patter.

After the lecture the meeting was thrown open for questions, after which adjournment was taken to Friday morning.

The Needs of the Child.

The second day of the annual conference was taken up with practical and theoretical papers. The teachers assembled in Williams Science Hall at 9:30 to listen to various speeches on "The Needs of the Child," under the following headings: "As Determined by Environment," J. D. Whitney of South Shaftsbury; "As Determined by Inborn Capacities," E. D. Collins of Middlebury; "The Demands of the Unpractical," Professor Tupper, University of Vermont.

The first speaker spoke on the necessity of teaching agricultural subjects in rural communities and of adapting all studies in the city and country to the child's environment; the need of vocational training for financial, social, and economic reasons; the need of practical application of fundamental subjects.

Mr. Collins emphasized the need of individual training, taking into consideration the traits of each child; and the desirability of a more intensive study of each child by the teacher to enable him or her to become acquainted with each child's natural capacity.

Professor Tupper closed with an interesting paper on "The Demands of the Unpractical," in which he showed that these demands are very practical indeed, if there is to be any light or joy left in life.

A general discussion led by Messrs. Abbott, Rideout and Stackpole, preceded adjournment for luncheon, which was served in the gymnasium to non-resident teachers at 12:30 o'clock. The military band and battalion furnished some after-dinner diversion.

Recognition of Individuality.

The program for the afternoon consisted of addresses dealing with the topic, "The Recognition of Individuality in the School." C. H. Morrill of Bakersfield, filling the place of E. B. Smith of Brattleboro, who was ill, led a discussion, "Individuality and Vocation." J. E. Colburn of Burlington, spoke on "Individuality and the Higher Life"; F. W. Reimherr of Waterbury on "The Problem of Meager Environment"; and D. W. McClelland of Richford, H. D. Casey of Springfield, and Isaac Thomas of Rutland led the discussion.

Following the close of the program the principals of the high schools of the state held a meeting and perfected an organization to be known as the Secondary Principles' Association. Edward S. Abbott of Montpelier was elected president and G. R. Stackpole of Winooski, was elected secretary.

President and Mrs. Benton tendered a reception to the teachers and their friends at the president's house after the afternoon session.

Schoolmasters' Banquet.

In the evening the annual schoolmasters' banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont. The banquet was held in the main dining room of the hotel, covers being laid for about 60. At the head table with Martin G. Benedict, who presided as toastmaster, were the Rev. Charles V. Grismer, Prof. J. F. Messenger, the Rev. Charles Lemard of Troy Conference Academy, Poultney, Dr. Guy Potter Benton and former State Superintendent of Education Mason S. Stone. In the speeches following the banquet vocational education was somewhat roughly handled. Professor S. F. Emerson, professor of history at the University, was of the opinion that vocationalizing the whole school system would be disastrous. Charles H. Morrill poked some quiet fun at the idea in his humorous confessions of an old schoolmaster. The Rev. Grismer pleaded for the training of the pupils which would tend to make them idealistic.

The Rev. C. V. Grismer, the first speaker introduced, appealed to the teacher to instill into his pupil ideals. Many pupils who come from foreign or illiterate parentage have latent ability, but their capability of development rests with their teacher, who must create an idealistic leaning in them. If there is no ideal, no matter how good the teacher may be, no progress can be made, but once the ideal is created the teacher has started the soul on its course to something higher. Some parents place too much stress on facts, and allow no place for fairy tales and the like in their children's education, dwelling only on the real things of life. These things have their place, but one of the poorest creatures is the one with no imagination. It is not the veneer which the teacher may be able to put on to society or the little instruction he may be able to impart, but the ideals which he has been able to create which abide. The ideals of immortality of the Egyptian, purity of the Hebrew, beauty, symmetry, and harmony of the Greeks, law and power of the Romans, remain to our time, though their homes, cities, and great parts of their literature have perished.

Professor Emerson, speaking as chairman of the library commission, opened his talk with an appeal to the schoolmasters for a library day. The function of this library day or hour, as the case may be, is to open to the vision of young girls and boys the vast world of ideas which the great authors offer. He asked that every high school and elementary school of the State set aside a day of which at least one study hour would be devoted to the study of some of the good literary works. Professor Emerson was of the opinion that the school teachers in Vermont today are open-minded and conservative in the best sense, holding to the best customs, but not reactionary. The best saving element of society is in the schools of the community, because the latter have the power of vitalizing ideas into young minds where they become a living growth. The teachers of the present time face the crisis of vocational education, and whether or not the whole school system becomes vocationalized and disaster follows, the responsibility rests with the teachers. If the schoolmasters of the higher schools of education with their broadened ideas could teach in the elementary schools the whole problem would be solved, but these lower schools must be turned over to teachers incompetent for their work. Until the big man is ready to take a little place, not looking for his own advancement but for that of the whole, the work will be a failure.

Charles H. Morrill, the last speaker of the evening, remarked that a schoolmaster in these days of vocational training must leave the humanities to educate his boy's fingers so that he may be fitted for a two-dollar-a-day job rather than his mind be given the finer studies of life, and this despite the fact that the father of the boy is himself in many cases much better enabled to teach his son how to build a bench or shoe a horse, and is desirous of giving his son the advantage of a college education. This college education the boy stands in chance of losing because his teacher does not have the time to teach Latin, which is absolutely essential, because he has turned his attention to instruction of new books, such as the encyclopedia, which teaches a thousand useless things people ought to know. The speaker, who kept his listeners in laughter by his veiled sarcasm, appealed for more time and patience from the world that the schoolmaster might solve the problem.

The University quartette sang between the courses of the banquet and between the speeches. The meeting was adjourned to the meeting of next October, to be held in Rutland.

Saturday Discussions.

The conference closed Saturday morning. In the morning a conference was held on agricultural education and home economics, with the general topic of boys' and girls' clubs and home project work. Mrs. John B. Chase gave a practical talk on home garden work in the elementary schools, and gave various timely suggestions as to how the project might be better carried out in the Adams School, where there is such a class. A. G. Fletcher of Orleans and Miss Bessie Thayer of Lyndonville, took up the subject from the standpoint of the high school. E. L. Ingalls, who supervises the work carried on by the boys' and girls' club movement in the State, outlined their various lines of work, and spoke of the help and cooperation that the various clubs, local, commercial, and the like, could lend to the movement. The home economics department of the University conducted a round table conference for teachers of home economics, which closed the session.

The conference was by far the largest ever held. It was estimated that 300 attended the two days' session, and the Science Hall was filled every morning.

SHAKESPEARE'S MASTERPIECE INTERPRETED.

Hamlet is Monteville Flowers' Selection.

Monteville Flowers of California, Shakespearian interpreter, was the entertainer at the eighth entertainment of the Redpath series last Wednesday evening. The date for the next entertainment, the Dunbar Quartette, which comes with a good reputation, has been postponed.

Mr. Flowers selection was "Hamlet." His impersonations were sometimes good, sometimes mediocre. He was particularly good in the dramatic scenes such as the play, the grave digging and the duel scenes. In the ghost scene, however, Hamlet was not very strongly portrayed. Indeed, the young prince started with but small attractiveness, but the interest of the audience gradually warmed to him. Ophelia, beloved of Hamlet and faithful to him, met with little sympathy as might be expected. The other woman of the play, the queen, Hamlet's mother, co-worker for his father's death, and later husband of King Laertes, the murderer was also weak as a woman. The women were not portrayed with particular skillfulness. Ophelia's aged father, the court spy, "the rat" slain by Hamlet was well characterized.

The plot, the characters, and advance to the tragic ending increased in interest as the plot progressed. In his introduction Mr. Flowers gave an outline of the time and action of the scenes, and the reason for his interpretations.

LOYAL SEND-OFF

Short Schedule and Weakened Pitching Staff, Old Infield, New Outfield.—“All in Good Condition and Among the Cleanest College Ball Players I Have Ever Seen,” says Coach Crowther.

Monday noon, March 22, the Varsity baseball team left for the Southern trip, extending through the Easter vacation. 16 men took the trip, 12 of that number being ball-tossers. The players who took the trip are: Mayforth (captain), catcher; Merrill, first base; Ridlon, second base; Linnehan, third base; Maiden, short stop; Swett, Murnane and Brown, outfielders; Gilbert, Spear, Upham and Batchelder pitchers. Brown is also to be used as utility catcher, if necessary. Besides the players, Coach Crowther, Manager Gardyne, Dr. Marvin, trainer and faculty representative, and A. N. Willis, special press correspondent, also accompanied the team.

The party reached New York Monday evening and remained in the city about four hours. They left at midnight direct for Durham, North Carolina, where they made their headquarters for the first four days. The date of their return depends upon whether one or more games now pending can be scheduled. The schedule as now arranged by Manager Gardyne consists of five games:

March 24. Trinity at Durham, N. C.
March 26. Guilford College at Greensboro, N. C.
March 27. Raleigh Carolina League Team at Raleigh, N. C.
March 29. Elon College at Elon, N. C.
March 30. Catholic University at Washington.

The management has experienced considerable difficulty in arranging the schedule as the contracts could not be signed until very recently. Two games were cancelled by the southern college teams because they could not keep the dates open. This accounts for the short schedule. Last year nine games were on the schedule, but only eight were played. Vermont won three college games, lost three college games and lost to the Washington National League Team. Trinity and the Catholic University are the only two teams of last year on this year's southern trip. Vermont defeated Trinity 2-0 and lost to Catholic University 5-6 in a ten-inning struggle.

SENIORS SUPREME ON INDOOR COURTS.

Defeat '16, '17 and '18.

The Melissdon interclass tennis cup was won Monday, March 22, by the seniors when they defeated the sophomores, 3-0. The seniors had previously beaten the juniors and the freshmen. In Monday's match, Rutter lost to Brundage, 9-11, and Whitney lost to Dow, 3-6. Dow and Brundage defeated Whitney and Rutter, 11-9.

MEN OF DURHAM ARE 6 TO 2 VICTORIOUS

Vermont Loses First Battle on Southern Soil—Game reveals Weaknesses—Linnehan and Murnane Most Effective.

Vermont lost the first game of the season Wednesday, March 24, to Trinity at Durham by a score of 6-2. Vermont showed good form considering the fact that they had had no outdoor practice, while Trinity had been outside for a month. The Green's weakness seems to have been largely in lack of team work which, however, they expect to develop in the succeeding games. Vermont played a good game in the field and found Kanife for seven bingles, one of them a two-bagger.

Spear started in the box for Vermont, but was relieved in the first inning by Gilbert. Gilbert pitched steady ball for the remainder of the game save in the seventh inning.

In the first inning Murnane hit, took second on a wild pitch, but was caught at the plate trying to score on Mayforth's hit.

Trinity tallied two runs in the first. Bost walked, Durham got first on an error and Flythe and Maltos singled. Gilbert was sent in and retired the side.

Vermont scored in the fourth. Mayforth took first on an error and stole second. Linnehan followed with a single and Merrill with a two-bagger, Mayforth scoring. Linnehan and Merrill were caught in a double play.

Trinity tallied in the fifth with a base on balls and sacrificed the man around the circuit.

Vermont's second run came in the sixth inning. Maiden reached first on an error and took second on Ridlon's sacrifice. He scored on Murnane's second hit of the game. The side was retired ending the scoring for Vermont.

In the seventh Trinity rolled up three tallies on a base on balls, a hit, an error, and a two-bagger.

Linnehan featured in the field for Vermont and Murnane did good work

WIG AND BUSKIN TRIES EXPERIMENTS

“POMANDER WALK”

Louis Parker's Great Play Selected for Junior Week Production.—To Be Played by Mixed Cast—Coach Gage and Professor Tupper Enthusiastic.

The Wig and Buskin Society last Saturday voted almost unanimously to accept “Pomander Walk” for the college play. The action of the society caused some surprise to many, since “Pomander Walk” is a very elaborate and expensive production, and has never before, to our knowledge, been attempted by college actors. The writer, Louis N. Parker, is well known to people here as the author of “Disraeli,” in which George Arliss played last year.

The play was finally accepted only after a careful study of the leading parts had been made, and it had been ascertained that there were men in college who would be able, not only to play them creditably, but to star in them. Since Marjolaine, Madame Lachesnais and Barbara Pennymint are all parts of too great possibilities to be played by men, no matter how great their ability to look or act like girls, the way was opened up for an agreement between Wig and Buskin and the Girl's Dramatic Society, and four of the eight female parts will be played by girls.

According to present indications, the number of men who will try for parts will break all previous records. 12 of Wig and Buskin's 16 men have announced their intention of coming out. The try-outs will begin (for men) Friday evening, April 9, in A South. At this time, a reading and description of the characters will be given, which will aid the candidates in making their choice of parts. Every man who comes out will be given a fair chance to show what he is worth.

The following is a very brief description of the setting and characters of the play:

“Pomander Walk” is a retired crescent of six very small old-fashioned houses on the river bank, near Chiswick, England. The houses, which are actually built upon the stage, are exactly alike. They are miniature copies of Queen Anne mansions. Each has a little strip of garden in front of it, separated from the road by an ornamental railing with a still more ornamental gate. Each has its link extinguishers. Three steps lead up to each little door and each door has a beautiful brass knocker. Each little

GET THE 2ND.

On Thursday, March 25, Vermont came back at Trinity, defeating the Durham men 10-3. Spear opened for Vermont, retiring the first nine men. In the fourth he broke, allowing three runs. He was relieved by Upham in the fifth, who finished the game of seven innings.

VERMONT MEN GATHER AT SPRINGFIELD AND BOSTON

Fight for the Medical College Described.—Loyalty of State—Dean Perkins Lauds University.—Elections.

The Vermont alumni of Western Massachusetts held their annual banquet on Thursday evening, March 18, at the Nayasset Club, Springfield, Mass. They listened to encouraging reports from Dean G. H. Perkins and Dr. H. C. Tinkham, dean of the Medical College, as to the assured standing of the Medical College, the rapid and solid growth of the University and its hold upon the loyalty of Vermont people. The toastmaster was Col. W. S. Peirce, who retired as president of the Western Massachusetts alumni association. Officers for the succeeding year were chosen as follows: President, Dr. P. F. Leary of Turners Falls; vice-president, Dr. W. A. Hare of Springfield; secretary and treasurer, E. N. Worthen. President Benton of the University was unable to attend the banquet and Dean Perkins was his representative.

Dean Tinkham described the fight of the Medical College for continued existence against “an organized effort of the powers that be to put it out of commission.” He said that the Medical College has now as high a rating as any medical school in the United States and ascribed the success of the institution largely to the loyalty of its alumni.

Dean Perkins was introduced by Col. Peirce as the only man now on the faculty who was a member of it when Col. Peirce was graduated 21 years ago. In his address Dean Perkins spoke of the great changes in the school since he came there from Yale, a growth as rapid as is consistent with permanence. He found in a trip around the world that Vermont men are doing the world's work everywhere and that the influence of Vermont is felt from one end of the world to the other. As for the number of students, Dean Perkins said that in his opinion the University is now as large as it needs to be, and that it is better to have the present enrolment with the students properly cared for than to be overwhelmed by growth in numbers. Although he is a graduate of Yale, Dean

Perkins holds that a man gets a better education to fit him for the world in an institution of the size of Vermont than he does in any of the large universities. There has grown up at Vermont a more direct and constant personal contact between the faculty and the students than there ever was before. The faculty on the whole is the strongest that the University has ever had.

Near the close of his talk Dean Perkins spoke of the educational bill now pending in the Vermont Legislature. His duties as state geologist require his attendance at the sessions of the Legislature as constantly as possible and in his conversations about the educational bill he has found no reason to believe that Vermont will not be supported by the legislators. At the close of his address Dean Perkins spoke eloquently of the delight of a teacher as the years go by to see the men under him develop and go out into the world to take a place, sometimes a foremost place, in the life of the world. The University of Vermont is making men who are doing the work of the world as few men are doing it and the world will continue to be stronger and truer because the University of Vermont has existed.

At the close of the meeting Dr. Charles J. Downey, who retired this year after several years' service as secretary and treasurer of the association, spoke briefly of the change in the medical school since his day. The students of his time worked hard and had as good a theoretical training as any, but they lacked the opportunity for clinical experience. They have that now, and Dr. Downey believes that the college will attain the great future that Dean Tinkham predicted. Those present at the meeting were Dr. G. L. Steele, H. W. Steele, R. A. Kinlock, Col. W. S. Peirce, Dr. V. J. Irwin, G. A. Mevis, D. E. Harriman, E. N. Worthen, Dr. W. A. Hare, Dr. R. H. Peck, Dr. C. J. Downey, all of Springfield; Dr. W. P. Ryan of Holyoke, Dr. A. L. Damon of North Wilbraham, Dr. J. F. Bowen of Amherst; Dr. Bouvier, Dr. O'Neil, Dr. Guild of Grafton; Dr. Douglas of Barre Plains; Dr. W. Hiltfield of Easthampton; W. S. Wright of South Hadley and Joseph Logan.

N. E. Alumni Association.

The annual dinner of the New England Alumni Association was held at the City Club in Boston on the evening of March 19. The principal topics under discussion were the future of the Medical College and the pending education bills.

Dr. Tinkham, referring to the campaign originating with the American Medical Association and tending toward the reduction of the number of medical schools in this country, outlined the situation regarding them and pointed with pride to the position and showing made by that of the University of Vermont. He said in part:

"From at one time 140 medical schools in the United States there are now 95. The additional requirements to secure the individual admission to them must result in the further reduction, which will be noticeable in the next two years.

"This will have a decided influence on the future of the University of Vermont. But with normal development our medical school will continue just as long as it has financial support. And we must cause this normal development to continue.

"I have reason to believe that in the hands of the Vermont Legislature, which has appropriated for it $35,000, that financial support need not cause us concern."

Dr. Tinkham showed that all the medical school equipment was in most satisfactory shape and concluded:

"The 40 graduates recently examined by medical boards in eight states were without failure. The increasing number of entrants in the college is most gratifying. It is 'up to us' to make of the Vermont Medical College a leader."

President Benton, first paying a tribute to the late Prof. J. E. Goodrich, expressed gratitude to the men of vision who founded the University in the early days; to the trustees of the present time; to the accomplished scholars and to the fine student body.

He stated that he felt under deep obligation to the ideas of the Carnegie Foundation and of the Vermont educational commission, declaring that he believed in the fixed policy of the State's appropriating no money to any educational institution not under the control of the State.

President Benton criticised severely appropriations sought by Middlebury College for pursuit of studies in engineering and agriculture, saying the University of Vermont was the only institution in the State equipped with facilities for such pursuit.

After showing that only 47 per cent. of the student body at Middlebury were native Vermonters, while 78 per cent. of the University were such, President Benton emphatically voiced his disapproval of any idea of an alliance between Middlebury, Norwich and the University to form a single State institution.

On the other hand, ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, '80, said he was inclined to think that in Vermont the drift was in the direction of the amalgamation of Middlebury and the University, the men to be at Burlington, the women at Middlebury.

M. C. Robbins, '98, spoke for the New York Alumni association and the scholarship fund they were assembling there.

The officers elected were: Prof. Carroll W. Doten, '95, Boston, president; Dr. Peer Johnson, '99, Beverly, and Lee C. Abbott, '00, Manchester, N. H., vice-presidents; R. D. H. Emerson, '04, Boston, secretary and treasurer; H. A. Stiles, '14, Boston, assistant; James D. Brennan, '03, Boston, auditor; Frank Stinson, '80, George H. Randall, '91, Harley W. Chittenden, '07, W. J. Dodd, '05, Walter A. Dane, '03, executive committee; the Rev. S. I. Bryant, '51, chaplain.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

INITIATION AND BANQUET.

The 33rd annual initiation of Lambda Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta was held Friday evening, March 19. The initiates were: Ruth Adams, '16, of St. Johnsbury; Margaret Murphy, '17, of Shenandoah, Iowa; Floy Camp, '18, of Randolph; Mildred Chapin, '18, of Jericho; Helen Hall, '18, of Burlington; Bessie Reynolds, '18, of Burlington; Mary Sparks, '18, of Rutland; Hazel Warden, '18, of Great Falls, Montana; and Isabella Watson, '18, of London, Eng.

Following the initiation the banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont, covers being laid for 60. The decorations, carrying out the fraternity colors, were in charge of Peters. The toastmistress was Mary Simpson, '13, and the following responded to toasts: Irene Barrett, '15, Ruth Adams, '16, Elizabeth Baker, '17, Isabella Watson, '18, Helen Rutter, '16, and Mary Bates, '94. Among the out-of-town alumni present were Amy Wilson, '10, of Bethel; Ruth Tracy, ex-'13, of New York City; Mary Simpson, '13, of Morrisville; Georgia Gifford, '14, of Mount Hermon, Mass.; Katherine Dewey, '14, of South Royalton; Carol Hatch, '13, of Randolph; Marjory Watson, '14, of Hartford; Edith Coulman, '14, of Proctor; Nina Shepardson, '14, of Richmond.

SOPHOMORE HOP APRIL 16.

Warning Against Cabs and Flowers— Dance Order to be Posted.

Preparations for the annual Sophomore Hop to be held on April 16 are well toward completion. Taplin's Orchestra of nine pieces has been engaged for the evening. Miss Lucinda Smith is to be the cateress, and no one can doubt the quality of the lunch which will be served. The committee would like the co-operation of the student body in eliminating cabs and flowers. Programs of an unusual and unique design have been secured for the dance. The order of dances will be posted on the bulletin board in South College directly after Easter for the benefit of those who make out dance orders previous to the dance. Easter vacation affords an opportunity for financial reimbursement which may be expended upon tickets from any member of the committee.

TRACK SQUAD TO START OUT DOOR WORK AFTER RECESS

2 Home Meets and 3 Abroad—Inter-scholastic Meet May 22—Brattleboro Will Strive for 3rd Victory and Possession of Cup.

Manager Johnson, '15, again announces the spring track schedule consisting of five meets, two at home and three abroad.

May 8.—Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y.
May 15.—St. Lawrence at Canton, N. Y.

May 21 and 22.—New England Inter-collegiate at Cambridge, Mass.

May 29.—New Hampshire State at Burlington.

Middlebury at Burlington (date pending).

Outdoor training is to begin directly after the Easter recess under the direction of Dr. Stone. The prospects for a good team are considered fine as only one man, Squires, was lost from last year's team and there is much promising material in the freshman class. Most of the men have been working out in the gym and cage throughout the winter.

The date of the interscholastic track meet at the University is to be May 22. This meet is an annual affair and various prep schools about the state send delegations. They are entertained by the University while here. The event, no doubt, does a great deal toward bringing students to Vermont.

Levy, '16, assistant manager of track, has sent out a circular letter in regard to the meet to the following schools in Vermont: Vermont Academy, Brattleboro High, Rutland High, Troy Conference Academy, Belows Falls High, Bennington High, Springfield High, Goddard Seminary, Barre High, Montpelier Seminary, Montpelier High, Brigham Academy, Hardwick Academy, Bristol High and Burlington High.

There are usually eight or 10 prep school delegations with a varying number of representatives. A cup is offered to the school scoring the highest number of points. This has to be won three years to retain it permanently. Brattleboro has won it for two years now. There are also gold, silver and bronze medals for the first, second and third highest individual scores.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

INITIATION.

The 22nd annual initiation of Eta Chapter of Delta Delta Delta was held Saturday afternoon, March 20, at the home of Gladys Flint, '17. The initiates were Esther Rose Angell, '18, of Hardwick; Margaret Josephine George, '18, of Burlington; Mary Daig Loomis, '17, of Burlington; and Helen Power Wagner, '18, of Burlington.

Following the initiation a banquet was held at the Hotel Vermont, where covers were laid for 40. The tables were arranged in the shape of a Delta and the decorations were of daffodils, pine and pansies. Mrs. L. W. Simpson, '96, of Burlington was toastmistress and toasts were responded to by Lilla Montgomery, '15, Lucy Swift, '16, Mary Loomis, '17, Esther Angell, '18, Mae Campbell, '11, Josephine Dana, '11, Mabelle George, '10, Martha Spafford, '96, Mrs. B. F. Lutman, '10, Mrs. Pearlle Weed, '96, Mrs. M. B. Ogle and Mrs. H. C. Tinkham, '99. Those from out of town to attend the initiation were Mrs. Pearlle Weed, '96, of Essex; Mae Campbell, '11, of Bethel; Josephine Dana, '11, of North Pomfret; Marjorie Hayden, ex-'13, of Riverside; Mrs. Blanches K. Sayles, '07, of Enosburg Falls; and Martha Spafford, '96, of Eugene, Oregon.

CYNIC NOTICE.

The next CYNIC will be issued April 17. Elections for editor-in-chief, associate editor and news editors will be held at 4:15, A South, on Tuesday afternoon, April 12.

The New Policy.

There has been no dissatisfaction expressed with the new coach—quite the contrary. The general impression is that he is going to give everybody a chance and, strange, but the novel idea seems to be taking. At least a bigger squad has been working out under him than under any coach during the last four years. Perhaps it is a good thing in one way that there is no southern trip. It always gives the impression that the men picked for the trip are the men picked for the season and the squad at once drops off. With no trip it will make it easier for the coach to keep men out and give all a more equal show. One thing let us believe will not be seen this year—a team with but one substitute. Whatever and whoever was responsible for such a wretched condition last year this is no time to discuss. Vermont is facing a new season, with a fine team, where every man, it is hoped, will hold his position by merit alone. The college is looking forward to having that rare thing—a second team, and to seeing substitutes occasionally played in the games.

Loyalty's Inning.

Since the above editorial was written things have changed—the team has gone south. There are many who think that it should not have gone. Strongly among them is the CYNIC. But this is no time for criticism or for argument. The team has gone, and there's just one thing left to do—stand behind it first, last and always if it does the best it can. Opinion once favored the trip, opinion changed. Forget opinion. Loyalty has got to overcome reason now the thing's done. Win or lose it's a Vermont team, and Vermont has got to boost it so long as it does the best it can for the Green and Gold.

Who Will Handle Publicity?

Perhaps the Publicity Committee is still at work, but the college hasn't seen or heard much from it of late. In fact, at one of the meetings recently attended there was inclined to be a bit of dissatisfaction expressed. The baseball season is about to open, and if the team plays good enough ball—as is expected it will—to warrant any advertising everyone hopes it will get it. Newspaper reports are all right, but the hill would like to see some good live work done right here in the city. It's Burlingtonians not Bostonians that attend the games and help foot the bills. Something more striking than posters are needed to arouse Burlington. The slide idea at motion picture houses has never been worked out yet, and there are numerous other ideas that the fertile brains of the committee are fully capable of devising to prevent the city from being unaware that there is a fast game and plenty of excitement on the hill. Next to city advertising, State advertising is needed, for it is from Vermont that most of the University's students come. State papers should be supplied with copy, and the home and school papers of the various players. Is the publicity committee going to handle the work? If not some other organization should.

The Chapel Problem.

"I suppose I've got to go to chapel." This remark, heard the other day at the stroke of the chapel bell, is typical of the general attitude toward chapel services. Everyone will admit the need and value of the services, but as readily admit that they are considered as tedious and a nuisance. There has been some hesitancy in touching upon this subject as it is almost impossible to conceive of a remedy. No one approaches chapel in a very worshipful spirit or reverent mood and, judging from the usual turmoil in the rear of the room, no one acquires it while there. The only value that chapel now has is in its mere observance. And how much value this signifies when everyone looks upon it as a bore is questionable. Occasionally a good speaker appears. When this happens he gets a respectful hearing and is enjoyed. But this cannot be suggested as a remedy for Vermont is too distant to secure good speakers continually. Nevertheless, it lacks nothing more than the inspiration to be derived from the messages of men who have been in touch with the world problems and have achieved. And now at the end of this editorial the question is as much in the air as before, for the writer can think of no better plan than is now being used—which is not to say that it is a good one.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor Cynic:

Will you permit me to suggest that debating has assumed sufficient importance at the University to justify some recognition of the work of the debating team by the student body?

During my own college days we did some debating, but, on the whole, interest was only sporadic, and debating was not a well-defined college interest. So, if we wished to have a debate, the members of the team were selected in a more or less haphazard way, and expenses were met in the same way, sometimes by the members of the teams themselves. The only recognition the teams received was a picture in the Ariel, which was also paid for by the members of the team.

In watching the progress of debating for the past two years, it seems to me that debating can now be classed as a major activity, and that members of the team should have awarded them some distinguishing mark of their service. Many of the colleges now grant the college letter for debating as well as for athletics. Would it seem unreasonable to grant this mark of distinction to our successful debaters? If the letter seems to belong exclusively to athletic activities, is it not possible to award some mark of distinction? The continuation and extension of interest in the art of debate surely deserves fostering.

Edward S. Abbott.

DEBATERS FIND "TOMB STONES" A NOVEL SUBJECT.

Club Financially Sound.

At the weekly meeting of the Debating Club, Prindle, '15, gave an amusing, original, and interesting talk on the tomb stones of New England, the material, inscriptions, styles, etc., showing how they resolve themselves into periods representative of the social and economic progress of the country from the Puritanic period to our own. Prindle has been making a special study of this work, and has gleaned much original information.

Manager Grismer of the debating teams announced that the club had a little more than met expenses in the recent Middlebury debate. The club is trying hard to schedule a debate with some other college, but is meeting with but little success.

BACK TO B. C.

At the Classical Club meeting held last Friday evening, March 19, Professor Bassett lectured on Greek vases. Taking up first the importance and magnitude of the subject he stated that vase artistry reached its height in Athens before the full bloom of Attic art. This was about the first half of the sixth century B. C. The lecture was illustrated by pictures showing the different stages of the art and the work of different artists. Type, expression, color, theme, etc., were touched upon.

HERMON CLUB ELECTIONS.

At a meeting of the Mt. Hermon Club last Sunday afternoon F. R. Churchill was elected president for 1915-'16; A. C. Bristol, vice-president; R. C. Brown, secretary-treasurer; and R. S. Ely was returned to the executive committee.

Key and Serpent Dance.

The last of the series of Key and Serpent dances was held in the gym Tuesday evening. About 50 couples were present. Taplin's five-piece orchestra furnished music. The chaperones were Captain and Mrs. Reeves and Professor and Mrs. Swift.

Military Department Notes.

Monday, April 13, Col. Dickman, 2nd Cav., will lecture before the battalion. The monthly inspection was held Wednesday, March 24, in the annex. There was no officers' school Thursday.

DOES THE JERSEY BEAT THE HOLSTEIN?

AGGIES HOLD BIG MEETING.

A well attended meeting of the Agricultural Club was held Thursday, March 18, at Morrill Hall. After a short business meeting Piper, '16, gave a humorous reading and Varney, '17, read the Vermont Chronicle. Then followed an open discussion on the merits of the Holstein-Friesian vs. the Jersey as a dairy cow. Tennien, '15, and Hitchcock, '17, defended the Holstein and Pike, '16, Hanson, '15, and La-Brake, '17, defended the Jersey. Professor Borland was then asked to decide the question.

PRIZE CONTESTANTS SELECTED.

The tryouts for the Julia Spear prize-reading contest have been completed. The following have been chosen from the sophomore girls: Mary Conway, Mabel Durway, Esther Magoon, Laura Parker, and Alsey Young. The freshmen girls who qualified at the tryouts Tuesday are: Mildred Best, Carolyn Chamberlain, Rachael Frank, Helen Hall, and Rose Levin. The contest takes place May 1.

Y. M. C. A. CLOSES YEAR'S WORK.

Final Lecture by Dr. Boyd—Seaver Reports on Hartford Conference.

With this week the Y. M. C. A. closes another year of work and C. M. Pike, '16, takes charge.

On Thursday night, March 18, Dr. Boyd concluded his series of lectures on the Sunday School. He spoke of the insufficiency of the Sunday school idea which considered Sunday school as a thing of one day out of seven, and showed that the impressions should carry over to later reveal themselves as expressions. He put particular emphasis on the recreational side of Sunday school methods such as the athletic teams and contests, playgrounds and social life. Bowling is a sport much employed, and one of the largest amateur baseball leagues in the world is a Sunday school league.

On Tuesday night of this week A. D. Seaver, '16, gave a report of the recent conference at Hartford. This was the 11th annual conference of eastern college men, and was held under the auspices of Andover, Hartford, and Union Theological Seminaries, March 19-21. Its purpose was to present to those college men who are now deciding upon their life work, definite and reliable information concerning the opportunities and work of the Christian ministry. Among the speakers were Dr. Spear, Dr. Cadman, Dr. Powell, President of Hobart College, and Dr. Mott. Seaver told of the impression the speakers and college men left upon him, and said that the appeal of the country problem touched him most.

On Sunday, March 21, the jail service was conducted by Jason S. Hunt, '15.

BELGIUM RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS DELEGATE AT CHAPEL.

Miss Roche, representing the Belgian relief committee, spoke in chapel Tuesday. She outlined the work of the committee in aiding the Belgian distressed and discussed the means the committee used in carrying out the work. The aid to the Belgians is the greatest charity the world has ever undertaken, Miss Roche said. She spoke at the high school and also downtown on Tuesday.

SOPHOMORES ADOPT CONSTITUTION AND TALK UP THE HOP.

The sophomore class held a meeting Wednesday morning during chapel hour. Miss Holstock, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president. The constitution as drawn up by the executive committee was read and accepted by the class.

H. H. Powers, chairman of the sophomore hop committee, gave a report of the plans for the big dance and urged all members of the class to attend. He emphasized the fact that the committee desired to make it as inexpensive as possible and had recommended that no hacks or flowers be engaged.

PREMEDIC CLUB MEN ENROLL.

Talk by Dr. Clark.

The Premedic Club met Friday night, March 19, at the Sigma Nu Lodge. There was a good attendance. Dr. Clark of the Medical College talked in his usual entertaining fashion, telling of the ups and downs of the medical profession. He gave the men considerable information as to the course in the Medical College.

All the men present enrolled in the College of Medicine for next year. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

ROGERS AND GRILLEY ENTERTAIN.

One of the best of the Redpath series entertainments was given Thursday night, March 25, in the gymnasium. Rogers and Grilley were the entertainers, the former a harpist and the latter a reader. The men came heralded with a good reputation and more than lived up to it. The skilled work of Mr. Rogers was especially pleasing, while the quaint humor of Mr. Grilley kept the audience in smiles. Many of the students were not in attendance as vacation commenced that night.

Tuxedo Keeps the World in Good Humor

Here is the man whose life work is to make millions of people happy. In pursuing his call, he travels the wide world over. He is a great lover of his pipe, and in all sorts of corners of the earth he has tried all sorts of tobaccos.

What is his unqualified statement in regard to Tuxedo? Read it again: "I've yet to find its equal." This is the frank and candid opinion of thousands and thousands of experienced, judicious smokers. Tuxedo is absolutely the best all-around tobacco that modern tobacco science can make.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Uncorking a tin of Tuxedo is like lifting the lid on concentrated sunshine. And then, when you fire up! Well! The first puff's a revelation, the second's a revolution, the third just gets you happy-like! Then you're off—just as sure as you'll see the green grass and hear the birds sing next Spring.

The exclusive "Tuxedo Process" brings out the unsurpassed mildness, delicate fragrance and mellow flavor of the Burley leaf in a way that has never been successfully imitated. At the same time it refines the tobacco until every trace of harshness and "bite" disappears.

house has a projecting bow window with square panes on the ground floor and two windows above. It may be said here that some of the best parts of the play are seen inside the houses, through these little windows. A brick pavement runs in front of the garden railings; then there is a gravelled space, then a lawn, which extends to the river's bank, where it is bounded by a chain hanging from white posts. In the center of the lawn is a splendid elm, with a seat around its trunk. At the back, Pomander Lane turns off along Pomander Creek, in which a barge is lying with its brown sail hoisted to dry. On the right of the stage, at the back, are Pomander Steps, leading to the river. Just below the steps is a low shrub. On the right, in front, is a summer-house. The houses are numbered from the upper end, and opposite numbers one and five are public oil lamps on wooden posts. In the garden of number one is a miniature mast, properly rigged, with the Union Jack floating from it. The woodwork of all the houses, except number four, is painted green; that of number four is white, and it is also distinguished by a lovely display of flowers on all the window sills.

In this fairyland, in the spring of the year 1805, the following characters play their parts: John Sayle, 10th Baron Oxford; Lieut. the Hon. John Sayle, R. N.; Admiral Sir Peter Antrob; Jerome Brooke-Hoskyn, Esq.; The Rev. Jacob Sternroyd, D. D., F. S. A.; Mr. Basil Pringle; Jim; The Muffin-man; The Lamplighter; The Eyesore; Madame Lucie Lachesnais, Marjolaine; Mrs. Pamela Poskett; Miss Ruth Pennymint; Miss Barbara Pennymint; Nanette; Jane; Caroline Thring. Since its first production in New York three years ago, "Pomander Walk" has never played outside the largest cities, though in New York, Philadelphia and Washington it has had runs such as are given few plays. It has never been on the road with a stock company because the setting was so costly and heavy, and because of certain difficulties in the assignment of its characters which would not be encountered by a college cast.

FIRST OF THE SERIES.

On Saturday afternoon, March 20, the girls of Howard Hall Club entertained at a "Ten-Cent" Tea. This was the first of a series of teas to be given to raise money for redecorating the parlors, and was very successful.

Miss Almira Watts, '15, poured and the Misses Alma Holton, '15, Clara Gardner, '16, Daisy Stewart, '17, Charis Billings, '18, Myrtle Rose, '18, and Marion Walker, '17, served. Music was furnished by Miss Watts, '15, and Miss Holton, '15.

SENIORS GET THEIR UNIFORMS.

The Misses Bernadine Kimball and Almira Watts have been added to the senior cap and gown committee. Measurements for caps and gowns were taken Wednesday by C. H. Dudley representing Cottrell and Leonard of Albany, N. Y. The total cost, $5.75, is somewhat less than previous years. The executive committee of the senior class of the Medical College are handling their own caps and gowns.

GREEN AND GOLD IS RAIDING SOUTH.

Nearly 300 fellows accompanied the team to the train, forming at the Old Mill and marching downtown. Much spirit was in evidence and the cheers were given with a vim. At the train a cheer was given for each man on the team, for Coach Crowther, Manager Gardyne, Dr. Marvin and Captain Reeves. The last four and Captain Mayforth were called upon to say a few words. The coach stated himself as being well pleased with the condition of the players and expected them to make a very good showing. He thanked the students for their excellent support and backing in giving the team a good send-off. Captain Mayforth was sure that every man had the old fight in him and the spirit to win. He assured the fellows that the team would uphold the good name of the University to the very best of their ability. He also showed his hearty appreciation on behalf of the team of the loyalty of the fellows. Manager Gardyne stated in a few words that he was sure of the success of the team. Dr. Marvin said that every team had a mascot and that he was the mascot of this team. He would do everything possible to keep the men in fighting trim with his medicine chest. Captain Reeves, chairman of the Athletic Committee, was called upon and was highly pleased with the spirit of the college in sending off the team with so great enthusiasm. He knew the team would prove themselves worthy. Each speaker was received with cheers and as the train pulled out a final "Old Vermont" was given. Levy and Baker led the cheering.

Practice has been conducted in the new cage since Feb. 22. This year the squad had a great advantage in having a cage with a full-sized dirt infield. More men were given a chance to show their ability than heretofore; the team was not picked during the winter before practice began as has sometimes been the case. The competition for positions has been keen and Coach Crowther did not announce the team until the day before the trip. The team was chosen from a cut squad of 24 candidates, several of whom will probably get a tryout before the end of the season.

Coach Crowther believes he has a first-class, dependable infield. Captain Mayforth behind the bat has played varsity ball for three years and is known as one of the best college backstops in New England. Merrill at the initial sack, played last year and was awarded his letter. He has developed considerable speed since last spring and is looked upon as a steady man for the first bag. Ridlon played second and short at Bates for two years and is by no means an inexperienced player. Linnehan has played two seasons at the third corner and is up to his usual form. Maiden has played three seasons at short stop. He is expected to excel with the stick. For the first 12 games last year, that is the southern games and the four succeeding contests, Mayforth batted for .277; Maiden .261; Linnehan .186. Merrill did not play until later in the season. This infield is expected to have a lot of life and form a strong defense. They know how to talk things up and show some real baseball, thinks Coach Crowther.

The outfield is made up of three men who have not yet played regular varsity ball. Swett has been on the squad two years, Brown three years, and Murnane has played at Brown University. Murnane has showed up especially well with the bat in the cage. Swett is a utility infielder and Brown a substitute catcher.

The pitching staff has been weakened because of scholastic difficulties of two pitchers. Gilbert has been on the squad for two years and made the southern trip last year. Spear, a southpaw, was a regular last year and one of the mainstays of the pitching staff. Upham has worked out for two years and has shown up well in the cage this winter. Batchelder is a new man in the box this year. He pitched for the freshman team last spring. The coach is well satisfied with the condition of the pitchers and says they have all developed good control.

Scholastic difficulties have kept two or three good men out of the game temporarily. Tennien, '15, a promising candidate was injured in the inter-class track meet a week ago and was thus prevented from taking the trip. These are expected to be back in the game after the Easter vacation however.

The new uniforms were bought from Chas. H. Dudley Co. They are three-piece uniforms with coat and are cream color, with green letters. The uniforms are of much better quality and appearance than those of last year.

The team will receive considerable publicity during the trip. A. N. Willis, '15, special press correspondent is reporting for the Burlington Free Press, Boston Globe, Boston Journal and the Brattleboro Reformer.

The coach made a short statement before the departure of the team, "The men are all in good condition and are among the cleanest college ballplayers I have ever met. They can play ball and I hope to see them do big things."

Captain Mayforth made a short statement: "The men have the best of fight and life; with the spirit in the college and the spirit in the team we simply must win."

The tentative batting order made out by Coach Crowther is as follows: Maiden s. s., Ridlon, 3b., Murnane f., Mayforth c., Linnehan 3b., Merrill 1b., Swett f., Brown f., Spear p., Gilbert p., Upham p., Batchelder p.

VOCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR WOMEN.

On Thursday evening, March 18, Miss Jackson of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, spoke to the college women at Grassmount. Her subject was "Vocational Opportunities for Women," with especial reference to their working out in the Union. She referred to Miss Parkhurst, '13, who is doing research work for the Union. To one desiring to know about advertising, home and school visiting, poultry raising, proofreading, interior decoration, lunch room business, catering, etc., bulletins will be sent for 10 cents by addressing the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, 264 Boylston Street, Boston.

The course of study leading to the degree of LL. B. extends over a period of three years. Students who have pursued one or two years in a law office may enter the second year class as a candidate for a diploma but not a degree.

SOUTHERN TRIP SATISFACTORY TO ROOTERS

3 WON—3 LOST

Team Dropped 1st Game to Trinity—
Came Back in 2nd—Lost at Guilford—Beat State League—Took Game from Elon—And Lost to Catholic University in a 10-Inning Struggle.

The first game of the southern trip was played against Trinity, and resulted in a defeat as reported in the CYNIC of that week.

The second Trinity game was played under very favorable conditions. The team had had time to get limbered up and have a thorough workout and the weather was ideal. Upham started for Vermont and pitched well until relieved by Spear. The latter was much steadier than in the first game, and held the Trinity batters safe while his teammates were hitting the Trinity pitchers freely.

Trinity played three pitchers, who proved ineffective against the heavy hitting of Vermont, and at no time was the game in doubt.

This game did much to give the team confidence and showed that it was capable of winning games against teams having the advantage of a month's practice. The score:

CRANE WILL EDIT THE CYNIC.

New Board Takes Office May 15—Several Changes in Organization—
C. S. Gates Manager.

CYNIC elections were held Tuesday afternoon, April 13. They included the editor-in-chief, the associate editor, and the three news editors, the manager and the two assistant managers. Assistant editors will be elected later. The new board goes into effect May 15.

E. F. Crane of Hardwick was elected editor-in-chief. Crane has served as assistant editor and news editor on the CYNIC, has had other experience in newspaper work and has been a literary writer on the staff of Ye Crabbe.

R. N. Pease of Burlington was elected associate editor. By vote of the board the title of managing editor was changed to associate editor as being more in accordance with his duties.

R. F. Joyce of Proctor, E. L. Chatterton of Rutland and R. G. Hawley of Jericho were elected news editors. There will be but one group of assistant editors during the coming year instead of a shift of three. This will reduce the number and consequently make a better selection possible, will permit each news editor to use the same group instead of his own particular group and will thus give everybody an opportunity to judge the respective merits of the other man.

C. D. Gates of Burlington was elected manager. A. W. Rutter of Burlington and M. H. Arms of Burlington were elected assistant managers.

It was further voted to have the assistant editors elected by the old and new editors-in-chief, associate editors and news editors instead of by the whole board as these are the only men who know the work that the candidates have done.

MAKING PLANS FOR LARGE SUMMER SCHOOL

CHEAP RATES CONSPICUOUS

Faculty of Noted Experts—Strong Courses in Art, Music and Public Speaking.

The summer school number of the Vermont Bulletin has come out during the past week. The committee in charge of the 1915 summer school, consisting of J. F. Messenger, director, G. G. Groat, A. F. Hawes and E. C. Jacobs have made careful plans for a large summer school conducted along the extensive lines of the school of last summer. The school will be in session July 5 to August 13. It is intended that the session this summer be primarily a school for teachers. Admission, credits, tuition and board and room will be the same as last year. Converse Hall will be open, and 10 dollars pays the room rent for the entire six weeks. Board will be furnished at Commons Hall at four dollars per week. Tuition is 15 dollars for a single course or 25 for as many as a person wishes to take. The bulletin shows many beautiful cuts of the campus, buildings and surrounding views and thus suggests something of the wonderful scenery which Burlington affords during the summer especially. Entertainments and public lectures will break any monotony of the class room which might arise throughout the session. Nearly all of these will be free to students. The list of these attractions will be announced later, but the Coburn Players will give three performances, and Rudolph Larsen will be one of the performers. A Sunday school workers' institute will be held at the University July 12 to 16. For information regarding this address Rev. Charles A. Boyd, 123 Loomis street, Burlington, Vt.

The faculty as announced by the bulletin is an exceptionally strong one, and a splendid opportunity will be afforded those attending to study under teachers of such talent.

The faculty is as follows:

Guy Potter Benton, LL. D., President.

J. Franklin Messenger, Ph. D., Director of Summer School and Professor of Education.

Wellington E. Aiken, A. M., Assistant Professor of English.

William B. Aspenwall, Ph. D., Principal Massachusetts State Normal School, Worcester.

Josephine V. Baker, Instructor in Penmanship.

Scott Clifton Carbee, Instructor in Art.

PIKE ANNOUNCES

Y. M. C. A. CABINET.

Report on Presidents' Conference.

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Tuesday night, Pike reported on the annual conference of Eastern College Association Presidents held this year at Springfield, Mass. In order to make the Y. M. C. A. a success, he said, it is necessary to get the spirit of the student body behind the Y. M. C. A. At Dartmouth the men go to the Y. M. C. A. rather than wait for it to call them. In the publicity department alone 18 freshmen are working.

The following cabinet officers were named for this year: Seaver, handbook; chairman religious committee, Seaver; Bible study, Ransom; deputization, Piper; new students, Abell; membership, Williams; missionary, Hitchcock; industrial, Jones; music, Moore; finance, Isham; general office secretary, Buchanan.

PLATTSBURG SITE OF STUDENTS' MILITARY CAMP

Another Record Delegation Wanted by Vermont—Sources of Information.

Last year, as a result of the hard work and wide advertising on the part of those in the University, who are interested in the military camp movement, the delegation from Vermont, at the student camp, was the largest, in proportion to the size of the college, of any institution represented. This year the camp is to be near the Plattsburgh Barracks, across the lake, and another record delegation is sought.

The site is a gentle slope about 100 yards from the shore of the lake, thus giving ample opportunity for rowing and swimming, and at the same time, it is close enough to the foothills of the Adirondacks to furnish an admirable terrain for practice in minor tactics.

The city of Plattsburgh is about a mile and a half from the camp site; Hotel Champlain at Bluff Point is but a short distance north of the city; and the post rifle range, which the student corps will use, is only a half mile away from the camp.

The camp commander will be Capt. Robert O. Van Horn, U. S. A., whose tour of duty with the 30th Infantry began only a short time ago. Last year while on the General Staff, he was in charge of all the camps in the country. He is a very congenial officer and knows students from the ground up.

Students who desire to attend this summer's camp can obtain information and application blanks from any of last year's members, or from R. W. Daniels, the local secretary of the So—

MEDICAL COLLEGE HAS LONG AND HONORABLE HISTORY

First Classes in 1809—Pioneer Workers and Early Struggles—Always Kept to the Front.

The University has in the College of Medicine one of the oldest institutions of the kind in the United States. So early as 1809 anatomy and surgery were taught, but the first regular and full course of lectures was not given until the fall of 1822. The college continued in its work, graduating 116 students, until 1836, when owing to the death of some of the leading professors and because of the want of students, the faculty resolved to abandon the enterprise. At this time the College of Medicine had a building of its theater had a seating capacity for over 300 students. The old building was also made use of for laboratory work. The existence of the Medical College at present is due in large part to the unflagging and tireless energy of Dr. John Pomeroy, Jr. Benjamin Lincoln, Dr. S. W. Thayer, and more recently Dean H. E. Tinkham. These men, unmindful of self, and inspired by love of the old and honorable "college on the hill" have, reckless of the cost to themselves expended time, effort, and money upon this institution. The same may be said of many of the other professors past and present. The course of lectures has varied considerably in length. In 1895 the course was increased from 20 weeks to six months, the term beginning the first week in January. In 1897 a four years' course of study, under a graded system, was made a requisite for graduation.

DR. H. C. TINKHAM, DEAN.

own at the south end of the College Green. The college was reorganized and successfully reestablished in 1853, owing chiefly to the untiring energy and zealous enthusiasm of Dr. S. W. Thayer, then a practitioner at Northfield. The first effort was made by him in 1840, but not until 1853 was the definite step taken. The progress of the college from this time on was steady and continuous. The growth soon required a larger building, so a sum was raised and the old building at the head of Main Street was materially enlarged. But this did not answer for long, and in 1870 the citizens of Burlington raised an additional sum of $2,500 in order to add a wing and increase the seating capacity of the two lecture rooms. A new dissecting room was added. The old building was finally outgrown, and in 1884, through the generosity of John P. Howard, who gave $50,000 for the purpose, a larger building was secured upon the site of the present building. The new amphitheater had a seating capacity for over 300 students. The old building was also made use of for laboratory work.

The relation of the college to the University was chiefly nominal up to 1899. It was then reorganized and made a coordinate department of the University, under the control of the Board of Trustees, and its facilities, both for teaching and study, were materially increased. New rooms and improved apparatus were added, and additional apparatus secured. In 1903 the course was lengthened to seven months, and in 1907 to seven and one-half months, giving 30 weeks of actual instruction. In December, 1903, the building which had been occupied by the department for 20 years was destroyed by fire. A new building was begun in August, 1904, and completed in January, 1906. The faculty of the College of Medicine was reorganized in 1911, and the department made an integral part of the University system. The number of full time instructors has recently been increased and the total staff now exceeds 40. Each year has witnessed large accessions to the equipment and teaching facilities. With the opening of the college year 1912, the entrance requirements were raised to one year of collegiate work, and the college year made equal in length to that of the academic colleges. A new epoch in the history of the Medical College was reached when the Carnegie Foundation in 1914 made a report to the Vermont Educational Commission which was unfavorable to further state aid and in fact quite openly aimed at its decess. However, the storm is being weathered well, and the institution has been maintained at the highest rating by the medical authorities of the United States. The people of the State are beginning to realize the value of the college to the State, and this understanding will obviate any injury the institution has received from the unfavorable report. In fact there is little doubt but that the report has reacted favorably, through showing the State what it has and bringing the College of Medicine to the foremost where it needs fear nothing.

The College of Medicine, because of its high standing in the medical world, its worth to the people of the State, its splendid service to the nation as a whole—which few people have paused to realize—and because of its time-honored past and venerable age, deserves to be placed near the head of all such institutions in the United States, and is one of the strongest colleges of the University.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN TO SEND DELEGATES.

A short business meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held Wednesday night, April 7. Doctor Appellmann and F. N. Raymond, '16, were chosen as delegates to represent the Vermont Verein at the conference of the International League of German Clubs which will be held April 17 at New Haven, Conn.

VERMONT GIRLS CHALLENGE MIDDLEBURY.

Tennis, Baseball and Volleyball Teams to be Organized. Mrs. Stone called a meeting of the representative girls of all the classes interested in athletics Wednesday afternoon at the Howard Hall gymnasium. Much enthusiasm was aroused for out-of-door sports by speeches; Miss Howe and Miss Baker spoke of the opportunities for a good tennis team, of the serious training and loyal spirit necessary to support the challenge of the Vermont Girls' Athletic Association to the girls of Middlebury for a tournament in June. Miss Votey's and Miss Cobb's talks started interest in baseball, and the mention of the defeat last spring by the high school girls rallied a determined volleyball team. The following committees were appointed to take charge of the different games: Tennis: Miss Miller, Miss Howe, Miss Cobb. Baseball: Miss Fiske, Miss Votey, Miss Parker, Miss Mildred Chapin.

Volleyball: Miss Rose, Miss Maxfield, Miss Helen Chapin. Miss Constance Votey was appointed delegate from the association to go to Middlebury to make arrangements for the coming tournament. There will be an important business meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association April 20 at 4:15 p. m., Howard Hall gymnasium.

BIG SQUAD OUT FOR "POMANDER WALK"

Three Coaches—Elaborate Setting—
Tickets Sold on Voucher Plan—
Alumnus is Writing New Play.

Preparations for "Pomander Walk," the play scheduled for junior week, by the Wig and Buskin Society, are progressing smoothly and rapidly. The competition for the various parts is good. There are many young ladies competing, nine being out for the part of "Marjolaine" alone. At the time of the men's tryouts on Tuesday and the women's on Wednesday, the squad had not been fully cut.

Professor Tupper and Mr. Schneider of the faculty are assisting Coach Gage in selecting the cast. After the selection, Mr. Gage will have entire charge. The cast will be all picked by Monday and from then on the coach will reserve weeks for rehearsals.

Malcolm, Mills and Elrick constitute the committee in charge of the complex setting. They are ably assisted by Mr. Hugh Thompson and Miss Helen Benton. The plans are drawn and the work will soon be under way.

During the week preceding junior week, a trip is planned to Rutland and Brattleboro. For the first time in years tickets for the home presentation will be sold on the voucher system in vogue at kake walk time. The various societies will co-operate in this. R. G. Ramsdell, '09, who wrote "William Warren's Welcome," is at work now on a new play for the college. This will be presented next year. Such a spirit as this on the part of the alumni is warmly appreciated by everyone on the hill.

ONE OF BEST ENTERTAINMENTS IN SERIES FURNISHED BY DUNBAR QUARTETTE.

The ninth entertainment in the University's Redpath series, held on Thursday evening, April 8, was attended by a large audience. The Dunbar Quartette was the drawing card, and it proved to be one of the best entertainments of the series. The program was well balanced, consisting of solos, string trio, bell-ringing and vocal quartette. Every number was repeatedly encored. One of the soloists in his encores brought down the house with his "clevah" impersonations of the bored Englishman and the Italian boy. The accompanist and the bell-ringing deserve especial mention. The finale, "Sunday morning in London," with church bells, chimes, and the mellow "Amen," well merited the long applause which it received.

REPORTS OF A LIVE

JUNIOR WEEK.

Plans for Junior Week are progressing rapidly. The junior banquet, scheduled for Monday night of that week, is practically arranged for; the prom committee has the most novel idea for the event that was ever put forth; the junior week play, "Pomander Walk," is well under way; fraternities are on the qui vive hiring music for the Wednesday night dances; the peerade committee is working overtime, and the general committee is industry personified. The 1916 Junior Week promises to be a real event.

VERMONT WINS LAST MATCH.

Has Dropped Only One—Ends Season in Third Place.

Another rifle season has come to a close at Vermont. The result of the ninth and last match was another victory 964 to 930 over Worcester Polytechnic Institute. North Georgia Agricultural College finished first in class B league with an aggregate score of 8699. Pennsylvania came second, 8539 and Vermont third 8514. Vermont tied with the winner in number of matches won and lost.

Vol. 32 April 17. No. 28

After the Southern Trip.

The southern trip is now over and Vermont is close to its northern schedule. The college did well to send the team south this year. What is expected in return? For one thing it is expected that the team will practice. Last year's team did not, and the University took the consequences. No one blames a team which does the best it can, and no one knows the faults of last year better than the players themselves. The college has confidence that this year they will pull together, work conscientiously, and try to remedy them. Of course no one pretends to know why there was so little work last year between games, why there were no second string men or why they wouldn't have been given a show if there had been, why there was not the ghost of a second team against which to practice, or why the coach refused to demand anything of the players. Everyone knows that nothing will please the students more, save the winning of games, than to see two squads out all the season, see some good hard work put in and every man given a fair, just show.

Class Reunions.

Now that spring is once more in the air it is time for alumni to set their faces toward the hill and begin their planning for the Commencement season. The world sent back more men and women last year than ever before in the University's history. They were more enthusiastic and laid better plans for the future. Last year's record must be broken—a big start was made. Profession should be the watchword. The dates are June 26 to 30. Class reunions will be held by the classes of 1865, 1890, 1900, 1905, 1910 and 1914.

No Room for Them in College Papers.

The National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association has been offering to supply editorial matter to college papers. A certain state university reports that an article was submitted labeled "Editorial No. 1," with the word that other editorials would follow. The student editor promptly rejected the contribution in language, it is said, impossible of more than one interpretation.

The above is a press paragraph from the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The CYNIC, like other publications, has been receiving a stream of liquor literature. The CYNIC has never taken any notice of it nor have the editors even seen it mentioned in any other college paper. Its fallacies, its absurdities, its slanders, its obvious manipulations and bickerings over trivialities, its absolute worthlessness as an appeal to thinking men would bar it from consideration even if its cause did not. Suppose, for instance, that the CYNIC should strive to instruct and edify its readers with proof positive like the following liquor argument:

"Ellicottville, N. Y., has an 'honesty rating' of only 20 per cent. according to an experiment by Walter H. Moffitt, a newspaper manager. Moffitt recently gave 25 dimes to a department store, leaving instructions that an extra dime was to be given to the first 25 purchasers. Five men pocketed the change without counting; fifteen bolted for the door, and only five reminded clerks they had received ten cents change too much.

It is interesting—very interesting—to note that Ellicottville is a "dry" town and according to Prohibition logic, goodness, righteousness and honesty ought to be about 100 per cent. there."

The Major (?) Sport.

The CYNIC has noticed that it is customary for the University to advertise baseball as its major sport. A statement to the effect that "baseball is the major sport," may be found in the various magazine advertisements. Baseball of course is the major sport in the sense that it is developed most, but football is also a major sport. Throughout the college world certain sports are recognized as major sports, and football is one of them. To say that Vermont's major sport is baseball might give the impression that football was not played at all. Anyway, the statement doesn't tend to bring football aspirants to Vermont.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of VERMONT CYNIC:—

Vermont has been complaining about lack of funds for athletics. Why is not the football and baseball schedule arranged so as to make money?

The football team should play an annual game in some city of size on Thanksgiving day. A good start was made with Holy Cross last season. Why was not a game scheduled with the same college for next fall? Or why not a Thanksgiving game with Union at this city?

Most of the financing of athletics in small institutions is accomplished in this way.

An annual game in a good sized city with a college team of reputation will do more to put Vermont on its financial feet than any other method.

The attendance for the first two years might not be encouraging but once the public realizes it is the "Big Game" between the respective institutions, then interest is aroused and the attendance will bring in a tidy sum if played 50-50 net basis.

An interested party in Vermont athletics.

1905.

PRESS COMMENT

Unfair Criticism of Instructors.

How often does one hear some student speak depreciatingly of some teacher, somewhat cynically and yet thoughtlessly criticising his method of instructing, his tiresome manner of lecturing, or his unpleasant peculiarities. Such a student has merely allowed himself to get into such a habit.

It is not implied that there are no instructors who are subject to criticism. But it is not criticism of such instructors that is here referred to. It is criticism of the able and valuable instructor who unfortunately has some objectionable peculiarity, some objectionable mannerism, some at times tiresome hobby, or some infirmity. Those who criticise such persons are not constructively criticising and are not benefiting themselves, the school, or the instructor. Indeed they are putting themselves unthinkingly in an attitude towards such an instructor as to prevent themselves from securing from his course and from the instructor himself the most that can be secured.

If they would but look below the surface and learn to disregard the evidence of peculiarities and objectionable mannerisms and infirmities, and look rather to the deep thoughts the man is expressing and consider the store of experience and reading and thought from which he is drawing his thoughts they would finish the course with far more learning and with a feeling that they had accomplished that which they intended to accomplish by taking the course.—Daily Texan.

Prof. and Student.

In view of the recent agitation in favor of a closer relationship between students and faculty at the University, it is interesting to quote the words of the dean of men at the University of Illinois, whose position and long service lends weight to the remarks.

"A more profitable relationship between the American undergraduate and college professor, will not come, it seems to me, until we choose college professors in a different way or for different reasons. In most colleges the members of the faculty are collected now too largely because they are scholars, and not because they love to teach, or that they are likely to be interested in the people whom they teach. They are men interested too frequently in their subjects, and in publication, and not in the process of teaching or the taught."

Fortunately, Kansas has not many of the kind alluded to. There are some, of course, but that is unavoidable. One faculty member refused flatfootedly to talk to a student about his work, saying that he did not care to waste his time. Occasional incidents like this hurt the entire faculty.—The Daily Kansan.

800 Students Take Part in Athletics.

The manner in which the students of the University of Kentucky are taking part in athletics is an effective answer to the argument that athletics in American colleges are confined to a limited number.

It is estimated that 800 of the 1,400 enrolled are taking part in some kind of physical exercise. The regular gymnasium classes enrol 610 and it is estimated that 100 more come to the gymnasium every day for exercise.

The swimming classes, which will be opened in the Spring, and those in boxing and wrestling are expected to bring out many more.

Intercollegiate and interclass athletic men are divided as follows: Football 50, track 30, basketball 42, baseball 60, teams 20. Besides these are 240 engaged in the military art.—The Tar Heel.

The students of the University of Washington are up in arms over a bill to be submitted to the State legislature which will advocate the abolition of intercollegiate sports.

The students characterize the action as "freak" legislation and "cheap scheme to gain publicity" and are almost unanimous in their disapproval of the proposed measure. The bill would do away with all athletic contests between state schools in Washington, and with other colleges without the boundaries of the state.

The director of physical training at the school said that intercollegiate athletics hurt the students in their development. He would have regular exercise substituted.

Coaches of the Washington institution refuse to discuss the bill.—Arizona Life.

Cornell University Has Big Per Cent. of Athletes.

At Cornell University all but 30 are engaged in some form of athletics according to statistics recently furnished by the director of the physical training there. This is a percentage of over 92.5 per cent. of the undergraduates.

According to the statistics the most popular of the many branches of athletics indulged in by the students are track and tennis, although the other lines of sport are also patronized to a large extent.—The Daily Californian.

SENIORS PROVE STATE APPROPRIATION NOT RIGHT

In the senior debate held last Friday, Edgerton and Dean of the affirmative defeated Sturgis and Dow on the negative side of the question: Resolved, That the present system of State appropriations to institutions of higher learning should be changed.

ANNUAL MEETINGS OF VT. ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS

Western N. Y. and Western—Both Attended by Mr. Austin and Prof. Tupper.

The annual meeting of the Vermont Alumni Association of Western New York was held at the University Club in Buffalo on Thursday evening, April 8. Mr. James Dana Allen of the class of 1893 was the presiding officer and about 25 men were present. The hall was tastefully decorated with the Vermont colors, green and gold. Much real Vermont enthusiasm and spirit was shown at the meeting, which did not adjourn till well after midnight. All of the principal Vermont songs were sung. The speeches were few in number, the two important ones being given by the guest of the evening, the Hon. Warren R. Austin of St. Albans and Prof. Frederick Tupper, Jr., of the University. Mr. Austin gave an account of the founding of the University, showing that it was in its inception a public institution. Prof. Tupper brought a message from the campus and discussed the urgent necessity of resistance on the part of the college men to the mob spirit of the present. Mr. Fred Wright's account of the origin of the Vermont mascot was given and occasioned much amusement.

Western Alumni Association.

The annual meeting of the Western Alumni Association was held at the Hardware Club in Chicago at 6:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, April 10. About the same number were present as at the Buffalo meeting and the enthusiasm ran fully as high. The toastmaster was Mr. Robert C. Sattley, '79, the president of the association. The guests and principal speakers of the evening were the Hon. Warren Austin and Prof. Tupper. Among the alumni present at the meeting was the Rev. Simeon Gilbert, one of the oldest alumni, since he graduated in 1854. Only one or two alumni who graduated before 1850 are still living.

MAKING PLANS FOR LARGE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Samuel Silas Curry, Ph. D., Litt. D., President Curry School of Expression.
Samuel Franklin Emerson, Ph. D., Professor of History.

Walter Ballou Jacobs, M. A., Professor of Education, Brown University.

Floyd B. Jenks, B. S., Professor of Agricultural Education.

Robert T. Kerlin, Ph. D., Professor of English Literature, Virginia Military Institute.

Martha Filber Kling, Instructor in Drawing.

Alfred Larson, Instructor in Violin.
Rudolph Larsen, Instructor in Violin.

William S. Monroe, A. B., Professor of Psychology and Pedagogy, State Normal School, Montclair, N. J.

Edmund Curtis Mower, A. M., LL. B., Lecturer on International Law.

John W. Nichols, Instructor in Vocal Music.

Mrs. John W. Nichols, Assistant Instructor in Piano.

Henry F. Perkins, Ph. D., Professor of Zoology.

Charles Lee Tracy, Instructor in Piano.

The departments of art, music and public speaking are especially strong. Mr. Carbee is an artist of national reputation and a successful teacher. For the past 10 years he has taught in Boston. He studied in Paris under Bongulreau, Ferrier and Délécluse, and in Florence under Max Bohn. He has exhibited his work in the Paris Salon and in other large exhibitions.

Regarding the Larsens, father and son, of the department of music: Mr. Alfred Larsen received his musical education in Copenhagen, where he studied the violin with several of the best teachers, but principally with Ferri Henriques, Scandanavia's most celebrated violinist, and one of the foremost pupils of the great Joseph Joachim. Regarding Mr. Rudolph Larsen: Mr. Rudolph Larsen will return next summer from St. Petersburg, where he has been two years finishing his violin studies under Leopold Auer, who is acknowledged to be the world's greatest living teacher of the violin. Mr. Auer has complimented Mr. Larson very highly and has predicted a noted career for him.

Regarding Charles Lee Tracy, instructor in piano: Mr. Tracy is one of the well known piano teachers of New York. He is a certified Leschitzky exponent, and has fulfilled the expectations of his famous teachers. Mrs. Nichols is a talented pupil of Mr. Tracy and of the Royal College of Music in London. Concerning John W. Nichols, instructor in vocal music: Mr. Nichols is a well known tenor singer and teacher of voice culture in New York. He has studied under Carl Dufft, New York, Edward Ibs, London, Jean de Reszke, Paris, and Isadore Blaggorth, Florence.

Dr. S. S. Curry of the department of speaking and expression needs no introduction to those who attended last year, and his department will be a strong one, as it was at that time.

MILITARY DEPT. OPENS A BUSY SPRING SEASON.

Annual Inspection Program—Band Promotions—Rifle Range Opened—Battalion Men Eligible for Federal Officer Certificates.

The following program of events will be carried out at the annual Federal inspection of the military department of the University, May 26 and 27, subject to the approval of Capt. S. J. Bayard Schindel, General Staff, U. S. Army, the officer designated by the War Department to make the inspection:

MAY 26.

(a) 8:30 a. m.—Battalion review, Major Daniels commanding battalion.

(b) 8:45 a. m.—Battalion inspection.

(c) 9:15 a. m.—Battalion parade with ceremony of Escort of the Color. (Company B).

(d) 10:00 a. m.—Guard Mounting. (Company C—new guard—Company D—old guard) and posting and relieving sentries.

(e) 10:45 a. m.—Butts' Manual by Battalion.

11:00 a. m.—Bayonet exercises by Battalion.

11:15 a. m.—Company extended order drill.

11:45 a. m.—School of the squad and inspection of special units (Attached Sanitary Troops and Signal Corps).

1:30 p. m.—Field problem in attack and defense.

5:00 p. m.—Recall.

8:00 p. m.—Military Tournament inside Gymnasium Annex.

8:05 p. m.—Company C.

8:30 p. m.—Company D.

8:55 p. m.—Company A.

9:20 p. m.—Company B.

9:45 p. m.—Attached Sanitary Troops and Signal Detachment.

MAY 27.

The morning of May 27 will be devoted to any unfinished part of the program for the day previous and any additional events that may be required by the inspector.

The following promotions have been made in the Battalion Band: To be chief musician, Bertram E. Adams, vice C. M. Bosworth, resigned; to be principal musician, F. R. Churchill, vice B. E. Adams, promoted; to be sergeants, Corporals W. A. Best, '17, and W. A. Tennien, '17.

The rifle range was opened last Saturday and many students are taking advantage of this opportunity for getting some outdoor target practice. Every student taking the military course is required to fire at least 60 rounds on the range, before the spring term is closed.

The following extract is taken from a communication from the War Department dated March 25:

"The Secretary of War has approved the issue of the following certificate to all graduates of military schools and colleges and institutions having military departments who can conform to the requirements laid down:

"This is to certify that _____, a graduate from _____ has successfully completed the prescribed course in its military department, and having demonstrated his military capacity by examination, is recommended by the _____ and Professor of Military Science and Tactics at _____ as qualified mentally, morally and physically for appointment as a _____ of volunteers or reserves, and that this recommendation has been made of record in the War Department.

"In order that a record of this certificate may remain on the files of the War Department, the recipient is required to keep the Adjutant General of the Army advised of any change in permanent address.

SECRETARY OF WAR."

"Before this certificate can be obtained, an examination, both written and practical, will be required.

"Certain questions as to the examination requirements must be settled before uniform and suitable qualifications for college, university and military school graduates can be prescribed.

"These questions can not be decided at once, and it is also believed that some institutions may desire to make changes in their schedules or in the methods of instruction to meet these new requirements. Hence the issue of these certificates will not commence until the end of the academic year 1915-16."

As it can be seen from this communication of the Secretary, any student who passes the course in military science and is able to pass the special examination, will receive a certificate from the War Department. This will give him a certain rank as an officer in case of war.

VERMONT IS VICE-PRESIDENT OF N. E. CONFEDERATION OF AGRIC. COLLEGES.

(Club Advocates Putting Fees on Term Bills—Delegate Elected.

A meeting of the Agricultural Club was held at Morrill Hall, Tuesday evening, April 13. The meeting was opened with a business session at which several important questions were brought up. A letter from the secretary of the New England Confederation of Agricultural Colleges, requesting a delegate to be sent to Amherst for the annual meeting of the Confederation to be held Saturday, April 17, was read. It was voted to send a delegate, and W. C. Wood, '16, was elected to serve. A plan for the rotation of the officers of the Confederation among the different colleges for the next five years, which was included in the same letter was favorably discussed. This plan gives Vermont the office of vice-president for the coming year, and the club elected W. T. Abell, '16, of St. Albans, to be nominated as delegate for said office. The club treasurer, Billings, '18, reported that the club was somewhat in debt and a tax of $1.00 for the second semester was voted. This tax may be paid to the treasurer or to Hayden, '15, Buchanan, '16, Churchill, '17, or Briggs, '18. The matter of having a sufficient tax put on the term bills of all agricultural students to provide money to send the judging teams was discussed. Several spoke favorably in regard to such an action, stating that inasmuch as the teams represented the Agricultural College rather than just the club, and since they believed that such contests had a relationship to the Agricultural College similar to the relationship of athletic contests to the University, that the teams should be supported in a similar manner through the medium of the term bills. It was urged that these contests had even a stronger hold for such support, in that they were distinctly educational, and moreover that an agricultural student had a much better chance to make one of these teams, than the average student of the University has to make an athletic team. The club voted to stand back of such an action.

A literary meeting followed at which Hitchcock, '17, read a somewhat abbreviated but very good Vermont chronicle; Buchanan gave a clever local reading, and an open discussion regarding the relative merits of the Guernsey and Ayrshire breeds of cattle was engaged in by the club members. Refreshments of roasted peanuts were served before adjournment.

THE RAWEIS OR NEW ZEALAND.

Entertain with Pictures of Native Life.

Monday evening, April 12, the 11th of the Redpath series took place at the gymnasium, the Raweis of New Zealand being the entertainers of the evening. Mr. Rawei gave a very interesting description of the New Zealand of 60 years ago, describing the country, the people, their costumes, houses, ceremonies, etc. Mrs. Rawei was then introduced and exhibited specimens of the native cloth, telling of the material and the manner in which they were made. The lecture was accompanied by lantern slides showing pictures of the natives, their houses, canoes and idols, and also several beautiful views of the country. Native songs were also enjoyed. The last slides showed New Zealand as it is today, a country well developed and far advanced in Occidental civilization.

riving in Guilford, a two mile ride was taken to the college which is a quaker institution. Here was found one of the fastest teams in the South, one which claimed the championship last year. Several of the players had had experience in the State league which would bar them from playing in most northern institutions. Shore, the Red Sox find, hails from here and pitched for Guilford last year. The game was very exciting, Vermont taking the lead with three runs early in the game, but Murchison, the Guilford twirler, tightened up and, due to hitting and some loose work by the Vermont infield, Guilford managed to put over six runs, which remained the final score.

GUILFORD.

The next morning found the team up at five to catch an early train for Raleigh, the state capital, where the league team was to be played. Here was found a strong team led by Earl Mack, son of the famous manager of the Athletics. The team serves as a farm for the American League Champions and a hard fight was expected. Gilbert started badly, allowing several hits and giving three runs, but soon tightened and did not allow further scoring until the last session. Vermont hit the ball hard and scored every inning, forcing the use of three pitchers. Manager Mack was much impressed by the team and called it one of the strongest college aggregations that he had seen. The final score was 14 to 5 in Vermont's favor.

relieved him, and the change worked for six strikeouts in the last three innings. The game was not played in very fast style, and the team did not show the same fight which they displayed at Raleigh. The score of 8 to 6 does not show the relative strength of the two teams.

The college is a Lutheran institution, having about 400 students. During the game there was some cause for dispute, but after the contest, the southerners strove to out-do each other in entertaining, and their treatment was full of the courtesy for which the South is famed.

Having taken a sleeper at Greensboro, after playing Elon, the team arrived in Washington early in the forenoon. The day was spent in sight-seeing and resting for the coming contest with Catholic University. The latter proved to be fairly strong, having several very good men, including Donnelly, the old Vermont catcher and Fahey, the Holy Cross pitcher, but the day was so cold that accurate play was next to impossible, although Vermont had 21 assists in the 10 innings, Catholic University won by hard hitting in which Donnelly featured. In the 10th, with two men down and the bases full, White singled and the game was over. Score 9 to 8.

PRES. BENTON TO ADDRESS WORLD'S CONGRESS.

and Experiment Stations, of which Dean Hills is secretary and member of the executive committee; and representatives of foreign educational institutions and associations, invited by Doctor P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education.

President Benton has been appointed to address this World's Educational Congress on the subject "Higher Education in America the Business of the State." This address will be delivered on the opening day of the Congress.

The colleges throughout the country are sending exhibits to this great Educational Congress. The exhibit from the University of Vermont, under the management of Professor G. P. Burns and A. F. Hawes, has already been sent. It consists of pine seedlings, with demonstrations of the effect produced upon them by the air, earth, water, etc.

Thus, it will be seen that the Green Mountain University will have its share in the work of the Great Educational Congress of the World, and the very fact that the University of Vermont has lately been experiencing a great educational crisis so that many other states have been keeping close watch of her development, will tend to give her exceptional prestige in this great event on the Pacific coast.

in Association Rooms.

Friday, April 9, Miss Marjorie Wright of Middlebury College reported on the Lake Forest Conference, where the new membership basis was discussed. Miss Wright attended this conference as a delegate from Middlebury and Vermont. Every association except Texas was represented. After the meeting the annual election of officers took place, resulting in the following officers for 1916: President, Lucy Swift, '16; vice-president, Clara Gardner, '16; secretary, Daisy Stewart, '17; treasurer, Jennie Maxfield, '17.

During the Easter vacation a great surprise was prepared in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. New draperies were hung, pictures were added, and a large window seat built in. A bulletin board was also provided. Every door and sill was thoroughly cleaned. This work was in charge of Mary Loomis, assisted by Irene Ballou, Gladys Flint, Blanche and Lilla Montgomery.

The course of study leading to the degree of LL. B. extends over a period of three years. Students who have pursued one or two years in a law office may enter the second year class as a candidate for a diploma but not a degree.

The high standard of the school and the facilities which the city affords with its legislature, courts and library, offer unequalled opportunity for a thorough and practical training.

FOUNDER'S DAY CELEBRATED NEXT SATURDAY

TO HONOR PROF. GOODRICH

Address by Dean Perkins—Undergraduate Speakers, Sturges and Wilcox—Honor Society Elections Announced.

Plans for Founder's Day next Saturday, May 1, are nearing completion. The day will be spent largely as a memorial to Professor Goodrich, the founder of the custom. The Oration will be delivered by Dean G. H. Perkins of the College of Arts and Sciences on a subject to be announced later. The student speakers are: Sturges, '15, whose subject is "College Life," and M. L. Wilcox, '16, whose subject will be "John Ellsworth Goodrich."

It is probable that there will be a dress parade by the University battalion before the exercises begin. This will be followed by the address at the Boulder to the old and new Boulder men by President Benton, after which the University will march to the Gym where sections will be set aside for the various academic classes, the medical men, faculty, battalion and guests.

The program for the exercises is as follows:

Music by orchestra.

Psalter.

Prayer.

Ode by choir.

Address by W. A. Sturges, '15.

Address by M. L. Wilcox, '16.

Song by choir and students.

Oration by Dean G. H. Perkins, College Arts and Sciences.

Latin Ode, choir and students.

Benediction.

During the exercises the Boulder and Key and Serpent men will be announced. Directly after the exercises there will come the competitive interclass singing contest for the Lyman cup now held by the Junior class. The singing will take place as last year around Lafayette statue.

The usher list, consisting of Hunt, '15, Wood, '16, Williams, '16, Metcalf, '17, Stillwell, '17, Hackett, '17, Thomas, '17, Brookes, '17, Lewis, '17, Jones, '17, has been posted.

It is requested that every student help make this the biggest Founder's Day Vermont has ever had.

3 GAMES THIS WEEK.

Vermont meets Syracuse next Wednesday at 4 o'clock for the first home game of the season. Colgate comes on Friday, and on Saturday Vermont goes to Middlebury.

CLASS DAY SPEAKERS CHOSEN.

Committees on Permanent Organization and Commencement Week Appointed.

At the senior class meeting which was held on Thursday, April 22, the following members of the class were chosen to take part in the commencement exercises: Ivy Oration, M. D. Powers; Class History, J. S. Hunt; Campus Oration, M. H. Davis; Address to Undergraduates, E. S. Hayden; Class Poem, Miss Mary Lavelle. There was no choice in the election for Pipe Orator and Class Essayist, and these will be elected at the next class meeting, which will probably be held on Thursday of next week. At the meeting of the Boulder Society, Monday night of this week, L. W. Dean was elected to give the Boulder oration.

C. S. Ferrin, W. A. Sturges, W. E. Remby, Miss M. McMahon and Miss H. Benton were elected members of a committee on the permanent organization of the class. In accordance with a motion, President Mayforth appointed Hunt, Fisk and Ballard members of a committee to look into the cost of the class banner to be placed in the library. The following Senior class committee has been appointed by President Mayforth: D. D. Grandy, chairman, P. H. Aldrich, J. B. Johnson, A. D. Meyers, medic, F. H. Platt, medic, Miss Irene Barrett, Miss Edith Gates.

SOPHOMORE HOP PROCLAIMED A BIG SUCCESS

Order of 20 Dances—Gym Decorations—Committee in Charge.

The first formal college dance of the year was the annual Sophomore Hop given by the class of 1917 in the Gymnasium on Friday evening, April 16. The Hop was attended by 91 couples and was one of the most successful in years. At about 8:30, after a concert of three selections, the grand march, led by H. O. Wilbur and Miss Edith Holdstock, president and vice-president of the class, took place, after which an order of 20 dances was carried out. Music was furnished by Taplin's orchestra of nine pieces. The chaperons were President and Mrs. Benton, Hon. and Mrs. Elias Lyman, and Captain and Mrs. Reeves. The gymnasium was tastefully, but not profusely decorated, with green vines, which were wound around the beams and railings, also potted plants, palms and cut-flowers were used. The orchestra was placed at the west end of the hall and the chaperones' booth at the east end.

RIFLE SEASON PUTS VERMONT IN CLASS A

FINNESSY NEXT YEAR'S CAPT.

Comparative Standing of Vt. Shooters—Standing of the Intercollegiate Clubs—College and Individual Records in Classes A, B and C.

The end of the intercollegiate indoor gallery season this year finds the U. V. M. Rifle Team in a gratifying position. It exhibits the team as tying in the B League with North Georgia Agricultural College, the winner, in the number of matches won and lost and third in the aggregate score. The aggregate scores of the three highest in aggregate scores were as follows: North Georgia Agricultural College, 8,699; Pennsylvania, 8,539; Vermont, 8,514. Steady progress has been made from the time the Rifle Club was organized in 1912. Last year, the second year of its existence, the Vermont Club was placed in the second, or "B" class of the league, and this third year has ended with a placement in Class A. Vermont, this year has won matches from Dartmouth, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Maine, Princeton and Worcester Polytechnic; losing only to the high scorer, North Georgia Agricultural College. This showing has been due in large part to the diligence of the members of the team and their perseverance, and most of them will remain next year.

The aggregate scores of the members of the team, the number of matches participated in, and the averages for the season are as follows:

Name	Aggregate	Number of Matches	Average
E. N. Washburn	1680	9	186.6
J. J. Finnessy	1722	9	191.3
R. R. Bogie	1677	9	186.3
R. W. Daniels	1106	6	184.3
Frank Corley	1331	7	190.1
P. L. Slayton	1687	9	187.7
P. L. Ransom	552	3	184.
C. H. Hayden	346	2	173.
A. G. Dix	1388	8	173.5
W. J. Hayden	1310	7	187.1

These figures demonstrate the leaders as Finnessy, Corley, Slayton, Hayden, W. J., Washburn and Bogie, in the order named, all of whom will be here next year.

Elections for next year's Club and team have resulted in the election of J. J. Finnessy as president of the Rifle Club and captain of the Rifle team, and of Taggart, '18, as treasurer of the

INTERCLASS TRACK

MEET THURSDAY

Numeral Awards—List of Events.

The spring out-door interclass track meet is to be held Thursday, April 29, at 4.00 p. m., on Centennial Field. The meet is for all four classes. Numerals will be awarded to those winning first places or to those who come next after Varsity men. That is, if a Varsity man is first, his points will count in the class total but the man who is next to finish will be awarded his numerals. The points are to be counted as follows: five for first place, three for second place, and one for third place. There are 13 events on the program. A large squad of men has been working out under the direction of Dr. Stone, and some new material is expected to be developed.

The program: mile, half mile, quarter mile, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, high hurdles, low hurdles, running broad jump, running high jump, pole vault, shot put, discus throw, and hammer throw.

WINTER TENNIS SQUAD EAGER FOR SPRING WORK

Cut to 20 Men—Consistent Practice—Courts in Shape—Two More Considered.

The outlook for a successful tennis season is exceptionally bright this year. A squad of 40 men has practiced consistently all winter on the in-door court in the gymnasium. This squad was cut to 20 last week, and the men are rapidly rounding into form. Each man is playing three matches a week besides a period of coaching. "The men have improved steadily," says Coach Freedman, "and they are playing now, as a result of their winter's work, at least as well as last fall. The next two or three weeks will show a further improvement in their playing when they can practice out-of-doors." The top twelve men are: Dow, '15, Brundage, '15, Booth, '18, Taggart, '18, Roberts, '16, Scott, '16, Brown, '18, Whitney, '17, Washburn, '16, Grismer, '16, Keeler, '15, and Hogan, '18, medic.

A force of men under direction of one of the assistant managers cleared and leveled off the upper court, and men have been hired to put both courts in first-class condition. These will be ready to be played on by the first of the week. Last year, and the year before, these courts were not touched, and consequently were not used until far into May. The trustees of the University are making an appropriation and it is possible that two more courts may be built along the north side of the gymnasium annex.

NEW YORK ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL MEETINGS

Engineers Meet at Machinery Club—
Faculty Members Present—Several
Candidates for N. Y. Scholarship—Elections.

The New York Alumni of the College of Engineering held their annual dinner Tuesday evening, at the Machinery Club. 42 were present to greet Dean Votey and the other faculty representatives and speakers.

The diners were seated at small tables with a professor at each table, which permitted everyone to visit with some member from the University, and thus learn the latest gossip of the Campus.

Mr. Merton C. Robbins, '98, was Master of Ceremonies, and introduced as the first speaker, Mr. Henry B. Oatley, president of the New York Alumni Association, who extended a greeting to the visiting professors on behalf of the general alumni.

Dean Votey was the next speaker, and gave a very interesting account of the present status of the College of Engineering, and the prospects for its future growth and development, emphasizing the great need for a new engineering building.

Dean Votey was followed by Professor Evan Thomas, who spoke in a humorous way of the subject of mathematics.

Mr. Robinson then introduced Mr. W. W. Macon, a graduate of Cornell, '89, and Engineering Editor of the Iron Age. Mr. Macon introduced himself by several humorous incidents occurring with his connection with the Iron Age, and then gave a short talk on the aid of engineering in the present European war.

The next speaker, Dean George H. Perkins, spoke reminiscently of the growth of the University as he has watched it, and brought greetings from President Benton.

Professor Edward Robinson represented the mechanical engineering department, and referred to the commercial opportunities of Vermont with reference to the engineering possibilities in the future growth of the State.

The last speaker on the program was Mr. Delafield DuBois, who represented the electrical engineering department.

Letters were read from Professor W. R. Freeman, and former Professor A. W. Ayer.

These dinners which have become an institution with the New York Engineers are looked forward to each year by the men in New York, and the meeting this year was more enjoyable than usual because of the greater number of faculty representatives present than in former years.

Entire New York Association.

The Annual Meeting of the New York Alumni Association was held at the Chemists' Club Wednesday evening, April 14. After the usual delightful dinner, the meeting was called to order by President Oatley. Reports were received from the Treasurer, showing that the Association was in good financial condition. The Scholarship Trustees reported that there were several candidates for the New York scholarship, and that the prospects were good for sending a New York boy to the University. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Professor James Wheeler, '80; vice-president, Arthur B. Gilbert, '89; secretary-treasurer, Leon R. Whitcomb, '05; directors for three years, Henry B. Oatley, '00, John M. Evans, '93, E. E. Dickinson, '72, and William J. Dodge, '03; scholarship trustee for five years, Fred B. Wright, '05.

At the conclusion of the business session, Patrick Michael James Corry, '01, was introduced as Master of Ceremonies. Mr. Corry, in turn, introduced Dr. F. E. Clark, of the Medical Faculty. Dr. Clark brought greetings from the President, and spoke very delightfully of the University, and what it was doing for the State.

The second speaker of the evening was Mr. Edward D. Sabine, Terminal Engineer of the New York Central Railway. Mr. Sabine gave a very interesting description of the construction of the Grand Central Terminal illustrating his talk with lantern slides, showing the work at different stages in the construction of the Terminal.

Dr. Clark and Mr. Sabine were both extended a vote of thanks for their delightful and instructive discourses.

ALBANY LAW SCHOOL

The course of study leading to the degree of LL. B. extends over a period of three years. Students who have pursued one or two years in a law office may enter the second year class as a candidate for a diploma but not a degree.

The high standard of the school and the facilities which the city affords with its legislature, courts and library, offer unequalled opportunity for a thorough and practical training.

CAST PICKED FOR "POMANDER WALK"

First Performance May 10—Cast the Best Since Production of "The Tempest" in 1905—Davis Locates Original Set.

The last character for the cast of the college play was picked last Tuesday night, after nearly two weeks of try-outs. The large number of candidates, both men and women, made the selection rather hard for the judges, but they feel it has been time well spent. The only bad feature of the situation was the fact that so much good material had to be turned down. 76 men and women tried out for 18 parts.

Mr. Gage after Tuesday night assumed entire responsibility for the training and handling of the cast. He has something of a task to put them in shape for a play of the type of "Pomander Walk" in less than three weeks. The management has arranged a provisional trip to the southern part of the state, May 10.

Vouchers will go on sale for the Burlington performance two weeks in advance, and prizes will be offered for the students making the three largest sales of vouchers.

The cast finally selected follows:

Lord Oxford—R. W. Smith, '18.
Jack—Horace Powers, '17.
Dr. Sternroyd—Franklin Isham, '16.
Basil Pringle—Merrill D. Powers, '15.
Brooke-Hoskyn—Herbert Durfee, '17.
Admiral Sir Peter Autrobus—R. M. Olzendam, '16.
Jim—H. B. Tilley, '16.
The Muffin-Man and the Lamp-Lighter—W. M. Hawkins, '17, and W. S. Weeks, '16.
The Eyesore—Roscoe B. Smith, '15.
Marjolaine—Miss Marie McMahon, '15.
Madame Lachenais—Miss Gladys Gleason, '15.
Barbara—Miss Bernadine Kimball, '15.
Ruth—Miss Constance Votey, '16.
Nanette—Miss Isabelle Watson, '18.
Jane—Miss Mabel Derway, '17.
Caroline Thring—Miss Almira Watts, '15.
Mrs. Pamela Poskett—Miss Jessie Fisk, '17.

In addition to the regular cast, a separate cast of understudies has been chosen. These people are all very capable and were chosen with as much care as the "regulars." In case of emergency they may be of priceless value. Hawkins, '17, will understudy Jack; Willis, '15, Brooke-Hoskyn; Shaw, '15, Sir Peter; Weeks, '16, Basil; Petty, '16, Dr. Sternroyd and the minor parts; Miss Derway, '17, Marjolaine; Miss Maxfield, '17, Barbara; Miss Gardner, '16, Ruth; Miss Frank, '18, Madame Lachenais; Miss Holden, '15, Caroline.

A rather noticeable and interesting thing about the personelle of this cast and among the men, is that only four are not Wig and Buskin men, and thus have a possibility of election after the play.

The president of Wig and Buskin, M. H. Davis, has recently located the setting and scenery used by Liebler and Co., the original producers of the show and will purchase part of the same for the college performance. The set was sold at auction some months ago, and it was only after much difficulty that the pieces were found last week in a scenery storage house in Jersey City. Its use will be a tremendous asset.

AUDIENCE WELL PLEASED WITH KATHERINE RIDGEWAY.

Varied Program of Serious and Humor Readings.

The last of the series of the Red-path Entertainments was held in the gymnasium, Monday evening, April 19. The management was wise in saving Katherine Ridgeway until the last number, for she made a deep impression upon her audience. The first number of her program was Katrina Trask's prize play, "In the Vanguard." Miss Ridgeway interpreted with fine sympathy and depth the difficult emotional scenes of the play. Her numerous character sketches were appreciatively received, especially the amusing sketch of the familiar Mrs. Hogenheimer's experience in the Pullman dressing room, and the absurd dialect poem, "Keeping the Alien Out." The last two numbers of her program were Ruth McEmry's story expressing the plea for protection of birds, and Henry Van Dyke's patriotic poem, "America For Me." Miss Ridgeway was assisted by Miss Gladys Cooper, a pianist of exceptional ability.

CLASSES PICK SONG LEADERS.

At a meeting of the sophomore class held Wednesday morning George T. Short was elected to take charge of the class singing in the class singing contest for the Lyman Cup held on Founder's Day. The class banquet was also discussed, and it was decided that the president of the class should appoint the Banquet Committee and that the entire charge of the banquet should be left to the committee.

The juniors and freshmen also held meetings during the week to discuss Founder's Day and select their songs. W. F. Gallagher will lead the juniors and R. A. Briggs the freshmen.

The Appropriations.

Vermont rejoices in the recent $42,800 increase in her State appropriations, making a total of $58,800. Middlebury has a total of $28,800, and Norwich approximately $23,000. Vermont is glad that the State considers her deserving of such an increase and is willing to appropriate to her so much more than to any other institution. But aside from all institutional feeling it is difficult to see what the little State of Vermont is trying to gain by doling out money to three institutions. She has now more institutions of higher learning in proportion to her population than any other state in the Union, and according to her policy, if she had six more she would try to help six more. Yet no other state helps more than one. It is economically wasteful, especially in a small neighborhood like Vermont. Proximity is no reason, and one large fully developed plant can serve the State far better than three smaller ones when there is much duplication. Small wonder Middlebury had a big celebration on hearing the news of their appropriation. They had a right to laugh for more reasons than one.

How Many Will Be Down?

Prior to the southern trip not a little dissatisfaction was felt because so many men were down in their subjects. Not much comment has been heard of late, but it is sure to arise as soon as the northern season opens if conditions remain the same. The opinion seems to be that there is no more excuse for an athlete being down than anyone else, and that he is down merely because he got the idea that he has more license than anyone else, and that the faculty will somehow get him by. As a matter of fact probably no more athletes are down than men of any other class, but it is more noticeable in their case, and the College feels that they are under more than ordinary obligations to keep up. One thing is plain—that the College needs everybody it can muster, especially in the pitching staff, and the faculty isn't going to let anyone by for a joke. Recent press comment in the CYNIC shows that athletes in other institutions seem able to maintain an eligible grade.

The Summer Camp.

College papers have again begun to agitate the student camp question and the third season is almost here—the second big season. Last year, when the largest camp was situated at Burlington, Vermont had a big delegation present and a particularly large officer list. This year the camp will be on New York soil, and another large representation is hoped for. Any man who can afford the time, wants a good time and a beneficial time should talk the matter over with those in charge.

The Honor Societies.

The period for election to honor societies is at hand. Every year there is more or less criticism toward the choices made. The idea is current that there may be some sort of a frame-up or that favoritism may play its part. It is very hard to please everybody, it is very easy to criticize, and lack of knowledge concerning the honor societies often subject them to unfair guess-work and attack. The student body fails to sense the generosity with which selections are made. Many factors go toward the final determination. Yet the societies make mistakes and sometimes there may be just grounds for censure. This year, in particular, the societies should see to it that their selections are sound.

JUNIORS CONTINUE TO PROMISE BIG WEEK.

Boatride to be Featured—Banquet at Sherwood—Possible Afternoon Entertainments.

Plans for a live junior week are rapidly materializing. The prom tickets are now on sale. It is the desire of the committee that carriages be eliminated as much as possible, so that expenses may thus be materially cut down.

The Peerade Committee is busy and asks for the co-operation of fraternities, clubs, etc., as well as individuals, in regard to their floats and stunts. The banquet will be held at the Sherwood.

Several novel events will characterize the boatride, which will be featured this year. Music will be provided for dancing, and arrangements have been made for this with the manager of the boat. Tickets will be but 50 cents as in previous years, and refreshments may be secured on the boat.

Plans are now under way to provide some afternoon entertainment beside baseball and the track meet, not to interfere with, but supplement these events.

MAY HAVE PARALYSIS CURE.

Experiments at Medical College Bring Relief in Dread Disease.

Work carried on by Dr. E. S. Towne, who is in charge of the research laboratory at the Medical College, may have resulted in the making of a substance which will lessen the effects of poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis, the disease which caused so much dread in Vermont last fall. Dr. Towne does not claim for a certainty that the substance upon which he has been working will cure the disease, but as a result of its use one monkey which was inoculated with virus of poliomyelitis and who came down with every symptom of a severe attack is past the acute state of the disease and is improving, having regained the use of many of its muscles. Another monkey inoculated with the same amount of the usual virus on the same day, and which received the ordinary treatment, died one day after coming down with the disease.

On April 6 two monkeys were inoculated with the virus of poliomyelitis. Each was given the same amount and both came down with the disease with all its symptoms in the minimum length of time, six days. When it was seen that they were infected one was given the ordinary treatment which has been given to patients who have had the disease and the other was given the substance upon which Dr. Towne has been at work. The one who received the ordinary treatment died the next day, but the one into which the curative substance was injected has passed the crisis of the disease and has begun to regain the control of the muscles which were affected. The monkey, who at first could not raise his head and keep it under control, yesterday had perfect control of his head and is also gaining the use of his legs and arms. He is now on the same diet as all of the other monkeys at the laboratory and the indications are that he will regain his normal condition.

Another experiment which has been carried on by Dr. Towne also shows that the substance which he has been working upon has much power over the disease. Another monkey which was inoculated with the virus was treated with the substance and the malady was nipped in its very beginning, the monkey now being in a normal condition. The amount of virus which was placed in this monkey was only one one-hundred and sixtieth part as much as that which was put into the monkey in the above case, and the disease as it showed up in that monkey would be more like the cases which have been manifested among children who have had the disease.

Dr. Towne said that a preliminary report for some of the medical journals was in process of preparation.

ROOTERS TAKE NOTICE.

Inter-Fraternity Baseball Schedule—1st Game Monday.

The annual Inter-Fraternity baseball series will be run off as usual this year by the Key and Serpent Society. The opening game will be played on the back campus next Monday, April 26, and the finals are scheduled for May 27. Weather permitting, the games must be played on the days scheduled. Any team not showing up on the scheduled date must forfeit the game. All baseball "V" men are barred from the contests. A cup will be presented to the winners of the finals as has been the previous custom.

The schedule is as follows:—Delta Psi vs. Alpha Gamma Sigma, April 26; Sigma Nu vs. Delta Sigma, April 29; Phi Delta Theta vs. Sigma Phi, May 3; Kappa Sigma vs. Alpha Kappa Kappa, May 5; Alpha Tau Omega vs. Delta Mu, May 7; Lambda Iota vs. Phi Chi, May 10. Future dates are May 12, May 17, May 18, May 24, May 27.

VARSITY LED THE ROVERS.

First Practice Game on Home Grounds.

The first practice game of the season on the home diamond was played Saturday afternoon, April 17, on Centennial Field. The game was between the Varsity and the Green Mountain Rovers, a team composed of second string men. The second team started off with a lead of two runs in the third inning, but through errors they let the Varsity bring in three runs in the fourth, and the final score was 7-4 in favor of the latter. Goldberg pitched fine ball for the Rovers while he was in the game, striking out six men in three innings. Brown got a pretty three-base hit and Powers and Kelley each came across with two baggers.

The score by innings was as follows:
Inning ..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—Total
Varsity ..... 0 0 1 3 1 0 2 0 0—7
Rovers ..... 0 0 2 1 0 1 0 0 0—4

VARSITY PLAYS LIVELY BALL.

Finds 2nd Cav. Easy.

In the second practice game, Wednesday, on Centennial Field, the Varsity defeated the 2nd Cavalry team by a score of 9 to 1. The feature of the game was the pitching of "Rip" Gallagher, who struck out 10 men in the five innings he played. The batteries for the Fort were Shinnamon and Davis; for the University, Goldberg, Gallagher and Mayforth, Sunderland. Goldberg was also effective in the box and the whole team were in the game. Swett did some clever work with the stick. The score by innings:

Report of Intercollegiate Matches.

The Intercollegiate shooting was the most successful tournament of its kind to date, although the entries were two listed, making a series of nine matches less than in 1914 in which 34 teams competed. There being 32 teams entered, they were divided into three classes. In Class A there were 12 teams and with each college shooting one match with every other one in the class it made 11 matches for the series. In Classes B and C there were 10 listed, making a series of nine matches for these two classes. The matches were arranged so that all three classes finished the same week. The matches began January 14 for Class A and closed March 25. The 32 institutions entering teams, the classes in which they were divided and the N. R. A. Judge for each team follow:

CLASS A.

1. Michigan Agricultural Mechanical College, Lieut. J. B. DeLancey, U. S. A.; 2. Washington State College, 1st Lieut. C. R. Bennett, U. S. A.; 3. Cornell University, 1st Lieut. H. T. Bull, U. S. A.; 4. University of Minnesota, 1st Lieut. Bernard Lentz, U. S. A.; 5. West Virginia University, Lieut. Richard Wetherhill, U. S. A.; 6. University of California, Capt. Russell T. Robinson, N. G. C. 7. U. S. Naval Academy, Lieut. R. R. Stewart, U. S. N.; 8. Iowa State University, Lieut. Robt. T. Phinney, U. S. A.; 9. Norwich University, Lieut. R. M. Parker, U. S. A.; 10. University of Illinois, Maj. F. B. Webster, U. S. A.; 11. Purdue University, Lieut. R. G. Kirkwood, U. S. A.; 12. Massachusetts Agricultural College, Capt. Geo. C. Martin, U. S. A. Ret.

CLASS B.

1. Notre Dame, Capt. R. R. Stogsdall, U. S. A.; 2. Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Lieut. G. W. Ewell, U. S. A.; 3. University of Pennsylvania, Lieut. Herman Thomas, N. G. Pa.; 4. University of Wisconsin, Sgt.-Maj. W. G. Atkins; 5. University of Maine, Lieut. Frank S. Clark, N. G. M.; 6. Princeton University, Col. William Libbey, N. G. N. J.; 7. Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Prof. James C. Davis; 8. Dartmouth College, Prof. C. A. Proctor; 9. North Georgia Agricultural College, Lieut. S. A. Harris, U. S. A.; 10. University of Vermont, Sgt. Chas. Steele, U. S. A.

CLASS C.

1. University of Nebraska, Lieut. Samuel M. Parker, U. S. A.; 2. Lehigh University, Dr. E. A. Sallers; 3. Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, 1st Lieut. Louis Farrell, U. S. A.; 4. University of Idaho, 2d Lieut. Herbert C. Fooks, U. S. A.; 5. Yale University, Capt. A. F. Loudensack, N. G. C.; 6. University of Arizona, Col. Geo. LeRoy Brown, U. S. A. Ret.; 7. Rhode Island State College, Capt. Wilbur E. Dove, U. S. A.; 8. University of Michigan, Floyd A. Rowe; 9. Kansas State Agricultural College, 2d Lieut. Roy A. Hill, U. S. A.; 10. University of Washington, Lieut. D. E. McCammon, U. S. A.

For the first time a new method of determining the winning team in each class was used, by taking the percent. of the aggregate of all scores shot. This method seems to work out to the satisfaction of everybody and is undoubtedly the only equitable way to figure the winning team. Under the old system the Washington State College and the Michigan Agricultural College would have had to shoot off the tie for the championship, each having won 10 matches and lost one, whereas the total score of the Washington State team for all the matches was 100 points better than that of the Michigan "Aggies."

The winner of the championship, the Washington State College, shot consistently from the start, their first score of 978 being the highest one turned in by any college for the first match. This team was very fortunate in having as coach Ordnance Sergeant W. N. Pluckett, U. S. A., retired, one of the well-known small arms experts of the army, who has been for many years on detail at the school of musketry. His turning out of a winning team demonstrates the value of expert coaching. But as a sample of how a green team can be whipped into shape and be made a winning team, the record of the North Georgia Agricultural College team which won in Class B is worthy of note. In their first match the team made only 916; in its last match 992. The explanation for the poor showing at the beginning of the matches was that the team was inefficiently equipped both with rifles and ammunition and that after the third match they secured new rifles and changed their cartridges with the result that from the fourth match on they made increased scores week after week. One member of this team had won his expert qualification and five other members had shot into the sharpshooters class as members of the National Guard. Class C was won by Yale University which nosed out the Kansas State University in the last match. Yale was the only team participating in the competition which won all of its matches. The changes brought about as a result of this

TUXEDO in a Class by Itself

Tuxedo was put on the market 10 years ago. It was the first tobacco ever made that absolutely will not bite the tongue. Since then imitators have sprung up, and after having failed to steal the famous "Tuxedo Process" have put out processes which they claim are "just as good."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

This "Tuxedo Process" is the original and best process for removing all irritation from the natural tobacco leaf. This process is a secret, known only to the makers of Tuxedo. To get the best—get Tuxedo.

When you smoke, you smoke to get joy and repose—that comfey, gosh-but-life-is-good feeling. That's why you'll like Tuxedo. Tuxedo is all pleasure and a yard wide. Roll those old creamy puffs of Tuxedo, from your pipe or cigarette, around in your mouth! Get that aromatic fragrance! Get that smooth-as-cream tobacco richness! And it's all so mild and gentle you can smoke Tuxedo all day long if you like.

No other tobacco compares for an instant with Tuxedo. Get some and see for yourself. Tuxedo stands absolutely in a class by itself.

year's matches bring North Georgia, Vermont and University of Pennsylvania from Class B to Class A; Purdue, Illinois and Minnesota drop back into their places; Yale, Kansas State and Nebraska move up from Class C to Class B.

The best team record was 995 made by the Michigan "Aggies" which establishes a new indoor intercollegiate record. The previous record was 994, held by the West Virginia University.

INDIVIDUAL RECORD.

The individual records made in the 1915 competition are higher than in any previous shoot and demonstrate the highest degree of skill which the college boys are acquiring in this style of shooting. Probably some credit should be given to improvements in rifles and ammunition. Undoubtedly more attention is being paid to these elements for successful shooting than ever. John Geue of Washington State College heads the list with a total aggregate score of 2182 for his 11 matches, a percentage of 198.4. Only two points behind him came his shooting mate, Wm. Saupe, whose percentage was 198.2. M. R. Freeman or the Michigan "Aggies" was third with 197.2. Saupe and R. D. Kean of Michigan "Aggies" each made two possibles during the matches and John G. Geue of Washington State, A. I. Arneson, of Iowa State, Lee Floyd and O. S. Smith of North Georgia each made one possible. The 199's were too numerous to mention.

Following is a list of the 25 highest with their aggregate score and percentage of same:

The special prize for the team representing an institution where military training is not maintained was won by the University of Pennsylvania and the prize will remain in the custody of that institution, which is now the holder of the same.

For the first time these matches were shot on a target with a sighting bull two inches in diameter. A trial of an enlarged bull was given this year as it was the opinion of many that it would be easier on the eyes but as there appears to be a sentiment in favor of the old bull of 1 1-2 inches in all probability the former target will be reverted to for the 1916 matches. Otherwise the conditions seem to be entirely satisfactory. They are: Teams of 10, the five highest scores to count for record. Each member of the team firing 10 shots standing and 10 shots prone at 50 feet on a target with 10 rings 1/4 of an inch apart, the bull's eye counting 10, being one-half inch in diameter. 22 caliber rifles weighing not over 10 pounds are authorized, using 22 caliber short cartridges, the use of the sling being allowed in the prone position. ## GREEN AND GOLD DROWNS SYRACUSE RAIN STOPS SCORING

Gallagher Pitches Zenith Ball With Gilt-Edged Support — Vermont Sluggers too Heavy for Nichols and Score Consistently.

Vermont opened the home baseball season at Centennial field, Wednesday, April 28, by defeating Syracuse 12-3. The game was played in a drizzling rain and was called at the end of the seventh inning by agreement of both teams.

Syracuse had a strong aggregation of ball players and came prepared to play to win. Syracuse defeated Dartmouth Monday of this week 7-2, and has previously defeated Cornell and Michigan. However, the team did not seem to work well with the wet ball there being five errors chalked up against the visitors. Vermont, on the other hand, played superb ball, there being but one error, and connecting safely for nine hits, three of them for two bases. Vermont's hits came at opportune times; twice with men on second and third the batter hit, scoring both men. Ridlon excelled with the stick, getting three hits out of four times at bat. Ridlon, Murnane and Merrill hit for two bases.

Gallagher pitched superb ball, allowing but three hits and striking out seven men. The wet ball tended to make both pitchers wild, but Gallagher allowed but four walks and Nichols gave five free passes. Nichols was hit almost at will, but was given very poor support. The Vermont team fielded in fine form at all stages.

The game started at 4:15 with Gallagher on the mound and Rafter at bat. The first three men were retired in order, Ridlon and Maiden getting grounders and Brown getting a fly. Vermont was retired in like order in their half of the inning with two rollers and a fly. Tight fielding augured well for a close game.

In the second inning Syracuse was again retired in order, two flying out and the third fanning. With one down Linnehan for Vermont took first on an error, the first man to reach the initial sack for either side. Merrill flied out and Linnehan was caught trying to take third on Seymour's bungling of Swett's grounder. Score 0-0.

In the third, with one down, Morgan drew a pass and Nichols hit, advancing the man to third. Rafter walked filling the bases. Wilbur reached first on a fielder's choice when he

SENIORS COMPLETE CLASS DAY LIST.

Important Motions Carried.

At the senior class meeting, held on Thursday, April 29, W. T. Handy was elected Pipe Orator and Miss Gleason, class essayist. The senior class committee expects to place the order for invitations with a local concern and wishes all seniors to decide how many they want as soon as possible. A motion was carried providing that the Commencement week programs shall be bound in leather only. A motion was also carried giving the endorsement of the class to some scheme by which the student council may be made more representative and given greater power in student affairs.

TWO HONOR SOCIETIES ELECT TO MEMBERSHIP

11 Boulder Men—11 Key and Serpent.

During the past few weeks elections to the honor societies have been taking place.

Boulder, the senior academic honor society, announces as members for the coming year, Wesley Thomas Abell of St. Albans, Charles Francis Baldwin of Essex Junction, Carlton Richmond Bloomer of West Rutland, Robert Rudolph Bogie of Saranac Lake, N. Y., William Francis Gallagher of Rockville, L. I., Harold Alonzo Mack of West Woodstock, Carroll Milton Pike of Montpelier, Paul Lewis Ransom of Woodstock, Amory Davison Seaver of Barton, Morris Raymond Wilcox of Richford, Norman Williams of Woodstock.

Key and Serpent, the junior academic honor society, announces; Clyde Arthur Ames of Burlington, Roy Melville Anderson of North Craftsbury, Harold Whitcomb Batchelder of Hardwick, James Franklin Burke of West Rutland, Ronald Packard Burrage of Leominster, Mass., Edward Llewellyn Chatterton of Rutland, Fay Herrick Hunt of Essex Junction, Maurice T. Kelley of Morrisville, Ray Clyde Sanders of Brattleboro, William Albert Tennien of Pittsford, Harold Oatman Wilber of Buffalo, N. Y.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB ELECTION.

April 22 St. Paul's Club elected officers for the ensuing year: Weeks, '16, president; Gilmore, '16, vice-president; Hackett, '17, secretary-treasurer.

The club was entertained by short talks by Bishop Bliss and Reverend C. C. Wilson.

1916 ARIEL TO BE OUT JUNIOR WEEK ORDERS BEING TAKEN

Best Photographers and Designers Lend Assistance—Attractive Cover Design—Fraternity and Faculty Sections Enlarged—Junior Section a Wonder.

The 1916 Ariel is fast nearing completion, there being approximately 225 pages in final form. Editor-in-chief, Paul Ransom, says that there is no reason to believe but that it will be out in plenty of time for Junior Week.

The book is handsomely bound in green buffing with pebbled grain leather, stamped in gold. On the end sheets is a clever design by E. M. Washburn who has made most of the drawings, and who also did some of the best work for the 1915 Ariel. C. C. Smith has made some very artistic mounts of small pictures. At the head of the baseball, football and track sections, are two-color headers drawn by Miss Helen Benton, who had many drawings in the 1914 Ariel.

The junior class pictures were taken by a photographer from White's Studio of New York City. The junior class section of this year's Ariel contains a pleasing departure from previous years. Each person is given a full page for his photograph, grind and "sketch." These individual sketches by Washburn and Miss Constance Votey, are exceedingly clever, many of them bringing out the characteristic features and pose of the person better than the original photograph.

The faculty section is more comprehensive than that of last year, owing to a more detailed account of each person.

Several pictures around the campus were taken by White's and Underwood & Underwood. These include numerous views of the Students' Military Camp held here last summer. The Ariel Board is also indebted to C. A. Spencer for many excellent photographs. The Fraternity Section is enlarged somewhat by the addition of interior views. There are, in the whole book, approximately 280 half tones and 150 zinc cuts. The work of the engravers, Howard-Wesson Company of Worcester, Mass., has been very satisfactory, and the Tuttle Company of Rutland, has upheld the printing end of the job in equally fine shape.

Among other features is a class poem by E. F. Crane, and the class song written for the Lyman Cup Singing Contest by A. D. Seaver.

ROBERTS AND SEAVER WILL CARE FOR GLEE CLUB.

At a short business meeting of the Glee Club held at the Lambda Iota Fraternity house Tuesday evening, April 27, election of officers for the following year took place. Roberts, '15, was elected leader; Seaver, '16, manager; Stillwell, '17, and Morey, '17, assistant managers. After the business meeting a few pieces were rehearsed with Remby in charge. A Plattsburg trip is being planned for the last of May.

VERMONT CONTESTS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Yale, Harvard and Penn. State Dope—Track Team Meets Fast Aggregation—Tennis Team on Trip—Debaters after Clark Champions.

Vermont met Syracuse and Colgate this week and meets Penn. State, Harvard, and Yale next week. Syracuse was batting for .277 up to April 24. Yale's average is .226; Penn. State's .209 and Harvard's reaches the low figure of .197.

Prior to her defeat by Vermont Syracuse had dropped one game to Lehigh, 1-5. She had defeated Hamilton 12-0 and the strong Dartmouth aggregation 7-2.

Up to yesterday Colgate had lost two hard games, Colgate 0, Columbia 4; Colgate 1, Princeton 7. Vermont does not meet either of these two teams.

Penn. State has won three games and lost two. Penn. 4, Navy 1; Penn. 1, North Carolina 0; Penn. 10, West Virginia 0; Penn. 2, Yale 8; Penn. 2, Holy Cross 7.

Harvard has had a fairly successful season. She defeated the Navy 12-11; Maryland Agr. College 9-2; Maine 5-2; Bowdoin 8-0. The Crimson dropped games to Catholic University 1-2; Army 2-9; Boston Nationals 3-7; Bates 2-3. She also defeated Columbia 8-0.

Yale has won over Pennsylvania 5-2; Columbia 8-2; Penn. State 8-2; Navy 6-5; Brown 3-2. Georgetown defeated the Blue 8-6 and the New York Nationals administered two defeats 2-1 and 6-0.

None of these teams has won consistently. Yale and Harvard are strong, particularly the former. Vermont lost to both these teams last year.

Track Team.

Vermont will meet Colgate in her first dual track meet of the season Saturday, May 8, at Hamilton, N. Y. Last year the meet was held at Burlington and Colgate won by 27 points, the score being 65½ to 38½. It is expected that the showing this year will be much better.

The team will be picked next week, the selection being made largely on the showing of the candidates in the interclass meet last Thursday afternoon.

The team leaves for Hamilton Friday, May 7, at 11:55 A. M.

The Tennis Team.

The tennis four leave in the middle of the week for bouts with Union at Schenectady, Colgate at Hamilton, and Fordham at New York. Captain Dow looks for a victory over Union and Fordham, but considers Colgate a doubtful factor. The team will be composed of Captain Dow and Roberts and either Taggart, Booth, Grismer or Scott.

The Debaters.

Friday evening, May 7, the varsity Debating Team will meet a strong team from Clark College. The question is, "Resolved, that the government should own and control the telephone and telegraph systems in the United States." Vermont has the negative side of the argument, as was the case in her victory over Middlebury. U. V. M. will be represented by Prindle, Hunt, and Crane. The members of the Clark team are not yet known here. Manager Grismer has proposed a list of judges to Clark, but no definite selection has as yet been made.

Both Clark and Vermont have debated on this question before and Clark will probably present the same team which defeated Bates at Worcester Friday, April 23, on the same side of the question. Of this debate the Worcester Telegram speaks as follows:

"Home debaters were victorious in each debate of the annual triangular debate last night between Clark, Tufts and Bates colleges. Each home team, the debates being in Lewiston, Medford and in South high school hall, had the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that the federal government should own and operate telephone and telegraph lines within the United States."

Clark won a closely fought debate over the Bates team in South high hall, the judges voting two to one in favor of the affirmative speakers. In Lewiston, the Bates team defeated the negative Tufts team and in Medford, the Tufts affirmative team were given the decision over the Clark negative team.

FRAT SERIES STARTS WITH DELTA PSI VICTORY.

Heroes Add Excitement.

The first game of the inter-fraternity baseball series was won by Delta Psi fraternity when its nine gained a 12-2 victory over Alpha Gamma Sigma. The game was not exciting. Delta Psi batted around in the first inning getting six runs to their credit. Alpha Gamma Sigma scored twice. Then both teams tightened up and the last few innings were short. There were but two thrills during the entire game. The first was a collision at first base between Metcalf and the first baseman, Davis, who was receiving a wild throw from the infield. Metcalf sank motionless to the ground. Friends rushed to his assistance, but the hero, recovering from his motionless state, refused a runner and himself stole second on the next ball pitched. Early in the eighth inning Phil Davis slid third and accidentally spiked Bartlett, the third baseman. Fortunately little damage was done except a laceration of the stocking. A complete recovery is expected. The line-up and score by innings follow.

ROVERS AND REGULARS HAVE 0 TO 0 TUSSLE.

Gilbert vs. Batchelder and Upham.

The Varsity and the Rovers played a practice game on Centennial Field Tuesday afternoon. The game was very close and resulted in a 0-0 score. Gilbert pitched gilt-edged ball for the Rovers and held the Varsity to three scattered hits. He was given fine support. Batchelder and Upham twirled for the regulars. The Rovers, composed of second string men, have a very strong team and have been a great aid in developing the Varsity, as well as furnishing strong substitutes. The game lasted six innings.

Line up: Varsity, Maiden, ss; Ridlon, 2b; Murnane, 1 f; Mayforth, c; Linnehan, 3b; Merrill, Weed, 1b; Swett, Tennien, c f; Brown, r f; Batchelder, Upham, p.

AGGIES' SEMI-MONTHLY MEETING.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Aggie Club was held in Morrill Hall Wednesday evening, April 28. After a short business meeting a very interesting program was carried out. F. R. Churchill, '17, gave a paper on "Apples and Their Application." A quartette followed, consisting of Williams, Pike, Osgood and Flint, who rendered two selections in a most satisfactory manner. The next number on the program was the reading of the Vermont Chronicle by Aldrich, '15, after which a report was given of the meeting of the New England Confederation of Agricultural Colleges by Wood, '16, who represented Vermont. This meeting was held at Amherst, Mass., April 16.

The last number on the program was a talk by Professor Jenks. He told many interesting experiences of his life which will serve to give others an inspiration after leaving college and entering activities in the world.

STATISTICS PROVE U. V. M. RENDERS MOST SERVICE

Middlebury Has 161 Vt. Students, University Has 390—Middlebury Has Gained 23 Since Pres. Thomas, Univ. 120—Middlebury Has Gained 4 Since Pres. Benton, Univ. 151.

The following table compares the University of Vermont and Middlebury college in the service rendered to the State respectively, as evidenced by the patronage of Vermont students in the academic Departments.

Year.	Vt. students at Mid.	Vt. students at Univ.	% of Vt. students at Mid.	% of Vt. students at Univ.
1905-6	91	279	60	79
1906-7	118	291	66	78
1907-8	138	270	68	78
1908-9	139	295	61	83
1909-10	159	249	59	75
1910-11	157	239	55	75
1911-12	163	283	48	74
1912-13	159	307	48	74
1913-14	150	381	44	76
1914-15	161	390	47	77

From the foregoing figures, aside from the abnormal decline in attendance at Middlebury last year, it will be noted that there has been a gradual falling off in the service of that institution to the State from the beginning of the administration of President Thomas in 1908-09 up to the present. The present year shows but 161 students from Vermont at Middlebury, representing an increase of only 23 beyond the 138 Vermont students registered during the last year of the administration of President Brainerd. During the same period the number of academic students at the University has increased from 270 to 390—an increase of 120 Vermont students. During the four years of the present administration at the University the number of academic students from the State has advanced from 283 to 390, an increase of 107. On comparing the enrollment at this time with the 239 academic students in 1910-11, the comparison shows an increase of 151 at the University from this State. During the same period the number of Vermont students at Middlebury has increased to but four more this year more than in 1910-11.

In all these computations the Medical College has been left out of consideration. Use of the figures in that department would make a still better showing of service on the part of the University to the State. Since Middlebury has only its academic work to offer, however, only the foregoing is a just basis for comparative study.

Akraia Tea.

Akraia, the woman's Senior Honorary Society, entertained the members of the junior class, Tuesday afternoon at the Sun parlor at Grassmount. Mrs. Stetson poured. After the tea a short business meeting was held.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET ANNOUNCED BY PRES.

$0 Dollar Silver Bay Fund.

Miss Edith Gates, '15, lead the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Friday afternoon, April 23. As retiring President, Miss Gates gave a short resumé of the work accomplished during the year and outlined plans for the coming year. The newly elected President, Miss Lucy Swift, '16, responded with a short speech emphasizing the need of co-operation in a successful association.

Miss Lessie Cobb, '17, treasurer, gave the annual report. This report showed many things accomplished, amongst them the cleaning and re-furnishing of the Y. W. C. A. room. A surplus of $80 is to constitute the Silver Bay Fund for this year.

The new Cabinet was announced as follows: Vice-president, Clara Gardner, '16; treasurer, Jennie Maxfield, '17; secretary, Daisy Stewart, '17; Chairmen, Religious Meeting Committee, Ruth Adams, '16; Bible Study Committee, Mildred Best, '18; Social Service Committee, Lucy Pierce, '16; Store Committee, Helen Rutter, '16; Social Committee, Mary Loomis, '17; Publicity Committee, Leonora Styles, '16.

After the regular meeting, the old and new Cabinets, with the Advisory Members, met in joint consultation business meeting.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE SCHEDULE.

Sizeable Squads Out.

The Freshman-Sophomore games are scheduled for May 17, May 20, and May 24. The Freshmen have a squad of 20 men trying out. The battery candidates are: for pitcher, Briggs, H. V. Adams, and Harris; for catcher, Ryan, Stanley, Butler.

The Sophomores have a squad of 18 men working out under the direction of Short, temporary captain, and Hunt, manager. There are several mound candidates including Burleson, Mould, Way, Blodgett and Burke. Short, But will probably be available.

The Track Team.

The baseball season opened last Wednesday. The track season opens with the Colgate meet May 8 and the tennis season with the Union matches, May 5. It can be reiterated that Vermont had a good track team last year. There were not many stars, but they had the stuff that wins matches and they won them. Not more than once or twice did a man fail to do his best, and when he did fail he received little consideration from his team mates. This year's team has better material than last year's. All the old men are back but Squires and there has been an addition of two high class men—intercollegiate point winners. Nor is there any reason to suppose that the team lacks the fighting spirit which prevailed last year—it ought to be there and stronger than ever. Colgate will be a hard match and it is the first match. She beat Vermont last year; was the only one to beat her. But Colgate had one of the first class teams of the East. She has another this year. Vermont, however, ought to take pride in cutting down last year's score and in making Colgate work to hold her laurels. The meet is on the Colgate oval and if the Vermont team should happen to win—well, it would mean a whole lot more for Vermont than a baseball victory.

What will the banquets be?

It's time Vermont took another hitch toward cleaning things up a bit.

The Summer School.

The Vermont summer school last year was far and away the largest ever held in the State. Most of the students came from New York or the New England States, but there was a decided increase in attendance from Canada and the South. Burlington's size and climatic and scenic situation make it a popular resort with those who wish to secure a glimpse of the North during the hot summer months. Some foretell a hardship to study in summer, rather there is no time of the year when it is more enjoyable, and on Vermont's tree-clad campus with excursions, entertainments and everything to make the time pass pleasantly it becomes a delight. In addition one has the opportunity of cheap rooming and boarding rates, for Burlington is an inexpensive city in which to live, and the opportunity of taking as many or as few courses as he likes under an exceptionally able summer faculty gathered from various parts of the country.

The Mother Tongue.

When President Butler, of Columbia University, stated in his annual report that the students of the Pulitzer School of Journalism were inadequately prepared in the English branches and seemed woefully ignorant of those things with which an educated man should be familiar the Philadelphia Public Ledger asked several professors in other colleges for their views of the conditions and the causes. Prof. James Melvin Lee, director of the department of journalism of New York University, has made the following interesting and suggestive contribution to the discussion:

"Instead of being shocked by President Butler's words about 'the utter worthlessness, judged by lasting results, of a large part of the work done, or supposed to be done, in the preparatory schools and colleges,' I am surprised that students in these educational institutions do so well under the circumstances. When I was in preparatory school and later at college it seemed to me that every instructor thought he was the only teacher the institution had—at least the length of the lesson to be prepared for the next recitation gave this impression. When one looks at the crowded curriculum of the modern high school, one must wonder how the student manages to get even a smattering of so many subjects.

"The shocking ignorance of Biblical allusions in English literature on the part of those who profess to know something of literary history and to have studied it, cannot, it seems to me, be placed upon the desk of the schoolmaster. The blame should be put on the doorstep of the American home. Less and less is the American mother gathering her children about her on a Sunday afternoon telling them Bible stories. The disappearance of the morning prayers with which the family of yesterday began the day's work has stopped the reading of the Scripture at the family altar, (The Wall Street Journal once had an exceptionally able editorial on this subject). Only the other day a New York minister, who had grown gray in the service of his Master, complained to me that when he made pastoral calls he was no longer invited to read the Scripture and to offer a word of prayer; instead, he was entertained at a pink tea or something of the sort. What has become of the old family Bible that used to have a firm place on the sitting-room table? Let us render unto the schools and colleges the things that belong there and unto the homes the things that belong there.

"The thing which most interests me of all those you have brought to my attention is the assertion about 'the very limited vocabulary of those who have been receiving systematic instruction for a number of years and who are popularly supposed to have been lead to read at least some of the great masters of English style.' Personally I cannot help feeling that if some good daily newspaper had been substituted for some of these 'great masters of English style' the English of our students would be better. Whatever faults the academic and pedantic critic may attribute to newspaper English, the fact still remains that it is almost invariably clear and usually forcible. On the other hand, even the greatest master of the English tongue has fifty-seven varieties of interpretations of his words. If you doubt the truth of such an assertion, consult the annotated editions of his works. Teachers of English in the high schools—especially in the West, where the newspaper has been more extensively used as a textbook in the classroom—freely admit that students do better work when they write an essay upon some such topic as 'The Real Purpose of In Memoriam' or 'The Insanity of Hamlet.' I firmly believe the time is coming when the daily newspaper will be studied in the schools. When it is, students will write better English, for then we shall have a bridge leading directly from nursery rhymes and children's stories over to those English classics which, under the new condition, will not be only read, but also studied with pleasure."—The American Educational Review.

PRESS COMMENT

Texas.

The assembly, a board that governs the University publications, has taken a step in advance of any other Southern college by rewarding all those who have spent time and labor on the staffs of the various publications. In recognition of their services gold medals have been awarded to all editors, silver ones to all issue editors, and bronze ones to all reporters. Endeavor of this kind deserves reward as well as those of the football debating or track teams.—The Orange and White.

Choosing One's Life Work.

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences at Maine has voted to establish a special shelf in the library on which will be kept books relating to the choosing of one's life work. Arrangements have now been made by which about a dozen books bearing on this subject have been placed in the reserve room, and an outline of these books has been posted on the bulletin board in the library. A list of references to periodical articles is also posted.—Maine Campus.

No High Cost of Living at Missouri.

Thirteen cents is the average cost of a meal at the University of Missouri cafeteria, where some 500 students eat three times a day.

The daily bill of fare sometimes contains as many as 70 items and the cost of each is usually in odd cents. Corn, for instance, or beans, is 2 cents; coffee, 3 cents; pie, 3 cents; bread and butter 2 cents and hot cakes, 6 cents a stack.

The cafeteria, which is owned by the university, enables more than 40 students to earn their board or all their expenses by doing such work as washing dishes, carrying trays and dishing out food.—Brown Daily Herald.

Are You Educated?

"If a person ever claims to be educated, you may be sure he is not," said Dr. Marion L. Burton, president of Smith College in a recent address before the Omaha alumnae of that institution. "It is impossible to be educated. We can only reach the state of becoming educated." Continuing, Dr. Burton said:

"Possession of a Phi Beta Kappa Key or honorary degrees, and the ability to pass college entrance examinations and stay in college are not necessarily proofs of education. They are only the outer marks of the probability of educational training. The real tests lie deeper. To be on the road to education, a person must have acquired a broad, general knowledge, including language, literature, science, fine arts, philosophy and so forth, and must possess an ability to concentrate and a passion for truth. What America needs most in educational lines is concentration.

"The surest test of the educated person is the absence of moods; the more moods the less education. America must not only learn to think correctly, but also to feel correctly. To use good judgment and common sense, and to be dependable and simply sane, is an important requirement.

"All about us are tendencies toward violent insanity and softening of the brain. We are overrun with a monstrous brood of heretics who see life only from their own little viewpoint. What we want is a generation of young men and women who recognize that life is dual, that it has two sides. To contribute to the world's life and to participate in it, broadly, generously and sanely, is the meaning of education."—University Daily Kansan.

Vermont's Rural School Leadership.

Under the spirited leadership of recent years the rural schools of Vermont have some notable demonstrations of efficiency. Nowhere in America is there a better demonstration of the fact that all people everywhere will respond when skillfully led in ways of school improvement than in Vermont.

Bennington County has attained educational fame far and near and deserves all it has attained and more. One of the large contributions to this reputation is the Arlington-Shaftsbury-Sandgate supervisory district, J. D. Whittier district superintendent. There are twenty-one schools in the district and every school has had a new birth in educational activity, a new vision of achievement.

Mr. Whittier has dealt artistically with the conditions in these towns. He has trusted the people who have in no wise betrayed his trust. The power behind the throne is the "Bennington County Improvement Association for the Schools of the County." The association is enterprising in spirit, intelligent in methods, and generous in its dealings with the schools.

This season the Improvement Association offered $40.00 in prizes for the improvement of school property. The sweepstakes prize, $25.00, was won by one of the Shaftsbury schools. Each town had a prize of $5.00.

Pupils formed their own School Improvement Clubs, while the adults organized Parent-Teachers' Associations, always wide awake and efficient.

The school directors were a new order of beings. They were leaders, both in sentiment and in actual labor. In one case the School Director, with his own hands painted the schoolhouse, making the long neglected building a thing of beauty and a joy to the district.

In another district under the leadership of the director, the school grounds were transformed from a state of disgraceful neglect into a highly attractive condition, nine men, twenty boys and seven teams working one day. This is merely a sample of the devotion of the public.

The cash raised by the districts for specific improvement of the properties was $358 and $175 worth of good labor was contributed by the patrons.

Five buildings were painted outside and all outbuildings were put in prime condition, many of them painted inside and out. Several schools were fenced with woven wire; flag poles were set and flags were purchased; many schools had the yards graded. Eleven of the schools set out 287 trees on the school grounds. More than half of the schools had the road in front of the schoolhouse put in first-class condition. Flower beds were made and ivy plants set.

The influence of school activities was seen all through these towns. About 500 pupils had home gardens under the inspiration of the school. Potato Clubs and Corn Clubs were organized and successfully operated.

Inside the school buildings the improvement was equally pronounced. All window shades were put in first-class condition, clocks were made to keep time, window ventilators were installed, walls and ceilings painted, and other ceilings whitewashed. Organs and victrolas, pictures, teachers' desks and tables were purchased; book racks, book cases, waste baskets and flower vases were procured.

Desks were varnished, stoves were polished, floors oiled, window boxes provided. In short, wholesomeness, cleanliness, neatness has supplanted the old order.

Entire communities, old and young, talk school, watch the school grounds and buildings, think schools as never before.

The effect is beyond expression in its benefit to the people individually and collectively. Much credit for all this school improvement is due The Bennington County Review, which has promoted school improvement in season and out of season. Its greatest achievement in this regard was the issuing of a "School Improvement Number," illustrated with more than sixty views.—Journal of Education.

COLLEGIATE ANTI-MILITARISM LEAGUE.

The formation of the "Collegiate Anti-Militarism League" is of wide interest at this time. Following is the first announcement of the aims of this new organization:

To the Editor:—

Efforts at many colleges to stir up a dangerous militarist spirit, and in some cases to introduce a system of military training, seemed to a number of college men to offer a serious enough proposition to warrant the calling of a meeting in New York several weeks ago to consider the situation. At this meeting there were present representatives from Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and New York University.

The result of this meeting was the formation of the "Collegiate Anti-Militarism League," which aims to set before men in all the colleges of the country the need of direct and forceful agitation against militarist tendencies and propaganda.

The college is not the place to institute military training, but quite apart from that question we must also consider what will be the tragic results of furthering the militaristic spirit at this time. Before us lies an opportunity such as has never before been presented to a nation. Shall we plan great increases in our army and navy, shall we pass bills appropriating to the uses of war still more of that Federal Revenue of which 72 per cent. is at the present time being spent on the Army and Navy, shall we start even to train our college men to fight, and then go to the warring nations of Europe, offer ourselves as mediator in the struggle, propose as one of the conditions of peace some sort of a disarmament agreement—and expect them to receive these good offices otherwise than with sneers?

The newly founded organization is planning an active campaign against militarist agitators, whether half-informed laymen or professional army men. It appeals for support in every college, and asks those men interested to communicate with the Secretary, John Temple Graves, Jr., Princeton, N. J. The other officers are Karl G. Karsten, Columbia, President; Arthur Fisher, Harvard, Vice-President; and A. L. Trachtenberg, Yale, Treasurer.

K. G. KARSTEN,
President.

Enrico Caruso

"Tuxedo Does Not Irritate My Throat"

The non-irritating quality of Tuxedo which Caruso praises is due to the original "Tuxedo Process" by which the tobacco is treated. This process refines the tobacco and absolutely removes all bite and sting.

Many thousands of men think they cannot smoke a pipe, for fear the tobacco might burn or parch their mouths. Tuxedo has done away with any such possibility. You can smoke Tuxedo all day long, without any irritation whatsoever—indeed with increasing pleasure.

You cut off an inch of inspiration and real joy every hour you stay away from Tuxedo. Because it's so good, so true, so delicious, so fragrant, its memory lingers every time your smoke-appetite gets tuned up.

PLAY MAY BE PUT ON IN PLATTSBURG.

Slight Change in Cast.

Rehearsals for Pomander Walk are being held every evening in the University Gym. Considering that there have been about 10 rehearsals, the cast is doing exceptionally well and the prospects are favorable.

There has been a change in the part of "Nannette" which is to be played hereafter by Miss Ida Holden. Miss Holden is to understudy the parts of both "Barbara" and "Caroline."

M. H. Davis, president of Wig and Buskin, and G. L. Bean, manager, have made arrangements for a provisional date in Plattsburg next month.

ROVERS DROP CLOSE GAME.

The Rovers dropped a game to the strong Fort Ethan Allen team. Saturday, April 24, at the Fort grounds. Gallagher pitched good ball for the Rovers, but was given ragged support. Loose fielding lost the game. Fisher pitched a strong game for the Fort, allowing the Vermont men, but two hits. Score 3 to 1. Batteries: Gallagher and Ferrin; Fisher and Davis.

WEEKLY Y. M. MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the rooms Tuesday evening, April 27, at 7 o'clock.

Owing to the non appearance of the regular speaker of the evening an impromptu program was carried out, led by Dr. Barnes. The subject was the "European War." The discussion was directed towards various phases of the war, such as its possible prolongivity, and relative merits.

THE GRADUATES OF VERMONT COLLEGES AND THEIR DUTY.

Vermont has come to the parting of the way. Is she to continue a democratic state, governed by her own people or is she going to surrender the management of her educational affairs to an oligarchy designed for her by the Carnegie Foundation? And this at a time when this same foundation, together with others, is being investigated by the United States government to determine whether these foundations are a benefit or "a menace," as has been charged by thinking men.

For over a century the University of Vermont and Middlebury College have been graduating classes, and Norwich University has been doing so for nearly a hundred years. If the men and women from those institutions will now allow an outside agency to come into our state, write our educational laws, and on the advice, of three university professors from rival institutions in other states, abolish our normal schools and withdraw state aid from our colleges, perhaps it might be as well to do away with state aid and stop sending out graduates with so little state pride. But I do not believe we are going to allow this to be done.

I do not wish to be understood as saying a word derogatory to Dr. Elliot of Wisconsin, Dr. Hillegas of Columbia, or Dr. Learned of Harvard, I hold them all in the very highest estimation. I appreciate their keen portrayal of our shortcomings, but I feel to remedy those faults requires a closer knowledge of local conditions and traditions than they possess.

Here is where we should make our work effective. The alumni of the three Vermont colleges are to be found in every town in the state. We know local conditions and we have influence enough if we work together to provide free scholarships in our state colleges for every needy student. But we must work in harmony. I regret to say, that occasionally I have noticed an inclination with some to attempt to gain an advantage by belittling the work of the other colleges, or by a shrewd maneuver, try to show a better claim to state aid than the others have. This is worse than folly. It is suicidal. Much of this talk that we have a state university, and the pages and pages of so-called argument in the educational report that we haven't a state university, is pure bosh. The legislators at Montpelier and the people of our state are not greatly interested in the matter of names, but they are vitally interested in the question whether it is best to sustain higher education or not. We know that it is, and it is our business to get out and prove it, by pulling with each other in harmony instead of working at cross purposes trying to gain some temporary advantage for our particular alma mater. If we keep this up we shall lose state aid for all. We might just as well free our minds first as last, of the notion that any one institution is going to receive all of the state aid. It will be divided or withdrawn altogether. Which do we favor?

All three of our higher institutions have been growing stronger and doing better work, especially during the last twenty years. We must not drop the free scholarships we have, but increase the number until one is provided for every deserving student and let him choose the college he will attend. It is our duty, as the alumni of the Vermont colleges, to the boys and girls, coming after us, to see that this provision is written in our law at Montpelier this winter. We can do it if we will get together and work in harmony.

I believe, an immense amount of good could be done and great impetus given to higher education in our state, if the alumni of the three institutions could meet together in conference, and work out a plan of action for the present critical campaign. I also believe Dr. Benton, Dr. Thomas and Dr. Spooner will be able to so arrange courses as to do away with the charge of unnecessary duplication. Shall we get together and make the fight for higher education?

Twenty years ago I was driving down Pine Street, to the Van Ness House, Burlington, with the late Judge Crosby Miller, who was going to a Board of Control meeting of the University trustees. It was largely through his assistance that I was able to be at college, and I remarked:

"Judge Miller, I have often wondered that a busy man like you would be to so much bother, to help a young fellow, as you have been to, in my case." To which he replied:

"Mr. Sargeant, no one but a boy who has been in a similar fix, can ever know how badly I wanted to go to college but I couldn't. And I declared then if I ever found another with the same want I would help him if it was in my power."

It makes no difference whether we spent our four years at Burlington, Middlebury or Northfield, all of us knew boys there in the same fix, who afterwards made good. Men who have become an honor to the state. Let us get together, preserve the state scholarships and keep the road open for others.

IDE G. SARGEANT, 1898.

ALUMNI NOTES.

1914. J. E. Carrigan of last year's class, who since graduation has been doing excellent service for the Extension Service of the University has been chosen to serve as the first Agricultural County Advisor for Addison County, and has gone to Middlebury where he will make his headquarters. Mr. Carrigan not only has the distinction of being the youngest county agent in Vermont in both years and experience, but he is the only Vermont graduate who is filling this position at present in the state.

hit a slow grounder to Ridlon, which Maiden threw wild from second in an attempted double play scoring Morgan. Seymour flied to right ending the scoring.

Vermont scored twice in the third. With two out on foul flys Maiden drew a pass, stole second and took third on a wild throw. Ridlon also was given a base on balls and stole second. Murnane then came through with a two bagger scoring two men. He was caught trying to make third. Score 2-1.

With two men on the bags Vermont pulled out of a bad hole in the fourth, Gallagher striking out one and the last man retiring on a grounder, Gallagher to Merrill.

In the last of the fourth Vermont tallied two more runs. Mayforth was hit by a pitched ball, Linnehan walked and Merrill sacrificed both men along one base. Swett then scored both men with a hot drive through short. The side was then retired.

After striking out two men Gallagher hit Rafter who scored on Seymour's two bagger. Ahearn flied out to Swett. In Vermont's half of the fifth Ridlon beat out a bunt, but was out at second on a fielder's choice, Murnane taking first. Mayforth was out on a fly to left and Linnehan took first on balls. Merrill then hit opportunely for two bases scoring both men. Swett fanned, retiring the side.

In the sixth two men got on, with a free pass and being hit by pitcher. Morgan then hit for two bags scoring Conable for Syracuse. With men on second and third Gallagher struck out the next two batters.

Vermont continued to score, getting three in the last of the sixth. Brown was smitten and Gallagher got a scratch hit. Maiden sacrificed each man one base. Ridlon singled, scoring two. Mayforth's single scored Ridlon. Score 9-3.

Four men faced Gallagher in the seventh, three being retired and one hit by ball. He was left on first. Vermont scored three more in the seventh on a base on balls, three errors. Ridlon's bunt and pood judgment in throwing the ball around the diamond. Score 12-3. Game called on account of rain.

Vermont scored consistently after the second inning while Syracuse pushed one over in each of three innings.

FOUNDER'S DAY A TRIBUTE TO FOUNDER

ADDRESS BY DEAN PERKINS

Battalion Drill.—Boulder Exercises.—Excellent Addresses.—Juniors Win Singing Contest.

According to the established custom of 20 years' standing, the first day of May, which fell on last Saturday, was marked by the celebration of Founder's Day at the University. This year was given over especially to memorials of the late Professor John E. Goodrich, the originator of the custom of doing honor to General Ira Allen, the man whose influence had so much to do with the founding of the college by the State of Vermont. At 8 o'clock in the morning, a concert was given on the front campus by the military band. This was followed by a battalion parade. Then, while the battalion lined up in review facing the Old Mill, President Benton addressed the old and new Boulder men as they gathered around the historic boulder. Upon the completion of these exercises, the line of march to the gymnasium was taken up, the seniors leading, followed by the other three classes in order.

At 9:30 o'clock, the Founder's Day exercises began with music by Taplin's Orchestra. This was followed by an anthem by the choir, the reading of scripture and prayer by Professor S. F. (Continued on page 8.)

YOUNG WOMEN READ STEVENSON FOR JULIA SPEAR PRIZE.

New System—Prizes Go to Miss Parker, '17, Miss Derway, '17, and Miss Conway, '17—Akraia Announces Elections.

On the evening of Founder's day, the annual Julia Spear prize reading contest of the freshman and sophomore girls was held in the Billings library. Doctor Tupper presided. This year the candidate did not know the selection that she was to read, but was prepared on 10 of Stevenson's essays. This element of chance complies more with the idea of the donor than the former plan of allowing each girl to perfect herself in a single selection. The program was as follows:

1. A Night Among the Pines—Rachel Frank, '18.
2. Pan's Pipes—Mary Conway, '17.
3. Aes Triplex—Mabel Derway, '17.
4. Walking Tours—Alsey Young '17.
5. Crabbed Age and Youth—Mildred Best, '18.

LUCKLESS GAME AGAINST HARVARD.

Crimson Finds Gallagher and Spear.
On Thursday afternoon Harvard wrought the worst intercollegiate defeat that Vermont has suffered in years. The score at Cambridge was 14 to 2. Disputed balks called on Gallagher in the first inning unnerved the team and the Crimson crossed the plate twice, four times again in the third. Spear replaced Gallagher and in the seventh was hit for eight runs. Vermont scored in the seventh and eighth.

JOYS OF JUNIOR WEEK COMMENCE MAY 19th

Banquet First, Followed by Fraternity Dances, the Prom, Peerade, Pomander Walk, Baseball, and the Boatride.

Junior week and its accompanying events is now the chief topic of interest around the campus. The committee in charge has had things under way for the last two weeks and the junior class will appear "en masse" during the "big week." Already the Majestic has felt the effects of the most stringent economy on the part of its patrons on the hill. Gold is being hoarded in stocking and bed-post, and it is said that the more frugal men are even now feeling the pangs of hunger. But after all, what is a square meal now and then, or two reels of Charley Chaplin when one is looking forward to six whole days of unalloyed pleasure?

On Monday evening, May 19, the juniors will hold their annual banquet at the New Sherwood Hotel. Norman Williams, the Fourth, will act as toastmaster. After due consideration, the committee has decided to serve no beverages stronger than grape juice and pink lemonade.

Tuesday will be a general day of rest.

On Wednesday evening the following fraternities will hold dances: Lambda Iota, at the fraternity house on Pearl street; Sigma Phi, at the chapter house on College street; Delta Psi, at the Hotel Vermont; Alpha Tau Omega, at Van Ness Roof Garden.

The big dance of the college year, the Junior Prom, comes on Thursday evening, May 20, at the gym. The prom committee is rather reluctant about giving out any great amount of information as to decorations, etc., but from hints dropped here and there, it is to be the "best ever." Refreshments are to be served in the Annex, which will represent a Japanese tea garden. Just how this enormous, girdered space is to be transformed into a Japanese tea garden with its myriad colored flowers (Continued on page 8.)

PITCHER'S BATTLE ENDED BY DARKNESS

12 SPECTACULAR INNINGS

Men Give Wonderful Support and Prove Tightest in Pinches.

Only at rare intervals in college baseball are the fans treated to such an exhibition of how the game should be played as was seen at Centennial Field on Friday, April 30, when Vermont and Colgate crossed bats in a 12 inning struggle, which ended with a long line of goose eggs on the score board. It was a pitcher's battle from the first, and no two pitchers have been seen on Centennial Field in some time who were more evenly matched, or who put up a better article of twirling than Spear and West. Spear has five strikeouts to his credit, three of them coming in one inning, when he held Robinson on third, after he had banged out a triple. West fanned seven Vermont batters, striking out the only three men to face him in the 10th. Spear walked one man, while West allowed no passes during the 12 innings. Four scattered hits were all that Colgate received off Spear, and West held Vermont to five bingles, also scattered. Not a wild pitch was registered during the game.

Both pitchers were supported by "real" fielding. Each team played a steady, consistent game, with perfect team work. Vermont had one error and Colgate two slight mis-cues chalk- (Continued on page 2.)

THREE BASEBALL GAMES AND TRACK MEET NEXT WEEK.

M. A. C., Brown, Tufts.—Middlebury.

Vermont has three baseball games scheduled for this week—M. A. C., Tuesday, May 11, at Amherst; Brown, May 12, at Providence; and Tufts, Saturday, May 15, at Burlington. Boston College will not be played. Dartmouth, although playing a weak game this year, has defeated M. A. C. 7-2. Brown has defeated Holy Cross 5-2 while Tufts defeated the same team 7-2. Brown has won from Wesleyan 5-1 and New Hampshire 6-2, losing to the strong Yale team 3-2. Tufts has shut out Fordham 4-0. Judging from the scant scores to date Brown will be Vermont's hardest proposition, with Tufts second and M. A. C. third.

Track.

At Hamilton today Vermont is running Colgate. The meet will put the men in good shape for the Middlebury meet next Wednesday, May 12, at Burlington.

In the first intercollegiate track meet (Continued on page 5.)

SENIOR COMMITTEES.

Ball—Boatride—Pipe—Banner.

The following senior committees have been appointed by President Mayforth: Senior Ball Committee, R. B. Smith, chairman, D. C. Brundage, C. H. Swett, and J. E. Rapuzzi, J. W. Bunce (medics), the Misses M. Watts and Spinney; Boat Ride Committee, W. T. Maiden, chairman, P. C. Glidden, C. C. Buchanan, C. S. Smart, medic; Pipe Committee, W. H. Grein, chairman; L. Kendall, J. S. Upham, and W. A. R. Chapin and W. M. Bronson, (medics); Banner Committee, Miss Benton, chairman; the Misses Douglas, Holten, and Fullington.

"POMANDER WALK" NEARS PERFECTION

Plattsburg, May 14.

Vouchers went on sale for the Burlington performance of "Pomander Walk" Wednesday afternoon. Before Thursday noon, nearly all the $1.50 seats were gone, as well as a generous number of $1.00 and 75 cent seats. These were nearly all sold on the "hill." As to how large the out-of-town and downtown sale will be, is still a matter of speculation. The out-of-town advertising was begun Wednesday afternoon, and "Pomander Walk" posters were placed in the hands of Vermont alumni in 35 towns, all within easy motoring distance of Burlington. This has been done in a more thorough way than at the time of the "Kake Walk," and results are expected.

With only a few rehearsals before the Plattsburg trip, the cast is working on a schedule, and is fast rounding into shape. Brooke-Hoskyn becomes every night more polished and more condescending, and the lovable old admiral becomes more choleric and more tender-hearted. Barbara and her parrot have become more and more a matter of course, and Marjolaine becomes more and more a ray of sunshine in every house along the "walk." The Eyesore alone remains unchanged. For three weeks he has kept his solitary seat by the riverside, fishing,—patiently, silently, gloomily,—and has not caught a single fish.

On the evening of May 14th, "Pomander Walk" will be played in Plattsburg, under the auspices of the Civic League of that city. A splendid audience is anticipated, since the Civic League is without doubt the most progressive and wide-awake organization in the city.

Davis and Bean wish to publish this statement in regard to the business methods of the management: "We think it is in harmony with the firm demand of the students that athletics, kake walk, and all other college activities be run efficiently and 'on the square' this year, when we make the following regulations and recommendations for Wig and Buskin:

1. Duplicates of all correspondence of the president have been kept on file. This, with the financial accounts of the manager, will be open to inspection at all times.

2. A complete inventory is being kept of all the property purchased by the society. At the request of the president and manager, Professor Tupper has kindly consented to take personal charge of this property. He will store it, beginning this year, and will also keep an accurate inventory of the same. With care on the part of the management, and earnest co-operation with Professor Tupper, Wig and Buskin, inside of five years, will have a very useful and very valuable dramatic equipment. When we consider how much property of value has been lost during the last 10 years through an inefficient system and needless neglect, the wisdom of this step is readily seen."

Prizes will be offered to the students selling the most vouchers before May 17th. First prize, two $1.50 seats; second prize, two $1.00 seats; third prize, one $1.50 seat.

PITCHER'S BATTLE ENDED BY DARKNESS.

ed up during the 12 innings. Spear was equally as strong in fielding his position as in twirling, accepting nine chances without an error. Linnehan at third also played a fast fielding game, and the rest of the Vermont infield were all in fine form. Murnane, in left field, picked some difficult ones out of the air, and both Swett and Tennien accepted two chances, each without errors.

Colgate's fielding was equally as good, and even more spectacular in one or two cases. Dwyer, at third, pulled down two nice ones, spoiling a hit for Mayforth, and capturing a foul after a long run. Frazier at second and Glendenning at short were effective at all times.

The hitting of Robinson for Colgate, who secured a triple and a double, was Ridlon featured with the stick, three a feature of the game. For Vermont, hits being chalked up to his credit.

Vermont lost an opportunity to score in the fourth, when Mayforth reached first on an error by Glendenning, stole second, and tried to make third when Goundry threw past second in an attempt to catch him. The ball was down to third too soon and Linnehan's two-bagger, which came a moment later, and which would have scored Mayforth, was of no avail. Again in the seventh, Vermont was dangerous, when Mayforth got first on an error, was advanced to second when Kenney dropped the ball at first on Linnehan's bunt, and there were two men on and nobody out. Then Merrill bunted too close to the pitcher's box, and Mayforth was caught at third. Swett and Tennien went out on easy ones. Three times during the game, Ridlon was caught at second, after a hit had placed him on first.

Colgate had a man on third at two different times during the game. In the third, Frazier singled and was advanced to third by sacrifices on the part of Stewart and Reed. But Kenney was out at first, and another opportunity lost. Robinson's three bagger, with nobody out in the sixth, looked bad for Vermont, but Spear tightened up, striking out the next three men in quick succession.

During the extra innings, both pitchers seemed to grow stronger rather than weakening. In the tenth, West fanned the only three men to face him, while Spear retired two men by the air route after the ninth inning.

Darkness ended the game at the end of the 12th, and each team realized that it was no disgrace to split honors evenly with the other. The Colgate players were, individually and collectively, a clean, hard-fighting, gentlemanly team, and not a difficulty occurred during the game. The score:

SOPHOMORE GIRLS ENJOY FEAST.

Hotel Vermont is Scene of Much Merriment.—Serenades Follow.

The annual banquet of the sophomore young women was held at the Hotel Vermont last evening, May 7. Covers were laid for every member of the class and the chaperons, Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Stone. The decorations were of purple and gold flowers. The following toasts were given, with Jessie Fiske at toastmistress.

"Class," Laura Parker; "College," Jennie Maxfield; "Men," Frances Tenney; "The Future," Pearl Grandy; "The Faculty," Edith Holdstock; "Athletics," Lessie Cobb.

The evening closed with the singing of college songs outside of Grassmount, Howard Hall, and The Annex. The committee in charge was Elizabeth Baker, Jessie Fiske, Laura Parker, Mary Conway, and Alsey Young.

SUMMER COURSES IN AGRICULTURE.

24 new courses have been added to those given during the regular summer term of the state college of agriculture at Cornell, according to an announcement which has just been made. The new term starts on June 7 and ends on September 22.

As stated in the announcement, "the primary purpose of the summer term is to take advantage of the growing season in teaching subjects to students regularly registered in either graduate or undergraduate classes." Opportunity is also provided for advance students, teachers, and for persons otherwise occupied during the winter months, to take long periods of special work.

ALBANY LAW SCHOOL

The course of study leading to the degree of LL. B. extends over a period of three years. Students who have pursued one or two years in a law office may enter the second year class as a candidate for a diploma but not a degree.

The high standard of the school and the facilities which the city affords with its legislature, courts and library, offer unequalled opportunity for a thorough and practical training.

There were several thrills during the game when it looked as though one side or the other might score, but neither the spectators or the players seemed in a thrilling mood, and inning followed inning without much excitement until the last when Vermont got behind Gilbert and nearly evened the score for him.

After the initiation, the new and old members of the society enjoyed a banquet at the Hotel Vermont. Professor Tupper acted as toastmaster.

Our Autediluvian.

What is this? This is the University catalogue for 1914-15. When was 1914? We do not know. It is past and gone and we read of its history in the catalogue. We like to read about the University in the days of 1914, and Caesar crossing the Rubicon, and such things of ancient note. It is all very curious and interesting to us moderns. Next year's students, before the 1916 catalogue appears, are going to use the 1914 one as a text. Doubtless it will be of great service. We hope it will be of as much service to them as to us. Yes, it was fortunate that the seniors could see their name in print before graduation. We feel sorry for next year's seniors for it is rumored the sad grey book is to be dropped a year so as to catch up with itself. This rumor is not founded on fact.

Moral: Why is a catalogue?

The Team.

Vermont has the best working team it has had for four years. The men are more adapted to each other and play together better. They have a better spirit. Instead of waiting for the other team to take the aggressive they take it themselves. It is the type of team a college likes to stand behind. It will lose some games, but it will always do its best, and so long as it does its best it will know where the college stands.

Let's Go to it Again.

The banquet season is here again. What a terribly childish and unmanly, ungentlemanly thing it would be if some class should vote to have their banquet dry. Wouldn't it be funny though to go to a banquet and see an orderly crowd of men sitting soberly around a long white board! There's no drinking at a football banquet and it gets so funny and such a bore you almost die laughing, and nobody has a good time, and everyone goes away wishing he had got drunk, and calling it a rotten affair all around. But, then, there are men present before whom it wouldn't be wise to get drunk—nor proper. At other times, however, it's all right. So let's go to it again. Nothing like a grand old booze fight.

The Singing Season.

The second annual singing contest is over, and has accomplished all that might reasonably be expected. It is the beginning of the spring singing season and naturally suggests the question: Is Vermont going to sing this year? Weekly sings, while not always a great success, at least do some good and fill a need.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor:

The Collegiate Anti-Militarism League, which was formed recently among the students at Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton and other colleges to combat the activities of such organizations as the American Legion and the National Security League, is undertaking an investigation to discover the exact strength of the militaristic spirit among college men.

Two hundred letters are being sent to the editors of college dailies, to find their attitude towards summer training camps, military drills and lectures on military tactics. The letters say in part: "An agitation for military service has been started by the National Security League. It is our belief that such a movement is unnecessary and to the highest degree vicious. Its advocates may declare they are opposed to militarism yet they are really fostering its spread. The proposal strikes all college men very close to home. We wish to publish a symposium of student opinion on military camps, drills and lectures."

Eight hundred letters are being sent to instructors and professors in colleges and Universities to gauge their personal inclinations as to increased armaments and a larger army, recruited among college students. Blanks are also being sent to four hundred colleges, including every state in the Union, for the purpose of obtaining an actual poll of the students themselves. Each institution is provided with a list of questions to be submitted to individuals.

The Collegiate Anti-Militarism League professes a belief that the trend of undergraduate thought is against the growth of militarism, and will publish the returns as an answer to the arguments of the American Legion and the National Security League. The officers of the League are Karl G. Karsten, President, Columbia; Arthur Fisher, Vice-President, Harvard; John Temple Graves, Jr., Secretary, Princeton; A. L. Trachtenberg, Treasurer, Yale.

RULES GOVERNING ADMISSION TO MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The following rulings of the American Medical Association will be in effect for admission to the College of Medicine beginning September, 1915:

No student will be admitted to the work of the first year with a condition in secondary work.

No student will be admitted to the work of the first year with a condition in Chemistry 1.

Conditions may be in either (1) or (2) below, but not in both.

(1) One half year of Physics (3 hours).

(2) One half year of Zoology (3 hours).

No student will be admitted to the College of Medicine with more than eight (8) semester hours condition.

ANNUAL BANQUET FOR COMMONS CLUB.

Toasts by Active and Honorary Members.

The second annual Commons Club banquet was held in the Commons Club rooms last Wednesday evening, May 5. A meeting of the club was held Friday night, April 30, to discuss baseball and the banquet. The committee in charge of the banquet was comprised of B. R. Buchanan, L. G. Lougee, W. P. McMahon, L. A. Woodward and R. W. Johnson. L. W. Dean, '15, acted as toastmaster and the postprandial exercises were as follows:

Musidora, Orchestra; "Prexy's" Address, M. D. Powers; Our Honorary Members, Dr. S. G. Barnes; "Pomander Walk," Davis, '15; C. C. and Track, Levy, '16; "Crabby," Prindle, '15; Step Lively, Orchestra; "Baseball is King," Hoyt, '17; "The Frosh," Woodward, '18; "The U. V. M. Army," Capt. Reeves; Sweetheart Days, Orchestra; The Duty of Mutual Understanding, Prof. Appelmann; "Society Stuff," Holden, '15; Aviation, Mills, '15; "Going Out the Door," Hawkins, '17; German-ee, Orchestra.

Professor Thomas also responded to a toast and the evening was enlivened by college songs, closing with "Champlain."

DEBATERS MEET.

Vermont Challenged by Bates.

Pierce, '18, gave a very interesting talk before the Debating Club last Monday night on the "Dardenelles." He discussed the activities which have centered around the Dardenelles from ancient times to the present.

Bailey, '15, spoke on the coming Clark debate, also about a challenge which has been received from Bates to debate either this spring or next year. Probably an attempt will be made to have a debate with Bates in December.

SIGMA NU ENTERTAINS GUESTS FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

Smoker—Tea Dance—Banquet at Hotel Vermont.

The annual convention of the 14th Division Association of Sigma Nu Fraternity is now in session at the Sigma Nu Lodge. The activities of the convention began last night with a "smoker." The business session is to be held at 10 o'clock this morning. A tea dance will be given at the fraternity house this afternoon at 3.30, and a banquet this evening at 8 o'clock at the Hotel Vermont. Delegates are present from Columbia, Brown, Dartmouth, Maine and Stevens Institute.

FRESHMEN GET TRACK MEET.

1917 Second—Smith, '18, High Scorer.
The interclass track meet last Thursday afternoon, April 29, was rather poorly contested save for the varsity men. The final decision was awarded the freshmen instead of the sophomores, LeBaron's points counting for 1918 instead of 1917. 1918 was first with 32 points, 1917 second with 28, 1916 was third with 19 points and 1915 last with 8. Smith, '18, was the high scorer, getting four firsts.

The list of events is as follows:
100-yd dash—1st, Bolster, '16; 2nd, Gallagher, '16; 3rd, Patterson, '16.
High hurdles—1st, Smith, '18; 2nd, Hackett, '17.
Half mile—1st, LeBaron, '17; 2nd, Wilbur, '17; 3rd, Hawkins, '17.
High jump—1st, Smith, '18.
220-yd dash—1st, Bolster, '16; 2nd, Spencer, '18.
220-yd hurdles—1st, Smith, '18.
Broad jump—1st, Smith, '18; 2nd, Taggart, '18; 3rd, Hackett, '17.
Hammer throw—1st, Burrage, '17.
Discus—1st, Burrage, '17; 2nd, Ames, '17.
Shot put—1st, Ames, '17; 2nd, Grandy, '15.
440-yd dash—1st, Patterson, '16; 2nd, Smith, '17.
Pole vault—Burrage, '17 and Taggart, '18, tied for first.
Mile run—1st, Hayden, '15.

T. C. A. CIRCLE HAS MEMBERSHIP OF 24.

Election of Officers.

The girls of the T. C. A. Circle entertained the other members of the Circle, on Friday evening, Apr. 30, in Grassmount sun parlor.

An important business meeting was held, at which plans were made for the entertainment of a visiting delegate from Troy Conference Academy at the University during Junior Week. The Circle will hold a banquet in the city on May 22.

Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—Pres., Arthur C. Lewis, '17; Vice-Pres., Miss Sarah Thomas; Sec.-Treas., Clara M. Gardner, '16; Executive Board, C. F. Hasbrook, '17, Ruth M. France, '16, and as faculty member, Mr. R. T. Burdick.

Refreshments were served and a "Reminiscence Hour" was enjoyed. The membership of the Circle is now 24, the largest in the history of the organization.

ALDERMEN ACCEPT

UNIVERSITY'S OFFER.

The board of aldermen has voted to give to the University the work of city physician with a salary of $600. The University's $600 bid was the highest of three but out of consideration of the greater facilities for service, the need of more clinical work, and benefit of the Medical College to the city their offer was accepted. The work will be extended and will be in charge of two or three University physicians assisted by fourth year men.

THE WEEK'S MINOR BASEBALL GAMES

Phi Delts Outthit Sigma Phis in Second Game of Interfrat Series.—Sophs Show Up Well Against Troop F.—All-Stars Defeated.—Kappa Sigs Defeat Alpha Kaps.

In an interesting game the Phi Delta Theta baseball team defeated the Sigma Phi nine by a score of 14 to 9, Monday afternoon. The game was the second in the interfraternity series. The Phi Delts started the ball rolling in the first inning, when they touched pitcher Ballard for eight runs. After this inning the game was fairly interesting, with the Sigma Phis cutting down the gap steadily. The game was featured by many acrobatic stunts in the infield and with spectacular base running. For the Phi Delts, Mould's pitching and hitting were features, while for Sigma Phi, the all around playing of "Pete" Dow held the attention of the crowded grandstands.

"Pop" Elrick's homer in the first round, with the bases full, gave the Phi Delts a big lead. The Sigma Phis came back slowly but surely and in the fifth inning the score was 10 to 9. But the Phi Delts were still strong and clinched the game in their half by putting four runs across the plate. The game was called at six o'clock by agreement. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Sigma Phi	1	0	2	1	5	0	0
Phi Delts	8	1	0	1	4	0	0

The batteries were: Mould, Weed, Elrick and Durfee; Ballard, Dow and Manning. Umpire, Tennien. Time about an hour.

Sophomores vs. Troop F.

Saturday afternoon, May 1, the Sophomore baseball team defeated Troop F from Fort Ethan Allen, by a score of 5 to 0. The Sophs tallied all their runs in the first two innings, when they knocked the ball to all corners of the field, thereafter the fort twirler steadied down and had the Soph batters at his mercy. For 1917, Batchelder and Burleson pitched good ball and allowed but four hits.

The line up was:

1917.—Mandeville s. s., McLeod 3rd., Short 2nd., Hackett 1st., Whitney r. f., Metcalf r. f., Greenwood l. f., Swett c., Batchelder and Burleson p.

Troop F.—Nelson 1st., Gamar 2nd., Moore p., Allen r. f., Wickwire 3rd., Schmitt r. f., Dykstone c. f., Grine c., Ekenwood s. s. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
1917	2	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Troop F	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

Batteries, Batchelder, Burleson and Swett; Moore and Grine. Time 1:45.

All Stars vs. St. Michael's.

The Vermont All Star team, composed of practically the same team that is known as the Rovers, was defeated Saturday afternoon, May 1, by St. Michael's College by a score of 9 to 3. The game only went six innings on account of the weather conditions. Harris pitched a good game for the All Stars until the 5th inning, when St.

Michael's came across for six runs. The runs for the All Stars were made by Kelley, Butler and Pike. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	B.	H.	E.
St. Michael's	0	0	3	0	6	0	—	9	10
All Stars	1	0	1	0	0	1	—	3	4

The batteries were: Clarke and Gilligan; Harris and Ferrin.

Kappa Sigs vs. Alpha Kaps.

In the third game of the interfraternity baseball series Wednesday, Kappa Sigma defeated Alpha Kappa Kappa by a score of 11 to 9. The game was replete with grandstand plays and time and again the immense audience on the back campus was thrilled by the sensational work of each team. "Johnny" Free played well both at the bat and in the field for the Alpha Kaps, and Johnson put up a good game for the Kappa Sigs. Hanrahan distinguished himself by miffing a fly but recovering in time to put the man out on second. Captain "Shep" Hayden of the track team satisfactorily proved that his talents lie along the cinder path rather than around second base. The line-up and score by innings:

Kappa Sigma.—Ryan, c; Powers, s. s.; Dwyne, 1b.; Griswold, p.; Hayden, 2b.; Hunt, c. f.; Durfee, 3b.; Johnson, l. f.; Conner, r. f. (Glidden replaced Conner in the third).

Alpha Kappa Kappa.—Quimby, c.; Walker, p.; Alden, 1b.; Hanrahan, 2b.; Pike, s. s.; Houston, 3b.; Free, l. f.; Brennan, c. f.; Nutter, r. f.

Innings ..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Kappa Sigma ..... 0 0 2 0 4 5—11
Alpha Kaps ..... 0 0 1 1 4 0 3—9
Time: One hour and a half. Umpire: "Monk" Ferrin, '15.

THREE BASEBALL GAMES AND TRACK MEET NEXT WEEK. (Continued from page 1.)

of the season, Middlebury completely outclassed the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute team on the latter's field Saturday afternoon at Troy, N. Y., winning by a score of 76 to 46. After the first few events the result was never in doubt and the wearers of the blue and white piled up a substantial lead as the games went on. 10 first places, five seconds and five thirds tell the story.

Owing to the inclement weather, the track was in wretched condition and fast time was practically impossible.

Lee was easily the star performer of the day, with a total of 21 points to his credit. He took first places in the hundred, high hurdles, and broad jump, tied for first place in the high jump, and took second in the pole vault.

Middlebury was particularly strong in the field events. Day had no difficulty in winning the shot put, while Condit, Horsford and Day took all three places in the hammer throw, in the order named. Brewster and Day annexed second and third in the discus, while Lee and Paulsen tied with Niles of R. P. I., for first in the high jump.

Summary of events, showing Middlebury's records:

100-yard dash—First, Lee, Midd. Time, 10 3-5 sec.

Shot put—First, Day, Midd. Distance 38 ft.

One mile run—First, Jones, Midd. Time, 5 min. 9 sec.

William Faversham

Famous Actor, says

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo will put snap and vim into your daily work. It's an inspiring tobacco that will keep you fit as a fiddle, full of zest, hearty and happy and hale. You can smoke it all day long, and each succeeding pipeful will glow with greater cheer.

The line-up with U. V. M. will be practically the same as the R. P. I. meet with the only important addition of J. J. Lamere, '16, considered the best man in the two mile. Lamere will probably enter the mile and high jump as well, providing the baseball coach lets him enter at all.

Brewster, '18, is Middlebury's best man with the discus and can throw around 100 feet. J. J. Floyd, '16, is a dark horse but has a good "rep."

The team is in excellent condition and considered the best Middlebury has ever had to offer.

Tennis.

The Varsity Tennis team left Wednesday, May 5, for a three day trip. They played Union College at Schenectady, N. Y., Thursday, Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y., Friday and meet Fordham at New York City today. Manager Remby, Roberts, Dow, Booth, Taggart, and R. D. Sawyer, Faculty Representative, are on the trip.

Y. M. C. A. SUMMARIZES WORK OF YEAR.

Much Cause for Encouragement.

In looking back over the work of the Y. M. C. A. for the past year, there seems no reason for discouragement. In looking back over the Association for the past four years there seems many reasons for encouragement. The past year, has not been without its failures, but these failures were not due to idleness, rather it has been a year of activity and experience. Therefore, the failures should be a lesson, and where there have been attempts and failures this year there need be no wasted time again.

The two most signal difficulties have been in financing and in Tuesday night meetings. Last spring, the course of lectures commenced in the winter were completed. They paid expenses, but did not warrant repetition. Professor Borland made a written appeal to each student for a quarter, enclosing return coin card. This plan entirely failed. Owing to lack of leaders and the hope of a large enrollment no large entertainment was staged. Nor did precedent demand it, but it would seem now that if the student Association is to meet its own expenses it must adopt some annual money-raising feature that will insure a good income. Up to last year the running expenses of the organization had not been heavy. The last two years have taught that there must be some definite undergraduate plan for meeting them. This should come off before Thanksgiving.

The Tuesday evening meetings are a problem. A new scheme was tried this year. Its aim was to interest the non-interested men in the Y. M. C. A. The plan failed. The average attendance was nine or 10 men. The question is, shall these meetings be dropped? They are apparently ineffective, they add one burden more to the burden bearers of the Association, and tempt outsiders to misjudge. Yet one would hesitate long before saying, "Yes, drop them." If continued shall they be used as religious services, in which case no new men will be attracted, or shall they be used as an inducement? It was with this last idea in mind that they were worked this year, in having a series of talks by leading professors. This plan need not be tried again. A trial might be made of discussion meetings with college problems and moral issues as the theme. Occasional refreshments might help out in keeping up interest. The prayer meeting is the ideal, but the objection is that it helps only the few, and those few are the ones who possibly least need help. Yet the ultimate goal of the whole work should be religion. "Service" can never be its substitute. What Vermont needs as much as anything is a band of religious workers about which to rally—not, however, of the distinctive type that used to make up the Tuesday night circle. Possibly this prayer meeting is the inspiration and backbone of the Association, its center, its solidity, for the men who compose it are workers and reliable.

Last spring a deputation of nine attended the Northfield Conference for a few days. This was the largest delegation by far of recent years. Dr. Barnes taught a class throughout. The men were as much pleased as surprised with Northfield, and expressed a desire to go again.

Among the speakers who have helped the Association in its work might be mentioned Mr. Colvin of the I. P. R., Mr. Leiper of the Student Vol. Movement, Mr. Shaw of the I. P. R., and Mr. Barstow of Hartford Theological Seminary. Particular pains were taken to give these men an audience before the students, and all of them succeeded in getting an unusual hearing. The most largely attended talks were given by the speaker secured by Dr. Barnes for The Day of Prayer. An audience has been gained through the year before the St. Paul's Club, the Debating Club, Chapel, etc. Dr. Boyd conducted lectures.

Aside from the Northfield Conference the Association made a notable gain in the number attending the State Conference at Montpelier, seven attending; and the College was also represented at the annual President's conference at Wesleyan, and at the Hartford Conference this spring. A report was sent to the State convention last spring.

More advertising has been used this year. The Association Notes have had full reports, the CYNIC also, the Free Press has had better reports, and the bulletin boards have been used to advantage. Chapel notices have also been read.

A large membership was enrolled this year, due to class meetings, advertising, etc. The usual reception was given to freshmen in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A., which was of medium success. Soon after this came the week's membership campaign.

An advisable step was taken when the cabinet was made up early in the year. All vacancies were thereafter filled immediately. Cabinet meetings were held on the average of about once a month, several being in conjunction with the advisory board.

A basis for deputation work was laid. A successful weekly deputation was conducted all last spring in So. Burlington. Good work was done. There was an average attendance of about 40 or 45. Men have also been sent to Grand Isle, Winooski, etc. With Mr. Clark, State Secretary, interested and the work started, there ought to be considerable advance made the coming year.

this year that the Association has ever had. Free copies were sent to prospective students, and distributed about college. Leather-bound copies sold well at 10 cents a piece.

There has been social work done at the jail and the W. C. T. U., Dr. Barnes supplying monthly speakers. This was also done last year. A new venture was made in collecting magazines for the hospital and the jail.

A Lost and Found Bureau was installed, which worked with some success. This will be commenced the first thing next fall and an attempt made to make it more serviceable. A book exchange may be run.

The employment bureau did not supply as much work as last year for the simple reason that there was a dearth of jobs. It did what it could, and the demand for work on the part of the students was large.

The missionary committee did nothing except provide a list of Vermont missionaries. It did not seem possible to conduct a mission study class, for no one was interested. Possibly a small number could have been collected, but it is difficult to get men where there is no desire. Dr. Barnes conducted a course in Bible history in the regular college curriculum which was an addition to last year.

Boy's work, educational work and industrial service work held about even. This, however, would seem encouraging in view of the fact that last year more might have been expected of it than this year because of the incentive of Rindge. Classes of various kinds and with varying successes have been held at Winooski, the Y. M. C. A., the Champlain School, the Library, Home for Destitute Children, Neighborhood House, etc. Captain Reeves, now an active member of the Association, has done a great deal of Boy Scout work, etc.

One thing remains to be spoken of—the Bible classes. No committee has done more effective work. The plan formulated was to organize a Bible class at Sunday School time in each church under attractive leaders, and about once a month have a union service with a good speaker. All the churches save the Unitarian had these classes and the union idea was carried out except no special speaker was obtained. If this additional feature can be added next year it will be excellent. The Y. M. C. A. classes are now recognized as such and the union with the churches is more efficient.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS MEET.

Monday evening at Grassmount there was a meeting of the student volunteers. The plan was for each member to present the needs of a special country.

1917 Singing Smoker.

The sophomores held a smoker in the gymnasium Thursday evening, April 29. Speeches, songs, cheers, and a general stirring up of interest for the singing contest on Founder's Day was the program for the evening. Smokers or chapel hour sings were held by all the classes during the week.

SENIORS DEBATE AGAIN.

The second senior debate of the semester was held on Friday, April 30, Daniels and Gardyne, supporting the negative of the question, "Resolved, that the stock exchange should be regulated by the Government," won from Remby and Healy, upholding the affirmative. The judges were Professors Groat, Jackman and Baker.

GIRLS PLAN PLAY.

The Mask and Sandal met Monday at 4.10 in the Y. W. C. A. room and appointed Miss Gleason and Miss Votey to confer with Doctor Tupper concerning plans for the commencement play.

FOUNDER'S DAY A TRIBUTE TO ITS FOUNDER.

Emerson, chaplain of the day, and the singing of the "English Ode."

Then Morris Raymond Wilcox, '16, of Georgeville, P. Q., delivered an admirable address on "John Ellsworth Goodrich." Wilcox told of the part which Professor Goodrich had played in the originating of this custom of celebrating Founder's Day, and of his untiring efforts to make it a success. The events of importance in Professor Goodrich's connection with the college were briefly sketched, and the strength and beauty of his character eulogized. In closing, Mr. Wilcox said, "Founder's Day has never been complete without this man, who, more than any other then living, represented the spirit of the founders."

The next speaker was Wesley Alba Sturges, '15, of Underhill. His address on "College Life" was a finished piece of workmanship and showed careful preparation and deep insight into the problems of the college world. Mr. Sturges said: "College Life constitutes a part of that institution called education as a means to better social adjustment. Essentially specialized in its activities and environments, it embraces a distinct sphere of society. It includes the college and everything therein." Going on to explain the meaning and content of "College Life," he continued, "The college is an academic community. Creating no material commodity, it is not industrial. Neither is it fundamentally political nor ethical. The salient features of the college community is its purpose." Moreover, the college world is a world of preparation, a place for moulding of ideals, formation of character, for the dawn of personality. We hear much fault found with certain phases of college life, and there are those who claim that college means a four year's loaf, at the end of which a man finds himself face to face with a world for which he is not prepared. Others claim that the college makes a man impractical, that it stores his mind with facts without teaching him how to use them. And yet these same people send their own sons and daughters to college.

Following the singing of "Champlain," the oration of the day, on the subject "The University During the Professorship of John E. Goodrich," was delivered by Dean G. H. Perkins of the College of Arts and Sciences. Speaking reminiscently of those younger days in the history of the University, Dean Perkins held the attention of his entire audience, both young and old, by the simple power of his personality. The content of his address is explained in his opening lines: "Others have so satisfactorily and so tenderly expressed our love and reverence for Professor Goodrich that I shall not attempt to add to that which has been done so well. Rather than this, I wish to speak of the development of the college to which he gave so much of his best, of which he was so large a part, and which could not have become what it is had he not been what he was." A detailed and exceptionally interesting sketch of the development of the University from 1872 to 1906, and the connection of Professor Goodrich with this development, followed. From a mere handful of buildings, with no library, no Science Hall, no Converse Hall, Morrill Hall, nor gymnasium, with the faculty consisting of a president and seven professors, and with a student body of 70 all told, when Professor Goodrich first entered the University as an instructor in 1872, the old college has grown and developed enormously in the past 40 years. Such changes as the introduction of the elective system in 1889 and the admission of women to the University in 1872, when the agitation was strong against co-education, have had important influences upon the history of the college. It was largely through the untiring efforts of Professor Goodrich and his great love for books that there is now the fine library which is such a valuable asset to the University. His services as librarian, when the library was inconveniently located in what is now the second floor of the museum building, and his intense interest in all the affairs of the library throughout his connection with the University, were invaluable. Dean Perkins closed with the following words from one of Vermont's prominent alumni: "The traditions of our New England Colleges are the finest possession of the country. These traditions go back to the classroom, where the influence that abides was derived from some wise, gentle and strong soul with whom the boy or girl came in contact day by day for a period of years. The University of Vermont is largely what it is because of the succession of such personalities in its history. John Ellsworth Goodrich was one of these."

President Benton made a few brief remarks, which were followed by the announcement of the new members of the Boulder and Key and Serpent Societies. The singing of the "Latin Ode" and the benediction closed the exercises, and all adjourned to the front campus, around the statue of Lafayette, where the second annual singing contest for the Elias Lyman Cup was held. Each class, beginning with the seniors, assembled in turn about "Old Lafayette" and sang its songs. The senior offerings were a class song by C. H. Swett, and "Come Men Let's Show Our Fight," led by Swett and Dow. The juniors sang the "Old Mill Song," "Harvard Has Her Crimson," and a class song by A. O. Seaver, led by W. F. Gallagher. The sophomores followed with a class song by G. T. Short and F. S. Swett, and "Hail Green and Gold," led by Short, while the freshmen sang an original song by H. Machanic, and "Old Vermont is E'er Victorious," led by H. R. Gallup. The judges, with Dean Perkins as chairman, Mr. Schneider, and Mr. Bessey decided unanimously in favor of the juniors, who won the cup last year as sophomores. The freshmen were awarded honorable mention. "Champlain," by all the classes closed the exercises.

The Billings Library, in the evening, was the scene of the annual Julia Spear Prize Reading, of which a report is given elsewhere.

and profuse foliage is almost beyond human conception. The committee, however, promise this and more, and is anxious to show what a little hard work and self-sacrifice will do towards making a background and atmosphere worthy of the occasion.

On Friday morning at 11 o'clock sharp, Church St. will witness the most stupendous peerade ever attempted. Floats, organizations, bands, and individual stunts will wend their way down upon the townspeople who gather every year to see the creations so characteristic of college ingenuity. History, this day, will repeat itself. Floats, symbolic of historical events, will vie with those representing college life. Several individuals have already signified their intention of entering the peerade, to say nothing of the fraternities and various organizations which will be represented. In short, the juniors say: "P. T. Barnum and Ringling Brothers will have nothing on us."

It is desired that all fraternities and organizations that have not already handed in a description of their stunt to R. R. Bogie, will do so at once. There are three cups offered: Melisedon offers a cup for the most elaborate float; Wig and Buskin Society will present a cup for the most original float or stunt; and a third cup will be given for the best individual costume.

In the afternoon the Cotillion Club will hold its annual dance. In the evening, the Wig and Buskin Society will present "Pomander Walk." Vouchers for the play are now on sale.

Massachusetts Agricultural College plays Vermont Saturday afternoon at Centennial field. The junior week festivities close on Saturday night with the junior boatride, from 8:30 to 11:30. Boatride tickets which go on sale Saturday at 50 cents each are simply vouchers to be exchanged at the wharf.

The usual provisions have been made for dancing on the boat. Refreshments will also be served on board.

H. K. Berger, '17, is working on a folder program for the junior week events.

BALL TOSSERS LEAVE STRING OF DEFEATS DROP FOUR GAMES

Harvard Umpire a Storm Center—Home Run Victory for Yale—
M. A. C. too Strong in the Box
—Brown Slugs the Ball.

In a game which would not have been so one-sided as the score indicates, had it not been for questionable decisions of the umpire, Vermont lost to Harvard at Cambridge Thursday scoring only two runs to the Crimson's 14.

With two men on bases in the third inning Gallagher balked. Abbot ran home, intercepting Gallagher's throw to Mayforth. In the meantime Mahan raced around the bases and crossed home plate. Nash, the man at bat, was allowed first base but, only after much wrangling was Mahan sent back to third. In the next instant Mahan's wild actions on third caused Vermont to balk again thereby advancing the two men on bases. After more discussion, which centered about umpire Brady, Hardwick lined out a two-bagger to left field and thus brought the Crimson's score up to six.

In the seventh inning, Spear, who had replaced Gallagher, was "all riled up" over crude decisions and Harvard added eight more runs.

A Vermont graduate of '99 says of the game:

"The enclosed clipping from the Boston Globe is, I think, fairly typical of local opinion concerning the Vermont-Harvard game. I saw the contest and from the speed and general knowledge of the game as it was played I would have expected a score of something like Harvard 5, Vermont 2. Harvard played a fine, clean game and deserved a victory of which she might be proud instead of one which must, through no fault of her own, be rated as a fiasco."

It Was a Fine Mess.

That was a fine mess of a ball game out on Soldiers Field yesterday between Harvard and Vermont. It is not likely that Vermont would have beaten "Minnie" Frye, but had things gone along in ordinary fashion there most surely would have been no 14 to 2 score.

The decision which made all the trouble came on a combination of baseball seldom seen. The lesson on rules, however, is simple. When the pitcher makes a balk, the baserunners advance, but the batter does not go to first. Also, when the catcher interferes with the batter, the latter is entitled to first.

1917 PERMANENT POSSESSOR OF Y. W. BANNER.

The Young Woman's Christian Association was addressed Friday afternoon, May 7th, by Miss Terrill on the subject of "The Consumers' League." Miss Terrill is personally acquainted with the organizer of the league and spoke most interestingly and authoritatively of its important work. Miss Clara Gardner, '16, presided at the meeting. Miss Lucy Swift, '16, awarded the banner for best attendance to the class of 1917. This month closed the contest and the banner is now permanently in the possession of the sophomore class.

JUNIOR WEEK COMMENCES WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Banquet Postponed—Last Three Days Granted to Upper Classmen.

Junior week plans are rapidly maturing. The Senate has allowed the last three days of the week to upper-classmen but on condition that the Junior banquet which was to have taken place Monday night be put off. Because of this the banquet has been indefinitely postponed.

Lambda Iota, Sigma Phi, Delta Psi, Alpha Tau Omega and the Commons Club will hold dances Wednesday night. The Phi Deltis will hold their dance Friday afternoon and the Kappa Sigs will hold theirs May 31st.

One of the features of the Prom will be the Japanese Tea Garden in the gym annex where refreshments will be served. About 30 rustic pagodas are to be placed around the walls which will be further decorated with flowers.

The peerade will form Friday at 11:00 A. M. in front of the college and will go down Pearl and Church streets and back up to the college. The cup offered for the most elaborate float is on exhibition at Bero's.

One innovation this year will be dancing on the boat during the ride on Saturday night. The boat will leave the dock at 8:30 P. M., returning at 11:30 P. M., going down the lake and stopping at Cedar Beach. Tickets may be obtained from members of the committee or at Howard's or Wood's.

TRACK TEAM COMES IN FOR 2 DUAL MEETS SEVERAL RECORDS LOWERED

Vermont Permits Colgate to Win by Heavy Score—Middlebury Meet the One Bright Spot in Week of Defeats.

Vermont met defeat by a score of 77-27 at the hands of Colgate in the dual track meet, held Saturday, May 8, at Hamilton, N. Y. The score does not, however, signify that Vermont has a poor track team. On the contrary, she has one of the best teams this year that she ever turned out as is shown by the fact that in this meet five Vermont records were broken.

Dr. Stone realized before he left Burlington that there were no hopes for a victory, for among the seven who took the trip there was but one weight man, all the rest being ineligible. The Doctor is certain that if he could have taken the weight men the score would have been 57-47. All hopes for winning being given up, several men who would have been point winners were not entered because of the approaching Middlebury meet in which a victory was looked for.

Hayden in the mile beat his former record by six seconds, doing it in 4m. 38½s., and lost first place by only four feet. LeBaron, after a hard start, worked his way past seven men in the half mile and also finished four feet behind the winner. He did the half mile in 2m. 4½s., beating all Vermont records. Burrage beat the Vermont record by 3 inches in the pole vault, doing 10 feet 3 inches. Smith was the individual star with three firsts, including a new dual record in the high jump of 5 feet 11½ inches, to his credit.

The Colgate estimate of the meet is that Colgate easily defeated the University. Vermont appeared with only eight men and obtained but three first places and 27 points while the Maroon captured 77 counters. The Vermont team without the aid of Smith, '18 would have been practically of no value for making points. Smith captured three firsts, the 120 high hurdles, high jump, and broad jump, the only first places that counted for the Green. The Colgate athletes were in good form and had no trouble in winning all the events except those gained by Smith. However it must be said of Vermont that the team did not fairly represent the college, as several of their best athletes were ineligible on account of college work.

TRUSTEE TO BE ELECTED.

The committee elected by the Associate Alumni of the University to nominate candidates for the office of trustee of the University sent notices to those entitled to vote, nominating Ralph A. Stewart, '93, of Boston, Carroll W. Doten, '95, of Boston, and Perley O. Ray, '98, of Hartford, Conn. Only one of the three is to be elected and the returned ballots must be in the hands of the registrar by June 15.

DEBATERS LOSE TO CLARK BY NARROW MARGIN

Vermont is Strongest in Construction
But is Worst in Rebuttal.

Friday evening, May 7, in Williams Science Hall, a closely contested debate between teams representing Clark College of Worcester, Mass., and the University of Vermont, resulted in a victory for the former by a divided decision of the judges. The question was, "Resolved, that the federal government should own and operate the telephone and telegraph lines within the United States." The affirmative was supported by Talamo, Lubin, and Bodfish for Clark; negative, by Crane, Prindle, and Hunt. The judges were Congressman-elect Porter H. Dale of Island Pond, Rev. C. C. Adams of Essex Jct., and Hon. Walter H. Crockett of Montpelier. Professor Tupper acted as chairman. The time allowed for each constructive argument was 12 minutes; for rebuttals, six minutes.

The Clark team won the debate rather by their forceful style of speaking than on weight of argument. Between the opening arguments and the rebuttals it seemed to the audience that the Vermont men had had a shade the better of the argument, but in rebuttal Clark came back strong, and by force of three fluent, pointed speeches turned the decision to a 2 to 1 affirmative vote.

The debate was full of snap from start to finish, and before it was fairly begun the audience of a hundred or more were applauding the speakers enthusiastically, and showed such lively interest in the contest that it is reasonable to expect that debating will rapidly gain popularity at U. V. M.

Talamo, in opening the debate for Clark, showed that the real question was whether the telephone and telegraph industries should be public monopolies, or private monopolies under regulation. He asserted that if government regulation has long been tried it has failed. He called attention to railroads as examples of the demoralizing effect of government control upon private interests. Regulation cannot be effective because of corporation corruption and control.

Large corporations can in many cases so dictate the appointments to public service commissions that government control protects the interests of the corporation, not those of the people. Furthermore, regulation destroys private initiative and progressiveness and encourages inefficiency in the corporations themselves. They understand that if they make their business so efficient that they derive a large income from it, the public service commission will promptly cut the rates—so what is the use? Finally, since the purpose of federal regulation is to maintain conditions of competition in industries admittedly natural monopolies, serious economic loss is incurred.

Crane, the first speaker for the negative, claimed that there was no popular demand for a change from the present system, and, to prove it, he compared the telephone service in this country with that of Europe. By use of many statistics he showed that the telephone system is far more extensive here than in Europe, that the service rendered is more continuous, that it is more prompt and that it is relatively cheaper. He further showed that government systems in Europe are operated at a loss, though the Bell system is operated at a gain. The dividends declared by the Bell company are so reasonable that the people can have no just cause to complain about them. The speaker closed his argument by quoting Ex-Presidents Roosevelt and Taft and President Wilson whose opinion it is that the government should control, but not seek to possess and carry on private industries.

Lubin, second for the affirmative, argued that the telephone and telegraph are a legitimate field for government ownership since they have become social necessities. He stated that government ownership is practicable in as much as we have all the necessary machinery in the post-office. Then he eulogized our post-office department at considerable length, telling how comprehensive, progressive and efficient it is. He referred to the rural delivery, the parcels post, the postal savings bank, the money order system, and the up-to-date business methods employed. Why, he wanted to know, can the government not do as well with the telephone and telegraph service?

Prindle, arguing for the negative, soon gave a different view of the post-office system. He said that since 1836 the operation of the post-office has resulted in a deficit of about $330,000,000. The post-office department is inefficient for several reasons. First, the spoils system makes politics, rather than business, the absorbing consideration of the personnel which is often inexperienced and incapable. Second, there is no room at the top to attract ambitions, capable men to public service, for the average government salary is small and there is no pension system. Third, the retaining of superannuated employees for humanitarian reasons or political pressure handicaps the service. Fourth, promotion is slow, and not likely to be conducted on a merit basis. Fifth, the administration is defective. The principle of centralization of authority prevailing in government departments is inferior to that of delegation of authority and responsibility as followed by the Bell company. Sixth, desire for personal profit affords no incentive toward efficiency if the profits, should there be any, go to the federal treasury. If we look at the telephone companies, we find that the conditions are the reverse of those stated above, and that the administrative organization is nearly perfect. To quote from Mr. Prindle's speech: "So much for labor. Now what about capital and policy, the other two elements necessary to produce service. Three things are peculiarly necessary in telephone finance: provision for the future, certainty or consistency, and elasticity. In order to give the most efficient service 10 years hence the plant must be made ready now. The telephone system of New York City, for instance, is about 15 years ahead of the actual requirements of the present and to keep it there requires an expenditure of millions annually, which could be saved in the present by crippling the service in the future. Second, about 30 per cent. of the current revenue must be spent for depreciation and upkeep, and it must be spent regularly. Ill-advised economy and spasmodic extravagance are equally fatal to economy and efficiency.

"Can we trust Congress, even with the best of intentions, to always appropriate 30 per cent. of the current revenue for depreciation or to spend 60 millions of advance construction money where it is needed and not where it will bring the most votes?"

"In brief, we have seen, first, that the personnel of the telephone company is efficient, while that of the government is relatively inefficient; second, that while the problem of telephone finance is much more difficult than that of post-office finance, the latter is much worse handled than the former; third, that the policy of the one is comprehensive and continuous yet at the same time elastic, while the policy of the other tends to be parochial, fluctuating, and inelastic. This is the argument of the government against itself; its own estimate of the comparative efficiency of its own departments and the telephone system; the facts on which the argument is based are many of them known to all.

Can we, in the face of all this, maintain that the post-office can remove the alleged defects of a system which compared with the post-office is a paragon of excellence? Manifestly not."

Bodfish, closing the argument for the affirmative, made the following points: Government ownership will have a transforming effect for the betterment of social life in America because the stockholder will be eliminated, and there will be less antagonism between employers and capitalists, for the people will know that they are working for the government which represents them, themselves. Government ownership will secure wider service and greater economy than is possible under regulation because the federal government can borrow money at three per cent or less and would have to pay no dividends.

Hunt, the last speaker for the negative, called attention to the menace which the increase in the number of men in the government employ would be to our politics. He showed that the expense for necessary extension of the telephone and telegraph systems would build a Panama Canal once in 10 years. He argued that Congress would not make wise appropriations, mentioning the large appropriations for the rivers and harbors, one-third of which was wasted. In sharp contrast is the efficient system of expenditures employed by the Bell company. The shortage of mail-boxes in New York City would have been quickly regulated by the public service commission, had not the government been in charge of the matter; therefore, it is unwise to believe that the government monopoly of the telephone and telegraph industries would be able to regulate itself.

The arguments of the rebuttal were entirely concerned with the main points at issue as above stated, and no new argument bearing directly upon the question under debate was advanced. The order of speakers in rebuttal was: Hunt, Lubin, Crane, Talamo, Prindle, Bodfish. When Professor Tupper announced the decision of the judges, the Clark men gave a victorious yell, and the defeated team responded heartily.

THE STORY OF POMANDER WALK

$850 to Stage Performance at Burlington.—Vouchers on Sale Wednesday A. M.

There is no dramatic production in existence at all like "Pomander Walk." Its quaint scene and picturesque characters have a peculiar charm which words cannot justly describe. The spectator is taken from the plain every-day life and is placed before an album, which, when opened, carries him back into Jane Austen's England of 1805. The production is unique however, in this respect. The characters in the little story which they portray are so simply human that they might just as well have lived in an old New England village or anywhere else on earth. One delightful scene follows another, moving slowly on like the quite flowing river at the back. Sir Peter Antrobus is one of the funniest, but still one of the most lovable characters on the modern stage. The Eyesore who sits during the entire play on the river bank, fishing, and who has not a single spoken word during the entire three acts, but who, at crucial moments catches live fish, has no analogue in the history of the drama.

Each of the fine little houses of Pomander Walk has a story all its own. Each has been modified in appearance by the people who live within. Sir Peter at number one has erected a white flagstaff in his garden. Here every morning he hoists the old flag under which he fought at Trafalgar. Every night at sunset he religiously hauls it down. He loves flowers and his little garden of sweet peas and is the admiration of all Pomander Walk. At number two Pomelia Poskett, widow of the late lamented Alderman Poskett, plans her desperate campaign for the heart of Sir Peter. Brooke Haskin, Lord Oxford's truant butler, passes off for a fine gentleman at number three, and near the window of his upstairs chamber attempts to pacify his overwrought Selina. Rev. Dr. Sternroid, D. D., F. S. A., inhabits the lower portion of number three. Next come the Pennymint Sisters, Ruth and Barbra, with the poor music teacher, Basil Pringle and the parrot Doctor Johnson. And last, at number five, in a house with woodwork painted white, live the newest comers at the "Walk," Madam Lachenais and her little daughter Marjolaine. The Eyesore doesn't live anywhere, he just sits and fishes.

In spite of troubles they all live happily, and when at the end of the play, with twilight coming on, a glorious full moon comes out of the clouds and sheds its peaceful rays over the gazabo, the elm trees, the tiny gardens, the ruin and Pomander Walk, one feels happy himself, he knows not why.

Since the dollar and dollar and a half seats for one night's performance have been all sold out, it has been decided to give "Pomander Walk" a second night—Saturday evening, May 22. Vouchers purchased of the agents are good for either performance.

Yesterday morning the cast left for their initial performance at the Plattsburg Theater, Plattsburg, last evening.

At a cost of nearly $150.00 for rental, the Wolff Fording Company has furnished costumes for "Pomander Walk." Manager Bean and President Davis before leaving for Plattsburg, estimated the expenses of the two Burlington performances alone at over $850.00. In order to be perfectly safe financially, therefore, the Wig and Buskin Society must sell over $1,000 worth of vouchers. If "Pomander Walk" is a financial success as well as a dramatic triumph, it will be conclusively proved that there is nothing impossible for Vermont to attempt in the stage line.

Coach Harry Gage and director Hugh Thompson are working night and day.

The advertising system which will be transferred today from Plattsburg to Burlington is a most efficient and elaborate one consisting of illustrations for the moving picture shows, big photo boards, press accounts, posters, pictorial matter, window cards, carriers signs and personal agents. "Pomander Walk" has been advertised from one end of the State to the other and at Dartmouth and Middlebury Colleges.

Vouchers will be exchanged for ticket reservations at the box office of the Strong Theater Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Vol. 32. May 15. No. 32.

With this issue the CYNIC changes hands. The next number will be issued by the new board under Editor Crane.

Junior Week.

Junior Week, the week of festivities, opens Monday night. The juniors are striving to make it a big week and it is each one's duty, in so far as he is able, to contribute his good will, and help. To stage this yearly pageant is no sinecure and those who produce the prom and the peerade more than find their hands full. Last year's prom excelled. This year's will probably excel last year's. Last year's game with M. A. C. was one of the best fights Vermont had during the season. M. A. C. plays here again this year. Of the boatride little need be said. Like the peerade it is something in which everyone can partake—in the peerade everyone should partake. The success of the whole thing depends upon the number of men who enter. Any old stunt better than none—or will do—but the men are the main thing. In one respect there is no doubt that the week will be distinguished—the play, Pomander Walk.

Juniors Go Dry.

Juniors are to start the celebration of Junior Week by going dry. The class concluded that after all there isn't much use in making class banquets a stipulated time for everyone to get drunk, and so has decided to forego precedent and try a dry one. Strange how opinions change about such things. The sophomores and freshmen, still in their infancy, will doubtless think it necessary to conduct things in the old ogre-like fashion, and deem their class banquets incomplete and inconceivable without the booze.

The Cheering Section.

Complaints are being made that too many men refuse to use the bleachers at the games. Why little groups of men ranging from three or four to ten or a dozen should persist in isolating themselves on the grandstand instead of going where they might do some good is hard to imagine. More enthusiastic singing and cheering are needed. But singing and cheering aren't going to be forthcoming without the men. A little more life in the bleachers, putting a little more spirit into the team, might have turned the tables in the Penn. State game. To-day Vermont's old rival, Tufts, will be at the field. Two or three men may get off by themselves and do a little rooting, but it is to be hoped that if they feel they can't associate with the rest of the men that they will at least have the good sense to keep still and let no one know where they are.

Spilt Milk.

This issue of the CYNIC might almost be called a defeat number—baseball, debate, tennis, track—but defeat is never disaster so long as the men have done their best and are willing to do it again. The Harvard game looks bad on paper, but by all accounts there was no lack of life, and such accidents are bound to happen. The Yale game was a good one. The track team lost to Colgate, but redeemed itself against Middlebury. The debating team lost to an experienced debating college, but by only a two to one decision, and is becoming recognized enough so that a challenge recently came in from Bates. No one knew what the tennis team would do, but it was hoped they would capture one or two victories. Their scores might have shown up much worse. Certainly there is no cause for discouragement in any line whatever, and the only lessons to take to heart is "work harder," and "subs keep your eyes open." It yet remains to be proved that Vermont hasn't a good baseball team, track, tennis and debating teams. Look ahead, not backward, the season is young.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The "peerade" junior week should be omitted this year. Do not throw up your hands in horror at this suggestion, but read the following reasons—and then think:

1. We have lost the spirit of the old "peerades" and the affair last year was not a credit to us. Prove this by asking the people down town who have seen them for years.

2. The "peerade" that will probably be put on will not be an advertisement for "Pomander Walk." It is entirely out of keeping with the play, and since both come on the same day, people will naturally associate the two. A "peerade" like those of a decade ago might amount to something, but the only thing that will be put on—

3. There is no insistent, crying demand for the "peerade" on the part of the students, who already have a great many more important activities junior week.

Think it over sensibly and calmly.
1915.

PROF. RAY, '98, GOES

TO NORTHWESTERN.

The Daily Northwestern, Northwestern University, has the following account of Professor Ray, Vermont, 1898:

The University has been particularly fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Perley Orman Ray for the work in Political Science. He is a graduate of the University of Vermont and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Cornell University. For some years he was professor of American History and Government at State College, Pennsylvania; and, during the past year, he has been the Northam professor of Political Science and History in Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut. Professor Ray is a well-known scholar and a recognized authority in the field of Political Science. He is the author of "The Repeal of the Missouri Compromise" and of "An Introduction to Political Parties and Practical Politics," the latter of which is used as a text in many American universities; and he is a specialist in the field of Political Parties and Municipal Government. Mr. Ray is an excellent public speaker, an indefatigable worker and an inspiring instructor. He is a high type man of fine ideals and strong character, who will appeal to students and prove a great addition to the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts.

THE NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

Is this year a more important year than last for the college men of North America? There is no doubt that the demands of the world upon educated men are always great, but it is true that their mettle will be tested now.

There are many activities that will depend upon the students of America for leadership simply because so many strong men have been drawn into the struggle of the nations.

Further, the great war has raised great problems—problems that will admit of no easy solutions, problems that will try the very best souls of the nations to the uttermost.

And always and to every man comes the great question as to what he shall do with his life.

Last year, in America alone, there gathered in student conferences nearly 3,000 college men. Away from the rush of daily life, they met to consider the issues of personal religion and social service in a needy world.

In such an atmosphere a student may be at his best while he is considering the opportunities and privileges of the unselfish life.

In the regular conference groups and meetings are discussed the leading facts of the Christian religion and its mission to the world. Under experenced leaders who are themselves successes in life, the question of choosing a career is taken up.

There is plenty of time for recreation—all the afternoon is free—and for the best of fellowship with the friendly crowd of men from many institutions.

He who is in any way in earnest about his life will find the conference more than worth while. It is from June 25 to July 4.

RICHOLD-REEVES MEDAL COMPETITION—REVISED INSPECTION PROGRAM—MILITARY BALL.

On Wednesday, May 12, a competition for the Richold-Reeves Medal was held on the back campus. The drill consisted of the Manual of Arms, Squad Movements, and Company Drill. Each company was drilled down to about 15 men and those remaining were drilled by Major Daniels. Owing to the absence of judges from Fort Ethan Allen, the captains of the several companies acted as judges. About half the men in the Battalion were eliminated and the contest continued Friday..

The following program of events will be carried out at the annual Federal inspection of the military department of the University, May 26 and 27. Captain S. J. Bayard Schindel, General Staff, U. S. Army, who has conducted previous inspections at the University of Vermont, will conduct the inspection.

The morning of May 27 will be devoted to any unfinished part of the program for the day previous and any additional events that may be required by the inspector.

The following promotions in the Battalion Band have been made.

To be Sergeants:
Corporal W. A. Best, '17 and Corporal W. A. Tennien, '17.

The military ball, on the evening of May 25, will be a special feature. The ball is to be confined more to University guests than it has been in previous years. The seniors are to be the guests of the sophomores and the juniors the guests of the freshmen. There will be no individual invitations sent out. In the early part of the evening will be the presentation of warrants and commissions. Military refreshments will be served from tents pitched in the Annex. Baked beans, bread and coffee will be served in camp dishes in camp style. Each company of the Battalion will have a booth allotted to it in the gymnasium, which it may decorate to suit itself. The dancing will begin at 10 o'clock sharp and continue until 12.

2nd TEAM, CLASS AND FRATERNITY GAMES

Rovers Lose to St. Michael's in 11 Innings—St. Albans High Wins from Sophs.—Delta Mu, Sigma Nu and Lambda Iota Advance in Schedule.

St. Michael's won a hard fought game from the U. V. M. second team Saturday by the score of 5-4. It took 11 innings to turn the trick and it was turned by Clark who won his own game by a slashing drive for two bases, scoring Doyle. Up to then it was anybody's game both pitchers working good, with Clark having a little the better of the argument, fanning 11 men.

St. Michael's scored their three runs in the third inning by wild heaves on the part of the Rover infield.

Pike and Kelley hit well for the Rovers, featuring the game. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Rovers	...	1	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	0—4
St. M.	...	0	0	3	0	0	1	0	0	0	1—5

Batteries—Rovers, Philipps and Ferrin; St. Michael's, Clark and Gilligan. Umpire—Lawler.

1917 vs. St. Albans H. S.

The sophomore baseball team journeyed to St. Albans Saturday where they lost to the high school 10-7. Both teams played ragged ball but the sophomores were the worst offenders nearly every inning 1917 had a chance to win the game but because of errors or poor base running these chances faded away. The field was wet from the heavy rain the night previous and had been covered with shavings, thus making good ball impossible.

Batchelder pitched for the sophs but was unable to locate the plate. The only indication of a ball game was when Mandeville lead off with a triple to deep left, followed by a complete duplicate of the hit by Short, the next man up. The game was made more interesting by the fact that Malcolm, Vermont's varsity man, is the coach at St. Albans. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
St. Albans	...	2	0	4	3	1	0	0	0—10
1917	...	0	0	3	0	2	0	1	0—7

Batteries—1917, Batchelder and Swett; St. Albans, James and Currier.

Delta Mu vs. Alpha Tau.

Delta Mu swamped Alpha Tau to the tune of 15-5 Monday on the back campus. Delta Mu was assisted by several star athletes, including Blackhall and Bishop. The game was very interesting in many details, especially in the error department. Both pitchers worked hard and the big crowd appreciated their efforts. Mandeville shone for Delta Mu while Butler was the shining light for Alpha Tau. Score 15-5.

Batteries—Delta Mu, Shields and Morse; Alpha Tau, Healy, Bogie and Butler. Umpire—Walker.

Sigma Nu vs. Delta Sigma.

Delta Sigma was buried Tuesday in the race for the championship in the fraternity league by the score of 19-8. The score was in doubt up to the last inning as the score keeper had a hard job keeping tally. The game would have been a good track meet as several fast men were discovered on both teams.

Burleson pitched for the Delta Sigs but had poor support and as he didn't get mad he was a little off color.

Burke, the left handed twirler of Sigma Mu, succeeded in fanning several men and should be looked over for the varsity, provided all the other pitchers die.

Umpire Flynn performed in good style and was on the job for nearly three hours. Score 19-8.

Batteries—Delta Sigma, Burleson and Corley; Sigma Mu, Burke and Cushman.

Owls vs. Phi Chis.

The Owls won from the Phi Chis Monday, May 10, by a score of 14 to 4. Batteries were: For the Owls, Harris and Currier and for the Phi Chis, Menard and Mandeville. Umpire Ferrin.

TENNIS TRIP PROVES UNSUCCESSFUL

Some Good Playing and Some Poor—
All Three Matches Lost.

The Varsity tennis team made a fairly creditable showing although they did not win any matches on their five day trip in New York State. They played three hard matches at Union, Colgate and Fordham, respectively. Capt. Dow easily starred, for he defeated both Union's and Colgate's best men.

On Thursday they were defeated by a score of 4-2 at Union, Capt. Dow defeated Gerling 7-5, 6-8, 6-2; Becket of Union defeated Roberts, 6-3, 6-3; Taggart defeated Brown of Union, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2; Booth lost to Soler of Union, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. In the doubles Dow and Roberts lost to Gerling and Soler, 6-4, 6-4, and Booth and Taggart lost to Brown and Becket, 6-4, 7-5.

At Colgate on Friday Capt. Dow won from Nichols of Colgate, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2; Roberts lost to Turner, 6-3, 6-1; Taggart of Vermont lost to Kinsley 6-0, 6-3; Booth of Vermont lost to Burchard 6-1, 7-5. Dow and Roberts lost to Turner and Kinsley, 6-4, 6-4; Taggart and Booth won from Thomas and Stimell, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4.

The Colgate account of the meet says that in the first intercollegiate tennis tournament which Colgate has played in several years, the Vermont racquet wielders went down to defeat before the varsity, losing four out of the six matches played. The playing of the Maroon was easily superior to that of the New Englanders in all phases of the game.

The first match of the morning was a double between Turner and Kinsley of Colgate, and Roberts and Capt. Dow of Vermont. The Colgate players won in two straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

The second match, a singles, was won by Burchard of Colgate, from Booth of Vermont, 6-3 and 7-5. Fortune favored Burchard in this match. He was within one point of losing it, but finally pulled out and won the second set, 7-5. Booth placed the balls well, and Burchard was kept busy running all over the court.

The last set of the morning was another singles, won by Kinsley of Colgate from Taggart of Vermont, 6-0 and 6-3. Kinsley had the better of this contest throughout.

The first match of the afternoon, another singles, went to Turner of Colgate, who beat Roberts of Vermont two straight, 6-3 and 6-2. Turner played especially well at the net.

The next match, also a singles, Nichols of Colgate lost to Capt. Dow of Vermont, who was head and shoulders above the other members of his team. This was the best match of the day. The score by sets was: 2-6, 6-4 and 2-6.

The tournament having been already won, Capt. Nichols decided to try out a couple of the freshmen, Stimmel and Thomas in the last doubles, the result being a win for Vermont 6-3, 4-6 and 6-4.

At Fordham the score was 6-0 in favor of Fordham. This was the worst defeat. Pellam won from Taggart 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Binzen of Fordham won from Capt. Dow, 6-2, 6-4; Dodin of Fordham won from Roberts, 6-4 6-4. Moore of Fordham won from Booth 6-2, 6-3. Roberts and Dow lost to Dodin and Binzen 6-3, 6-2; and Taggart and Booth lost to Moore and Pellam 6-3, 8-6.

MAKE-UP EXAMINATIONS.

The schedule of make-up examinations for the removal of first year conditions, commencing Saturday, June 12, is as follows. According to the rule of the University Senate, students are eligible to take but one re-examination in each subject. Students who have previously taken an unsuccessful re-examination in any subject here scheduled will be required to repeat the work in class next year, and will not be admitted to these examinations. This does not apply to students in the first year in the College of Medicine. Examinations will begin at 2 p. m. in Science Hall.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN MEETING.

On Wednesday evening, May 12, the Verein met for its regular literary meeting. Miss Ballou, '15, discussed Grillpatzer's "Sappho." Herr Grahls, '18, spoke briefly of the naturalistic movement in German literature and the works of Hauptmann. Miss Gardner, '16, concluded the discussion by a paper on "Sudermann and His Works." Many German folk-songs were sung by the Verein. The next meeting will be held on May 26 when the scheduled program will be resumed.

ALPHA ZETA INITIATION.

The Alpha Zeta Fraternity held its annual initiation on Monday evening May 10, at 7:00 o'clock at Morrill Hall. Later in the evening a banquet was served at the Hotel Vermont at which G. M. Nelson, '13, was toast-master. The initiates were:—

Francis Raymond Churchill, '17, (Alpha Tau Omega), South Londonderry; Arthur Charles Lewis, '17, (Alpha Tau Omega), Poultney; John Allen Hitchcock, '17, (Delta Psi), Pittsford; Richardson Wallace Dow, '17, (Alpha Gamma Sigma), Pittsford Mills; Frank Moses Varney, '17, (Alpha Gamma Sigma), Bristol; George Elliott Stevens, '17, (Alpha Gamma Sigma), Pittsford Mills.

DEBATING CLUB MEETS.

The Debating Club held its weekly meeting Monday evening in the Old Mill. Current events were given by D. S. Jones, '17, and H. Albon Bailey spoke about some phases of village government. After the program, business was taken up and a banquet committee consisting of F. S. Isham, '16, chairman, R. L. Grismer, '16, and H. E. Crane, '15, was appointed.

MORE RIFLE CLUB ELECTIONS.

The Rifle Club met Tuesday and elected R. G. Slayton, '16, treasurer, and Taggart, '18, manager. Rules governing meetings and elections were passed.

AGGIES MEET.

Mr. Bradlee of the Extension Service gave an interesting talk before the Aggie Club last Tuesday night. Refreshments were served.

TEAM LEAVES STRING OF DEFEATS.

base, but the baserunners, if any, do not advance unless sending the batter to first forces them around. In no case can a balk and interference by the catcher happen at the same time. When a balk is made the play stops, and even if the pitcher makes his pitch and the batter laces out a hit, it does not count.

The rule is a "fair play" rule, and to allow a balk and to allow interference at the same time is giving one team both ends and the middle at the same time. Pitcher Gallagher of Vermont surely made two balks—they were unofficial, however, as umpire Brady did not allow them. There was one case of interference by catcher Mayforth, doubtless, although Nash tapped the ball with his bat—but in the other instance there was no interference.

The proceedings provided a good lesson for ball players as well as umpires, and this is that never can too much be known about the playing rules of the game by those who participate in it or are chosen as officials.

At New Haven Saturday, Yale defeated Vermont 2 to 0 in a well played game which was a pitcher's battle between Way of Yale and Gilbert of Vermont. Each pitcher held his opponents down to four scattered hits though the Yale man was a trifle steadier than Gilbert. Not a Vermont man reached third. Way struck out six men. Legore of Yale featured as a base runner getting the only three steals in the game.

Yale's two scores came in the sixth, when Yale's second baseman Milburn made a home run, incidentally scoring Middlebrook who was on base ahead of him.

M. A. C.
At Amherst, Tuesday, Vermont lost to the Massachusetts Aggies by the score of 6 to 3. Johnson of M. A. C. had the visitors at his mercy, striking out 12 men and allowing but one hit which did not count in the final score. Spear struck out six men but was ineffective at critical moments. Vermont's runs, which came in the last two innings, were gained through errors. The score:

Brown.

Pounding Gallagher and Gilbert for 11 hits, aided by nine bases on balls and five errors, Brown won from Vermont at Providence Tuesday by the score of 14 to 4. "Rube" Cram was in the box for Brown in the first six innings, allowing only three hits and striking out nine men. He was succeeded in the seventh by Dike. Cram and Babington were the most prominent batsmen for Brown, each making three hits.

Vermont scored three runs in the third when, with the bases full, Crowell muffed a fly in right field. Vermont scored again in the ninth when Cram was a little wild. In the eighth Gilbert was hit in the knee by Feinburg's drive and after fielding the ball was forced to retire.

TRACK TEAM COMES IN FOR 2

DUAL MEETS.

The weather conditions were fairly favorable for a track meet although the wind prevented any remarkably fast time being made.

The dashes were all easy events for Colgate, the freshmen sprinters having little trouble in taking first places. Anderson led the field in both the hundred yard dash and the two-twenty. Welch captured second place in the hundred and Bolster, of Vermont, followed Anderson across the line in the longer dash. Welch had no difficulty in leading Bain around the track on the quarter mile, thus bringing both places to Colgate.

The half-mile, won by Brown, and the mile won by Markwick were the best races of the meet. The half was a fight to the finish between Brown, LeBaron, of Vermont, and Hayes of Colgate, with Brown finishing first, closely pressed by LeBaron.

For the first three laps it seemed as if Hayden of Vermont was going to capture first place in the mile, but Markwick, came up with lots of fight in the last quarter and took first honors by a great sprint to the tape.

The two-mile was a slow race with only Colgate men entered. Bernstrom and Gould both started but dropped out and let Boughton and Harriman fight it out in a dead heat.

Smith, the Freshman star from Vermont, took first place in the high hurdles leading Cunningham by several yards. In the low hurdles both places added to the Colgate score with Nichols taking first and Mulligan second place.

Again in both of the jumps Smith gained more first honors for Vermont. In the high, by a leap of five feet eleven and a half inches, he cinched the event, leaving second honors to Peck and also broke the Vermont record. Peck jumped especially well, clearing the bar at 5:10½, which is higher than the present college record, but as he did not win the event the previous record remains. Peck also took second place in the broad jump with Smith doing just a little better.

The weight events turned out to be point winners for the Maroon, with first and second in both events coming to Colgate. Swarthout won the shot put with Peck dropping his best but a few inches behind. Sherwood took first and Stanton second in the hammer throw.

The summary:

100yd. dash: Won by Anderson, Colgate; Welch, Colgate, second. Time, 10½ s.

Half mile run: Won by Brown, Colgate; LeBaron, Vermont, second. Time, 2 min. 4s.

Pole vault: Won by Westfall, Colgate; Burrage, Vermont, second. Height, 10 ft. 6 in.

High hurdles: Won by Smith, Vermont; Cunningham, Colgate, second. Time, 16½ s.

Quarter mile: Won by Welch, Colgate; Bain, Colgate. Time, 53½ s.

Hammer throw: Won by Sherwood, Colgate; Stanton, Colgate, second. Distance, 113 ft. 6 in.

Mile run: Won by Marrock, Colgate; Hayden, Vermont, second. Time, 4 m. 38½ s.

220-yard dash: Won by Anderson, Colgate; Bolster, Vermont, second. Time, 23 s.

High jump: Won by Smith, Vermont; Peck, Colgate, second. Height, 5 ft. 11½ in.

Two mile run: Won by Harriman, Colgate; Boughton, Colgate, second. Time, 33½ s.

Broad jump: Won by Smith, Vermont; Peck, Colgate, second. Distance, 21 ft. 6 in.

Low Hurdles: Won by Nichols, Colgate; Mulligan, Colgate, second. Time, 27 ½ s.

Shot put: Won by Swarthout, Colgate; Peck, Colgate, second. Distance, 36 ft. 7 in.

Middlebury Defeated.

Everybody expected a closely scored contest in the dual track meet between Vermont and Middlebury held at Centennial Field, Wednesday afternoon and they were not at all disappointed. The score was tied many times during the meet and a slightly closer score was looked for in the end. Jones, Middlebury's star man in the long distance runs was unable to compete in the mile and two-mile after injuring himself in the half-mile which he won. The final score was 69-57, and this was Middlebury's first defeat of the season.

Two Vermont records were broken and one tied, Hayden lowering the previous two-mile record by 12 seconds, doing it in 10 min. 20-25 sec. Smith clipped 3-5 sec. from the 120-yard hurdle record of 17 sec. and Burrage tied the pole vault record of 10 ft. 3 in.

Smith of Vermont was the largest individual point winner, with four firsts, a total of 20 points to his credit. Lee of Middlebury was second with 17 points and Bolster of Vermont third with 12 points.

The summary of the events follows:

100-yard dash—First Bolster (V), second Lee (M), third Paterson (V); time 16-4-5 seconds.

One-mile run—First Hayden (V), second LeParon (V), third Harris (M); time 4-4-5.

220-yard dash—First Bolster (V), second Lee (M), third Spencer (V); time, 24-2-5 seconds.

40-yard dash—First Hollister (M), second Bolster (V), third Patterson (V); time, 5-1-5 seconds.

Two-mile run—First Hayden (V), second Lavere (M), third LeParon (V); time, 10m. 20-1-5s. (record).

80-yard run—First Jones (M), second LeParon (V), third Hollister (M); time 1-6-4-5s.

120-yard hurdles—First Smith (V), second Lee (M), third Hackett (V); time 16-2-5s. (record).

20-yard hurdles—First Smith (V), second Dade (M), third Hubbard (M); time 2-6-4-5s.

Pole vault—First Smith (V), second Kron (V) and Lee (M) tied; height 5 ft. 3 in.

Broad jump—First Smith (V), second Lee (M), third Hollister (M); distance 20 ft. 11-1-2 in.

Pole vault—First, Burrage (V); second,

Lee (M); third, Paulson (M); height, 10 ft. 3 in. (tied with record).

Shot put—First, Day (M); second, Grandy (V); third, Ames (V); distance, 25 ft. 7½ in.

Hammer throw—First, Condit (M); second, Burrage (V); third, Ayres (M); distance, 115 ft. 10½ in.

Discus throw—First, Brewster (M); second, Burrage (V); third, Day (M); distance, 99 ft. 3 1-10 in.
